DELIVERED BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR

MR G P LLOYD CMG CVO

AT THE OPENING OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY

ON FRIDAY 1 MARCH 1985

Honourable Members of the Legislative Assembly

The Throne Speech always marks the opening of a new Session of the Legislature. Every fourth year, following a General Election, it coincides with the Budget Session. This is such a year. I shall therefore speak quite briefly, and shall concentrate on outlining the Government's policies and legislative programme.

No serious problems arose during either the registration of voters or the General Elections themselves last year. The need for a few amendments to the new Elections Law, which had been enacted in 1983, was nevertheless noted; and I have invited all Members of the present Legislative Assembly to report any others they may have noticed, so that suitable arrangements can be made to consider how the Law should be amended as a result of the experience gained when operating it.

Following an Order-in-Council made early last year, the Islands' own Court of Appeal was constituted in September. I should like to place on record our gratitude both to the distinguished Justices who accepted appointment and to the Governments of Jamaica and of the Bahamas which agreed to allow some of those concerned to serve. Certain amendments to the Court of Appeal Law are still needed, and a Bill providing for them will consequently be introduced during this Session.

The number of public officers rose from 1,225 in 1983 to 1,293 in late 1984, due to demands for improved services. Although further demands must be expected, continuing rapid growth would be a matter of legitimate concern to many people as it could cause serious imbalance to the economy. Appropriate means of limiting it will have to be found. Now that the Civil List has been computerised and can thus be updated regularly, better statistics should facilitate the necessary monitoring.

Revised Personnel Regulations are being drafted and should take effect during 1985. It is also intended to amend the Public Service Regulations so that the Commission can be strengthened and become more fully responsible for recruitment.

Major emphasis is being placed on the development of locally based courses for Civil Servants. In 1985 particular importance will be placed on Middle Management training. It is hoped that this and overseas training will aid localisation. As scholarship students return from overseas universities with degrees, they are placed in Departments to utilise their training.

The movement of Departments from the Government Administration Building to the Tower continues, with physical changes in the former building being made to accommodate staff growth in Departments remaining there. This should be completed by mid-1985.

Steps to strengthen the Police continued. The year saw the commencement of an extensive in-Force training programme with the arrival of a number of senior expatriate officers with skills in special areas; more are to follow this year. Alongside this programme positive steps were taken to develop the careers of local officers and in the last few months of 1984 20 local officers were promoted to senior and other supervisory posts and this phase which is directed towards localisation within the Force whilst raising professional standards through intensive training will continue.

The end of the year saw a change in command of the Force, and a local officer was appointed Deputy Commissioner.

/The Prison

The Prison population grew from 72 on 1 January 1984 to a peak of 101 on 29 December 1984. This placed a strain on both staff and facilities. The site for another building, to accommodate female prisoners, has been prepared and fenced. Construction should soon start, and cannot safely be delayed. But ways of halting, and if possible reversing, the growth in the number of prisoners must be explored. One is to provide the Courts with wider powers to make Community Service Orders as an alternative to imprisonment. Another is to remove some of the present provisions for mandatory minimum sentences. Bills for these purposes will be introduced, although emphasis will also be placed on programmes designed to prevent potential offenders from turning to crime.

In the case of immigration, the most significant development in the last twelve months was the passing of the Caymanian Protection Law 1984. Considerable progress has been made in drafting the Regulations and formulating the guidelines necessary to enable it to be brought into effect. This should then help ease the position for people with Caymanian connections. In the case of other people, it should permit suitable individuals to be given greater security of tenure without grants of status, which will be made only to a small number annually. The issue of identity cards to gainful occupation licence holders will assist both employers and the authorities in reducing illegal employment.

The Government also now proposes to abandon quota restrictions for imported labour, instead ensuring that employers have to be meticulous in satisfying the Caymanian Protection Board that a genuine need exists and that no Caymanian can be found to fill a position by recruitment or promotion. Where it can be demonstrated that no Caymanian is available, preference will have to be given to persons already legally resident in the Islands.

Radio Cayman has continued to be a commercial success, earning more in revenue than its services cost to provide. Moreover it provided a number of new services during 1984. Everyone standing as a candidate in the General Election was for the first time given an opportunity to broadcast a statement outlining his platform. And broadcasts of most of this Assembly's proceedings became a regular feature. They were so popular that a Bill will be introduced to provide for them on a permanent basis.

I have, so far, been speaking about matters which are Constitutionally my own responsibility or which fall within the portfolio of the First Official Member. I can be far more brief now that I turn to the Second and Third Official Members. For you are soon to hear the Budget Speech and I do not want to cover - or, indeed, to trespass on - the ground which the Financial Secretary will be covering. But one point should be recorded and another made. Let me, therefore, note for the record that the Cayman Narcotics Agreement was signed in July 1984 and that legislation to implement its principal provisions was enacted the following month.

Some of these provisions were controversial. This is not the right time - and I am not the right person - to debate their merits. I hope you will nevertheless allow me to express the personal view that we should all be grateful to the members of the UK and Cayman teams who conducted a difficult series of confidential negotiations with patience, skill and wisdom under circumstances made the more difficult because they were precluded from reporting publicly on progress. Which brings me to the point I wished to make. Under the terms of the Agreement, the Government is obliged to enter into further negotiations later this year. When it does so, account will be taken both of views expressed and advice given by members of the financial community here, and of the experience gained to date as a result of implementing the new procedures for which the 1984 Agreement provided. But it will again necessarily be precluded from providing the public with detailed information whilst it negotiates: to do so would prejudice the outcome.

I turn next to the Portfolio of the four Elected Members of Executive Council. A number of changes were made at the time of their appointment. Thus, for example, the Member for Communications and Works again became responsible for District Administration; the re-titled Portfolio of Development and Natural Resources took on water, sewage and housing; responsibility for all tertiary education was concentrated in the Health, Education and Social Services Portfolio; and so on. The intention was to ensure that responsibilities were distributed in the most effective way.

Now that this redistribution has taken place, the 8865 Portfolio will give particular attention to the development of the Community College. With more than six hundred students enrolled in forty-five courses, it is already providing a popular and valuable service. But plans are being made for it to become an institution in its own right by September 1985, offering day as well as evening classes and incorporating the Hotel, Marine and Building and Trade Schools.

Continuing emphasis will be placed on the development of special education programmes designed to help all children realize their full potential.

Preliminary steps were taken during 1984 to address the provision of mental health, drug and alcohol abuse, services. These areas of health care will remain a high priority. So will care for the elderly ill, as evidenced by the recent opening of a ten-bed medical wing at "The Pines" as an extension of the George Town Hospital.

In the field of environmental health, work will centre on water quality surveillance, meat inspection, solid waste management and rodent control.

The Department of Social Services will be further strengthened during 1985, to enable it to meet growing demands.

At Bonaventure House and the Frances Bodden Girls' Home there will be independent professional reviews of the effectiveness of their operations.

The Juveniles Law is to be revised; and a Bill amending it will be introduced during this Session.

Additional units will be added to the one already completed in the new low-income housing project at Eastern Avenue.

/The south

The scale of Cayman Airways' losses - which averaged about 3.5 million dollars annually during the four year period from mid-1980 to mid-1984 - caused widespread and serious concern. Moreover the United States' undertaking not to licence any additional airline to operate between Miami and Grand Cayman lasts only until April 1985. Against this background the Airline's Board, in consultation with the Tourism, Aviation and Trade Portfolio, commissioned a comprehensive independent professional report on it so that informed decisions can be taken about its future policies and management.

The new Terminal Building at Owen Roberts International Airport has been completed and put into operation, offering a greatly improved facility to the travelling public. Government will arrange for the Cayman Islands Corporation, which is responsible for operating this Airport, to function on lines similar to the Port Authority. The design of the proposed new Terminal and Apron at Cayman Brac is now under review. As soon as the review has been completed proposals will be submitted to the EDF for final approval. Work is scheduled to commence on this project later this year.

The tourism industry continued to show increases in 1984, and predictions are that 1985 will also be a very successful year. Government will take steps to ensure that the services being offered to our tourists are maintained to a high level.

The Fire Service sub-station at Frank Sound was completed in late 1984, offering a quick response to calls in the Eastern Districts of Grand Cayman. Possible means of establishing a Domestic Fire Service in Cayman Brac are being studied.

The Labour Office will continue to provide assistance to employers and employees, where possible. Consideration is being given to the introduction of labour legislation during 1985.

As I said earlier, District Administration has been returned to the Communications and Works Portfolio. With regard to it, most of the infrastructure necessary to economic development is now complete in Cayman Brac: an efficient port, a resurfaced airfield, a reliable telephone service, an improved and expanding electricity supply and so on. Attention will therefore be focussed on attracting developers and visitors alike to the Sister Islands, to help their economies expand and to generate employment.

Plans to relocate the present Post Office in George Town to a new, more modern building will be pursued, a particular study being made of the viability of incorporating a multi-storey car park which should relieve traffic congestion by enabling on-street parking to be restricted.

In addition to a full programme of maintenance, the Public Works Department will construct a number of buildings and continue various new road works during 1985.

The Port Authority is expected to continue to operate profitably for the eighth successive year. Plans are well-advanced for the placing of permanent moorings for cruise ships.

In 1984 the (then) Portfolio of Agriculture, Lands and Natural Resources conducted negotiations aimed at getting the United States' ban on products from our Turtle Farm lifted.

The negotiations involved two delegations visiting Washington and one visiting Brussels last year. All those visits were preparatory: the decisive meeting will be held in Argentina during April this year. It will be a full CITES meeting - CITES being the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species. In further preparation for it, experienced and professional counsel have been appointed to represent our interest in Washington. And the Honourable Member responsible for the Portfolio will lead the Cayman team which attends the meeting.

The plans for Marine Parks are now being explained to the public before Regulations are finally brought into effect. The importance of establishing them without further delay cannot be over-stressed. For one thing, the growth of conch and lobster in their own particular habitats will be assisted. For another, the marine life which has made Cayman the leading destination in this hemisphere for divers will be protected. So the proposed Park system is vital both to local fisherman and to the continuing growth of our whole tourist industry.

The Portfolio will also be engaged on several other major projects in 1985.

Sewerage is regarded as a top priority because of the danger to public health - and the potential repercussions on the tourist industry if the present situation is not given attention. The Seven Mile Beach area will be tackled first, to provide a sound economic basis for the further extensions planned. The order of cost of the completed system is $20 million, making this the largest public project yet contemplated.

Emphasis will be placed on agriculture. An Agricultural Development Committee has been established to assist. It is intended to obtain the services of an adviser to upgrade the Demonstration Farm.

A Building Code which has been under consideration for quite some time will be pursued with the assistance of a Committee recently established.

Because of the growing demand for water, well fields are being developed at East End which should be in operation shortly. Other methods of producing water are under investigation.

The Housing Development Corporation is actively pursuing a search for funds to meet demands. Money raised from local financial institutions in 1984 was spent before the end of the year. Policies will be reviewed in order that future transactions relate to the true purpose of the scheme.

May I in conclusion pay tribute to Members' accustomed standard of conduct and courtesy. This eases my tasks of maintaining order and of ensuring a fair hearing for all. I am confident that with such help, they will not become burdensome.

I pray that Almighty God may bless and guide our deliberations throughout the coming Session.

STATE OPENING OF THE FIFTH ASSEMBLY

DEVOTIONAL SERVICE

BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR, MR.C.P. SMITH, C.M.G.

FRIDAY 1ST MARCH, 1968. 11.00 a.m.

PROCESSION

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS: His Excellency the Governor!

The Clerk, Mrs. E.Kay Jackson, followed by the Deputy Clerk, Mrs. Wendy Brooks, the Serjeant-at-Arms, His Excellency the Governor, Mrs. Lloyd and A.D.C.

H.E. THE GOVERNOR, on reaching the dais bows to the right and to the left and says

The Assembly is in Session.
I will invite the Rev. Edgar Gration to say Prayers.

REV. GRATION: O Lord Our God, grant this moment that being humbly in gratitude to confess our sins, make it a real experience for each one of us in this place as we call upon you for guidance and help.

You are the Lord Jesus and Enable us in the practical experiences of worship in church. Help us now to feel your nearness in the holiness of this day, this chosen Member of this Assembly, Present and coming.

Most through these men and women, we pray O Lord, that what they say and what they do may be in accordance with your will for this land that we love so much.

We pray for the Queen and members of the Royal Family and we also pray for His Excellency the Governor Grant them wisdom, strength and discernment for the heavy burden you lay upon their shoulders.

Lastly, Father, we pray for the peoples of these Islands that they might be obedient to your will and Lastly honour and uphold Your Name.

And these our prayers we ask through Jesus Christ Our Lord, who taught us to pray the Lastly prayer -

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy Will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil, For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever, Amen.

H.E. THE GOVERNOR: Please be seated.

THE QUEEN: PROCLAMATION NO. 8 OF 1982

BY HIS EXCELLENCY GEORGE PRAIS SMITH COMPANION OF THE MOST DISTINGUISHED ORDER OF SAINT MICHAEL AND SAINT GEORGE COMMANDER OF THE VICTORIAN ORDER, COMMANDER OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE

Whereas, by sub-section (1) of section 56 of Schedule 2 of the Cayman Islands Constitution Order, 1972 it is provided that the Sessions of the Legislative Assembly shall be held at such time and place as the Governor may from time to time by proclamation appoint

NOW, THEREFORE, under and by virtue of the powers vested in me by the aforementioned order I, GEORGE POLAR SMITH, Companion of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George Commander of the Victorian Order, Governor of the Cayman Islands, do hereby proclaim and make known that a Session of the Legislative Assembly of the Cayman Islands shall be held at the Legislative Assembly Building in George Town, Island of Grand Cayman, at 10 a.m. on Friday first of March, One thousand Nine hundred and eighty-five Given under my hand and the Public Seal of the Cayman Islands at George Town in the Island of Grand Cayman, this proclamation by of February in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Eighty-five in the Thirty-first year of the Reign of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II,

God Save The Queen.

MR SPEAKER AND GENTLEMEN: The Throne Speech,

Honourable Members of the Legislative Assembly -

The Throne Speech always marks the opening of a new Session of the Legislature. Since fourth June, Nineteen Hundred Eighty-one it coincides with the Budget Session. This is most appropriate.

I shall therefore speak quite briefly, and shall commence by outlining the Government's policies and legislative programme.

As Members possibly notice there is a new face on the Government Benches since last year. The most significant change is the retirement of Mr. Vassel Johnson from the Executive Council and the Legislative Assembly to pursue his duties as Minister of Tourism, Trade and Development. I am sure that Members will join me in wishing him success in his new responsibilities and I have invited his Members of the present Legislative Assembly to express any views they may have regarding the possible arrangements that may be made to complete the unexpired term of office of Mr. Johnson's seat. Nominations for Member-in-Council made early last year, the Falmouth and Court of Appeal was established in September. I should like to place on record our gratitude both to the Administration who accepted appointment and to the Government of Jamaica and of the Bahamas which agreed to allow some of their personnel to serve. Certain amendments to the Court of Appeal Law were passed, and I will provide for them will consequently be introduced during this Session.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR (CONTINUING): The number of public officers rose from 1,825 in 1963 to 1,969 in late 1964, due to demands for improved services. Although further demands must be expected, continuing rapid growth could pose a serious problem of legislative approval as many people can be paid extra salaries for the economy. Appropriate means of checking it will have to be found. Now that the Civil List has been computerized and can thus be updated regularly, better statistics should facilitate this necessary monitoring.

Revised Personnel Regulations are being drafted and should take effect during 1965. It is also intended to amend the Public Service Regulations so that the Commission can be strengthened and become more fully responsible for recruitment.

Major emphasis is being placed on the development of locally based courses for Civil Servants. In 1965 particular importance will be placed on middle management training. It is hoped that this and overseas training will also localization. As scholarship holders return from overseas institutions with degrees, they are placed in Departments to utilize their training.

The movement of Departments from the Government Administration Building to the Lower Secretariat, with physical changes in the former building being made to accommodate staff growth in Departments remaining there, should be completed by mid-1965.

Steps to strengthen the Police are planned. This goes with the commencement of an intensive in-service training programme with the arrival of a number of senior experienced officers with skills in special areas. Some use is to follow this year. Although this programme position steps were taken to develop the system of local officers until in the last few months of 1964 20 local officers were promoted to senior and other supervisory posts, and nine others to Sergeant Interpreter ranks while they have gained professional standards through intensive training until now.

The end of the year saw a change in command of the Force, and a local officer was appointed Deputy Commissioner.

The Indian population rose from 78 on 1 January, 1964 to a peak of 101 on 30 September, 1964. This rise, a strain on both staff and facilities, who also for another building to accommodate family reunions, has been reversed and passed. Immigration should soon start, and cannot safely be delayed. But use of existing, and of possible overcrowding, the growth in the number of permanents may be resisted. One is to provide the Courts which might reduce to make Immediate Removal Orders as an alternative to imprisonment. Another is to remove some of the present penalties for expiration by minimum sentences. Bills for these purposes will be introduced, although emphasis will also be placed on programmes designed to prevent potential offenders from starting in crime.

In the area of immigration, the most significant development in the last twelve months was the passing of the Immigration Protection Law 1964. Considerable progress has been made in drafting the Regulations and formulating the guidelines necessary to enable it to be brought into effect. This should both ease the position for people with Immigration problems. In the case of other people, it should provide suitable machinery to be given greater security of tenure without grants of status, which will

THE SECRETARY FOR OVERSEAS DEVELOPMENT: We made only by a small majority. The issue of security cannot be quickly ascertained. Strong actions will assist both employers and the authorities in ensuring illegal employment.

The Government also has proposed to provide more information for intending immigrants, including the requirement that employers have to be notified in advance the Immigration Service Unit's general area and that no illegality can be found to fall in practice by harassment or prosecution. Where it can be demonstrated that no alternative is available, prosecutions will have to be given to pursue wholly unreasonable employment in the industry.

Mr. K. Clarke has undertaken to do a ministerial meeting more on reasons than the services need to provide. However it provided a measure of new evidence during 1994. Secretary recently as a candidate to the Council. Minister was for the first time given an opportunity to broadcast a statement explaining his objection. The broadcasts of most of this Assembly's proceedings became a regular feature. They were so popular that a fifth will be introduced to provide for them on a permanent basis.

I have, as you know, been thinking about matters which are consequentially my own responsibility in full within the Portfolio of the Chief Official Member, I can be for more brief now that I have to the Second and Third Official Members. For you are used to hear the budget speech; and I do not want to cover on Indeed, as you was all - the reason which the Financial Secretary will be moving. But one point should be accepted and explained. Let me, therefore, note for the record that the Sugar Industry Agreement was signed in July 1964 and that legislation to implement the provisional provisions can amended the following month.

Some of these provisions were over-ambitious. This is not the right time - and I am not the right person - to debate that matter. I hope you will nevertheless allow me to express the personal view that it should all be quite fit to the welfare of the UK and Cyprus alike to conclude a difficult series of confidential negotiations with patience, skill and where circumstances made the very difficult because they were practically from registering publicity or progress. Which brings me to the point I wished to make. Under the terms of the Agreement, the Government is obliged to enter into further negotiations later this year. When it does so, account will be taken both of views expressed and action given by members of the financial community here, and of the experience gained to date on a number of matters including the new provisions for which the 1964 Agreement provided. But we will again necessarily be guarded from providing the public with confidential information similar to what we have given in the past, as we would prejudice the outcome.

I turn next to the Portfolio of the Four Elected Members of Executive Council. A number of changes were made at the time of their appointment. Thus, for example, the Member for Communications and Works again became responsible for Electrical Administration; the re-titled Portfolio of Development and Natural Resources took on water, mining and geography; responsibility for all secondary education was concentrated in the Social, Education and Social Services Portfolio; and so on. The intention was to ensure that responsibilities were distributed in the most

Now that the rehabilitation has taken place, the HSSC Portfolio will give particular attention to the development of the Cheshunt College. With more than six hundred students enrolled in forty-five courses, it is already providing a popular and valuable service. But plans are being made for it to become an institution in its own right by September, 1982, offering day and night evening classes and incorporating the Hotel, Service and Building and Trade Schools.

Continuing emphasis will be placed on the development of special education programmes designed to help all children realize their full potential.

Psychiatric wards were taken during 1981 to address the problem of mental health, drug and alcohol abuse, amongst. These areas of health care will remain a high priority. We will care for the elderly, as evidenced by the recent opening of a new 150-bed medical ward at "Lisa Manor" as an extension of the Scarborough Hospital.

In the field of environmental health, work will centre on water quality surveillance, waste management and animal control.

The Department of Social Services will be further strengthened during 1982, to enable it to meet growing demands.

As Conservative Power and the Premier Sudbury Wide Plans will be implemented during this session.

Additional units will be added to the one already authorized in the new Two-Tiered housing project at Burlington Downs.

The grant of Ontario Housing - which averaged about 2.5 million dollars annually during the five year period from mid-1977 to mid-1982 - proved widespread and various complex. Moreover the Metro Centre' undertaking here to provide any additional subsidies to operate housing after Ontario Grant Funds only until April, 1986. Against this background the Minister's Board, in consultation with the Housing Advisory Committee, commissioned a comprehensive independent professional report on it so that informed decisions can be taken about its future policies and arrangements.

The new Terminal building at Greater Hamilton International Airport has been completed and put into operation, offering a greatly improved facility to the travelling public. Agreements will continue for the Ontario Lakeside Commuter, which is responsible for operating this Airport, to function on these similar to the Port Authority. The design of the proposed new Terminal complex at Dundas Road is now under review. As soon as the Master Plan has been completed proposals will be submitted to the CDC for final approval. Work is scheduled to commence on this project later this year.

The tourism industry continued to show increases in 1981, and predictions are this year will also be a very successful year. Agreements will take effect to ensure that the exemptions being offered to our tourists are maintained at a high level.

The Fire Service sub-station at Stone Road was completed in late 1981, offering a quick response to calls

HTS Insurance and Governance Committee in the Eastern Province of Central Country. Benefits range from [illegible] Remedial Services in Country Base are being studied.

The Actuary Officer will continue to provide calculations on employee and employer, where possible. Consideration is being given to the introduction of Income Legislation during 1995.

As I said earlier, Disabled Administration has been reduced to the Communications and Works Portfolio. With regard to the rest of the infrastructure necessary to accommodate Government as now explained in Queen Town as Office-part, a reconfigured Cafeteria, a reliable telephone service, an improved and appealing electricity supply and so on. Circulation will therefore be increased on alternative Wednesdays and Fridays for the Blaine Islands, to help their economic appeal and to generate employment.

Plans to relocate the Census Post Office in Upper Town as a new, more modern building will be pursued, a provisional study being made of the feasibility of incorporating a multi-storey car park which should maximise benefit compatible by enabling unwanted premises to be rationalised.

In addition to a full programme of maintenance, the Public Works Department will implement a number of building and conservation schemes now most urgently [illegible]

The Port Authority is allocated to [illegible] in Queens particularly for the capital expenditure plans. Plans are well-advanced for the [illegible] of permanent moorings for ocean ships.

The plans for Marine Parks are now being explained to the public before Regulations are finally brought into effect. The importance of establishing them without further delay cannot be over-emphasised. For one thing, the growth of coral and [illegible] in their own particular habitats will be [illegible]. For another, the marine life which [illegible] the learning destination in this hemisphere for divers will be protected. HIS EXCELLENCY THE SPEAKER (CONTINUED): Emphasis will be placed on agriculture. An Agricultural Development Corporation has been established to assist. It is intended to obtain the services of an adviser to upgrade the Demonstration Farms.

A Building Code which has been under consideration for quite some time will be imposed with the assistance of a Committee recently established.

Because of the growing demand for water, well fields are being developed at Lear and which should be in operation shortly. Other methods of procuring water are under investigation.

The Housing Development Corporation is actively pursuing a project for funds to meet demands. Money raised from local financial institutions in 1984 was about $2m before the end of the year. Policies will be reviewed in order that future transactions relate to the true purpose of the scheme.

[illegible] the Commissioner pay tribute to Members' concerns and sensitivity. This comes by virtue of maintaining order and of ensuring a fair hearing for all. I am confident that with such help, this will be [illegible] business.

I pray that Almighty God may bless and guide our deliberations throughout the coming session.

MR. JAMES M. KINCAID: BE IT RESOLVED that the Honourable Legislative Assembly accords its grateful thanks to His Excellency the Governor for the Address delivered at this meeting

THE HOUSE RESUMED AT 11.15 A.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.

Before I move to Item 2 on today's Order Paper, Presentation of Papers and Reports, perhaps I should just say that it has been brought to my notice that by a slip of the tongue I may have created some confusion about the time we finish the debate on the Throne Speech to day to take place. It is in fact Wednesday of next week, I think I made the wrong date. The Motion of the Motion I think I got it right and I misspoke that, but so there should be no doubt in any body's mind Wednesday is the day that was intended and I shall request the motion be kept back so counsel that we proceed on Wednesday.

Presentation of Papers and Reports.

MR.PRESIDENT: Item 2 (b) - Bills

THE APPROPRIATION BILL, 1985

CLERK: THE APPROPRIATION BILL, 1985

FIRST READING

MR.PRESIDENT: The Bill entitled the Appropriation Bill, 1985 is deemed to have been read a first time and to be set down for second reading.

CLERK: THE APPROPRIATION BILL, 1985

SECOND READING

HON.J.C.THOMPSON: Mr.President, I am honoured to join you, Sir, on this occasion, when the Throne Speech and Budget Address are presented in this Honourable House on the same day. The Budget Address, this year in particular, is presented with the distinction of conveying to this Honourable House and the people of the Cayman Islands a detailed accurate account of the financial affairs of Government and the state of the economy. It is my pleasure, Mr.President, to present the financial statement in support of the Appropriation Bill, 1985, which is now in the process of its second reading.

Mr.President, although the Cayman Islands have passed through perhaps the most heavily contested general election ever held, resulting in a major change in the membership of this Honourable House, there has been no major change in the Country's economic development policies. I suggest to all Honourable Members that we should all welcome as the preservation of these fundamental tenets of our development over the past twenty plus months, politicial stability, maintaining our good financial position, prudent control of Government spending and balanced budget. Nevertheless we must all know ways to put the shoulder to wheel to make the economy, I mean, Mr.President, we should turn our attention to the hard decisions required to provide the services to the people of these Islands. This should be a part of working order, that is, re-examining our Government philosophy of running these Islands. We should not try to emulate or mimic procedures which operate in other countries, but recognize from lessons of time and only change the procedures when events in these Islands and the international business world requires it.

The Cayman Islands have also experienced, during 1984, the establishment of the Honourable Government and perhaps Governmental procedures exist. In my view, Mr. President, no country should hesitate to co-operate in the re-evaluation of persons involved in processes. For example, it is an understatement still capable of destroying every fibre of any society. Mr.President, there is little evidence of any drug money in the Cayman Islands today. The news are being examined, relate to the former half of the 1970's. As I said while debating the Immigration Bill last year, the signing of such Agreements is a step forward for the future development of these Islands.

MR. T. O'DONNELL (CONTINUING): As an offshore financial centre, the prosperity of the Cayman Islands Government and Electorate is inextricably tied to government expenditure and Government will continue to do all in its power to ensure that the benefits remain. We are convinced that the future lies in having a stable and well regulated financial industry.

I. The Economy (Mr)

The economy of these Islands, which is based mainly on the financial industry and tourism, continues to be a very fragile economy, because it is largely influenced by external factors over which we have no control. However, internal factors play a significant role as well, and I would suggest that we are all responsible for it. Therefore, Mr. President, care should be exercised in the steps we project to the international world.

a) Financial Sector

(i) Banking and Trust

Despite the known unemployment during 1981 in the financial systems in the United States and elsewhere, there appear to have been relatively few knock-on effects through the Cayman banking sector, although the continuing problems surrounding the serious indebtedness of a number of Latin American countries have inevitably affected the operations of the banking business which predominate in the sector. Figures for the total accountancy assets of the banks in Cayman (our most important of offshore banking activity) are not yet available for 31st December, 1981, but we might be mistaken to expect any great increase on the 1980 figure of US$161 billion, which is estimated to account for about 5% of the total eurocurrency market.

During 1981 we saw further evidence of the consolidation of the banking institutions offered by Cayman. Most notably, of course, has been dominated by the US banks, mainly because of the presumptive penalty, but also (less positively) because of Cayman's lack of investibility further afield. The last two or three years have seen this change significantly. As I explained in my last address, three quarters of the banks licensed in 1980 came from outside the United States, and this has been reversed in 1981. Of the new licences granted last year, more are from banks based in Europe and Asia as diversification by the Middle East banks. Although the US banks must always be a very important element in a thriving banking industry, the Cayman Islands naturally become far more cosmopolitan as our financial institutions. The diversification and greater international acceptance of the sector can only be welcomed, adding to the confidence and general recognition of the stability and strength of our financial industry.

At the end of 1981, there were 456 banks and trust companies on the register, a net increase of seven over the previous year. However, this latest figure hides the fact that 58 new licences were issued, substantially to the branches and subsidiaries of major overseas banks. The relatively high number of 21 cancelled licences, a large number, also reflects the restructuring and merging of certain foreign banking groups, which has sometimes resulted in a duplication of the new company's representation in Cayman. However, a number of banks did close their Cayman operations, having taken advantage of the original concessionary, and we were obliged to revoke their licences for various reasons. In line with our policy of the last

SOME PROBLEMS/CONSIDERATIONS: The growth, expansion of the banking system has been further enhanced during 1993 by the introduction of some unsophisticated supervisory requirements for new banks. Contrary to what some people may believe, such a development is generally welcomed by the industry, since it safeguards and contributes to preserving the integrity of the international system rather than adding burdens on the banking sector as a revenue earning tool.

Because of the severely restricted availability of office accommodation in Georgetown, we are now able to give land to a larger number of institutions which wish to establish a physical presence on the Island, rather than rely on the traditional agency services. There are currently 20 banks or banks combined with statutory offices here, with the prospects of two or three coming shortly [illegible]. While we personally encourage local, since it is generally through the development, the depth of local services and expertise, that the financial market will continue to grow. Naturally such developments provide an impetus to the local economy through additional employment, rentals and capital expenditures etc. although, as regards employment, it must be accepted that the majority of the newly-established institutions will tend to rely, initially at least, on expatriate management. Nevertheless, at the end of 1992, the latest date for which figures are presently available, [illegible] of the 870 persons directly employed in the banking sector were Guyanese. On the same year, total expenditure in Guyana by the banks and trust companies totalled G$42 million, of which G$16.6 million were accounted for by income from, the remainder by salaries, rentals, [illegible] and general operating costs. During 1992, following the decrease in income tax announced in my last Budget Address, [illegible] paid in Government totalled G$8.5 million.

(iii) Agricultural and Industrial Development Bank

The Agricultural and Industrial Development Bank continues to provide much assistance to the small business operators in the agricultural and industrial sectors of the economy. The demand for loans in these two sectors increased steadily, with a total of G$113,000 disbursed in 1992, increasing the total loans outstanding at year end to G$280,000. As applicable funds in the two sections are almost exhausted, any loans of which are now being obtained from the Caribbean Development Bank.

With the rehabilitation of [illegible] of the present clientele, the Statutory Board, AID has recommenced to the Portfolio of Finance and Development.

(iv) Guyana Defence Currency Board

The total assets of the Guyana Defence Currency Board as at 31st December, 1992 were G$19.9 million. The Currency Board continues to perform the important function of the issue and redemption of Guyana Defence notes and coins. As at 31st December, 1992, currency in circulation stood at G$19 million. Additional notes released and subsequently destroyed in 1992 amounted to G$25.6 million.

The Board's funds are held primarily in the form of US Treasury bills and fixed deposits both with local banks and joint banks overseas. As at 31st December, 1992 Treasury Bonds amounted to G$7.4 million, and fixed deposits

NEW INCORPORATIONS (CONTINUED): Close of year position.

Although no corporate entity has ceased in 1984, the Cayman Islands Register has gained four 1983-and one 1982 registrations by subscribers only (no locations).

In 1984, the Board terminated 57 of the 1982 and 1983 entities in the Government's General Revenue.

(iii) Continuous Modernization

As in previous years, Companies, Shipping, Records and Trade Marks continued to be the most important areas of the Registry, both in terms of work in the office and in monetary returns.

For the period 1st January to 31st December, 1984, our Bankers had handled well nearly four (3,844) new companies incorporated in the Cayman Islands, generating $768,800 additional income in comparison with the previous year and eighty-four (1,164) new companies and $232.8 million for the same period in 1983.

An analysis of the new companies incorporated in the Cayman Islands is detailed below:-

Exempt	- 3,152
Ordinary	- 512
	3,844

Jurisdiction

The companies registered in the Cayman Islands are distributed on the Government computer, which enables the Registry easily to recall information to assist in various workings in the office. In addition, the computer is being used to help with companies on the Register, and to follow up the payments due to Government. Pictures of the developments in the company before should show the Register

A statistical summary of the companies registered on the Cayman Register on 31st December, 1984 is as follows:-

	EXEMPT	ORDINARY	MUTUAL	TOTAL
NO. OF COMPANIES ON REGISTER (DECEMBER 1983)	8,780	2,204	418	11,512
NEW REGISTRATIONS 1984	3,151	512	84	3,844
CHANGE STATUS DEC 1984				1,844
NUMBER OF COMPANIES AT 31ST DECEMBER, 1984				17,180

In 1984 we have been advised by the Registrar that the total revenue sum of $12½ million would be collected from company registration, but this amount has not been achieved and the general feeling in the private sector is that there is to be a general levelling off (if not registrations), especially with companies from many developing offshore financial centres and it may not therefore be appropriate to anticipate this general levelling off continuing in all future periods.

(iv) Accounting Firms

Another international accounting firm made the decision to operate in the Cayman Islands in 1984. It is one of the top ten accounting firms in the world. Three additional [illegible] In the financial sector can only add to the attractiveness and profitability of these islands. Arrangements are envisaged to the smooth functioning of an offshore financial centre and which incentive is direct expenditure is US$1.4 million and by employing 137 staff. Employment from 108 of the staff will be from overseas. Training of 20 local staff is being considered in a variety of ways. Some students are being sponsored for full-time courses leading to qualifications. Others are being involved on the job. These students are due to qualify as follows:

(iii) Company Management

The business of providing the services of Company Management has originated much attention during 1984, with the Companies Management Law 1982 (Law 12 of 1982) being enacted. Government is now in a position to administer this type of business which has caused some concern in the past.

Total employment of these companies is 78 of whom, 54 are Caymanians and direct and indirect expenditure is approximately US$1.5 million.

(iv) Legal Firms

Legal firms employ 106 staff and contribute $1.5 million in direct expenditure to the economy and are approximately 11 cruise ships to the Port Richey. The school, which was established in 1982 at a cost of $60,000, cost $81,710 in 1983.

It is hoped that the legal profession will work hand in hand with Government to keep down the operating costs of the school and assist in its funding.

(v) [illegible]

As foreseen and mentioned in the previous Budget Address, 1984 was a period of consolidation for the Insurance Section of Finance and Development.

At the end of the year, there were 371 'B' Insurance Licensees (including 33 running off) and 58 'A' Class Licensed Insurers.

There are now 154 Caymanian controlled locally in the market, one of whom are Caymanian. The business also includes a large number of employees who work for local companies, legal and banking companies. We have estimated that the offshore insurance market also generate about 2,500 visitors to the Islands each year, many of whom pay to many attractions and itineraries of the companies.

The Insurance industry, world wide, has been undergoing as a loss over the past six or seven years, and these losses have assumed very significant proportions during the last two years.

Less is being seen as the beginning of a turnaround for the market, and it is possible many more Insurers will be promoted in offshore companies during this period. Plans were and Development through the Insurance Section to organise by a Seminar at the end of May to help promote the Islands as a base for Association type Captive Insurance Companies.

Revenue to Government from the issue of Insurance Licenses remains steady at just [illegible] of CI$1 million. Expenses are estimated at $1 for each of this figure.

b) Tourism sector

1984 proved to be another year for the tourist industry in the Cayman Islands, as the best ever for the 1964 recession discovered. Cruise ship arrivals reached the mark of 400,588, up 12.2% over 1983. Air arrivals totalled 166,884, an increase of 13.9% over the previous year, and hotel occupancies have begun to increase again during the year. It is estimated that direct revenues from our visitors amounted for at least $184 million in earnings for our economy.

The re-introduction of Pan Am to the United States will no doubt have a positive affect similar to those Islands. All available indications in North America point to a good year for 1985 and optimum bookings reported by our hotel industry would seem to confirm our predictions.

At the beginning of 1985, the Department commenced the operation of a new computerized hotel reservation system. While fully operational, this system is expected to provide a great assistance to the travel trade in the U.S., by making hotel rooms in the Cayman Islands more available for sale than ever before. This new system, coupled with entirely successful promotional efforts, should provide us with an increase of visitors of over 10% in 1985. This will be a positive achievement, when one considers that almost no new accommodations will be available this year.

The Government of Canada has achieved a new administrative agency and just will shortly be coming a whole new foreign and consular approach in the presentation of our tourist throughout the world. Not only our advertising, but our brochures and sales material will reflect this new approach, and it is expected this will have a positive impact on our marketing effort.

The employed labour force of the Islands, which includes hotels, condominiums and restaurants is 7181 staff with Caymanians representing 68%. The contribution to the economy in the form of direct expenditures is $131.2 million.

Utilizing another formula, the total impact on the economy is $184.2 million, which includes lodging, ground transport, food and beverage, shopping and recreation.

c) Construction Sector

Activity in the Sector was down slightly this year.

The major projects were continuations on Seven Mile Beach, Phase II of Treasure Island Hotel and the Cayman Islands Yacht Club, a handsome building visible, which will serve the recreational mobile unit.

Employment in the Sector of 1407 workers was the contribution to the economy of $1988 million.

The C.I.E.A. held 37 meetings in 1984, an increase of two over 1983. A total of 401 applications were processed, a decrease of 21.1% from 1983. Applications for major developments totalled 38%, which represents a decrease of 7.3% from 1983. Minor developments were down 19% from 1983. Revenue generated by applications was up 15% over 1983 to CI$175,381.

The value of fully approved developments dropped from $63 million in 1983 to $41.6 million in 1984 - a decrease of 33.9%. The greatest sector decrease, next to Government was in hotel development (40%); the greatest sector increase was in industrial development (200.0%).

SUB-SECTORAL PROGRAMMES:

(i) Agriculture and Fishing Sector

Projects specialized in the area of agriculture in 1984 were (1) the purchase of mini-rotavator models to open up previously inaccessible land for cultivation; (2) the importation of a number of Jersey cows to improve the quality of herds; (3) the commencement of a new Head of Department of Agriculture; (4) the arranging of delegations to the Royal Agricultural Show in England who the Florida State Fair to provide modern farming techniques and equipment on well as valuable data on swine husbandry and (5) securing the services of Agricultural Consultants from Jamaica to provide advice on banana, avocado pear and mango crops. The thrust of the Government activity envisages to be primarily the importation of certain agricultural products to supplement local production and supply. Progress in this area during 1984 was encouraging, as was the farmers' crop projections for 1985. Local farmer exports to Barbados - 50 thousand avocado pears in 1984, and during 1985, banana harvest peaked at 27,500 pounds per week. Sweet Potato has currently supplies 90% of the local demand, producing an average of 10 - 12 thousand pounds per month, valued at over $2,000 here. Another farmer currently supplies pineapples, tomatoes, thyme, bananas and other produce to local supermarkets. The factory in Savannah employed 600 persons of hardy to the local market.

The Department and the Agricultural Society assist farmers in finding local outlets for their produce by advising the supermarkets as to the harvest dates and quantities available, negotiating the various crops given local markets in general co-operate exactly in buying higher grade products.

The Department of Agriculture also works closely with the Agricultural Society, the activity encouraging and assisting local farmers in crop production. To this end, both the Lower Valley Farm and the South Coast station will be developed as experimental bases, to test plant varieties, fertilizers, etc. Successful plants will then be recommended to private farms for larger scale implementation. Farmers can be assured that it is the Government's policy to provide both them in the production and marketing of their products, but wishes to support private production and stimulate new ventures.

In 1985, 210 Dutchrabbit animals were imported and stamped by the Department to ensure that meat quality for marketplace was obtained. The cattle dip at Lower Valley was repaired and 805 tons of cattle feed was imported and resold to farmers.

The Department undertook a farm and cattle census, which revealed that there are over 350 active farmers and 8,500 head of cattle on the Island. Imports consisting of plant and animal importation was strengthened. 2,000 watermelon plants and 784 private plants have imported and 18 boats. During 1985, it was necessary to impose a ban on the importation of all commercial animals due to a cattle outbreak in Jamaica. The Department's strictions applied in this matter was not on other countries, as a cattle outbreak on the Island would have been disastrous for both the product and the human population.

It is hoped that, in 1986, more cattle farmers will take advantage of the certificate incentive scheme to improve the genetic make-up of their animals. Cows from Barbados, Trinidad, Guiana, New York, Montserrat and Nigeria to be stock. It is proposed to build sculpture to farmers' interest, a seven multipurpose mini. The construction of a cattle

BOT.C./Overseas (continued): did not materialise and will not be included in the capital works for 1982.

Detailed meetings involving the Department, the Agricultural Society and farmers were initiated in August of last year, and these will be extended as soon as possible to discussion and the dissemination of information. The Department has developed a close working relationship with the Agricultural Society, which can only improve the climate for agricultural development.

The Mobile Cotton Ginning Equipment is scheduled to be sold in 1982 with private ownership. Last year, many visitors participated at one time in the same as expected. A development such as this is quite beneficial to the 88 planter base elsewhere.

The study was completed, with Government approximately 80% and expenditure of $25.4 million to the economy.

c/ Transport and Communication Sector:

(i) Cayman Airways Ltd.

The Airline maintained operations to the existing routes to Honduras, Kingston, Grand Turk and Providenciales and Miami and has agreed with Cayman Brac to the Grand Cayman/Miami flights twice a week.

Although it may not be an economic freight proposition, the extension of Cayman Brac, as a tourist destination, will be much improved and it will play the dual role of Cayman as the gateway points for rapid economic development.

The Airline Society has met with some years as it proved quite successful to residents and operators. The fleet is now comprised of 2 Twin Otter 200's and the following:

The Cayman Airways Board is continuing with issues of the airline, with the view to carrying costs.

Total employment is 100 persons and the contribution to the economy is $12.5 million.

(ii) Cable and Wireless (W.I.) Ltd.

The Telecommunications Sector dealing, between the Cayman Islands, United States, United Kingdom, Canada, the Caribbean and other European countries has recently a great enhancement in broadening business in the Islands, and the efficiency of the service to quick completions recently noted.

Provision of civil servants to maintain such objectives, as to carry services and providing customer training, which is now involving local technicians and on the job training.

The Company employs a staff of 112 and contributes $7.3 million to the economy.

d) Electricity, Water and Fire Services:

Caribbean Utilities Company, Ltd. continues its efficient investment of electricity in these Islands and has added more generating capacities during the year.

The Company's difficulties and future prospects of keeping pace with the demand for electricity is commendable.

Now I.C.Berrigan(continuing): Cayman Action Company has experienced a cyclone every year with breakdowns to equipment, but all things being equal, it was possible to meet the demand of the customers since Hurricane Mike Dutch. Production of water is 600,000 gallons per day and anticipated to increase by 600,000 gallons per day in March, 1985. The ability to issue the permit depends on the Environmental Health Organization approval.

A survey of the Companies who performed the services listed above, namely that 110 staff are employed, with a $2.4 million contribution to the economy.

g) Local Services

Mr.Speaker, last year I referred to the need for increases which occur to the tourist, capital improvements and duty free shops, to re-examine their opening hours by opening on Friday later and closing one hours later. This will not only offer more convenient service to the tourist and general public, but can help create more employment.

I am pleased that many have examined the suggestion and changed their daily opening hours.

Additionally, they are estimated to employ 200 staff and contribute $20.0 million to our economy.

h) Government Sector

(a) Internal and External Affairs

(i) Immigration

Persons admitted during 1984, reflected a substantial increase over 1983. The 1984 annual revenue for permit application fees, work and business licences and local company licences totalled $1,225,310. Issued 1084 permits for these licences in $1,017,017 - a 50.3% increase over 1983.

It is perhaps not widely known that the Department of Immigration issues visas for some Commonwealth Countries under bilateral agreements, as well as visas for people to return to the Cayman Islands. Figures for the issue of these amounted to approximately 825,250 in 1984. Although this is not a substantial sum, it is increasingly significantly each year.

In addition to revenue, the Department has received, approximately $1.5 million by way of work permits, as financial recognition against repatriation costs, on handling the processing of various applications.

Although the Department of Immigration is moving on increasing localization to Government Services, the basis is very much dependent upon the employment situation in these Islands from year to year and the availability of Caymanians. The change that forms of the new Caymanian Proclamation has revised during 1985, will eliminate a fee for the grant of permanent residence thereby to the spouses of Caymanians thereby having a slight impact on future revenue. However, this quite rightly establishes fair play for the people who

(iii) Police

In previous years, the Police Department plans concentrated on the more physical aspects, such as the provision of police accommodation, including the new Traffic and Licensing Offices, the new Police Station at Jubilee Road and the re-equipping of the Marine and Traffic Departments. With these tasks now in hand, it was possible in 1984 to commence a major phase of in-house and on the job training.

To this end a number of senior and experienced N.C.O.'s/Crews, with skills in specific areas, have recruited in 1983 and a number of sergeants are being recruited on 12 month contracts in 1984. These officers are providing on the job training in CID, Traffic, Scenes of Crime, Administration and Marine policing. Key systems are underway in all these areas are being carefully developed, and as the contractees learn on a phased basis, local officers will assume wider responsibilities as more posts are completed. The main objectives of the force are aimed in this, to allow for a better promotion pyramid, thus enabling long term career development. In the last few months of 1983, 20 local officers were promoted to senior and other supervisory posts, on the first step towards these localisation plans, and this programme, designed to simultaneously improve professional standards and develop the services of local officers, will continue.

In 1983 the Criminal Investigation Department was again successful in combating the growth of serious crime and thereby, the number of crimes reported to the police dropped by 6 against the 1982 totals. The number of drug cases dealt with by the police also dropped during 1983.

Despite a considerable increase in the number of vehicles on the roads in 1984, the number of accidents was less, and the safety of the Traffic Department remains directed towards accident prevention.

(xiv) Personnel

During 1984, there was a slight increase to 1,250 in establishment posts in the Civil Service, and personal emoluments expenditure rose to $20,788,870. This was due to the increase in salaries awarded by the 1984 Review. The cost of providing locally pensions also increased in 1984 to $198,854. We consider it to attract to improve the skills and qualifications of serving officers.

The purchase of the Town Building in 1983 alleviated the overcrowded conditions at the Government Administration Building. Departments now in the Tower are: Social Services, Planning, Police Administration, Pensions, Training Unit, Government Information Services, Law Council, Meteorological and Environmental Health. Those scheduled to move shortly are: Customs, Trading and Excise Branch (Lands and Survey, Department of Commerce and Industries Centre. In the meantime such as this is eventually possible, refurbishment and other office services to make the adjustments functional.

With the accommodation of all departments, it is hoped that the rate of the service will not increase very much in 1985.

(xv) Broadcasting

Radio Cayman's revenue collection has exceeded the expenditure of the station for the last three years, which 1983 realised earnings of $181,000 and expenditure of $308,000. The station provides a good quality broadcast service for 24 hours each day with programmes designed for the entertainment, enjoyment and educational needs of MOS.T.C.[illegible] the Islands' currency. It opened with a total capitony of 15, 73 of whom are Caymanians.

The first phase of a new air transport system, designed to give full EC coverage to the Lesser Islands, will be established later this year.

(b) Finance and Development

(i) Registry of Shipping

Ship registration in the Cayman Islands showed an unusual increase with 109 vessels being registered in 1985, in comparison with the registration of 207 ships in 1984. Revenue derived from ship registration in 1985 amounted to CI$198,000 in comparison with CI$181,000 for 1984.

The banking registers, although experiencing great activity, produced very modest revenue which is primarily due to the flat fees charged on these registers and many would, no doubt, be to the view of Government that these registers are more lucrative than revenue orientated.

(ii) Savings and Expenditure

1985 for the purposes of a general election year, 1984 is viewed as a reasonably successful fiscal year.

It began with a balanced budget of $82.2 million comprised of $62.8 million in recurrent spending, $11.7 million in locally financed capital spending and $6.9 million in loan financing of capital projects. The revised financial position includes $87.1 million total recurrent and capital expenditure, which includes $7.6 million in capital loan funds. In fiscal 1984 expenditure, $4.4 million, was above General Revenue, $1.5 million approved in the 1985 Budget, $1.6 million to reimburse Current Account with Imprest and $267,000 to fund Cayman Airways, which also appeared on an advance account.

The surplus of $1,000,995, as at 1st January, 1985 was also utilized, and is reflected that the current and with a deficit of $258,537. The revised figures for 1984 may be summarized as follows:

Balance at the beginning of the year		$1,000,995
Revenue Local	- $62,821,589
Loans	- $ 2,656,074
Less Expenditure: Recurrent	- $66,506,280
Capital:
(i) Local	- $10,090,702
(ii) Loans	- $ 7,642,924
Estimated balance at 31st Dec.1984		($258,537)

(iii) Public Debt

The Public Debt stood at $8.1 million at the beginning of the year under review. It was increased by a loan for the Lower Building of $1.8 million and further drew down on the Caribbean Development Bank loan for the Owen Roberts Airport Terminal Building of $3.8 million. Repayments during the year were $10.7 million resulting in a net-total of $16.3 million. An in depth analysis of all loan agreements and repayments indicates that, in the last ten years, when the Local Sterling has been on a decline, those loans guaranteed by the whole of the 1970's conversion rate from Pound Sterling to Cayman Dollars.

(iii) Tax Administration: While the time overlap between the Inland Revenue and Customs Islands is close to one of the criticisms made, the total Public Debt at 31st December, 1984, is $[illegible] million, which excludes the Development Loans.

Most Commercial Banks subscribed to the Grand Cayman Development Bank, one Bank Guarantee $3.6 million, Agricultural and Industrial Development Bank $6.7 million, and has made mortgage loans of $9.1 million, resulting in a total of $19.6 million.

To these arrangements, such as Bank Guarantees, Governments have the back and to subsidized by Bank Guarantees.

(iv) General Reserve

The position at 31st January, 1985, was $19.1 million, interest received shows the same up $1.5 million and an excess distributed, $1.6 million was transferred to general taxpayers to said specific commitments during the year. At year end, the balance was $17.2 million. For the Cayman Islands Loan, the Commercial Secretary has negotiated to Barclays Bank Plc. Legal discussion pursuant with the Bank will not be terminated.

(v) Customs

1984, was a special year for the Customs Department. It is likely that more concessions are being given the exact year have the made during any other period in the history of the Department.

Through the operation of the Statute Revocation Committee, the Customs and Investment Department obtained the concessions of a Customs Training Officer, for the first four months of 1985, with a view to strengthening the effectiveness of the system.

The establishment of customs Control as improvement part of the Advisory function. A four week course for junior officers was held from 21st January to 15th February and completed satisfactorily. All students attended the pass mark in both theoretical and practical examinations, the majority doing well indeed.

A four week management course for senior officers was held from 25th February to 22nd March, and three students came equally successful.

The courses were followed by a series of seminars covering the Collector, Deputy Collector and Assistant Collectors.

One of the Department's Assistant Collectors, Mr. D.S. Lowery, attended a twelve week course in the United Kingdom on Customs Enforcement, devised jointly by the United Nations and Cross Border. The United Kingdom Customs Administration played a major role in the training given on this course.

Action has taken to fully implement the Law relating to Customs Officers and to seriously tighten security in importation. The System can now prevent to investigate the power of arrest and to detain any person found to be in possession of smuggled goods. The Department assumes responsibility for the investigation of the car drug cases and several successful prosecutions have been undertaken.

HOF, P.C. Extension (continued): A Customs Declaration Form, to be completed by all passengers on flights to the Cayman Islands was designed. Collection of revenue from passengers has increased by 22% since its introduction.

The signing of the Cayman Baggage at the Owen Roberts Airport Terminal was re-negotiated and provides increased, in real dollar terms for the Cayman Islands and provides clearance for checking passengers.

The efficiency of the Department is much improved and it is proposed that in the 1982 Budget, provision will be made for an increase in staff complement to provide the necessary man power to cope with the ever increasing demand. Offices are being provided in the Tower Building and should be available in early 1982. While these offices will provide better accommodation, it is hoped that space will be made available at the Bank to accommodate Customs, because to completely operate from the Tower Building may present difficulty.

(vi) Information Systems

All major systems developed for the PDP 11/70 came fully operational during 1981. These included Companies Registration, Trade Statistics, Economic Survey and CIT. Investigation and Control maintenance use of the systems and word processing was implemented in most Government Departments.

Some departments now having the word processor and the installation of small stand alone systems, in addition to Airport Office Bank. Over 75 Government employees were trained in the use of this software in the last year. In addition, the Data Registration Clerk were produced using the word processor, which permitted last minute changes to be made, to ensure the information was as accurate as possible.

Over fifty terminals and printers are installed in various Government departments. As was reported last year, we fully utilized the capacity of our present equipment during 1981. As a result, we were unable to proceed with the development of other major systems. System design and programming of these will be finalized when further computer resources are made available.

Section staff from Information Systems spent three days attending programs for operating the computer facilities. A final examination has been made and, subject to formal approval, an order will be placed, with delivery expected by mid-1982. Additional space has been allocated for the computer room, to accommodate the new equipment and modifications of the space now also for completion prior to the arrival of equipment.

Eighteen were recruited into various Employments, Computer Operators and Data Entry Operator posts for 1981 and it is expected that several Caymanian college graduates will return this year. Advancements have been made in the staffing to accommodate these graduates.

(vii) Legal

During the year 1981, the Attorney General and his professional staff continued to handle an increasing volume of work in the civil, criminal and judicial [illegible] : Aphorse, some seventy-six (76) boys which have been trained in the Attorney General's Chambers were passed into law by the Legislative Assembly. Included in these were two of the most significant pieces of legislation enacted in recent years, The Corporation Ordinance Law, 1984 and the Narcotic Drugs (Evidence) (United States of America) Law, 1985. The prosecutors' section of Chambers was also busy constantly engaged in Criminal matters in the Summary Court, Small Court and the Court of Appeal. With the coming into force of the U.S./U.K./Cayman Islands Extradition Agreement, the Attorney General is also responsible for the implementation in the Cayman Islands of the terms of the Agreement.

The Law School is now firmly established and the first batch of students have now almost completed the third of the five years. There are presently a total of fourteen students and the graduate assistant assigned for their studies are timetabled to a limited tuition two hours.

(d) Development and Future Directions

After the November, 1984 Elections, the Portfolio's name was changed slightly by replacing the word 'Agriculture' with 'Environment'. This was followed by an increase in its responsibilities but not by an increase in manpower. An Agricultural Development Committee has now been established to advise the Portfolio regarding ways of promoting growth in this sector. It is also planned to bring in a Forestry Officer to assist. Other proposals are that the Conservation Law is to be upgraded and amended, new Conservation personnel for the Department. Generally, agriculture will remain a top priority area.

The National Roads was completed, including the Islands' response mechanism. The National Resources Lab or NRCT was expanded to begin a beaches study, developing contacts long term monitoring of the marine, lagoon and coastal environments. Preliminary studies pursuant were undertaken, to make decisions about the rare plants and plant uses to be removed and taken from the Islands. Also, the upgrading the time of the radio ship Registry's procedures in the Cayman Term Register. The Portfolio also endeavours to monitor the effects of the vessel and, with the assistance of the U.S. Coast Guard and other foreign agencies, the operations proceeded with minimum damage to the marine environment. The well-known gastroenterologist, Dr. D. Gardenhire, visited here in the latter part of 1985, working and collecting samples for the purpose of producing a definitive antomological account of the Cayman Islands from the great amount of data available. In 1986, the Cayman Turtle Farm expanded with additional tanks, in preparation for increasing stock to meet local demand for turtle meat, which is expected to require 2,000 turtles by 1987. The Farm released 2,000 juvenile hawksbill turtles in Cayman waters in 1986. The Portfolio hosted delegations in Washington, D.C. and the Caribbean from the Commission on International Trade in Endangered Species in Brussels, Belgium, where the monitoring programme and enforcement continues to be high for substantial programs in the co-ordinating negotiations for the listings of the Fish in 1986. A programme will be presented at the 6th Meeting of the Conference of the Parties to CITES, to be held in Buenos Aires, Argentina, in April of this year, seeking approval to allow Cayman Turtle Farm to trade with other member countries. The United States has published Notice to allow trade in Cayman Turtle Farm's products, if approval is obtained at the MOSAIC PROTECTION/WILDLIFE: Should Rivers Conference, if the U.S.market can be re-opened, the Cayman Islands will continue production for selected markets and also active investment research and upgrading of the Agency's facilities. The idea was explored, at this time, of the possibility of introducing shrimp culture along with mariculture. Funds for a pilot project, which the purchase of the Turtle Farm, were allocated in 1984. Dr. Cornelius Mook, aquaculturist and consultant, was brought in to advise on the feasibility of the project,produced a favourable report.

Substantial amounts of funds were provided in 1985 for playing fields and community parks in West Bay, East End and North Side, for the new clinic in Cayman Brac and for the water and sewerage projects. Steps to identify public access to the beach along the West Bay Road were started. A jetty was built on South Sound to accommodate the increased boat traffic during summertime. A seismographic station was established at MIRU to monitor and provide data on seismic activities and to add to the pool of data on the whole Caribbean.

The Water Authority will develop in 1986 two major projects, the West and Bodden and the Seven Mile Beach sewerage system. Also in 1985, the Authority in a joint study with Caribbean Utilities Company, Ltd., will examine the possibility of producing potable water from waste heat from the Caribbean Utilities Company, Ltd. plant. This could be another useful source of water.

Other highlights for 1986 include the continued study of a Building Code by a committee recently formed for the purpose. A study to allow foreign ownership for a post office/multi-agency use part in Seven Mile Beach, to relocate the Post Office and replace unsuitable accommodation. The Housing Development Corporation will be reviewing policies, so that the effectiveness and purpose will improve.

(b) Lands and Survey Department

In the Lands Registry, collections for the year 1985 totalled $1,063 thousand, 1984 totalled $1,237 thousand. The transactions used, 2,258 against 2,317 in 1984. The corresponding numbers for instruments of land were 1,362 (1985) and 1,386 (1984) and charges against property to secure loans numbered 1,126 in 1984 against 1,205 in 1983. Registry fees for 1984 amounted to nearly CI$98,000 against CI$88,000 in 1983. The value of property transferred (including leaseholds) amounted to CI$17.4 million in 1985 against CI$14.7 million in 1984.

The total amount of stamp duty collected amounted to CI$2.2 million from CI$1.7 million in 1984.

Physical Development under the Development Plan Law, there was a 10 percent upward trend in the number of cases registered, up to 220 in 1985 from 200 in 1984. It should be noted, however, that these figures are substantially below those for the boom years of 1982 and 1983 when 327 and 320 cases were registered respectively.

In the Survey and Mapping Office, the number of title boundary determinations was down in 1984, being 101 against 126 in 1983, but more work for Government was carried out than before. Computerization of work and checking of surveys submitted by private surveyors for registration continued to improve under the direction of the Chief Surveyor. A joint control was fixed for 1986 as a datum link from the (ii) U.K. Hydrographic Office: Headquarters at Taunton.

In the Drawing Office, work followed steadily. In the early part of the year, a hydrographic cutback from the United Kingdom was accommodated so that the organisation of the Drawing Office and reproduction rooms were made as to staff, and new equipment required. In November, a Senior Technical Assistant from the Drawing Office was sent to the United Kingdom for a 6-month course in Cartography and drawing techniques.

The increase in IBUS from Norway and Denmark was much the same as for 1981, being approximately £250,000 against £190,000 in 1982.

The Department is due to relocate to the Lower Building in early 1984.

(iii) Hydrographic Research and Control Unit:

During 1983, as were evidenced by the death of Dr. M.J.B.Baldwin, Mr. Kendall the visit and directed to subsequently for 29 years. By the middle of the year, Mr. Ward had a new Director and other new staff, including the Queenstown electronic engineer, two new Technical Research Assistants and a Marine Biologist to head the Natural Resources Unit.

Overall, acoustic detections were lower in 1983 than any other year since records began in 1966. However, the main past species, the Sperm Whale Physeter, were more numerous than in 1982 and were seen from aircraft in more areas, particularly Norway Deep, Hatton and Rockall. There was a good sampling coverage for the whole right whale and underwater recordings, and most of the main army activity for most of the year. The previously recorded maximum was 261 groups for June 1981, but this is a minimum total capacity than the main playback. The Hebrides Basin-Lewis, where fishes were observed by the engines and Lewis. It was suspended in the United States of America and completed back at the end of November.

To summarise for the Ministry Aircraft, the schools received by engineers carried out are approx - twice as many as in 1982.

Physical research did not extend in 1983, no new ships were built. In the areas of chemical control, following the successful testing of Glutaraldehyde in 1982, the trade is now using this recommended preservative, in place of the very similar but more expensive Glyoxylate. Tests in 1983 and 1984, with the new Biological Processing Unit, were successful enough to warrant the publication of large amounts, to enable large scale testing in 1985.

The complex acoustic propagation problems of the Mediterranean areas of the United were considered in the course of the year, during which a total of 7,683 hours recording were made. A helium diver acoustic detection was used; during the fourth survey in the Bay Ship Bay area one was identified. Four dimensional to permanent modification combined, with 365 hours and 2,113 minutes noise signal during the year.

In the United Islands, Hydrographic Research and Control Unit staff accompanied to Aberdeen Local Director, seven full days Marine Mammal Observers were done of Local Authority. The team necessarily 172 Passing Flights in Daytime Time and 166 on Night Observ-

NOW I.S.SERVICES(INVING): and many not a complete training programme.

(iii) Housing Development Corporation

The Government agency recently changed portfolios and a new board was appointed for 1984. Policies of the Corporation have currently taken review.

Last year, a total of 42 loan applications were received, 11 of which were approved, amounting $788,000.

The two principles of the Corporation are financed by a combination of debentures issue and Government loans. Debentures are the major source of funds, the amount of Government loans being approximately $132,000.

(iv) Planning

A new Head of Department was appointed in early 1984, and recently, the Department has relocated to the Town Building. The Cayman office assisted to the Government Info in 1983 to prepare a program to physical planning, and a United Nations Volunteer.

The revision of the Development Plan 1977 was completed in 1983. The Lands Subdivision Permit introduced. Three amendments to the zoning map and three new zones have been included. This revised is expected to be presented to the Legislative Assembly in early 1985, for its review and approval.

A comprehensive review of the Development and Planning Regulations, 1977 is planned for 1985, to make them more effective. The newly formed Building Code Committee has given the responsibility of studying the adoption of a building code and some recommendations as to the type and content of such a code for the Cayman Islands will be made this year.

(v) Water Authority

During 1984, the Water Authority continued to pursue the long term goal of developing a public water supply and wastewater system.

Total government expenditure during 1983 was CI$188,747 which a capital expenditure of CI$187,341. Revenue for the year was CI$98,956.

1983 saw the first twelve months of continuous operation of the Water Filling Installation, with approximately 19,950,000 gallons of water being sold.

During the last two months of the year, the well field was operating at maximum capacity and was unable to satisfy demand. The high demand was caused by the inability of the Cayman Water Company to supply water to the industry. Water produced at Lower Valley was restricted during the latter part of the year.

Work on the initial well-field development, treatment works and reservoir at East End commenced in 1984. This project, which will produce approximately 300,000 gallons a day, was 80% complete by year end and is expected to be operational by mid-March, 1985. The cost of these works is expected to be less than CI$800,000.

The Authority continued to operate the water reticulation distribution system, with the installation of several pressure gauges on the lower

SOLID WASTE MANAGEMENT: Valley and East End Towns. Investigations into the extent of the dump problem, with the existing or suspected pollution and data produced indicated that the issue is a very visible source of threat which will probably produce more action than was initially expected.

During 1988, progress was made on the development of the West Bay Road sewerage. A decision was made in June on the location of the site for the sewerage treatment works. Much basic design data had to be collected and analysed, a task which was more difficult than first anticipated. A technical report on the project is nearing completion.

Negotiations took place with the Caribbean Development Bank and, based on a preliminary estimate of approximately US$10.0 million to complete the projects, a loan of US$7.0 million was approved by the Bank. A programme to complete the project by the end of 1991 has been implemented, which involves five phased project preparation and construction. The progress of this project has been much advanced by the arrival of Mr. Ivan Burton, a Digital Mapping expert. Government has also provided three other posts to work on this sewerage project.

The Authority continued to be assisted by the United Nations Caribbean Natural Resources and Development Project. The Authority participates on a joint cost sharing basis. During 1988, the contribution was CI$12,000, for which it received the services of two Associate Experts and some short term consultancy assistance.

It continued to co-operate with the Public Health Department in carrying out solid waste sampling programmes in George Town, Prospect Valley, East End and Cayman Brac. These programmes are ongoing and are carried out in each area at fortnightly intervals.

The Authority also continued to satisfy the statutory obligations in respect of the approval of sanitary facilities provided in new developments. It is hoped that, in 1989, these procedures will be computerised.

Among other staff changes, two young Caymanians joined the Authority, one as Trainee Lab Technician and the other as Trainee Draughtsperson.

Investigations into the use of Caribbean Utilities Company Ltd.'s waste heat to distill water and provide a supply to George Town is planned. The Authority is conscious of the lack of any alternative supply in Cayman Brac and it anticipates start in 1989, plans can be formulated to provide a service similar to that in Lower Valley, providing at least an emergency supply.

With respect to sewerage, the West Bay Road project will continue with an anticipated start of construction towards the end of the year.

(e) Health, Education and Social Services

(i) Health

The total expenditure on the Health Services in 1988 amounted to nearly $16 million. Of this amount, capital expenditure came to about half a million dollars. This was considerably less than expected, mainly because the new kitchen and meeting room facilities, mentioned in last year's address, was not yet fully completed. It is scheduled for completion this year. The dental clinic

[illegible] was presented and a sum for the dental service and purchase of two units [illegible] children [illegible] Grand Cayman. A dental clinic was established and equipped at East End."

The provision of a dental unit greatly improved facilities in the environmental health field. Less than anticipated was spent on medical equipment about $12,000, rather than $18,000, but the acquisition of an attachment to the previously donated operating microscope extended its use from ophthalmic to other specialties and reduced the need for overseas referrals in such conditions. Otolaryngology, urology and dermatology. The end of the year saw the Radiography Department at Grand Cayman and the new equipment, costing $5,931, enabling electrocardiograms and X-rays requiring the expertise of a specialist for interpretation to be transmitted to the United States of America for an immediate reading of the photos sent. As part of the X-ray machine, a modern fluoroscopic image intensifier and photocell was also purchased. This machine was installed in 1981. The recurrent expenditure for the X-ray Department - about $24,350 - was less than expected. It is hardly surprising that, by acquiring 7 additional examination tables, three mobile units of equipment and two persons in all sections of Grand Cayman [illegible] Staff Nurse at the Hospital.

During 1984, preliminary steps were taken to deal with the problem of patients' accounts that remain outstanding. These accounts have been entered into the Government computer system for the years from 1980 to 1983 inclusive. This action has produced knowledgeable data the same and has reduced the backlog of approximately 5,580 letters requesting payments. Given this help, along with better registration procedures and clearer policies with regard to Legal Assistance fees, further action is required, perhaps in 1985 should be given and the number of outstanding accounts fewer.

Recurrent expenditure is much the largest element in the health Services budget. In 1984, it exceeded $5 million. Of this sum, the largest single item was personal emoluments, over $3,700,000. Two Medical Officers were appointed by Junior Medical Officers in recognition of the doctors' expertise. Retirements and the length of Government service.

Three additional Staff Nurses and a Public Health Nurse were appointed and these, with several minor additions, increased the call to an increase in Health Services staff of only seven persons.

Given that all Government doctors carry out general medical duties, as well as fulfil their specialities, their number is kept about right. A second full-time Medical Officer was appointed in Cayman Brac.

Supplies constituted the next largest element in recurrent expenditure, over $700,000. Of that figure, about $220,000 was for drugs. The increase would go in the drugs bill is a constant source of anxiety. I have had talks of this situation many times with the Chief Medical Officer to encourage all medical staff to prescribe cheaper substitutes of the more expensive drugs; revision of a part of the written Internal Formulary so much doctors now have helpful to that

MOH,T,U:CCCC

MULTI-DISCIPLINARY CONSULTATIONS: Hospital medical staff have access to general medicine and also to the specialized fields of obstetrics and gynaecology, dentistry, ear-nose-and-throat diseases, tuberculosis, physiotherapy, child care, family health services, occupational problems and mentally retarded children.

Consultations at Hospital fields were permanently provided by individuals and teaching organizations and included ophthalmic care. Psychiatric services and problems were specialized by the Mental Clinic, and a clinic by Dr. D. Stein on respect of neuro-psychiatric conditions was sponsored by Schools.

The Government expenditure budget includes one item for 'drugs and dispensing'. For the first time a major offensive has been launched on this front, and the programme has been kept in mind including the replenishable warehouse. A workshop was held in June 1974 on the Uganda National Essential Drugs Programme sponsored by the Government and WHO/UNDP. Apart of the workshop, a Council on Mental Illness was established under the chairmanship of the Principal Secretary, Health, Education and Social Services with the Chief Medical Officer and also senior representatives from the Ministry, and Private Practice Organizations. Subcommittees were established under the chairmanship of Principal Administrators - one to study both psychiatric services and the other with drugs and dispensing. Representatives of service clubs and churches in the community were appointed to the two subcommittees to advise on the matters to be taken and to coordinate efforts. Expenditure on 'drugs and dispensing' in 1974 was less than Shs.800,000, mainly because a replenishable revolving account, on the programme had not yet been established. Shs.2,000,000 had been budgeted. The place of this should see the new policy-making developed in the drug and pharmaceutical fields and WHO in particular care.

The Primary Health Care programme for last year was also budgeted. However, the most key Primary facilities were expanded and doctors' visits increased to twice a week. A contractual midwife was employed for community health work.

The Public Health division was closely concerned with assessing the facilities provided in the district plans. The revised third procedure dispensary programme was executed in 1974 in association with Rotary. Three more 500 income was provided throughout of the facility. Special clinics, or maternity wards were established in Gulu Lira Hospital for the outpatient treatment of these conditions. In association with the Gulu Lodwar Medical and Social Society, a Breast Cancer Detection Week and a second Colon Cancer Screening Week were organized. The incidence of mentally retarded children in 1974 has given rise to concern, and the Child Medical Officer has arranged with the society to produce an educational programme in this field early in 1975. It is also worth mentioning that tetanus clinics were revived in 1974.

As appropriate in a Health Service budget, we come to the view of the Ministry, the finances and funding of the Gulu Medical Store are well known to all. In December, however, a 10 bedded maternity unit was established there in an extended part of Gulu Main Hospital. It is intended to maintain provisions of the acute bed shortage in the Hospital and provide accommodation for long-stay patients, plans as well as did, which in why to have been active, not a pandemic work with many unhappy endorsements, but in Rehabilitation Care Units. Work is going to be found in the place about of this long-awaited, much-needed accommodation.

MR. P.C. JEREMIAH (continuing):

(vii) Education

Personnel emoluments, approximately $8 million, account for 72% of the total expenditure on education. This is the level of expenditure on teachers, for the private schools, the problem of staff salaries is one of the most difficult situations they have to face. Fortunately, for many years, staff are motivated by factors of dedication rather than financial reward and this is what helps schools survive. Between 1981 and 1984, Government has allocated $50,000 per annum to the 2 graduate schools established on a pay-as-you-earn basis. The contribution of the private schools should not be underrated, because they provide schooling for more than 1,800 pupils, approximately 10% of the total school population of 2,284.

During the course of the last academic year, the missing units in the secondary schools were provided. The Middle School numbers rose to 814 and the High School to 883. Additional places in the experimental Junior (8) in the Cayman Islands Middle School and 100 in the Cayman Islands High School), it could be in 'scenario' and the unexpected digits that the public education system was probably occasioned by staffing problems because of a parents patron and the phasing out of the secondary system by another. It becomes increasingly clear that Government must consistently monitor the situation and be aware of the present expenditure of resources, any reasonable shift will have most serious consequences upon the government policies which cannot be presently envisaged, should they have them for normal development. Of particular concern is that building will in the Sister High School is 317 from 120 pins. This will necessitate a redeployment of staff before construction practice in unsatisfactory levels.

The total recurring costs are as follows:

Type of School	Population	Recurrent Expenditure, 1985	Annual cost Per pupil
Primary Schools (Grand Cayman)	950	$1,618,852	$1,427.4
Primary Schools (Sister Islands)	157	$ 782,309	$1,610.5
Secondary (CIHS)	858	$1,205,185	$2,290.6
	356	$ 435,720	$2,778.2
	814	$1,105,179	$1,358.4

A number of Members expressed the opinion that the continuing costs of implementation which presently amounts to $1/2 million per annum. One has to accept the commitment of recurring expenditure to the schools, but one questions whether additional expenditure by Government into a computerized system may not be

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY (CONTINUED): more beneficial on the long run and form the basis of a sciences-thinking nation.

At Cayenne Jalousie High School, the Department has concentrated on consolidation, but now the time has come to increase the output also from facilities which still consist of modifications to the former administrative offices, which themselves were modifications of a canteen.

It would seem that a double storey block on the top side of the playground, adjacent to the Catholic School, would be an appropriate site. It is planned that the building include - music teaching rooms, a study hall, a reference, a library room and appropriate changing and ablutions. It is intended however by the teaching staff.

Further, it would be appropriate to build one small dorm room for the Nursery group, for which facilities are required; presently, only one of the two 'nursery' groups has a creative-play room.

At the Middle School, improvement in 1986 has been on the waste ground and the labour-force. With the balance of funds, the foundations for a multi-purpose hall were laid. It is hoped that this will be completed during the early part of 1987. It remains for a library to be built to replace the existing classrooms which have been adapted. The 'prefabs', in their present state, are unsuitable as classrooms, and it is hoped that various adaptations will be effected so that they may serve as canteens in the poorer areas of the world. At present, the spaces are unsuitable, but the vagaries of the weather have rendered their effectiveness questionable.

The earthquake in work in the Salem Secondary School is still outstanding. Quite clearly, this problem is one to which we should address ourselves and this is done by offering primarily administrative to those teaching subjects, and by establishing 'workshops' to upgrade teaching skills. The estimate given for this project which is known as Special Education, and includes the Learning Centre, including the services of the Department's trades. The workshops were staffed by United States personnel from various educational establishments in Florida.

Projects funding for 1987:

(i)	Workshops	$ 90,000
(ii)	Special Education	65,000
(iii)	Training of Teachers	80,000
		$371,700

The Teachers' Centre, which is presently being constructed, will be attached to the Youth Building.

(iii) Social Services

Changes with the new appointment of Social Services in 1986.

There are three departments, one being a Deputy Director's post, allowing for a greater emphasis on the administration work of the Department and thereby a strengthening of the infrastructure.

The role of the Department has heightened considerably with the relocation to the Assembly premises.

MR. SPEAKER (HAMILTON): Queen Building on North Church Street, where many of you have taken your undergraduate and graduate work with us.

Queen's University has announced, recently, a most important fund-raising effort in support of its many different types of activity, from student aid to new chairs to all people. This system has also given the total number of students using the Department's services and will allow for more comprehensive planning in 1985. Also in discussions on activity as well as programming.

It also continues on their work, Speaker Harry Hotzel for a point [illegible] Lou Jacobs Housing Scheme. This Scheme would allow the Department to [illegible] some of their housing needs and to this end, one unit was completed in 1984. It is worthy to note that 1984's overall budgetary figure shows a 6% increase over 1983, particularly in the provision of [illegible] services to the public.

As we look forward to 1985, the Department recognizes a clear need for an increase in [illegible] to provide a more comprehensive programme of core work services, specifically in the area of [illegible] and family work.

Additionally, the Department seeks to establish a multi-purpose self help project which will, among other things, increase the skill level of many of the citizens, thereby placing them in the job market and minimizing their dependency on Government.

(f) Tourism, Aviation and Trade

Mr. Speaker, I have already spoken on the subject of tourism and have [illegible] points and other details therefore, I will not be repetitious and move directly to the other departments of the portfolio.

(i) Civil Aviation

To serve adequately users, visitors and the general public, the staff of the Civil Aviation Department will [illegible] for the formation of Weather [illegible] Station for clearer briefing and also for [illegible] Security Officers to come with the Larger Terminal Building coming into operation in 1985.

179 arriving people travelled through Grand Bahama Airport and 5,258 more through the Bernard Heigh Airport than the previous year, recording in 306,385 arrivals and 298,372 departures for Grand Cayman and 17,975 arrivals and 18,499 departures for Cayman Brac.

Income was up from $[illegible] to $2,804,210 and expenditure from $[illegible] to $1,151,449.

In addition to scheduled services provided by Cayman Airways, Executive Airlines and Air Jamaica, the Islands continued to be serviced with chartered flights from the United States and other Caribbean Countries. The new jetty [illegible] by Cayman Airways and Cayman Airways were maintained in December, and a new service on the same basis was also introduced from Chicago.

A charter service has also been authorized for flights between Cuba, Honduras, and Grand Cayman. It commenced in September, 1984 and the services is operated by Leeds [illegible] Aviation, utilizing flight crew employed Airways supplemented by LACSA. In this the first operation by Cayman Airways to Cayman Brac was suspended because of necessary [illegible] ...weeks restrictions, and it was found necessary to grant permits to local people to enable them to travel to Ireland. The last permits were withdrawn on December, 1984, at which time special permits to Irish hotels were withdrawn.

Executive Air Services maintained their pharmacy/flight medical operations including Aeromaintenance BAi and CAA checks for engineers and test flights for training.

Four Air Traffic Control Assistants attended basic ATC training in November during 1984 and are presently undergoing local on the job training, to qualify for local postings at the Civil Aviation Authority Airports. They will replace experienced staff now filling these posts on successful completion of training.

Total traffic handled increased by 11% to 10,888 with only one aerodrome recorded. On 23rd March, 1984, the Tower Commander, assisted by the Aerodrome Manager and Control Unit, crashed on the Aerodrome after take-off with a flock of wild ducks, but no one was injured.

In December, Arch and Godfrey completed the main contract on the new terminal building and handed over the facility to the Civil Aviation Department. The building and the facilities were formally opened on 25th January, 1985.

During 1984, the Terminal Area Terminal Building was expanded by almost 100% to accommodate peak period traffic of 2000-3000 passengers. A programme of runway rehabilitation was introduced in September to resurface the first 6,000 feet of the runway and in November, the first section was reintroduced between Cayman Brac and Grand Cayman and Miami.

The Meteorological Recording Systems were installed during 1984, one at each aerodrome. Every three hours Meteorologists and Air Traffic Controllers watch weather data for dissemination to aeronautical personnel.

It was a good year for civil aviation and will undoubtedly be recorded in history as a significant step forward.

(iii) Fire Service

The year 1984 saw a 29.42% increase in the number of calls for assistance received and attended by the Fire Service. The Department carried out to a total of 222 calls.

Fire personnel in multi-storey office buildings, condominiums, restaurants and other establishments premises. Thankfully, these incidents were brought under control quickly, thereby minimizing damage.

The Department also received a number of persons from unmanned vehicles and assisted the Hospital Ambulance Service when requested.

I am pleased to report that there were no fire related fatalities or major injuries.

Fire Prevention officers have a major part of the service provided by the Brigade and during the year, all major buildings and high risk installations were inspected.

Training continued to play a major role and in addition to local training programmes, two officers successfully completed a course at Fire Fighting and Prevention Centre in the United Kingdom.

MOR P.C.[illegible] (CONTINUED): A new Airport Crash Tender for Seaforth Strip Airport was commissioned in February 1984 and Kirkby Control Airport received a small Fire Fighting Unit.

The Government's Communication System was expanded by the addition of new radios, a paging system and a 150' tower for the placement of antennas and repeaters.

A new Fire Station was opened at Frank Sound during the latter part of 1984 and is now providing fire cover, on a 24 hour basis, to residents of the outer districts.

(iii) Labour

During 1984, two Labour Offices continued to deal with job placements and the handling of minor labour disputes, which were mostly resolved through meetings organized by the office between the employee and employer.

A recent labour survey was conducted throughout Owen Cayman, and Cayman Brac, by visits to the various districts. This survey, the first of its kind, revealed that as of mid February, 1985, there were 856 persons unemployed, the majority of whom were semi skilled labourers. The Labour Office has since been successful in placing some of these persons. Efforts will continue to be concentrated on making the public more aware of the services offered by the Labour Office in its effort to provide employment for those Caymanians seeking jobs.

(g) Communications, Works and District Administration

(i) Postal Services

In January, 1984 was a modest increase in sixth of the postage rates, which has resulted in an increase of revenue over 1983.

This Government is indeed grateful for the services of Mr. Jimmy Ebanks, who put the Post Office on a sound footing during his 2 years term. On 1st March, 1984, Miss Cynthia Stanley assumed the duties of Postmaster General.

Additional post offices have been established for five of the districts, i.e. Bodden Town, North Side and East End. Additional boxes will be installed on West Bay this year. The new Post Offices at both should be operational in March, 1985.

(ii) District Administration

The past year was a significant one for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman with the economy taking a downturn resulting from the cut back in employment by Cayman Energy. Unemployment and the suspension of jet service by the National Flag Carrier, which resulted in many cancellations at the Islands' hotels and a high degree of unemployment. However, with the reactivation of the Seaford Strip early and the building of a jetty in Little Cayman, much needed employment was created.

Capital Works Programme at a cost of CI$2,828,460 was carried out in the two Sister Islands of which CI$1,?20 and CI$?16,?20 were spent on the Seaford Strip runway and the Little Cayman dock respectively. Other projects were:

a) resurfacing of two miles of road on the south coast
b) reconstruction of sidewalk at the Creek
c) surveying of the Bluff Road
d) additions to three primary schools and the High School Campus.
e) the installation of street lamps and reconstruction of sidewalk at Point Hospital.
f) completion of the High School Auditorium.

The Ports Authority completed the rehabilitation of lighters at the dock, which now enable ships to work at night, if necessary.

The reconstruction of jetty decayed in late December, 1984, is likely to result in increased traffic to Cayman Brac and stimulate the economy.

(iii) Public Works

The recurrent expenditure of the Department totalled $2.9 million while the 1985 capital works programme included roads, civil engineering and reconstruction of new buildings at a cost of approximately $2.3 million.

Roads

Phased reconstruction was carried out throughout the Island at a cost of approximately $255,000. While no new roads were constructed, there was approximately 12,000 feet of sidewalk reconstructed along Walkers Road and the West Bay Road.

Buildings

Reconstruction on the south wooden building and washing room facilities for the George Town Hospital commenced in May, 1984, and is anticipated for completion in May, 1985. The projected cost is $1,334,000 which includes a staff and outpatient's care block.

Renovations to the Dental and Maternity Clinics commenced and will cost approximately $90,000. The buildings should be completed early this year.

Schools

Several buildings, toilet blocks, and shelters, staff rooms, health rooms, changing rooms, playing fields, and perimeters of four primary schools were completed in 1984, at a cost of $510,000.

The additional classrooms plus other improvements to the Lighthouse School, were completed at a cost of $100,000.

Renovations to the High School assembly hall, library, new administrative units and reconstruction of walkways were carried out at a cost of $181,000.

The addition of a music block, two classes and cafeteria rooms at the Middle School completed in 1984. In addition, construction commenced on a primary building, an assembly hall, theatre and recreation facilities in 1985, at a total cost of $600,000 under $215,400 being spent in 1984.

Work commenced on the Sports and Cultural Complex in 1984. As previous, the parking area is 90% complete and the grass pitch and water systems are 80% complete. The amount expended in 1984 was $190,000.

Construction commenced on the new

USA D.C. PROJECTS/ACTIVITIES): planning of permanent housing for Inuvik shops.

Five flour bins are now being designed by an engineering firm from New Zealand. It is planned to place three bins in Bonne Bay and one in West Bay. The project should be completed before this year.

1982 AND BEYOND

Mr. President, the Scotsman Adam Smith once said 'the only good budget is a balanced one'. Mr. President, among this estimates the 1986 budget is a good one; it is $1986.7 million, an increase of $182.8 million over the approved 1985 Budget.

The operational estimates for 1986 is $650.4 million, an increase of $4.4 million, or 8.1% over the 1985 approved budget which provides a $2.8 million contribution from the General Revenue to enable the funding of ongoing and new capital projects. Non-renewable resources provide $1.6 million and loan funds $2.8 million. Locally raised sums of ordinary revenue for 1986 in relation to the level of expenditure indicated a substantial shortfall. It was at this stage that the question was closely examined in all areas of expenditure to determine where Capital Expenditure and New Revenues could be cut, as well as the introduction of new economic measures.

The estimated ordinary Revenue Expenditure is $564 million, an increase of $37.8 million or 6.8% over the 1985 estimates. Estimated Statutory Expenditure is $41.5 million which includes pensions and repayments of loans and interest. New Revenue proposals total $1,411,000 bringing the total to $564.4 million.

Capital Expenditure is estimated at $8.4 million, comprised of Local financing of $1.5 million and loan funds of $6.9 million. This programme of works covers all major services and development projects, primarily those that are ongoing and affords priority to others. It will include:

a) the Water and Sewerage Project
b) the Corner Brook Airport Terminal
c) the Sports and Cultural Centre and Parks
d) Boat End Wharf Centre
e) School Buildings at Middle School and High School in Grand Falls and in Corner Brook

New Revenues

In previous years, the majority of new revenue measures largely affected the affluent citizens and not pensioners. We should always bear in mind that the Cabinet Colleagues have many competitions with other financial claims and cannot continually continue to increase fees, lest we lose our competitive edge.

The imposition of indirect taxation affecting the general public of these Islands, although viewed as an unpopular matter by most who receive only small to the poor and wealthy, served the Cayman Islands well, as the absence of the more equitable taxes. This is almost unanimous since income tax, is most crucial as offshore financial centre here and is, consequently, responsible for the cultivation and growth of the industry.

This year the local revenue has

Motel Licence

Motel licences have been available since 1974 and 1977.

I will briefly outline the new provisions:

Motel Licence

The Liquor Act of 1975 requires establishments currently to operate on obtain a Hotel licence. The fee, which has been in effect since 1974, is to be between which a minimum of $200.

It is proposed to raise the fee to $10 per bedroom and a minimum of $1200.

Stamp Duty

The purchase of land in an agreement in the Capital Territory has caused Governments some concern for some time, because it is possible that the original purchaser can assign the property many times, before it is finally registered and stamp duty paid. It is therefore that there is a loss of public revenue by this loophole in the law.

It is proposed to acquire an assignments be registered whether a transaction to contract for sale or not.

The cost of a stamp has been $.05 since 1975, and it is now proposed to increase it to $.10.

Liquor Licence

Liquor licensing in Canberra differs from other Territories and a hotel's ability can limit the available from $6,000 - $3,000 depending on the size of the accommodation and the location.

It is proposed to change a flat fee of $195 for each agreement. Perhaps consideration should also be given for the fee to apply at the first transfer of the agreement.

The annual renewal fee for a liquor licence has been unchanged for this type of business for many years. Taking into account the present boundary of certain categories and a liquor licence, the following increases are proposed:

a) Distribution for wholesale from $400 per annum to $2,000 per annum
b) Brewers from $300 per annum to $2,000 per annum
c) Restaurant from $200 per annum to $500 per annum
d) Hotel
   Where each hotel has an increase or less from $400 per annum to $2,000 per annum where each hotel has more than seventy bedrooms from $400 per annum to $2,000 per annum
e) Temporary from which the fee for annual licence is $200 per annum
f) Restaurants from $200 per annum to $750 per annum
g) Wine and beer to $500 per annum
h) Issue of occasional licence from $10 per day to $50 per day

Clubs, as at present, should pay fifty percent of a,b,d and f above.

Charges

The postage box in the third schedule of the Charges Act has been $.10 since 1976, and it is now proposed to increase it to $.20.

The duty on the registration of cigarettes has been $2 per 1,000 for some years and it is proposed to increase it to $10 per 1,000.

SOCIAL SECURITY (CONTRIBUTIONS) In 1992, an amendment was made to the Social Security Act (Second Revision), allowing those over 55 years to be imposed duty free. The intention was to allow all those over 55 year working since they were young to qualify for duty free status.

The proposed amendments do not put the matter right.

Manufacturing now charged at the Customs Warehouse, located at Duty Relief Airport, this will then be moved for manufacture, to a number of named, places from the Apia in Kanada, Whitlingy and Pance.

It is proposed to introduce there to be six per week there charged at the Customs Town Hall Warehouse.

We recently in the Use to also removed while making the above mentioned proposals for new revenue.

CONCLUSION

Mr.President, Gibraltar have been throughout history a friendly and hospitable people, where only task is the opportunity to maximise on these talents and for every one to benefit from it.

We should all be cognisant of the social balance in these Islands and devote ourselves to preserving the heavily we all cherish.

There are many who from standpoint should with every effort to maintain the wonderful, social climate in which we live.

Mr.President, acknowledge things is taking place in the international business world, and all of we have to focus on it and almost our total practice, to ensure that the Cayman Islands' future economic development continues. There is no doubt, Mr.President, to turn our attention in any other direction, just the world pass us by.

There is no doubt in my mind, Mr. President, that the Cayman Islands is one of the most professed offshore financial centres, and as such, in my view, on the threshold of great things for these Islands and our people, but we need to communicate to the world around us, that we have this opportunity.

Mr.President, I recommend the Appropriation Bill, 1995, providing an estimated sum of $87,192,200 to Government, Capital and Development in 1995. Excluded from this bill are the statutory provisions already approved amounting to $2,282,193. The estimated expenditure is, therefore, $80,888,693.

Thank you,Mr. President,

Mr. President, I move that the debate on the Budget Address be adjourned until Monday, 20th March, 1995.

MR. SPEAKER: Mr. Speaker, just on a point of order, is it anticipated that the debate on the Throne Speech and the Budget Speech will be one debate? Because if that is so, I would prefer you to Standing Order, I believe it is 28 (1) that deals with the matter of relevancy. They are two separate things, one is a bill and one is a motion and in the Standing Order there are separate provisions for dealing with them and I think we should have separate debates. I would suggest that the motion that the debate on the Budget Address adjourned after the debate on the Throne Speech. The Standing Order to which I refer is ....

HON. [illegible]: So 28 (1) I suppose.

MR. SPEAKER PRO TEM: Yes, Sir.

MR. FRIESEN: I am ashamed that it has been the practice of this House for many years that Private Members' Public Bills are dealt with after Government Business has concluded, to debate them and this has happened four years ago and it happened eight years ago.

The Honourable Member, as you may recall from that the reason that was thought that that was a practice which should be followed again, since, in both cases, the nature of the debate is very wide-ranging and Members who have no desire to raise issues may proceed to do so. I do not, myself, feel that it will shortchange the rights of Members if the two bills are simultaneously debated, provided that is the will of the House.

The Honourable Government House Leader, I think, is due to be back on Monday and there will be an opportunity for Members to consider the matter then but from the moment, I see that housekeeping between now and then is the unanimous Third Official Member intended by moving the Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill that ended the speech by moving a debatement of the debate and if I put the question, I see not but some which question I should be putting.

I should then be very receptive the matter if I may that, subject to confirmation when the House considers the Business Committee's Report and recommendation, I anticipate that the debate on the Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill will take place on Wednesday, which I think is correct the point. I think we both got to carry this morning, and that's satisfactory I will. If I may, adjourn proceedings. I hope you will note that point. Because I have there and some other that need to be taken later on this. Thank you.

HOUSE ADJOURNED 12:45 p.m.

HOUSE RESUMED 2:00 p.m.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.

MR. ATTORNEY-GEN: Mr. Speaker, the Government intends to proceed, Sir, but I might have a Ministerial statement first.

MR. SPEAKER: Is there unanimous consent to hear the statement?

MR. MINISTER OF HIGHWAYS: The Minister of Highways.

MR. TRAPP: Order, order.
The Gasoline Amendment Act, 1988, Second Reading.

The Gasoline Amendment Act, 1988

Hon. Minister

MR. CLERK: The Gasoline Amendment Act, 1988.

MR. SPEAKER: The Bill was introduced a while for a time to debate the Gasoline and Diesel Fuel Tax Act and it was given Second Reading.

SECOND READING

THE CLERK: The Customs (Amendment) Bill, 1985.

HON. ERSKINE C. SANDISON: Mr.President, I move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled A BILL for a law to amend the Customs Law (Second Revision).

The object of the bill, Mr.President, as outlined earlier in the Budget Address, is to amend and to restrict the penalty in the Law and to increase duty on cigarettes, and package tax from ten cents to fifty cents.

There are small increases, Mr.President and should not cause any great burden to any of our people.

We have, from time to time, made attempts not to increase taxes, but it is inevitable, Mr.President, that the day will come, and it has, that certain taxes need to be raised.

The penalty under the Customs Law is dealing with the cigarettes which traditionally is a quarter of the cigarette to be charged for the cigarette-packing freight charge. This creates many problems administratively for the Customs Department by first having to decide what is the particular size by law and necessary to do the calculations, and that is the calculations.

Perhaps if we take a look at the cost of each cigarette we would find that we should have done this some years ago, Mr.President. The cost of duty - $5 per thousand or $10 per thousand for cigarettes is small and for those who are happy to smoke should not think that too much money for each package of cigarettes.

In regards to the package tax, for cents is so small, Mr.President, that it has very little to any duty of the work such if you have to pay attention. The need it takes a few dollars to give them, even though to the newly stamps in the increase from ten cents to fifty cents is absolutely insignificant in my mind.

I ask the Honourable Members' support of the Bill.

MR. SPEAKER: The question before the House is that a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to Amend the Customs Law (Second Revision) be given a second reading. The question is open for debate. If no Member wishes to speak, I will put the question.

MR. CLAIRE WILSON: Mr.Speaker, I am against the Bill which is before the House simply because the Bill causes to strike at the local population and, in fact, page 21 of the Estimates sets up the position of this Bill very clearly when it says "The Local regulations are being requested to contend with the additional revenue".

The position is that, although it is a very minor piece of legislation, the fact is that since the income direction it seems like every effort has been made to squeeze every penny that can be squeezed out of the local people.

Dealing with the main item of the Bill, I must say that I am totally against this. Clause 2 would delete sub-section (7) of section 21 of the old law, that section was put into the law many years ago when the Belmont first started to import goods by air. The reason why that section was put into the law because it was found that when goods were brought in by air and the consignee or the importer had to pay the duty on the air freight, the cost of the items became so excessive that the items

MR. SMITH (Ocean Township): could not be sold on the local market, that section 27 of the old Act for the purpose of determining the terms of goods whose carriage has been imported by ship, there should be substituted for the actual air freight charged, the freight which would have been charged if such goods had been imported by sea or a sum equal to one-quarter of the air freight whichever is the greater. So that this means that if an article was brought in by air freight and the air freight on that article was $100 the importer would not pay duty on $100 freight, he would simply pay duty on $25 or one-quarter of the air freight, recognizing the air freight was greater than the sea freight, and I think in 99 cases out of 100 you will find that the air freight is always more than the sea freight. While going above, Sir, because with the advent of the Arpels and containers, it was only taken necessary to bring in heavy food items by sea, for example - I have in the shelves merchants were always bringing in potatoes and onions by air freight because at that time the sea freight, shipping, was sometimes irregular, sometimes were delays and so on and in many instances the freight sent was brought by boat would sometimes arrive in poor condition.

In an item such as fishing nets, you find this is like a book of cotton, one may find that the air freight on that item would possibly be as much as the original cost of the item, and we make the same representation with manufacturers brought in by sea the Government of the day, in their wisdom, decided that sub-section 2 put it there in that the merchants or anybody bringing a package in, would not pay the freight duties on the freight, they would simply pay twenty-five percentum of the value of the freight. To remove this from the law would effect every person, every resident of those Islands because so many items are brought in by air, foodstuffs, meats, vegetables, ice-cream and the people who consume these items, which would increase the cost of living and the cost of foodstuffs in the Islands which are brought in by air would rise considerably.

If to each for words of the person had to bring in a small package, because the airlines have minimum rates for packages under a certain weight and if a person brought in a small package as I have seen happening, from a few destinations, like Toronto or Chicago or Philadelphia, you might find that the air freight on a very small package might be $50 or $100 so a minimum rate from one destination to another.

I know what I am talking about because I experience this every day in the package section, and if we get an item from Detroit for which can be had to our nearest wholesale house from Hollywood, the air freight on that little package could well be in excess of $100; if the person was paying an ordinary duty on the basis, he would have to pay $50 duty just on the freight alone, if he paid on the full freight, while, if he paid on only 25 per centum he would pay $25. So this cannot be removed, and I would certainly like to know the reaction of the merchants who today in Newfoundland like airlines and packages and brokers - how they will react if they have to pay the duty on the full freight paid by air. So I cannot agree with the moves the merchants have made in this and should have kept quiet and removed the words duty, because the need for having this section in the Act is much more necessary today than it was back in the nineteen or the seventies when the Act was first introduced. So the removal of this section from the Law which would take the air portion of the freight into the full freight on the carriage brought in by air would have an advantage to the importer in that he would pay duty on the full freight

MR. O'HARA (CONSERVATIVE) : I do not mind saying that it is a fact that sometimes by going in by boat on much of the permeable range on this map, but one has to remember that it is not always possible. Taking for a month's supply because the weather may not have the average and even if we had the average some of these areas do not have very long, particularly these like Durham. If you are going to spend £1 for a hotel bedroom, the taxi-fare extra, and luggage, to get there tomorrow, the atmosphere will have to be very much to continue to have to pay that. What is even more important is that one which the shopkeeper may need is a thing, because the merchant or the person wanting the item might be put to a position where he would have to share some new certain business, if he could not get the item readily.

I appreciate what the hon. Member for Rochdale (Mr. Greenwood) said with the statement of the Budget that they are going to impose anything they can squeeze out of the rural person this hard nosedness - those are the exact words that being explained by socialist, but in fact this is not what is happening. Only the rich are being squeezed to pay, as the President, I think I agree with the remark of Anti-Semitism [?] that section 21 of the Customs Bill, because this would increase the price of living to every person in this Island by a substantial amount.

The part of the Bill is equally as bad. There is an increase of £2 per thousand on cigarettes. Tobacco, like most of daily items is gone thousand up to 21/2. Now I am not going to argue against this increment because it is not a very large one; it will work out to 2d per pack throughout on a pack containing 20 cigarettes, so the actual price would not rise by more than about 2d, if you put on additional 4d. I am concerned about cigarettes because I am told that the Scotch and Welsh Members are here to have a packet published that every year 6,000 people die in the United Kingdom from lung cancer of which many people, who smoke. But, nevertheless, for the fact that there is an increase of 2d per pound, since the departure of the cigarettes will rise. So make him pay it or the part the member will have to make his profit on it and the manufacturer will have to pay the 2d to the Exchequer and be in the only increase in the Bill that I would vote in favour of.

The next amendment in the Bill is perhaps much worse than the one to which the Budget is to be introduced on 11th April and that is the one which will increase the postage from 2½d. to 3d. per hundred pounds, and if one examines the original Act, one will see that the original Act makes it clear that this package tax is not only merely just hundred pounds but it would for a part thereof, as, regardless of how small the package is it would have a cost of, at least 3d. per package, if the package was less than one hundred pounds. And here I wish to deal with small packages because there are many people like any Army friends, Navy friends, that come in packages of one dozen per package and it would on this amendment appear, the result would be that if you complete in a little package something like a woven baby carrier, you would have to increase of 3d. on a dozen packs, which sometimes cannot if you have not to attach it by 12 bill on the cost of one letter basis of 3d. per item, and that is only the cost of the Government's commission, the shopkeeper who brought in the package will have to make his profit on the of that. The criticism is that we would still have to make his profit on the 4½ plus nothing i pounds .... the pounds that the wholesaler would have again you are looking at a cost increase on any little package, one little bubble, one little paper mache or nightdress it may be of 3d. Even again this report quite disturbance of this country, but it does look like waste written. In the Budget today that the local authorities

MR. C. PATE HOLDEN (CONSERVATIVE): being empowered to legislate with the additional powers and duties to be granted, are hardly competent to pay it the consideration it deserves. I entirely agree with that - it seems that most of the Bill and perhaps might not deem too much of your time dealing with Lands Committee.

When there is still another amendment which is equally as complicated as the others I have dealt with and that is the amendment which would remove duties to be paid on lands where Temple Estates have entered under their own powers. Now we have been told by the Minister of the Bill that it was the intention when the original exemption was made that the exemption should apply to those that were in order that the powers only apply to houses of 25 feet or less. But I do not know where he got his information from, the information certainly does not come from the Bill and I imagine he is just expressing his opinion. However, regardless of what the intention of the people who put the first amendment might have been, the present situation is that small houses, houses under 25 feet in length of they were to, are not available, and here the amendment within this Bill proposes would raise ninety-nine per cent of them available, because you will have many few houses 25 feet in length owning to them, making the provisions already there wherever the houses had been brought.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think the honourable member must speak under 25 feet, that is the effect of the law.

MR. CHARLES BOWEN: The section reads "Houses, houses and such other parts where lengths exceeds 25 feet inclusive from the external corner to the corner and of the terrace and who inclined to the inland under their own power". Those houses exceeding 25 feet would have no exemption if they were under their own power, but if they came on trucks or anything else under the Bill they would have been a different story. As I cannot agree with that I say - it is a bad law. I have there an example shown on the Members of Government L... Instance the Budget and I will be dealing with that on the debate on the Budget, but there are other ways, apart altogether the Bill-inland out of the Inner Harbour. The best way to illustrate that is where or the best way to solve problems is to illustrate the case by that some people come in and there will be no need to investigate with the inconvenience method of collecting taxes. Suppose on going that come by car or boats that come under their own power or a little package of goods. There are other ways of getting the revenue - the purpose of this Bill is to raise revenue - it is not, as I was led to believe on my first reading, that any part of it was simply to remove an anomaly on the Law but the only possible or unfortunate answer - we are not removing an anomaly - this is not an anomaly - this is a necessity to make the goods correspondent with go to Darwin the on other trade. So I submit however this Bill which, in effect, removes completely one anomaly that perhaps was - which it is thought to remove, is more like the tax on importation - it is going to affect every time you purchase them, you will have the pipe and then pay many more times of percentage this same percentage that will apply to every article which you buy. If you thought one hundred articles you would have to pay on all of them, so. Mr. President, I think I have only one more. But that note will be some important this Bill.

MR. [illegible]: ... Mr. President, one thing in addition, and I would like to know the suspension of Standing Order 10 (3), so that we might sometime for a little [illegible].

MR. PRESIDENT: Thank you. I imagine you are moving it in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 47 and that the motion be that Standing Order 10 (3) be suspended to enable us to sometime this debate on this Bill and indeed to continue until the time on today's Order Paper have been dealt with.

Does any Member wish to speak to that? The Hon'ble Minister for Water Affairs.

MR. JAMES M. MUTHUTHI: Mr. President, I would like to support the Motion. Today is the first day of the opening of this Parliament and by what I have right now known to attend to, I am sure we will be here for the next five or six weeks. Mr. Speaker Sir has not been to complete anything today. Besides that, I, for one, and I do not know how many others Members, that I just got my papers on these Bills today and I would like a little bit of chance to analyse them in this case of the used and everybody has [illegible] of the House to attend to, I am sure, and I think we should take that consideration before we go on any longer this evening.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think it is the reasonable position of the House and of every other House to deal with previous necessary business before the Budget and to deal with them the same day. If there is an opportunity that can become any matter of they are not dealt with that day.

MR. JAMES M. MUTHUTHI: Mr. President, I am sure we can [illegible] to pass this today, unless you will insist to stay until midnight, because I am prepared, when I get up, to talk very long, if I have to, Sir.

MR. [illegible]: I have a [illegible] which I consulted myself to help tonight. It is one of the members [illegible] on a [illegible] thereby [illegible], and this would affect the schedule of I have to remain here much longer but I would also like to say that today is Friday - it is the end of the week - where one may [illegible] things that one would like to finish off. Today, being the first day of the House, and we are talking as I can't see more ways, I do not see the necessity for sending this Bill, particularly since it has only been presented to us this morning.

MR. F. WAMALWA KISIU: Mr. President, we are here commanding the people's confidence, [illegible] personal business and this other things that we have finished what we have been elected to do. I think that Members will carry on, Sir.

MR. [illegible]: I think I must only be the third [illegible] Member to guide me. If there is indeed no good reason for us to move to complete these Bills today and to take the first, Second and Third Stages, Committee stage and Third, until we know then it may be that Members will decide that there is no need to [illegible] Standing Orders and to continue now, and then the Bills can be dealt with the Order Paper for another day. But if some reason is that for certain reasons it is essential that they be passed today, then I think I must put the question that Standing Orders to suspended and it will, if necessary, be for the House to vote on that question.

SENATOR JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I think in the event of the Chairman will be particular, he is justified to try to finish it off this afternoon.

MR. PRESIDENT: How about the other one?

SENATOR JEFFERSON: The other one, I think, can wait.

MR. PRESIDENT: Well, in that case I will put the question from Standing Order 10 (3), if I've got the right Order...

SEN. F.S. JEFFERSON: 10 (3).....

MR. PRESIDENT: 10.....

SEN. F.S. JEFFERSON: (3)

MR. PRESIDENT: Sorry.....?.....?

SEN. F.S. JEFFERSON: (3).

MR. PRESIDENT: 10 (3) be suspended to enable the consideration of business connected with the Customs Bill. Will those in favour please say aye?

SOME MEMBERS: Aye.

MR. PRESIDENT: Those against nay?

SOME MEMBERS: Nay.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think the ayes have it.

SENATOR B. MOSELY: Mr. President, I would like to be assured, I do not want that we have going on later than 4.30 and I have an appointment at five minutes.

MR. PRESIDENT: Any Member who needs to leave should do so.

In that case, I declare that Standing Orders have been suspended and that the Senate may continue.
Does any further Member wish to speak?

SEN. JAMES M. SOUMAH: I would just like to have how long we plan to continue, Sir?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think we plan to continue until the Bill has been either passed or defeated, and that means considering through all stages. That is my understanding of the debate which the Chief Opposition Senator gave, and my understanding of the vote is that the Senate has accepted that. Does any Member wish to speak? Then I will invite...

SEN. JAMES M. SOUMAH: Mr. President, we are beginning the debate on the financial provision of this country in this Senate, we also have some Senate Bills that have to be debated, and the little I have seen of it so far, I would refer to this as the round-about budget of 1983.

The budget that is presented to Sierra Leone looking ours - they have objected that the policy of Government in the past which has to make it as easy as possible on the people who inhabit and live in this country.

MR. JAMES M. BOSLEY (CONTINUING): The point might have been really decisive. The point that affects the rest of the street. All of a sudden, we have these people who are going to be chosen by all procedure, and they are presenting a letter which has to be balanced by taking into account of reasons which they told us that there was no money in reserve, and they played every game that might be played with figures. And now it's make it.....

MR. SPEAKER: Please sit down. The honourable Member must not impute dishonourable motives to others and, in my view, it is unparliamentary to continue that sort of letting pass, which is what I understood him to say. If you said that, it must be withdrawn.

MR. JAMES M. BOSLEY: If you take it that 'pass' is unparliamentary, that is the way they manipulated them, but I mean by the other words to avoid a name.

We have heard every story told and we have seen every figure given in order to create confidence on the part Government and to say that the economy was sound. I will deal with that at an appropriate time when I intend to speak about these things on it. But today we will deal with this so-called economy.

I remember saying that in the days when we were supposed to have no money Government provided the officers of this country that we should have that stop book into power given by and paid out to old Lo that was made to help the people of this country and try to balance the budget by the few measly dollars that they will make in this way.

I can not say whether the company is in agreement to the duty on air-freight or is it the Government of Guyana, but I imagine that the airport do, so that now that the ordinary public will pay duty, not only on the cost of the goods, but also on the full cost of the telephone, plus the insurance cost, and so forth and so on where we will be paying much more duty than possibly in many cases, since the imports will be worth double, because airfreight is fairly expensive. Even second, I am sure the air-freight would be at least 200 per pound.

Many of the road users consumer in this country, Mr.Speaker, have to be people in my view. Even we are having our figures on sounds, Sunday the economy is booming, and yet the people who will have to bring in the necessities, daily foods, their milk products, and their daily groceries in many households, by cars, will now have to pay, not only the duty, but the duty on the full amount of that air-freight, which is going, in many cases, to increase the amount that would have been paid on duty before, by three hundred per cent. Like is going to affect the ordinary public tremendously and shows us no guiding hand that is, Mr.Speaker. People have to suffer to bring goods by air. What would happen to the business industry if the people were to dwindle, so, they are now going to bring the foodstuff anymore by the planes, because of the duty they are going to bring it by boat. How long you think you would have your business?

Yet it is here today that we have wrongful plans to increase taxation - wrongful plans to make it much worse than it ever was before. Yet the final stroke of the pen is to have it.

Now, let us further show that, Mr. Speaker, and look at the little here in the store, where we find the additional penny cut of the air freight charges, it causes us to go to the stores and pay the added amount that he will now have to pay because his

MR TOKYO (Leader of Opposition): Government must be planning, though; they seem trying to put this into the hands of state, this would then stop the work, the way we are doing here.

It is a bit ridiculous and ludicrous Mr. Speaker, sir, how look at this

I am concerned in the approach to the problem that is being made by the present government. In the last eight years our Government took out a lot of duty on foodstuffs; I am certain that before this administration is out they will have to put back all of those duties and may be much more to keep the country afloat of the revenue in this manner.

I am most certain that in the very near future the Government which would be coming another time to the House asking that we put back the duty on foodstuffs like rice, and Sugar that we put back that duty.

What are they prepared to tell the people then? The same hogwash they will tell them this time.

You know I believe that the people in the streets, although they may have had an short sighted view from getting what promised. They may have looked to the manifesto that they made bids, they may have gotten carried away, but I believe they are just beginning awake.

How can a Government in its first sitting months's time change the attitude inside that could have given this Government in the most complete of years, probably several million dollars in the form of the confidence vote? There was no problem in collapsing it, because the two political wings that the people could not split or divide them into two and put, two groups of special interest groups that we have - the people of this country have that wisdom and know we are, having these people come back today dashing in prompt into stuff to put whether you on the working man or the unions. I fail to see how even those explanations can hold in good conscience support these measures.

Before the government could get some relief, he would support his stuff by going out to ask the duty on the foodgift items or what it would have been if it had been included in my Bill. You see it's a problem in which - they are hobbling about a losing position, here they have - during by-elections when they will keep the position from winning because they're now in the future people will help by some increase of by going and I do wonder, Mr.Speaker, whether that is not one of the same arrangements behind this Bill, to increase importation into the Islands by Govt. rather than the necessary efforts to get the benefit of the revenue.

I fail to see where the commitment of these people is, Govt, Mr.Speaker, will be honouring the Bill of the Cayman Islands in the years to come, as the year when Cayman continue to enjoy the possible and the financial ascent locked in and bright. It has always been said in politics in these Islands that we depended on the financial shortcomings in this office financial matters in Guernsey notice, we help share the burden and to ease the burden of the local persons. We have absolutely now complete from this, Mr.Speaker, and what we were doing was the building the poor working man on the street, give food, give clothes we, now we are going to give you a little more burden to carry. This is what we are doing.

I think it is very wrong that an already over prosperous this work load can't. A number of some of our financial guidance have taken the view to figure out what the Government is some of doing these money measures are going to bring about in the Cayman Islands in the next year? I should venture to say

MR. JAMES M. BROWN (CONTINUING): ...that overall, if all of these different taxes are changed, that we are looking for a net-of-living increase of at least ten percent.

How is that anything to boast about that you are going to give to your people in the first year that they have elected you?

Then we go a little bit further in this penny ante financing and maybe we roll the monkey over that you are going to increase the duty on the cigarettes. I do not want this to be taken wrong. I smoke occasionally, I am willing to pay the increase on the tax. I am not speaking for myself, I am speaking for what I think is unjust and unfair. When you tell him that if you increase the tax on his cigarettes, and if he was foolish enough to have a friend of his from Miami, let us say, bringing a box of matches, that you are going to increase the cost on it 400 per cent. Or perhaps tax to get that box of matches out of the customs. You know, where are you going to stop? Are you going to ask the man on the street whether or not the next occasion he has the benefit that comes out of his taxes on the tax that he brought in?

Why can we not have some legislative ideas that are being rendered into the statute, instead of depending on the executive that were not there to do the work for you in 1976, place backing the working man out of employment?

MR. SPEAKER: I think that one an urgent matter, the debate is decided, because as I see the Throne Speech delivered today, we had two Budget Addresses until then we have thrown all of these other papers. Many of us have not had time to go back and research into the past, different ones, which have been and so forth and how they accumulated, and I think that your ruling was very astute as well as the Members of Executive Council.....

MR. SPEAKER: Will the Member please sit down? I must call your attention to Standing Order 35 (2). If you wish to establish a ruling as before, you have to put down a substantive motion. Moreover, I would call, perhaps, for the record, that it is the long-standing practice both here and in many other Commonwealth Assembly that I know of, that matters which are not published until after the Budget Address has been delivered and that they are debated immediately afterwards.

MR. JAMES M. BROWN: Will you or anyone else tell me how much duty you expect to have on that Bell Bureau coal and Sunday morning? But if I had to put a motion (this will come to the vote) I have a lot of things to say on this Session of the Budget and I have just started, Sir.

In the past Governments have been able to import their boats and various equipment that grew with the body duty free, because we have been a developing country. I can agree that negotiations have taken place in this, but I think again there are certain concessions that could have been made, and that more time should have been given by someone to check out the means by which money could have been gotten by the Treasury, in order to meet the expenditures this year.

I was very proud to be a part of a group that might assist to these things and helped to bring the budget forward for eight years and I challenge anyone to show me a piece of legislation like this that we brought forward.

We talked to find ways where the man on the street, the common man, the man who exploits every Government in every country in the world, we tried not to hurt them, but we have financial interest groups that are disturbing the course of this country

MR. JAMES M. COOPER (CONTINUING): ... and it must stop. It must stop - or the people will stop it.

... I am not prejudiced to be a part of any Assembly that will bring in legislation like this when we have already thrown out the legislation that would have brought big money to the country. Not picked the pockets out of the working man's pocket. I really would have liked to have the time to research this and really deal with it as some might, but I do not wish to be repetitious. So therefore, I will conclude, hoping that some of the Members on this side of the House, in addition to my colleague from Eastern Kent will see fit to be against this piece of legislation, and not go ahead in glory with legislation that is going to offset the very people that put them in office, the now of people they promised to protect.

But, Mr. Speaker, as I look over to the opposite of this new Government, I ask myself and the people in the street now asking, where are you protecting the rights of the Cayman Islands or the ambitions of these?

This is unfair legislation, it should be ... and I hope that the Members of this House will have the courageous fortitude to do so.

MR. SPEAKER: The First Elected Member for Executive Council.

HON. MCKEEVA A. BUSH: Mr. Speaker, we have just heard two very dramatic contributions. But in the case of both the great problem which the Government, that is section 2 of the bill which seeks to remove the problem within the Customs Law to charge the weights equal to the next-lowest or next-higher pay rate of the difference on goods imported.

The first speaker, for example, Mr. Speaker, mentioning the hardships that this could cause an Israeli policeman and advise why he like and I would like to thank the Honourable Member who is of the Second Member to the first that spoke particularly and pointing out that, by that the amendment could not result in any increase in prices of goods that are duty free, and as you go down. I think the Acting Member mentioned wine - that is also duty free so it is not affected by this amendment and as you go down the line of goods that are used by the ordinary person in the average family, this has no effect on those items.

The crux of the matter is, Mr. Speaker, that when this commission was given the charges for handling goods at the airport were the same as they are on the dock, but over period the introduction of the new charges at the ports, even though overweight is charged, when the charges at the port are added, there is no intention to bring the people by sea. So, if this amendment goes, what it would really do, in fact, equalize the charges, the total charge on goods coming in by air would by sea.

There seems to be a bit too much duplication with the passage of Hansard, in fact, the first Member who spoke, agreed with that, and there seems to be confusion on the house, Mr. Speaker. The Member seemed to have thought that the boats were duty free; that only applied to boats over 25 feet after the amendments made in 1992, and I do not think that is the argument that the amendment that was made in 1992 caused in favour of the country people. The statement or argument rather does not concern the boat over 25 feet, that is usually for the rank different. The proposed amendment would not remove the possibility of persons bringing in a 20 foot boat on the back of a pick-up and bringing it to the duty free. The only change that is called here is to boats over 25 feet that are ...

MR.PEARSON (CONTINUED): ...acted into the country under the ... own power - there is no other charge being added or imposed. And, as ... Minister said, the penalty arose when the amendment was made in 1963.

The other thing that should be mentioned, Mr.Speaker, is that the package tax does not apply to goods coming ... through the post - it applies to goods coming by through the airport only. If one looks at section 87 sub-section (2), Mr.Speaker, "notwithstanding sub-section (1) no package tax is charged or imposed upon ... discharged at the ports of George Town or Cayman Brac in respect of ... post Establishment". So that the package tax does not apply to goods coming in by any one it would only apply to goods by air. So it would not increase the cost of living on the bulk of goods coming into the country, and this package tax, basically, is designed to replace or substitute for the charges which are made at the post for handling the goods. The warehouse at the airport as the economy is established by Government because of the small handling charge which is imposed on goods.

I have no problem with those amendments, Mr.Speaker, they are not amendments that I feel would be oppressive to the majority of people and I support the Bill as presented and with the amendment of which notice has been given. Thank you.

MR.SPEAKER: Before I call on any other Member to speak, I am told that the tape in within one minute of running out. I will get that checked and then call on a Member. It will take about ten minutes.

MR.PRESIDENT: The motion has been stumped. The Second Elected Member for Rural Area.

MR. F.McKENZIE SISE: Yes, Mr.President, Sir,

I want to say, Sir, that I support the amendments to the Bill. My reasons for supporting the Bill in that one section of it will give a break to those Legislators who want to bring on their own light over all foot. We have many Legislators on the Christian Point Committee and I believe this would take a burden from them. I believe it would help them because many times the houses come in under their own steam, so I believe it would help those people and for that reason I am supporting the Bill.

On the matter of Cigarettes, Sir, it is no more than for health purposes. I give that also my support.

On the other sections of the Law, Sir, quite frankly I would like to have seen the figure that it would produce, the amount of money it would produce in revenue, but Sir, I give the Government the benefit of the doubt, or the Government bench I would say.

The two opposition Members to the Bill dealt with those sections and we heard many things. As someone already said Jeremiah speaking; we heard talk about squeezing the poor people - we heard questions how the merchants will react. Mr. President, the merchants for eight years have been feeling good in this country, because every bit of duty taken off of foodstuffs have not, Mr.President, gone to the ordinary man on the street - it has not helped them. Rice was said, potatoes, onions, chicken, duty has been removed from those items and there is no way of Government policing that section, so the people are not getting the benefit.

I cannot see what great amount of hardship will be put on the people - I do not believe the populace would squabble about a few cents - the population, Mr.President, only a few years recently and they dumped the previous Government - they kicked them out. Why, Mr.President? Because that Government, while they sought to take off duty off those little items, believing that would pacify the man on the street, they sought to strangle him, and that is what they did to the little man.

They thought by going to give certain people in this country rebranded funds, and I still do not know, Sir, whether the amount or any money was paid out, I hope to obtain that later on in this Session too. So do not think that the little men is here, it is the big things that they have done that have hurt the little man.

I say, lastly, Mr.President, Why, I ask the question - why is this Bill being brought to this House? Why here it come, Sir, why? The reason why it has come because of the serious state of affairs in this Country. We collecting today.....

MR.JAMES M.ROWLES (Interrupting): On a point of order, Mr.President, Please. This is entirely incorrect about the financial state. There have been many rumours, ridiculously bold. The plain thing is the last budget Estaff which you are talking, was and a half or ten and a quarter million dollars out of it so balance the budget this year. So why would you think this man to go on like this?

MR.PRESIDENT: The Honourable Member himself stating on this subject,it did not seem it was to be entirely relevant but I could see an argument why, if he did not go on with it for too long, it could be regarded as relevant. An attack to it is relevant too, but the member should not go on too long either.

MR. M.BHOOKAN SINGH: Sounds like a roundabout way to do. Sir, but let me carry on. They are both, Sir, but I believe I am still speaking on merit, and they should be reminded of their duty.

MR.SPEAKER: Mr.President, are we prevented a person or what are the grounds we are saying he cannot?

MR.PRESIDENT: Will the second Elected Member from rural please continue.

MR. M.MUNGRIM SINGH: Yes, Mr.President. As I said, Sir, in my remarks on the Appropriation Bill I have brought because of the bad state of affairs in this country we left by the previous Government, and they do....

MR.SPEAKER: Mr.Secretary, on a point of order, I take strong objection to that because that is an improper statement and you should rule, the hon out of order on it.....

MR. PRESIDENT: Will the Member please withdraw and make unconditionally aspect on genuine points of order, otherwise I shall have to rule him.

MR.M.MUNGRIM SINGH: Thank you very much, Mr.President. I support the Bill, Sir, I do not think it is going to cause too much hardship on any small man in this country. If the Government want to carry, let them carry, but I give it my support. As I have said, I have my reservations - I fully that I would have liked to have seen the figures but I give the Government the benefit of the doubt. Thank you very much, Sir.

MR.SPEAKER: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR.LENNOX A.DARGAN: Mr.President, I will, in debating the Budget Speech and the Budget Address, make certain observations which I hope will assist a lot of people in this Honourable House and that is why I will endeavour to point by the matters before me.

Mr.President, I regard the reason why I had such a reasonably discourse in the public was because of the people's feeling in me and that I will endeavour to promote the interest of the people.whatever possible.

I personally do not have any strong reservations on these appropriations with the exception of one or two observations which I would like to make.

I would point out here, Mr.President, that I was very pleased by a statement made by the Honourable Chief Secretary when he stated that we should all be cognizant of the social conditions in this country, but my definition, Mr.President, of social balance in the country would have to be compatible with the standard of living of our people in this country.

Mr.President, section 41 (1) of the principal Law which is the Customs Duty (General Provisions) Ordinance - " items shall be subscribed for the actual weights charged the weights which would have been charged if such goods had been imported by sea or the sea route to the quarter of the centweights ascertained in the manner". Mr.President, I believe that there was a reason for this and the reason, as I see it, Mr. President, is that we were providing a facility for those of us who

MR. LINDSAY (Scarborough): ... would not have the sort of cash flow that would enable us to store away big stocks of goods, but perhaps have to be using the assistance of air freight to bring these goods in, perhaps on a weekly, bi-weekly or monthly basis, and that this section of the Act was designed to protect the little people.

I am not going to say, Mr. Speaker, that my only interest would be in the economy of our community or society, but I would make it abundantly clear that I am here to represent all interests, and while protecting the little people, and I believe, sincerely, Mr. President, that the removal of what is quite an anomaly, I do not see it as such, will affect the little people in this country.

I believe, Mr. President, that this is a genuine effort made by the government bench to enable them to secure the necessary revenue to assist us in the development of this country, but I also believe, Sir, that the time has come when we must step away from what I would term, and what is, of course, my opinion, an antiquated system of raising revenue. I believe, Sir, that we have reached the maturity and sophistication in this country where efforts and attention must now be given to harmonizing our economic base. We cannot, much more, endeavour to raise revenue by an indirect form of taxation, because while we appreciate that a direct form of taxation of ourselves that we must keep away from, I believe it is well known that an indirect form of taxation is the most regressive form in the world, and it is a form that affects the little people more than others.

We cannot, Mr. President, continue to make amendments here and there to our existing legislation. I regard this, Mr. President, as just temporary and I hope that I am not out of order in making that observation, but I believe that we must now look at developing a comprehensive economic policy for this country. We cannot continue much more to be increasing indirect forms of taxation. I see my friend, Mr. President, who section 47 (7) should be deleted from this law and I cannot support this.

In this matter, Mr. President, in the increase in the duty payable on cigarettes from 28 per thousand to $10 per thousand. I could not support it more and my support is fundamental one, mainly because of my objection to smoking. I believe that if this is going to be a deterrent to some of my people, who having their lives, or this is going to be a deterrent of them not smoking, well, Mr. President, I think it is a good move and a good movement. But, Mr. President, unfortunately, I do not see this - I see these extra cents being taken away from the budget of a family. I see the smoke in the home squeezing those extra cents and depriving himself, perhaps, the necessary food and clothing he needs to be able to satisfy what is wished not only ... what but I would think is very difficult, I understand, to break.

So, Mr. President, I would have very little representations to support this, but when I look down the list of amendments before me, I notice that that is because the only area in which I could suggest, so it appears as if I will not be able to support this bill in its entirety.

In the meantime, Mr. President, if the increase in the package was just left to die, which is provided in the first schedule to the principal Act, I cannot from the lack of use, see the real purpose in this increase, but I am sure that the Member responsible for introducing this Bill, has given this considerable thought.

A previous speaker, Mr. President, mentioned that one of the other departments from Golden Rock had also undertaken the very purpose of this society and that they thought it reserved to provide what were already duty free. Mr. President, Sir,

MR.SPEAKER A. FISHER (Cook-Minister) _looking here through the Estimates of this year there, I notice a number of items that could affect the little people in this country, items that they would bring in by sea. Many of the small shopkeepers in this country rely the Government to go to Suva, Lami, Vunimoli, to purchase their goods and bring them in. They cannot afford, because of high flow problems, to wait a week or so on the ships to bring in their goods.

Here is, Mr.President, since section 12 (7) states - that small goods had been imported by post the most would be equal to quarter of the difference on the amount that would have been paid had the goods been imported by sea, or the greater - we really I cannot see where bringing those goods in by air the really is major penalty.

Mr.Speaker, I have reservations on the question of removing the duty free exemptions on books in excess of $2 in fact. I do not believe that sufficient thought was given to this amendment. I know of many, many Cyclone who rely on books for their and more for training. These books are used, not only for reading but also for their little children, or whatever and I feel that this amendment is going to have a disastrous effect on these people. I see, Mr.Speaker, a multiplier effect taking place here. I see the imposition or imposing of this duty by the time it reaches the little man, that he is indeed going to have a terrible hold on him.

Leaving the Budget debate, Mr.Speaker, I intend to suggest ways and means that I feel we can follow in our attempt to obtain new revenue in this country, without having to go the normal taxation route. This is a route that we have to bear in mind but we cannot forget that in trying the social problems that can be caused from the approach that is being taken by these extensive amendments, amendments that would tend to squeeze the little people could have a very damaging effect on our economy. It can hurt, create and have the little people in a position that they cannot maintain.

A few days ago, Mr.Speaker, I had the very unfortunate experience of seeing, Mr.Speaker, what can happen to a society that tend to live at an unreal situation - I watched the Hurricane Bebe and I will have more to say on this.

The economic challenges , in advance impact on the little people, could be disastrous, especially those who are trying to make a living by operating their little businesses.

Mr.President the discussion , I hardly have to point out, Sir, that Members need not be given reasons while following a Budget Debate, but somehow, Sir, I believe that if we can make any intelligent contribution to the debate on this Bill, that we should be given sufficient time to study this Bill. It is essential, as I see it, of an urgent amendment to Government Bench, knowing what is coming before the House and what they have had some time to give it some thought, but when these Bills are thrown at us without any notice that we cannot be expected to make any intelligent consideration. I do not know how this matter can be rectified but I would hope that adequate information could be given to this, as I see it, problem.

Mr.President, I realise that there are other Members who would wish to speak on this Bill but on behalf, Sir, I could not thankfully give this Bill my full support in the present form. Thank you, Mr.President.

MR.PRESIDENT: The Hon'ble Elected Member for Suva Central.

HON.P.D.PATEL: Mr.Speaker, Honourable Members, I rise

MOVE W. T. JORDAN (COUNTY-WIDE): ...to support this Bill.

I have heard many comments about it. If I were on the opposition side, perhaps I would listen to many of the statements which were made against this Bill.

We were talking about measures, Mr. President, the total of which would provide this Government with less than one million dollars in revenue.

The measure you have just referred to, Sir, was moved by the honourable Third Official Member. I have been in the position in this House for approximately seven years. I know much of what has transpired here as far as income proposals are concerned.

Over the past eight years, I would say, we have passed many revenue Bills and on the final day of the Budget Address, Mr. President. It is a known fact in this House that revenue Bills were made immediately after the presentation of the Budget Address for certain and obvious reasons, and therefore we are only trying to maintain consistency which we speak of nearly so far, to examine these Bills and finding other measures why they should not be dealt with in an short a time.

Mr. President, I too have been told something material of duty free imported goods, namely imported foodstuffs. I have always had no opinion about this, but nevertheless I have it to individual and therefore there those reasonable cause forward without any opposition.

I remember back in 1964 when the Government removed them among many items, duty free items, the most necessary the prices of basic items rose. I would like to see where did the consumer or did the consumer receive any benefit from that consideration or?

Some people say duty was removed from children and persons - I forget Mr. President, where did the benefit for the removal of duty from those two items go? Into the pockets of the merchants, the hotels, restaurants, guest-houses and those sort. The poor man on the street continues to pay the same price he paid before for those items, but so that to benefit your people, and so we go on and on and on until the removal of duty from these foodstuffs.

Mr. President, it seems to me that everything that this Government will present to this Honourable House whether it be a Bill, a motion or what have you, will be unfair to the opposition.

Mr. President, although the Third Official Member stated that it is the duty opposition to do whether or not

HON. W. G. JOHNSON (CONTINUING): the economic situation is failing. We have seen this, especially over the last year. Had revenues continued to flow as we have seen it over the past, then there would be no need to have these far reaching measures of taxation to the house today.

We want all the revenue that was left that was available to supplement the budget and it is no difference from what else has been done. Revenues were used last year to balance the budget, too.

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to waste time Government. I have no excuse for explaining I have done so far and I think that any of my constituents will come forward and endorse me for what I have done so far. My determination is to work and do everything in my power to support this cause for which I was elected to this House and that I will do.

Mr. Speaker, much has been said about the subsidiary taxes that will be put into effect. I do not want to go into that aspect of it, so I will close by saying again that I support this measure and I have no excuse for doing so. Thank you, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: The First Elected Member for the Sister Islands.

CAPT. MARK R. EBANKS: Mr. Speaker, the will before this honourable House, a Bill for a Law to amend the Customs Law (Second Amendment) I feel is a necessary one. I do not agree with it in its entirety and I must say, in fairness to the people of my Electorate, we have quite different circumstances than I have heard here cited by other speakers this morning, but before going into there, previous speakers have made remarks which must be removed from yesterday the record show up.

I would remind Members here that Members in this Honourable House are elected every four years, during which time of four and five years of responsible rule, Government's mandate, if one is to make a fairly, must be accountable to what is said. I feel the removal of duty free privileges, answering to those has been brought to the people of my constituency and I shall continue to support a measure of that sense which is offered.

I would like to call to the attention of the House, Mr. President, section 5, the amendment to section 11, sub-section (2); this will have very far-reaching effects on the people of my Electorate. We now pay a much higher standing than the people of Grand Cayman, although the Sister Islands are always first hand. We are losing a much higher freight rate, we have no regular shipping service, it is recommended fortnightly, sometimes it is fortnightly, sometimes it is more frequent, sometimes less frequent - therefore many of the items which we enjoy here, used by our relatives and the islands, must come in by refrigerated and if we are to pay duty on the C.I.F. with the refrigerated shipped, there will be a substantial difference.

Therefore I would ask if my suggestion could be made to my Member, that consideration be given by the Honourable Member.

In addition to this, the expenses of packing has to be added? Items, will then add considerably more to the cost.

As I said, I hope the Bill is necessary. I support a balanced budget. I have discussed it with my constituents that we must make sacrifice if we are to get the benefits from our Government that we will need, and I support the Bill, but I would ask the Committee if anything could be done to the amendment to section 11 sub-section (2), that consideration be given. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Honourable Member for North Hills.

MR. DOUGLAS MILLER: Mr. President, I support the Bill in its entirety, in particularly I support the amendment at 41 (2). Unfortunately I think quite a few speakers before me in dealing about seconds from not looking the whole picture, I have glanced over the first part which concerns the amenity and that is, that any individual who brings in a bus or a package by aeroplane has the option of demanding that the Customs Officials unpackage that would have been the responsibility of the crew.

Further, Sir, I believe that any discretion that individuals have in bringing goods in by aeroplane and only paying transportation per ounce of the private cost, has been greatly abolished simply by the impracticality of aeroplanes in their ministry for whatever reason it has been. For an example, Sir, I brought a box of fish cakes e.g. from Prince, I paid the freight from Prince to Hope and five aeroplanes from Hope to Grand Cayman. So I do not think that the consumers are not receiving any benefits, because the producer pays most, the twenty-five percentage of the actual aeroplane is higher than that to be paid on aeroplanes.

Further, Sir, I believe that there is reasonably freedoms and good safeguards somehow from them - I do not believe that the bulk of perishable items that were personally carried by air is not worthy so, Sir, I can well understand the amendment 41 and I support the removal in its entirety.

I also support section 3 of the Law, Sir, and the increase in duty on cigarettes, because, Sir, the argument is might have on someone could dispense their health. Further, I do not think this argument is a necessity for any person to smoke cigarettes, because, Sir, the argument is might have on someone could dispense their health. Further, I do not think this argument is a necessity for any person

We have heard a lot of talk here today, Sir, about this new Government Legislation to aid the working man. I do not believe, Sir, that any of the persons mentioned in this country from the estates have ever really hated anybody, except the working man, because, in fact the record of the past Government, increasing the charges on the financial agency year after year, has only simply passed the charges on to the working man or the common, whether it was increased countryside charges, increased electricity for lodging, or whatever.

Taxation, Sir, ultimately winds up in the hands of the little man. That is a fact of life.

I also support section 5, Sir, because again I also had experience with the application under the old Law, in bringing in a boat of my own. I think that putting it in this form clearly defines what boats are suitable and what one has to do to qualify for the non-suitable boat.

I also support section 5, Sir, because I think that increasing the package tax is the simplest to fair and equitable, I do not think that Government should be subsidizing the operation. I think it is fair to increase it to build some consideration is given to the charges that are incurred at the port by the Port Authority and I am one of those members, Sir, creating any greater hardship on the little man on the street, which is incurred on a trailer boat or some other form.

I therefore support the Bill in its entirety, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. D. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, I rise to support this Bill,

MR. N. MACLEAN SCOTT (CONSERVATIVE): ...was before this Honourable House, in the amendment, I feel that the deletion of sub-section (2) of section 41 and the effect that it will have on the whole Act has been very much over-played.

It is time this matter was to be passed and I believe that at the beginning of almost every year there has been one measure or another since Confederation to consider to accomplish this.

I am also very pleased to see that the honourable Prime Minister (Mr. Diefenbaker) will be moving an amendment at Committee stage to extend Canadian citizenship until June 30th this country, and I believe that the little difference that would be created by the deletion of sub-section (2) of 41 will be more than compensated until this new section which will become a part of the Act.

I therefore, Mr. Speaker, give this Bill my support, because I do believe that at this present time and I feel that there is, in fact, very little difference in the total charges to the Customer between whether they decide to through the post or through the airport. Therefore this Bill has my full support, Mr. Speaker.

MR. SPEAKER: The United Nations Member of Saskatoon Centre.

MR. CHARLES T. STEPHANSON: Mr. Speaker, I wish to support this Bill, for the amendment. Most people that have been mentioned here, Mr. by the Second Element Member from Moose Jaw on which duty is paid, such as potatoes, melons, milk, etc. and duty free and this Bill is no way affect the cost of these goods.

I think the Hon. Member mentioned when the amendment that people will not smuggle goods into the country because they will be subject to duty. I am sure that the amendment will not affect the cost of these goods.

The purpose of this Bill before this House today, Mr. is essentially threefold, that will presume Bills, and passed the same day for various reasons and this is not the first occasion. I have been in the House now going on nine years and on many occasions several Bills must be passed the same day they are introduced. This is not something new and it is impossible for any Government to know that a measure Bill is all because of the Legislative Assembly. Before it is introduced and passed on the same day. This is done, as I said before, to prevent anyone taking advantage of the situation.

The knowledge that is have heard that this Bill be passed to the Public Men, mostly Mr. when one looks at the measure that is to be passed to be drafted, is between five hundred and five hundred thousand dollars, and the many who will come the Public man. The middle man and the Big man to close as I think. I do not see how one can take that seriously.

A point that was made by the Member, Sir, I do not think it quite fair to say that the duty taken off goods has not been passed on to the Public purchasing. In fact some of the effects of the duty removal, at the same time, be passed over that the goods which were imported at one time and in years ago, Sir, by the time you imported the same item it was up about a two percent and this is why the Public believes that we control the manufacturer's price. We do not control the manufactured price and it is why some the Government Report of the Government that have been passed on to the Public to view.

Almost having no time to study the Bill,

HON. CHARLES L. MCKNIGHT (CONTINUED): We have made considerable of this, Sir, in years gone by. I consider that this is a hardship to other Members on the other side of the House, and we have tried to remedy this. Unfortunately we could not give this Bill to the Members on the other side of the House before it came right to be passed.

Resolutions are made of the Government benches who are now making the Government, Sir, it is not long if difference has made to me as being a financial genius - I do not consider myself a financial genius - but what I do know, Sir, is that I can manage my own money.

It is time that the country's eyes are being opened and I am afraid before this Session is completed, the eyes of all members of this Assembly will be opened at that time.

I believe the people of this country do not yet realize what we have to contend with and what is have to suffer and that they cannot keep on demanding from Government without contributing back to Government. Governments can only give to the people what it takes from them and the Government is not a monster out there, Sir, we are only the representatives of the Government, the people are the Government. They have put us here to represent them, so are the electoral representatives but we are not the Government. And if they continue to ask for different privileges, different improvements, we must all be prepared to pay for these improvements.

Mr.President, I think enough has been said on the Bill, I believe everybody wants to get home, so I will not delay the Bill and I give this Bill my full support.

MR.SPEAKER: Mr.President, just on a point of order. I did not want to interrupt the Member but only three minutes to the package tax. Since that one duty free like potatoes, will pay the package tax and I think the Members of Executive Council

MR.PRESIDENT: I do not think that was the point that was being made; I think the point that was being made was that they do not pay the duty and therefore the change in the arrangements about air and sea-freight do not affect them. That was my understanding of the point made.

MR.CLIVE M.BOSTON: I think that was said, Sir, and that that will - it did not specifically say where part of it - but what was said, I think, by the Members was that this Bill would not affect those items, which is necessary.

MR.PRESIDENT: That was not my understanding of what was said, but as any rate the matter has been clarified, no doubt, Unless any other Honourable Member wishes to speak I will invite the Third Official Member to exercise his right of reply, if he wishes.

HON. T.C. GREENSON: Mr.President, on any country there comes a time when additional revenue must be found. The Bill before the House today, as in all other cases, has previous measures brought a great deal of debate.

But, Mr.President, I am delighted that this immediate Bill will cause no great hardship to any normal citizen of the Cayman Islands.

The question dealing with air-freight, as most members, Mr.President, that duty is imposed on cost, insurance and freight, and then a percentage is taken of that value, and the SEN.J.S.JEFFERSON(CONTINUING): ...objections of the previous here, in my mind, should create no real hardship to anyone.

As previously stated, Mr.President, I'm not back as a consumer of stamp coming through this here the duty paid. The post charges paid and the charges paid on the airplane, this bill really hardly should always be a somewhat conservative position.

It is my intention, Mr.President, to move an amendment to the bill to allow privileged and donations under, provided under that is important into this country, to be free of duty.

It is also my intention, Mr.President, to propose an amendment to section 6.

MR.PRESIDENT: The question before the House is shall a Bill entitled a Bill for a law to amend the customs law relating to power & postal handling, will those in favour please say aye?

SOME MEMBERS: Aye.

MR.PRESIDENT: Those against, no.

SOME MEMBERS: No.

MR.PRESIDENT: I think the ayes have it.

MR. JAMES H.DOYLE: Could we have a division, Sir?

MR.PRESIDENT: Certainly.

MR.PRESIDENT: Yes, the honourable Member for Port Morris.

HON. MICHAEL BRADLEY: I really think it should be called.

MR.PRESIDENT: Well, also the Third District Member from West Bay be also. I think you are probably quite right, they should be called, even though they are not here, as they....

MR. PRESIDENT: Will the Clerk announce the number of those who voted for and against?

CLERK: 20 Ayes, 3 Noes.

MR. PRESIDENT: I declare that the motion has carried, Suspension of Standing Order 47, I think it is.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 47 (1) AND 47

REV. TREVOR D. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I move under Standing Order 98 the suspension of Standing Order 47 (1) and 47 to allow the Third Reading to take place on the Customs Amendment Bill, 1985.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question before the House is that in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 47, Standing Order 47 (1) and 47 be suspended in order to enable those readings of the Customs Bill to be taken today.

I will put the question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. SUSPENSION UNDER 47(1) AND 47 SUSPENDED.

MR. TEMPLETON: We will now go into Committee to study a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Customs Law.

THE CUSTOMS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1985

CONSIDERATION IN DETAIL

CLERK: CLAUSE 1, SHORT TITLE.

MR. CHAIRMAN: The question is that Clause 1 stand part of the Bill.

MR. JAMES H. SCOTT: Mr. Chairman, I would propose that we strike out section 5 of the proposed Bill, Sir, as it has been relevant to what we should be trying to do.

MR. CHAIRMAN: If you want to make a motion to that effect you can make known to do so when we come to Clause 5, that at the moment sir the Clause 1 stands as was discussed.

If there is no debate on Clause 1 I shall put the question that Clause 1 stand part of the Bill.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. CLAUSE 1 PASSED.

CLERK: CLAUSE 2. Abstraction of section 41 of the principal Act.

MR. CHAIRMAN: You do your choice.

MR. JAMES M. NDIRITU: Mr. Chairman, I beg leave of the House, I do not know what Standing Order exactly covers it, to move a motion that section 2 of the proposed Bill be deleted from the Bill entirely.

MR. CHAIRMAN: What you have to do is to seek my leave under Standing Order 68 (2) to move an amendment of which no notice has been given, and in view of the circumstances under which this Bill is being taken, that you had no opportunity of giving two days' notice of an amendment, should certainly accord you leave. Your amendment is to the effect that clause 2 be deleted?

MR. JAMES M. NDIRITU: Yes, Sir.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Is there anybody else who would like to speak to the amendment? We shall please, if I may just remind Members of the Committee, that the amendment, after this has been disposed, we will on the amendment and then there is a possibility of further debate on the clause as amended, as if the amendment has been defeated, on the substantive clause.

HON. MICHAEL KAMOTHO: Mr. Chairman, Sir, could I seek your guidance on this, since the effect of the proposed amendment by the Honourable Nominated Member for Nyeri Town simply has the same effect as defeating the motion in front of us, namely that clause 2 of the principal part of the Bill is the action that clause 2 of the principal part of the Bill is deleted, then the clause is deleted.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think that is quite right. Actually you know, I should have been quicker to spot this point.....

MR. JAMES M. NDIRITU: But, Mr. Chairman, I still think that by allowing the motion we got a chance to debate it, and I think in view of the urgency of this Bill and the way it has been urgently put before the House, and like I heard one Member making a contribution saying we should be quick that it would be impossible to advertise the public elected Members of the Senate of the legislation of this sort, I think if you were going to call a Member like the one out of order I think that is where you should have called him up. Because we are all elected to this House and are supposed to be men and women of honour, and are supposed to be people looking out for the welfare of the country. I do not think that this amendment should be used on the minor details of the scheme. So, therefore, in view of this and in view of the many other things that this Bill affects, I have made a contribution I would like to make on this and I think we should be able to debate it.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think also the point that the Second Nominated Member was making was that you had, without needing to seek my leave to move an amendment up to move an amendment as such, you had an opportunity to debate it and to make the points that you wished because you are fully entitled to argue all Members to vote against the clause standing part of the Bill. You do not actually need to move an amendment that the clause be deleted; you can just speak explaining to Members why they should vote against it.

HON. MUSTAFA KHALIF: Mr. Chairman, Sir, may I also with respect draw your attention to Standing Order 68 (7) which says the Chairman

HON. MITCHELL SHARP (CONTINUING): ...may rather to put an amendment which appears to him to be intended to vary the very substance of a clause, if he has spoken the proper course is to negative the clause and propose a new one, which I think.....

MR. CHAIRMAN: I'm not sure that one would work like that, I think the point that you've made already with the last speaker, and he would have to produce the matter further, but we have to be clear to the House Elected Member for Ruhbul Dzuk that he is fully entitled to argue the case why, in his view, Members should vote that clause 8 do not stand part of the Bill.

MR. JAMES M. BALFOUR: Mr. Chairman, I'm not going for instance on them, we don't sell it cheap, beans, potatoes, whatever you may want to call it, that you bring in by airfreight just about. The import tariff, now this would only be if you just brought one pack of it or one fifty pound weight, please remember now that the freight would be much higher on this because it would be a minimum charge, so that if a person had a consignment of several items of fifty pounds each, for which this parliamentarian disagrees, contributed a part of the total weight, just might the aeroplane would probably be, on a fifty pound package, somewhere in the neighbourhood of twelve shillings. Now the aeroplane at that same comparable weight, I have to phone who may have better about the freight rates than me, but I can assure that the freight rate would not be more than about six dollars and fifty cents. Therefore we have a difference of nine dollars and fifty cents and let me say that basically 60 twenty percent on that item, whatever it may be, would be unnecessary, about, anything. That means that this consignment fifty pound weight from new Delhi would be eighty dollars and ninety cents more to receive duty than you would be paying now. If you take it on another argument - let us say that steel brought by Cyprus Airways from Moscow, now on the Soviet freight rate your freight cost would probably be somewhere between twenty and twenty-five dollars for that item.

Anybody like any body would probably be five dollars any from Moscow, you are looking then at an additional import duty of four dollars on that particular fifty pound weight ... you would be paying in the future, that you are not paying at the same time. So it is a bit foolish I think to complain this does not add and that it does not affect people, because you know a dollar money is a dollar money, notwithstanding what it is somewhere money, it is still a dollar money. I think that this whole thing is very politically motivated, particularly in view of the recent comments, which I hope we will get plenty of time to debate here tonight, that have been placed by the Minister of Finance in regard to that we take the duty off of canned vegetables and so forth, which we have tried here in the House before when it was defeated, and before he does that I wish that he would presume to this House the figures on what he expected in revenue from these new measures, like - whether one or another but, I think he should presume to the figures as estimate of what he thinks Government will move in the coming year, that this year, 1969, by changing this new tax.

I think there are a lot of unanswered questions here that need to be answered; before we can intelligently decide. Some people may be well over-dressing already, but those of us who would have our Liberals off would like to have the relevant figures to be able to figure whether or not.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Mr. Chairman, the Member has just moved an amendment of a charge of twenty-five dollars on any one package of ... heard by me, but he can...

MR. JAMES M. BALFOUR: I do not think I made myself

MR. CHARLES H. WILSON: ... an allocation the president may be, or thereby be... There is a minimum bill of lading charge by sea, which is substantially more than the figure he has quoted, plus the fact when it comes in by air, there are no port charges to be added to that. When it comes in by sea there are port charges to be added on both. So it is more expensive if you bring it in simply because by sea that is by air.

MR. JAMES H. QUILLEN: Mr. Chairman, when I originally my comments or observation on this point, I did make it clear that I was not referring to one specific item because there would be a variation always. I said let me assume that this item of fifty items weighs in as a part of a shipment of one hundred and fifty pounds, because I am quite aware that you have a minimum charge on the ships, as well as you have a minimum charge on the airlines.

But really, you are fighting the one head here by Mr. Dr. Duncan Hansen in the air and to have opened the pressure which they think they can do, even on the other hand you are saying let me take the express charge from you, because, I may not impose all on this point today, that did go quite a bit to effect the amount of stuff that is brought by airfreight on the future.

MR. DAVID WILSON: Mr. Chairman, I think the member has expressed fully-argued evidence his case on probably one question I do certainly relevant to discussing revenue to Government from the figures that he has presented.

MR. CHARLES H. WILSON: No, Mr. Chairman, that is not the point. The point is that I would appreciate if the Member pressing this point, and I think as the Legislative Members should have a right to ask this, what is the amount of revenue that this country plans to receive, in the year, if any, which I of this bill is passed

HON. T. D. MACDONALD: Mr. Chairman, I have not known just the amount of revenue to be raised specifically another by section, but the estimate of the overall taxation legislation that the additional revenue to be raised by the passage of this bill is between four hundred and fifty a million dollars.

MR. JAMES H. RUSSELL: Mr. Chairman, that is one reason for me to possibly pay attention to this if it is going to affect the small man the average man, but I would think that when you are presenting a Bill of this magnitude to the House, and certainly if we did not know any reason to oppose, I think there is a good reason to ask for an explanation how do that these figures can be presented to the House that we may intelligently decide what to do with this Bill.

MR. CHARLES MORGAN: Mr. Chairman, the point I tried to make in my debate was that this is no simple amendment, this will take out a substantial chunk out of the revenue of the country. The member from North Side is seeking to give us one instance where he felt brought in a package by air and the total freight was eighteen dollars and fifty cents - I do not remember the exact figure he used, but for argument sake, that the total freight was eighteen dollars and fifty cents, which the man considered he could pay twenty-five dollars import duty plus on the freight alone. If the member is right in his old bill, twenty-five dollars he would only pay six dollars and fifty cents. So there is a difference of nineteen dollars and fifty cents on one small package, and if that package contained a cheap article, let us say a baby's dress that only cost twenty dollars.

MR.G.BAIN HOGBEN (Scarborough): Because of the duties on the air-freight under this proposed Bill the most of the items which nearly double in bulk to pay an extra nineteen dollars and fifty cents just on the freight alone.

I must say that I hope the Government Members take the opinion of the Honourable Member for Port Dalhousie when I looked at the Estimates since I previous then, I was wondering if they were going to duplicate the number of Inspectors that are just exactly necessary to produce the substantial sums shown in the Estimates. So this Chairman Bill is no small item and is going to mean, as the Member pointed out, this Bill has just gone into the Government in 1965, some four hundred thousand dollars just on this one item, and I must say that I am more convinced than ever that this section of the original Act should not be changed but should remain as it is, because it is going to mean that of the population, for example, because they do exist of the legislation, if they pay on extra five hundred thousand dollars and on that they have their normal profit of, say, twenty per cent, or whatever it is they would charge, the consumer will be paying one hundred thousand dollars in 1966 more for his necessary goods.

So it will increase the cost of living substantially and the first step straight from small businesses where the oil spreads, and since the determination of this Provision in the Act, it is now open however to speak the original provision in the Act so that the duties can be paid at seventy-five percent of the value of the refrigerator, rather than one hundred per cent of the refrigerator.

While a few Members already in their debate mentioned Newfoundland as supplement this amendment, I think in light of the whole situation which has come to the House today more definitely re-consider their stand on this Bill and realize that if Canada is to prosper in the form in which it was created in this Act, they will be saddling the consumers with - this hundred thousand dollars cost-of-living bite , with a portion in the end of 1965, and forever thereafter as long as it remains as it is. And of course if Newfoundland refuses to pass, as undoubtedly they will, we will find that most people they will also have an increase in the cost-of-living index attributable to the amendment which we are passing here so lightly today.

So, Mr.Chairman, I would hope that others will rise to speak. I understand the problem which was highlighted by the Member from North Side where. ..

MR.STARR (Hamilton): Mr.Chairman, I think there is another area of the room which the Member from Scarborough has not taken cognizance of - the figures I gave some used - while I am not sure I cannot deny his argument - the other side of the coin is that people brought in by air, the airlines, because of the size restrictions in the aircraft, are usually of more expensive goods, because if he is going to use first class the freight from Europe is cheaper on unit as of one item. Persons in Miami people who are not going to bring stuff in by air-freight, so there is going to be a tremendous volume in the importation of air-freight and therefore the revenue will seem to bring in, as I have shown, and am not belaboring all of my point.

MR.MACDONALD (Kingston): Well, I wonder if that was not the purpose of this Bill?

MR.CHAIRMAN: It would hardly be the purpose of the Bill...

MR. P.G.QUIRINO: Mr.Chairman, this Bill, the merits of it have already been debated in joint session. We are in committee now looking at the Bill clause by clause. A motion has put to delete clause 2; in my opinion there has been sufficient debate on that motion and I would recommend that the question be put at this stage.

MR. JAIME B. ECHIVERI: Mr.Chairman, please, we have had eleven amendments put on the floor during the last Meeting, and I have no one participating to argue it in the last Meeting or back a still does do so important.

If the Member has a contribution that will add to what we are saying by saying it then let us come up with something that may be good out of it, it is alright, but this is not a chance at this time. I think we still have freedom of speech, or at least, I think so.

MR. LINDLEY A. PIMENTEL: Mr.Chairman, Mr. Chairman - may I?

MR.PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. LINDLEY A. PIMENTEL: Mr.Chairman, my question on this Bill is basically supported by the Chinese Association. I think it is right to bring in people we refer to as the little people in the Philippines, and I think this is somewhat supported by this figures that have just presented to us by the Chief Official Number, that the Bill could bring about fifty hundred to fifty hundred thousand citizens in duty.

MR.P.G.QUIRINO: Mr.Chairman, just on a point of clarification, I am not against what I said, but some of the things I was looking for was what I intended to say. In indicating the total value to be gained on the local revenue to be estimated by this Bill, I said five hundred to half a million dollars, for it will not specifically for the chinese.

MR. LINDLEY A. PIMENTEL: Mr.Chairman, I was referring to this section here and I feel that a substantial amount of that five hundred to five hundred thousand would apply to section 2, but in the absence of any statistic by the Chief Official Number. I am unable to say exactly how much of that five hundred to five hundred thousand would apply to section 2. But I assume that in due course he will provide this information.

Mr.Chairman, I have to make it known that I do not think we are here recommending or saying to create more Chinese in Guam, in fact, should this Bill be here we intend to stop the movement thereof. This is not my position, or I have said I do not put myself to be opposing for opposition sake - I am here to represent my people, Mr.Chairman, and if there is something that I feel that is not in their best interest, I am definitely going to speak on it and I do not think that the amendment to section 41 (1) of the Organic Act (Inaudible) to the answer to our problems and this is why I would like to see section 2 of this Bill deleted, because I do not see any major benefits that it will bring to our people.

MR. JAIME B. ECHIVERI: Mr. Chairman, I would have to echo some of those sentiments. I was elected by the people of my district of Southern Guam and I think I am elected, although the opposition I noticed that them, just mine sometimes against my willingness and my will, to still work with a great majority and I am here to represent these people. These people are part of the electorate and part of the community people and this Bill should not be taken as frivolously as

MR. JAMES H.SCOTTOW (CONTINUING): Unfortunately many people do this because they think, because of the explosion, we should have an unfavourable ratio so we could get the proper figures to be able to immediately dismiss this. But between this entire Bill might benefit Government $600,000 to the good 100%. If we assume that the Cayman Islands have 20,000 people, including men, women and children, and multiplied them, then we are looking at this being a sum of $30 on every person in the Cayman Islands that we would be taking away if we took this Bill. If we look further at that and assume that there are 4,000 breadwinners in the Cayman Islands out of the 20,000 total population, then we are looking at $60.00 in taxes that we are putting on every breadwinner, every man in this already and a woman who is the head of the house-hold, who is working in this community.

If we assume that the average household is going to get a $30 increase on this $600,000 that he is going to pay Government in duty in order to get the money back with a profit, we are then looking at a population where every man, woman and child in this country is being taxed having based $30 per head of it in the breadwinners, every breadwinner in this country is being taxed $60.00 for this year of 1974. I take it that's a ridiculous Bill. I mentioned to the gentlemen who were speaking their reasons that I was hoped of this Bill that it was really constructive and that is why I feel that it should be the duty of the House to ascertain what the actual figures on this will be determined that each one of these things could be implemented in the House and help to be of use to a chance of most of the members changing their minds, because this Bill is very appealing to this Bill.

HON.D.O.EVANS: Mr.Chairman, Sir, I think we have passed the Second Reading of this Bill and it was very clear then that it had a majority in favour of it. Those against it should be able to see that they are going to be defeated, Sir, and I do not see why we should punish.....

HON. JAMES M.SCOTTOW: Mr.Chairman, that is not.....Unless...

HON.D.O.EVANS: You are not going to.....

HON. JAMES M.SCOTTOW: No, no, if England had felt that way we would be under German rule today, because are not.whipped, if you can imagine that putting her out.

HON.MICHAEL E.GILLETTE: Mr.Chairman, taking the same argument...

HON. JAMES M.SCOTTOW: This is an absurd to all dimensions when it are applied to be in here for.....

HON.CHARLES L.WHITTAKER: The Hon. elected Member from Bodden Town just now that this increase, since to the total increase of $600,000 having his own figures, he left out a completely important factor in that to the computation by our visitors. You cannot figure on 60,000 and then subtract it from be house-holders. What about the 200,000 tourists people that are coming here? Are they not complaining or they could also have to be taken into account, Sir. When you take it that it will be quite simplistic - I have not your passion for tax, particularly revenue - this is what we are talking about.

HON.V.G.ROBINSON: Mr.Chairman, I think important point is that the Members who belong right of two is that Government's expenditure as proposed in the budget is $33 and I am sure that the larger part of their budget is being spent in this country, electricity, gas,

MR.E.G.PERCIVAL (CONSERVATIVE): 80,000 then they are talking about which is, perhaps, a determination of those thousand who will choose to work one. So.....

MR.JAMES M.DOUGAN: Look.

MR.SPEAKER: It would be as well that we.....

MR.E.G.PERCIVAL: As Hansard have said I mean, the Government is receiving a lot of revenue here but it is going back to the people in different form.

MR.JAMES M.DOUGAN: But, Mr.Chairman,that is, I must say, a bit of an invalid argument to take because if we are going to give back that kind of expenditure which the budget is about among the people and distributed and so forth we have a long, long argument ahead of it.

But as now standing with specifically what is before us to take note. The Minister yesterday also will have told this House about its projections in Government revenue of these four hundred thousand to five hundred thousand dollars. We have not been able to specifically supply to take minute what, I think, should have been supplied as to what each individual item will specifically or be expected to yield, as you have 80,000 people in this country, now we are not talking like numbers, because you know on the one you give you are not going to have many of that anyhow - but you have to deal with this and then of the 80,000 people or 75,000 or whatever it is we are officially outside says you have, and they are the people we are going to pay this bill and it is going to be distributed among them. So there is no way you will please us then.

I am not trying to waste the time of the House, although I believe many times in debating form an argument. But Mr.Chairman, I must once more say to this House that this is not a minor matter - half a million dollars in Cayman Islands currency is not a minor matter.

MR.E.G.PERCIVAL: Mr.Chairman, is it standing that that can subject your objections....

MR.CHAIRMAN: Well, I think.....

MR.JAMES M.DOUGAN: It seems that you have neglected many of that also.

MR.M.MASSIAH ADAM: Mr.Chairman....

MR.CHAIRMAN: Order, order.

MR.M.MASSIAH ADAM: Mr.Chairman...

MR.CHAIRMAN: Order, I am speaking, please do not interrupt me. And I was going to say that I think that we have covered from the individual issues and that we have had a very full discussion of this minute and that I now propose to put the question in respect of it. Will those in favour please say aye?

SOME MEMBERS: Aye.

MR.CHAIRMAN: Those against, no?

SOME MEMBERS: No.

MR.JAMES M.DOUGAN: Mr.Chairman, I would just like to ask whether

MR. JAMES M. BURNS (CONTINUING): On that score, you have heard the witnesses against me....

MR. CRAIGHEAD: No....

MR. JAMES M. BURNS: In fighting this,

MR. CHAIRMAN: So nobody used the pleasure. I put the question, sir....

MR. JAMES M. BURNS: Could we have a division, sir?

MR. CHAIRMAN: You asked a division? Certainly you could.

We will have to wait for a moment before we do. So, we could do the division....
Sorry, the tape has run out, but we can do the division without the tape....

MR. JAMES M. BURNS: Could we propose a coffee break while they fix the tape, sir?

MR. CRAIGHEAD: It only takes about thirty seconds.

MR. CRAIGHEAD: I declare the motion carried. Please be seated part of the bill.

ASSEMBLY OF ASSOCIATES: CLAUSE 2 PASSED.

CLERK: CLAUSE....

MRS. NICOLLE C. HAMILTON: Could I just ask for an small typographical error. "Dean" of the first line should be capitalized.

CLERK: CLAUSE 2, PROHIBITED OF PRACTICE CONTRARY TO THE SUBSIDIARY LAW.

MR. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. Chairman, I beg to move an amendment which Standing Order 11(8) leave of the Chair being waived for and granted under Standing Order 41(7), the following amendment....

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think what you should do is to start by asking the leave of the Chair to move an amendment. You read the Clause under Standing Order 52(1). So if I may I will take it that what you did was to seek my leave under Standing Order 52(1). That I am prepared to grant. Now you may move the amendment.

MR. THOMAS C. HERRINGTON: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I move that Section 2 of the Bill be renumbered as subsection 2 of section 3, and that immediately preceding the newly renumbered subsection 2 of section 3, that the following new section be inserted:

> "(1) The First Schedule to the principal Act is amended by Chapter IX thereof, by the addition, immediately following item 9.03, of the following new item:-

> |---|---|---|

MR. JAMES M. BOGGEY: Mr. Chairman, I object to...

MR. CHAIRMAN: If I could just make one point please before you speak, Mr. Boggy. What we have just done, that is, inserted the amendment in the amendment. If it were to be carried we would then subscribe the Clause as amended. If you are objecting to the amendment, you certainly carry on.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGEY: No, I was objecting to being given the floor, because it is difficult to understand this. Here we are trying to put the people out of existence, and then on the other hand now we're going to take the duty off entirely. You want to know what I'm up to try to explain?

MR. DENNIS R. RIGBY: It is because we have a discipline now, Sir.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGEY: No.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think the Opposition is what the Government had been so moved by prior representations that they decided to resolve something.

HON. ISAAC G. STANBURY: An embodiment of good intention, Mr. Chairman.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGEY: The proof to suit is proved that way too, Mr. Chairman, again I go back to my old argument in stating what I feel that the House should criticize instead of dealing with the relevant figures in respect to these amendments. The Member has told us that this will yield between $400,000 and $500,000....

MR. CHAIRMAN: With respect, we are debating an amendment which will yield nothing. It may lose some revenue.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGEY: No, but just move with me until I get my point across. This will be expected to yield $400,000 to $500,000. I would like at least at this point to know the Member responsible for the amendment which he has just put on should go through. When we will know what the net "big effect of this bill will yield to the country.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS (CONTINUING): I would like to know why at this particular time when there are many other items which we could probably take the duty off, we are taking the duty off lumber. Is it because the Honorable Second Elected Member of Executive Council lost his contract last year to put duty on lumber? Are we really playing politics? If we are going to play politics I should really ... Let's be honest because I like to play that game. It could be....

HON. W. ROBERT RIDLEY: People seem to be playing a lot of politics in here all the time. I guess this might be part of it.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: It certainly must be because when there are many other things duty should be taken off to assist ordinary people to live down here and appear to put in a $200,000 cut in one attack of the pen on the people of these Islands and then on the next stroke to take that off. I do not know whether the Members are trying to support an idea, lifting the duty off lumber. I would like to hear what amount of duty is expected to be.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. Chairman, I responded many years ago, Sir. There is no account here to respond.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: Well would the Member respond and tell us what is the amount of duty we would lose by these persons.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. Chairman, the amount of duty is so low as to be negligible.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: Yes. But that is not an answer....

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: In previous years we have.... This is nothing new, Mr. Chairman. Last year, if my memory serves me correctly we took duty off kerosene, whereas this year we are taking duty off lumber. Certainly while the situation in this country over the last three or four months, it would seem to justify in my mind that duty should be removed from water provided it is not going to have a detrimental effect on the revenue of this country, and it is not.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: We took the duty off kerosene but we also took it off many items then kerosene. However, I feel that we should move the amount in this House because the Member also argued this case on the radio when the matter came before the House before, and he had some figures on it. I would like the figure to be made aware of what is the anticipated loss of revenue if this motion goes through. If we are going to put $500,000 on one hand and we are going to take away $50,000 on the other, then we should know whether it is $50,000 or $100,000 or whatever it is.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. Chairman, this is a minor modification that removes duty from imported foodstuffs, but we say that we hardly do not on concessions to poor persons, because in the case of water it is the poor people of these Islands who use a lot of that water. Regardless of what the amount of duty may be it is work to be a relief to poor people as well.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: But I would....

HON. ROBERT G. RUSSELL: So Mr. Chairman, because of duty from all the other things which some put forward have seen to have been just politics.

MR. JAMES M. HODGES: This must really be....

MR. CHAIRMAN: I do not think.....

MR. JAMES M. HODGES: .....what we are playing now because, Mr. Chairman, following on what he just said, the Government Board and the supporters have been saying in this meeting all day that what we take the duty off the people do not get any benefit from it. That is what I have heard all afternoon. Now they are coming back with another argument. How do they expect the people are going to be any different on the water when they have been nothing on beginning based : whatever else it was?

MR. D. RICARD MILLER: Mr. Chairman, I think in this case they are encouraging the merchants to stock it because it is a shortage. They are not necessarily going to pass the savings on to the poor people.

MR. GERALD A. LANDRY: Mr. Chairman, I cannot help what the Assembly does I can only vote the proper. What is to much down the duty otherwise which the duty was removed from. (Laughter).

MR. LEONARD J. FONTAINE: Mr. Chairman. ..

MR. JAMES M. HODGES: There will never be any duty taken off again I do not think in this administration. So we must bother to make to give them the water.

MR. LEONARD J. FONTAINE: Mr. Chairman, as I said yesterday, my contribution to this is mainly on view of my interest in my people. I also accept that we are operating under the democratic principle. I am totally in favour of duty being removed from water but as I said earlier, I totally oppose section 8 which was passed. Now as I am not here to appeal for opposition's sake, I have my reasons for any decisions of this that I oppose, because I can see where certain areas of this might be detrimental to my people. The removal of duty on drinking water I do not see as being detrimental. So I should have no reservations, support that.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think we have had quite a full discussion on this we will.....

MR. G. GALE ROBERTS: The only thing is, Mr. Chairman, that I have not been allowed to say anything.

MR. CHAIRMAN: How unkind,

MR. S. NEIL ROBERTS: The Executive Council Members would not let me get a word in.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Well, you may have a word now. Take enough.

MR. G. GALE ROBERTS: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. This session encompassed amendments which we are discussing, which is to take the duty off water, highlighted the confusion which exists on the Government's mind. We have before us a Bill which wishes increase Government's revenue from customs by half a million dollars or a figure in that area. One budget which has been presented this evening reflects this,

REP. G. HALE BROOKS (CONTINUING): How can this Government at this date have so flagrantly stuck a gun...? You know the little game people play, "I move to Jack's house and shoot mice to mice". How can we by hook pushing a bill to increase the revenue when we are tapping on to it a little amendment which will reduce the revenue. What does the Government want to do with this Bill? Do they want to increase the revenue or do they want to reduce it? I cannot understand this amendment but it has made it clear to me that there is something fascinating the Government with this amendment. Perhaps they were so surprised as I have been to learn that this little Bill will bring such a phenomenal revenue to Government. The lowering of duty on water is not significant at all because it is only a very small amount of water which is imported.

I have my feelings on this. The Government Bench have not been able to say that they ignore so many millions of pounds and the duty taken off would be so many billions. They are groping in the dark as much as we are, and this is good reason for adjourning this Bill until Monday morning so that the Government can find out what it is doing and end the state of confusion. I would suggest that we defer dealing with this amendment until the Government gets its act together.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Thank you....

REP. THE HONOURABLE E. LEVERMORE: Mr. Chairman, the Member who just spoke, Sir, has a remarkably short memory. If he would go back and I challenge him to do this, and look in the Hansard, he would see that when other Members Bills were introduced by this House there were also resolutions made by duly constituted Members on certain items on the paper. So this is nothing new.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Thank you....

REP. THE HONOURABLE P. DOUGLAS: A question, Sir....

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think I would like to put the question on the amendment because we have had a very full discussion on it. Remember after we deal with the amendment we still have to come back to the Clause either as amended or otherwise.

MR. JAMES M. BROOKS: Is this on section 2 or 3, Sir, because with the amendment that this Bill is being put through this House I do not have all the necessary papers?

MR. CHAIRMAN: What we are now putting the question on is whether the amendment to section 2 of the Bill proposed by the Honourable Chief Official Member should stand as part of that Bill.

MR. JAMES M. BROOKS: I have an amendment which I want to put....

MR. CHAIRMAN: That comes later....

MR. JAMES M. BROOKS: ....with your leave to section 3.

MR. CHAIRMAN: We must first deal with this amendment. If you have an amendment you can move it after we have dealt with this one.

MR. JAMES M. BOOKER: So, I just want to be sure, Sir, that we do not get voted out here without a good fight.

MR. CHAIRMAN: So, we go back to Clause 3 after we have dealt with this amendment so you are quite right. The question is that Clause 3 be amended as proposed by the Honourable Third Official Member. In other words the question is that the proposal must appear be included in the Clause.

QUESTION PUT: AYES AND NOES.

MR. JAMES M. BOOKER: I voted against it before, Sir, and I am going to vote against it now. I just wanted the ruling of the Chair.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Mr. ...

MR. M. MORRISON BUSH: I just want it recorded, Sir, that I voted no.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Sorry?

MR. M. MORRISON BUSH: I just want it recorded, Sir. I did not think it was clear. I voted for that amendment.

MR. CHAIRMAN: If you want to vote again....

MR. M. MORRISON BUSH: Could I have a division, Sir?

MR. CHAIRMAN: Absolute.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I therefore the Amendment carried.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: AMENDMENT TO CLAUSE 3 PASSED.

MR. CHAIRMAN: So now what we are doing is....

MR. JAMES M. BOOKER: Shall now just the amendment to put it before the House. My still have not had the discussion on that. We now still further discuss that.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I am afraid you have taken the words out of my mouth. What I was going to say next that what we now include in Clause 3 as amended. It is permissible to seek permission to move further amendments to the clause.

MR. JAMES H. DOUGLAS: Will I beg permission, Sir.

MR. CHAIRMAN: What do you beg permission to....

MR. JAMES H. DOUGLAS: Under section 3, subsection (2) I would like to propose $9 where $15 is proposed now.

MR. D. SCOTT MACKAY: The Member has to ask leave of the House under Standing Order 34.

MR. CHAIRMAN: So strictly, then you may have permission under section 34(1) of Standing Orders to move an amendment. Secondly, I take note that your proposed amendment is that the figure "nine" be substituted for the figure "fifty" in the first line of the clause. Is it the first time in fact?

MR. JAMES H. DOUGLAS: Yes, Sir.

MR. CHAIRMAN: The effect, so that everybody understands, is that the increase in the duty on cigarettes should be $5 per thousand....

MR. JAMES H. DOUGLAS: Instead of $15.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Do you want to speak to your amendment?

MR. JAMES H. DOUGLAS: Yes, Sir. First of all, Sir, I want to make clear that I am not doing it particularly for specific reasons I have. I do not want it to be misunderstood.

MR. WILBERT G. STRICKER: Mr. Chairman, he gave himself away. He has a special interest.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think he is entitled to elucidate on his remarks.

MR. JAMES H. DOUGLAS: I should only probably smoke two each if we could get the duty increased to maybe $200 per thousand it might be better for me personally. However,....

MR. S. HAZARD MITCHELL: Is that an amendment, Sir?

MR. JAMES H. DOUGLAS: On the merits of it, Sir, I feel that the increase is too much and I am generally against this Bill anyway. I could be persuaded readily to vote in favour of the "$10.00" the way it stands but personally I am against most of the items in this Bill because I feel as I said in the beginning that it is a very unfair Bill, and we should have been supplied with more information. So therefore I do stand in opposition to that way. I do not know whether anybody else is going to help the public very much in view of the other heavy taxes which have been put on lately and the heavy burden the people will have to carry. However, those who smoke might appreciate to get an extra dollar to do. So therefore I beg your leave to put my amendment to section 3.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I gave you the house already. You are now....

MR. JAMES M. BOGGES: I was just doing it again to be sure you....

MR. CHAIRMAN: You are urging Members to vote for your amendment?

MR. JAMES M. BOGGES: Yes.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Well, what is now before the House is a further amendment to Clause 4, the effect of which would be to replace the figure "ten" in the last line of the clause with the figure "nine".

MR. J. HALE ROGERS: Mr. Chairman, I speak in favour of the amendment just proposed by the Hon. Elected Member for Rankin Town. The effect would be to increase the duty on cigarettes by two cents a pack, rather than the four cents per pack of twenty which had been proposed in the Bill before the House. This seems like a small figure to be dealing with but as I mentioned in my remarks, an increase of four cents would mean the Government must put on five cents. The retailer would then probably just another one cent on the cost so that the packet would retail by retail means cents a pack. The amendment which is before the House now would mean that the increase in the price of a pack of cigarettes would be three to four cents a pack. In the long run this would not be quite a lot of money because those people who smoke usually smoke one, two or three packs a day and it can mean a substantial difference to a person who is on a limited budget.

Let us say the common labourer who is maybe working by the week is going to buy his cigarettes at the weekend even if they must seven cents more. In this case either I have still suffer. While it is true that cigarettes smoking is not good for health, if a person is in the habit he is going to smoke just like the person who drinks. If we increase the price of the drink he is still going to buy it.

The effect of raising the import tax on cigarettes simply means that we have increased the cost of living because to the smoker the cigarette is part of his living. We have increased the cost of living to that family. If it is the man who smokes and he is the breadwinner he is going to buy cigarettes and maybe the child will not get the same cents candy that he would have had. So whether smoking is morally right or morally wrong, it is not for us to act in judgement here. We have to consider the economic effect on the whole family of increasing the price of the cigarettes.

I am looking forward to the day where smoking will be banned from all coffee rooms where I go for my coffee and so on, but this really has nothing to do with the amendment. What we must decide here is whether we can rightfully increase the cost of living to that family by three and a half cents or by seven cents as proposed in the original Bill before the House. I would say, Sir, to make the increase by two cents a pack to $2 per thousand would be a reasonable increase. Remember it is not just two cents a pack. That is two cents for every pack which a person smokes. It is a habit which I understand ...

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think the honorable Member has made his point. I think everybody will be aware what it is. Thank you.

HON. MARGARET C. JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, I doubt very much that the increase as recommended here will be affecting too many people, because the position in town now is that there are two large supermarkets in the centre of Hamilton selling cigarettes at $5 or $5 cents a pack, while all other establishments around town are selling them at $5 per pack. If we go to the hotels and elsewhere we find that cigarettes are being sold at over a dollar per pack. So there is confusion with persons in town. The story is that just across a road here is not going to affect too many people because those people who are selling at $4.90 cents and $5 cents per pack-size going to be very cautious of the increase which they put on a pack of cigarettes.

MR. JAMES M. DUNKLEY: I am obliged, Sir, at the way the Honourable South Pembroke Member of Executive Council is speaking and suggested that he do not come up to date with local prices that he is because if he wants to go to Queen-Street he can buy them for seventy five cents a pack.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Well, thank you for the enlightening information about cigarettes....

MR. JAMES M. DUNKLEY: No, no! ....

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think we now will put the question on the First Elected Member for Pembroke South's amendment, which is noting Members in favour say aye of them are in favour of forgetting to that Clause 3 should be amended in such a way that the figure $10,000 in the first line thereof ($5,000).

QUESTION PUT: AYES AND NOES

MR. CHAIRMAN: I am not sure that the mover of the amendment voted on his own amendment, but....

MR. JAMES M. DUNKLEY: Yes, I was considered, Sir. (LAUGHTER). I was waiting for them to vote you.

MR. CHAIRMAN: But you have to say aye if you were in favour of your amendment.

MR. JAMES M. DUNKLEY: I was waiting for them to vote first. Sir, so that I could....

MR. E. GERARD GUTTERY: We have lost the chance, Sir.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I am afraid you have lost your chance.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I confirm that Clause 3 stands part of the Bill.

HON. THOMAS O. MBOTHWA: Mr. Chairman, Sir, nonetheless with Standing Order 68(3) I seek leave of the House to move a Committee Stage amendment.

MR. CHAIRMAN: It is actually Standing Order 68(2), but leave is granted.

HON. THOMAS O. MBOTHWA: Yes, Sir.

"That Section 5 of the Bill be amended -

(a) by the deletion of the word and numeral "Item 2" appearing in line 2 thereof and the substitution therefor of the word and numerals "Items 2 and 3"; and

(b) by the insertion immediately before the words to be substituted item 2 of the following Item -

"3. Ocean to passenger - Per package 1.50"

MR. CHAIRMAN: I have given leave. Do you wish to speak to your amendment to explain it?

HON. THOMAS O. MBOTHWA: Mr. Chairman, this basically deals with the first schedule of the Customs Act, particularly on charges both in the ocean to passenger, as well as unaccompanied goods.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Would I be right to say that your amendment, and it is also with the amendment alone which follows, is simply to add passenger goods to unaccompanied goods.

HON. THOMAS O. MBOTHWA: Yes, Sir.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Does anybody wish to speak to the amendment? I will then put the question that the amendment stands part of Clause 5.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. AMENDMENT TO CLAUSE 5 PASSED.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Now is that Clause 5 as amended stand part of the Bill.

HON. C. KATO MOSES: Mr. Chairman. Before you put the question I would like to beg leave of the House to move an amendment to this section.

MR. CHAIRMAN. If I may remind you, you do not beg leave of the House. You seek my recognition under Standing Order 8(2). It has been the practice in respect of this particular Bill I am perfectly prepared to grant it in principle. Can you tell me what the amendment is?

MR. C. KITT HOUSE: Yes, Mr. Chairman. The amendment I would like is that the figure "0.50" be changed to "0.60".

MR. CHAIRMAN: It is both places where the figure of "0.50 appears, because it will not appear in two places?

MR. G. RATE SCOTT: Yes, Mr. Chairman.

MR. CHAIRMAN: So your amendment is that in Clause 6 as amended.....It says "Weighs 0.50" but it also says fifty cents also it after it says "Weighs"?

MR. C. KITT HOUSE: It should be fifty cents.

MAJ. THOMAS D. PETERSON. It should be as it is stated, Mr. Chairman. It is taken from the First Schedule of the Customs Tax regarding unpackaged goods.

MR. CHAIRMAN: The 0.50 refers to ninty five ml? That is my question.

MAJ. THOMAS D. PETERSON- Fifty cents.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Although it does not actually say cents in this Bill, when one gets it know the tax is in cents that is the cents.

MR. G. RATE SCOTT: Yes, in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons it says that it was being changed from one cents to fifty cents. My amendment would mean that it would change from one cents to twenty cents. In other words it will increase by just 100 per cent rather than 500 per cent.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Is that clear?

MR. G. RATE SCOTT: Yes.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Then the amendment proposed now is - Clause 6 is that in both cases where the figures "0.50" mentioning fifty cents appear, they should be changed to "0.60" meaning twenty cents.

MR. G. RATE SCOTT: Mr. Chairman, if I may speak to that amendment, it seems unreasonable to increase the package tax by such a large percentage. I understand that this particular tax has remained at the same for a long time, and perhaps it is reasonable to have a slight increase. However, I think that the increase fifty cents would be excessive and should not be allowed. I therefore would ask the Members to support my amendments to make the increase to twenty cents.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Thank you. I will put the question. I think all Members know what it is.

MR. CLYDE H. HOUSE: Mr. Chairman, can we speak on that amendment?

MR. CHAIRMAN: The Member has spoken out...

MR. JAMES M. SCOTTEN: Well, no one else has had a chance to speak on it, Sir. I would like to speak on it.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Alright.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTTEN: I would like to go back to my previous question, Mr. Chairman, and see if the Honourable Third Opposition Member could give us any estimate as to the amount of revenue which we are hoping to receive from this item, and what we can reasonably raise. If we increase $10,000 more, if we only pass up 500 per cent then we will receive $50,000. Do we have any estimate of it?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. Chairman, it is estimated that it will raise $60,000.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTTEN: With the increase or without the increase?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: With the increase.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTTEN: So we must be...

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: With the increase to fifty cents.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTTEN: So we must be receiving then about $25,000 more.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Exactly.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTTEN: Well, I am personally against this increase, Mr. Chairman. A 500 per cent increase on one item seems to be a very large amount and this Legislature would like to be looked on as being a responsible Legislature I am sure. I could go along with the increase because I understand the reason why it should be increased. I could go along with an increase from ten to twenty cents but I could not go along with an increase from ten to fifty cents. I think that is really too large and I would have to amend anything to get fifty cents. I am very much in favour of the ten twenty cents and I would hope that the Members of the Assembly oppose the motion for that, Sir.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Unless any other Members wishes to speak I will...

HON. ROBERT G. POMEROY: Mr. Chairman, because the ten cents has not been in long enough, that is one reason why the proposed increase to fifty cents is badly necessitated.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think that has already...

MR. JAMES M. SCOTTEN: Sure, Mr. Chairman, that is the very reason I think we should not even be considering it. It is so recent. It has been in for only so long. It is looked on as such a really quite light of legislation that I really do not expect that the Members would not come up with something else which might produce their budgets rather than coming up with items like this. A 500 per cent increase is really too much.

MRS. MARGE G. SCHERER: Put the question, Sir.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I was trying to put the question earlier. I will put the question that the amendment proposed by the Second Ranking Member for Rubber Duck to Clause 5 of the Bill be made.

QUESTION PUT: AYES AND NOES

MR. CHAIRMAN: That amendment has been beat. You will remember that Clause 5 was earlier amended. The amendment moved by the Honourable Second Official Member was rejected. So the question now is whether Clause 5 as amended should stand part of the Bill.

MR. CLARE M. ROBERTS: Amended to what, Sir?

MR. CHAIRMAN: Well, I am not sure whether you have shown me the Bill where was an amendment carried and it was voted on, and....

10.15 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.

If I may I will express the regret of the staff of the House for the fact that the Orders of the Day were so late in reaching Members, with the result that we are neither fit for starting this morning. There was a problem as a result of which the Orders had to be re-typed at the last moment. Subject to Members' concurrence, since we are ten minutes late in starting I would propose to allow questions three to continue until 11.15 this morning. I am sure that I shall be told by the honourable Second Official Member that some notice is necessary for this purpose but maybe my watch will run slow.

Item 1, presentation of Papers and Reports.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

AGRICULTURE COMMITTEE REPORT

HON. DENNIS H. FOSTER: Mr. President, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Agriculture Committee's Report.

MR. PRESIDENT: So ordered.

FINANCE COMMITTEE REPORT

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Finance Committee Report of 10th December, 1994.

MR. PRESIDENT: So ordered.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, the Meeting held on 7th December, 1994 approved a total supplementary expenditure of $176,780.00. A breakdown of that total, Mr. President, is as follows:-

(1) HEAD 10 - FINANCE
SUB-HEAD 10-001 - CONSERVATION $16,380.00
Funds required for compensation to Mr. Marlon Davies for crops.
The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town voted against the supplementary appropriation.

(2) HEAD 18 - JUDICIAL
SUB-HEAD 7-084 - COURT OF APPEAL $81,400.00
Funds required to meet expenses of the Court of Appeal to year end.
The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town voted against the supplementary appropriation.

(3) HEAD 19 - AGRICULTURE
SUB-HEAD 99-018 - FARM IMPROVEMENT (Add.,000)
ADD 7-018 - FARMERS AND APPRENTICES (Add.,000) $78,000.00
Funds required to clear the outstanding bills incurred by the previous Chief Agricultural and Veterinary Officer.
The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town voted against the request.

MR. HOWARD C. ANDERSON (CONTINUING):

(1) HEAD 16 - HEALTH, EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES
SUB-HEAD 08-002 - HOMES OF MENTAL VIEW.....$10,000.00
Funds requested to implement the remedial measures at the Mona Retirement Home in your seat.

(2) HEAD 16 - HEALTH, EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES
SUB-HEAD 08-020 - OVERSEAS MEDICAL CASES.....$25,000.00
Funds required to pay the medical expenses of the late Master Williams.

(3) HEAD 45 - CAPITAL
SUB-HEAD 1-8 - VEHICLES.....$ 6,000.00
Funds required to provide a van for the police drug dept.

CI$175,000.00

There was a statement requested on this? during that Meeting, Mr. President, but the request was withdrawn pending a detailed proposal for the establishment of District Fire Brigades, to be presented by the Honourable Minister at the forthcoming Budget Meeting of the Legislative Assembly.

Other reasons which arose was the need for the Chairman to show funds for the re-construction of the Lands court at the Cayman Brac High School.

The Appropriation, Mr. President, the Minutes of that Meeting indicate that the Second Elected Member for West Bay, was not present. In fact, Mr. President, he was not an apologies for the error.

There was also, Mr. President, a minority report given by the Second Elected Member for Western Town dealing with the Cayman Brac Fire Service previously mentioned.

MR. SPEAKER: In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 27(4), this House is deemed to have agreed to the motion.

ADOPTION OF CERTAIN LEGISLATIVE PAPERS AND PAPERS NOT LAID

HON. M. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, I lay on the table of this Honourable House the Audited Financial Statements of Cayman Airways Limited and Cayman Air Holdings Limited for the financial year ended 30th June, 1984.

MR. SPEAKER: So ordered.

HON. M. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, as provided under Standing Order 18 I have already laid my statement on these statements until I am debating the Budget Address and the Throne Speech.

MR. SPEAKER: Thank you. Have copies of the statements been distributed to Members, or will copies be made available as well as the copy laid on the table?

HON. M. NORMAN BODDEN: They will be made available, Sir. They are here in the House at the present time.

MR. SPEAKER: Perhaps the Clerk could put the Statement to Distribute them in due course.

Item 8, questions. The Elected Member for North Side.

QUESTIONS

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR NORTH SIDE TO ASK THE HONOURABLE JUNIOR OFFICIAL MEMBER RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

NO. 1: Would the Member state the amount of revenue collected for the months of January and February, 1985, and how does it compare with the same months for 1984?

ANSWER: Revenue collected during the period 1st January, 1984, to 29th February, 1984, was $13,538,213.84 compared with 1st January, 1985, to 28th February, 1985, of $12,066,700.78.

MR. SPEAKER: Unless there is any Member wishing to ask a supplementary I will invite the Elected Member for North Side to ask question No. 2.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR NORTH SIDE TO ASK THE HONOURABLE JUNIOR ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR DEVELOPMENT AND FINANCE

NO. 2: Would the Member state how many mortgages have been issued by the Housing Corporation and what were the qualifications and conditions for the terms of the loans.

ANSWER: Since the Housing Development Corporation became operational in August, 1984, 35 mortgage loans have been approved out of a total of 49 applications. Twelve of these 35 are shared loans and 2 are guaranteed loans.

The basic qualifications and conditions for the terms of the loans are as follows:

(1) Borrower Qualifications

(a) Satisfactory credit history
(b) Steady employment - the gross minimum income presumption or related capacity
(c) Maximum Ratios of GDS, TDS etc.
(d) Monthly mortgage payments (principal, interest and insurance) cannot exceed 25 per cent of borrowed earnings
(e) Total monthly payments including mortgage payments and any other revolving monthly repayments cannot exceed 35 per cent of borrowed earnings
(f) Applicant must be Belgrade or have Belgrade status

(2) Property Qualifications

(a) Employment must be adequate for usual-determined needs - conventional family dwelling
(b) Minimum Income: $6,500 min. gr., adequate for $5,000 eq. fr. semi-attached
(c) Vehicular access to public road
(d) Necessary Improvements: water, e.g., Public Health, Central Planning Authority
(e) Conditions: market appeal, general appearance
(f) Adult/dependents: unestablished
(g) Minimum 1 bedroom, 1 bathroom.

(3) Loan Conditions
(a) Maximum loan amount = $12,000
Minimum = $5,000
(b) Minimum term = 5 years
Maximum term = 25 years
(c) Interest ranging from 5% to 8% per annum 2 per cent, depending on income. Base rate adjusted every 6 months announced at Press Release Home - Book Office Notice for 6 months thereafter
(d) Insurance to maintain on both the property and the policyholder's life, the latter in at least the full amount of the loan borrowed
(e) Property must be maintained in such a condition as to protect the mortgage market value, and failure to do so would be considered as a default in the terms of the mortgage.

SUPPLEMENTARY:

MR. D. EDMUND WILLIS: Supplementary, Mr. President, would the Minister state under the borrowing qualifications if any consideration is given to the value of assets which an individual might own rather than just his income of up to $12,000. In other words, suppose somebody has assets which are worth $250,000 but only an income of $8,000 could they still qualify for a loan?

MR. MARCUS G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, unfortunately we have not been able to understand one another by the Opposition simply because there are no funds. However, from the schedule of applications which I am in the process the net worth of each applicant is stated and these range from anywhere in the vicinity of $40,000. to over $100,000. So the net worth of the applicants is also taken into consideration.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no further supplementary question I will invite the Member for North Side to ask Question No. 5.

THE PLACING MEMBER FOR NORTH SIDE TO ASK THE HONOURABLE MINISTER RESPONSIBLE FOR GOVERNMENT OWNED HOUSES OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBILITY FOR DEPARTMENTS AND MINISTRY PERSONNEL

NO. 5: Would the Member please state the financial position of the Cayman Islands Housing Corporation in?

ANSWER: The financial position of the Housing Development Corporation as at 31st December, 1965, showed a deficit of $72,809 of which $16,188 were income from the year ended 31st May, 1965. The Corporation showed the receipts on the 5th August, 1965. The accumulated deficit has created because the Corporation's income is not easy until its commitments to the end of construction and cannot therefore meet the loan repayments given at an average level. Secondly, the Corporation came into operation without a capital allowance to assist its financially in the early days of its operations.

SUPPLEMENTARY:

MR. LIONEL A. FERNAND: Supplementary, Mr. President. We have heard the deficit position. Could the Member state what efforts are being made through the Portfolio to obtain the necessary funds for the Housing Corporation?

HON. VICTOR C. JOHNSON: Mr. President, the Board of the Corporation has instructed me to write to Government, which I have already done. The correspondence was addressed to the Honourable Financial Secretary, asking whether it was possible that the loan made by Government in the sum of $117,000 would not be capitalized in order to put the accounts of the Corporation on a much better financial position. A letter has already been forwarded to the Honourable Financial Secretary and I am now awaiting a reply.

MR. LIONEL A. FERNAND: Mr. President, just a clarification of that. Is the Member stating that $117,000 has been removed from Government and that that will be put into the Housing Corporation's funds? I was not quite clear on that point.

HON. VICTOR C. JOHNSON: Sorry, Mr. President. The $117,000 is a loan made to the Corporation further back years to assist it in the gathering of funds for current funding. We are asking that that loan be now converted into the capital of Government in order to have sufficient funds to meet this deficit and the development of the Board.

MR. E. PEARCE MILLER: A supplementary, Mr. President. In the answer the Member stated that the revenue is only until the completion to the end of construction. If the revenue from the Board cannot cover the expenses what efforts is being made to reduce expenses, that is both in terms of personnel emoluments and accommodation now occupied by the Housing Authority?

HON. VICTOR C. STEVENS: Mr. President, in terms of staffing I do not think that we can reduce what is there now; beyond the two members, the manager and a secretary. As far as the accommodation is concerned we have also requested that the offices in which the Corporation now operates, which is at the airport, formerly the Freight offices of Cayman Airways for which a rental of $12,000 per annum is being paid, be transferred to the Tower building. That they would be later used as rentals. As far as the financial position of the Corporation is concerned it is anticipated that that will not increase to sufficiently cover overhead and other expenses until the loan portfolio has reached approximately the sum of over $3 million.

MR. C. RAY JORDAN: Mr. President, may I ask if it is a fact that there would be no deficit if the banks had purchased the bonds?

MRS. MARGARET H. FINNEGAN: Mr. President, that is not so because the banks purchasing bonds are held as loans and not revenue. Revenue can only arrive if there is a surplus of money deposited and the interest goes to the Government. However, without any money there there is no deficiency either.

MR. JAMES M. BOSTON: Mr. President, a parliamentary. Based on what the Member has just said I might assume that if an increased allowance by the Federal government on the basis of 5 per cent on it is in the loan possible, and that money had been put on deposit at whatever the amount rate is, or had been loaned out on mortgages to help the middle income people of the country, would it not have provided quite a substantial income?

MRS. MARGARET G. FINNEGAN: Mr. President, that is correct. I have said just now that when the loan principle reaches a level of approximately 50 billion in money when it comes sufficient income from those investments, then it will be able to meet its commitments. If the banks had substantial large sums of money the same would happen. There would be sufficient money to re-lend and it not to build on deposit. There would generate an income as well.

MR. JAMES M. BOSTON: Will the lady yield to the Second District Member for Dallas County for interest to inquire?

MRS. MARGARET G. FINNEGAN: Please repeat the question.

MR. JAMES M. BOSTON: In view of what you have just explained was the answer you gave to the Second District Member on the Dallas County on his previous comment or statement?

MRS. MARGARET G. FINNEGAN: I cannot remember the question read by the Second District Member for Dallas County. Will you please repeat it?

MR. C. RAY JORDAN: The question I asked was, is it not a fact that the banks people who bonds that the Commission should not now be in a deficit problem?

MRS. MARGARET G. FINNEGAN: It all depends on how many bonds they bought. To answer the loan buying bonds would make record the title.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think there might have been some slight confusion....

MR. JAMES M. BOSTON: Let me ask it this then, Mr. President. We have, as indicated in the budget speech, I think approximately 600 thousand banking institutions in the country and when the Government comptroller....

MR. E. EDWARD HILLIS: Point of order. The Member is making a statement, Sir. He has not asked a question.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am hoping that he is coming to his question. He must not make too long a statement.

MR. JAMES M. COOPER: If you please I will not take the question. I am quite familiar with the standing orders of the House. I do not need to be taught by you.

MR. SPEAKER: You may address your remarks to the Chair, not to other Members.

MR. JAMES M. COOPER: Certainly, in future I will then. My question, Mr. Speaker....well if no other words then, he should not have said it. You should have been the one to speak.

MR. SPEAKER: No, he did rise on a point of order but anybody speaking rises address the Speaker.

MR. JAMES M. COOPER: The idea of these brief one sentence questions followed on the Government and Opposition sides respectively, of each of them had submitted to the manner in which it was understood that they could subscribe, would there not have been sufficient money in the Consolidated Fund on the 31st December for the interest mentioned, that there would have been no deficit.

MR. WILBERT C. JOHNSON: Mr. Speaker, I agree entirely with what the Member has said. If all of these 400 jumps and big insurance companies had made contribution to the Housing Corporation as required, we should have had sufficient funds, unfortunately, however, they did not.

MR. JAMES M. COOPER: What attempt is being made at the present time to ensure that we get contribution from these financial institutions?

MR. WILBERT C. JOHNSON: Mr. Speaker, we are now in the process of negotiating with the banks again, and not only with the banks but with the general public for contributions towards the needs of the Housing Corporation. There have been indications that will that there be confidence in the Government again, which we did not unfortunately enjoy....

MR. JAMES M. COOPER: A point of order, Mr. Speaker. The Member is deputy that there was no lack of confidence in the previous Government, and I for one would have thought that you would have brought that out immediately and would have stopped him.

MR. SPEAKER: I think he was saying that there was not right, not "no" lack of confidence and I think that he is entitled to do that. I do not think that that is unparliamentary.

MR. WILBERT M. BROWNE: Well, Mr. Speaker, if those are a task in the last administration, indeed I seriously doubt the wisdom of the programme which this meeting made, I think time will certainly tell you that there will be a terrible look on it this time.

MR. SPEAKER: I think that is the end of the point of order. I think the Member was still answering the question. Am I right? When the first Minister took over he was on a point of order and I think that you were still negotiating your reply as a supplementary. You were saying that there is an indication that the public have confidence in the Government....

MRS. VALERIE C. JENNESS: See, I was saying that we are now in the process of approaching not only the banks and trust companies, but the public in general for support for the needs of the Housing Corporation.

MR. JAMES M. ROGERS: Well, in view, Mr. President, of the complete lack of confidence at the present time in the trustee administration, would the Member explain how he plans to approach the financial institutions in order to raise funds?

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think that that is really an unanswerable supplementary because it contains a statement of opinion on the beginning of the supplementary. If you omit the statement or expression of opinion then it would be admissible.

MR. JAMES M. ROGERS: Well, Mr. President, I think I will let my question stand as it is because in view of your ruling how can one possibly give a reply?

MR. PRESIDENT: Because there is a perfectly plausible answer under which rebuttal expressions of opinion is questions. That plausible answer does not extend to rebuttal.

MR. JAMES M. ROGERS: Could the Member state how much money was available in the Corporation's funds as at 31st December, 1956, and how much is available now?

MR. MACGILLIVRAY: I do not think that is really a supplementary that arises directly out of this question. I rather think that the Member has put that question already.

MR. JAMES M. ROGERS: I did not have the key change one year here. I thought my questions may have been taken out the view of this new policy of which one question. However, I would think that it would follow this because the question is, "Would the Member state what the financial position of the Citizen Interests Housing Corporation was as at 31st December, 1956?" My question is then how much money was at hand on 31st December, 1956? If one knows what the financial condition is now one must know what the financial condition was on 31st December, 1956.

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think that it is reasonable to expect the Member to be able to specify on some particular point date or a whole range of transactions what the financial condition was without having been informed beforehand that he is going to be asked that. This question asks not what the financial condition is now. If you want to know what it was on 31st December, or 31st June or whatever date it may be, then I think that constitutes a plausible question. I think that the question which you have just put will be answering later.

MR. JAMES M. ROGERS: Mr. President, I thought that was the ordinary purpose of asking questions. You anticipate the supplementary questions which will be asked and have the answers available.

MR. PRESIDENT: That above opinion is, indeed reason. The supplementary must arise out of the answer given to the original question. We have strayed a little far already but I do not think that we should stray further. Now the Elected Member for North Side. We have been waiting for a long time..

MR. D. RICHARD HOLMES: Could the Member state what the salaries are of the two officers of the Corporation.

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think that that is an administrative matter either. If you want to have information on specific matters you must put down a specific question.

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY: Could the Member tell us how much money has been loaned by the Corporation since 21st November, 1934.

MR. PRESIDENT: Again I think....

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, all the loans which were made by the Board or approved by the Board were made before that date. All the loans have not been finally negotiated or loaned as yet but they have been committed and I gave the answer here from the question which was asked. No new loans have been made since that date.

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY: Mr. President, I am sadly sure how much was loaned out committed before 21st November, 1934. He has really answered my question by saying that there have been no loans since that date. However, I would like to have another question. If the Member would advise the Legislative Assembly how much has been collected from the sale of debentures since 21st November, 1934.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I understand that a commitment has been made recently by a banking institution but as far as I am aware those monies have not been collected yet. So, from the date the Member is mentioning there, no loans have been collected.

MR. PRESIDENT: No debentures have been collected?

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY: A supplementary, Sir. If my memory serves me correct, in the short time that the Housing Corporation was in existence in 1934 before the election there was probably close to B.D.$550,000 sold in debentures. Since 21st November, 1934, there has been no further sale of debentures. Would that not give an indication that there is a complete lack of faith in the administration, as no attempt has been made to collect any money?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Yes, Sir, it is coming forward from dates previous to the one the Member is mentioning, 21st November, 1934.

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY: No, but my question is, in view of the large amount of money which has been collected in past effort months, would it not show a lack of confidence in this administration if none has been sold since this administration was taken over?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I agree that there were quite a number of loans made to the Corporation shortly last year. However, from the period shortly after the middle of the year no further loans were made to the Corporation and the reason for it is not known. I am sure that when new efforts to sell the remaining of funds for the Corporation loans will be made again. As far as confidence in this Government is concerned that is not questionable at this stage, Sir. There is plenty of confidence in this Government.

MR. JAMES M. RODGERS: Just as a matter of opinion, I would like a clarification, Mr. President, as what the Member just said. Did he say that there had been no allowable amount of debentures sold since the middle of last year? What I have reference on that?

HON. PAUL G. JOHNSON: I said debentures were issued last year, but during the latter part of the year there were none. I am not too sure of the reason for that.

MR. JAMES M. RODGERS: Would the Member state whether there are any debentures issued in the Corporation or if it was that the money is derived from the sale of debentures?

HON. PAUL G. JOHNSON: Whatever use would have to be. If they are debentures issued by the Corporation, debentures are payable on income. There is actually any difference between one and the other.

MR. JAMES M. RODGERS: Could the Member state what industries have been made with the financial institutions where the Member planned to assure that they place their trust and confidence in this Government by buying more debentures in order to finance the housing industry?

MR. SPEAKER: I think the Member has already realized that the Housing Corporation was constantly both the public and the banks and other institutions. So I think that really has been answered already. I also think that unless we have the other questions absolutely we shall run out of time. So I will invite the Elected Member for East End to ask his next question.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR EAST END TO ASK HIS SUPPLEMENTARY QUESTION REGARDING THE EXPENDITURE INCURRED BY EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBILITY FOR TOURISM, INDUSTRY AND TRADE

NO. 4: Will the Member state the cost of the second official opening of the new airport terminal?

ANSWER: The cost of the supplemental opening of the new terminal building at Owen Roberts International Airport was $6,047.90

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JAMES M. RODGERS: Could the Member state what this covers; whether this was for food and drink and so forth, or what?

HON. NORMAN RANKIN: There were various expenses; food, printing, public address system, a plaque, flower and the cost of a band.

MR. JAMES M. RODGERS: Would this cover the cost of the security and at fourth also?

HON. N. NORMAN RANKIN: I do not have that there were any additional expenses incurred for security at this time. I have no record of any expenses for security.

MR. JAMES M. RODGERS: The Member did mention about a plaque, Mr. President, so in view of that I think that I should be entitled to ask the following question. There was a plaque presented at the first official opening of the terminal building from the residents of Cayman to the people of the Cayman Islands. I do not think

MR. JAMES M. HODGES (CONTINUING): What plaque has ever been put up and I wonder whether the Speaker intends to have it put on the walls of the terminal building?

MR. PRESIDENT: I take the Member's point but even if I do not identify which that is a proper supplementary. It did a perfectly proper question and if you right to put it does it can be accepted to be taken. However, it is not really a supplementary which arises out of this.

MR. JAMES M. HODGES: I agree with you finally, but in view of the fact that he mentioned it I thought that it could arise no latitude. I know this is the appropriate place to deal with it will be in the budget speech and I will merely direct there and ask it, Sir.

MR. JOHN M. MCCARTHY: Mr. President, a supplementary. Will the Member say why a second official opening was necessary?

HON. M. MICHAEL HOGGINS: Mr. President, in my view an official opening ought on occasion when a public building is declared open for public use. The terminal was not available for public use until 26th January and as far as I am concerned that is when the official opening took place.

MR. S. WALTER HOOSEN: Mr. President, as this has never happened before can the Member say why was it necessary to associate with a Government building? What is the relevance of question, when a bank is opened there is an official opening. The next week or the next day or the month when the staff begin work in it there is no operational opening. Why was Government's money wasted for an operational opening?

MR. PRESIDENT: The supplementary cannot contain an explanation of opinion. You cannot ask why was Government's money wasted. You can ask why Government's money was spent if you wish.

MR. S. WALTER HOOSEN: Mr. President, why was Government's money spent for an operational opening?

HON. M. MICHAEL HOGGINS: Because it was considered important by Government that the date on which the building was put into use should be marked with a special occasion.

MR. D. EDWARD MITCHELL: A supplementary, Mr. President. Since both speakers have been mentioned, I wonder if I could ask the Member how the cost for the second official opening compares to the cost of the previous opening of the other building. (Laughter).

MR. PRESIDENT: By acquiescence of silence. (Laughter).

MR. M. MICHAEL HOGGINS: Mr. President, the cost of the first ceremony referred to was $17,507.15.

MR. M. MICHAEL HOGGINS: What a waste of money Hyde.

MR. JAMES M. HODGES: Mr. President, it is funny that the Member has it down to the cents for this cause it is supplementary question, when before things of a similar nature could not be answered. However, Mr. President, I think that the explanation has

MR. JAMES M. ROSSOW (CONTINUING): ...judge the opening of the bankers' building and hearing will call the results. Mr. President, the Chair might be in order for the second opening. I did not intend but from some sources which I heard it was an elaborate or more elaborate than the first one. I wonder if some time in the future the Marker could provide like Rules or circulate to the Members the breakdown of the cost of each one of the ceremonies in lieu of the having to present such a distorted view to the Rules.

MRS. M. JANICE MCCORD: Mr. President, I would like time to respond that, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I thought before you spoke, I must caution the Member who has asked the supplementary that possibly it distorted view" do agree on perception is my view. The question for the Chair remains open.

MR. JAMES M. ROSSOW: Mr. President, how do I get that you only have like the Ranch Elected Member from Golden Rule, the Elected Member for East and East I say? However....

MR. PRESIDENT: Perhaps because you talk more.

MR. JAMES M. ROSSOW: However, I will like the "distorted" out of it and would appreciate a reply...

MRS. M. JANICE MCCORD: Mr. President, the same Member stated a while ago that he thought that it was normal procedure for a Member of Government to maintain anonymity. The reason why I was able to provide the exact cost of the ceremony was because I anticipated that there would be a questioning as that extent. However, I am pleased to see that he has taken out "distortion" because I can assure that Member that I do not deal with distorted facts. Right I have requested have the audit accounts, supplied to me by the Controller, and with more permission I can disseminate it at any time to Members of this House for their perusal. I only did that much.

MR. JAMES M. ROSSOW: Mr. President, in view of the fourth point I don't think it be in order to interpret this to the House so that we have a breakdown furnished. I have already heard...

MR. PRESIDENT: What is what was asked and he has endeavoured to provide the breakdown.

MR. JAMES M. ROSSOW: Not just the total figures, I want a breakdown of what was incurred the first time. What it was spent for and then also it was spent for the second time.

MR. PRESIDENT: What do my understanding....

MR. JAMES M. ROSSOW: I do not want just the bar "What" Figures, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: My understanding is that he is understanding.....

MR. JAMES M. BOOCHEVER: Is that what the Member is prepared to give?

HON. M. BRYANT MACKAY: I have the Hansard, Mr. President, and with your permission I can give them to the Member now if he wants them.

MR. PRESIDENT: Yes, I think if you distribute them it would be better because we have several more questions on the Order Paper.

MR. C. RAY MACKAY: Mr. President, may I ask:-

1) If it is Government's policy to have second openings, and

2) If there is any precedent for fake openings?

MR. PRESIDENT: The first of these questions has been answered already and the second is inadmissible.

HON. M. BRYANT MACKAY: I think the precedent for fake openings has been set.

MR. PRESIDENT: Order, order

MR. JAMES M. BOOCHEVER: Mr. President....

MR. PRESIDENT: Order, order. Please be seated. I am reserving on this and identifying the Second Elected Member for George Town to ask the next question.

MR. JAMES M. BOOCHEVER: Mr. President, please. The Member said....

MR. PRESIDENT: I have asked the Second Elected Member for George Town to ask the next question. Please be seated.

MR. LINDLEY A. STEWART: Mr. President, with your permission, Sir, I would like to rephrase the order of the questions here.

MR. PRESIDENT: No, I am afraid not. If the questions as now are reached today, then it will be possible to put them down for tomorrow.

MR. LINDLEY A. PIERSON: Mr. President, may I make a statement here to explain why I requested that?

MR. PRESIDENT: Yes,

MR. LINDLEY A. STEWART: When I rephrased my questions, they were submitted for a purpose and for certain information. If there are changed on the Order of the Day there is no way that I am going to get the kind of answer which I request from these questions. The first part of this question, the way I understood it, was that Mr. X should be asked before Mr. Y. Now, this was changed without my permission, or without inquiring me here. So to ask Mr. X before Mr. Y can be in any to not what I really intended to ask. However, I will go ahead if this answer be changed.

MR. SHEETSKY: May I just look at this. Do you mean that you had Nos. 3 and 5 down as one question?

MR. EDWARD A. PATTISON: No, Sir, what I mean is that when I submitted my question... I was part of the question and No. 5 was next two. I was further told that they would have to be divided into two questions, but to ask No. 5 as it is here before No. 3 in order to get the most before the house.

MR. SPEAKER: I see. Very well, if that happened I will allow you to ask question No. 5 before question No. 3.

MR. EDWARD A. PATTISON: Mr. Speaker, I beg to ask the Honourable Prime Minister whether Members were informed of the Government question No. 3 on the question paper.

MR. SPEAKER: It is the last item,...

MR. EDWARD A. PATTISON: It would be renumbered as No. 4. It is No. 5 now.

MR. SPEAKER: It is No. 5, yes.

HON. EDWARD P. PATTISON: Mr. Speaker, just to make the matter clear, Sir. On the Supplementary Order submitted to us, right now the question No. 5. There was no change as far as the question was asked.

MR. SPEAKER: The reason the Business Committee has made a change?

HON. EDWARD P. PATTISON: No.

MR. EDWARD A. PATTISON: Mr. Speaker, that may be the case I think it...

MR. SPEAKER: I think we should not get into the reasons as the questions of Members remain in whatever order and Answering matters. There are only a few more minutes for question time.

THE SECOND SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER WAS THEN READ BY THE SPEAKER AND THE QUESTION WAS ASKED BY THE HONOURABLE MEMBER FOR BONAVISTA NORTH.

No. 5/ In view of the non-existing balance sheet of the Provincial Exchequer as at 31st October, 1954, would the Member advise the current balance of that date?

ANSWER: The current balance of Government's Provincial position as at 31st October, 1954, were as follows:

(a)	General Revenue	$(10,005,565
(b)	Sinking Balance	837,579
(c)	Public Debt (see Appendix I)	8,567,923
(d)	Self Financing Debt (see Appendix I)	2,755,644
(e)	Loans due to Government	10,700,000
(f)	Some Overdrafts	5,555,892
(g)	Amounts due from Canadian Development Corp.	2,145,457

SUPPLEMENTARIES

MR. EDWARD A. PICKERING: Supplementary, Mr. President. Is it possible, and I am sure that the publicity has anticipated, that the Member might give us a breakdown of the General Resources Fund expired at the 31st October, 1968?

MR. PRESIDENT: I have not seen the statistical answer, but my understanding is that that was what he was giving you.

MR. EDWARD A. PICKERING: With respect, Mr. President, what the Member gave was the total balance as at the 31st October, 1968. I am asking for a detailed breakdown which is a more difficult matter.

HON. JAMES C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I believe that the Member is looking for attached to the answer. The Treasury document is attached to the answer.

MR. EDWARD A. PICKERING: A supplementary, Mr. President. Would the Member state if the Surplus referred to as Development Funds of $4,993,291.00 which was added to the surplus position has been included anywhere else under expenditure, as being a part of the supplementary, say, on the Loans Authority?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, the answer to your question is: With regard to the Trade Authority the figure $1,693,000 is in the supplementary, Mr. President. There is a difference between the $3.8 million which is an amount due from Development Bank, this is included in the Trade Authority position, $7,193,291.

MR. JAMES M. BOSTIC: The supplementary question which was mentioned a while ago, would that not have been reversed up in the payment of the loan funds by Caribbean Development Bank?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, the amount of the funds that Jean mentioned Development Bank, that is $3,158,960 were received in late November. That would reduce the investment amount by that portion. It would also increase the public debt by a similar amount.

MR. JAMES M. BOSTIC: But the question was what off by the funds which were due back to the Government on the Caribbean Development Bank loan?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, the repayment is $2,000,373.00. The amount due from Caribbean Development Bank is $2,158,960. The investment is reduced by that amount when it is received. There is a small provision remaining.

HON. O. MAIS BOYCE: Mr. President, is it not also true that while the normal repayment from Caribbean Development Bank minus our investment, there are funds also forthcoming the Government?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, the arrangement with the Loan Agreement between Caribbean Development Bank and this Government as the Loan Authority Agreement Building and also the Cayman Islands Government have first call that minus from Caribbean Development Bank, is whatever the funds are received they are taken in as revenue under Loans.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am afraid that I am going to have to stop questions like because we are already at the end of the period that I allowed. Before actually stopping it I would invite the attention of those Members whose questions have not yet been reached to Standing Order 23(6), in case they wish to consider their rights under that. Briefly for the information of any Member who is not familiar with the procedure, any question which has not been reached by 11.00 o'clock should be answered in writing unless the Member does to ask the question might like to reconsider with Standing Order 23(6) to have the question postponed and put down on another Order Paper for oral answer.

How does any Member wish to proceed in that might?

STANDING ORDER 23(6)

MR. EDWARD A. PEARCE: Mr. President, I would like to consider my rights under Standing Order 23(6) and have the question postponed until Wednesday if possible.

MR. PRESIDENT: That is question No. 4, which was originally...

MR. EDWARD A. PEARCE: Yes.

MR. JOHN E. MACLEAN: Mr. President, I would like under Standing Order 23(6) to have my question, which is No. 7 on today's Order Paper, answered over until tomorrow.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for Burgeo Fortune, did you mention both your questions, or did you mention just question No. 4?

MR. EDWARD A. PEARCE: Yes, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: You mentioned both did you?

MR. EDWARD A. PEARCE: Both, Nos. 4 and 8.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am so sorry. That is fine. That concludes....

MR. D. GORDON WILLIS: Mr. President, as a point of clarification, Sir, can the Members ask that the questions be put down on the following day or do they have to follow along which is available according to the Business Committee?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think that is a matter - but let me read that anyway. It is a matter for the Business Committee to determine.

MR. D. GORDON WILLIS: Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think a Member has a right to state that his question should necessarily be asked the following day, although I would suggest that the Business Committee would ordinarily put it down for the following day.

That concludes question time and since we have already exceeded, very nearly at least, the time for our normal morning break, I would suggest that we be adjourned for approximately fifteen minutes.

AT 11.14 A.M. THE HOUSE ADJOURNED

HOUSE RECORD OF TUESDAY, [illegible]

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.
Item 4. Bills.

THE STAMP DUTY (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1978

FIRST READING

CLERK: THE STAMP DUTY (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1978.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Stamp Duty Law, 1978, be deemed to have been read a first time and to be set down for Second Reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE STAMP DUTY (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1978.

HON. THOMAS S. GBILLIGBO: Mr. President, I move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Stamp Duty Law, 1978, Law 5 of 1978.

The object of the Bill, Mr. President, is to increase the stamp duty payable on cheques from five cents to ten cents. The amount of stamp duty as charged, Mr. President, has been five cents since 1978, and it is proposed here to increase it to a reasonable sum, taking into consideration the inflation factors in the last eleven or twelve years. It is also proposed that purchase agreements should pay ad valorem duty, Mr. President, there are cases of land sold by an agreement and it is possible for some of such agreements that the property can be completed from one purchaser to the other and stamp duty not be paid. The only fee payable under the Stamp Duty Law is the fixed fee of five shillings.

It is also mentioned, Mr. President, in this Bill to create a charge on mortgages executed in this Federal Republic, for the purpose. It is thought that a number of tenants accommodations are made available on the basis of a mortgage agreement, which is secured by the payment of a sum, whether it is N5,000 or N2,000 for one bedroom accommodation. It often occurs that this agreement are entered into twenty five to forty years, even more. It depends on what it is.

The duty imposed is to be a reasonable one since mortgaging is substantially made by Banks, and it could be an opportunity to double some small increase from the customer. It then it is sometimes said, "Without the person which lays the action right".

It is envisaged, Mr. President, by increased revenue by this Bill, and the amount raised by this Bill is approximately N300,000. I now beg to move.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question before the House is that a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Stamp Duty Law, 1978, be given a second reading. The question is open for debate. The Member for North Side,

DEATH OR SECOND READING

MR. G. EDGAR HILLAS: Mr. President, I support this Bill in the entirety. I do not believe that the charges being contained on a cheque form five cents to the whole Bill justify any hardship to our "Know Yourself" on the friendly specialists likes to contend as the other Bills. In fact, it might have a beneficial effect in the Bahamas economy because we might reduce the number of cheques which are written for less than $10 which have no value, but because they are for less than $10 it is not worth the Bank's expense to recover the money.

As I said, I do not believe it will affect the local people at home, or the private Companies, because most of those business do transactions in cheques.

So I support that section of the Bill, and I also support the other sections, in particular the introduction of stamp duty on cheques generally. I think this is an area of revenue which has been ignored in the country. However, Sir, I do not agree with the cheques which are being made under the Bill and I do intend, Sir, to ask Legal of the Chair under Standing Order 32 to move an amendment which would be first being the increase to 5¢ per cent, which I believe in the country wants the Government to meet expenditure connected with the sale of land and other property of this kind. Mr. Sir, we continue the charge at 25¢ we could receive a reasonable sum on an instrument which sold for $2,000 of only $2,000 however it can only be sold for 25 cents, however I think most places take two cents for endorsement.

If we applied the 5¢ then again we might have a reasonable income on the 25 cent sale of the same consideration of $10,000.

So, Sir, I am in favour of the Bill and I do ask Members of the House to support that amendment when it is proposed in Committee Stage.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: If no other Parliamentary Member wishes to speak I shall invite the House to exercise its mind of early that time, the Second Elected Member for North East.

MR. G. MILO BOWEN: Mr. President, I had hoped that I could not have to speak since I was going to break for the lunch interval if I start at this time.

The Bill before the House is seeking to produce revenue from three different sources. The section of the Bill is good although not as good as it should be. One section is bad, and the third part is the most ridiculous which could ever befall the economy of these Islands.

Let me speak on the good part of the Bill. The good part will put a tax on transferring assets. However, the tax proposed is not sufficient. I concur with the Elected Member for North Side that it should be 5% per cent, and I intend to support his amendment. I dare not say the amendment because the Speaker rules of the "Bahamian Dollar" would reject it and it would not get that far. However, if the Elected Member for North Side puts it I will support it. The reason why I support it is that I feel that - Members might not be in the last Parliament of this country. Some - thing to bring about when I contemplate cannot call a contribution to any person. We then go out and ask people to pay $5, pricing by contract to work income that might be used the consideration for one week out of the year for as long as the contract runs. This, of MR. P. [illegible] (CONTINUING): ... the Senate introduced the bill said men be from 35 to 40 years. I do seek permission to have a quorum for one week just gone on to report on to complete the event from the amendment for one week next year. The first year of 2000 to disqualification because this is a tax of $100 for the entire life of the contract. When a consideration is paid by this method it is very unlikely that Civil registration Government will even be paid again. When a consideration is paid under traditional methods, that is one payee bought from one policy, that cash will be paid over and over again. Under the disqualifying Agreement the income of the unit be included from the very around and if we look at what is happening here you will see that this is true. It is customary for the time starting cash to be paid on a weekly basis for a period of from $5,000 up to $25,000 in some cases of the world. Let us take for argument's sake a figure of $10,000. If he wants to buy a consideration, cash paying $20,000 for the use for one week, the given borrow only fifty weeks for the use of the consideration since the other two weeks are required for maintenance of the building. Those people would pay a total of $500,000 to the Government for one consideration unit which principle on the market would have been sold in the traditional manner for $100,000. So the consideration is most suited at the very beginning for five times the market value. This means the price is so inflated that no buyer in the future can ever hope to pay his money back if his wage is around of $500,000.

Also, it has been found in Canada and those places where disqualifying units have been used that it is not a desirable type of investment. We should discourage it here. It can attract a type of resident who does not bother to work from the Government interest. Instead of paying the salary of the consideration he pays the one fifth of the dollar, and may not a person who has had his unit received his weighted home on this income, would not succeed to have his consideration or a place like this. It may attract people to come in and bring their own investment being their own profit of foreign papers; bring their assets of business of Nigeria and on. While they are living here they will not be putting very much back into the economy. The whole business of disqualifying has been disposed in other places with a number of problems have been all sorts of problems.

The Government would surely be taking to pass a law to ban disqualifying. However, if we do not take an interest a group, or issue I feel that there surely should pay something for the benefit which they derive from Government having put a stamp of approval upon the disqualifying. By the introduction of this, you do not really in business today which Government's approval to the disqualifying business.

The reason why the fact that is not applicable is because there is such a disparity between the price of the units. The Senior Advisor suggests that the price will stay from $5,000 to $5,000 per unit. In other words, and it will probably come here as well, the prices of these disqualifying units range from $5,000 to $20,000. Even the most fanatical unit, even if in a simple unit there is a discount, do the people who get their income in the Eastern Region pay as much as the people who get the use of the units simply that number because the people who get the use of the units simply that number monthly.

That is one reason why $10,000 per a week is really, another reason is that even with Treasury would have paid $20,000 for the use of the units. You can be sure to profits and for entities but, nevertheless, I think there is one on the right hand to take a look at them.

MR. G. MAIN SCOTT (CONTINUING): The bill is good in that it gives flexibility, the application of this current Government's economic policies. Because in December, 1984, we had unemployment at 2 per cent and there we are today talking about getting it 7½ per cent back on down if the amendment by the Elected Member for North Side goes through. So there is some confusion in the Government on the economic policy. It does not know what it wants. This was highlighted in the Finance Bill on Friday or so. The Chamber wonders. They take the duty off wines to help the poor man and then they put a hefty 2 million dollars extra taxation duty on to help him some more. Mr. Speaker, they took off the tax of 2 per cent on the commercial sector to increase the investment and home ownership and they are putting it back on, so it seems to me, Mr. Speaker, that the confusion is in the minds of the present Government in their present economic policy.

We were told in December that it was very necessary to take off that 2 per cent tax because inflation was beginning in the construction market. Now they come here on Friday and in the Budget Speech they tell us that what they said in December was not correct. On page 23 of the Budget Address we read that in 1985 there was a dramatic upward trend in the number of births registered, up to 135 in 1984 from 75 in 1983. So the amount of construction will be needed under the normal figure in 1992 almost double what it had been in 1983. For in December we were told that we had to take off that tax, but now are not given the statistics on it. We have not half been enlightened in 1984 because these statements would have taken place had they given the statistics. Nevertheless, that is history but it does highlight the labour confusion....

MR. SPEAKER: I think that the Leader should also in this gain. All the parties are making speeches by the Elected Members for North Side gone through. So there is some confusion in the Government on the economic policy. It does not know what it wants. This was highlighted in the Finance Bill on Friday or so. The Chamber wonders. MR. C. MAIR ROGERS (Commentator): I have spoken about the good work of the Bill. The hon Member for West Coast-Hokitika gave us the true, the stark duty from New Zealand's point of view. I have it officially from the Pigeon Bay Sawmills Co. I wonder myself that it will not have the small businessmen because some of them use a large number of employees but perhaps that is all right to have an advantage over secondary industry. This tax will increase by 1½ per cent whatever the profit or handed the shareholders. So it will affect every person who handles a thousand in these Islands. Like the Bill on trade and like the other section not to come into only those that the Government do carry out the policy which it has propounded in the Budget Address, none of which it says:

> "While peace, 1968, the first establishment here [illegible] people with the professional services".

As I said on Friday they are not being increased in number, they are being depressed to pay about thirty whole accounts every week which the Government ask during.

This stamp duty would have a high effect on local people just the same as the half a million dollars increase which was put on in Friday on the local people. It will take the cell because the Government's stamp duty on a cheque is not the only item of handling a cheque. The person still has to pay his ledger fees at the bank. So the small businessmen will feel the amount of this increase and this is just another light on his account somewhere which has been put on the little man since the elections in November of 1966.

In addition to the cost of the stamp duty and in addition to the ledger fees, increasing the small businessmen finds himself having to pay interest on the overdraft, so anything you add to that must add to the burden. The only reason given for increasing the stamp duty from five cents to ten cents is because it has been like that since 1874 and if I were the Government I would not mention this because this does not justify the increase. The fact that it has remained at a cents since 1874 only shows that somehow the Government, particularly in the last eight years when there was no reason to increase it from five cents because they are their increase through inflation of the economy and the decline of more cheques rather than less cheques, we do still see fit to increase it. So there is no justification for increasing it. The justification given by the Minister does not justify the increase but should rather deter us from putting on the increase. As far as the economy in connection we have over in the Cook Islands, no matter what he said of the last seven years which have been seven years of plenty, a situation where we are now facing, not seven can help us, but four cents to [illegible] people. These four years of plenty have been squandered by the politicians which this Government is [illegible] today and the problems which they implemented in December as well as the problems which they promised to implement in their campaigns.

Critics were all over when they talked out of this Chairman of [illegible] which might have added a half million dollars to the burden of the taxpayer in the Cook Islands.

So I am against this increase and will certainly vote against it.

Now I come to the third part of this Bill which seeks to put a tax on an agreement for sale or purchase of property. I hope the elected Member for North Side could have an amendment to strike this section out. I object more to

Mr. S. MALO PEARCE (CONTINUING): Amendments would not then arise. But I believe my duty is the least which was borne in the Cayman Islands since a previous Government of which two of the Leaders are now Members of this Government, tried to introduce a development plan in 1975 which killed the price of land. If they introduce this law today it will mean the end of real estate development in the Cayman Islands. It will mean economic hardship for the people of the Cayman Islands. What is this thing which has come to pass before our eyes today? What are they doing? They are saying that you must get a loan or an agreement for a piece of land and that that has must be paid within a certain time whether the land be bought or not. This is wrong.

Let us take a case that crosses my desk. I have a house but now have sold and made a deposit down. Unless he has a contract which is non-cancellable and that gives me a mortgage which is non-cancellable; one day or will have a penny right which cannot be extinguished. What is the good of having money if you cannot spend it? What is the good of having a contract if the contract is non-cancellable? So here on this agreement the Member also talks about his deposit of $500 and signed an agreement to purchase a piece of land, of which in the future to guarantee that sale would not only that he forfeited but would have paid 2% per cent of the value to be transferred.

It is unfair to ask somebody to pay for value not received. Even if the Member had had any amendments or will and had said that the law should be simply on the deposit or the cost of the agreement this would be unobjectionable, but to make the law the subject of the full value should be determined to this country. The amendments says that:

> "Agreement for sale of interests of any land, estate title or other immovable property under or by any party thereto - except and a half per cent of the value of the immovable property, the subject of the agreement.
> Assignment by any party of any rights under an agreement falling within the preceding clear - again one and a half per cent of the value of the consideration".

In the Bible proceedings at the beginning of the bill, the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons it says:

> "By providing that immovable property shall, unless non-cancellable, attract stamp duty at a rate of seven and a half per cent of the value of the property the subject of the agreement".

This will be passed into law will have a devastating effect on all real estate sales. This hurts everybody. It hurts the man in the street. It hurts the man building a house. It hurts a man putting up a gas station. It hurts the developer and I believe the Minister should be the first in the Chamber of the 1975 development plan era.

What we have to consider here is that 20 per cent of all real estate sales in the Cayman Islands are speculative in nature. In other words probably only 20 per cent of people go out and buy land which they are going to use right away. The people who, the young married couple buys a plot because they are going to build a house and later on as they

MR. O. WAYNE ISLEY (CONTINUED): Anyone they go out and buy land which they are going to farm and leave for their grandchildren, and which they are going to hold as an investment because in later years they may get a better price than they paid for it. These purchases are speculative in nature, but you must have speculation if you're going to move. If you want people who are going to have an opportunity to receive some of the benefits which the current generation has received from its forefathers, they have a right to buy and own property; to rely and not be encumbered by the restraints and which is the subject of this Bill.

So all of this will disappear. Our economy will go flat. The Government will prohibit loans because it will have had its arm and a half torn out, this is not good enough. It was this same attitude established in a Government manner in the development plan in 1976, which caused the decline to begin and remove the entire Economic Council in 1979. This time it is coming back in little bits and pieces; not as a document presented by United Nations, but by a simple amendment to a Bill on the Statute Books.

Anyone who has any interest in the economic development and the economic welfare of Guyana alive today cannot vote for this Bill. I understand that the Government initiated, although it was not put forward any statistics that it may lose a little revenue here and there because some concept has been assigned. I understand that. However, what the this? Freedom hardship will be put on the little man if this tax on these agreements goes into effect, because we have to remember that while most of the people who [illegible] on the purchase of a piece of land or a property do so only because of economic hardship. Anyone who sets out to buy a property, or to buy a piece of land or to buy a business [illegible] which the sole income eventually comes up later on and he is prevented from continuing the purchase. This per would take further hardship on people. It would only escalate the hardships which would be suffered by those who had [illegible]. My contention for this if there is a loss of revenue the Government will make no attempt to derive that loss of income and will also no opportunities at all to show that there is a loss of revenue. In fact I do not believe that they can give statistics because the statistics which are available to us show that revenue from this source has increased, and I have those statistics.

In 1975 the sale of property stamps brought in $968,781. The revised estimates for 1977 were $1-million, the 1977 estimated income had increased because of the 1975 Development Plan to $900,000. However, look at the difference firmly. In 1981 the actual collection from revenue stamps was $2,662,807, eight times the actual collection in 1975. So how can the Government claim that they are losing revenue from stamp duty when the statistics show that in 1981 we collected eight times what we had collected in 1975. That election instance alone that eight years passed came because the Government of the day scrapped the development plan which would have put a stop to speculators, encouraged developers to buy land to sell land; encouraged local people to invest in land, and this was done without any "hanky panky" business. This was done by simply stimulating the economy. It was done without increasing the fee nor were there any [illegible] which had existed for some time. So that statistic [illegible] about the revenue from the sale of land because the sale of land was unrestricted. It came about because there were more sales and more purchases because the Government of the day was not involved in the economic policies. It came about because the confidence of the investor had increased. It came about because the Government reopened the banking facilities and the investor, and they supported the Government of the day.

MR. G. WISE JOHNSTONE (NORTHERN): Now today we are trying to shatter that complacency, and the question is in every citizen's mind right here before the House. We are trying to shatter it by the nationalisation of one of the utilities for the generation of power on a large scale; whether it be building a dam on the Waikato for the generation of land or other projects. We should not be trying to hinder a procedure or policy movement. We should be trying to encourage more of them. Some of them will fail by the wayside and some people may lose their properties. Some people may get them back, but most outside aid will come to a halt in these Islands and when this happens the day will be just as dark as when the Islands were removed from economic hence.

For the first time in the history of these Islands we see Government's revenue declining because of the halt put on development in the Cayman Islands. That just only happened in the space following the TIME hurricane. It never happened again until 1975 and 1976 when we saw Government's revenue decline. Now we are here today with the same old tired buildings; the same old worn out schemes, asking the Members of this House to put a brake on development.

This amendment has been brought in keeping with the policy of the Government which has been put forward that the local industries will be required to contribute the additional revenue. The Member just mentioned $500,000 on Monday; nearly $1 million out of the pockets of the people of this country. That is not local. That is not local. What is local is that this is one amendment that we may use to demonstrate the methods by which we could raise the money to pay. We should that the Government has done some Wednesday there have been many bad things, but this is the worst because if we do not stop the Government now the Members will continue for some time. However, like a clock which is wound up it will one day run down. A little break in the economy here and a little break there will certainly bring this country to a state where the inhabitants will not be able to enjoy the good life which they now enjoy. We should not do anything which will hinder economic growth. I have stated recently from a media to have of one item which is going to maintain the economy and the Crown has not failed. Every time all I have seen are bills like this one which will hamper economic activity. This bill, with the exception of section 3, subsection (2) which deals with transhipment goods that will. It looks to me like the type of bill which we would have Ambassadors would have been employed like the Government often used by whatever Year the United Nations who have nowhere about the Cayman Islands. We did not expect this to come from the people who are the pride of this country but those complicate to hinder that they were local people.

MR. G. BILLY MCCREE (CONTINUING): They made a mistake but it is not too late to straighten the Bill. They made a mistake in putting forward the Bill. They presented honestly believed that they were doing the right thing, but it is not too late to repeat and withdraw the Bill.

I would reasonably move an amendment to strike out subsection which would exempt the steel mill in these areas. All I can do, however, is speak against it and vote against it, because while I commend wholeheartedly the wish I can only characterize four votes against it, and with the assembly these debates that there are many right there. One of our great Members has gone out on a limb when she should have been home with me. However, this capital letter of the which means that the debate may consist merely as he had been and there should be no change in this respect duly too.

Nevertheless, with all this, I must say that I intend personally to support this move because the proposed Amendment is doing the small man and is being honest about it and put it in the Right Address to his point. The local residents are being represented now in matters with the additional Revenue to municipalities for the year which they took off the assessments in December. Because we have difficulty in the tax county. I believe the Utilities should come as they have come in the past from the municipalities of the county, not from selling any pound of beef, but selling many more vehicles. As an Elected Member I have an obligation to speak when the Government gives away and it is surprising to see them doing seven as four.

I can understand a modest petition off because often the utilities begin to get tired but it is regularly when they have just taken the helm. Right then are in such a state of confusion that befuddles the mind.

I will not hold my breath but I will guarantee that I unreservedly will vote against this measure or any other measure which, in my opinion would be detrimental to the welfare of this country.

MR. SPEAKER: I think perhaps unless any other Member stands to speak....

MR. JOSE MELEAR: Mr. President, I am sure that there are other Members who would like to speak, but in the customary Christmas tree should take a little longer hour.

MR. SPEAKER: Well I was going to contemplate taking a lunch break. I was just making certain whether there was any other Member who wished to speak. I guessed that there are a number who do wish to speak and I think it probably will be best to take the lunch break before anybody is expected to start his speech. So let us do that....

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH: Mr. Speaker, since we have quite a long recess at 12.00 o.m. we just either, could we not carry on until 2.00 p.m., Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: The normal presentation of the House has been to suspend proceedings between 12.30 p.m. and 2.00 p.m.

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH: Yes, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: That has been the general idea of Members and it has usually been quite best but I suggest somebody to start a speech and have five or ten minutes of it before breaking off. So I think reasonably there will be most convenient and I will suspend proceedings until 2.15 p.m.

AT 12.34 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

SOUTH AUSTRALIA, 27 JULY 1972

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.

The Premier (Hon. D.A. Dunstan) obtains leave and introduces a Bill for an Act to amend the Stamp Duty Act, 1923. There being no other immediately available Member who wishes to speak, I formally move that the Debate be adjourned and the Second Reading be made an Order of the Day.

MR. RUSSACK (Light): Mr. President, before I am prepared to support the adjournment of this debate, I would like to make a few comments. I do not intend to speak for very long, but I feel that I should say a few words on this matter. I am sure that the Premier would appreciate that I am not opposing the adjournment of the debate, but I feel that I should say a few words on this matter. I am sure that the Premier would appreciate that I am not opposing the adjournment of the debate, but I feel that I should say a few words on this matter.

I am sure that the Premier would appreciate that I am not opposing the adjournment of the debate, but I feel that I should say a few words on this matter. I am sure that the Premier would appreciate that I am not opposing the adjournment of the debate, but I feel that I should say a few words on this matter.

I am sure that the Premier would appreciate that I am not opposing the adjournment of the debate, but I feel that I should say a few words on this matter. I am sure that the Premier would appreciate that I am not opposing the adjournment of the debate, but I feel that I should say a few words on this matter.

Mr. Leonard A. Stanley (continuing): Mr. President, it seems to me that we have other steps duly taken which are now being considered to be placed on tuesday agreements will commit a loophole in the law and that's exactly the thing that I understand is now happening under discussion, that's all for it. Because of present the views of many hon. Members opinion, Mr. President, in looking after the interests of my division. Personally, I believe, Sir, if such an amendment will not be fair disclosure, because from coming to this country. It is one matter, for the purpose to think about the little bit of income which we have to obtain, but it is another to consider the different benefits which apply to the country even though we may have a provision to grant the remains in the officers of the Company. There are many different benefits which accrue from time to time.

Mr. President, I question again what is Government's economic policy regarding to promote from this country? Can we afford to educate the little people in this country? Can we continue to aid 10 per cent, 20 per cent, a little bit here and there to employment of Nigeria. The Financial Secretary in his speech said that he would give due great attention to employ that he thought's Government budget was a good one. But, Mr. President, my fear beloved Members is not manifested if he has got to be a bad one. Thanks to give income by assessing the little people in this country have got to be had for this country. I cannot support that kind of contribution. I cannot subscribe that kind of financial proposal. Even if is to be collected method, and I believe that I can speak with authority when it comes to other types of business,

Mr. President, I feel that before the Members of this House ought to encourage business that sufficient thought should be given to the possible adverse repercussions and adverse effects on people of this country. I believe, Sir, and I stand to be corrected, but I believe that this was a desperate attempt for Government to reduce what perhaps was a major deficit in the first draft of the budget which we have for discussion before us. I also believe that these items were not given full consideration and that the possible adverse effects to the people were not properly considered.

Our country today is in a very serious position, Mr. President. Whether we want to see that the Nigerian people have the highest standard of living in the Continent or not is immaterial at this point in time. The highest standard for which if we were to take the per capital income of each person in this country then we would know how poor some of our people are. When we talk about a standard of living and per capita income all we are doing is taking the national income of this country and dividing it by the population. What we are not considering is that 60 per cent of the wealth in this country is owned by 5 per cent of the people. There are a lot of people in this country who go to bed at night without even having food to eat. Many of our Members probably do not know this because they cannot identify with those people the way that I do. I happen to know that many of our people in this country are on the subsistence level and even below subsistence level.

At the least, Sir, if we want to know the peace and tranquility that we began after the Nigerian Islands, we must continue to make life a little easier for our little people. I believe, Sir, that a good Government is one which makes life easy for the people and makes it easy for the people of this country to be able to eat well, not a Government which forces the people into doing unjust things.

MR. LARSON A. PEARSON (continuing): The point I want to make, Mr. President, is that unless we are ready to buy and police the atomization of power of our little people-this country is going to go down the drain. We have got to be like some of our neighboring islands and [illegible] of the fact that they should have looked after the needs of their little people. Take for example the Virgin Islands today which is now being bought. It is a little sorry [illegible] that he has got to sell it for [illegible], but one of the first things [illegible] has to do is to pay a 10 per cent income tax on it. If [illegible] that the Town which he has accepting [illegible] is not profitable then [illegible], what happens if he was also forced into paying 10 per cent on that amount. He would also lose his $750. This only does a small amount to some of us here but it is particularly a great amount for some of our little people who have not a cent to their name and simply have to go and borrow this money. ..

This is why I say that in principle I do not agree with this, because I do not think that sufficient thought was put into [illegible] which have been proposed.

On the amendment, Mr. President, of the Interdepartmental Committee on Housekeeping of Rice and of the Elected Member for North Side's amendment page [illegible], I wonder, Mr. President, whether sufficient thought has been given to the possibility of some of the [illegible] coming here. I wonder if anybody has even looked around to find out how many of the [illegible] which have been negotiated are still there merely because they cannot get houses to buy them. I wonder, Sir, if anybody has given any thought at all to the idea of [illegible] some of the [illegible] around here and whether the little bit of money which they are hoping to extract here and [illegible] is not [illegible] to kill the goose that laid the golden egg.

Mr. President, it is my plan for us to get back with a better plan like [illegible], but it is another thing for us to take a perilous look at our economic situation at this point in time. I know, Mr. President, as has been suggested here, that I also have pre-empted on my motion the [illegible] and that it is not that I will be supporting certain areas, but I suggest, Mr. President, what I think is the main point for my people. If this [illegible] with any other Member's views, so be it. However, I cannot see where these little [illegible] some of [illegible] are going to help our people. I believe, Sir, that we are going back ten years when we should be making [illegible] economic policy for this country.

I also think, Mr. President, that if we [illegible] employment here we are making the unemployment problem in this country worse. A person simply cannot get by like [illegible] in this country and it is very sad indeed. I believe that for us to start [illegible] these [illegible] is going here to [illegible]. What will this happen to the people who are employed in the construction industry? What will happen to the local businesses here who sell materials for these [illegible]?

Mr. President, whether we have no need here in this country, as [illegible], we need to be about it in a very serious and analytic manner.

One Member mentioned, Mr. President, that in the December sitting of this House we dealt a few more of [illegible] and I am pleased to say that I associated myself with that. But the only reason, Sir, that I supported such a move was to encourage construction in this country, because I feel that it was high a [illegible] to many [illegible] coming here.

MR. SINCLAIR A. PEARSON (CONSTITUENCY): On this one right we should be entitled to take a stand by this country and in another we disassociate them. It appears to me, Mr. President, that there is quite a bit of confusion.

Mr. President, while I will discuss the Government Bench for any efforts they make to look after the best interests of our people and to protect the interests of our people, I would like to again clearly state that I will not be an accessory party and I will continue to speak out on any issue which appears to be in any sense detrimental to the best interests of our people. However, as I said, I will endeavour to support any issue which appears to be in the best interests of our people, however, as I said.

Mr. President, I know that there may some of us here who really do not intend to stay until 7.30 p.m. this evening and I know that some of the Long Administrators have not spoken yet, but I intend, Sir, to exercise my right and debate this matter further on the Throne Speech and Budget debate.

Mr. President, I would close by saying that I cannot in principle support the Bill before us in its present form, and I hope that in Committee there may be some co-operation from the Government Bench in making the whole of people on this side of the House.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. SPEAKER: Does any other Honourable Member wish to speak? If not then, in which case, I would ask the Honourable Third Official Member to exercise his right of reply. The Hon. Member for Indian Town.

MR. JAMES M. BROOM: Mr. President, I wish to refute this Bill and the Bills which go along with it when again, and when the public at large that the Members of the Alaska Government took themselves in a different. They are fully with a practical appreciation of the financial problems they are confronted to do, that they cannot come with. We are asking the people, according to the Budget Address, to assist. Mr. President, we are not asking the people of the Cayman Islands to assist. We are asking the Members of Government to assist them to survive. It is very nice that they be able to unanimously assist. This is where we the Executive used the Budget and we came unity in the Cayman Islands.

Mr. President, this is a very detrimental Bill to the welfare of this Caymanian people and to the Caymanian economy as a whole. I would ask the Elected Members of Executive Council who have apparently fathered and sponsored this Bill to withdraw it, because what we are doing and what we are showing the people at large is that our Elected Members have no confidence in the Cayman Islands, if this present elected Government should remain in power much longer, there will be no revenue coming in the Cayman Islands, and that is a third to put simply bankruptcy or chaotic time. Whichever they stick to it, in the long and the run, it be passed by this House and that have money in the bank when they close to go that.

MR. JAMES K. BOREN (continuing): I know that in the minds of some of the elected Republican Members Medicare is nothing new. They have thought that now for years, but have had to withdraw it in the past. Unfortunately, Mr. President, this House is now in a position where there is only strength in the opposition, and therefore when it comes forward again it can be nearly still done, there is not enough strength to oppose it and it will pass.

Mr. President, as time goes on and the debate gets still grimmer still, I really have to wonder and I know the population as a whole is beginning to wonder just exactly what will it stop? Will we have Republicans on the heads of our people who elected us to the seats which they occupy tomorrow, and we come running to have another session this year? Or will we wait 'til the Republican Convention next year?

I am shocked that with all the statements Republicans continue to make in front of this nation and presented to this House, in the next eight years the people of this country have not faced such devastation as they are faced with in this budget. Before we would have presented a budget which would have been this devastating to the people of this country we would have been like cockroaches and hidden our heads in the sand. However, I do not expect that to take place in this case.

This bill will have adverse effects on the people of this country and in the economy of this country, not only today but for years and years to come. In my opinion, Mr. President, and I am sure that I am correct, steps must have been collected before on the disadvantaged while, because unemployment in the Country Today have become a way of life as they have in many other areas of the world.

I am not here to debate whether I am for or against it. The point is that it should and taxes must have been paid in the past. I really question why at this time a Bill would come before the House. Why should the sale of a three-month bill, be it for $5,000 or $10,000 only because this stamp duty for the life of that contract?

It is difficult for me to believe that such a Bill would have been introduced in this House, and that they would think that our mentality was not higher than that. Mr. Mr. President, is this another case of special interests as we have had in the previous Bill where the amendments can be proposed? I really hate to question the motives behind these actions, and to question why this is being done and for whose benefit.

Many unfortunate and disappointments were made in the past but, Mr. President, one we should be avoided completely is the Senate Delegate or Whichever Delegate it is? Should pull it from these massive Bills before the House be finished, which I have no doubt they will be. There will be at least an additional $2.5 million raised because of those bills in the financial year 1985. Now here who is going to pay most of this $2.5 million? It is going to be the $5,000 people and the approximate $1,000 head of households who we have in this country. I ask those people of mercy if they think that is the way to show mercy to their fellow men. I do not think that there has been a word in the history of the Queen Islands when the least people have been asked to pay more of a burden as they are today asked to pay this year. Believe me, as determined in the end as it could be it would be much better to tell those people that they are going to pay the increase tax that the Democratic Senate elected Member of Assembly and some of the opposition wanted to burden us with so many years ago.

MR. JAMES M. RUSSO (CONSTITUENCY): I would rather pay the bank than pay the workman.

I would have thought that the time-worthy issues covered under this Bill was adequately answered before. I would hope that to merely list some of the other Laws on the Statute Books of the country the hotel tax is also collected or the rental of those units in the Casino. Our economy is in a very fragile thing. It is built on imports and artificially high interests the different financial institutions. However, those people today must be making observations, "How can I check right now complaints with the Legislative Assembly Members of the Cayman Islands do not share faith and confidence in their systems?" Where the answer for the future is not changed as some of the ministers would tell us to do it, but rather we are unfortunate and going towards the war.

If we are to ask the world at large that we have confidence and faith in our country we must first show that confidence and faith in ourselves and the people. We cannot stop it by keeping to ignoring the Governments of its past as is continually being done. We cannot do it by berating them our present Government, because chances it might be. Rather we must show that faith in our country to the point where we feel that we can build adequately for the future.

I ask the Members of the Elected Executive Council why do they not come up with a programme which has attached additional money into the economy? If we build up the economy and attract additional money into it at the same time as TAPC is JAPC, we will not have to worry so much about plugging the deficit. They have already managed to adequately balance their budget by using for this year approximately $9.6 million of the Reserve Funds which were not supposed to be there. Cannot they be satisfied? They have already used the bread which was built by the sweat of other people. Will they continue to use the bread from the sweat of our people in the future?

I could see an amendment on the purchase agreements to where the commitments would be registered and before the closure of that sale, if there was a subsequent sale, that difference the increase between the two figures now that would be taxed at 5% per cent. In other words if a person had an agreement for $250,000 to purchase a piece of land after a period of six months, and he was fortunate enough to sell that to someone else for $350,000, then I can see where that additional $50,000 should be taxed. However, I repeat cause with what we are going to do, which is to put the hands of Government in this country. The present budget calls for about $8.3 million to be raised this year from various sources. We will not raise $8.3 million in revenue because of this Bill once through. We will raise much less because people are not going to invest and take the chances which those people are asking them to take. You know what will happen. The rest of the money which has been left in reserve from the unfortunate Lotto Government will be used up like the $6.3 million which will have already been used by the end of this session.

It seems to me that they have embarked on this system where anyone will be able to spend the money earned by someone else in order to perpetuate the party which they might be representing.

MR. JAMES H. QUINN (CONTINUING): In the Bill which is before us under the Standing Order, the last section of it which follows the time sharing vote is very confusing. I must admit that I have found my heart to try to figure out the last phase or four lines of it, and really I think we need some explanations on that to come from the Honourable Second Minister of Resources Development.

In regard to the heavy note ambers it appears that on checking that they seem to be quite, although it will affect a lot of people and it is a big difference, I will have to keep with that because I think to go higher with them in those heavy note ambers. While it is a heavy note ambers so therefore I may question that one, however, Mr. President, I would hope that they will, while they were considering the rest of it, and as they always consider that to come up with some answers which can be of help to our people. I do not believe that this is the time for us to have closed minds. I feel that the Member Resources Council which has been the brain child of these Bills which are before the House should keep their minds open, and that they should be willing to listen to the explanation and see that if these Bills become law that they are serving the future of our country.

Mr. President, our economy is going to be hit for a severe blow in 1985. There are many economic factors outside of the Cayman Islands which dictate that. However, we in the Cayman Islands must not "go on my shirt" for the years 1975 to 1978, when the outside world was faced with a recession and locally our Government did everything it could to shelve investment from coming in this country. If we go back and adopt that system we will be going back to the bankrupt Government that we had in 1968. When I say bankrupt, Mr. President, the country was flat on its back. There was no $10 million in Reserves at that time. The capital debt of this country stood at about $9 million, which is still a part of the $18 million which we are being blamed for today. I can well remember those days living. I can well remember those days as I think many people in the Sister Islands can remember them. I can assure that there are people in the Cayman Islands today who can still remember the hungry years of 1968 to 1970, although they may have forgotten some of them. The problem of it is that the young generations like ours the grandparents of our Country then are the grandparents who are trying to steer the country at the present time.

I am worried, although I do not believe that it will happen, that the Elected Members of Government will use the cover of these ways to some of these Bills and still at least offer to convert some of the amendments which may come from this side.

Mr. President, I will leave the rest that I have to say for the further remarks of this Bill and from the Throne Speech and the Budget Address which I have still to debate Separately, rather than as a whole.

Thank you.

MR. SPEAKER: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. K. HUBERTS FOSTER: Mr. Speaker, the Bill before this House is one which has been hailed over the years. I do not believe, Sir, that I will ever be able to please everyone, but at least, Sir, I am going to try to please the 7,130 people who put me here. To please them, Sir, I have to give them a great deal.

MR. K. MCKENZIE BAIN (INTERPRETATION): With our declining economy I can see the need for Government to raise an additional which has been used to finance Government of course can from land title transfers. I would suggest, Sir, that future transfers be registered and stamp duty paid before it leaves and that no second instrument be initialled without the payment.

The other fine point on this issue I believe will put no burden on anyone and, Sir, least of all the little man about when the opposition suddenly seems to be so concerned.

On the matter of withdrawing Sir, the extra tax imposed on this financial moment affect the little man at all. It cannot affect locally at all, which is poor. Instead, Sir, it is a move to create more revenue which this country can certainly use as I said, despite the decline in our economy, and the bad position which we have inherited.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the last financial debate from Golden Spot, who talked a lot about economic stability. We must that the Hon'ble Minister today would be so less talkative. We cannot do this, Sir....

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: Mr. President, I would like what the Member who preceded them I was talking, Sir. I did not say that.

MR. SPEAKER: I think he is referring to what your colleague the Second Elected Member for Golden Spot said. He said the last Member from Kenyon Town.

MR. K. MCKENZIE BAIN: Thank you very much, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: Maybe he meant the second....

MR. G. LUCE SCOTT: Because I am not the last.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: I was the last Member from Golden Spot, Sir.

MR. K. MCKENZIE BAIN: No, Sir, I said the last Elected Member from Golden Spot.

MR. G. LUCE SCOTT: But, Mr. President, I am not the last Elected Member. I am the Second Elected Member.

MR. SPEAKER: I was not quite sure to whom he was referring, I confess, when he said last Elected Member. However, I think that the Second Elected Member for British Town did make the point that the Second Elected Member for West Bay is now Elected.

MR. K. MCKENZIE BAIN: Yes, Sir, it is no secret to anybody our Constituencies, whether he is the Second Member. There are only two Members in Golden Spot as he has to be the last Member.

MR. G. LUCE SCOTT: On a point of order, Mr. President. We have an obligation under the Standing Orders to refer to a Member as the First or Second Member.

MR. SPEAKER: That is quite correct, yes. When you said "last", I thought you meant last speaker to start with....

MR. S. MOHAMED BUSTAN: The Second Elected Member, Sir. I will have to give nothing, Sir.

Anyway, Sir, my question is this: that needs be noted. Why, why should nonetheless the minister not hesitate on the penalty but be prone to the economy as it stands, little though it may be, why should nonetheless take this be banned? The Hansard record that the Honourable could be used to provide a greater amount of revenue as we can now tender to it. If these people who set up new stores, Sir, abuse the little rule this and the little rule that when they do not even see the little rule because they have run away from their responsibilities, although so much of the little rule they would not even think about [illegible] would have standing on the floor of the House and saying that it would be an ideal thing.

The money derived, Sir, from this levy will give us votes for education; will give us more for social services and help step the deterioration of our social structure which we have experienced during the period of boards in the near eight years. If they want politics, Sir, they can get politics.

Mr. President, the people most affected by the 3% per cent stamp duty on negotiable instruments are the small private sports who have been buying land from Government at a low price recently. Well well they already have paid the [illegible] in higher or much higher prices. That, Sir, is the order of the matter here today. For example, Sir, the Agent Bank a piece of property from a Corporation for $6,500, paid up stamp duty and then sells the same piece of property for $10,000 and pays the Government for the 3% per cent stamp duty. Which the State is responsible from the Corporation to the investor. Shall [illegible] that? This has robbed the little man of $10,000 less the consideration he should normally pay the real estate agent, and, Sir, has helped to double the cost of the property to the investor, or the more the building Government of the duty on the first $5,000. I believe I am right in saying that, Sir. Further, Sir, the Corporation who has made a deposit on a piece of land and paid the stamp duty on the negotiable instrument; if he cannot complete the purchase then he loses the instrument. It is a non-negotiable document on which no stamp duty has been paid by either buyer or seller. So I believe I am right, Sir, in saying that this Bill will only serve to protect the little man since we now will go unscrewed at once.

My criticism the Hon. Member in this Chamber is easy as a visit to the United Kingdom to attend a meeting held by the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association. Now, Sir, there is much talk on the airwaves and in all newspapers, Sir, of the many type of references which have been uttered from this floor saying to withdraw the people. The Member making reference to the Hon. Member, Sir, Hansard will say who is right. However, Sir, I do not believe that this was the reason because, Sir, I am an Executive Member of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association and I do know that the Second Elected Member for Nyeri, from making reference to the Hon. Member from West Ray also invited to go on that occasion. I do not believe that he was really desiring himself to this meeting of the House.

MR. G. KERR SMITH: On a point of order, Mr. President, no earnest Hansard reference. I simply said that Hon. Member was not here and I regretted that she could not join with the Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think it is quite true that the Second Elected Member for Nyeri did not witness that it was likely or impossible of the Hon. Member to be present. And be true as I should know answer him at this time. We are thinking, as he may

MR. SPEAKER (CONTINUING): Order, simply representation has changed because he would have voted for her anyway. I think that he might have voted in vain but that is a separate issue.

MR. E. MORGAN JONES: Yes, Sir, contributions as I said there has been some talk and I am only putting it on the record for the sake of posterity. So, as I said....

MR. SPEAKER: Perhaps I should put on the record for the sake of posterity that there is not in my view anything improper in any Member, either the Second Elected Member for Saint Croix or the Only Member who is Only a Member applying to be on a Commonwealth Parliamentary Association Seminar. I think that is a quite proper thing and I think all of us should take advantage of opportunities to attend. So I do not want to appear from the record that any Member should be thought improper for seeking to attend.

MR. E. MORGAN JONES: Thank you, Sir, you are most kind in straightening that issue. I really did not want to belong in on this, Sir, I think I am the only. I do have a few Members who left the country on Duke business or work, so as order to Members, to a little piano pilled. But Tom might....

MR. C. ELIS DOTTIN: On a point of order, Mr. President, is this relevant to the debate? I do not know what he is talking about. We have not taken the resolution.

MR. SPEAKER: I confess I am unclear as was the relevance and shall then be if he cannot show it to me fairly soon. I hope the Honourable Member speaking will make this point.

MR. E. MORGAN JONES: Yes, Sir. I think I have straightened out that matter pretty well.

Mr. President, as I said there are many talk about the small men, and people unnecessarily with the small men. But, Sir, I am a small man. I may not have been associating myself with the small men. It is just unfair, Sir, to many talk down. I have never shrunk. I can talk their language, Sir, and I have what the small men experience. I believe I am safe to say, Sir, that of all the Members here I am the least well off. I was born in 1922, Sir, thirty years ago. At 7 grew up with Cayon. I know what it is to be fourteen. I know what it is to have to study from candlelight. So I do not think, Sir, that I can be blamed or accused of not appreciating the small man. As I said I am a small man. Some may say I am a little fat hardly, however.

I have said it before and I will say it again that I do not believe our people are prejudiced about race, born racist or even bloody-like people. We have people passed and I have many, many examples, Sir, for my constituency. We have better and better health services. I have a first more and learning salary for my constituency. We have a project going ashore and Frederiksted Airport to boot now. We have more for social services for the country, and as I said, Sir, in these times of declining economy where do the money really lie?

We have much which necessarily must, Mr. President, this Government is doing a positive attitude and nobody in this Honourable House or in the country can deny that fact. The accounts for Cayon disaster have been laid on the table and that Government effort to help alleviate the deficit as

MR. M. MAHTAB (Bhubaneswar): Sir, I rise to support the Motion moved by the Hon'ble Minister, Shri Biju Patnaik. Sir, I am only, Sir, on the 30th June last year. But only knows the position today. Yet they call us that we have inherited such a large amount of money.

Mr. President, Sir, I am no mathematician but I can confidently say that we have two crores four. If we have Rs.2,000 in the House and if we bind up to a year and we spend one lakh, it is just eight, Sir, we cannot use it. So this shows that our good position today is just nil, I think. If the resources of the previous Governments had been reasonable or may I say responsible they would have been fixed. One honourable Member of this House said that money is like the leaf in autumn and he only warned to point that it is so.

As I said, Sir, I will mean quite and will give the plus and fight spokes only from of direct taxation on some people, but these little bits of steps taken cannot and will not have the little sense. If it were possible may I say, Sir, I would not support it. Therefore, Sir, the entire BOX has my full support and I am also on the outside the one political platform and call my people so.

Thank you very much, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think it may be timely to take our customary afternoon break and I would invite Members to be back early to start again by 2.35 p.m.

. [illegible] AT 3.37 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.
Proceedings are resumed.
The Senate resumes debate on a Bill for a Law to amend the Stamp Duty Law, 1978. The Honourable Finance Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. VASCO C. MCGRATH: Mr. President, I rise to support this Bill, a Bill for a Law to amend the Stamp Duty Law, 1978. Of course I support the three proposals contained in the Bill. The first is that a 2% per cent stamp duty be applied to an agreement for sale. The second is that a fee of $250 be imposed on lien-holding and the third is that the fifty cents stamp duty be changed to twenty-five cents.

Mr. President, first of all I would like to say that the 1978 Government was obliged to implement the Stamp Duty Law because of overheating [illegible] and some of the paltry duty on certain transactions. One of the most famous of these transactions was first taxation of property a conveyance property, the property would be taxed for 20 years or under the stamp duty was very small. There was other [illegible] under the Law that an enforcement was needed to replace the Law with the present 1978 Law.

The same thing has happened in the meantime to the present time, Mr. President. There were numerous complaints from the public about the times which was taking place under the present Stamp Duty Law and Government was urged to look into it and consider this Bill. I believe here today that it gives people with the large majority of these islands, yet Cuba is one of the measures to [illegible] was money with which to assist those poor people.

One of the options which is open to Government is duties Government of duty in the matter into an instrument for sale which does not attempt stamp duty under the present Law. For instance and by people liquidating positions and are people enter into a scheme to assist those agreements. Mr. President, if it was only yesterday it was time for the Second Elected Member for West Bay said a while ago, it would not be so bad. However, we have seen cases which were transferred once [illegible] and there, which means that the stamp fees or the percentage of assignments Government made no stamp duty on it except the last one when the assignment was actually given. Mr. President, with that amendment Government lost a lot of revenue.

So if anyone is thinking that Government is doing the poor people [illegible] by this amendment they have another guess coming. I am sure that they are not going to [illegible] all of the people all of the time. They have done this in the past. People are aware [illegible] of what is right and what is wrong.

The other measure, Mr. President, is regarding [illegible]. We heard quite a lot of [illegible] about the payment of the 6 per cent [illegible]. Now we are going to [illegible] stamp duty, in other words [illegible] out of one hand and passing it out through the other.

SEN. TAMASESE S. LEALOFI (CONTINUED): Mr. President, we are all Territorial people and I am sure that we must know the difference between one system and the other. Although the opposition did not like what was done to remove the 5 per cent tax from condominiums, and I am not complaining here for those views, the view of this Government was that we were in a dilemma; a also passed which we inherited. It is not something which we start over about. The whole of 1994 we heard cries and both sacred here about people out of jobs. What should have been done then to provide some of these jobless people with work was not done. The Ocean Building was one of these examples. Had a new building been constructed it would have placed from it. Also millions in the hands of these poor people.

Mr. President, sometimes I do a good interpret here and we heard quite a lot about investments and how the developers were going to help Government if these bills were approved. Now they threatened to sell all these condominiums while without keeping a penny of tax to Government. It has been happening. It was not given to Aggrum, it was just unnecessary.

Mr. President, the timeshare brought in no different from ordinary and ordinary condominium unit, which is the present system under the law. They had to go to court together to declare a system whereby they would deprive Government of this tax. I think the present Government should be complimented on having had the foresight to mark a clear line to block that gate, that face of Government's promise. It is not going to have the timeshare concept except for those developers and investors who, had it in mind to deprive Government of its rightful share of that tax. So there is a vast difference between the removal of the 5 per cent tax on condominiums and the time sharing concept.

Someone said that in one building the owners that hold the golden egg. All sorts of statements have been made here against this bill, Mr. President, let me say this. I represent a certain number of people in this constituency of Western Samoa, and people that I have room myself now at Intercontinental the visiting Cabinet Ministers, and I talk from day to day with a lot of people, and poor people not the wealthy. I use not wanted to be a party to any measure presented to this Legislative Assembly if I knew that I was hurting poor people. Mr. President, all we are doing here is to find a little money to balance our budget to balance a budget which is going to be for the benefit of the people of these Islands. Because that 800 million we 2 gold members in maximum address is not going into our pockets. It is not going into the pockets of what they would term special interest groups. It is going into the pockets of the people of these Islands.

Concerning that special interest group which is mentioned here occasionally and the Pension Scheme which is also mentioned, I bet you one thing, Mr. President, you never hear anything about these Pension Schemes.

HON. JAMES M. BOYCE: The Pension Scheme cannot hurt this country, up through, did it not?

HON. TAUESE P. SUNIA: We begin to hear about them now, Sir.

HON. JAMES M. BOYCE: Sorry.

HON. HARRY O. JONASON: I think that they could put on their fact sheet where Pennsylvania.

MR. JAMES M. ROCHON: You have Pennsylvania, we're very glad to accept Pennsylvania which came late but where were you? Some reason you have had the reason not included.

MR. SHEARER: No comment here - well.... (Laughter).

HON. HARRY O. JONASON: I am glad that he mentioned that, Sir, I am glad that he mentioned that because I am trying to tell you that for instance since I have been the chairman of Pennsylvania in this country. I have had the responsibility to represent revenue and income here and I am not talking about the bill that they reported to a little while ago. I am sure that they have done their work now and they should look the picture also as fair. Everybody knows about the poll taxes. Pennsylvania have more of another thing.

Mr. President, I suppose that if I was not so optimistic on the amount of expenditure for this country; if I had not spent a lot of time investigating revenues in this country, no question might not have an audit out when I was looking my seats on the Ways Means, 1949, when I left 921 million in the kitty.

MR. SHEARER: Up again!

MR. JAMES M. ROCHON: Mr. President, a point of order. The Member for Question did not come all prepared to the bill, that's before he left, at the Joint Economic Committee meeting which he attended, the item to Cyprus Mission was reviewed, as he came out February if he left $21 million in the kitty.

HON. HARRY O. JONASON: The item to Cyprus Mission was another thing. (Inaudible). Anyway, we still have left that at another time, Mr. President, that we see how I suppose to deal with it this stage.

Mr. President, what I was really worried about was that the two Members from Scotia Nova, one of them took half an hour this morning to talk about this programme to increase the taxes only on chickens from five cents to ten cents. He argued about on the Government for taking such advantage of the poor people. When his other colleague got up and said that he is not going to further with that because we are just a young Government. So like one the thinking, Sir. One of them thought it many members and the other one said that he is not going to further with it, definitely, Mr. President.

Nothing that we propose on this side is going to be considered some shame because they have many long talk the same attitude this half between 1972 and 1974, Everything must be politically influenced. One Member, the Jamaica Labour Party for Golden Town mentioned the 1975 Government from this morning and said that that killed the economy. However, I am so happy, Mr. President, to hear his colleague the Leader Elected Member for Golden Town admitting that there was a recession in 1974/1975. Mr. President, people were fooled in 1975/1979 about this Government Plan. Many attempts was made to kill this tribe and to criticise it by many persons. Everybody knew that Plan affected the economy and no question was made of the other conditions which were responsible for the situation in the country. Mr. President,

MR. MARCUS G. RAICHLE (CONTINUING): Citizens of these communities may ask the opportunity to improve this Government by blowing their development plans for the proposed plutonium plant. How have what happened? The Government sent their men and they were surprised, they said, "Well people will not believe them". They should have not be used information themselves. They did not. Things are taking the same trend this time. They are not and simply criticism on the part people of these Islands.

MR. MARC H. MORRIS: Mr. President, on a matter of order please. I do not think that we have ever had relation on this country played the way they are being played since this Honorable Member has been elected. So I do not know why he is bellyache or speak about the need of no intelligent criticism.

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think that is really a point of order but you have made your point anyway my friend.

MR. MARCUS G. RAICHLE: Yes, Mr. President, when was his the speak after they have.

Mr. President, a statement can work that if we contribute at this time Americans will have no confidence in the Federal and therefore the economy will not move. I do not think, Mr. President, that we have to warn about that. Just just here we are discussing (the economy moving) matter, because I am sure that there is little need for this Government to make any white statement about the present uncertainty in the minds of the Guamanian people. What the reaction is. There are people standing around in the morning from long years looking for work. I can tell them people in Guam that unless we if they could come down here and sit here for a little while to see if they could find work. I tell them they had better not. They had better stay in Guam for I give them the assurance that something will occur. Because we cannot and will not and still not let to threaten the persons economy and security.

Mr. President, there is absolutely nothing wrong with this amendment to the Fiscal Duty Law. We have that Government will make some money out of it. Some weeks which should possibly go to Guam Building or the Museum center. By the today to build it up, do not know.

Mr. President, with all the delays which have been said, as yesterday that I can personally remember then, I, as the last minutes said, am confident that I have no regret to supporting this bill, and when I am on the outside I can tell the public said can be then, "How I did this. I did it because of the great interest I had for you. It is being done to raise a lot of money. Never mind the 10 cents cents you have to pay on some thereafter, on increase of 5 cents". In any case, Mr. President, those people like take a chance took account the those people who are trying to save a comment statement to the bank, even if it is not doing that. As the poor people are not concerned about the 5 cents anyway. They care a few dollars to check purchase and on Saturday, and that is it.

As far as the other two amendments are concerned, we are happy that we have eliminate the loopholes and that the poor people will enjoy some of the benefits which will come from these measures. Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Does any other Honourable Member wish to speak? The Minister of Energy and Mines.

MR. JOHN R. KOZIAK: Mr. President, I am in full agreement with Honourable Members who have spoken with regard to the Clean Environment Commission. The Premier himself once said, "The power to hurt includes the power to destroy".

The Bill before this House to amend the Stamp Duty Act, 1973, has only one section which merits having been brought here. Mr. President, it is my honest opinion that even that section should be handled cautiously. The section I speak of, Mr. President, is the section regarding transportation. What the December, 1982 six per cent tax rate takes off consideration transportation. Now, Mr. President, as early as March, 1983, we are here again discussing a Bill which will be putting back into use a section which will be costing some $5,000 in control in collection by the original Bill which has already been paid. Mr. President, I think the Honourable member mentioned something letting the genie back into the bottle, eggs. I think of the comparison to another such as this one, an error which has brought much to the economy of these Islands, we could be looking for problems.

I am not up here to throw stones at anybody. I am not here to criticize the whole Bill, I am merely here to try to make a point which I feel is of benefit to this country and the people.

Mr. President, I think from personal experience we have known, we continue to have stamps taken away from individuals and I think this Bill should be supported. Rather than taking this amount we should look to endeavour to put more people together to try to go out to get more for this country. I think the time has come where vehicles should be taken out of this Chamber and we should try to encourage no one. I don't say to anybody because I guess I will be told, "This again".

Mr. President, in times like these with a fragile economy like ours, it is my honest opinion that we should be looking where we can lighten each burdens. We are like many Caribbean places like Canada have experienced with transportation and, Mr. President, it seems as if from this Bill, that we as a Government will be encouraging transportation. Again I say, if this is the stand we are going to take, before we stand on here and waste time we should first have legislation to cover these shortcomings.

So, Mr. President, again I do support this on one hand I endorse what the Honourable Member who spoke on the earlier part of this Bill, the Hon. Minister and Government on diligence. Mr. President, anybody in these Islands who has been into Government and put forward for this country, it is going to put it on the one on the street, one guy on the other. I think that could not be been known that we find many people having the responsibilities of whether they are successful or not try to manage their affairs. Take for example a school teacher looking a bank; you use private find him with a cheque book and you cannot cash his cheque, Mr. President, what I say, Mr. President, what you may that you are going to put Bill now that encourage the duty on new vehicle then like that, it has to hit the man on the street, and I make sure that I disagree with it.

MR. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER IV (CONTINUING): The other members of this Bill, the new Governor, which Senate bill numbers amendments. It is my honest opinion that if this bill goes into law, and we should do well because I think the majority will support it, it will be very surprising to our most astute political observers. I feel that by passing this Bill tonight, Sir, we will be giving an inducement to the people of the Guyandotte Valley.

Mr. President, this is a serious moment which we have assembled on. At least about every Republican across the new Government have been together as Mine Inspection and Mine Education. Where will it stop? So many recommendations people, the Guyandotte people are a very principle race. Therefore, Mr. President, it must also remember that when you are trying to put somebody's head against the wall, sometimes their head will bleed. Let us remember that when we do what is right for our people. Let us endeavor in the other areas where will be good business to our people. Nobody ever will say that they are not always interested in employment opportunities which will help, Mr. President, and not hurt. It must remember, experienced people are constantly irresponsible and they know our duties. What is when somebody breaks an amendment, in which they should not do it, sure.

Mr. President, I am hopeful that the new Government will consider this Bill and put forward amendments to remove the two areas in this which I consider very detrimental to the people of these Islands. It is a large opinion that there are only two people who cannot change their minds and that is a dead man and a fool. I do not think that we have either of these people here.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. SPEAKER: Does any other Member wish to speak? The Honourable Minister of Education.

MR. MINISTER OF EDUCATION: Mr. President, I welcome this Bill, Sir. During the course of today's debates we have heard much about the economy through this, but I would like to call Members' attention to one of the areas of revenue which I consider the main source of revenue. I would like to point out that the Bill before you a full of revenue in these areas over 1983, much less a disappointment in the amount predicted as required in the annual budgetary fund. I refer specifically, Mr. President to Government Revenue; the income collected in 1982, the revenue amount is less than the actual amount collected in 1983. Revenue amounts are here by some $200,000 plus, and Mr. President, the previous speaker, he should be pointed out, are especially those amounts collected on account of employment. Gentlemen have come down. Mr. President, local persons and corporation unemployment fund have gone down, and there are other areas which have also come down 1983. So it is obvious that the revenue has taken a down turn and that if revenues are to be maintained at current levels, much less improved, Government has to find areas of employment for revenue.

The first amendment to the Bill before us, Mr. President, is one to impose by your most stupid Bill on agreements for the sale or purchase of land or other immovable property, which agreement sometimes may prefer to be contemplated, is an attempt to plug a loophole which has been opened over the years. It is not a measure which will affect the small person, in my opinion, as has been suggested. This loophole has been used by the more affluent in our society.

HON. EDISON O. MINGE (continuing): Examples have been given and I think that bear repeating, where maybe a Corporation has had a piece of property and an agent has had the right of assessment for maybe $200,000 somewhere that will show the value of the property is much higher. So has a Corporation available by for $200,000 and it is investigated for a value of without assessment whether they agree with it or not. It has been pointed out that it is supposed on normal assessments and assessment only goes for about sixty days that it is finally transferred on the tax-roles.

I do not believe, Mr. President, that a departmental agreement is used that often by the little person in purchasing a piece of property. In my opinion, if that were the assessment which I have made statement will just beyond doubt that that will not be the effect of this amendment, that is. Therefore, our cost to the small person. As fact, what is will do is to increase the problems that are existing with the small homes, because I believe to know, Mr. President, of several instances where people have put cost to remodel their or a five-payment bonds, the stated consideration on the assessment might have been $10,000, and when they make the final payment the value of the land was then $40,000 or $50,000 and they have asked to pay the taxes duly on that amount. With the amendment that maybe otherwise it will just happen any thing that the taxes duly will be the taxes duly paid at the commencement of the agreement.

The gentleman, Mr. President, and I will take them in the order in which they are in the bill, are as follows. Mr. President, the limitation of five years seems just an much though it should therefore take more than seven years of 104 per week, but it is nevertheless five times increase on such change. Unless people are in the habit of entering leases for very small income. This has got to be a very minimal increase in the most of other instances.

The section dealing with the change in timeschedule while, Mr. President, in my opinion, is a timely amendment to the Stamp Duty Act. I see no relationship to the 7 per cent tax which was removed in December, to the change which is hereby suggested here. The 7 per cent tax which was taken off in December applied to all commodities or articles with manufacturers and it was paid up front before the...assessment are even announced, unless it was refused. That was the day that it was 7%;...Again, Mr. President, will some one the Government has taken steps and to being paid and it does not apply to all commodities, only to those which are sold on a hire-purchase terms. As I understand it, those commodities or certain cities requisite which are now sold on a hire-purchase terms may be taken duty at 8%, and this is an attempt to get some duty for Government on those transactions.

I support that the amendment received by the Standard Motor (Hire Purchase) Limited is more equitable and it that is more satisfactory to the purchaser than existing a flat fee, and I would hope that that amendment is accepted.

Mr. President, this amendment can have no effect on the little man in this country. I do not think our little man in this country owns televisions units or any development, and he certainly would not be well advised to enter into any type of agreement of that nature for whether for himself. So I do not know where the little man comes into it.

MRS. BERGER (D-HI)(PARLIAMENTARY): So I would say it has no relevance whatsoever to the 4 days out of which were taken off in December, which was on Members have stated, with a view to eliminating constituents that something like those in the amendments included. I take it as a way of homecoming a time which was never contemplated in the Constitution when which would have normally been taken instead of the same was held in a convenient way around the Capitol Holidays. So I have no hesitation in saying that we object the amendment, Mr. President, and I urge support the vote of the Bill with equal fervor.

I do not know where these constituents are going to put electric on the little men, on whom the 10,000 records as we have said. Apartment in the Taiwans. However, I believe that they left out their Government anywhere quite a substantial sum of money which should have been there in the first place.

Thank you, Mr. President,

MR. PRESIDENT: Does any other Member wish to speak?

MAJ. MICHEL (R-IL): Mr. President, Sir, I have spoke to many that would schedule a little also taking the question time. Perhaps it could be a little early and call it 4:30 p.m.

MR. PRESIDENT: If no other Member wishes to speak I was going to ask the House if you would be willing to recess the night of early, and if at whether he intends to do so at any length. Or whether he would be available quite briefly. Otherwise as I understand it unable us to defer the moment of interruption if in my discretion I think a short deferment of it may enable the House to finish particular business. If the House intends speaking for some time then there would be no purpose in...

ROB. EDWARD C. (R-PA): I do, Mr. President...

MR. PRESIDENT: Well, in that case I think perhaps we could recess by to eventually 4:30 p.m. will.

ADJOURNMENT

MAJ. ARNOLD R. (R-TX): Mr. President, I move the adjournment of this House until 10.00 a.m. tomorrow.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that this House do adjourn until 10.00 a.m. tomorrow. Unless any Member objects be moved I will put the question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. AT 3.50 P.M. THE HOUSE ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 A.M., TUESDAY, 3RD MARCH, 1987.

Questions. The Second Elected Member. for George Town.

QUESTIONS

THE HONOURABLE ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THE OFFICIAL MEMBER RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

NO. 5: Would the Honourable the Government Secretary advise whether any Government deposits were hypothecated against the Government Bank overdraft as 31st October, 1954, and the collateral backing for the loan is perhaps the Town Building?

ANSWER: No Government deposits were hypothecated against the Government Bank overdraft as 31st October, 1954.

There is no collateral backing for the loan in respect the Town Building. However, Government has agreed not to borrow for any Local Purposes presently held by Barclays Bank and to allow the Bank's holdings of our funds to increase as revenue is collected, Government's letter dated 6th September, 1954, signed by the Honourable Member refers.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. EDMOND A. EBANKS: A supplementary, Mr. President. Would the Honourable Elected Member explain whether the Bank overdraft was considered as a deduction to the General Reserve Fund?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, the proceeding in this matter is that the General Reserve should be shown at the $10 million figure and there should be a footnote in Government accounts at 31st December, 1954 indicating that the letter was given to Barclays Bank.

MR. EDMOND A. EBANKS: A further supplementary, Mr. President. Am I to understand then, Sir, that the General Reserve funds of $10 million plus have not in any way affected by the bank overdraft or the amount negotiated for the Town Building Loan?

MR. SPEAKER: I think the Honourable Elected Member has just explained the way in which it was effected.

MR. EDMOND A. EBANKS: That I am asking for, Mr. President, for clarity of the situation.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I believe that in the answer given I indicated that there were no hypothecations against the bank overdraft. Therefore we cannot reduce the General Reserve by the bank overdraft.

MR. [illegible]: I think the honourable third [illegible] Member has made the position clear. If the question posed that the accounts should be kept in a different form or presented in some different way, no doubt he can make representations accordingly. However, I do not think that further information can usefully be solicited.

MR. LINDSAY A. PETERSON: Mr. President, if I may first clarify my notice for this. I have as I said in my remarks yesterday, some very considerable caveats of this position of Government at the first October, 1984, and I think it is only in pronouncements of this House that of the country that we have the true position.

MR. [illegible]: Thank you. Question No....I am sorry do you have a supplementary? Yes.

MR. [illegible] M. SCOTT: Mr. President, I wonder if the Honourable Third Official Member who has answered this question dealing with the concepts of Government could tell us whether he was the one who prepared the release which came out some time ago under the signature of the Joint Planning Secretariat of Executive Council, which incorrectly stated that the country would have been broke if we had followed those figures.

MR. [illegible]: I do not think that is really a supplementary. It is a question which the questioner can ask [illegible] if he wants.

Unless there is any further supplementary, I will invite the Elected Member for East End to ask the next question.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR EAST END WOULD LIKE THE HONOURABLE THIRD ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR PUBLIC WORKS AND PUBLIC SERVICES

NO. 7: Will the Member give a detailed analysis of the expenditure given to revise to ensure that included revisions are to whether they were using rivers and streets, and who authorized same?

MR. [illegible]: Perhaps I can just mention something. The usual procedure is for the Member requiring to read out his question, but in fact since we received from Stanley Orders to order to make it clear for people who listen on the radio what [illegible] and since questions are now going out in full, perhaps it would be sensible for the questioner rather than the Member answering to read the question. I note that the Elected Member for East End has done just that and I invite other Members to follow his lead. I think that is perhaps sensible.

ANSWER: Because of Government public concern surrounding the [illegible] of dangerous drugs and alcohol within the society and in an attempt to develop a programme for treatment and rehabilitation of this problem, a Council on Mental Health and Drug and Alcohol Abuse was established in January, 1984, under the chairmanship of the Financial Secretary for Health, Education and Social Services. In September, 1984, a sub-committee of the Council decided to develop a questionnaire in an attempt to determine the extent of drug and alcohol abuse. The questionnaire was developed using model questions for a similar survey in the United States.

The form was strictly anonymous and served as means of identification; the investigator was interested in collecting general data, not specific names.

The questionnaire entitled "Knowledge, attitude and practices of teenagers towards use of drugs and alcohol" contained eight questions. The first two questions were to determine the age and sex of the individual. The third question examined whether these specific forms of tobacco drugs and alcohol were also heard of by the young person. The fourth question asked if the young person had experienced any of these products under any of the three specified forms of drugs and alcohol. The fifth question solicited an explanation of his or her decision on the part of the student in the event that parents were known to use one of the specified drugs.

The sixth question examined whether the student had ever used the four main drugs mentioned and if so how frequently. The seventh question asked if any of the four main drugs had been used by the student during the previous month. The final question sought to determine reasons, if any, for using either form of dangerous drugs or alcohol.

The questionnaire was approved by the Principal's Secretary in the capacity as Chairman of the Council on Mental Health and Drug and Alcohol Abuse and in consultation with the Health and Education Departments.

COMMENTARIES:

MR. G. MALE ROOPUL: Mr. President, may I ask when was the questionnaire answered by the Principal Secretary?

DR. ANDREW O. FRANCIS: Mr. President, I am not certain of the exact date on which approval was given, but the decision to procure the questionnaires was taken in September, 1983 so it would have been some time between then and when it was circulated in January of this year.

MR. G. MALE ROOPUL: Mr. President, if he is in position that the decision was taken in September to procure the questionnaire can I ask why he does not give us the exact date on which the questionnaire arrived and sent to the schools.

DR. ANDREW O. FRANCIS: Mr. President, the minutes of the Sub-Committee indicate the date on which the decision was taken to procure the questionnaire, but I have not been able to determine the date on which it was approved from that source or any other source.

MR. G. MAIS POCOCK: Mr. President, may I ask why he would not determine that date? Was the date on 1885?

PRES. HERMAN G. MORRIS: Mr. President, I have said I do not know the date, so I could not say whether it was 1885 or 1911.

MR. G. MAIS POCOCK: Certainly, Mr. President, if the amendment to the motion the Member placed with me, was my question in order or is it to the motion?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think you have been answered that, Pocock, I may add. That is my understanding. That was the answer to the supplementary.

MR. G. MAIS POCOCK: Mr. President, may I ask the Member to see he have him say that?

MR. PRESIDENT: Wait I will ask him....

MR. G. MAIS POCOCK: I want to the motion in January, 1911?

PRES. HERMAN G. MORRIS: Yes, Mr. President, I said that in order to an additional supplementary. It would have to have been approved some time between September, 1910 and January, 1911 when it was circulated to the motion.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member for North Side.

MR. G. RICHARD MITCHELL: A supplementary, Mr. President. Was the Member state whether he personally approved this amendment?

MR. PRESIDENT: With respect, the answer to the original question stated that the amendment was approved by the Provincial Secretary.

MR. G. RICHARD MITCHELL: Mr. President, a supplementary. Will the Member state whether he was aware of the decision to issue this questionnaire?

PRES. HERMAN G. MORRIS: Mr. President, I did not see the questionnaire after it had been circulated, sir.

MR. G. MAIS POCOCK: Mr. President, may I only if he had any discussion of it before he was circulated although he may not have seen it?

HON. HERMAN G. MORRIS: Not of the contents of the questionnaire.

MR. G. MAIS POCOCK: No, President, may I ask if the information received from this investigation been handed over to the police so that the matter may be prosecuted, if any of the questionnaires were in the affirmative?

MR. PRESIDENT: With respect, you have already been told that it was anonymous. There could therefore be no possible question of prosecution.

MR. G. MAIS POCOCK: Despite the fact that it was anonymous information that these should be turned over to the police so they may find out who the citizens were who were under the threat of the questionnaires in the affirmative.

MR. PRESIDENT: That may be an observation of the Honorable Second Elected Member of Belize Rural East but it is not a point which I share, and it is not something upon I could agree to serve.

MR. G. ERIC SMITH: If it is a criminal offence in this country to order an underage minority, I believe, may I ask if the Member intends to bring over to the House at the future any effective answers to the use of dangerous drugs?

MR. PRESIDENT: Since the Member has already been told that Backbenchers are encouraged I do not propose to allow the supplementary. Is there any Member unconvinced?

MR. C. WES WOODS: Yes, Mr. President, I have many more. Mr. President, may I ask the Member what action he is now taking as a result of the representations from parents that the police visit the centres?

HON. GEORGE O. PRICE: Mr. President, I have not taken any action because the police are cooperating with the Committee. There is no way of determining which schools the boys have come from. They are all amalgamated and hopefully the date which the Committee hopes will be completed they will be sufficient to combat drug and alcohol abuse among young children in the community. No other action can be contemplated. Certainly at this no way of identifying any of the exact centres which were used.

MR. G. ERIC SMITH: Mr. President, may I ask how many questionnaires were distributed and how many have been returned?

SEN. HONOR O. PRAIRE: I am unable to give specific numbers, Mr. President, other than to say that they were distributed to all children in primary and private.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Elected Member for East Corozal

MR. JOHN H. BRICEÑO: Mr. President, a supplementary. I'm... what the Member is saying is correct; he said there is a possibility of this to be found to be false or true or what action among the youths, my question is if there is anyone who has the results been brought into the picture?

HON. HONOR O. PRAIRE: Mr. President, as I understood it, it is purely to determine the attitude of children to the use of drugs by adults.

MR. C. RAY MOORE: Mr. President, may I ask if my interpretation is correct that ten year old children were asked to spy on their parents?

HON. HONOR O. PRAIRE: Mr. President, it was not a case of asking children to spy on their parents. I think that information, Mr. President, which indicated that certainly in schools in the United States a large percentage of children, by the age of twelve have already participated the use of drugs or alcohol. So from it is known that possibly that this would seem to be necessary if any success is going to be achieved. This was why they were given the questionnaire. No child was asked to spy on his parents. The children were given the paper and asked to answer it right there. They

REP. JAMES G. MARTIN (CONTINUING): ...did not have time to go home and vote on their recommendations. It was only if they had to do this once more it being done.

MR. O. WILD BRIGGS: Mr. President, have the sponsors satisfied their intention would be fulfilled with these amendments?

REP. JAMES G. MARTIN: Mr. President, I am not quite clear the point that I think that the subcommittee was called on and a discussion on this matter was held with them. As right I think that each school considered a student officer to come with the committee on the constitutions.

REP. JAMES M. GALLOWAY: Mr. President, I wonder if the sponsor would state briefly decision to use to count voting children as 16 years old rather than age 18 or 21 years, and whether or the records which have been obtained any information how these would affect the children of 16 or 18 years of age?

REP. JAMES G. MARTIN: Mr. President, I would assume the question was the decision of the sub-committee and I have not yet been furnished with any information obtained as a result of the survey.

MR. J. RAY ROBERTS: Mr. President, according to the answer the questionnaire was entitled knowledge, attitude and practices of teenagers towards the use of drugs. The question is why was it given to 12 year olds?

MR. MARTIN: I think that was been answered already.

MR. JAMES M. GALLOWAY: Well, in view of that, Mr. President, may I ask the Member whether he was his opinion that 12 year old children would be in a position to understand questions of such a personal nature as this and to answer on it?

REP. MARTIN: I do not think that that is a responsible opinion because he has obviously been made aware that it was not his decision, it was the decision of the sub-committee to issue the questionnaire.

MR. JAMES M. GALLOWAY: Well who is ultimately responsible for it, then? Is it the Sub-committee? Is it the Department Secretary? Or is it the Honorable First Elected Member of Executive Council? (Pause). I am waiting for a reply to my question, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am afraid you do not owe obligations to me. You can ask the Member that question if only he what you want to do.

MR. JAMES M. GALLOWAY: I thought I had made it quite clear that I was not talking to him. That I was talking to the Member. I am asking whose decision it was, or who the responsible minister ultimately must with? Would it be the Sub-committee, the Secretary or the Member in charge of the portfolio?

HON. DENNIS O. BARRY: Mr. President, if this assembly had taken place yesterday instead my time of office I would have no hesitation in taking responsibility for the decision. Unfortunately, it appears that there is a query arose as to what this was in

MRS. BRUCE P. SCARLETT (CONTINUING): Just approved. I guess this is the possibly because of the discretionary funds that place.

MR. JAMES M. BARRY: Mr. President, as there appears to be a query, does anyone object to the Senate disagreeing to the Amendments of this House the Sub-committee reports in their entirety or will as the Amendments, so that it may be determined under which authority it was passed.

MRS. BRUCE P. SCARLETT: Mr. President, I have given the answer to this. The only Sub-committee report which mentioned this is dated September, 1981.

MR. P. SAIC BROOKS: Mr. President, may I ask the Member who has the responsibility for this under the Constitution. To is the Members, or the Sub-committee....

MR. PRESIDENT: That has already been answered.

MR. JAMES M. BARRY: I do not think we can proceed in any, Sir. The second thing that the problem with this the only date we have is the date is September, 1984, which could be conveniently used to say or there the assumption that it was done by the previous Honourable Prime Minister of Executive Council.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Minister must make statements. If there is a question, please ask it.

MR. JAMES M. BARRY: To is any use to this House?

MR. P. SAIC BROOKS: Mr. President, will the Member give a statement that the type of questionnaire will never again be given to 10 year old children?

MRS. BRUCE P. SCARLETT: Mr. President, I am not sure whether the Member is referring specifically to the question which related to children's attitude to mental health, or whether he is talking about the questionnaire in total. If he is talking about the specific question which I have mentioned, I would agree that in looking at it if I had seen the question I probably would have asked that that question be left out. However, I would not rule the undertaking that a similar survey would not be considered if I thought that it had value.

MR. P. SAIC BROOKS: Mr. President, may I ask why if the questionnaire, instead of determining if parents need help, why was not the questionnaire sent to the parents? If it was given to the child, why was the child not allowed to take it home and let his parents help with the answers?

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not really think what is a supplementary. I think we have strayed rather far from the original question. Unless supplementaries are tied to the original answer rather strictly I think we had better pass on to the next question.

MR. P. SAIC BROOKS: Mr. President, the question asked for a detailed analysis and so far as I am concerned this answer has not given it. That is why I am putting this type of supplementary question. I would have hoped the questionnaire would have been sent to the parents with all the answers: the child in question could be interviewed in the schools.

MR. PRESIDENT: I have waited great hopes. Before there be any further supplementary I will ask the former Elected Member for George Town to ask the next question.

THE HONOURABLE MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN NO. 2 ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST MINISTER MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 8: Would the Member state what progress, if any, has been made towards the development of the sports complex?

ANSWER: The progress to date on the sports complex includes:-

(1) The reclamation, layout and top soiling of an infield access road;

(2) The layout of a practice field and a parking area with most of the multi-use completed;

(3) The connections system for the soccer pitch, including the water and clubhouse, have been completed;

(4) Work on the pavilion on the field layout for parking, landscaping, etc.;

(5) The Little Club underway with one cage, and further on internal part of the complex is still underway for reclamation.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. EDWARD A. MCTAGGART: I supplementary, Mr. President. Would the Member advise whether the offer made by Cayman Society to assist with this project under the Arts Grant Programme, has been accepted by Government?

HON. JEPHSON B. EBANKS: Mr. President, I think that is the subject of a later question.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think it is the subject of a later question and is not really a supplementary which arised directly out of the answer to this one. So I think you had better keep that; you can ask that as a proper question. It is true, although not on Monday's Order Paper I understand.

MR. EDWARD A. MCTAGGART: Mr. President, I will have very little hesitation in asking that as a necessary question because it is directly related to the question which I just asked. So I will no doubt have to declare that from the point of the day when it arose up.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask a supplementary? What was the Capital Assets Policy Committee?

HON. BERNARD O. PEARSON: Mr. President, work was continuing on the project up until this year but the work on the access roads would have been through the end of last year. I think some work was done on that in January or so?

MR. JAMES K. POLLOCK: Could the Member give us a detailed account as to what work took place on this campaign before the elections and what has been done since the elections, since apparently he is hoping to use that as a check in his answers?

MR. SPEAKMAN: The latter part of that supplementary can be established. As to the first point, which is the principal question whether the Member can say how much of the programs was made uniform and how much after the elections, if the Member has the information and wishes to produce he may do so.

HON. ROBERT G. SPENCE: Well, Mr. President, I do not have that detailed information.

MR. JAMES K. POLLOCK: Well, I do not expect to get many questions answered in this House but let me make another one. Could the Member state what section took place on this before the elections and whether he could tell us what 30 per cent of the work which has been done on this so far was done before the elections in 1964, and whether 10 per cent has been done since that time? Or what would be in his mind the percentages?

HON. ERNEST G. HALL: Mr. President, I am unable to break it down in percentages. All I can say is that work continued as planned from the completion of the requirements, either them for breakdowns on the machines which should have left the surface to the working track, and also because of the fact that that machine had to be sent to Regina first to do work on the different there. In other words, the surface on the running track could have probably been placed before the end of the year but for the machine going to Regina first and having that kept before and after the return.

MR. JAMES K. BALLON: Certainly it would not take a genius to answer this question. Was the majority of the work done before the 1964 elections or has the majority of it been done since the November, 1964 elections?

MR. SPEAKMAN: I think if the Member wants precise information of that kind he needs to put down a question. The original question was merely what percentage of work has been made. It was not a question which sought information as to the timing. I can understand the Member's particular point but if he wants an answer he may need to put down a specific question so that the answer can be ascertained.

MR. JAMES K. POLLOCK: Well, Mr. President, I am reading this the question as it is now, "Could the Member state what percentage of work has been made towards the completion of the sports complex"? I can't see how I am not going into detail in this answer into this. It was explained by the Minister, so therefore I am asking, and I will take the explanation out of it, what percentage was made and was the majority of the work completed before 15th November, 1964? Or was the majority of it done since 15th November, 1964? That should be permissible. The explanation is out of it.

MR. SPEAKMAN: It is not a question of the explanation being taken out of it. It is a question that the original question merely asked how much progress has been made only, and not how much progress has been made by a number of specific dates. There

MR. PRESIDENT (CONTINUING): In no manner why, in order to provide an answer to the original question, the Member should submit information of this kind now being sought. The original question has been fully answered. If you want information of this kind you are now seeking, I am suggesting to you that you need to put down a specific question because the Member does not have the information today as he has already made clear.

MR. JAMES M. QUINN: I do not think I will be asking it, Sir, because as long as you appear to be in that chair I do not think we will get the type of answers...

MR. PRESIDENT: That remark will be withdrawn. Will the Member please withdraw that remark, otherwise I shall have no alternative but to name him?

MR. JAMES M. QUINN: Mr. President, I will withdraw it but I would like to see more fairness shown to both sides of this House.

MR. PRESIDENT: So indeed would everybody, I am sure. My hope is that we shall continue to see it. If there is no further supplementary, yes...

MR. S. ANTHONY MANNELLI: Mr. President, I would like to ask the Member, when the previous statement on this matter? What was the same answer?

HON. HERBERT O. REAVES: Mr. President, could I as not be a question to give a specific date but it was sometime early last year.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Elected Member for George Town.

MR. EDWARD A. VARELA: Mr. President, I promise you that this will be my last supplementary. Would the Member state when we can expect to see an official operational opening of any part of the sports complex?

HON. HERBERT O. REAVES: No, Mr. President, but I would assure the Honourable Gentleman we are going to try to have one opening only.

MR. S. ANTHONY MANNELLI: Mr. President, point (b) of the answer says that the Lacsa Club authority will on the site to call tenders for construction. Can the Member say when work was started on this swimming pool?

HON. HERBERT O. REAVES: Mr. President, the first week of December.

MR. S. ANTHONY MANNELLI: The Member also mentioned that the installation is still outstanding. Can he tell us what he means by "still outstanding"?

HON. HERBERT O. REAVES: The units are substantially built, Mr. President, with the plumbing and electrical fittings in. Beyond that I am not able to give details.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think I will say, because we are eating a lot of the period of question time for few questions, ask the Elected Member for North Side to ask the next question.

THE SPEAKER MAKING HIMSELF READY TO ASK THE QUESTIONS FIRST QUESTION: REGULATIONS FOR IMPROVED SAFETY STANDARDS

MR. 9: Would the Member state when the regulations under the Consumer Protection Law, 1978, are expected to be ready?

ANSWER: The regulations under the Consumer Protection Law, 1978, are made and will be published when the Law is brought into force.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. LLOYDS A. PIERRE: Alternatively, Mr. President. Could the Member state when it is expected that the Law will be brought into effect?

HON. DENNIS M. ROGERS: Mr. President, hopefully in a matter of weeks, Sir.

MR. G. MAIC BOLDEN: Mr. President, may I ask that with the importance attached to this Bill and the experience given to it when it passed through the House last year, will the Member table the regulations in this House and will he also seek the approval of this Legislative Assembly before putting the regulations into effect?

HON. DENNIS M. ROGERS: We may, Mr. President. The regulations are made under provisions given in the Law and they will be published in the Gazette after they have been made by His Excellency-in-Council, in due course.

MR. G. MAIC BOLDEN: Mr. President, does the Member mean to say that the Members of the Legislative Assembly will not have what is in these regulations which they consider a part in the Bill?

HON. DENNIS M. ROGERS: Absolutely right, Sir.

MR. G. MAIC BOLDEN: Mr. President, may I ask if the Member is aware of the expressions of the public and the Members of the Legislative Assembly during the Long passage of the Bill before it became Law.

HON. DENNIS M. ROGERS: Mr. President, if the House had wished the regulations to come to the House they should have made that provision for the Law.

MR. G. MAIC BOLDEN: Mr. President, as the Member knows effect of the Law has been so long delayed, will the Member not accept as the wish of the House, or at least this Member that we be given a chance to look at the regulations before they go into Law?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think an effort that has already been mentioned.

MR. G. MAIC BOLDEN: Mr. President, may I ask that for future guidance, to what must I attribute an supplementary question, do you or the Member?

MR. PRESIDENT: You address the Chair, but the question is directed to the Member who is to answer it.

MR. G. WILLIS SIMMONS: I am confused, Mr. President, because I thought there was an answer from the Member. The answer again is....

MR. PRESIDENT: I think perhaps you meant you do not get the answer you want.

MR. G. WILLIS SIMMONS: No, Mr. President, in the case of the question addressed to the Honourable Chief Minister a while ago we never received in fact a reply unless it came from the Chair.

HON. LEROY H. EVANS: Mr. Speaker, I will try, to elaborate, but, although the Member seems very well how the working of these things goes. When the Law provides for negotiations to be made by the Government that are made in Council and then then are published and the public sees them. Now, Mr. President, I cannot stray from the legal duty of doing this. There was a system for delaying the answer into effect of the Law. It will not be too long and meanwhile will be published together. This was the relevant way of doing it, Sir.

MR. JAMES M. MORRIS: Mr. President, I think that the question asked by my colleague really did not get the answer it should have because we got it out sent of the workings caused by the Member and so was sent by the Chair. So we are really confused in knowing who to direct these questions to.

MR. SPEAKER: If there is no further supplementary I will invite the elected Member for North Side to ask the next question.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR NORTH SIDE TO ASK THE HONOURABLE MINISTER FOR TOURISM, INFORMATION AND BROADCASTING FOR INFORMATION ON GOVERNMENT ADVERTISEMENTS

NO. 10: Would the Member state whether the post of Government Information Officer was advertised in the local media?

ANSWER: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. D. CYRIL WILLIAMS: I misunderstand, Mr. President. Would the Member state whether the advertisements was as a result of my question, because I think no advertisements was out before the question was put to the Assembly before the advertisements appeared in the local media on the 8th February.

HON. CYRIL B. ROBERTS: I can assure that, Mr. President. The answer to Mr. This was done before the question was ever received by me, Sir.

MR. JAMES M. MORRIS: Was the question back dated?

HON. CYRIL B. ROBERTS: We have many applications and they are supposed to be in by the 8th March, so they are not all in yet, or they might all be in but they will not be dealt until after the 8th March.

MR. J. RICHARD MILLER: Unfortunately, Mr. President. You might not allow this but the advertisement which appears in the local media for this post asks for a Bachelors degree and a Diploma or more for the Senior Information Officer. Does the Member expect to find a graduate with those qualifications?

HON. DENNIS G. YOUNG: Not really, Mr. President.

MR. J. RICHARD MILLER: A supplementary, Sir. Does the Member feel that those two qualifications are absolutely necessary for adequate performance of the job?

HON. DENNIS G. YOUNG: Mr. President, let us put it this way. We would be much more successful if the applicant had those qualifications. If he does not have them then he will have to have the best we can get.

MR. JAMES M. DOWNEY: The Member presently occupying that portfolio, does he have a Master of Arts and a Bachelor of Arts degree?

HON. DENNIS G. YOUNG: The person there is only temporary, Sir, but to answer the question I am not certain what qualifications she has. She was doing the work before that came up to the 14th November.

MR. JAMES M. DOWNEY: I am quite aware of that in a general context. I did not like the advertisement as I cannot comment too much on it, but I am perhaps surprised that we would be asking for that type of degree for this position. I wonder if the Member could state how it was decided to ask for those qualifications?

HON. DENNIS G. YOUNG: To enlighten the Member the qualification is for a Senior Information Officer and an ordinary Information Officer and it reads, "The applicants should possess a Master of Arts or Bachelor of Arts degree in Journalism from an accredited university, and have a minimum of five years experience in the communication media and management of a news service". Mr. President, as the policy is not what we pay for and that is not try to get qualified people in the beginning, we cannot just close an eligibility for an Information Officer. Anybody could apply. I cannot tell you whether we are going to get one with a degree in Journalism or not, but it is quite possible that we might.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for East Bay was the first to catch my eye.

MR. P. GERVAIS KENT: Thank you, Mr. President. I wonder whether the Member would state the range of salary which is paid to this Information Officer?

HON. DENNIS G. BARTER: Mr. President, at this moment I cannot quote a number.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think that answers a bit the supplemental question. The First Elected Member for Bonavista North rose. If he still wishes to speak? No, the Fourth Member for Bonavista South.

MR. R. EDGAR MARTIN: Would the Member agree, Sir, whether he feels that the greatest emphasis should be placed on academic qualifications or practical knowledge of these jobs for such a post.

MRS. DORIS D. BOOTH: Mr. President, I think a combination of both because knowledge of the statute is one thing, but if the person is not able to devote a decent volume of post secondary education it would be no good. I might say, a recent example of which I am very proud is the participation by the marine corps which the Intermediate Service did. And I think that all Montana are aware of this. If they have not gone to see it on the slide show they have quickly heard it on the radio and I think it was well put across. However, if a person does not have a half decent education they would not be that keen of doing, Sir.

MR. C. EDWARD HEDAHL: A further supplementary, Mrs. Mr. President. Does the Minority feel that a certain amount of academic qualifications are necessary, would the Member please explain his dissatisfaction who presumably held such a post in Government and who had no such academic qualifications?

MRS. DORIS D. BOOTH: I presume the Member is referring to the article which we had spoken of being considered and which was a first attempt to introduce some sort of information service. That particular office had been quite active and when we were advised that the Government wanted to economize some with the public, we decided we had to expand and try to do a better job. To get it all together, it is not just information that Government do the public either. It is many other duties like the Aeronautical Agency that does not get done as often, and quite a number of different things which come to the fore front.

MR. PRESIDENT: The next question.

THE CHAIR RECOGNIZES THE GENTLEMAN FROM THE 28TH DISTRICT, MR. [illegible], FOR THE PURPOSE OF ASKING A QUESTION.

MR. [illegible]: Would the Member state whether any Government contracts with non-Canadians who are employed in the Civil Service are being considered although disregarding the point in the local matter?

CHAIR: Yes. For example, teachers who have registered will be recommended for consideration to the Public Service Commission although local qualifications for specific vacancies, a general advertisement for teachers may be placed, and if a qualified local problem, the Commonwealth Nominal will not be removed. We advertise all posts in the local newspaper would be mainly non-Canadians.

QUESTIONS/ANSWERS:

MR. D. EDWARD HEDAHL: Could the Member state if it is not a requirement under Government regulations that contracts held by non-Canadians be advertised before they are awarded at the end of the term?

MRS. DORIS D. BOOTH: Mr. President, I am not sure what is in the regulations but generally according to procedure. Sometimes, for instance that would be the case of advertising for a doctor when we do not have any available. Sometimes it does not take place. If we have a qualified person in a post and for the minute we are satisfactory service; this member in advance he tells us that he would like to remain and we are

HON. DENNIS E. FOSTER (CONSERVATIVE): happy with his performance, he will go ahead and make another statement. Now so do, Sir, it would be a waste of Government money and everything else proceeding that again.

MR. D. BRIAN MILLER: Could the Member state, Sir, what criteria he hopes to determine what words are acceptable and what are not, and where does he get the information concerning all of the qualified Legislators who exist out there?

HON. DENNIS E. FOSTER: Mr. President, if it is a word considered like the Information Services it is advertised. If the contracted officer is a non-Legislator and he does not want to repeat or he decide we are not going to censor it, we advertise it.

MR. PRESIDENT: I make it that there is just time for one more question. The Second Elected Member for George Town.

SUSPENSION STANDING 24 (2)

MR. LINWOOD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, I was just wondering whether I could exercise my rights under section 23(8) of the Standing Orders to have my question postponed until a later day, because I know that it is 11.00 now?

HON. DENNIS E. FOSTER: Mr. President, I would suggest you take it, Sir, since it is the last question on the Order Paper. For once we might...

MR. PRESIDENT: I see....

HON. MICHAEL J. DARGLEY: I think that the Honourable Second Elected Member for George Town is indeed that you will rule him out having through the supplementaries.

MR. PRESIDENT: Well, that would be a risk, that if there used a large number of supplementaries there would not be time to take them all. My watch does say it is after 11.00, so since the Member has asked for suspension under Standing Order 23, paragraph (8) I will grant it, and we will take his question next.

Item 2. Suspension of Standing Order 24(2). The Honourable First Official Member.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 24(2) AND (3)

HON. DENNIS E. FOSTER: Mr. President, under Standing Order 24, Sir, I would like to move the suspension of Standing Order 24(2) to allow Private Members' Business today instead of Thursday, as everybody knows Thursday is Private Members' day but we had got the debate on the Budget to start on Wednesday morning. So in the Business Committee Meeting yesterday evening Members decided that it was their desire to have two days on that the debate on the Throne Speech and Budget Address could go right on from tomorrow on without a break in between.

I think it makes good sense, Sir. We can get most of these done today probably and when we start debating tomorrow we will be able to go straight on.

DOM. RICHARD J. GARCIA: Perhaps, Mr. President, Sir, if we could just give a little more particularity, and I would suggest to my Commonwealth colleagues that we suspend Standing Order 14(5) to enable Private Members' business to be taken today. Secondly, we should also suspend 14(2) and 24(3) to enable Government business to continue on Thursday.

MR. SPEAKER: That is Thursday of this week only. So the question before the House is that Standing Orders 24(3) and 14(2) be suspended in such a way as to have the effect of enabling Private Members' Motions to be debated today and to enable the Government business to continue being debated on Thursday of this week.

Does any Member wish to speak?

MR. R. LEO ABBOTT: Yes, Mr. President, I wish to oppose the suspension of these Standing Orders. I account the difference between dealing with Government Bills which are before this House today and dealing with the Private Members' Motions. I am aware of Standing Order 24 which allows this suspension. I want to question why the business of this House is being conducted in such a topsy-turvy manner.

On Friday, we were dealing with the revenue Bills and we were told that it was necessary to finish those two Bills, the Customs Bill and the Stamp Duty Bill. The House sat in session until 2.00 p.m. to complete the Customs Bill. We are still dealing with the Stamp Duty Bill which is a relatively small one and we are just finishing the committee. Why are we not dealing with the Stamp Duty Bill this morning rather than jumping off to deal with Private Members' Motions? Also, why are we not continuing to deal with all the other Bills; some four or five Bills have been on the Order Paper from Friday and yesterday? Why are we only concentrating those? Why are we jumping off to deal with Private Members' Motions which should be on Thursday? If we simply want days and only deal with Private Members' Motions today, we would have to deal with the Government Bills on Thursday which would still cause an interruption to the debate on the Throne Speech and the Budget Address. Mist de mon sense, Mr. President, I come here this morning prepared to deal with the Government Bills and all other Members must have also come prepared to deal with the Government Bills today. Now we are told that we have to deal with Private Members' Motions and I personally am not prepared to deal with them, although if it is the will of the House that we must deal with them I may be able to stay a few words.

However, Members have come into the Chamber this morning expecting the business to continue in the regular fashion, and it is our right to ensure the business in the regular fashion. If there were more important Private Members' Motions I could see the revenue Bill being set aside, and I could see any other business of the House being set aside. But there is no urgency at all to any of these Private Members' Motions and it has caught all the Members of the House unprepared. If we were told this yesterday afternoon, that this would be the order today, we could have no cavil. However, you will know that a very important thing happened this morning, that I came in at a few minutes before 11.00 a.m. the Orders of the Day were not on the table here and so it was only at 10.00 when the session was about to start that we were handed these Orders of the Day which are entitled this document change in the order of this House. This is normally known because Standing Orders should only be suspended according to Standing Order 82 for a

MR. G. LEE MOORE (Annerley): specific purposes. What he suggested here to simply a scheme to support the Standing Orders to satisfy the whims and fancies of the Members of the Business Committee who, as I understand have many of the Private Members' motions before the House. By the most ridiculous stretch imaginable of the suspended Standing Orders to satisfy the whims and fancies of the Business Committee, Standing Orders must be suspended for a specific purpose as we did on Friday with the Customs Bill because the Financial Secretary, rightly so, was anxious to have the Bill completed to prevent importers from taking advantage and withdrawing their goods from the Customs warehouse before the new rate went into effect. This would have disadvantaged the Government which would have been paid by the importers.

So while Standing Orders 91 allows the suspension not only time by the consent of the majority of the Members it must only be used for a specific purpose. No specific purpose has been given for the suspension of Standing Orders 34(2) and (5). Standing Order 34(2) is very useful in that it gives the Private Members the privilege of having one day set aside for their business. That day is Thursday and it must not change unless there are special circumstances to change it. It is the secret to have the Private Members' business today what we should be having the Government Bills, don't remember there we have that notification motion Bill which we were told on Friday by the Financial Secretary that it was his aim to have the motion Bills completed on Friday. Because of the length of debate we were unable to finish them. We did finish one on Friday. We worked on one yesterday, but that one yesterday is for three completion. Now this is now say that that Bill must be set aside to deal with Private Members' Motions? Are we going to have total disregard for the provisions of the House? Are we going to have total disregard for the systematic functioning of the House whereby Members know precisely what they will do, what they will deal with and if they are to be. Those certainties amongst our systems are wrong. At least we should be given the certainty of being given advance notice that on Wednesday we are not going to deal with Government business. We are going into Private Members' Motions.

As if this had been the plan of the Business Committee the Business Committee should have ensured that today's Order Paper should have been given to us yesterday evening so that we were not left in this state of unpreparedness in which we now find ourselves. I certainly will note against this change and I certainly hope that other Members will do so. The Private Members' Motions down on the Order Paper for today, while they may be important, or which may be worthy of discussion, are certainly not urgent. The only reason why just should change from normal practice of business is to deal with a matter of public importance, a matter of urgency or a problem which arises and cannot await its regular turn. We had an example some yesterday when the Member simply wanted to take suspension no. 6 instead of question no. 6. The Second Elected Member for Gaviyn Tuki was told that it would be wrong to interfere with the agenda once it is prepared. Yet here we are now suspending the whole agenda upon which Parliament has worked, and punishing the Members by great disadvantage for what? We are leaving Government's urgent public business like the Stamp Duty Bill unattended and unfinished. I know from what has happened in this House since Wednesday that anything put forward by the Government Bench will pass because they are Members who simply vote, no matter what the merits is behind it. We have a timely machinery which has been devised

MR. S. PAT DOYLE (CONSTITUENCY): Hon. Chuck has worked assiduously under the Constitution and in this House. No matter how he might or wrong, I'll acknowledge that he is sincere in what he does.

I have been here twelve years and we have never been put in this position in my twelve-year history in this House. If the Hon. Opposition Leader has been suspended now, three and I suppose that they should be suspended, but they should never be suspended simply to put members at a disadvantage when they have an obligation to the people who have elected them to debate with presentations and to obtain such knowledge and matters that be before this House. So we would be setting a bad precedent today if we were to allow this change.

I certainly cannot support it.

MR. PARSONS: Any other Honourable Member wish to speak?

MR. JAMES M. MORGAN: Mr. President, the motion before the House should be defeated. It is one more instance of the ridiculous policy of this administration. As my colleague mentioned a while ago on Friday before the House, there was a tremendous bill, the Income Tax Bill, for first two readings Bills I think, and there was such rush and such urgency that this House stayed in session until eleven p.m. that night to complete one of these bills. The other one was dealt with recently yesterday, and I wonder why was we not successful with the Government because Bill fourteen is the bill dealing with Private Members' Motions.

I hope nothing been under the impression that Government business was dealt with first by this House, and other minor matters would come thereafter. I think the Member who placed this motion before the House made mention about this being necessary so on Thursday we might possibly be debating the Throne Speech and have then the Budget Address. So it would be necessary to keep Thursday clear. Well, I think that we should remind this House then to us mind for Thursday as this House is going to be in session then necessitate Thursday before this session is over. So there is no such.

Yesterday to speak to welcome the Second Elected Member for West Bay simply said that his session could not be changed as the Order Paper when he was elected could be, may stay should be.

MR. V. MORGAN FOSTER: On a point of order, Mr. President. The Member, I think is misleading the House in saying that it was my question. Could he please identify that it was the Second Elected Member from George Town.

MR. JAMES M. MORGAN: Mr. President, I really apologize. I would not have wanted to make that wide because I would like to give the credit where the credit can be given. It was the Second Elected Member from George Town and not West Bay. I apologize.

Mr. President, I think that the Members of this House should object strenuously to this and we should not allow the bill to way the way they happen. As I said before, we appear to have adopted a shameful policy to the point where there is no master policy and Government presently is going in any direction that any hand, I for one is prepared to debate the business; prepared to debate anything which comes before this House, but I think we should have it on the order that we have been doing it in the past.

MR. DAVID M. PRICE (CONTINUED): I will remind this House that the very Members who are now protesting like any the Members who so strenuously objected on the outside and cast every aspersion which could be passed about the previous administration because Standing Orders were somewhat dusty with or a manner similar to this, and they were ignored.

Yet there was so much wrong on Orders of the Day time I wonder why it is not known as this time. I feel, Mr. President, that we should proceed with Government business and the motions of the Private Members on the subsequent days. Therefore that we will go to question time now.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. DENNIS P. PHIRRI: Mr. Speaker, whether the Member was not listening to me or did not understand me, one of the two, because there was a specific purpose which I mentioned when I asked for the sacking of that Standing Order. The Private Members' Motion Committee agreed on Friday that we debate the Motion on the Shamba Kenya and Budget Address until Wednesday, 6th March. It was for this purpose, and for the purpose of consistency so that if we intended Ministers on the Shamba Kenya and Budget Address we could sometimes might or have debate done sometimes and then going to Private Members' Day on Thursday and then going back on Friday again. This was the reason, which is a legitimate reason. We are not neglecting the Government business, Sir.

There are the other stages of the Stamp Duty Bill which I think we will get through and we also have the other Bills down here or will think are not as important. The thrust of the matter is, Mr. President, the two Members have wanted to withdraw which is why we cannot get on with Orders of the House.

MR. JAMES M. MUTIGA: On a point of order, Mr. President...

MR. DENNIS P. PHIRRI: Mr. President, I did not withdraw him when he was speaking.

MR. PRESIDENT: No, he did right. It is on a point of order.

MR. JAMES M. MUTIGA: A point of order, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: He is entitled to interrupt if it is a point of order.

MR. JAMES M. MUTIGA: I do not think the Minister should be casting aspersions. Each we are wasting the time of the House, time has been wasted here on many occasions and I really am surprised after eight years...

MR. PRESIDENT: You have made your point.

MR. JAMES M. MUTIGA: ...of whether should to withdraw with this Member that he should make such a statement against my colleague and myself. Because I was answering him, as I assure this House, if the time is surrendered wasted we will be on our feet for a long time this session.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member's point is taken. I do not think it is for anyone to say that whether Member is wasting the time of the House.

SEN. JAMES P. PIERCE: Well, Mr. President, I am not going to say any more about it. When I have something to do with a policy, sir, as to make a wasteful policy. I do not mind the Senator referring to the other Elected Members of Knoxville Council on that, but check it is something to do with me they shouldn't bother to me that way, sir.

I suggest we go ahead with the motion now, sir.

PRES. PRESIDENTIAL: I will put the question that Standing Order 12(2) and (3) be suspended to enable Executive Members' Motions to be taken today and that Government Business, being the Throne Speech debate and the interpretation Bill be taken on Thursday this week.

QUESTION PUT: AYES AND NOES

SEN. C. DALE SAWYER: Mr. President, may I have a division?

PRES. PRESIDENTIAL: I will ask the Clerk to carry on.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.
Announcements are awaited.
Item 2(b) (i) Private Member's Motion No. 1. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 1/85
ENDORSEMENT FOR TWO PARLIAMENTS

MR. T. ALEXANDER BODDEN: Mr. President, I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 1 and the abbreviated standing in my name, which reads as follows:-

> RECOGNIZING Standing Order 6(1), of the Standing Orders of the Cayman Islands Legislative Assembly provides that a Session of the Legislative Assembly will usually consist of four Meetings, but that additional Meetings may also be convened by the Speaker if/when;
> AND NOTING the present arrangements for the Legislature is that Meetings are held once a quarter, that is, once a year, and they do sometimes find that it is not possible to have all the items that both Legislation and Private Members' business can only be dealing quarterly;
> BE IT RESOLVED that consideration be given to establishing a programme for the Legislature which would provide for Meetings to be held on alternate months;
> AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that consideration be given to a change in the time of commencement of each Meeting from 10:00 a.m., as is now provided for by Standing Order 10(1), to 9:00 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.;
> AND FURTHER THAT these proposals be considered by a Committee of the whole House which said Committee would take into account any recommendation to the present Standing Orders of the House.

DRAFT STANDING AMENDMENTS TO THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY STANDING ORDERS

In accordance with Private Member's Motion No. 1/85 and Standing Order 98(1), the following draft proposed amendments to Standing Order 6(1) and 10(1), (2) and (3) are hereby moved:-

(a) That Standing Order 6, sub-section (1), be amended by the deletion of the words, "four meetings" as they appear in the third line, and the substitution therefor of the words, "six meetings to be held on alternate months".

(b) That Standing Order 10, sub-section (1), be amended by the deletion of the figures and word, "10 o'clock", and the substitution therefor of the words, "9 o'clock".

(c) That Standing Order 10, sub-section (2), be amended by the deletion of the figure, "2:30", and the substitution therefor of the figure, "2:30".

(d) That Standing Order 10, sub-section (3), be amended by the deletion of the figure, "2:30", and the substitution therefor of the figures, "2:30".

MR. SPEAKER: The question?

MR. D. BRIAN MCGEE: I beg to second the motion, Mr. Speaker.

MR. SPEAKER: For the information of members and of any radio listeners I should make clear what Private Member's Motion No.1 contains is essentially to the effect that a change should be made in Standing Orders. Standing Order 33(1) records that when a motion of this kind is made, the mover shall move the motion, and after it has been seconded the question shall be put forthwith that the motion be referred to a Committee on Standing Orders. If that question is agreed upon no further proceedings will be taken on that motion until the Committee has reported thereon. The effect of that Standing Order is that the motion now moved does not get referred at this stage, but only the question is simply put that it be referred to a Committee on Standing Orders.

I should add further that there is not at present any such Committee on Standing Orders appointed. However, since the motion itself calls for the proposals in it to be considered by a Committee of the whole House, I would propose for the purposes of the motion to consider that Committee of the whole House be being the Committee on Standing Orders for which Standing Order 33(2) provides.

The question before the House then is that Private Member's Motion No. 1 of 1969, pertinent representations be authorized by a Committee of the whole House, be carried.

HON. MICHAEL J. HARRIS: Mr. President, Sir, perhaps just to have the record right you could make that appropriate direction under 33(2) because the record shows that the Private Members' motion was adjourned on the 24th February.

MR. SPEAKER: Thank you; I had not realized that. I had seen it earlier and I had thought Motion No.1 had been given. However, in that case I am prepared to direct that the motion be accepted now for consideration under Standing Order 33(2).

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. MOTION REFERRED TO A COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE FOR STANDING ORDERS.

MR. SPEAKER: Private Member's Motion 2. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.2/69

EMPLOYMENT LEGISLATION

MR. E. MCTAGGART JOHN: Mr. Speaker, I beg to move Private Member's Motion No.2 standing in my name, which reads as follows:-

> RECOGNIZING there appears to be growing dissatisfaction on the part of the local labour force as to terms and conditions of employment, particularly those employed within the construction and tourist related industries;
> BE IT RESOLVED that this Honourable House appoint a Committee of the whole House to study the foregoing matter and make recommendations for suitable labour legislation to be introduced at this legislative session at the earliest opportunity.

MR. D. FRANK HITCHCOCK: I beg to second the motion, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: The motion is duly moved and seconded. The Senator may now speak to the motion.

SEN. CAPT. CHARLES KIRKPATRICK: Mr. President, I thought here, Sir, where it says, "BE IT RESOLVED that this Honorable House convene a Committee of the whole House", is this not going to follow like the first one, Sir, where no debate will be allowed here?

MR. PRESIDENT: No, that is because the previous motion (Private Member's Motion No. 1, called for amendments to be made to Standing Orders. Standing Order 31(3) provides that where a motion calls for amendments to Standing Orders a certain procedure shall be followed and that procedure excludes debate. Private Member's Motion No. 2 does not call for any amendment to Standing Orders. Although it calls for the appointment of a Committee of the Whole House, it can properly be debated at this time.

MR. MICHAEL J. HARRISON: Mr. President, Sir, I take it that you are going to vote until all the Private Members' Motions have been considered before considering certain Select Committees, is that how you may decide whether to reconvene your Honourable House under Standing Order 31(3).

MR. PRESIDENT: I think now for membership so of that. It may be convenient, perhaps, so that we do not forget to make the necessary appointments, if on the case motions appointing Committees we do deal with the question of their membership. So, if I may at this stage, in respect of Private Member's Motion No. 1 which has already been carried and which has provided for a Committee of the whole House to consider Standing Orders, I will nominate the Honourable Chief Official Member to be Chairman of that Select Committee.

Now, Private Member's Motion No. 2. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. H. MCKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, Sir, the only little note, "This shall not apply to the Speaker", and "The Treasurer is worthy of his wages", this, Sir, is what the motion is all about, requesting this Honourable House to set up a Committee of the whole House to study the Labour situation in this country, and to make recommendations for the formulation of suitable Labour legislation we badly in need of.

Mr. President, it merely as the first person to rise to speak the or two-day the week, motions should the be allowed to set all of the time. The legislation which I am here, Sir, must protect the employee as well as the employer. I am aware, Sir, that labour legislation in other countries has had to abuse by employers or employees, as well as I know that

MR. M. MACEDA BUSH (CONTINUED): there are employers who take great advantage of the working man and woman. This mentality towards the working man has led to serious denial unheard of many other countries, and it will be time in our country if this Honourable House fails in its responsibility to the people who elected the Members here.

Mr. President, the need for labour legislation has been hotted around the political platform in this country since at least 1973, yet....

MR. S. SAM SOOKNEE: On a point of order, Mr. President, I must object to the Member reading his speech.

MR. PRESIDENT: I had not noticed he was reading it. I will watch more carefully.

MR. M. MACEDA BUSH: Yes, Mr. President, I have my notes and just so as to understand the notes I guess I have to read them, although I know I cannot read a speech. I do not envisage the opposition expect me to look at my notes and to understand them without reading them. I know they expect quite a bit from this new Government, Sir, but I hope they are not expecting that.

When I was interrupted I was saying that the issue of labour legislation has been knocked around in this country since 1973, with many promises. Yet, Sir, every successive Government has failed to deal with the matter of labour legislation in a predictable manner, even as more and more people are employed, and even as more and more complaints are made concerning labour in this country. Even since I entered the political arena I promised my people, Sir, that I would do all in my power to provide this legislation. Today, with much pride I am fulfilling that promise but, Sir, I cannot do it alone. I am therefore inviting every Member of this House to give me the chance to speak without interruption and to look me in a eye for a "Yes" for labour legislation. The requested legislation will not destroy the country as the economic pharmacists suggested to us but instead, Sir, if properly drafted and then properly administered, it will lead to the strengthening of our social, political and economic stability which the Honourable Prosecutor Hennessy so ably stressed in his budget address, the need for continuance.

However, as must run, Sir, contents coincide with paying the attention to this need. We must do something positive and this motion is a step in that direction. Legislation currently on our law books affecting labour in this country is outdated and has no relevance to the circumstance existing in this country today. As far as I can determine, Sir, there are five laws in operation, the Workmen's Compensation Law, 1934, the Employer Liability Law, 1946, the Trade Law, 1941, the Masters and Servants Law, 1942; and the other one is, Sir, the Trade Union Law passed in 1942. Each one of these Laws I am sure, Sir, was passed at the time because the legislature of the day saw a need. However, the need in our country today is more than any of these can cope with. One of these days, the trade union has would be used to disqualification sometimes to prevent certain people. Some of us want that to happen and that is one of the reasons for this motion being brought before this House today.

I now propose to look briefly, Sir, at the contents of these outdated laws. The Workmen's Compensation Law; this Law, Sir, has no relevance to the workman today in Guyana. It was in its good because it is limited to workmen earning $750 or $1,000 as the case may be today, for a week's

MR. K. MURPHY (Scarborough-Ochalaska): Where do we go, or least I hope not, any death payment envisaged in the Workers Compensation Act, Section 51(1)(a) in the amendment to the Act says:

> "Where death results from an injury maximum compensation is $75,000 or $3,000".

In section 51(1)(b) the compensation is limited to $3,000 or $5,000 for total dependents. There is a limitation period whereby claims for compensation must be made within one month of the date of the accident. This period has, Sir, in the past, been a very fine argument as to what is reasonable and what injury required. In some instances almost one has to be psychic to know what is going to happen. In the event that an employee should miss that one month period, he would be out of luck. As I said, this period is definitely too short as you will see from this case, the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1968, has many deficiencies and needs to be amplified.

When the Minister says that there were 5000 cases in 1967, it did not set a target. The only thing that a minister says was not true in 1967 and it may not be correct in 1968 because of common behaviours as the philosophy has changed from an eight hour day.

The Trade Fair is another area which is supposed to give the workers some protection. It was pressed by numerous employees, especially carpenters in Metro Area, from paying workmen a weekly salary on a day's pay with goods from their business, or forcing the workmen to purchase goods from their business. As an example, Sir, and this was very applicable to me somewhat twenty years ago, a poor man went to work on a vessel, but he was to the waterfront. Now, the owner of that vessel owned a store. Then they told the man's family must be purchase their weekly goods at that particular store. This was very expensive for purchase for the man and his family from being placed on by unscrupulous employers. It was supposed to stop the owner of the vessel from saying, "If you do not buy from my store, you cannot work on my vessel". The law as I said, Sir, was supposed to prevent the men from that kind of situation. However, you can believe me, Sir, that that law was never enforced although many times a poor man came home after a long, gruelling trip, knowing the much weather, and found he had nothing. It had all gone to pay the shop bills. That, Sir, is my humble opinion as an example of a legacy of a time when only certain families in my constituency had anything, and ruled with an iron fist. That is true, Sir, not a fabrication of any kind.

Under section 12 of the Act the penalty for breaching the Act is $50 or $100. Obviously the Act has no performance to enforce today.

The Workers Compensation Act was enacted to regulate the rights and responsibilities of employment between employers and employees. This Act then, Sir, was supposed to be the labour Act for the Province Labrador, but it falls short of providing even the barest minimum requirements of employment and employee relationships in the Labrador Labrador today.

Under section 4 of this Act a workman was only entitled to one week's wages on the termination for whatever dismissal. Secondly, under section 12 the court is limited to dealing with fines and discussion to a maximum of $50 or $100. It is quite apparent, Sir, that this is not a realistic figure and has no bearing on application to our situation today.

Mr. President, I have given what I feel is a brief but true outline of the Act and what this has agreed to since Confederation Metro the difficulties in the last Act dealing with labour in the Labrador Labrador area.

MR. R. HANSEN SUBSTITUTING: Mr. President, Sir, all of us here in this House know of individuals whom we represent whose workers in the Cayman Islands, both Caymanians and Non-Caymanians alike, I would like to state, Sir, that the majority of employers are fair minded but each day, I as a representative of the people must listen to complaints which are almost unbelievable from the workers here in the country. Since being elected, Sir, I have an average of three people and handle an average of ten telephone calls a night at my home. There are not enough money left over from the weekly Government pay see, so that I could not participate like the elected Members for North Side. Anyway, I see my people and I would say 95 to 99 per cent of the time these calls are unwarranted labour. Let us not delude ourselves. There is much disagreement on the various roads, but there in the tourist and construction industries and we as protectors and defenders have to take strong measures to remove the pitiful plight our people are finding themselves in. We have to work to straighten out the inequalities existing in the labour market today.

Sir, I would like to deal now with a few areas in the tourist industry. Night Watchmen, Sir, seems much to me as I was raised on the tourist industry, but there is much inequity as far as the employee is concerned. The greatest area of discontent might also be the collection and payments of gratuities. There are many stories circulating the country pertaining and many explanations. One explanation has been to do away with the system of gratuities. I, Sir, could never subscribe to that idea. This, in my opinion, would be the greatest mistake ever made and as I said, I will never agree to that suggestion. Sir, in those places which are paying the workers their full entitlement of gratuities, the workers do fairly well. In the place where my mother works, her gratuities for one month have gone as high as $40. In other places I understand they have gone as high as $1,200. I do not believe, Sir, any employer is prepared to pay that kind of salary and the people most of the time are not prepared to have that kind of pay for the week, sometimes, however, as mentioned. So, at the end of the month the small amount of money made by the employee could not supplement the kind of gratuity they should be getting if that suggestion was taken up. The people would go home at the end of the month with nothing and I hope that no Honourable Member in this Legislature would even consider that idea.

What we as a Government have to do is to make certain under the envisaged legislation that the gratuities will not be stolen, and I have that to not unwarrantedly fear our people. There are many complaints, too many in fact, Sir; not to have myself to them. I believe one way of combatting this, Mr. although I do not know whether Members will concur with me, is that employers must be made to submit to Government a copy of the hotels' bills which includes the amount of gratuities collected. They should also show how many staff they have on their payroll and what percentage of gratuities goes to waiters, how much is distributed and maintenance staff, how much to kitchen workers, and so on. On top of this they must be required to submit a monthly account of what was paid to staff. There are the many complaints, Sir.

Mr. President, when the word went out that I was leaving this section I had a lot of dirty cards, but happily to say, one honest person or a conscientious employer called me in and gave me an example of how they pay gratuities, and showed me their records also. If I may be permitted I would like to read what they put on paper, an example which commensurate with their records. This is an example of the gratuity system. I will not

MR. W. MINNESOTA RURAL ROUTE (CONTINUING): bother to say which couples this case fall in a specific system based on 50 per cent occupancy; 9 rental units rented for a total revenue of 156 days. There are 9 units. The total prospective charged on all rentals are 5%. The total gratuities collected during the month of January, 1965 were U.S.$2,227.20. The units at that complex are 50 per cent of the total but the governor and maintenance men get 33 per cent divided equally. The units' portion for the month was U.S.$2,713.5%. The gardener and maintenance man's portion was U.S.$744.37. The units worked a total of 78 days. This is then divided into their portion of U.S.$1,713.5%, which comes to U.S.$21.54 per day. Unit no. 1 worked for 23.32 days multiplied by U.S.$21.54, which comes to U.S.$502. These other units worked for the same number of days. One unit worked for also days at the rate of U.S.$22.00 and also added up with U.S.$175.57. The maintenance man got U.S.$387.50 and the gardener got U.S.$387.50 for the month, making a total of $3,447.00. As I said, Sir, these figures are based on a 50 per cent occupancy and what amazes me is if a conglomerate wants 5 investments for rent and rents out unequity on account of it, and pays out $2,447 for the month, why are these people who rent out such rooms, let us say 33 out of 31 apartments, paying the staff as little? Why?

Once at one place I knew, Sir, they employed 9 maids. Presently they have 4 maids, but the start is now getting less in gratuities with the same amount of apartments being rented that what they used to collect when they had the 9 maids. So something is definitely wrong. I know there that all have different ways and means of collecting these gratuities but this example, I believe, shows that something is definitely wrong. It is my belief that there are those in the conglomerates, restaurants and hotels who are definitely pocketing the gratuities which rightly belong to the staff. They are wealthy, Sir, and I believe the figures if they were available, would amount to thousands of dollars.

I only like to make myself clear, Sir. Those restaurant and conglomerate systems who are guilty of not giving their staff their rightful share of tips are dishonest and wicked, and a stop must now be put to these actions. I have heard some people say that gratuities are a part of the salary, and it would seem, Sir, that this is what they have been doing, taking the gratuities and supplementing the salaries of the staff. This is wrong and is a plain injustice. I wonder, Sir, how they claim gratuities are a part of salary, if the owner refuses to pay the subsidy to the management pertaining to raise the income of the company in pay the staff? I do not believe so, Sir.

Another area affecting staff and their gratuities is where some owners are not paying the gratuities, I understand. I do feel that the owners should pay because if the agreement is not honored out of if the gratuities are not paid, then the staff is collecting little or nothing for cleaning the said apartments. So I believe that owners should definitely pay gratuities.

Another area, Sir, is some places are collecting 5 per cent; others 8 per cent; others 10 per cent, and some places are also collecting 15 per cent. I think that if we are going to get justice for our people and all, we should have guidelines and set policies, and tell everyone without gratuities on the same basis. This would help not to confuse our people.

MR. P. MORRISSEY (CORNWALL): Another cause for discontent in the tourist industry, Mr. President, is that those people are required to work paying holidays and those days off sometimes for regular pay. Employees in industry do not know what it is to [illegible] overtime, but if a person works on a Government paying holiday, then the employer should pay them double time, and also double time for Sundays. We cannot expect our people to carry on in this way and age on this menace. We have to do something to protect them. Mr. President, there are a lot of run down system from my constituency, indeed the whole country who by their sweat and occasionally blood and tears have made our country what it is today. They have come this route. They have back the hours and they have had to do as to make ends meet; sometimes holding two jobs, one in the daytime and one at night; somebody to the detriment of the [illegible] of our children, our younger generation.

While I'm like of the remarks, Premier Smallwood, though it may be, why my constituency is looked upon as the unruly republic. I just wonder why, Sir, that our people have accomplished for the growth of the country.

By my watch, Sir, it is now 12.30 p.m. I believe...

MR. CHAIRMAN: The normal practice is that we carry on to between 12:30 and 12.45 p.m., and if a Member finishes a speech during that period, we inevitably then adjourn.

MR. P. MORRISSEY: I do not think I will be finished, Sir, but I will carry on...

MR. CHAIRMAN: Well, we will give you a little longer then.

MR. P. MORRISSEY: The other day I was reminded that I had to stop at 12.30 p.m. Anyway, Sir, I am quite prepared to go on.

I believe, Sir, the time is here now when we as a Government must help our people working in the tourist industry to receive the full benefit of the tourism dollar. As I said, Sir, there is much inequity in the labour market for this industry and I recognize the employers unable to meet [illegible] as well as hear them. A lot of them come to me the other day, and one owner at a meeting. In that restaurant they have had half an hour for lunch but they took it out of their pay. Even if she did not get this lunch the cost still remained there as salary. Another one came to me and the waitress at a Chinese establishment for six years on the Avalon Peninsula as a hostess. Naturally, she also sometimes acted as the manager of the [illegible]. The two managers became insane at one time and they brought in a new manager and paid him $8,000 per month plus his rent. But they could only pay to pay the Chinese [illegible] manager him per month. The Government applied for the job but she was not even interviewed. But they gave her a good reason. They said she was [illegible], an accountant and lovely [illegible] but which came from Toronto, they could not even [illegible] her.

A friend said, Sir, that they have to do with construction. A man came to me and he has been working with a company for years as a waiter doing seven [illegible] per hour. He works 6 hours per day. He has repeatedly asked that he take his pilot's examination, but his employer only [illegible]

MR. R. HARVEY JUGH (CONTINUING): same. At the same time, Sir, they broke the minimum help going the same reason once, and the men who they hire in our town about earning $80,000 from one job alone while the local man does not even make $15,000 for the year.

I have Members see what I am saying, how long can this inquisitive complex to exist. How long do it go on. Who can cure mobile capitalism is. The Leisure Period is useless, Sir. It has no real substance to it. It has no look to back it. Something must be done to rectify what I call inequalities in our society, or some very serious situations are going to arise. The stability which we have enjoyed over the years is going to be lost. Our people, Sir, must be protected and I do not care who likes it. What I have to say here today I will say. There is too much, I repeat the most injustice and wickedness going on in this country, especially in places of work. We are finding more injustices meted out to our people.

What is going to happen, Sir, is that our people are going to rise up one day and say, "I have had enough. I am going to do something". That operation, Sir, could very well spell disaster. For the good name of stability which our forefathers have built up over the years, it is high time for us to cut at loopholes who possess ability, courage, foresight and pure old time courage and determination. If we do this, Sir, then we may recreate the advance trend towards the labouring man and women in the Cayman Islands. I am not finished yet.

Mr. President, on the matter of minimum wages, I would like to see a committee of the whole House set up with terms of reference where one of the functions is to obtain information from the private sector about minimum wages for each job description, so that they can get a correct and realistic understanding of what minimum wages have to be set.

Mr. President, I believe all employers, whether foreign or local companies, should file a return, say for example during the month of January each year. This should give the number of employees, their nationality, their salaries, conditions of work such as vacation leave and sick leave. Most importantly they should give fringe benefits or training programmes, if any, which are currently offered to employees. The reason why I make this suggestion is that it is my view that such returns could serve to point without a doubt that foreign employees have substantially better terms of employment than locals in similar positions, and steps could therefore be taken to remedy this inequitable and biased situation. Any labour legislation I feel must of necessity recognize, Sir, that the job market place in the Cayman Islands is restricted and therefore a worker who is laying a position for whatever reason, voluntarily or involuntarily, leaves a small job market. Therefore, any provision in such legislation for benefits or redundancy payments to be made by employers must be higher than elsewhere.

I hope Members will take this into consideration. For example, a worker in Jamaica can go from Montego Bay to Kingston in five week. A man from London can go to Newcastle in five week. Outside workers can go elsewhere. This what I mean, Sir. Above can the Government go?

So I hope when the law is drafted it will take into consideration these things.

Mr. President, in winding up, there is no doubt in my mind that many employers in this country, and perhaps this applies to Government as well, have outsiders in preference to Caymanians because, Sir, they find it easier to

MR. P. MCKENZIE (High-Townsville): appears a little bare out of the electorate if he has to wear garments hanging over his head. With ornaments, of course; he does not need a hair parted.

Gentlemen, we have come to my electorate, some of the most unscrupulous of these employers do not even bother to register a work permit for employed, making it a little easier to squeeze a little harder. We had one case of this last year, Sir, where a member of the Employers' Federation employed nearly 30 people on his jobs without any permits. The worst condemnation from the whole Islands is a good example of what I mean. Permits were applied from the Thursday Islands without even bothering, after describing four differences of skin and appearing, Sir, the Premier of Queensland. Today I believe many of these people remain in this country and are being employed by those who employ them on Government work with the strength of work. For this reason as we now see, some of these employers will go to any length to make a bigger profit. That is another reason why this legislation is so necessary in this country point.

Mr. President, I object the Hon. Secretary when I mean this branch because of failure that worship has no better example to follow than the Coal Mine. The objection not to mention the or the a wide use to evaluate people to show the or use a major source of power. For the or to purchase properly and to do his job/ work he needed to be fed, and his food came from the area which he was treating. The same, Sir, is true today the coal modern society: the worker who produces the income for industry is entitled to a fair share for his efforts. Without him there would be no industry or profit. He is entitled to be able to feed his family; the price that food may to be able to live in dignity, no matter how humble his position.

Mr. President, I see some Members who look as though they are going to sleep. I admit that they have been listening, Sir, because as I said yesterday I represent the small men in this country. These Members which I pointed out are hearing the small man; but they seem to be sleeping these things. I trust that every Member, and I hope that every Member of this House will give this considerable matter their support.

Thank you very much, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I might perhaps do well to adjourn the sitting now at the normal interval until 2.30 p.m.

AT 12.55 P.M. THE HOUSE ADJOURNED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2.15 P.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.
Proceedings are resumed.
The motion before the House is Private Member's Motion No. 7/85, which is now open for debate. The Second Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION PROPOSED: DEBATE ENSUED:

MR. LINVILLE A. RICHARDS: Mr. Speaker, I find it very easy indeed to support Private Member's Motion No. 7/85 on the subject of labour legislation, and I would take this opportunity to thank the Second Elected Member for West End for the able manner in which he presented this motion. However, Mr. Speaker, my definition of brief is perhaps slightly different from his and I promise you that my remarks will be brief indeed.

I feel, Mr. Speaker, that I would be remiss in my responsibilities and duties to my people if I let this opportunity pass because I am well acquainted with the facts as given to us by the Second Elected Member for West End this morning. I too, Sir, have had many, many complaints concerning the industries, particularly in the tourism related industries in these Islands. Indeed, as Hon. Ministers, within the Cayman Islands,

As recently, Sir, as the first part of this week, that is Monday, I had a delegation of people who met me at my office very early in the morning before I came to the Assembly. Prior to nothing strange. My office is always full of people seeking some form of assistance with their problems.

There is an impression in my mind at all, Sir, that the employees within a number of the tourist related services or businesses in the Islands are being abused. I would not go so far as to say that employers are deliberately stealing from their employees, as I think that that is a rather harsh term to use, but the net effect, Sir, would appear to create this situation. Our people are a very peaceful people. Caymanians are known to be one of the most peaceful people in the world and this is perhaps the reason, Sir, why they are oppressed and why they are deprived of their rights, because they are not as aggressive as the people from other parts of the Caribbean and indeed from some of our neighbouring Caribbean Islands.

We must this situation and this attitude of our people to continue, Sir, it is certainly left to our Government and to us to ensure that we lay the foundations, and that we make it possible for our people to live in peace and harmony.

As I said yesterday, it is my feeling that a good Government is one which makes it easy for the people of a country to do right. I am amazed, Sir, that it was not again necessary before now for such legislation to come before this Honourable House, before the Legislative Assembly of this country. I see this legislation as perhaps one of the most important pieces of legislation before this country today because it increases the livelihood of our people. I have been accused, Sir, of being a dictator for the people but I take this as a compliment because I see my role as being one of a representative of this people. When I say the people, Sir, I do not exclusively believe. I consider the

MR. LIFFOOK A. PETERS (CONSTITUENCY): Cayman Islands is proud and the constituency of George Town in particular. I do not divide the electoral district of George Town in analogy. I represent the people of this constituency.

This problem is not one which is restricted to just one particular class even though it is perhaps more prevalent amongst the poorer people in the community. I have no reservations, Sir, in supporting such a piece of legislation because I know, and I share the view that it is very, very badly needed. Many times I have had to refer individuals to the Labour Office, but in one way, Sir, this has accomplished ineffective, I would not call it a waste of time because the officers in the Labour Department are doing a wonderful job and I do understand that they can do so well with so little to work with. They are simply out for help. I have spoken to officers in the Police Department and they are begging us to give them the legislation to work with because they are aware of the problems which continue to face the these areas of employment.

It is all well and good for some of us to sit back and understand that there is such a problem in these areas. Just yesterday afternoon the Commissioner of Police and I had the distinct pleasure of visiting some of the areas in George Town with the four honourable Elected Members of Executive Council. Some of the districts we toured did prove of the conditions we are here particularly. You can see the great contrasts in homes where there are those above the very high standard of living to those quite notable in the Cayman Islands who do not have and face the conditions under which many of them have to work. It shocks to me sometimes that employers pay their employees their rightful gratuities and this seems to be the most glaring light of the problems. There seems to be such a disparity within the same levels of employment. The disparity is so great that it creates resentment and ill will on the part of the employee. For there is nothing that the Labour Department can do about it but call the employers and plead with them. However, the employers must not listen because the Labour Department can do nothing about it without appropriate laws.

Mr. President, there is no question in my mind that urgent attention must be given to proper labour legislation. This morning the Second Elected Member for West Bay took a lot of pains; he did a lot of research to bring to the attention of the House the need for proper and appropriate labour legislation. He quoted a number of instances which he had had to deal with, some of which were very familiar to me because I had encountered similar instances and similar assistance. But Well, Sir, this bill will get the full support of this House. I cannot see any Member of this House not supporting such a worthy motion.

As I said in my debate, if we have to summarize what I think is right and good for my people and I could not think of a better piece of legislation for this country today than the labour legislation.

In closing, Sir, may I thank sincerely the Second Elected Member for West Bay for his foresight and I feel, Sir, that he is echoing the sentiments and the feelings of the other Members of this House.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. SPEAKER: The Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive Council.

FOX, H. RODGERS (COOLEY): Mr. President, I am prepared to give this motion which has been brought by the Second Floating Member for West Bay, Mr. Bill Cox wholehearted support. I, like the previous Speaker would like to offer my congratulations to the Second Elected Member for West Bay for the very capable manner in which he presented this motion this morning.

What there is differentiatable amongst our Trade Unions there now is little doubt. More than 60 per cent of the membership I have listened to all the past few months have been expressing dissatisfaction mainly with working conditions, the availability of overtime and other benefits, just mind and me.

I believe that quite clearly there is a pressing need to address these problems and whether definitely there is a need to amend or to state labour legislation which will adequately meet the needs of the developing Cayman Islands. However, I believe that this matter must be handled carefully and cautiously. Nevertheless, as I have said I strongly support the motion that labour legislation suitable to conditions in the Cayman Islands, aimed at ensuring full and equal protection for all workers must be implemented be done as is humanly possible.

This will undoubtedly secure the needs of both employee and employer. We must have an equitable system which avoids and avoid any discrimination of workers rendered to the general public, which is an utter to our tourist and corporation industries. I firmly believe, Sir, that the best approach is the one suggested in the motion whereby a Committee of the whole House will be able to study the overall situation carefully to decide and consider input from the hotel and building industries, Chamber of Commerce and other local related organizations. This will enable Government to distribute and recommend suitable labour legislation to this Legislature, possibly at the next sitting.

This type of legislation, I believe is in the best interests of our people the Caymanians, and also those investors who come here object to enjoy or business here. This is needed to retain stability and harmony in our Islands and I close this motion my full support.

MR. SPEAKER: Does any other Honourable Member wish to speak? The Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. FRANK E. MCKEEVA: Mr. Speaker, I rise to support this Private Member's Motion No. 8 concerning the introduction of Labour Legislation.

I support this wholeheartedly this motion because, Mr. President, without proper regulatory Labour protection there will always be discrimination among the working class. I know that there has been much discussion over the past few years, especially when John Canter first and when it was seen that supposedly Foreign Labour took a lot of what was available here.

There are discriminations, Mr. President, when large projects or special schools only employ like persons $400 to $1,000 a week. These were seen on Shiftsharing and Corporations, Mr. President, there are hotels anyone could do about it. The other areas of labour concerned especially in the Government sector at what was seen on the Christmas tape displayed under the Members Compensation Law, that law has long been outmoded but unfortunately it is only Government who uses it.

MR. [illegible]: [illegible] there is absolutely no control where labour is concerned, because if you want to [illegible] and now said that they want more money, the Workmen's Compensation that they would [illegible] case society practically controls Government at that rate. The Government is also [illegible] as many people as they possibly can, Sir, if you look around and see Government farms at work you will probably know the reason.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is no proper facility or inducement in the labour force of a country, there will certainly be a lot of unrest. Strikes always will [illegible] lead to many "isms", "ists" like communism and socialism. We have seen it even where there is some [illegible] Nevertheless, the absence of proper legislation can lead to social unrest and I have no doubt that if you cannot increase this salary today, you will find much of this;

Mr. Speaker, to provide a proper Labour Legislation which would fit the local bill is quite costly and will need to be carefully done. However, I feel that the process which has been recommended in the motion will no doubt explore every aspect of such legislation to ensure that the end product which is recommended here will be acceptable to one and all. I too want to congratulate the Second Elected Member for West Bay for bringing this motion. I think, Mr. President, that he made about the need for labour legislation and all his statements and there is no doubt in the minds of the people of those Islands that it is one of the issues of the election which should be given immediate and urgent attention. I therefore give it my wholehearted support, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Any other honourable Member wish to speak? The Elected Member for North Side.

MR. D. GEORGE HOWARD: Mr. President, I also want to congratulate the Second Elected Member for West Bay for bringing this motion and so ably elaborating the needs and justifying it in his speech this morning.

In connexion of his motion, Sir, he has left no little room with which to help him. Sir, in the numerous colourful explanations printed and freely distributed throughout the Islands by the Government's Department of Tourism and in particularly of business and commercial interests, the success story of the phenomenal economic growth of the Cayman Islands over the past seventeen years is recounted. Today, Sir, we are facing the ill effects of the neglect in labour of this over development and expansion policy. Today it is estimated that 80 per cent of the labour force in this country are foreign nationals.

I believe, Sir, that there is an urgent need for labour legislation in this country. Like the Second Elected Member for West Bay most of the problems which I have dealt with since elected have been labour related and the easiest thing in the world is to refer individuals to the Labour Board for discussions. When they go to the Labour Board, however, the people there can really only bluff their way to get help for these people. So we need the labour legislation to provide a mechanism on which the Labour Department in Government can function and be established.

I believe, Sir, that under this labour legislation, the employees and the employers both should know their rights and their protections. It should deal with

MR. D. SCOTT MITCHELL (CONTINUED): Mr. Chairman, Members, I do not want to detain the House very long, Sir, but I think this Labour Legislation should enhance the development of our only natural resource in this country which is our people, the manpower resources of this country. It should provide for other benefits other than mere bits and pieces. It should provide opportunities to advertise the Labour force. Good management, Mr. Speaker, and good Labour relations have to work for Labour unions. Sir, Labour unions may have served a useful purpose in some communities but they have also been a very destructive force in other communities, unfortunately, Sir, when these Labour unions unions are created for political reasons and are backed and organized by political groups. If they attempt to develop the Labour scheme and it is not successful for that to happen, Sir, if we ignore the viability of the Labour force in this country much longer, we might not a Labour union in this country that do any profitable union which would be very detrimental to the economics and welfare of this country.

Sir, I do not disagree with some points that Opposition who may not agree with me will object to others but I do not subscribe to the idea, Mr. Speaker, that Opposition do not want to work. In fact I have the unfortunate experience of discussing this problem with a high ranking in our community quite recently and I referred to their inefficient complacent about the lack of initiative and the lack of drive in Opposition. This individual, Sir, recommended for us that we should on human rights the stability and the peace relationship of Government. This type of action, Sir, but to tell this Government that I thought the problem existed outside of his view and he was therefore incapable of managing his organization. He was very pessimistic but I had to go on to point out to the individual, Sir, that Opposition want to see all the country going ahead and move fast. In a decade, in the early 1960s there were many, probably the highest ratio of any nation in order for the number of industries of various nationals, unfortunately with unfortunate strategy holding. The nation for that, Sir, one because they were given an opportunity to develop. They were encouraged to learn and they accepted the responsibility. I believe that if the Government in our society today afford the young Opposition who were here from colleges or out of high school the same opportunities and give them the same encouragement, the do will then where Opposition can hold the highest positions in the financial industry and tourism industry of this country.

This was further brought home to me, Sir, in a recent discussion with a member of the Banking Institute of Management. We were talking about the training needs of these Islands and I was very surprised when the gentleman questioned me as to whether he had interested the training of private sector management in our society. Also in Cayman in our statistics especially, it that be believed that there was a concerted look at and a determined effort not to create Opportunities to take part there for roots in the economy. I believe, Sir, that that gentleman was quite right in his assessment, because after all what Government do here when these jobs they will eventually fashion institutions who in most instances will be going back to women qualifications than those which they are existing in Cayman.

There are also, Sir, several human stories about Caymanians being passed over for promotion. In this one example I happen to know of an instance in one of the Banks where a Caymanian was always of the opinion that was involved by another Caymanian who in the period of nine months to a year was given a

MR. D. SCALES MINISTER FOR[illegible]: very interested in management. She was told she was doing a good job but to her amazement one day, she noticed the wife of a foreign banker who had just been employed in this country, and that wife of that banker is now the supervisor of the work. That Caymanian who had been told that she was doing a good job and had been given an increase in pay and had been made to believe that her efforts and responsibilities were acceptable, was passed back into the tapping pool. That, Sir, is the kind of problem : what is the kind of systems which can lead to ill feelings in such future relations. These things have to be assured as well as wages and remuneration pay, and so on.

In fact, Mr. President, I believe I am correct in saying that some of the financial institutions are required to file some sort of an annual return on their employment within the communities, that is what costs are being held by foreign nationals; what posts are being held by Caymanians; what training is ongoing, and what grants the Caymanians are being provided to.

It has been my unfortunate experience, Sir, to see suddenly what these facilities in these agencies and some of the posts which they claim Caymanians are occupying they really are not. They are also being paid at a much lower rate than the expatriates who'd be occupying the posts.

That leads me to the fact, Sir, that in many instances in this country Caymanians are doing the same job as foreign nationals. They do not receive a lot of the other benefits which the foreign nationals do. Pension benefits such as housing, cars and so on and that, the underlying responsibility the same functions. However, they are being paid at lower scales. These inequities, Mr. President, have to stop. The Caymanians must be allowed to develop. They must be allowed to have their rightful place in this economy. They must be allowed to contribute to the best of their ability.

I have no hesitation, Mr. President, in seconding this motion that remains for the Second Elected Member for West Bay. As I said I fully support the motion and I believe it is high time that the Government got down to motion on Labour Legislation, and caused it to give it its impetus.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Does any other Honourable Member wish to speak? The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: In thanking on this motion, Mr. President, I would like to make it very clear that I support Labour Legislation. However, I would like to make it doubly clear that it is not the result of this motion being piloted before the House.

This motion I feel is very much politically motivated and I would not want it to be construed by the public that the only persons in favour of Labour Legislation in the Legislative Assembly are the persons who have brought the motion to the House. It is true, Mr. President, that those in Opposition in the undertone in the Cayman Islands today and it is nothing new to the fact that many of the many statements which we have in hand with it, one of those being particularly the termination into the pensions.

The next thing is the idea in some of the intelligence which Caymanians, regardless of how many degrees they may have or how capable they are, are denied places of[illegible] in their own country. So we cannot hide that fact that there is discrimination.

MR. JAMES M. BEGGER (CONTINUED): Federal legislation will not take away that responsibility. There will be absolutely nothing in the workforce as long as there is an employer/employee type of relationship. Because it is human nature that each and every individual would like to get on the top of the cooperative field which they may be in, and always human being wishes relentlessly to work on his own. So we cannot legislate anything in this Assembly which will eliminate that problem. However, what we can legislate for is to make the social warrant work to protect into the country. This social warrant will come about when labour sees a diversity in their wages and in their working hours, something which we are aware of which has been happening in these Islands for many years.

The employment tax scheme ... steps towards helping this and I would like these to be very clear. The Labour Office was set up under the previous administration and in my opinion did a good job considering the restraints which were placed on it and the fact that there was no Labour Legislation to work with;

I would like to trace the history of it: of the attempts to bring Labour Legislation by the previous administration into the halls of this Assembly. Labour as a whole was a part of the Portfolio which I was assigned. Many, many years ago I went off to various parts of the world, to many countries, to get copies of their Labour Legislation. I received quite an amount of different laws and I thought to put Labour Legislation together as far back as the time of our previous Attorney-General Mr. Bowden so that I could present it to this House. I also was instrumental in having a representative of the ILO (through the help of the United Nations, came to the Cayman Islands and drafted some Labour Legislation. I did not believe that the Labour Legislation which was drafted, in view of my experience with legislation as a whole and with Labour, having associated with it in many areas in the United States of which I have been employed for this country. Therefore, instead of immediately it as a Bill, I presented it to the Law and asked that it be dealt with by a Select Committee.

I can remember the discussions people which were raised by some of the Members in their attempt to just that through. We felt that it was necessary to go into a Select Committee so that everyone could give their opinions and that as a whole we could put our heads together and try to come up with Legislation which would have been ultimate for the country. Unfortunately, the elections intervened that attempt and that legislation still remains on the hands of either the Member who is dealing with Labour now, or the Honourable Second Official Member. It is just unfortunate that it was brought back and I have a question raised in this Assembly when it is planned to bring it back.

So I would like it to be made very clear that my connection with this matter is in view of the work which was done by the Unity Team Government in the last eight years, attempting to bring Labour Legislation in the future. I would also like to make it plain that Labour Legislation is already drafted and is ready for presentation. Ask them if the Elected Members of Executive Council will see fit to bring it back. Much time has been spent in the formulation of the Bill which has been drafted. I personally almost many, many hours reading the legislation of the different countries and adding my things to make ... of the drafts.

MR. JAMES M. BROOM (CONTINUING): Unfortunately, what I really would have liked to have presented to the House was never drafted adequately in the fashion that it should have been.

The whole question on this motion, I think it was the Democratic Search Elected Member of Executive Council, if I heard him correctly and was able to analyse correctly what he was saying, I thought that he was trying to portray the idea that if Labour Legislation is enacted there would be a contract of wages. If that is the opinion of the House or the opinion of any Member, I think it should be rejected immediately. I agree with setting minimum standards, but Government cannot go into legislation which will tell the employer what he cannot....

HON. JOSEPH J. JOHNSON: A point of correction, Mr. President. I did not say that there would be a minimum of wages. I was speaking about Labour and the Labour Legislation.

MR. JAMES M. BROOM: What I read of the opinion was made by the Honourable Search Elected Member of Executive Council was that he was expressing Government's intention which would put a bid on what could be paid to people in any respective position. My argument is, Mr. President, that we must get a minimum wage but if the minimum wage is to be fixed on any respective position, can an employer whether to pay it or not, Mr. President, then that employee should be entitled to.....

HON. JOSEPH J. JOHNSON: Mr. President, a point of order....

MR. JAMES M. BROOM: .... may sit or not.

MR. PRESIDENT: Is it a point of order?

HON. JOSEPH J. JOHNSON: Yes, Sir, the Member do still understand that in my remarks I said that there should be a bid placed on the level of wages. I did not say what. I am talking about contractual labour.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think this is a point of explanation not a point of order. If the Member is happy to allow you to proceed that is alright. As he wishes.

MR. JAMES M. BROOM: I am quite happy, Sir, as he is still understand what I am saying then I....

MR. PRESIDENT: As he is happy to allow you to proceed so carry on.

HON. JOSEPH J. JOHNSON: Mr. President, from my notes which I have before me I was speaking about the need for minimum contract of labour. I said nothing about wages at all however I feel that there are various rates of wages paid by various employers. I spoke about Government applying the minimum wage while the Workmen's Compensation Board sitting right from the minimum scales of wages. What I was trying to say is that there is perhaps need on the present time to either review the Workmen's Compensation Act to introduce a reasonable level of wages, they to specify that is some other manner. However, I certainly did not say that there should be a minimum placed on wages.

MR. JAMES M. MORONE: Mr. Speaker, I only wished to reasonably the gentleman for yielding the member to speak as long as he did because he was not a point of order.

I should comment, Mr. President, that I wonder if the times would be glazed that we could have an inquiry of what the Speaker did say, because I was listening and what I heard was that what had happened in the past, and it did happen here right upon, was duplicitous. We use remember the fact that some reasons had been made, I think, 5000 jobs week. If a person had a job, so I'm sure and he looked to explain a reason and pay him $10 an hour and the person said only $5, and that person was willing to do that job for more reasons than job is the standard we think it should be performed, then I think that he was entitled to receive that wage, even his own union entitled to pay him. So I am still concerned why the Speaker would have objected that type of procedure for he was not expressing that there would be some concerns put on labor. I am sure that the teacher, moreover they are retirement, will create my point that the Speaker was disappointed that governmental legislation should be playing a responsible role in terms of wages people could be paid. I think that could be the very thing which would hurt and disappoint any labour legislation which would be enacted in this country.

If we are going to enact labour legislation please let us all support the noble as a whole as we tried to do here, and pass the necessary thrust from all sides. Because this is legislation which will help the country and will shape the future destiny of the Cayman Islands. So not let us try to legislation which has some accomplishment and failure to do, and will pass this House just because it has the numerical amount to have it. That will not benefit the workers either it will not benefit the Labour Force as a whole and it will not benefit the country.

We are already under the know the kind of destruction under this present Government is still on to go on. Once adequate labour legislation is brought to this House the next thing which will follow, and I am concerned to hear that it is here, is that we have a strong labour union in this country, which will take in all aspects and kinds of people, and will work for the benefit of all the workers of this country. not just a select few. Labour unions have played an important role in the development of many countries. I do not agree with anything that a Labour union does but unions have done it for the working classes throughout the world. We could look at the English labour unions and say that they have brought the country on to its knees but we do not have the necessary talent of that. We do not want how these people were held down for years gone by. So maybe the children of the children did plan to benefit themselves more than they should have done. However, labour unions in most countries have played to play their part in the development of those countries and to do it wisely. I feel that a Labour union would do the same thing in this country. We could have it in the same way that it has been and in other developing countries and I feel that if a labour union was tried to start a political party, it would not be as bad as some of the things which have been dealt with politically in the past.

MR. SPEAKER: What Elected Member for the Eastern Districts.

MRS. MARY J. MILLSAPS: Mr. President, I support the motion before the House. I realize it is necessary that we provide for some protest and working clause. I also realize that it is the responsibility of this House to study carefully all aspects of Labour Legislation before we reach any decisions. Labour Legislation can be beneficial but it can also be detrimental if it is not the right kind. Therefore, I would ask each and every Member here today to give this very serious consideration as we deliberate in Committee and as the Law is drafted.

Previous speakers have mentioned Labour unions. Mr. President, in the early stages of many industries they were beneficial, but through the greed and insensitivity of Labour unions now will find that they have brought countries to their knees, particularly developing countries. I would again that we should be very cautious as we approach this subject. I personally, speaking for myself only, do not feel that we need Labour unions in the Cayman Islands. I think we are intelligent enough and we are a close enough knit people to help protect each other, and that we can do without the complicated Labour unions.

In conclusion, Mr. President, I would like to congratulate the Second Elected Member for West Bay for his presentation. Labour Legislation has been on my mind ever the time I came into this House four years ago and I am glad today that we are moving forward on it. However, again we should do it very cautiously.

Thank you Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Unless any other Member wishes to speak.... The honourable Third Elected Member for Executive Council.

AGR, CAPT. CHARLES L. EBANKS-WILSON: Mr. President, I rise to support the motion before this honourable House. I believe that it is in the best interests of our Islands that we, as one of the Members said before, have to be realistic, pragmatic and flexible in our Islands.

I feel that the time has not arrived for us to have a comprehensive Labour Bill. In the past we have had no Labour problems as most disputes were easily sorted out or agreed upon before having to go to court. Today we have an industry, or several industries, the greatest of which is tourism. Even tourism we have several strife such as construction, hotel workers, dive boat operations, without operations and I could go on and on. I think that there should be some clearly laid down for employer and employee alike so that persons working know exactly what to expect. I feel that we should insist that people working should give a fair day's work for a fair day's pay.

In the deliberations this morning each one spoke of the penalty system. Mr. President, we happen to own two small hotels on the Island and we subscribed the penalty system. I do not agree with it because I do not feel that penalties should be made unrealistic. I feel that penalties should be paid to the persons who work them by the persons they employ to our detriment. Then, sir, seems to ensure promptness and carefully we should not be retaining them on our premises. I feel that eight hotels, or each industry whatever it may be should pay a fair wage to their employees and if they give the service we have they should give them the benefits or increase will be. Have fair pay or a penalty at the end of the day.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES E. KIRKCONNELL (CENTRAL): Mr. President, I too would like to congratulate the Member who introduced the motion and I assure him of my full support. It is a pity, Sir, that we have in this Assembly certain Members who are always casting aspersions on the present Members of this Government. We have inherited a very difficult task and that is not like country back we the past. Whether the people of this country want to believe that the country is in good shape or not, I am telling them right now, Sir, that the Cayman Islands are not in good shape. No, the four elected Members of Executive Council are working as hard as we possibly can, together with the three Honourable Official Members and yourself as Governor, to try to restore Responsible order in our community, and to try to get control of the Cayman Islands finances before we have lost everything.

The First Elected Member for the Sunrise Area made mention of a Labour union. He did not state his intention but he implied that this might be one of the roles which he might play in the future, to form a Labour union. Well, Sir, maybe he is just obsolete to his purpose since the country has nothing for him. It will have nothing for anybody else either. So if this is all he has to organize or to plan this country, I believe nature will destroy it. God bless every one of us.

I thank you, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: Unless any other Honourable Member wishes to speak I will call on the Honourable Mover to exercise his right of reply.

MR. H. MONROE BODDEN: Mr. President, I thank those Members who offered their support and also for their kind remarks. Mr. President, one writer said, "If you speak like a man, you look like a man and you fly like a man, you will be what like a man". Standing up here in this Honourable House, Mr. President, and saying how much he supports Labour legislation, and unionism, Sir, that he was the Member responsible for Labour ordinance, Sir, that he looked at very hard and he had many concerns, but after eight long years of being the Member responsible for Labour, I did not, Sir, support the type of Labour Union that the Member wants. This is very genuine, Sir. He is a senior Member in this House. He ought to be supposed to be the father of the House and, Sir, I suggested that he might play a very responsible role in Labour legislation. Instead, Sir, he has said that my motion is politically motivated. We would that Labour legislation should take away all the classification....

MR. JAMES M. MILLER: A point of order, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: A point of order as will the Second Elected Member for West Bay kindly state.

MR. JAMES M. MILLER: Mr. President, it is funny that members in this House is only heard when somebody thinks it fills a point for him as the Member is trying to do now.

MR. H. MONROE BODDEN: What is his point of order, Sir?

MR. SPEAKER: Is this a point of order?

MR. JAMES M. MILLER: It might be more than that when I get through with it, Sir.

MR. W. HAWKINS DUDA: Will the gavel not have a point of order to stand at the desk. It is my claim to that. The Member has had his chance.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: I make on a point of order them, will the Member kindly state it.

MR. PRESIDENT: If the Member does not come to a point of order straight away I cannot allow him to proceed.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: Will the Member kindly state what my classification was on it. I do not doubt Labour legislation from this Government; I do not do it now and I never did in the past. It was on the basis of the Honourable Second Official Member and his staff. I pointed out that we had once put on ITO correspondence....

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think this is a point of order. It is a point of explanation.

MR. W. HAWKINS DUDA: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I wished to give the floor to Elected Member for Pointe Rouge, but I also have to point out, Sir, that he did nothing on terms of a Labour Law. He can do all he wants and he now sits to waste his time....

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: What is Government

MR. W. HAWKINS DUDA: Will the Member sit down.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: So I will not sit down.

MR. W. HAWKINS DUDA: Well I am standing on my feet and unless the President tells me to sit down I will not sit down.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: Well I am not going to sit down because the Member tells me to sit down. Mr. President....

MR. PRESIDENT: Are you rising on a point of order?

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: Yes, Sir, Mr. President, he is concerned to what he is saying because Labour Legislation was not before this House....

MR. PRESIDENT: That is not a point of order. That is a point of explanation. If the Member wishes to resume his seat on a point of explanation on the part of the Second Elected Member for what Pay's speech he is entitled to do so in connection with Standing Orders, but he must not today....

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: I would like to continue that now then, Sir.

MR. W. HAWKINS DUDA: Thank you, Sir. Mr. President, about the point that the motion was politically motivated, are we not politicians? Mr. President, our manifesto which I also elected to office on, "A better pay for most Pay", which I hope can become "A better pay for the Cayman Islands" and, "When we are elected on 10th November it is our intention to...." One of the sections of this manifesto said, "To investigate the cause and conditions of employment, including those in the Government Industry as well as in the casual labour market".

MR. M. MATHEWS SUDU (Abyssinia): I am fulfilling my promise to my people. If the Member has had the people at heart we would not have had any call to do this. But might I say that he did nothing towards any legislation to be on our books for labour. Once the Member says that, Sir:

Mr. President, for as long as I have been involved with politics I have heard promises of this Labour Law coming and I have not heard it debated here yet. The Speech of the second Meeting of the 1977 session of the Legislative Assembly on Monday, 7th March says in a speech by the Prime Minister for Foreign Trade:-

> "Anyway this year we will be remembered in the budget we plan to employ another Labour Officer. This is necessary because the work load in Immigration and Labour and it will become even worse later this year when we have fresh new Labour Legislation".

I am saying, Sir, that the Labour Legislation which the Member said he would bring has not been brought to the House, so it is not a new act. We had sufficient time, Sir,....

MR. SPEAKER: Mr. President, this Bill was brought to this House. It is unfortunate that the House did not have enough time to....

MR. PRESIDENT: This is still a matter of consideration. The Member must keep it until the end.

MR. M. MATHEWS SUDU: Yes, Sir. When he undertook later I hope it is put in a point of explanation and is not another speech.

In the Budget Speech for 1981, midway in his term I would say, another promise was made:-

> "The need for a modern employment law is becoming more pressing".

That is another promise and might also be the last minute, Sir, the Member was saying; this is from the Budget Speech given on Friday, 16th February, 1981:-

> "It is hoped that Labour Legislation will be introduced to this Honourable House in the same meeting".

All I have say, Sir, is that they were promises but there is no law. We have sufficient time for a law to be drafted. So he should not try to mislead people about who wants minimum wages and who does not want minimum wages. For the record, Sir, I want to quote what I said about minimum wages in case they want to misconstrue that. I am quoting from my speech which reads:

> "On the matter of minimum wage, I would like to see the Committee to be set up have a thorough reference where one of the Committees would be to gather information from the people whether minimum wages for each job classification, to get a coherent and realistic assessment of what minimum wages have to be set."

MR. M. HAZZARD RISE (Inaudible): I have that in quite close, no ceiling.

I, Sir, am not concerned with my own seat. I am a new Member for this House. This is a new Parliament and this is a new Government. The First Elected Member for Eastern Town does not rule us any longer. He does not rule this country any longer. The fact remains, as I said after eight long years there is no Eastern Town on the Bench as expected.

Responding the unions, Sir, I do not subscribe to them. People argue [illegible] when they first start they have that stigma of the public believe that they can not behind a union and get that faith again. If we give the people the basic necessities he was saying else will be alive to make a union in this country and be successful. It will be like the [illegible] Party, Social, Leftist and gone.

Mr. President, I am wondering whether I should read this because it has unparliamentary words in it, and I do not want, Sir, how you will react.

HIS EXCELLENCY: I will take you if necessary.

MR. M. HAZZARD RISE: Yes, Sir. I am referring to a publication I received on the mail. This came from the Labour Office. It was dated March, 1979 and has the Honourable Elected Member for Eastern Town's address on it. If I am not permitted to read it please tell me so now, because I am ready to read it, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: You will have no objection to me first [illegible] that. I consult [illegible]...

MR. M. HAZZARD RISE: Quite enough.

MR. S. ALEX BROWN: On a point of order, Mr. President, I [illegible] see the relevance of all this.

MR. M. HAZZARD RISE: Yes, Sir, it comes to. I have to has always been blind.

HIS EXCELLENCY: I think he is [illegible] which were made [illegible] debate.

MR. JAMES K. ROSSEN: On a further point of order then, Mr. President, I wonder if you as the President of this Meeting would then disclose to the House whether that is one of Government's files, or whether it is a letter written to anyone or what do it is?

MR. D. GLENN HILLIER: On a point of order, Mr. President, I think that other Members of the House rise on a point of order they should quote the Standing Order under which they are rising a point of order. Maybe that would restore some order in the House.

MR. M. HAZZARD RISE: All they are doing is trying to [illegible] me, that I am wasted up here, Sir. I have been [illegible] me,

HON. MICHAEL J. ENRIGHT: On a point of information I think it is almost [illegible] break time, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: No, I think I would have to ask you if you objected reading the part. I promise you were going to read of that so it would be better that you should not read it.

MR. JAMES M. ROBEY: Would you disclose to the House whether that was a private or a Government file, or whether it is a letter written in respect of some subject, Sir?

MR. E. MARVIN HUFF: If I cannot read it then let us not read it. Let us not deal with it because if we start to talk about it I will want to make my point clear.

MR. JAMES M. ROBEY: The point is, Mr. President, that things which have been done in the case of letters written and on file in the Government Administration Buildings have appeared, apparently through Nigel Ramsey. I am just wondering whether this is another case of a file which has been taken out of the Government Administration Buildings and brought here so to speak so one need anything happens because if it is anything that I think you are mistaken in, believe me I believe in it.

MR. PRESIDENT: Will the Member continue.

MR. E. MARVIN HUFF: Mr. President, I am only saying to show, Sir, that those Members who might they support future legislation, might have reservations as an patent in supporting my motion. I have to close, Sir, that is the whole truth as far as I concerned. That is all it is.

Mr. President, the same Member responsible for taking, according to a statement, said that he was absent from work because, "I am ashamed to hear recently how skilled Supervisors...."

MR. JAMES M. ROBEY: I object again, Mr. President. Why do you not try to make this more relevant in this House, if you concur the most of us do?

MR. PRESIDENT: Maybe that Standing Order are you objecting?

MR. JAMES M. ROBEY: My submission is that the Hon being the Deputy Prime Minister. Under Standing Order 32(2) he should be able to prove that either from first hand knowledge which comes to his attention.

MR. PRESIDENT: Standing Order 32(2) says that no Member shall impute improper motives to another Member. I see nothing improper about a newspaper being associated with a political party. It is common practice in most countries.

MR. JAMES M. ROBEY: I would but that if I had raised it on another occasion I would have been thrown out of order, right?

MR. PRESIDENT: If you had raised it improperly you would have been.

MR. MICHAEL J. MILLER: Mr. President, Sir, the Honourable of the office is talking while that of the House is seeing.

MR. SPEAKER: I was hoping that the Member was speaking here today to finish soon and we could then get on with...

MR. R. HARRIS SMITH: No, Sir, if you want to drive me we can take it.

MR. SPEAKER: If he is not going to finish, in that case I think I will recess proceedings until approximately 2.30 p.m.

AT 1.10 P.M. THE HOUSE RECESSED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2.30 P.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.
Proceedings were resumed. The Second Elected Member for East Bay.

MR. R. HARRIS SMITH: Mr. Speaker, before we took the break, Sir, I was dealing with an article in the Sun newspaper. However, before I go on with that, Sir, I want to say this. I take very strong objection to any Member trying to use the Press Chamber and trying to threaten me in any manner. Since I have been elected here and even in I have been trained, and I mean literally trained inside the precincts of this Assembly. I want to say that all this will not seem to intimidate me in that sort of tactic will have to stop. It is not easy to kill a Bush you must. Thank you very much. The Ministry are to pay this, Sir.

Before we took the break we were dealing with an article in the Sun newspaper where the Member responsible for Labour was quoting all negotiations to resolve their employment practices. The Sun went on to say that Mr. Robin made a statement just one day after a number of unemployed Caymanians made a peaceful march to the construction site of the new terminal at Owen Roberts Airport. He said:

> "I am disappointed to hear reportedly about alleged Caymanians who are unable to find work which they are trained to carry out. I call on all employers to review their employment practices."

Mr. Speaker, I would like in order to read this. This is another Sun newspaper dated Tuesday, 2nd August, 1994. These were the same newspapers why he was negotiating to:

> "The protesters said that after they spoke to the foreman and owner who told them to talk to Mr. Robin, the job was closed down. In a subsequent statement later the Work Permit, members of Spanish Rock said the workers had been sent home because they had legal reasons they would not be getting any income. He said Government Security Member Mr. Mac Robin was involved, more as the owner of the hotel but as owner of the company doing the construction."

MR. P. JACKMAN MAY (CONTINUING): I have read this to show, Sir, that all this talk about the Labour Government is just that; lip service and nothing else.

One other Member, Sir, raised on a point of order that I was not being relevant. That was the Deputy Premier Member for Golden Rock. I want to read on article he did, Sir, a newspaper report which quoted the Honourable Member as saying:

> "Right now the Government would have one dozen more qualified engineers, but where are they going to get them when the parents allow their children to study music. When they will not let their children go to school."

My comment this morning, Sir, and my statements now, I maintain, are very relevant to the labour situation in this country. We are talking about protecting Expatriates. Let here is this Member saying that Expatriate parents allow their children to study music and not to go to school. I do not believe this, Sir. Expatriate parents in my opinion have a deep and abiding respect and love for their children, and they do all within their power to help them. It is not because of that that they are not getting jobs. It is the statistics which I read from the Government. It is not Expatriate parents. This is double talk, Mr. President, unfortunate, If I have to use some statistics to prove my points I can easily do that. They have warned me not and that is what has happened. The points are genuine. As far as this Labour Legislation which the Member claims was drafted to concerned, this is an extract of recommendations from reports of Select Committees as tabled at September, 1981 Meeting of the Legislative Assembly. It says, "The recommended Select Committee Labour Law". Terms of reference:

> "At the Sitting of the Legislative Assembly on the 5th day of May, 1982, Government Notice No. 5 moved by the Honourable Chief Elected Member of Executive Council, was passed. The motion read," and I believe that this will tell the tale:-

> "That this Honourable House do, in accordance with Standing Order 59 of the Legislative Assembly Standing Orders, 1978, constitute a Select Committee to consider and report upon the laws of the Cayman Islands which now regulate the relationship between employers and employees, and to make recommendations as to whether new enactments are now or will in the near future be necessary or desirable and if it is so considered, to make recommendations as to what amendments or new legislation is, in the opinion, necessary or desirable; > and that this Honourable House do appoint all the Members of the Legislative Assembly, both Elected and Official, to be Members of such Committee and that the quorum for a Meeting of such Select Committee shall be seven Members; > and that the said Select Committee do make its Report to this Honourable House in the month of or before the month of September, 1982."

MR. E. MCGARRITY ROSS (CONTINUED): This week the Government will make a replacement to them. It will make a payment. This is the last month of the season. If the Government had decided to do it could have been paid in that fashion if necessary. But they could make a payment, not having that dreadful implication. So the Member should not come out with such stupid and stilted implication. I do not see why. There is nothing in the bill.

Mr. Speaker, one of the reasons I am here today is because I made an overwhelming stand against the kind and flagrant misuse of the previous administration. I made an overwhelming case against a feeling of brazen practices such as the former has. I know, Sir, there are those who oppose this motion. They oppose it. They circumvent by motion because they could not stand to see this little junk boy from West Bay previous a motion when they had failed in eight years to bring legislation which would be debated in this honourable House.

Mr. President, in winding up or closing off, whatever way we term it, no amount of emotion will make our people a real people. All efforts will be wasted unless the hearts of the people are actually taken along the path on which they will feel more enthusiastic about this place called the Cayman Islands as their home; that they their country and that we as leaders and responsible Members rather than be concerned with the problems which confront them. They will then go home for their country; make more effort; think more; make more sacrifices; have more discipline; by more honest and do more with them by any other measure which can be brought to bear on country.

We need a Cayman Post and I would have preferred to see anyone from every single Member of this House if they were persons.

It is against this background that I commend this motion to the honourable Members of this House. What say us?

MR. PRESIDENT: Before I put the question to the vote, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town requires a right to offer an explanation in connection with the provisions of Standing Order 31(2) and I will his attention to the interpretation imposed by that Standing Order. Subject to that, he may offer his explanation.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Well, the other Member was allowed to speak. I do not know whether I will be able to do it.

Mr. Speaker, the rep will mean into when I will have to follow the steps of the Fourth Day Then West Bay. The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town while you allow interpretation. I remember that was moved to conclude me because at the break I went to him that and I said, "If you are going to deal with things which I sincerely had and I am sure had better be more of the facts. You will not find me opposed Speaker". I do not think that that was contradictions on a threat. However, it did well meant.

Before Conciliation was drafted, it was drafted by the ILO representative attached to the United Nations Caribbean office and it was placed at a meeting in this House last year on the suicide of the Jamaican Governor who in his present here now, who said that possibly the last way to which to deal with it. It was our feeling that there should have been participation by all Members.

MR. JAMES M. COOPER (CONTINUING): As to the practices for this Chamber to get up and make the statements which he has made. However it is not surprising when you understand who they come from. I can apologize for him.

MR. E. HARPER JOYCE: Thank the gentleman.

MR. JAMES M. COOPER: It is plain that the Democratic Administration of this Government has been able to divide so many race so quickly when it had such popularity for some years, as I recall those years which I can remember, in trying to put the Democrat back into office.

Mr. President, I have not heard the finish of the quotation. Who knows in not knowing or care. It is just nonsensical.

MR. E. HARPER JOYCE: Is it noted at present, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think the Member is already over the period of accommodation. He has been accommodated as far about the discussion of Reconstruction. However, if he is going on to talk about the Negro race's past and present, then I think he has been within rule.

MR. JAMES M. COOPER: I was just referring to the manner in which you addressed the Member on right.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member was not speaking on a specific point of explanation. He was commenting a debate.

MR. JAMES M. COOPER: Well, I will then change that, Sir, to said that if the Member had had the people of heart more would have been done. I would remind him that if he knew as much as he thought he would not feel for the people as do for the people of the Cayman Islands what I feel I have done. That is public record.

MR. E. HARPER JOYCE: You can say that again.

MR. PRESIDENT: I will not put the question....

MR. MITCHELL J. BRADLEY: Mr. President, Sir, with respect I just desire to make a personal explanation. In that regard I would draw your attention to Erskine May, 19th edition, page 123, in which it says:

> "No Member should cause disorder but if another Member is considered to be a personal attachment, he is generally allowed to give his own view of the matter and to any question he considers it or not."

MR. PRESIDENT: Very well.

MRS. MYRTLE J. DARRELL: Mr. President, Sir, as Attorney-General, the Second Opposition Member, I am responsible upon this being Government's chief legal adviser, for the drafting of legislation to accommodate with Constitutional requirements by the Privy Government. I hope that I will be as loyal a Member of Government during this administration as I hoped that I was during the last administration.

SGM. MICHAEL J. MAHONEY: My memory, Sir, and I think the records of Government will show that at no time was I formally instructed to draft Tobacco legislation. My memory of the contents of Tobacco legislation is that there had been several drafts prepared by my predecessor. Also I had talked to the Minority Member from Sublette Town informally and we had agreed on a number of points. I had personally, in anticipation of a formal request, brought and started work on certain legislation. It was then even not sent proper by the Minority Member from Golden Town to construct the committee to prepare independent legislation.

I make that in no way is this clear being done upon the drafting section of Government as myself in determining that there was any disadvantage or malevolence to draft legislation as a legal Chief Counsel.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT: Thank you. I will now put the question that Minority Member's motion. Mr. Secretary, proceed.

SECRETARY MAY: Members:

MR. D. MARCUS BUSH: Could we have a division, Sir?

MR. PRESIDENT: We did not hear any noes so I am not sure there of my ruling...

MR. C. NILO TOMICH: I think the Members ought to vote against it myself.

MR. PRESIDENT: Let the Chief Clerk.

MR. D. MARCUS BUSH: No, I want to hear the individual vote.

MR. PRESIDENT: Let me just have a look at Rule[illegible]. Indeed. Maybe the honorable Speaker Official Number will be right or not finding what...

SGM. MICHAEL J. MAHONEY: Mr. President, Sir, may I respectfully draw your attention to Standing Order 43, subsection (3) which says

> "The results shall be declared by the Presiding Officer stating "I think the ayes have it" or "I think the noes have it" as the case may be, but any Member may challenge the opinion of the Chair in declaring a decision."

MR. PRESIDENT: Very well, how now have a division. Even though I did not hear a single no you are entitled to a division.

DIVISION
NO. 11

AYES	NOES
Hon. Dennis M. Foster
Hon. Michael J. Bradley
Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson
Hon. Frances D. Stanley
Hon. K. Norman Geddes
Hon. Capt. Charles S. Pinkerman[illegible]
Mr. D. Marcus Bush
Mr. Lunsford M. Pearson
Capt. Mabry S. Pinkerman[illegible]

[illegible].

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: Mr. President, I call your attention to Standing Order 33(c), which says:-

> "A division shall be taken by the Clerk calling each Member's name and recording the vote given. The Clerk shall then announce the number of those who have voted for and against the proposal."

So if there is no one against the proposal, in my opinion there should be no division. "shall declare the result of the division" because there were abstentions.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think the answer to that one is that until the Clerk has called the names to account be certain that there is no one against. A Member may challenge my ruling as defective and claim that perhaps I did not hear a no or an aye. My interpretation there would, if I understand it, the Honourable Second Official Member was in agreement, is that if a Member wishes a division he is entitled to it.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: Well my vote then, Sir, I fully support Labour Representation coming to the House but not the motion which is before us because we have already had Party Declaration which can be put.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think you must either vote aye or no or abstain. It will be difficult for the Clerk to know what to put down otherwise.

DIVISION (ABSTENTION)

AYES	NOES	ABSTENTIONS
Mr. S. Parnell Miller Mr. John B. Watson		Mr. James M. Scott.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION DECLARED CARRIED BY MAJORITY.

MR. PRESIDENT: I declare the motion carried. Private Member's Motion No. 7/86.

HON. MICHAEL J. SAVAGE: Could I have that count again, Sir. Did the Clerk say eleven?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think it may have been eleven because you are under arrest, I think there are two abstentions and two absentees. It must be eleven.

SPEAKER: My Executive Council and the Third Elected Member for West Bay are absent. That is correct.

MR. PRESIDENT: The motion is still carried but I think you both first have your record so that it is eleven.

SPEAKER: That is right, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive Council and the Third Elected Member for West Bay are both absent.

So, Private Member's Motion No.2/88. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. EDWARD A. ERSKINE: Mr. President, before the moving of this motion, on a point of order, Sir, I wonder if I could get an explanation from you under section 25(2) of the Standing Orders. The motion I have to make here, Sir, is that I feel that it is unconstitutional for this honourable Legislative Assembly to continue and transact any business as it presently exists, with certain members, and I think this applies to me. Although certain members have still spoken with the public.

I have of nothing but honour, Sir, by all Constitutional Instrument which was re-enacted by the general public as was this motion. So, Sir, I believe that although the motion was moved of me, it is based just as here.

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, this vote Constitutional of Politics, has continued and left the Islands and can be imported to ask why is it more necessary to proceed this motion. However, I have been advised that it is highly possible for the vote Constitutional of Politics to file a lawsuit or persons here whom he might feel let to his benefit. However, the vote Government because is to unduly vote people who have benefited by the multiple persons in the first place.

Sir, I well remember the passage of that motion; the here, the many things and the deliberate attempts which were indicated into the debate. I sat in the gallery and I smiled thought to all and said to myself, "What unholy hoodlum, may God have mercy on them." Is Honourable Member said. "What while I stand in the public by the grace Christ".

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 2/88

CONSTITUTION OF POLICE

MR. K. MCTAGGART DAVIS: Mr. President I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 2/88 standing in my name, which reads as follows:-

> WHEREAS in Private Member's Motion No.1/88, moved by the Legislative Assembly on 1st December, 1988, it was recommended that this Government agree to indemnify Kelly the Commissioner of Police, Mr. James Pinnock, in any costs and damages he may incur in bringing proceedings for defamation against persons who made or published false allegations against his conduct and character;
> BE IT RESOLVED that this Honourable House hereby rescinds the said Private Member's Motion, No.1/88.

MR. D. SCOTT MILLER: I beg to second the motion, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: The motion is duly moved and seconded. The Second Elected Member for East End may now speak.

MR. K. MCTAGGART DAVIS: Mr. President, the problem before the House is a very straightforward motion. It is a motion designed to remove from our law books what became known as the Dalmain/Cranston motion of December, 1988. This was a motion which offended to the most Constitutional of Police inherited Rule from the public because by the motion after he, through certain members, had fallen into his private,

I have of nothing but honour, Sir, by all Constitutional Instrument which was re-enacted by the general public as was this motion. So, Sir, I believe that although the motion was moved of me, it is based just as here.

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, this vote Constitutional of Politics, has continued and left the Islands and can be imported to ask why is it more necessary to proceed this motion. However, I have been advised that it is highly possible for the vote Constitutional of Politics to file a lawsuit or persons here whom he might feel let to his benefit. However, the vote Government because is to unduly vote people who have benefited by the multiple persons in the first place.

Sir, I well remember the passage of that motion; the here, the many things and the deliberate attempts which were indicated into the debate. I sat in the gallery and I smiled thought to all and said to myself, "What unholy hoodlum, may God have mercy on them." Is Honourable Member said. "What while I stand in the public by the grace Christ".

MR. M. MANOHAR RAO (CONSTITUENCY): What did you do for me to have some money on this country. People like the mover of this motion, the seconder of that motion, and that little boy from George Town took the worse beating at the polls than any other individuals in our 150 years of self-government. The Bhagwa have been kicked, praise be to God.

That motion was unqualified. It was unnecessary. It was here of mixed and twisted minds and today it is my great pleasure to move this motion for a substantive. I beg Members for their support. Thank you very much.

MR. PRESIDENT: The motion is now open for debate. Does any Member wish to speak?

SPEAKING PREVIOUSLY: HONOURABLE MEMBER

MR. DENZIL F. DOUGLAS: Mr. President, it is good that such a motion as this has to be brought back to the House. In the recent years nightly paid a while ago, it was not necessary for the right one to come. Therefore, I really do not think it was necessary for this one at all some. I would like to note, Sir, from the Hansard of 1st December, 1988, when this matter was before the House, I am quoting what our legal advisor the Honourable Second Official Member quoted there then. He said:-

> "I wanted to direct Honourable Members' attention to Government Regulations and to Government Regulation 7, 9A, 2 which is the normal safeguard of the Government Regulation which relates to legal proceedings. And I will read it - 'Subject to the orders of the Attorney-General in any particular case, the Government will accept responsibility for the defence of officers against whom legal proceedings are threatened or instituted in respect of acts done or liabilities incurred in the execution of their duties. Where any such proceedings are threatened or instituted the right should be reported to the Attorney-General, and no bonds or other expenses shall be incurred by the officer or other steps taken in connection with any such proceedings until the directions of the Attorney-General have been received'."

I will read emphasis instead of that Honourable -

> "Mr. President, Sir, Members have said or inferred that this is an unusual step being taken and that there are no safeguards against it and that it leaves it open to unlimited public expense. The Motion, Mr. President, Sir, as it is before us says that the House strongly recommends that should the Commissioner wish to institute proceedings, Government agree to indemnify fully the Commissioner of Police. This is a recommendation to the Government and if passed would be a recommendation, albeit a strong recommendation."

But it would still be covered by Government Regulations which state:-

> "No action may be taken by an officer to institute civil proceedings in any court in connection with matters arising out of the discharge of their public duties, or against any other public officer, or anything done in the performance of his duties, unless the consent of the Attorney-General has been obtained".

MR. DENNIS R. KEEFE (CONTINUING): Having said that, Mr. President, and the Commissioner no long distance - which was unpleasant to be unnecessarily brought up and I would ask Members not to dwell on this as hard and as long. It is something which has already happened. Something which could have never helped in the beginning anyway, and two wrongs do not make a right.

I think the speaker we can do away with this motion, Sir, the better.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for Sandys Town.

MR. C. ERIC SCOTT: Mr. President, I take strong objection to the Elected Member's motion before the House for what it is a spiteful motion. It does credit on a member which he could have had been told so much. Here is here also the Commissioner of Police, Mr. Stevens had been ridiculed by a certain segment of certain section of the community. He had been ridiculed by a woman which was not Bermudian, for your files' law enforcement officers. The big part of the story is the lack treatment of everything which was said by these here.

Everyone knows the story and everyone knows that his car be one belonged of who is not committed by Police Squads. Everybody knows the story. This motion should accordingly not be brought at this time. What knows the Commissioner Stevens did? He made a statement on the radio to clarify a problem which had been distorted by the media. It had in fact been reported in the normal way the press on this Member report. They report what they want to hear rather than the straight facts.

I do not want to go into the details as the case may still be before the courts. However, the Commissioner was charged of having been the person to cause a misstate in the court. Everyone knows it was not the Commissioner but it was a statement made by a newspaper on Radio Cayman. So the man has done nothing wrong.

The same faction which started this campaign has ridiculed the Commissioner, and also tossed an investigation into the conduct of the Commissioner and other Civil Servants. The result of that investigation was published and showed clearly that the Commissioner had been exonerated, and that he had done no wrong. The investigators were brought in and they examined all the evidence. I believe you, Sir, in your capacity as Governor made a few made selection at the time and certainly the press carried the story that the Commissioner was a man of honour.

The motion which was brought by the Member in December, I believe a resolution. I supported it then....

HE. PRESIDENT: I am afraid I must interrupt the Honourable Member. It is quite clear that he is not going to be able to finish his speech today, and therefore in accordance with Standing Order 20(3) I will invite the Honourable Elected Members to move the adjournment.

ADJOURNMENT

HON. DENNIS A. PROVOST: Mr. President, I move the adjournment of this House until 10.00 a.m. tomorrow, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that this House do now adjourn until 10.00 a.m. tomorrow morning.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED.

MR. PRESIDENT: Is Member wishes a division?

HON. HUBERT A. BRUCE: I would just like to know whether tomorrow is to be allowed to debate the Throne Speech or the Budget Speech, which one?

MR. PRESIDENT: It is the continuation of the second Reading debate on the Appropriation Bill, which you will be in a position also to comment on the Throne Speech, in accordance with past precedence. Is that not correct?

HON. DENNIS A. PROVOST: Yes, Sir, we will be debating the two speeches at one time.

MR. PRESIDENT: We have in fact already passed on the motion of thanks for the Throne Speech. That motion is therefore now dead. We have still before us the Second Reading debate on the Appropriation Bill and that is what the speeches will be on. That is my understanding.

HON. MICHAEL J. ENSLEY: I was just wondering, Sir, whether you could give me your interpretation on Standing Order 10(5) which says:-

> "Any motion under discussion at the moment of interruption and any business not entered upon before that time shall stand over to the next sitting or sitting."

MR. PRESIDENT: Well, that is a good point which I have not considered.

HON. MICHAEL J. ENSLEY: My own feeling, Mr....

MR. PRESIDENT: Standing on critique - sorry you were going to say?

HON. MICHAEL J. ENSLEY: I was going to say that my first impression on that, Sir, would be that that which is interrupted continues as pursued and that the Order Paper as set down tomorrow would continue in the normal way. In other words if we finished this consultation Friday Monday's Motion tomorrow and then we went on to the Budget, that would be correct.

HON. HUBERT A. BRUCE: One of my questions would be that the Throne Speech and the Budget are two completely different items and, in my opinion, they should be debated individually rather than to try to group the two as a whole.

HON. DENNIS A. PROVOST: In fact, Sir, they were both debated together.

MR. PERKINSON: They have both been heard exceptionally and we have already voted on the motion to reconsider the Simone Speech.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: Mr. President, we seem to be getting so many different answers to the point I just mentioned whether it would not be more appropriate if we did it, because we are dealing with really two substantially different items.

MSM. FRANCIS R. BOSTIC: We are not changing the issues, Sir. The issues is....

MR. PRESIDENT: Let us consider other matters have been so announced about "Threshold Applications". I cannot remember what the phrase was....

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: "Threshold Activities" or that will help you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: "Threshold Activities". So perhaps it is better that we get off the Threshold for a time and report to the recessed personnel which now to debate the two matters simultaneously. Moreover, the both issues Members are then to range over potentially all matters which

MSM. MICHAEL F. MASTRO: Why I am saying this, Sir, is....

MR. PRESIDENT: Let I was trying to wrap up the point which the Honorable Second Officer had raised. It was, "Need meeting on minutes" and the definition of Meeting is readily ascertainable, the whole or part of any meeting. I think it could be interpreted either way and to be really a reminder of what made the proceedings of the House. Whether Members wish to continue debating the Minute Member's Motion No. 2 which we have in the middle of debating now, before we start on the debate on the Appropriation Bill is not to us to them. In fact if you had taken the point the other day, were we not in the middle of a debate on the Stamp Duty Bill which is inconclusive? So I think the procedure is that we do not necessarily continue with what has been interrupted.

MSM. MICHAEL F. MASTRO: My only concern, Sir, was that Members could then say the other day, if we are going to keep reminding the recess.....

MR. PRESIDENT: We are going to have Lunch soon.

MSM. MICHAEL F. MASTRO: Yes.

MR. PERKINSON: Well, we are. I think it will only be two hours if we must start on the debate on the Appropriation Bill. We can pick up the Lunch Hour thereafter.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: In view of what has just been said, Mr. President, are we going through with the Minute Item Bill removal also or something has been left out?

MR. PORTERFIELD: No, I was suggesting that since we have unlimited gall bladders and agreed to a motion that the appropriation bill be debated tomorrow, that we go ahead and debate it and leave both the Sharp Duty Bill and this Private Member's Motion over until we finish the debate on the Appropriation Bill.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: I do not think there will be any objection, Sir, because we are ready to go here about six weeks anyway.

MR. SPEAKER: So, unless anyone thinks otherwise I think that is perhaps the best arrangement; that we go ahead with the debate as planned, leaving the other things to be completed at a later stage. Did I put the question? I forget. Yes I did, because I asked if any Member wanted to speak and nobody spoke. So we will assume nobody does.

AT 6.37 P.M. THE HOUSE ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 A.M. WEDNESDAY, 6TH JUNE, 1995.

SPEAKER

APRIL 14, 1995

10:00 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. Questions. The Second Electoral District for Rockbridge Falls.

QUESTION

THE SENATE ELECTION MONDAY NOT CHOSEN DOWN BY ONE INDEPENDENT SENATOR BECAUSE WOMEN OF REPUBLICAN SENATORS ARE ALREADY AVERAGE FOR THEIR

Q. 22 Would the Senator kindly, if any, efforts have been made in the formulation of the appropriate set of Senate Rule for this event?

ANSWER At the direction of this honourable House yesterday, the Senate, Honourable Members considered and passed Tribune Senator's Motion No. 3/85 which appointed a Committee of the whole House to formulate short Senate Legislative guidelines to the Speaker Election.

Based on the recommendations of that Committee, a Bill for the determination of appropriate Senate Legislative will be submitted to this Honourable House at the earliest possible opportunity. I suggest this as the proper course of formulating appropriate Legislation.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

HON. S. BARE ROSS: Mr. President, may I ask the Member if the answer to this question was determined on the premise of the Private Member's Motion yesterday, and if it was not, he is not sure if that was the answer why there was the increased in the proceedings of the Senate? Whether or not the Private Member's Motion could be taken yesterday instead of the Government Bills?

HON. M. ROSIE POTTS: The answer, Mr. President, it had nothing to do with the Private Member's Motion yesterday, because it was my decision to have a Government Motion to the House in connection with the matter if I did not have Legislative that matter could have been passed by a Private Member's Motion. However this Bill will be passed that I was aware of this.

Regarding the proposed workshop to be the Senate, I think this was a recommendation which was made by the Senators' Committee. It has nothing to do with my reply this morning.

HON. S. BARE ROSS: Mr. President, may I ask the Member that the Senate may be aware regarding to yesterday's motion if anything to do with this answer?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think really it affect in the already answered part. It has nothing to answer.

MR. P. MOSES (QUEEN): Well, Mr. President, it is regrettable that the minutes were omitted as a result of the proceedings yesterday. This is only natural.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no further supplementary, I shall invite the Clerk to read the next question.

THE PRINTED ANSWERS FOR WHICH NOTICE HAS BEEN GIVEN ARE AS FOLLOW:

NO. 38: Would the Minister state:-

(a) the total number of matriculants recorded during the years 1960 to 1964; and

(b) distinguish the causes for the difference:-

(i) by place of origin of pupils;
(ii) how many of the individuals concerned were females?

ANSWER: (a) the total number of matriculated individuals during the years 1960 to 1964 was 349 (four hundred and seventy);

(b) (i) 208 of the matriculants were between 20 to 30 years and one was over 40 years;

(ii) 60 individuals concerned were females.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. G. MAPE PHIRI: Mr. President, may I ask the Member how many males applied as the Lobatse Boys' Brigade when the latter was opened?

HON. DAWSON M. MOSES: The Member is not here, Mr. I do not know.

MR. G. MAPE PHIRI: Mr. President, the reason for asking this is that we have a very disappointed nation, because there is probably only one boys' hostel in the Lobatse which is open to all,

MR. SPEAKER: I understand the purpose of the question but I am sympathetic with the Member for not having the information available.

MR. G. MAPE PHIRI: Mr. President,...

MR. SPEAKER: Because he would like to undertake to obtain it for you and let you know if it does exist, is...

MR. G. MAPE PHIRI: It would be very helpful, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Could the Minister undertake to do that?

HON. DAWSON M. MOSES: The Member wants to know how many boys' hostels there are in the Territory?

MR. PRESIDENT: If the Member would distribute that to Members of the House that would be appreciated.

MR. S. MARVIN WILLIAMS: Mr. President, if I could ask the Honorable Floor Official Member to add to that how much the number of motor cycles over 50 cc are impressed in the law, also?

MR. DENNIS H. PORTER: I can answer that here, Sir. The top possible machine over that number is and I am sure that there would be no impoundment allowed.

MR. JOHN W. WALKER: Mr. President, a supplementary. In light of the answer which has been given would the Member state if the fine which has been placed on the larger motor cycles should not have been placed on the smaller ones.

MR. DENNIS H. PORTER: That is a matter for this House. If they want to amend the law that is fine with me.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no further supplementary I will ask the Member for North Side to ask the next question.

THE QUESTION WHICH WAS ASKED WAS TO ASK THE HONORABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR PORT-OF-SPAIN NORTH/ST. ANN'S EAST WHETHER HE WOULD CONSIDER THE NEEDS OF THE SOCIAL SERVICES

Q1. If: Would the Member state what the present cost per patient at the hospital is and what is the increase?

ANSWER: The present running cost per patient at the General Hospital is $900.00.

The increase rate is an increase of 9% per week.

SUPPLEMENTARY:

MR. D. ERSKINE MILLER: Supplementary, Mr. President. The Member stated the average cost per patient is. I do not think that is the answer to my question, Sir. My question refers to the cost per patient day. "Day" has been left out, Sir. It should be cost per patient day at the hospital. There is probably nothing I can do.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am not unsympathetic maybe I have misunderstood. Are you asking however the Minister quotes the cost per patient day for hospitals?

MR. D. ERSKINE MILLER: Yes, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: If that is a supplementary and you would like the Member to elucidate that certainly he may.

HON. ERROL O. GRIFFITH: The cost please is for hospitals, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Is it per patient day.

HON. DENNIS H. PORTER: Per patient day, yes, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Unless there is any further supplementary I will invite the Member for North Side to put the next question.

THE SPEAKER: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not prepared to give the information asked for. Question No. 1, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: Would the Member state the qualifications of the medical officers employed at the hospital and what are their duties?

ANSWER: Of the ten medical officers presently employed at the General Hospital, seven have MB BS or Bachelor of Medicine/ Bachelor of Surgery and three have MRCP (Member of Royal College of Physicians). Six officers pursued full qualification in specialities which include anaesthesia, ENT (ear, nose and throat), obstetrics and gynaecology, public health and surgery.

All medical officers share general duties. In addition, each consultant attends to their patients in accordance with their sub-specialities.

General duties include -

(i) To be on duty duties, Monday through Friday; to examine in-patients, as required, with other medical staff.

(ii) To attend out-patients clinic Monday through Friday, to prescribe patients medical care treatment where necessary.

(iii) To carry out accident and emergency duties in rota, as required, out of normal working hours.

(iv) To be available for consultation at the request of medical colleagues in accordance with the professional interests, experience and specialities.

(v) To visit patients in the hospital wards and provide necessary medical care.

(vi) To refer suitable patients to consultants via the Chief Medical Officer, clinics in Cayman or overseas, for further opinion, and, if necessary, secondary care.

(vii) To attend, as required, clinics dealing with ante and post-natal care, pre-school examinations, family planning, immunization, maternal and child health and other public health activities.

(viii) To carry out home visits at the request of a public health nurse.

(ix) To undertake medical care in response to emergencies and disasters.

(x) To undertake such other duties as may be required by the Chief Medical Officer.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. D. BRIAN MCFEE: Supplementary, Mr. President. In view of the long list of duties and such things being carried out generally remarkable well by those people of paramedical, would the Honour please tell us what sort of technical officers who are qualified in, for instance, ear nose and throat, audiology, gynaecology, public health and nurses are Postal certified? The qualifications given here do not indicate that they are.

MR. SPEAKER: I'm not sure that I have fully understood this supplementary. Is this supplementary to ask the Member whether he will indicate whether all of the paramedical officers have qualifications in every single specialty?

MR. D. BRIAN MCFEE: No, Sir, merely to ask if those who are employed in the specialities listed, ear nose and throat, audiology and gynaecology, public health and surgery are fully qualified. Is there merely also the purpose here or not? Is he a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons?

HON. EDISON D. FRIPP: Mr. President, that is my understanding, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: The Second Elected Member for East Bay.

MR. K. HARRY HUNT: Thank you, Mr. President. In view of the answer:-

"Casual duties include -

(1) To be on duty daily, Monday through Friday, at weekends as above duties, as required, with other medical staff."

Could the Member advise why these same people are taken to hospital there is no doctor there to help them?

MR. EDISON D. FRIPP: Mr. President, I presume that is as a result of the fact that there are occasions when the doctors are on call but not necessarily on the premises and a nurse would have to decide the severity of the doctor needs to be brought in.

MR. K. HARRY HUNT: That a statement. Now, a duty which one. What duty he has not like a legal attack or a stroke. Could the Member give an undertaking that a doctor would be there at all times. Thank you very much, Sir.

DR. PERCENTAGE: That did not sound like a question to me. It sounded more like a statement. I am not sure whether you meant it as a question?

MR. K. HARRY HUNT: Yes, Sir, I said it was going to be a statement and could the Member also an undertaking that a doctor would be there at all times.

MR. SPEAKER: Do you mean will the Minister give an undertaking?

MR. K. HARRY HUNT: Yes, Sir.

REP. EDWIN D. ERLENBORN: Mr. President, I would like on occasion to rebut the present position, but the Senator would be issued an exclusive ruling when all the information is available to me.

MR. S. SEDAM MITCHELL: I do not know whether this will be allowed under supplementaries, but in light of the answer given to the Second Elected Member from Maryland, I wonder if it would be possible to explain the questions which were encountered in the hospital grounds several years ago from the Department of Agriculture based on the complaints? This goes on the time, I believe, about five years.

MR. SPEAKER: I think really that is straying rather far from the scope of the original question. Does any member wish to ask a further supplementary? If not, I will call the Second Elected Member from Baltimore to ask the next question.

MR. LEONARD A. PLEVOSKY: Mr. President, before asking the next question I wish to show your knowledge in section 22[1][d] of the Standing Orders, which speaks about the excessive length of a question. This is both a view to members when they are asking their supplementaries and also to the Senior Member responding the interpretation of questions. The majority for this, Sir, is that when questions are asked in so that they bear no relevance to each other and are not for different days, it makes it somewhat difficult for a Member to get the full picture of a question. I find it sometimes redundant for this cause to the answer this question. As a result I would like to know if possible.

MR. SPEAKER: I am not altogether sure of the relevance of Standing Order 22[1][d] which says that questions shall not be of excessive length. I am not sure of the relevance of that to the point which the Member was making. As I understand it the Member's point is that sometimes he may wish to ask two separate but related questions. If that is so and if he would, whenever that happens and the same applies to any other Member, be good enough to raise it on the Clerk and perhaps also to the Chairman of the Business Committee that he would like two or even three - not more than three because no Member can ask more than three on any day - questions to be put down for answer the same day, then I am sure that the Business Committee will do their best to accommodate the Member concerned.

MR. LEONARD A. PLEVOSKY: Again, Sir, with great reluctance I can only differ on the relevance of this. From my observation I will on the reason for anticipating the questions I ordained that the reason was the language of narrative length of a question.

MR. SPEAKER: No, if I may make it clear and I am sorry if you were misled, the reason was not excessive length. The reason was that two questions were disposed on one and without seeking to imply that you were attempting to do so, Members have been known to try to get more than their fair share of questions set down for a particular day, by arranging two, three or even half a dozen questions and supplementaries to precede them on one. One of my tasks is to seek to discriminate when questions should really be treated as two questions for the purposes of Standing Orders. It was that, and nevertheless tonight which tempted the question answered.

MR. ROBERT A. PEARSON: Mr. President, about your ruling, Sir, I think that if we have a look at the questions as they were set down on the question paper it is quite clear that there is a logical relationship between the two questions and that they are not separate questions.

MR. PRESIDENT: I accept that they are connected but then it does seem to me, nevertheless, to be two separate questions for the purpose of Supreme Orders. However I am aware of the fact that if they are so closely related that for your purposes it is necessary to be able to ask them one after the other, then I am sure that we can accommodate your wishes. Please speak into the microphone so that the Secretary and the Chairman of the Resolutions Committee. Meanwhile, if you wish to withdraw this supplementary question, then let me take Item Six Supreme Orders. I have not yet found a seconder for it. Can you refer me to the Standing Order under which you are seeking leave to withdraw the question?

MR. LAWSON A. PIERCE: The Standing Order under which I am seeking leave to withdraw the question is 10(2)(f) which states:

"A question shall not be asked -

(f) which relates to matters already decided by the House."

I believe that part of my question was answered yesterday. To go looking the Report which is already related in the first order would be of no relevance at all. My second supplementary was to the point of the ruling. In future before any questions are put and for clarification under the Standing Order seeking the question should be told, because for me to ask the second part today to receive not going to make very much sense.

MR. PRESIDENT: Since the Member seeks to object I am certainly prepared to give leave for the Member concerned to withdraw his question although I have not found a Standing Order yet which I can readily satisfied entitles me so to do.

I have been given notice by the Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive Council that he wishes to make a statement in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 9(1). I will therefore invite him to do so now.

STATEMENT BY THE HONOURABLE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

HON. W. ROBIN DIGBY: Mr. President, I wish to inform this Honourable House that it is necessary for the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council responsible for Development and Natural Resources and myself to be absent from the Meeting this afternoon and subsequent Meetings which will be held during the remainder of this week. The reason for our absence is to attend to urgent Cayman Airways business with top level Government officials in the United Kingdom and the arrangements of this House in this matter will be appreciated. Thank you.

MR. PRESIDING: The next item on the Order Paper is the consideration of the debate on the Throne Speech and Budget Address. That question is now open for debate.

HON. MICHAEL J. FORRESTT: Merely a technicality, Mr. President, Sir. Should the Senior Member [illegible] Second Reading tomorrow....

MR. PRESIDENT: Well I think it should. I was counting them the Order Paper we had been before us. I think it does you quite right that it is the Second Reading Debate on the 5th November 5TH, 1985. That is technically what we are debating. Now any Honourable Member wish to speak? I find it difficult to believe that nobody wishes to speak. However, if nobody does I shall be bound to invite the mover of the motion to reply. Even then, I should invite the mover of the motion to reply. Does no Member wish to speak?

HON. EDWARD R. MAPPIN: Mr. President, I am taken by complete surprise, Sir.

MR. F. MARSH: Mr. President, since none of the Members and many Members of the House do not wish to speak I am wondering whether the House will allow some Ministers and Members with the motion [illegible] afternoon.

MR. PRESIDING: We can take the debate on the Appropriation Bill for today and if not have concluded, if no Member wishes to speak, which rules me by surprise, I think in this future we will have to find some convenient way of determining the order in which Members speak. Because already it is not going to be satisfactory for the House either to recall a position in which nobody is willing to speak first, and indeed everybody wishes to speak next to last and so nobody rises at all and we are in silence for a long time, or indeed to reach a position in which the mover normally does rarely and succeeds in denied a chance of speaking. I am sure that Members do wish to speak,

MR. G. MARK PEDDLE: Mr. President, under Standing Order 58(3) I would like the question read to me.

MR. LAURENCE A. SPENCER: Mr. President....

MR. PRESIDENT: Yes, surely.

MR. LAURENCE A. SPENCER: I was just going to advise that I would speak the last.

MR. PRESIDENT: I beg your pardon? You said that you should speak the last. Well I think so. It is perfectly true that a motion could be put under Standing Order 58(3), but I think that it would be premature. Standing Order 58(3) unfortunately it appears to the Speaking Officer that the motion is an abuse of the rules of the House, or an infringement of the rights of the minority. The question should be put forthwith. I think that it would be an infringement of people's rights to put that question straight away. If the Honourable Elected Member for Pesaro does still wish to speak,

MR. [illegible]: Mr. President, I think I would be remiss in my duty, Sir, if I did not at this appropriate time, I would like both to thank you for your comprehensive, timely and well reasoned State Speech and to congratulate the Honorable Minister of Finance, the Senior Official Member for a Budget Address which is clear and well set out. As he is to be commended, also, for the improvements and proposals which he has brought to bear on the contents of the Budget Address.

Mr. President, it was President Kaunda who said the following recently after taking office as the White House, and I quote:-

> "The task we will have is not an easy one. It reminds me of those chaps in rowing who did the training, and for three or six months what they have done is a monotonous, dull series of exercises. The path we follow seems very far from any fruit that the Government and Party have to offer at the moment. It is a path responsible to follow which is the collective wisdom and genius of the people. Many more hard sacrifices will have to be made, I am sure, before the path of the socialist society."

I believe, Mr. President, that these words of wisdom are as applicable today to the people of the Cayman Islands as they are to the people of that great nation of America.

Mr. President, in listening to the presentation of the Throne Speech and the Budget Address, one might find time to further underline their contents, I am sure we have many people readily appreciate the serious responsibility which we the representatives of the people have undertaken in assuming the stewardship of the management of Government and the accountability of the public purse. Mr. President, I believe that the people have voted in the result of the recent election that they wanted certain changes. Whether these changes will be good or bad for this country will be seen over the next few years. I also believe, Sir, that we have a good Government and that the people of this country will stand by [illegible] how the choice which they have made. However, Mr. President, I would like to point out that [illegible] Mr. President, I sincerely trust, Sir, that the Opposition is sincere and that they are ready to co-operate, and that they will, in the true democratic fashion for the benefit of this country; that we will cease to deal with matters by [illegible] and to take a responsible stand over the next few years. It has been as I have said before, Sir. Our people elected us to give them good representation not to stand here and quibble over issues. I heard remarks such as "absurd". I heard other irresponsible remarks and this happened after hearing the attention of this Honourable House to the fact that it was previous the Standing Orders of the House to use such remarks.

Mr. President, Sir, when to the Members of this House on this honourable [illegible] can be taken away of us forget the most important of today here. The purpose as I said, Mr. President, of today, here is not to criticize each other. Any time you do that, Sir, and I feel that with the number of very good councillors who run in the last election, those elected by the people should be acknowledged the power of the vote, but see us, Mr. President, when we behave as if we are coming out of the prison.

MR. LINDSAY A. STEVENS (GUYANA): Mr. President, I believe that we need to learn a lot of patience in this House. I would just make a few remarks, Sir, if I could speak with honesty and sincerity that the behaviour of the Members in this House is something which could be emulated by the young people of this country. I believe, Sir, that the mentality of some of the Members is that standing is a sign of their intelligence. We want intelligent representation for our people. We do not want to have a lot of Members who run just about at each other.

So I should, Mr. President, maybe can start. We want to get some intelligent discussion, not just absurdity for the sake of amusing.

Mr. President, I believe, Sir, that it was that great President of the United States, President Lincoln, who reminded the people that a good Government is one which seeks to give the system, representation for the people, of the people and by the people. Any time, Sir, that we have weight of the fact that we are here to represent the people then it is the time Sir, I feel that we should be man enough and woman enough to handle our responsibilities, because we are no longer merely of the Chamber which the people of this country have placed in our hands.

Nevertheless, Sir, of our political leaders I feel that we cannot lose sight of the fact and the purpose of our being here. We must work together. We must put a lot of the politics out. Of course we will have political leaders as one Member said yesterday, we are politicians. Nevertheless you are going to have politics, that nine month we have in this House. However let us have intelligent and wise politics, Sir.

I commend you, Sir, for the very remarkable way in which you conduct this House and I am proud to know that when one of us gets out of place you are the first to put us in order. I hope they this will continue that I also hope, Sir, that when any other person of our Country wishes to express the same diligence will be given. I am sure, Sir, that you will do this.

I want to know, Sir, that after I have spent four years in this House I can look at my people and they will say to me, "Well done thou good and faithful servant", and they will also say to me, "You have been faithful over the little things over the last four years; now we will reward you for the next four years". However, Sir, I am afraid that there are many of us who will have. "Depart from me, I know you not". This will be said by the people of this country unless we give them the form of representation which they deserve. No Member of this House have ever been elected. It was the people of this country who elected to put us here. We have elected Members of this Parliament have been elected that is for us to join together in supporting the Government there.

We I said a few days ago I will support what I think is right. I have heard remarks such as "intimidation". I have heard remarks such as "Dictatorship". I ignore these remarks because as many Members think. I am not easily intimidated. I do not see other Members of the House who will intimidate me. I am not afraid of them so I pay no attention to those people and remarks remarks. My only intimidation comes from the people ... ... only Member of this House. What I want to tell the House, Sir, is a situation where the Members of the Back Bench, from time of a better term, can approach the Government Members and expect to get a sympathetic and honest answer to their problems.

MR. LEWIS A. SPANO (CONSTITUENT): Sir, I must admit that I have found it very easy to work with the members of the Government bench. So far, Sir, some of the promises which I made to my people in my constituency have already been realised. I must give thanks where thanks are deserved. Some of this came about through the co-operation of the Members of the Government bench. Of course, perhaps, I am inclined a bit in that two of the three Members for George Town are Members of Executive Council. So they have a vested interest in seeing that some of my promises are fulfilled because we stand for parties with the same ideas.

Mr. Speaker, remarks were made shortly after the election that I would be put to cold storage because I did not give allegiance to any particular party. Mr. Speaker, I see my position as that of representing my country in general, Sir, and the George Town constituency in particular. However, I also owe my allegiance to the Members of the Government Bench that I would give them my full support. But I must again make it abundantly clear that my full support will only come if the matters which I am supporting are matters I feel I can live with; matters which I feel are in the best interests of this country. This is why, Sir, I reluctantly oppose the Income Bill, because I did not feel that these Bills were in the best interests of this country.

I know the reason for these Bills was to put the people of this country. However I also feel, Sir, that there are many other ways of getting income instead of increasing the liabilities of the public people in this country. Let nobody fool you, there are a lot of little people in this country. We like right small a beautiful and high standard of living, but I asked a question this morning. Who are the beneficiaries of such a high standard of living? I meet a lot of people, as a matter of fact, Sir, I have opened the doors of my office to my people in George Town. My number is listed. My people can call me at any hour of the night. I have not yet been reviewed enough to get an office in the Lower Building but then, Sir, this to me is not important at this point, because I have opened the doors of my office to the people. They know that any time they want to see me they can see me.

I was amazed to know, Sir, that remarks were made that some of the Members from other constituencies do not see the people of their constituency. The only thing I can say, Sir, is that some constituencies are bigger than others. If there is a constituency with five people it is much easier for them to be able to meet their representative than it would be for 3,000 or 4,000.

We must also not lose sight of the fact, Sir, that unemployment constituencies people may be responsibly given. I have also, Sir, set aside one day a week when I do nothing else but see members of my constituency but this is in addition to seeing them as they come to see me. During this morning of how these I come out at 8.30 a.m. sometimes 8.15 a.m. At that I see many people, before I have to come home at 10.00 a.m. I also leave here and return to my office, where we do not leave here at 5.00 p.m., and I accept in the business of this office and see my people.

This is the most of Mr. Speaker that we must have our responsibilities. We do not need to go on the front page of the newspapers every week, Mr. to convince the public that we are doing our jobs. Our jobs should be done in the committees. This is where our contribution is needed, not

MR. LORENZO M. TAÑADA (Continuing): on the front page of our media, I would have hoped to have seen before you, Sir, a comprehensive economic policy for this country. I will not add duly my call to administration to appreciate the dimension of fundamental problem which could beset our little people. Before a strong indictment is rendered I want to make it abundantly clear that I do not support any form of direct intervention. However, I should also make it abundantly clear to those who may not know that there are other forms of rendering assistance other than we have been accustomed. I believe, Sir, that it would be in the best interests of this country if we seek to find out these forms of rendering assistance.

Secondly, Sir, we were dealing with twenty cents things; five cents on a chicken; ten cents increased to fifty cents on package war. We passed this situation twenty years ago. We are dwelling twenty years behind a sophisticated and mature industrial society. The people of this country are very wise people, Sir, as one always told this. People come here and say we are so nice. How long will this sentiment last on as a government sometimes to assuage the little people in this country, what happened to the question I asked here in September regarding the establishment of a commodity corporation before our people? I was told that this would be looked into by the Cabinet. Unfortunately, Mr. President, I cannot put a time frame on "the cabinet". How do I go back to my people and tell them that I will look after their problems in the cabinet. They will then accuse me to take it if I am still looking at these problems "in the cabinet".

Sincerely and, Mr. President, that the need to sell is armed with good intentions, Mr. President, within the scheme of our development we cannot and we must lose sight of the fact that we import our own country solely on good intentions, or some strictly on a business basis. We are working a Government and the Government takes into account not only the business aspects of the country, but also the social aspects.

While there is room to be sure in favour of the commercial business approach within our system, Sir, such an approach could tend to ignore the needs of those whom we who are desperately in need. I have heard a lot of people talk about the very high cost of living in this country. The inequity of the system, Sir, is that the same person which the little man on the I used him to pay in the supermarket is also employed in the mine who is getting perhaps $2,000 a week. But now, the system continues to expect stability which is the key to our future if we are going to constructively oppress the little people in this country.

Mr. President, I identify with the little people in this country. I appreciate the full constitutional responsibilities of the race, religious background, financial involvement or whatever of the people. However, I think, Sir, that we cannot lose sight of the fact that there is a major problem in our social and environmental structure in this country. Many of us like to say that there are no problems in this country. There are no serious problems, there are no social problems. Who are we kidding? This is a lot of nonsense, Sir. There are a lot of problems in this country, Sir, and we know about it. Let us be honest and call a spade a spade. We have a lot of problems in this country and it is time that we pull our heads out of the sand like the ostrich, and recognise these problems and do something about it before they develop as some of our neighbouring Commonwealth nations. We want to continue to live in peace and prosperity, but this will only be possible if we have a determined effort to keep it that way.

MR. LEONARD A. STEVENS (CONSTITUENCY): Mr. Speaker, this country, this Government, all Governments should have a certain level of humanity. In other words, they should have a heart. This country has only to speak for all of us when we appreciate and consider the problem of the little people. I have been privately, Sir, as I said yesterday of having a physician of the little people, but I take this as a commitment, because somebody has got to be the champion of the little people. Whatever we want to refer to them as the little people or not they are most important in the present and future development of this country, because it is the majority of the people in this country who are outside the economic input this country will take in the future.

One of the problems, Sir, that the Jamaican economy is what it is today is because of the changes brought about by the little people under their responsible or guiding. Under any democratic system the little people will ascertain to decide on those issues and on those matters. So if we foolishly push our hands under the bomb, Sir, we have only ourselves to blame. Her majesty's Canadian Queen Elizabeth, Sir, is one of the richest in the world today, richest than the Caribbean. This is a fact of life. Our society knows from what? Eighty per cent of the wealth in this country is owned by a small minority, so when you point to the income of this country a lot of the people who you say earn "x" income a month or a year is in reality a fallacy. This is not the case. What are we doing about the high cost of medical care in this country? Is there any comprehensive policy in the making to provide those who cannot pay their way?

I have heard a lot of people saying that when they go to the hospital, unless they have the money to put up front they are denied treatment. I know, Sir, that this system works for all people, but are there people where they are not getting assistance through the social Services Department? What are we doing to help our people aware of their rights in this country? There is a lot of discomfort in many areas of Government today. One of the greatest complaints I hope heard is perhaps about the hospital staff. Our own people are complaining that they are not being treated properly.

Why is it, Sir, that Canadians are not given the preference where they are qualified, to fill jobs? Where Canadians are available why are they not given the opportunities for training? Sometimes, Sir, when I go in the Government Ministries Building I feel that I am in London. Why do we not have more Canadians in some of these positions? I had a young lady who came to my constituency office. She has been told that her performance is not good and therefore are prepared to be kept in the job. What is going to happen to this young lady? From talking to the young lady she appears to be in the public employment and I believe, Sir, that I have the capability of helping one's shortcomings.

I have a lot of people, Sir, who have come to me complaining about the Immigration Department of this Government. Canadians seem to be treated like dirt. Why is this happening? I do not want to mislead here but may Canada for Canadians. I only would say it if I felt genuinely that Canadians would fill the positions. Sir, if one were to take a census now of the number of non-Canadians in jobs which could be filled by Canadians, it would be shocking, Mr. President, I am not for Nationalism in our economy and indeed in our society. I hope no racial tensions. The reason why I have no racial tensions, Mr. President, is that I see it as unhealthy. I see no need for having a hatchet. The only time I will feel it is if I regard

MR. GIBBONS: A. [illegible] the next man on having better than me. However, I do not have that sort of discretion and therefore there is no need for hesitancy. There are a lot of our people who are being squeezed though. In my conference I stated, and I wish to quote a short paragraph of it:

> "In our rapidly developing financial community it is not reasonable to suppose that we can produce in the short term the required number of lawyers, accountants, bankers and others locally with the necessary expertise to ensure the proper expansion and development of the industry."

I recognize that, Mr. President, and this is why it is a basic part of my manifesto which I intend to live up to over the next five years and the next four years. I believe that the key to successful long term development of the financial industry is interaction of the Caymanian professionals, not replacement of the expatriates. The term expatriate here is intended in its broadest sense to include all who are non-Caymanians regardless of ethnic or national origin. So before anybody leaves these premises and gets the impression that I am saying Cayman for Caymanians, let him first again. Let him realize me properly. What I am saying is that positions which Caymanians can profitably fill should have the first option and the first chance given to them of getting those positions.

Mr. President, I have often heard [illegible] in Cayman in this and in the Legislature. This worries me, Mr. President, because these people who are shouting loudness know nothing about the history of this country. The basic foundation of this country, Mr. President, was built on the industry and hard work of Caymanians. It was the Watlers, Bulls, Ebanks, Eldemires, Boddens, Parsons and others who built the foundations of this country. We would not have a financial offshore operation today or a vibrant tourism operation if it had not been for the foundations laid by our forefathers. With the limited education of many of our people, Mr. President, they were able to take those chances and stand by themselves who had the opportunity of college and university education. Today some of those people are amongst the greatest bankers and tourism engineers in the world, with unlimited ability to become master engineers of unlimited tonnage.

Mr. President, I would ask that people resident in this country who are visiting here and those very little about the history of this country please refrain from coming to Cayman for two and four days and then [illegible]. Anybody coming to this country who does not like the way of life in this country should leave. When you go to Rome you do as the Romans do. I am not suggesting, Mr. that we cannot learn from those people here, because we have learnt a lot. Most of the people from these shores and coasts when they are on a maintenance basis are surprised by expatriates. I am happy to see this happen. I believe in progression and I believe that we can learn a lot from them, however, I want them to desist in referring to Caymanians as lazy and not enthusiastic.

Mr. President, it takes for us to live in peace and harmony in this country as much progressive and to make investments that exist in my estimation in this country today would not have been possible if it had not been for the foundations laid by our forefathers. We tell the visitors coming here that the Cayman Islands are the most stable country in the world. [illegible] Mr. President, or how it built over a number of years by our forefathers?

MR. CLIFFORD A. PIERCE ROCKEFELLER: We hear people speaking here today, the people saw no jurisdiction, they are silent, and this is what some about? I say no, Mr. President.

Mr. President, I intend to be talking for a much longer period and I know that this is the worst time for a break. I do not know if you might not to stop at this point?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think we should go on for another ten minutes or quarter of an hour. If you will still be comfortable then after that we will take the break.

MR. CLIFFORD A. PIERCE: Mr. President, I notice an impression on the debate of the Charge Report of this country, a picture which arises as a witness of the political determinism for this country, and a notion an impression to the Budget Address must be given all-political time to be addressed. I would be grateful and it would be an benefit to the people who did such a wonderful job for me to please give some of their comments.

Mr. President, still on the question of this country, I said in my manifesto that Ghana were certain tenets of democracy which I believe in. Those tenets of democracy I am happy to say, are very evident in our society; existence of the basic human rights and freedom including freedom of religion, speech and the press, freedom of the courts and also might be have the basic necessities of life provided.

Mr. President, I think I am well enough aware of the attitudes which exist in the world today and I also think, Sir, that within my system we have to have the checks and the balances, all I am asking here, Sir, is to bring to the attention of this Honourable House that the gap between the rich and the underdeveloped is widening. So we all talk, Mr. President, and the beautiful country go into ruin. I have nowhere else to go and many of my people have nowhere else to go. Therefore on what precedence that we have.

Mr. President, I unanimously supported the Emergency Powers which are used by many of the people who happen to hold them. We are going to put some of our people out of the enjoyment of their society, Mr. Vice-Chairman, and this would not in the case of only a little punishment but imprisonment had been imposed. Mr. President, with a bit more understanding many of the problems facing our people today could be effectively addressed. We heard about the Ogoni Petroleum not minding all the pollution on the environment with the recognition that it is on the Ogoni Islands today I hear that the situation still exist wrong, not out of hand, Mr. President, but out of necessity.

We need to ventilate this economy, Mr. President. We know to stimulate this economy in encouraging investors to come here, not by discouraging them by increasing them with those petty taxes and import duties which affect them directly. When I see any member here, Mr. President, I want to be in house that is in my opinion and does not necessarily reflect the opinion of others in this House.

Mr. President, I see the major function of any Government as that of encouragement to make it easy for the people of the country to do this. It is not for them to do it. So until we have a responsive and accountable set of legislators we do have today under the Fourth Planning Law. How can the people of this country ever still survive such a repressive piece of legislation. On one hand, Mr. President, our Executive Council are the ones to open up the West for some to come in with the sundry to get whatever advantage of Ghana they want; they can do all, the Ogoni

MR. LEMMON A. PIERCY (continued): If you cannot afford it... Unfortunately, Mr. President, all people cannot afford it. The people around Nampa have asked without fail, the people who use the little restaurants around town seem to be on the busy main beach, because it is packed out of their ears. And so protecting the interests of our little people, Mr. President, since we do that, why should not such an economic decision be brought before this House? I know, Mr. President, that anyhow, so as much the negotiations is done by the Governor-in-Council, but I feel that a matter as important as this should have been brought to this House the same way that we will be bringing the Liquor Monopoly Bill forward to this House.

We are seeking, Sir, to make certain changes which will make life better for the people in this country and I know, Sir, that there are going to be a number of Members who will not support these changes. However, when the division is not on 1958, you can bet that I am going to live by my convictions, I might not agree to one on 1959 anyway.

Mr. President, we have to have legislation in this country which is just for all our people, we cannot be catering to any special interests because we cannot be listening to any particular section of our society. We have to look at the interests of all the people of the Province. In particular, Sir, we seem to antagonize ourselves many time we turn around. I think of the establishment, Sir, in Grand Falls, a tremendous establishment; one which employs over a million dollars if not more. But the operation of this establishment is being changed of course having still to meet the capital and investment expenditure under this Liquor Monopoly because we have a lot of people who went to tremendous personal expense of borrowing money to erect themselves.

So this more difficult, it seems middle-class, Mr. President, that that same establishment can get a number of necessary licences as long as he runs it in the interest. What are we dealing with, Mr. President? Is this a joke? If it is wrong it is wrong. What happened to the majority to the money coming from the sale of liquor in this establishment? I wonder, Sir, if any member of the church, maybe the Protestant, necessarily might object where the money was coming from when he was getting an opening?

We accept all grants, Mr. Canal - Mr. President, but we realize overall, Mr. President, that one may want to be necessary because everybody knows that you are a wonderful President. You could assume to be referred to as a canal.

MR. PRESIDENT: Now sit a good I know, Lemmon!

MR. LEMMON A. PIERCY: Mr. President, a little humour is a good thing because I do not want my fellow politicians to get too serious. I just want them to relax and listen to some good common sense.

Mr. President, shortly we will be dealing with some very important pieces of legislation and I repeat, Sir, that we are going to let our conscience be our guide. We are going to think of the interests of people in Churchill's government, of people in Bonavista's government, of people in the Straits Shore government. I could think of a number of places. I know of Fogo area, Mr. President, when up to twenty people have entered their establishments for food, and when they were told there that they could not get more a glass of wine they walked out and went right across the street to a place which was much nearer to the church.

MR. SPEAKER (PRESIDENT): Because that place was in operation before the coming into effect of the Liquor Licensing Act it is still given the opportunity to get licences every year. Mr. President, I mentioned earlier that a system is a proven system, for most of the time the Liquor Licensing Act creates what you must comply. It does not say that there will be an automatic renewal. A reapplication is a reapplication. You cannot say that because that establishment had a licence somehow you are entitled automatically get a renewal. If we are going to be looking at the various effects that has we must keep that in the mind.

Mr. Speaker, we must take a very close look at the adverse effects such a system of backlog on the courts. As I said earlier, Sir, without wanting to be repetitive any good Government will have to make this work for the people. It will not make it acceptable for them to go until. Mr. President, I notice how are....

MR. DEPUTY: I did not want to interrupt you on the matter of a witness but I was getting worry to take evidence of some another after to mentioned personalities. If that is acceptable I will do this now. If you are finishing....

MR. SPEAKER: Very well, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: Then in this case I will suspend proceedings until approximately 11.55 a.m.

I would like to move Number 1 of the Order Paper which requires my going which requires that I leave the Chamber for the purpose of the Chief Official Number of Executive Council to preside over the proceedings after this short break until 11.55 a.m.

At 11.35 a.m. the House suspended

SPEECH DELIVERED BY [illegible]

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.

Proceedings are resumed. I would invite the Second Elected Member for George Town to continue his debate on the Throne Speech and Budget Address.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. Speaker, before taking the break I was dealing with some of the mental ills in this country. What last night listening to the radio, Sir, I got some very disturbing news indeed which I am sure many of us heard. It was that one of the females institutes in the North of us, Turks and Caicos, the Chief Minister of that country and others were involved in certain drug related charges. Mr. President, I am wondering, Sir, whether before the Honourable Second Official Member takes to get your attention if we should not take note, Sir, that we.... There is no necessity for the Member to get up. I will not be expending that energy. So one sees how breath,...do not make a grave mistake if we do not attempt to ensure the detection system which may exist once there is not allowed to creep into our society.

I believe, Sir, that what I have said in public knowledge because it was broadcast on the radio last night so I do not think that I am out of order for saying it here.

Mr. President, a part of my manifesto dealt with the mental services in the Cayman Islands. One of the points in my manifesto stated that I would support a system within our social services responsibly designed to alleviate the difficulties of the less fortunate thinking the mentally wrecked areas of the society. I believe that it is necessary to ensure an endeavour by Government to provide better housing facilities for those individuals normally in need of such a system.

Mr. President, I have been responsible in my discussions with the people, not only in my constituency but also from other communities in the Cayman Islands that housing is a major problem. While very recently before coming to this Honourable House a lady came to see for advice and also some assistance with her rent. This lady can ill afford some of the high rental charges being charged. Mr. President, that lady was fortunate because she had a place to live in. She could at least afford some of the rent. The situation which I have experienced with some of the people is that many of them are unable to meet any element of the cost of rental. What can we do today, Mr. President, to assist those people before it is too late, not only in the social structure of this country but also for the peaceful future development of this country? A prosperous Cayman Islands, Mr. President, will largely depend on the consideration and interest we give and place on all our Caymanians regardless of wealth, ethnic or social background. This is another section of my manifesto.

This country should be good for all and I will therefore support any efforts designed to enhance the financial and economic well-being of all our people, bearing in mind that such reward will depend on the appropriate individual effort. What I am saying, Mr. Speaker, is that I do not believe

MR. TIMOTHY A. STEARNS (CONTINUED): In many ways, I believe that our people should be given the opportunity to live in this society. I do not want to see a welfare system in this country but we must build such a situation only if we become a little bit more responsible to the needs of our people, particularly the needs of our people.

I believe, Sir, that more attention must be given to combining the long programs by president for social needs in this country. Mr. President, if these cuts are implemented we will inevitably encounter some economic problems in social disturbance.

Mr. President, the circumstances in this country is becoming major programmers and we cannot ignore the fact that it is having a very damaging effect, not only on the lives and conditions of the people in this country, but also on its security as a whole. All these individuals who are getting discouraged by drugs and other illegal acts are enemies of society. In the middle to late seventies many of our people were involved in a level of living, to an affluence not before seen in this country. And these people are becoming accustomed to which they became accustomed to and they are finding it very, very difficult indeed to adjust. This is one of the major problems why they resort to establishments which engage in illegal means. What is our social services department doing to identify some of the establishments which exist in this community? How we trying to get these social problems in these areas or is we continue to neglect our duty? I to look after them?

We have a report and an effect and we are only dealing with the effects, Mr. President. It is all well and good for us to say that we will spend our just to take care of the trouble instead, but our greatest concern, Mr. President, should be to prevent any more of our young people going into jail.

Mr. President, a major section, a major area of my manifesto deals with prison conditions and the upgrading of the person's conditions. I said in my manifesto that I should endeavour to improve our prison conditions, and ensure that proper rehabilitation programmes are provided for people to enable them to fit into society on their release from prison. More attention must be given to re-establishing the families to help to prepare them to cope with some of the many social problems which they encounter. There is no doubt in the Cayman Islands which can stem directly from the evils of the society. Four children and my children can be victims of the society.

Mr. President, last Thursday I had the unhappy experience of visiting Her Majesty's Prison. I was very unhappy because I entered the prison because I was invited the Warden of the prison as known before and if it was not for the grace of God many of us would be there today. However, Mr. President, somehow we have not realized up to those people who we have them to put. This when they come back into society to create them like first new-citizens, Mr. President, that they have paid their debt to society. Therefore, Sir, that provision to bring back in this budget for the extension of certain prison facilities. In fact I will personally be asking, if it is not there already. That provision be allowed, but I believe it is in front in the budget.

Mr. President, we need a proper rehabilitation programme for our prisoners. We do not want a situation, Sir, where as soon as they are released back into society they find themselves back in prison. We want to know,

MR. LEROSS A. PIERRE (Interpreter): Sir, that compels such gratitude to the opportunity for those who are being granted to reform themselves. This can be done only through a proper rehabilitation system. In my visits to the prison I had the opportunity to talk with the Director of Prison Services, a man for whom I have a lot of respect; a man who is experienced through many years. Also, Mr. President, both hands are answered when for lack of facilities. The space provided for combatting disease for some of the prisoners has had to be used for the prison officers when the prison was built in Bonabeng. I think there are the provisions including lavatories when I visited there. Mr. President, people are crying out for help in that prison. There are people who have been kept on remand for up to four months and over. Because of the inefficiency of Government. I do not want to prove this, I am saying this before I am challenged. However, I think I have made my point. People before me on remand should be given as prompt a trial as possible. Why should they have to rot in prison for four or five months without the privileges and human rights of being heard.

In this democratic society, Mr. President, and in any enlightened society a man is innocent until he is proven guilty. When we allow him to be prejudiced, why, for us to four months before we can be heard then we are sentencing it. So are punishing him and punishing him guilty before he has had the chance of being heard. This is the most kyllnal case if it is not dismissed. It is the most effect, Mr. President.

This is one of the reasons, Mr. President, I have said a lot of attempts to the Judicial committee in this country. Not only in the penalties in the Courts such are which I represent, the problems exist in West Bay, Bobbie Town, Secret Side, East End and Cayman Brac, whatever. We have these problems, Mr. President. What can we think to address this? We have the Magistrates side taken to prestige in this country, but the understanding which I have of the situation is that they are reluctant to the thing of costly and that money is sufficient a Stipendiary officer to cope with this problem. To we place the problem aside and hope that it will disappear? If we did not recognise, Mr. President, would we pretend that it is not there until it declares war? I submit, Mr. President, that this Legislature problem is like a cancer in our society. Are we going to ignore the problem? Is this problem, Mr. President, and all the other individuals of problems which are affecting our youth today - regardless of our ignorance that there is a problem? Is it a result of our unwillingness to the problem?

Mr. President, I intend to use my privilege of this House to put forward a Private Member's Motion for the establishment of a youth centre in the Sister Town area. Without pre-empting the Members on this matter I would hope that they will see it in their hearts to support such a worthy motion.

Mr. President, I have my talk of George Town with some authority because I know the problems in George Town. However, my motion will not seek to pinpoint that there is not a problem in other areas of the Cayman Islands, and I hope that in the situation will be given to all these areas. Mr. President, as Members have sight of the fact that the George Town District in the largest district in the Cayman Islands and we have a higher percentage of the problems within the George Town district. We Magistrates will have to travel overseas. My experience has been in the past, Mr. President, that when we try to deal with a problem in the general a purpose it end up not doing anything. It is all well and good for us to separate

MR. LORNE A. GREEN (CONTINUING): ... what the white colour female is looked into, but I say, Mr. President, that it is incumbent and imperative that the people in the House from time to time given urgent attention. We have many people, Mr. President, anti-social people which are causing tremendous problems in the Georgetown and Stanley and I would rephrase it actually that's gonna run into problems. I would further just, Mr. President, that they are victims of a society which has ignored them right from the cradle.

Mr. President, when we consider the future of this country and we measure it in terms of a few thousand dollars. If this country is developed [illegible] then we are wasting our time. If a country is judged in only terms of this country and it measures the determination where would our economy go from there? We have a very fragile economy, Mr. President, an economy which is based primarily on the existence and the continued stability of our country. Stability is the key to our future, Mr. President, and if we allow this stability to erode, if we allow an invasion of this stability we will find the Cayman Islands gradually.

Mr. Speaker, as I was concluding in basically that the Cayman Islands is the only place which investors can go to. We are so lucky.

Mr. President, on Monday night I was fortunate to have dinner with a big developer in this country, a man who has spent millions of dollars here. One of the complaints which he made was that he cannot take his wife on their friends by way of our night since [illegible] the [illegible] are making a great. Why is this happening, Mr. President? I have very [illegible] that this happens. Why do we continue to ignore this problem? The way we handle it is that we do not go there, but we know it is our [illegible] coming here to [illegible]. One man observed [illegible] said to me that this [illegible] after the [illegible] area. We have the mentality building up in most of the young men [illegible] Caymanians should [illegible] and go overseas the beach where believing that the women are brought down here for their purposes. Much to [illegible] of our sons of the land they are [illegible] with their husbands or boy friend at the weekend.

Why is this problem occurring? Why have the problem not been addressed? Do we actually blame the young men who do this on the beach? Maybe if those nine young men were treated more favorably to a satisfactory and meaningful manner they would not find it necessary to go on the beach. These young men, as I understand it, do not take out [illegible] on [illegible] problems. But regardless of the seriousness it does not it still will use resources in this country unless something is done about it.

Mr. President, I hope my fellow Members in this House will support such a motion which would seek to establish a youth centre in George Town. Going back to the list of everything which is happening today, whether we agree or believe it or not. We have the community centre in South Sound just to suggest that the people in certain [illegible] this, I think would be [illegible]. Of course they could use it but we have to consider the practicality of the situation. We must be aware, Mr. President, where the greatest needs exist. We can often see the problem as some to us, Mr. President, instead of people to the problem. This is possibly one of the biggest problems today in our society. This is why even the churches have been [illegible] to the problem. They are no longer giving [illegible] the problem still come to them and be solved. [illegible] people like the

MR. HAROLD A. WILLIAMS (CONTINUING): Much has changed and others which are going into the areas which are the biggest problem areas in the country. They are trying to help.

Mr. President, I have also spoken to some of the developers in this country and got very positive responses with regard to candidates with the philosophy of such a venture. As I said, Sir, I feel that these developments, if they are properly approached, will create jobs across the country I hope, Sir, that the idea will not be taken disadvantage of in the electoral district. You should not have it.

Mr. President, while we need private participation and while I feel that it is highly unacceptable that we get private participation, I feel, Sir, that Government must take the lead in many of these areas. We cannot allow ourselves to be led all the time as one recalcitrant Member said yesterday. We cannot allow the lead to stop the day.

It is a pity, Mr. President, that we were forced to debate the Throne Speech and the budget address together. But I think this was the system used in past years. The reason I say it is a pity, Mr. President, is that there were many good ideas mooted by the Government in the Throne Speech. I would, Mr. President, that it pains me to have to split hairs and differentiate to debate those two important speeches separately. However, I will nevertheless plunge in and attempt to offer some ideas while I feel requires very urgent attention.

I was pleased to note the statement made in the Throne Speech regarding the peaceful and efficient manner in which the General Election was conducted. I feel, Sir, that much credit must be given to the people of this country for the way in which they conducted themselves. The multi-party system is very different and it was new for the very efficient manner in which one of our Magistrates, the Supervisor of Elections, Mr. Sammy Gupta conducted the whole election process. I think Sir, that he should be commended for a job well done. If I had it in my power I would give him the OBE because I think he deserves it.

Mr. President, my experience of the election and that it was the most efficient and well organised election I had seen in this country. I speak not only as a victim of the Laisenia Qarase as a person who served as Returning Officer in various elections. I was thoroughly impressed to learn that it is the intention of Members of this House to have some somebody added to our voting roll. It has come to my attention, Mr. President, that the reason for this is that several Members have a little upset that I had so many "nos" voted. What can I say, Mr. President, if my people come to give me one vote? Do you expect me to tell them no?

Mr. President, I feel, Sir, that if we are going to make any changes in our electoral law we should come about, and only some minor, but an important piece of legislation, very urgently considered, we can talk about providing electoral districts also overseas. We can talk about all this. I have been heard talk about internal self-Government and Independence for this country, but because of the things we failed because we could not, I will have more to say about this, Mr. President, when this matter is brought to this House.

MR. EDWARD A. DURKIN (CONTINUING): I do not want to overemphasize what I may say then. The point I want to make here, Mr. President, is that I think we had a very difficult political election and I feel, Sir, that when we decide to make any changes they should be in the best interests of this country as a whole and of any individual ethnical group, and they should be made in the total interest of this country, not from political motives. The people of this country voted on 1968 Democrats as they felt the Democrats to vote. They endorsed those Democrats. They nominated those who they wanted to represent them over the next four years. Why are we questioning what they did? We are here to represent the people. It is not for us to question whether they did right or wrong. We must give them the credit that they are very sensible people and they knew what they were doing. When we suggest to them that they should not vote for this man or that man because we do not like it, we are depriving them of their democratic rights.

Mr. President, until I got here I feel that a number of these votes were from a cross section of this political district. When I consider myself as a representative in the George Lane election I consider myself as a representative for all the residents of this district, be they white, black, pink, yellow, purple. It does not matter to me whatever I do not see racial barriers. Whether or not I will like somebody voted for me it would not matter. My duties are upon every one to those who may have opposed me personally I hope that I may be in a position to counsel them. Many of us make mistakes, Mr. President, and I am sure that many of those who may not have voted for me have already realized their mistakes.

Mr. President, we are here to represent the people and this is the point I am making. We are here to represent the people regardless of their political backgrounds. We must stop saying that, "Because you voted for me I am going to help you or because", or "because you voted for me I am going to help you in this or that", but "If you did not vote for me God help you, I am going to squeeze the life out of you". That is wrong Mr. President. We cannot have this in our society.

Mr. President, again I congratulate the Representative of Rhodesia. As we say many times before, I enjoy when I have the pleasure and privilege to work on different occasions. Mr. President, we have just been given the ability to deal with the Executive Law. I see no reason for any recess at this stage.

Mr. President, regardless of our personalities we should consider them . The Administration, out of many our people. Mr. President, we have a lot to protect. We have got to, the object of mutually in this country where we want to make sure that anything which comes to us for consideration into groups and actions; anything, Mr. President, which could cause us to create hostilities or groups where we find that this group belongs to this certain individual and another group is for another individual. We have been unfortunately about this, and it seems to be unlikely to encourage it. I want to see a situation in this country where cooperation and information exists with those in power and harmony. I want to see a situation in this country where there will have an harmony. We pass and the rest with life in harmony.

We have got to be careful not to fractionize a segmented attitude such as we have in South Africa or Rhodesia, or wherever. We have got to be careful not to introduce an apartheid system in this country. It will only destroy us. We have too many important things to think about,

MR. CLIFFORD A. PIERCE (CONTINUED): Mr. President, I share wholeheartedly concern with our legislation. Mr. President, we are moving into a period when more than ever our country needs efficient and sound policies. Right now, Mr. President, we should be considering a comprehensive energy policy for this country. We should be considering a comprehensive economic policy for this country. Mr. President, our energy and efforts should be ranked ahead this. Very much consideration has been given to the possibility of improving our present Treasury Bonds. And such consideration, Mr. President, has been given in order to establish a mechanism just for this country.

Many of us, Mr. President, may very initially that we are not supportive of such an idea. However I ask the question, Mr. President, how many of us understand what it entails? Before I look at a number and say that I do not agree with it I would try to understand what it is all about. Mr. President, I should not suggest here that I have the answer to all these problems. I would however suggest that I have some of the answers and I trust, Mr. President, that members of this side of the issue will indeed be given the opportunity to look into some of these areas.

I feel, Mr. that the opportunity should be given for certain flexibility exists to be examined and to determine the viability of some of these matters. It is very fine one to say that it cannot be done. If the Members had taken this attitude where would we be today?

Mr. President, I believe that we must explore many avenues. We cannot overlook to meet what options which are acceptable to the interests of the majority of the people. We cannot continue to actively only the views from the standpoint of the minority when it was the majority of the people who put us in this House.

Mr President, I would like to think that I am associated with forthcoming and Members who will deal with matters with an open mind. I would like to see an innovative approach taken with regards to the future development of this country. We have examined the materials, Mr. President, when we have given looking at the country's options in a mature and sophisticated manner. We cannot continue to have this country ruled by Hoopla arguments. We cannot have special interests groups in this country, running in the show and tell. We cannot have certain people in this country only to have it run as if it was their private business. Mr. President, on a world scenario, I do not think that this will be possible however. I have a lot of confidence in the Senate Members of Economic Council and the Honorable Official Leader. I also have a lot of confidence in the Members on the other side of this Honorable Chamber, Mr. President, in good faith and the Second Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. President, my point is to have well enough alone, but on the more time for us not stagnate in our individuals. But we realize that the only way this country can be good for us is if we endeavour to make it good for all the people of the Cayman Islands.

Mr President, in summation, Sir, it is incumbent on this House that they scrutinize the effects of these changes both positive and adverse, and do a benefit analysis to determine which outweighs the other. We cannot make changes for changes' sake.

Mr. President, I was very pleased indeed to hear from the Honorable Minister with major emphasis to being pleased at the establishment of locally based pensions for Civil Servants. Too often I hear with Civil Servants and that they

MR. LAWRENCE A. STEPHENS (CONTINUED): Services to the Government. I have this when I was first employed in 1953 and thereafter my interest grew in the Civil Service. When I left as the Principal Secretary for Higher Education and Social Services I was still learning this. I know the problems which the Civil Servants are faced with. I feel that much more must be done to retain our own people. I am very proud when I visit Ayrshire and I see some of the local Councillors, and I am not saying local Councillors is a derogatory manner because I think it is generally accepted that we have lost Bryce of Cunninghame and I have that gift. But when I say local Councillors, Mr. President, I mean Councillors here here. I want to see more of them getting their work done efficiently such as our very efficient Clerk of this House; such as our very efficient Financial Secretary and many other Councillors. However, Mr. President, I also want to know that Councillors are not pushed up the garden path because they are Councillors.

Mr. President, the whole emphasis is that our people be given the amount of training which they are capable of handling. Train our people to get these privileges, I am happy to see that this problem is encompassed and that you, Mr. President, in the Throne Speech have given consideration to the needs of having this done. Mr. President, I notice that it is getting close to 12.45 p.m. I do not know whether you would like to break at this time.

MR. SPEAKER: Yes, I think this might be a convenient time for us to break now. It is my wish that we break at about this time. So I will suspend proceedings and we will resume at 2.15 p.m.

AT 12.45 P.M. THE HOUSE ADJOURNED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2.30 P.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.
Apologies are received.
Continuation of the debate on the Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill. The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LAWRENCE A. STEPHENS: Mr. Speaker, at the break for lunch I was at the point in your Throne Speech where you said that major emphasis is being placed on the development of locally based courses for Civil Servants, and I applauded that as a very good move indeed.

You also said, Sir, that participation Government would be placed on middle management and I see this as an extremely good move in the development of this country. However, Mr. Speaker, I think that we have reached the stage in our training/development when we must also look into the areas of training for

MR. ERVIN. Mr. Chairman, I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Arends, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Michigan, Mr. Ford, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Ohio, Mr. Bell, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Bray, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Springer, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Mikva, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Collins, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Pucinski, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Rostenkowski, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Yates, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Annunzio, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Reid, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Derwinski, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Michel, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Railsback, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Anderson, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. McClory, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Erlenborn, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Hyde, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Madigan, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Shipley, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Simon, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Findley, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Price, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Gray, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Russo, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Crane, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Fithian, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Hall, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Mann, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Shumway, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Leggett, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Mitchell, and I am very much pleased to hear the statement of the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Whitehurst

MR. LAWRENCE A. FERRARO (CONTINUED): I am totally opposed, Sir, to any move in this House which would tend to look like discrimination. I am not going to be a party to any legislation or amendment brought before this House which would seem to be a discriminatory move. I am totally in favour of a comprehensive insurance scheme. We need a general scheme. We need a contributory pension scheme. However, Sir, I do feel that the uniqueness of this country must first be taken into account, but at the same time, Sir, I do not feel that it is right for us as a Government to indiscriminately shelve what was done by previous Governments.

I feel, Sir, that it is time that we as a country re-examined what previous Governments of this country, regardless of how far back this extends, have done a good job, our job here is to build on the good things and improve the bad things. How many Governments, Sir, are guilty of removing the landmarks and things done by previous Governments, but I would hope that this Government of which I am a part will also think carefully and not get involved in such petty issues. I feel confident, Sir, that the politicians we have in this Assembly, the fellow Members of this Assembly will indeed behave more responsibly.

As I said this morning, Sir, the major emphasis should be placed on the future development of this country. This is one of the reasons, Sir, why I asked a question in the House yesterday concerning the financial position of this country. The Governor in his wisdom decided part of that question and he was perfectly right because I made that the matter should be put to rest. However I think, Sir, that I must thank the Minister for Finance that the matter of the question of the financial position of this country at the 31st December, 1984, will now be put to rest. I hope, Sir, that we will decide from performing good services on the part of the past Governments, unless there are things that are going to be in the best interests of this country, unless like the referendum we can leave matters of importance the longevity of the human race.

Mr. President, one of our Members, the Only Member in this House is on a course in the United Kingdom and I am very happy that it was possible for him to now, unfortunately I feel Sir, that every opportunity should be taken and given to Members of the Upper Legislative Assembly to express themselves as well as will be a Legislative Assembly second to none in the world. I believe, Sir, that this is possible because we have the infrastructure and we have the enthusiastic personalities and this position.

All we as Caymanians have ever needed, Sir, was the opportunity. We are with our own system one million in the world. All we need is the opportunity. This is why, Mr. President, I support so strongly your view point to create our Civil Service, and I hope that the private sector will take cognizance of what you have done and will follow in the same path.

Mr. President, this morning I made brief mention of the need for the Caymanian public, inside and outside Government, to do all in their power to build the Cayman Islands for the good of one and all. This is why, Sir, I look to mention some of the good work which has been done by some of the social and voluntary clubs around these Islands. I can think of clubs such as the Rotary Club, Kiwanis, to name just some of the smaller clubs which have given so much good work. I feel, Sir, that it is important that they be given some recognition by

MR. SPEAKER A. SIENKOW (CONTINUING): ...Government. I speak especially, Sir, of the nice and beautification scheme which was instrumental in beautifying this country for the visit of Her Majesty the Queen. Today we see the results of that hard work of this committee when we drive along the road to the airport. I would hope, Sir, that this Government will support such a good committee by providing a small sum in the budget. I happen to know, Sir, that the Lepers Clinic up and beautification committee has a number of plans for further beautification projects, but these can only become a reality, can only be possible if sufficient funds are available. Most of the funds to date have been collected from members and shareholders in the private sector. I am happy to see here, Sir, that credit must be given to the Local Government for their donation to this Committee. I think the sum was something like $2,500 to $3,000. I would stand here also, Sir, that this money was well spent.

As a people of Tahanda, Sir, as a country we are not as blessed as many of our neighbouring Caribbean Islands which respect to the unique beauty which some of these Islands possess. They again, Sir, as some claimed with some of the best people in the world. So we also have our problem when it comes to endeavours to keep our Islands clean and beautiful. When one looks at the Ocean's Office surrounds and sees the beautiful flowers blooming there one should also realise, Sir, that these did not just come about, it was the determined effort of a group of dedicated people who used a lot of energetic and non-energetic time to secure an their assistance. I hope responsible funds to support this committee and I hope, Sir, that this will be forthcoming.

In view of the other areas of my manifesto I spoke on the need for adequate sums for the next few road. Again the Local Government must be congratulated on their efforts to do this. I am one who believes in giving credit where credit is due, but then we must live in the real. Also we are in the present and we have to look towards the future. I sincerely hope, Sir, that the projects which was started will be completed. As often, Sir, in driving along the West Bay Road, and indeed in walking along the West Bay Road I see concrete splashed by cars. I see them having to jump from pavement to street and I strongly, Sir, feel the introduction of pedestrian use a major step forward in the interest we place on the welfare and visit these Islands.

Mr. Speaker, one of the major issues raised in my manifesto was the improvement of the pedestrian roads around the George Town Hospital, but in general of the pedestrian roads in the Cayman Islands. The reason for this, Sir, is that these areas were badly neglected. I am happy to support, Sir, that already this year there are considerable improvements. As I promised my people during the election campaign I will continue to raise these issues on any issue which I deem in the interests of my people until I see action taken.

Mr. Speaker, you also mentioned in your Throne Speech that the most significant achievement in the last twelve months was the passing of the Companies Ordinance Law. I could not agree more, Sir, and while I can appreciate the delay in bringing this Law into operation due to certain matters to do with the seriousness and lengthy, I would, Sir, that this will be brought into operation in the very near future. Because under the present Companies Ordinance Law we have a set of legislation which is useless to our people. I think it is ridiculous, Sir, when we have some one hundreds of Companies who come into and cannot get a job because they cannot get a work permit in their own country. I would like to see more

MR. LUBEROW A. PARKER (CONTINUED): would interpose one of those days if this section of the Legislature could be established. As I said, Mike, a good Congressman is one which ensures that the voters legislation which can enable the people to do what is right.

Mr. President, I have had the privilege of foreign mates come to my office, Diplomatic ladies, crying about the situation which they are faced with. They marry Americans, Americans, Chinese or Chinese and come here, and their husbands are given the opportunity to stay on the Islands. Their husbands cannot work. Is this in the best interests of this country and our people?

If the case were, Mr. President, if a male Caucasian married a female from Europe or Caucasian, she gains his status and can work in the Caucasian industry. This is a gross inequity, and I would hope that very soon this can be brought into effect and such practices will cease.

I am not prepared to continue to tell my people that that is the way it is when in fact I am convinced that this is the way it should not be. One often, Mr. President, our people apply for jobs in this country and the qualifications required are so high that they could not even dream of getting the job. The remark that this is done many times is because these jobs are already filled. In many cases our Caucasians apply for clerical jobs, lower management jobs and middle management jobs, and they are told that they do not have the experience. How in the world can we expect a person to have the necessary experience for a job unless somebody gives that person the opportunity to get the experience.

Mr. President, this is a serious situation. We must have more than a passing statement on this situation. We must ensure that our legislation and resolutions are there to produce the Caucasian quotas. Why call it a Caucasian Protection Law unless it is designed to protect our people? I hope our speakers refrain to do so on the Caucasian Protection Law. Maybe that is more appropriate. Mr. President, we have to take a workable approach to the needs of this country and serve its various needs.

This cannot be done after hours. We always have the situation of a rushed and crowded. Inevitably, Mr. President, we find ourselves dealing with the effects. So before it is too late we must try to find out the causes and I submit, Mr. President, that one of the basic problems with our system today occurs at the school levels. Mr. President, statistics show us that only 25 per cent of our school population will indeed get the full 12 years equivalent of Level 12 at the completion grade rate of a grade 6 or above. I ask you today, this, whether the 75 per cent who remain should be pushed aside and relegated to the menial of unnecessary subjects as it is in the school system today? This is a totally unfair manipulation because we are not all meant to be academics. Therefore, Sir, I feel that more emphasis should be placed on the vocational and technical side of our schools. It is not enough, Sir, to provide a fixed workbook style to suit some form of manual work after and then feel that is the answer to the problem. Why should we have to depend largely on many persons, carpenters, steel workers and others from outside? Why must we spend millions of money in a matter every year? Where private has become profitable, when in fact the marine life of this country is almost gone? Why do we not become more practical to the needs of this country? A vocational and technical school should be built in this country. And I would hope, Sir, that this Government would please this as a top priority.

MR. LAWRENCE A. PEZZATI (CONTINUING): If we are to expect more investment in this country then we must attempt and endeavour to have properly qualified people. I heard an interview a few weeks ago saying that we cannot hope to have a private car manufacturing house established in this country unless we are prepared to take a different viewpoint in the training problems in this country, indeed to the point sometimes people coming here. This is true, Sir, I am pleased to hear the Premier state that the Government were prepared to consider these recommendations from Opposition Members. However, while I am pleased to see this I am nonetheless very concerned that every attempt must be given to the training of our own people. We should not attempt to ensure that our Tasmanian people are not involved, or are not encouraged enough to fill training posts. Once that the training and the opportunity was there we will see how well they do. If our good employees have anything to do with it, Sir, we have other Tasmanians who are capable of anything. I remember, Sir, during my days at the Court Secretary's in 1970 I left there almost to go to Brighton and I have told them that it was assumed at that my departure to take this family and go to England to pursue a higher qualification. I have said it was disappointing, but would I do it with the responsibility of a family.

The point is, Sir, that what we have done and are doing and I am pleased to say. Sir, that with initiative Tasmanians can accomplish anything. Mr. President, all we need is the opportunity. All we need is the chance.

Mr. President, I wonder sometimes that there are more nearly 400 or more unemployed in this country that I should submit, Sir, that those are only the people who have gone to and registered. I believe that there are many in the country that discourage that those people consider it a waste of their time to go and register if they feel nothing is going to be done. This has been the experience of their relations to me. Why waste their time in going to register at the Labour Office? As I said previously, I congratulate the members of the Labour Department on the wonderful job they are doing with Mr. Tibbie. This is the reason, Sir, why I just think the Labour Legislation which put the responsible aspect of this House. However, this does not in any way satisfy the fact that the people today are in need and there is no light at the end of the tunnel.

At the end of the second week this week we still do seeing another ten to three hundred people, our young people leaving school to join the ordinate system as possible source. Mr. President, where are the jobs? What are we doing as a Government to augment new economic base so that there will be more jobs in this country? What are we doing to encourage more industries to this country? The previous speaker - the Leader, the Honourable Member for Hobart and others are interested. Ways in which the Government to get a very serious question, Mr. President.

In the Budget Speech last Friday we heard the Honourable Treasurer's Secretary give a very comprehensive account of the contributions already being made to our State economy through the private sector. This is good enough, but how much longer can we continue to expect the private sector without offering them an equal encouragement. Mr. President, the Honourable Treasurer in his very comprehensive Budget Address gave a lot of valuable statistics. One such valuable statistic was that the hours now been transmitted in this country accelerated considerably in the 1970 figures up to 1971 million to the economy, I think the figure was. The point is that they contributed a major

MR. LEONARD A. SCARNEO (CONTINUED): ...of the funds which were thus due Kenosha.

One area of concern, Mr. President, is the restrictions which have been placed across legal fines in Virginia now because what the county when such restrictions are not equally placed on municipalities. The legal fines in this county, Mr. President, contribute $5.6 million to our economy and I submit that this could have a multiplying effect if we were not so restrictive with these fines. Why are we restricting the counties? Why are we encouraging more lawyers coming here when we have our local people who are qualified to fill these positions when these many fines have a very economic impact upon our economy?

I would hope, Mr. President, that consideration will take a much more flexible approach to the question of increasing lawyers to come to this country. While I am on the question of legal fines I must congratulate our Attorney-General under whose superintendency I understand, the law moved fairly, for the wonderful job which they are doing to involving our local people to eventually fill openings in these fines. I think it is a great move forward and I hope that one of these days I will see the same happening in the reconstruction projection.

Mr. President, the reason I believe for the Chesapeake and the Budget Act we which you will be receiving over the next few days will be for Members to have the opportunity to express their views on problems raised in these speeches. I do not recall, Mr. President, since we should please some one of these areas of the Governor's or the Budget Address. They are perhaps the most important speeches which will ever come to this House during this year. Mr. President, we must build the infrastructure facility for the continued growth and development of this country. By encouraging corporations to do business, for the continued growth and development of this country. By encouraging corporations to do business, I have several letters which have come to my attention from the Secretary of Commerce and Resources in which he points out the fact that the Governor's Budget does not provide for the construction of any new roads in the Commonwealth. Now, I am not suggesting that we should build roads for the sake of building roads, but I am suggesting that we must build roads to encourage industry to come to this State. Industry will not come to this State if we do not have the roads to get them to the markets. Industry will not come to this State if we do not have the water and sewer facilities to get them to the markets. Industry will not come to this State if we do not have the water and sewer facilities to get them to the markets.

Mr. President, in this Governor's Budget Secretary's Budget Address he stated that the incidence of industrial expansion affecting the personal public at large. Industry is always on the threshold of expansion. I am not going to recognize this. I would say that until he is totally right he is wrong. Mr. President, without question is the most responsible form of taxation because it provides an effort where the public people have the same burden in the same locality, a burden which they can all afford

MR. SPEAKER: (Interjection): Mr. President, I will move from this elegant lectern I am accused of calumniating a direct form of Caribbean language I am not.

As Saturday the Guyana Government and, that on Friday last as previously, one member of the Government front expressed some views of surprise as to my comments respecting the discussion topics which Caribbean countries can have on the Haitian people. My little people I never think of our Caribbean brothers. I must only say, Mr. President, that I have to accept as my constituency duties that I am only responsible of any Member of this House and the discussions affirmed which Caribbean countries can have on the Haitian people of any country. We are to be advised, Mr. President. We have to be in a position to have access to all the facts of a matter, this is why I still again state that we should be disturbed for this Government to make conclusions on issues which require technical expertise of those areas are not immediately available to them.

Mr. President, one should remember one's Parliamentary. The saying goes, Sir, and it is the home people as we are when it come world, "We shall endure but what he knows not is the second kind of person". I should not say a fool, but that is what it says.

Mr. President, we must wake up and realize that we are here in 1991. Until I [illegible] a Parliament member, Sir, we must have a better programme than we know when an economy needs to be inflated. We must know when an economy needs stimulation. It is now [illegible], Sir, to say that the budget is balanced but when I see the amount which has been cut of the capital budget I wonder where our people will find employment.

While I believe in "Guyanese Salvo" type of economy where the economy is stimulated knowledge to the [illegible] of good trade and of good business, and while I do not believe in state controlled economy, I believe, Sir, that this Government and this country must take cognizance of neighbouring countries where they are keen to exist.

Mr. President, I listened to the Honourable Financial Secretary, his Chief Officer Mrs. Joseph have between closing the Budget Address. He said inflation is to be stimulated for a Budget Address. The percentage of his stimulated closing 1990 is approximately two, Mr. President, here in history in the Guyana Islands. We are now in 1991. We must concentrate our energies and efforts on now and the future. Mr. President, the past few little persons relate events as a guide to what may come. As a matter of fact the present already contains much of the past. So we are doing recruitment when we try to avoid an increase of the past. I repeat, Mr. President, [illegible] the past we are controlled by one of the world's greatest geniuses no other than the great Confucius who warned us that we must study the past to avoid [illegible] the future. However, Mr. President, the message here today is that we do not live in the past.

My concern today is exactly what is our Government planning to do to stimulate the economy so that our people can be blessed in reasonable jobs. Mr. President, it is evident that Government now will have to embark on capital expenditure plans, that you compare the 1990 Budget with the proposed 1991 Budget. When the 1991 Estimates Budget is compared with the previous Capital Budget of 1990 the figure is nearly $20 million. This is an effort the current which we are having now of this country as a view which we should be trying to put funds into this economy to stimulate it. Mr. President, I guess it is not the only ones the figures we mentioned in

MR. EDWARD A. DUFFANY (CONTINUING): ...the proposed budget.

Mr. President, this is not intended to criticize any figure made to balance Main budget. The point I am making here is that this balanced budget will further stagnate the economy at this time. What do we do, Mr. President? We do not believe in a deficit budget yet we pay that because the budget has been cut for it to be balanced. It is a bad situation. The point I am making, Mr. President, is that we need to expand our economy and find other means of getting the necessary revenue. It does not mean that because we have not that all the money it is good for our economy, that we just owe country money to stimulate the economy. That is the use of the businessman's budget now, to have to come to this House in September time and ask for further supplementary appropriations.

Mr. President, it is the usual thing for any Government to set the pace for stimulating an economy. However, I will agree that because of the type of our economy the private sector has, to a large extent, set the pace in that respect. My question, Mr. President, I think will be answered in the months to come when we will be forced to come back to this House and ask for more funds because a balanced budget at this stage is perhaps unrealistic. I believe in a balanced budget if such a budget is realistic to this country's needs, but I am saying that putting $10 million out of our capital budget is not right for us at this period in time. Much has been said about the amount of money which was spent by the last Government, and I am one of the critics because I felt that a lot of the money which was spent could have been avoided. However, I also know that the spending of that money at the time was necessary in order to provide a lot of work for the people in this country.

We need to study the full impact of a budget on a country's programme and development. Very recently we read in the papers that President Reagan has again opened the door to limit the expenses one finds in that country's defence. Many recently we read that the Secretary of the Treasury in his attempt to stimulate the economy was pushing more funds into the economy. While we cannot compare ourselves with those great economies they certainly serve as a guide to us. In other words, Mr. President, that $10 million should be taken out of the economy from capital works alone that based on the 1984 revised figure, put at the same time over $1 million to provide for new services with out of this going into the Civil Service.

Mr. President, I would have thought that more attention at this point in time would be given to setting up some kind of annual. One month ago I heard that there was a move to strengthen the marketability of the services of the Public Service with a view to getting back on stream. However, in studying the new estimates being presented I wonder, Mr. President, whether we are not worsening the situation in regard to the Treasury of Barbados's loss. Whatever claims is a valid, Mr. President, that could will eventually be felled. I would like also the Senior Building that is mentioned and I shall say it again because I think that priorities were a good suggestion. But the remarks which I made then under still apply are that very soon there will not be any space in that building and we will be seeking other localities for staff. That is the opposition's view, of Parliament's Law.

Mr. President, my argument is supported by a more comprehensive and extended programme that is going to come in the coming months of $4.4 million increase in ordinary revenue. This was only possible [illegible] already heavily taxed

MR. [illegible] (interjecting): economic issues we already have raised against. Of the $84.4 million of ordinary revenue budgeted for 1985 [illegible] from export duties. How then expect we are to help the little people in this country. Does that mean we are responsible for helping the little people of this country, while they be necessary to keep the Government going the fact is that we should not be looking into other areas of expenditure cuts.

MR. SPEAKER: I notice that it is almost 2.30.

MR. [illegible]: Now, I was going to ask how much time would be a reasonable estimate to [illegible]. Because it would have that you are not quite finished. I will suspend proceedings until just before 3.45 p.m.

At 3.32 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

AFTER RESUMING AT 3.50 P.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.

Proceedings are resumed. Continuation of the General Debate on the Appropriation Bill, 1985. The Second Elected Member for Georgetown.

MR. [illegible]: Mr. President, before taking the break I was [illegible] the reduction in the capital expenditure of almost $30 million which the revised 1984 figure is compared with the 1985 estimates. However, Sir, I would point out here that included in the revised 1984 estimates is an amount of $7.6 million which is composed of the costs of the Lands Building and the Airport Development. While, Sir, the Lands Building and Airport Development are no withstanding funds going into the ministry other than had originally been put there when the Lands Building was built, still we see the same figure as the $7.6 million for the Airport Development. So it is still quite not to know this situation existed or is felt that more further explanation on the issue [illegible] be given.

While I am on the question of the Airport Development, Sir, I feel that this is an opportune time as any for me to state that the Government responsible for that development should be highly commended. The airport development, now you are handed an Asian Airport to indeed one of the best small airports which I have seen in my service. Many of the people I have talked to have also expressed the same sentiments. I believe, Mr. President, that this new facility is an asset to this country and I believe, Sir, that it will enhance the tourist trade and indeed development of this country. I was thinking additional, Sir, if the second [illegible] of the airport, that it may not seem possible or necessary to give tourists to those [illegible]

Mr. LOPEZ de VICTORIA (continuing): ...such a possibility entirely possible. However, Mr. [illegible] the name of the game, politics.

Nonetheless, it brings out the point that such a possibility is something which all Caymanians can be justly proud of. When I visited the new facility at Owen Roberts Airport I was very favourably impressed. I had to pinch myself to make myself realize that I was still in the Cayman Islands. I am proud of that airport. I want to be most encouraged when I had to meet people at the old airport. I found every nook on the back to that then knew that it was just a temporary structure and that it would soon be replaced down [illegible] way, Mr. President, we have a structure which we can be justly proud of. I am proud, Mr. President, about Mr. William which I performed in it while one was part of the development of this structure.

Mr. President, it is noted under the capital budget that an amount of $5 million has been allocated to the development of our water and sewage system during 1988 and I believe, Sir, that within that the airport will be perhaps the second most [illegible] in this country. I hope, Mr. President, that such sum will be given the deserving which sometimes will be given to the [illegible]. From my understanding, Mr. President, again this is being handled in a forthright where I think quite a bit of experience is available, and I understand that the whole project will be monitored under a [illegible] with [illegible] where there will be some sum to handle contracts mentioned through the Tenders. Mr. President, there was some question as to whether this project should get [illegible] in the first [illegible] but I think that the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council, in charge of Communications and Natural Resources, has given a fairly comprehensive statement on the philosophy and the reasoning behind the idea of [illegible] the most [illegible].

Mr. President, when should we be paid dearly for the expense for the sewage disposal? I believe that such a project will justify this expenditure. However, there is a subject of another aspect which I hope is being [illegible].

Mr. President, on the question of future facilities, [illegible] and the [illegible], I could not let the opportunity pass this afternoon without commenting on the many [illegible] that Government is undertaking a marine park system. I know, Sir, that there have been some objections to a marine park system in this country, but on further consideration and study of the matter I also have that we are not at all wrong in our efforts to establish a marine park system. Mr. President, the members of this committee are to be congratulated for their efforts in trying to raise the project visible. It was heartening, Sir, to read a message from the First Lady of this country concerning her views on the need to protect our marine life. I was very pleasantly surprised, Sir, when I was invited to join the committee to see the number of people who had given up their time freely; individuals such as Mr. Dudley Watershed, Hon. Samuels Shanks, Hon. Rosalie Bradley and others who are leading their expertise to such a committee.

We are all concerned, Mr. President, regardless of [illegible] in the matters of this country on [illegible] issues. Mr. President, I was somewhat surprised that there were any objections at all when the fact we were only thinking and talking about [illegible] part of our [illegible]. This objection is about 25 square miles. We are talking about a marine park system which will be divided into [illegible] four areas of non-fishing zones, five fishing zones, replenishment zones and recreational zones. We have heard the question,

MR. [illegible] (CONTINUED): [illegible] of peaceful activities or economic approach has been [illegible] to obtain these objectives in a particular way." Mr. President, in my experience here since I have been assured that the results of these actions and attempts were not imposed on by ambitious or selfish wants. This decision was based from recommendations made by many of the noted [illegible] involved in one way or the other with external businesses in this country.

I will not attempt to give credit to any individuals who may have been involved in this as I would hate to leave anybody out. Suffice it to say this, I think our gratitude of this country should be expressed to those individuals for the time and experience which they have given in the establishment of these rules. On January last in use a [illegible] increase and privileges for us to participate in ... which [illegible] 4.00 p.m. and 6.00 p.m., in saying it put answer to the public the importance of respecting these various actions. Mr. President, it is not [illegible] to see that such thoughts and actions are not into this body. However, Mr. President, in view of the fact that [illegible] one of the major problems of our economy and that our economy lies in the hands of the [illegible] economy in such manner, it is [illegible] that some [illegible] is present our minds [illegible] in these [illegible].

I believe, Sir, that we must give this very serious attention. I believe that the best approach to rehabilitating our marine parks is to motivate the cooperation of the people of this country and the tourists who visit us here, but I do not believe that we should rely solely on that cooperation. I feel that we should put sufficient planning in our marine conservation [illegible] so that adequate [illegible] the income of the [illegible] and of the [illegible] will be provided in accordance with the law.

Even the simplest person, Mr. President, most [illegible] will tell you that they can remember the day when you could walk fifty feet into the sea and look at the [illegible] and the numbers they [illegible]. I also remember [illegible] saying to me that they can remember the days when they could go to [illegible] and get the [illegible] they needed. Mr. President, that is indeed [illegible]. This was the case.

Today the situation is very different. We can do one of two things, Mr. President. We can sit back and say that they are the evils of development, so be it. Or we can make a determined effort to endorse or [illegible] the former position. I believe, Mr. President, that the people of this country would be [illegible] a great deference if nothing else were to create these rules.

Mr. President, as I said the creation of marine parks is [illegible] to the Cayman Islands. There are marine parks in Jamaica, Trinidad and Tobago, the [illegible] Islands, Caribbean Riviera and many of the tourist destinations. The [illegible] of these countries found it necessary to create these parks to [illegible] these marine life. The case in point, Mr. President, of other forms of marine life other than marine and [illegible]. We also know that it was possible for fishermen to go out and make [illegible] without [illegible] of marine life they desired. Today this is not possible, and hopefully, Mr. President, we will [illegible] have a very [illegible] marine Park or Park in the future.

Mr. President, I hope that the people of this country will abide by the [illegible] put in the [illegible] of the [illegible] of endangered species and that we will be successful [illegible] in our deliberations at the [illegible] meetings to be held in [illegible] the start of this year.

MR. LEBOW: A. Urgent (continued): Mr. President, I believe that our people like democracy and abiding people and I believe, sir, that when the entire Democratic Bloc is brought together and further brought to the attention of the people, we will have no problems in having them comply with the constitution.

Mr. President, on this question of raising points of personal privilege, it must be very plain with officers under the law. It must be treated as a very important part of this country's development. It must be given the same importance as any consideration of offenses under any of the other laws in this country. I would wish to say, sir, prompt and efficient attention given by the police when they are called upon to deal with a certain offense.

Mr. President, as I started earlier and in my statements not to be repetitious, I said that together with the four Electoral Provinces of Mindanao Council I had met during the early part of this year on one of the issues which are dealt with and had to do with matters relating to the Lumad people in this country. One of the things which we must bear in mind while we are considering the question of protecting any minority in this country whether it be racial or otherwise, is that we consider the effect which this will have on the Lumad people in the country. Such has been said about the humanitarian efforts of some and quite good so on in the country, but let me not be blinded to the fact that many of our people are working a hardship from the use of guns. I just want to say the Governments of this country and this Government in particular to identify those individuals and those groups to endeavour to ensure that their interests are protected.

Mr. President, personally in our land if things have to proceed in their natural course and I understand. Mr. President, that nothing has been done even the groups I spoke to recently. It is very possible for an ordinance or a law even up the pipeline tends to go into this area. The residents of that area have had to take their problems to the Army in their area. Mr. President, this is a matter which we have noted for urgent attention and I will be giving this very close attention to ensure that something is done about it. I think, sir, that the people in this area have very relevant ideas from the people, as a matter of fact, sir, I believe that was that it has such a wide, sublime aspect to which consideration should perhaps be given to establishing that emphasis for future development and expansion of the airport. Because the airport has been extended in that area and has created a small village adjacent to the residents of that area. The airport came first and found the people there. It was not the other way around, Mr. President, and I feel that the people should be compensated in some way or the other.

Mr. President, it is very difficult when one has to debate a theme speech and the budget address at the same time, but to point from one to the other. This is why I hope that from next year on in future we will have a very lengthy budget address time, that it will be possible to have three separate documents debated at different times.

Mr. President, one area which I did not of course in the question of Private Hacienda Workers' Mutual Benefit and Participatory Association. The other, sir, I think that supplemental papers and memorandum is not given to answers to questions. It appears to be a way of nullifying the answer during the question. I do not know time to waste, Mr. President and when I ask a question in this House it is for a purpose. I believe, sir, that I made my point clearly enough as how I feel about making statements. So I will not dwell on this further.

MR. EDWARD C. PEASLEE [CONTINUED]: Mr. President, on the 21st December, 1984 issue of one of our leading newspapers there was an article in the editorial column entitled, "Good liquor control comes". Not right, Mr. President, I was also happy to hear that this proviso would receive some attention very soon. Anyhow as he says, I will have the opportunity of further debating this Bill when it comes before us.

Mr. President, I was somewhat concerned this morning when I felt that the opportunity for Members to debate the Throne Speech and the Budget Address would be lost. I had not intended to speak on this until much later, when I could have been in a position to quote from some of the remarks that would be expressed. However, the advantage of speaking first is that they will be expressing me.

Mr. President, this morning I had an individual who approached me and commented on the great need for sanitary conveniences in the town. What is our Government doing to provide such a facility? I see the honourable Minister Member of Agriculture Economic Affairs opposite, his budget. I hope he has provisions in there for this facility. $35,000 is not a drop in the bucket, Mr. President, this is a very needed facility in this country.

Another point in this morning is for the concerned one again to state the manner children can be transported from the rural areas into the schools for the buses. I understand that a subsidy is being made for this.

It is unfortunate, Mr. President, to see so many vacancies so late after the election campaign and the election. Mr. President, I believe that my colleague is being driven to the fact that there are other members who share my concern. This is good because I can know that there are other Members who see the need for this facility, and they are not belonging to Private Members' Motion at some future date. I am sure that the Second Elected Member for West Bay will second it.

Mr. President, anytime when I see people with concerned attitudes to assist fighting in many of the areas around the Islands. They are too numerous to mention at this point but, Mr. President, I trust the members of this House will give this matter their very honourable attention once it is brought to Committee Stage.

Mr. President, I am going to say one more thing before closing. I would ask to all Members on this side of the House that our very response must be in good support for the betterment of the Cayman Islands. I thank, Sir, in Committee Stage to take a much closer look at the budget and I propose at the moment to support what the Honourable Financial Secretary has already said on his Budget Address.

So in closing, Sir, I must just to have said much more about appreciated and to thank you, Sir, for a well deliberated Throne Speech. I would also thank the Honourable Financial Secretary for his Budget Address.

Thank you, Mr. President.

HON. DENNIS M. FOSTER: Mr. President....

MR. SPEAKER: I was just looking at my Standing Orders. I am not sure that they do specifically provide for a motion to which a Member desires something to adjust 4:45 p.m. However, it does seem to me that it is fitting to accept that the wishes of most Members that the adjournment be moved now rather than wait anybody....

MR. LAWRENCE A. PETERSON: Mr. President, I was just saying I could go on if you want. (LAUGHTER).

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think Members will need to trouble you. I think we can make the adjournment and if Members feel it is wrong we will be here at 4.00 p.m. They can vote against us. I think it will be the wish of the House, however, to adjourn earlier than to expect anybody to stay a while.

MR. DENNIS E. FOSTER: I think so, Sir.

ADJOURNMENT

LCR. DENNIS E. FOSTER: Mr. President, I move the adjournment of this House until 10.00 a.m. tomorrow morning

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that this House do now adjourn until 10.00 a.m. tomorrow morning.

FRIDAY

7TH MARCH, 1975

10.02 A.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated, Prayers. Questions. The Elected Member for North Side.

QUESTIONS

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR NORTH SIDE TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH SERVICES AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 11: Would the Member state the average number of patients treated in out-patients at the hospital each day, and how many doctors are utilized to see these patients?

ANSWER: The average number of patients treated at the out-patients department when computed on the number of days clinics were held in 1974 came 89 patients per day.

In order to treat these patients the hospital utilized an average of 9.6 doctors per day.

SUPPLEMENTARY:

MR. D. RICARD MILLER: Supplementary, Mr. President. Could the Member state if they have included in these figures of 89 patients those patients who visit casualty?

HON. DENNIS O. FRANCIS: Yes, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Unless there is any other supplementary I will invite the Elected Member for North Side to ask the next question.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR NORTH SIDE TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH SERVICES AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 10: Would the Member state the cost of the new X-ray therapy equipment at the hospital and how often has it been used in the last three months?

ANSWER: The cost of the equipment which enables the hospital to treatment on X-ray by telephone to be used by a radiologist specialist was $181,478. In the two and a half months since the equipment was installed at the hospital, fourteen X-rays and CAT's were transmitted.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. S. ERSKINE MORTON: Supplementary, Mr. President. Would the Member have available what percentage of the total X-ray taken at the hospital include hips and a body search period where fourteen X-rays represent?

HON. HARROW G. EBANKS: Mr. President, I am afraid I do not have that information, Sir.

MR. JOSEF E. MAYNARD: Mr. President, a supplementary... Will the Member state if it is customary that an appointment has to be made to have X-rays taken, and sometimes it could take up to a week before results are received?

MR. PRESIDENT: I really do not think that is a supplementary. It is a perfectly permissible question if the Member wants it put down as a question for the people to the Under Topic, however, I do not think that it really arises from the answer given to the substantive question now asked.

Unless there is any further supplementary I will ask the Member for North Side to ask the next question.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR NORTH SIDE TO ASK THE MINISTERIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR PUBLIC EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 12: Would the Member state why internationally known symbols were not used in conjunction with the names on the new signs recently installed at the hospital?

ANSWER: Mr. signs have been purchased for the hospital recently. It was when signs are purchased for the hospital consideration will be given to having internationally known symbols incorporated into their design.

SUPPLEMENTARY:

MR. D. SHARP MILLER: Could the Member state whether someone was not hired recently for the significant purpose of designing some signs, signs such as on at the hospital?

MR. PRESIDENT: I am not sure that that is really a supplementary. Perhaps I could see the answer to the first question before ruling. If it is then he is bringing round what. It will be coming.

We have usually been highly successful in allowing supplementaries. I suppose it is alright. What was the supplementary again?

MR. D. SHARP MILLER: It is alright, Mr. President. I will just make it in my observation to the Chair's speech and Budget Address.

MR. PRESIDENT: Alright.

Is there any other supplementary? In that case I will invite the Second Elected Member for West Bay to ask the next question.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR KEEP EAST (Mr. Lee) TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER RESPONSIBLE FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

NO. 20: Would the Member state whether the Companies Protection Law, 1964, will be amended to exempt non-Caymanians working in Government to have gainful occupation licences?

ANSWER: Section 22 of the Companies Protection Law (Revised) makes certain exemptions which inter alia include persons employed by Government.

Section 22 of the Companies Protection Law, which is not yet in force, repeats the same exemption and this was debated at some length at the time the Law passed this Honourable House and it was agreed to exempt the exemption.

The same argument holds now as then: that we do not want to bring the constitutional rights of the Government into conflict with other laws while under discussions from Her Majesty's Government some appointments need approval of the Secretary of State. The answer to this problem is administrative and not legal.

MR. PRESIDENT: Unless any Member wishes to ask a supplementary I will invite the First Elected Member for Bodden Town to ask the next question.

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR BODDEN TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER RESPONSIBLE FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

NO. 21: Would the Member state whether Government proposes to set an amendment date for the Parliamentary Elections Law, 1964, to come into effect?

ANSWER: Government proposes to have a close look at the Elections Law, 1964, and hopes to introduce Bill to the House in due course.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. LEONARD A. PIERSON: Supplementary, Mr. President. I wonder if the Member could give us an explanation of what a "three month" is? Is it two or three months from now? What sort of date is being planned to bring this into operation?

HON. DENNIS R. FOSTER: Mr. President, I am hoping for the next sitting, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think on a point of clarification I should ask whether the Honourable First Official Member mostly means the next meeting? The next sitting would be later today I think.

HON. DENNIS R. FOSTER: I apologise, Sir. I means the next meeting.

MR. PRESIDENT: So, it would be temporary, the next sitting. I am sorry, however, the next meeting is when we meet.

MR. JAMES M. BOOTH: Could the Member state whether the proposed amendment will substantially affect the bill as passed by the House, or is it just minor amendments which are planned?

HON. DENNIS E. SCOTT: Mr. Speaker, I do not exactly know what amendments might be made or what might not be made, Sir. It has not been looked at closely yet by the Government. I cannot predict, Sir, what might be the amendments.

MR. JAMES M. BOOTH: They cannot do that you are just guessing to have a look. It has not been looked at at this time. Is that correct?

HON. DENNIS E. SCOTT: That is correct.

MR. JAMES M. BOOTH: Well, will the proposed look mean that the Bill will be altered to a substantial degree or will have no effect?

HON. DENNIS E. SCOTT: As far as I am aware, Sir. The Government might decide on just a few minor amendments. I really do not know.

MR. G. MILO BOOTHE: Mr. Speaker, may I ask the Member in view of the statements made in the House in September when the Bill was amended to change the operational date, will the Member assure this hon. House if the operational date which will be mentioned in the Act remains?

HON. DENNIS E. SCOTT: Mr. Speaker, I cannot answer anything, Sir. The Member knows that there is some political ramifications and so will just have to wait and see what comes forth, Sir.

MR. G. MILO BOOTHE: Mr. Speaker, may I ask the Member in view of the apparent embarrassment surrounding this Bill, which one has had ever yet and the operational date changed on several occasions, he is now indicating that the whole Bill is going back?

HON. DENNIS E. SCOTT: Mr. Speaker, I am afraid that the Member misunderstood what I mean by political. I mean, Sir, that we will be carrying out the guidance of Government which have not been laid down as yet in respect of this Law. As far as I understand the requirement, Sir. I can give no assurance of what we will. Once again it is a Government policy decision and we will just have to wait and see, Sir.

MR. G. MILO BOOTHE: Is the Member aware that a change in the operational date was a promise of the Majority Team during the elections?

HON. DENNIS E. SCOTT: No, Sir. I am not prejudiced and I did not come back at any of the meetings or go to any of the meetings whatsoever, Sir.

MR. G. MILO BOOTHE: Mr. Speaker, may I ask if the Member plans postponed to the cable or communication with the operational date and the whole proposal in this Law?

MR. SPEAKER: I am not aware that I have fully understood the supplementary. To the Member seeking information, the Honourable Prime Minister's Number 10 answer to the media broadcasts of parliamentary debates, and if so, whether he has listened to that particular note? Is that the supplementary?

MR. D. ENOS ROBIN: No, Mr. President, what I was really trying to find out was where was the Member coming the allegation of he did not mean the complete use of the majority seats in supporting the parliamentary procedure that which had been passed?

MR. SPEAKER: I am sure that the Member had got a very effective part of our motion. If there is no further supplementary we can pass on to other business.

Before embarking on item 2 which any hon. private Member is entitled to mention with the leave of the House, the place for that the Clerk has in her capacity as Secretary of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, received from the Secretary-General of that organization, the Welsh Parliament, a letter which I thought that I would like to read to Members. It reads as follows:

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY-GENERAL

"I am delighted that the Welsh Assembly has joined the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association so promptly and I am sure you will be delighted to welcome so many parliamentarians from Members of the Welsh Assembly.

I have spoken to Mr. Rowlands on the telephone since his return to Cardiff and he told me how much he and his colleagues enjoyed their visit to Cyprus. He particularly mentioned their pleasure at having visited the Commonwealth School.

Mr. Rowlands will of course be writing his own letter of thanks but may I, as Secretary-General, pass on through you to the Government and to the Parliament of the first opportunity our most grateful thanks for the welcome, generous hospitality and kindness extended to our delegation. Not for the first time, this visit to the Cyprus Parliament helped

MR. SPEAKER: I thought Members might like to be aware of that generous invitation and I am sure would wish to join with me in thanking the Clerk and Members of the Executive Committee of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association for the admirable arrangements which they made for Mr. Owen's visit.

The second point which I should like to make is that the Clerk has received no less than all Members of the Assembly nominations save two or three which are to be dealt with by the Standing Orders Committee at 11.30 p.m. The Table of Members are unfortunately not ready to enter the Chamber many Members have apparently not yet had the opportunity to register. Thereby the administrative staff would be grateful if all Members would be kind enough then to let Miss Berkeley who will be working to produce each of them for the purpose, know whether they propose to be able to go to the Welsh Assembly.

MR. DENNIS S. PARRY: May I suggest, Sir, that we do it right now.

MR. PRESIDENT: Well, we could do it this way. You have had four votes and three.

SEN. DENNIS H. SMITH: Yes.

MR. PRESIDENT: If Members do know that would perhaps be a convenient way.

SEN. DENNIS H. SMITH: Speed up the game so go.

MR. PRESIDENT: Should we always who are able to go, two, two, three. Four, five, six, seven; it looks like eight. So perhaps the Chair could be kind enough to let Miss Markell know that it is expected that there will be eight pairs.

Item 2 on Group's Order Paper is the consideration of the debate on the Throne Speech and Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill, 1985. Again I think traditionally it is the consideration of the Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill debate. Does any Member wish to speak?

CONTINUATION OF THE DEBATE ON THE THRONE SPEECH AND SECOND READING OF THE APPROPRIATION (1985) BILL, 1985

MR. PRESIDENT: I hope we are not going to get ourselves into the difficult situation which arose yesterday. (Pause). If no Member does wish to speak I shall...

MR. J. ALLAN MACLEAN: Mr. President, I would like to speak, Sir, but I would appreciate it if somebody else could do so before me because I am having a problem with my throat this morning.

MR. PRESIDENT: Well, I think everybody wants somebody else to go before him.

SEN. ANDREW J. SOBEY: Mr. President, Sir, I do not propose anything, but merely as a point of order I think the majority of the House would be best served if informal consultations could take place on future occasions to arrange a batting order. I appreciate the desire of Members to have this been used, but I think that it does not look good from outside if Members appear to be reluctant.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think that is quite true. I do not think it adds to the dignity of the House if we get here in a hurry for now or three minutes while nobody speaks at all, and I am sure that it would not worthy be the case that if Members if I were obliged to call upon the Mover of this motion to reply before others have had the opportunity to speak. However, in this my decision then I might be obliged to call upon him to reply if nobody has risen to speak. No, I think for the future we should seriously take heed of the point made by the....

MR. J. ALLAN MACLEAN: Mr. President, I will make my attempt, Sir, and.....

MR. PRESIDENT: The Honourable Member for North Side Gem,

MR. S. EDRED MPYANA: I shall ask for your indulgence if I have to take long breaks to get my throat wet because I do have a bad case of dysphonia.

Mr. President, I too want to congratulate both yourself and the Honourable Chief Official Member on the very impressive and able way in which given responsible ministries were presented. The Minute Speech was short and concise; this kind of speech I like to listen to. The Budget Address, this year however had to be long and detailed, and I must congratulate the Honourable Chief Official Member on his organisation and medium, the delivery was so good that I do not think even one member of the House fell asleep.

Having said these kind words, Mr. President, it now becomes my allotted task to pick them apart. What task is made the more difficult because we have to deal with both in the same speech. I would join the Second Elected Member for Georgetown in saying that I too would like to see on the Estimates, even if it be because of an Allocation, the expected Meetings being held. In the case of new Members it would give me that one more chance of having a say, Sir. That is probably the only thing which I am going to agree with the Member said yesterday, Sir.

Sir, still before the House, Sir, I will now be now to appropriate certain expenditures for the services of the financial year 1985, namely to give the Ministerial Summary of those Estimates the authority to spend a total of $47,272,754 under several sub-heads of expenditure.

The subject as detailed in this Bill and the Minister Summary for estimates are self-explanatory I think so I am not a good one and I would like to remind Members that it is not a Estimated Budget, Sir, but one which gives a certain of $10,420 as the 31st December, 1984, and thereafter is extended the 1st January, 1985 with a deficit provision of $737,252.

Mr. President, I attach great importance to the matters you expressed about the growth of the Civil Service. In your Budget Speech, Sir, you said that the number of public officers rose from 1,325 in 1982 to 1,859 by June 1984, due to recruit the requested numbers. In the Civil Service which accompany the Appropriation Bill, 1985, Sir, there is provision to add another 89 officers for 1985. I also note, Sir, your suggestion that appropriate means must be found to limit the growth of the Civil Service and I myself will agree with you there. Sir, I would like to make a few suggestions. The establishment section for the Civil Service needs to be examined, Sir, as a matter of urgency a proper organisation and management survey; not the usual type where we invite in a retired colonial officer to do it, nicely and he then sends up an over-staffed staff for four or five years, but a professional group, Sir, with the intent to reduce staff while increasing output. The group should also consolidation to view and revise studies now in the organisational structure with the hope of obtaining a leaner professional structure rather than the present rectangular hierarchy which exists in the Civil Service.

One of the areas in which I believe great improvements could be made, Sir, and great savings while at the same time encouraging the people, is in the standard area of Government. Let us look at the number of pensioned officers already on the establishment of Government. Presently, Sir, there are 230 pensioned people on Government and with their current salary of $28,260 that represents an expenditure of $1.6 plus per year. Now, Mr. President, my experience from the Ministries Department of Trade Industry determined that when a worker graduates from the

Mr. S. ZAMPA MILLAR (LOGAN-KINGS): With Labour's many modifications in typing, will I receive that when we have senior clerical officers in this we are talking about people who the Government Departments say pay type at least 50 words per minute. If we use the standard number of working hours in Government of 37.5 hours per week, that translates, Sir, that these 130 senior clerical officers should be putting out a total number of 240,375,000 words per year. Now, Mr. President, I know that the officers in Government produce a lot of paper, but by anybody's standards, Sir, that is a lot of words. So I would venture to guess at this stage that if the interviewed typing people in the Government services we could get the clerical staff for half and get more output. Sir, I have not included in these figures personal secretaries and personal secretaries-teachers who also do typing for Government.

Another savings which might be realized by Government interviewed typing pools. Sir, would be in the area of office supplies which I believe in this year's Budget are somewhere over $200,000. In my Provincial Secretary's office which you will find in Government today, Sir, you will see three or four carbons passed over the desk. If these offices were linked using dictaphones which could be more readily established in a typing pool, these items could be used again. I do agree, Sir, that the graphics machines on paper and pens in Government could be eliminated.

Direct personal emoluments in this year's Budget stand at $29,160,999. This is very close to 50 per cent of the estimated Budget and if we include the other related benefits it will go over the 50 per cent mark. There are some other figures which were mentioning to me in this budget, Sir, and these are the items which the Clerk's Secretary are allowed. I suspected these perks years ago when the Civil Servants were being paid a measly salary. However, Sir, today when there is the highest conceivable kind of Government are making salaries which range from $27,000 to $32,000 I really cannot support their getting mileage, car upkeep allowance and other perks as well. I think all their salary and fringe benefits should be done by the officers in part of the job. This mileage and car upkeep allowance budgeted for, Sir, is no small figure. It totals over $126,000. Add to that a provision for telephone of $103,000. Then, Sir, there are other items which must be added to the permanent emoluments such as duty allowances, retirement and overtime which total in themselves over $5.8 million.

Mr. President, I would not dare to suggest that the Civil Servants are not worthy of these salaries. As I believe, they do work hard for their salaries. However, I think that the time has come when the salaries should represent the responsibility and the work involved. So, therefore, the perks must go by the wayside.

The estimated expenditure for the year 1985, Mr. President, is anticipated at $40,488,000 or 31.6 per cent of the Budget. That, Mr. President, is I believe dangerously high and it must be curtailed. Government, Sir, must exhaust the resources which it has in hand in the form of manpower before it adds new services. The trend has always seemed to be that if we are going to add a new service we have to add a new department, divisions, sections, etcetera. We must find ways, Sir, of increasing productivity of the existing system than simply increasing the numbers to get increased output. I believe, Sir, that these things can be done if proper organization and management survey is done. There has been much dissatisfaction in the Civil Service over the years, Sir, and today it seems to be even worse, especially the increased and reasonable salaries which are now being paid. I believe, Sir, that

MR. D. LEVANG MILLER (CONTINUING): ...the dissatisfaction rests on the fact that the officers are not getting job satisfaction. They are not being encouraged to invest. They are not being motivated to produce. They are not being rewarded or made to produce for the salaries which they are living with. They want to be encouraged to take pride in their job and a job well done. One of the most frequent complaints which I hear from the Civil Service is this. It seems that Ombudsmen are come to the Cabinet table but seem to work in Government departments. In answering given to questions in Hansard he should be responsible to the Members of the Assembly. Sir, the latest article which I could find regarding their duties was one published in the Daily Gleaner for which I pay Canadian exchange. That, Sir, again I believe to be a very expensive media and I think that we could save a lot of that for which I think relate to the recurrent expenditure of Government. That we could help the General Elected Member for George Town with some more capital expenditure.

I am happy to hear, Sir, in an answer given this morning that Government intends to continue to apply foreign aid without subjecting that to the scrutiny of the Secretariat Board. While I agree with part of the answer given that there are certain posts in Government which appointments are made to which could lead to legal problems if they are subject to the Secretariat Board, that represents a very small minority of the offices in the Civil Service, Sir. I believe that the Ombudsmen who work in the Civil Service would feel more satisfied if capability...the clerical officers who are foreign nationals were subjected to the rigors of the Secretariat Board.

Mr. President, I have an open mind about the Civil Service, Sir, and that is the basis which has occurred in the Civil Service over the last few or seven years. I am afraid, Sir, that as a matter of urgency the personnel regulations should be revised, although I do note that there is intention to do so. I hope that that will have a beneficial effect but the reason for this brain drain must be found and it must be stopped.

Mr. President, I believe that what has prevented this country in the years past from going the way many of the neighbouring territories have gone is that we have always had a strong headquarters, stable administrative sector in the Civil Service. However, Sir, we cannot continue to lose people at graduate level from the Civil Service because we have not found ways within these ways to motivate them; ways to let them have pride and a feeling that they are contributing to the running of this country. If ways of doing this are not found the Civil Service is going to be in a very serious state of affairs for the next couple of years. We are my already in at that stage, Sir, because a lot of the Principal Secretaries, etcetera grew up as to speak with the country and therefore although they did not have great academic qualifications had many years of experience under their belts. Today we are finding that with the graduates leaving we are being left with people to be promoted who do not have academic qualifications, nor do they have the years of experience which the others had. I think, Sir, that this is a serious problem facing this country.

Mr. President, perhaps reasons why I believe an organisation and management study is a matter of urgency is to do with staffing and the utilization in the Tower Building. There again, Sir, I have to differ with my good friend. I do not think that the Tower Building was a good investment.

Mr. E. PAUL BRIAN (CONTINUED): According to the Budget Address the departments presently in the Annex Building are Social Services, Planning, Police Administration, Treasury, Learning Unit, Government Information Services, Law School, Water Authority and Environmental Health. Those scheduled to move shortly are Customs Training and crime Branch, Roads and Drains, Registrar of Companies and Teachers' Centres.

Mr. President, I feel that the officers which move into that building should have more determinative and decision making participation. I would have recommended to have seen, Mr. President, that we had united the Customs and the Immigration Departments into that Building, so that the perspective of the case may be so that there would be more coordinate the departments activities the areas. It would also be more convenient for the public. Also, if they could find services which relate and with which they may have to speak to get a problem solved located in the same building. Maybe it is sometimes wrong of the old museum steps, "Mind a fool a little Brutishness", rather than trying to solve the problem which the public is making to be solved.

On a more positive note, Mr. President, I am glad to hear you in your Throne Speech that steps are to continue to strengthen the police and, Sir, I am fairly proud that a Caymanian has recently been appointed to the post of Deputy Commissioner. Our police force, Sir, needs all the help it can get to cope with the increased crime and the young officers must be given all the encouragements and training we have the resources to provide.

The increase in the prison population gives no reason for optimism as we have to find ways to counteract the attitudes of our youth towards rehabilitation and detention in prison.

It is also good to read in the Throne Speech, Mr. President, that Government intends to ensure the more satisfactory labour, but I must caution that, Sir, in that in conjunction with this we must have increased vigilance by the Caymanian Protection Board. Companies who are being victimized or treated unfairly in the private sector must be encouraged to let their grievances be known to the Caymanian Protection Board, and care must be found to accurately the development of the manpower resources in this country and the utilization by the private sector.

Mr. President, I am pleased to hear that Radio Cayman has had another successful year and the Corp's finances for 1985 appear to contribute $165,186 to the revenue of this country. The reason why I am happy about this, Sir, is because of the suggestion which I am about to make. Mr. President, I would like to see Radio Cayman established as a Government owned corporation removed from the direct control of Government. It can be managed by a Board of Directors under that corporation as is ably done in the Port Authority. It can still be required to make the annual revenue over expenditure a contribution to the general revenue of this country but, Sir, the greatest thing that will do is that it will remove the concern and the fears which some people have that Government strictly controls the programming and the news content of Radio Cayman. I think that if we set it up as a Government owned corporation we will find that the professionals within Radio Cayman would blossom and develop and it would, as I said, remove the fear of many Caymanians that the news is pampered and controlled stations. Mr. President, I would not be adverse to the introduction of a private radio station just for the competitive spirit, Sir, and to encourage the development of the people and the quality of the programmes which are provided on Radio Cayman.

MR. O. PEARL MILLER (CONTINUED): ...to be good to know, Sir, that with modernization of machinery in the Dutch Bloomfield and Sandy Beaches Ranges they will give considerable attention to the development of the Community Colleges. The Rural School, the Nursing School and the Building and Trade School will be given the right direction. If the Community Colleges be developed into a proper business school and trade centre, and be run on the right lines of the evening Economics we would find children coming out of school at the age of eighteen trained in science. The University Grade Examination, the aggregate of science and physics is difficult to understand, Sir, but an eighteen year old is certainly much more mature in his outlook on life and could give a much more responsible contribution to the development of this country in the private sector in an employment, especially if he is provided with training in a vocational rather than business studies.

We have heard a lot of talk in recent past, Sir, about the introduction of a Sugar Tariff into Guyana. Sir, I do not think that it should be done, although I believe that it is economically necessary at this point. To bring in a large hotel unless we have protection for our factories would be suicidal and employer which such a large hotel is going to need to operate properly and profitably. To bring one in and have to bring in type of imported goods, furnishings, building materials we only going to put fuel to the fire which exists at that level of our society between Corporations and shareholders. If we bring in to end the mechanics and employees are not sure to have to bear the hotel successfully, and we do not allow them to bring in the employees necessary and in time, it is going to be very difficult to get qualified people in the future, Sir.

The educational budget in the Budget Address is well provided for, Sir, and it is as it should be, Sir, there are some comments about the figures mentioned in that 20 per cent of the figure budgeted of $8 million goes to Community Colleges. I am well aware that there is provision in the capital expenditure to construct physical facilities but, Sir, the training provided in the private schools are doing a very worthy contribution as the education system is only 2.3 per cent of what it would cost to educate these children in the private schools. It is also interesting to note from the Budget Address that these private schools are subsidising at least some children.

Private schools, Sir, that accommodate is standing about $1,800 per annum per student in teachers' salaries leaving only a little more than $400 per student for materials, equipment and other administrative costs. Sir, the other area of the educational system which seems to require to what I believe that is education system is efficient it should produce the right, Sir, one, a graduate who is adept calculating or in the other words one is well equipped with trades, education.

Although, Mr. President, in the last five or five years the statistics which have been quoted out by that department in Government indicate that there is an ever increasing number of passes per year and I do not deny that statistically this is so; there may be room to be more concerned because more have been the year before; that is to be expected, Sir, because more students sit the same age group. However, what gives us concern, Mr. President, is that there also appears to be a proportionately increase in the number of graduates who can go on to institution of higher learning and very few have the graduates to fill the key positions in our economy, being a graduate is almost

MR. D. EDGAR HUNTER (CONSERVATIVE): Unavoidably going to be a pre-requisite. So I am very encouraged, Sir, that the number of people who are receiving good grades in enough subjects to enter institutions of higher learning seem to be diminishing.

Of particular concern in this section of the estimates, Mr. President, is the fact that according to the budget figures we are increasing in American ownership but decreasing our reliance a quarter. Sir, which is based on the British system of education about which few American Governments know very much. The systems are markedly different in several ways, Sir, and I can speak from first-hand knowledge. I spoke to Americans of higher learning in both the British system and the American system. One gave the feeling that what is known there as what if one looks long enough one can find answers to problems here and agree with what he is doing. If this is what is happening in the American system which we are being told by these authorities is a good one and we are depending the standard of education on that country, the less knowledge, Sir, that there is increasing generalization that prevails the more difficult to maintain the higher learning. So do I think we do wrong will we use American yardsticks and practices if we are going to base our system on the British model and our educational requirements are entirely dissimilar.

Now, Mr. President, I would like to comment very briefly on the health vote system in this country. Mr. President, we appear to be spending more and more and more dollars on health care in this country and increasing less and less and less. Mr. President, there are some who are very suspicious and say that the Government says. I believe by that statement they mean the politicians who are responsible for health care in this country. I believe that the responsible final financial burden of education should rest there, who is now responsible for health insurance by whatever nomenclature I associate myself with the Honourable Minister of Health in Ontario, the Honourable Dalton Bales. Of course, Sir, I realize that the problems which exist in health care are not contained by the Province who have public hospitals, but by that little man who scrapes to believe him and who has the big income and all the qualifications. May I just read from these statistics, Sir.

This year we are spending over $2 million in personal contributions to health care in a new institution, now, Sir, I will give them the credit of the world in that they do in fact provide some services which an institution of similar size would not provide in the United States, such as out-patient services and public health services. However, I believe that is a minor part of the budget. Sir, from these statistics I am to say that hospitals in the Medical Centre which has an occupancy rate of 96.5 per cent, which is very close to what I was told this morning was in at the hospital here in this province by the Minister yesterday; I think it, told me it was 97 per cent. Sir, this type of hospital is today operated at a labour cost which includes payroll and employee benefits of half a million dollars, Sir, $500,000. When you add the cost of the materials which this type of hospital is using it is less than $1 million, $900,000. Now, Sir, this indicates to me that there is gross wastage and mismanagement of public funds in the health care field and I have other reasons to believe that that is true, Sir. Because using the costs per patients day which he gave us yesterday of $209.42 and taking standard formulas used in the hospital administration field, that indicates with an occupancy of 97 per cent as is stated in the estimates, a savings of over 240 per cent. Something is wrong somewhere, Mr. President, and I think it lies in the mismanagement of health care facility and

MR. D. ARNOLD ASPIN (CONSERVATIVE): the fact that the health system in this country had no public discussion. So, Mr. President, since I speak the shortcomings of the health care the benefit of the doubt and say that they are offering services which are not provided by this constitution, a total of 15 million Guyana Dollars! and the objectives which I read from were the United States Dollars. Now Mr. Speaker, Sir, Guyanese have to breathing space. That is Speaker knows that, Sir, in my answer given to me this morning and I quote from this answer:-

> "The average number of patients treated in the out-patients department when compared on the number of days attended were held to 1062 and 18 patients per day."

The average number of doctors need to see 18 patients are 5.5. Now, Sir, these number are 11½ patients per doctor. I still again give them the benefit of the doubt because I am not believe that we will have one half patients attending at the hospital, so we might say that each doctor is seeing 10 patients per morning, Sir. That is a ridiculous satisfaction of such expensive human resources.

Today at the hospital Sir, a doctor has to spend time with a patient to diagnose his case because he no longer has to rely entirely on symptomatic diagnosis, that is intensive questioning of the patient to find out what the problem is. They have expensive diagnostic equipment at the hospital and I ask question, Sir, as an employee of that hospital when can we expect 18 patients per morning on a sophisticated diagnostic basis. Then, Sir, when we ask why is there not a doctor at the hospital 24 hours a day they tell us they do not have the resources to provide them. That is ludicrous, Sir. The doctors work in out-patients and wards, Sir, an answer given me by the Member during that the duties of any medical officer at the hospital can be a multiplicity of activities, has to be exact to the answer given to me, and again they declare in his statistics specialist duties, that we should be able to shift that around and provide a much better service for the people of this country. Because according to this answer they will seem to be doing basically the same things except for the fact that one doing sub-specialty work. I am not sure that sub-specialty is because I assume it was either general practice or specialties. Maybe it has to do with the fact that the other part of my supplementary could not be answered in terms of broad classifications, so they are playing it safe and calling it sub-specialties.

Mr. President, the time has come when we have to face the realities of the situation and the hospital must provide to have doctors services to this country. Today, Sir, we made some statements upon the part answer of terms under the administration of Mr. Presh", which at operations was commenced on the hospital emphasis specifically to have doctors so that they could be on the compound, because one of the excuses being given at that time, Sir, was that they could not spend the night as the hospital because they did not want to leave their house at home. So they built them an apartment and I do not believe, Sir, that that apartment which cost over $30,000 was ever been used. So, Sir, there are no more excuses. We must have 24 hour coverage at the hospital. They have two doctors, Sir, at any two, lots of physicians in other country. I think, Sir, when we are paying all of these the salaries which we are paying our doctors, to have them to see only 18 patients a day is a very racial answer. As I said before, Sir, I think it is a very poor utilization of resources.

MR. L. DOUGLAS BUCHANAN (CONSERVATIVE): Some years, Sir, we find in the budget debates the privilege that we have been enjoying of hearing maiden speeches which are very short and say about one thing a good thing and that some possibilities are better than anywhere else. However they have done the opposite in this case, Sir. The additional plan at the hospital is allotted to our department for a similar way as American institutions. So what do they do for this case, Sir? They bring in people from Quebec to examine the X-ray and laboratory facilities and to tell them the state of their accuracy up there, Sir. They probably have not had a new X-ray machine in the last fifteen years. So of course they are going to think and to say that what we have is good; it is probably the best in the Caribbean. It is better than anything they have in Martinique. In Spanish town hospital, Sir, they are still using iron which lack nothing in which the lepers are treated through. I hope what I am talking about, I have seen it.

This kind of mismanagement in terms of misdirection of services provided to the people in this country, Sir, really has me concerned. The people are being led to believe that we are getting good returns in the investments we put under the budget and I do not subscribe to that, Sir. What the health care system in this country needs is a comprehensive health care policy, a policy which is going to identify what the needs are in terms of health care of this country; what health services are going to be provided for the people of this country. It needs to clearly identify how those services are going to be paid for; whether it is going to be by direct payment and we break to the system which we have now where Civil Servants and their dependents are free and people have to go to the health institutions determined and be seated a long lengthy thereafter lengths or years and get free medical care.

However, Sir, in practice I believe that what happens is that there are a lot of people who go up there even under that system and pay their own Civil Servants or dependents, but because they are not ready to directly themselves as such they get free medical care. We could be decide whether it is going to be free or so are going to go over to direct payment, to third party insurance system and Government will have to ensure the Civil Servants, dependents and children have an what the hospital becomes a self-sufficient entity. It will also enough revenue to pay its bills. Or they could operate it on what is now known in the United States market today, a health maintenance organization where the physicians contract for a specific fee to offer medical care to the population of this country. However, the fact that we do not have a proper health care policy in the problem and the reason given by the former Minister were quite sad, Sir, to note that to extend health care facilities were not health care priorities, Sir. They were what could be more commercially called operations necessary and not type of a hospital. They should not have been developed at the Port-of-Spain level. They should have been developed in the proper order of the system and the management of the system as it is. The emphasis should have initially to the system which is developed. When they are developed at that level and they are sent down with a developmental type scheme, "This is the way it is going to be done", Mr. President, most of the employees are not going to accept it. That is clear, Sir, how contributed to the wastage and the poor utilization of manpower resources in the health care system.

So, Sir, something needs to be done. Desperately about the health care system in this country and I hope that the new Honourable Prime Minister Member of Parliament responsible for Health, Education and Social Services can find ways and means to accomplish it and provide the kind of service which the people of this country not only are demanding, Sir, but deserve.

MR. D. SCOTT MILLER (CONTINUED): ...assure the people of this country that the case who now pretty [illegible]

MR. PRESIDENT: ... I wonder if this might be a convenient moment to take a break?

MR. D. SCOTT MILLER: Yes, sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I will suspend proceedings until approximately 11.35 a.m.

AT 11.23 A.M. THE HOUSE RESUMED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 11.43 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. The Minister for North Eddy.

MR. D. SCOTT MILLER: Mr. President, as mentioned, Sir, the Labour Conference [illegible] a central clinic was established and equipped at Base Hut. While, Sir, I would not question the need for that particular one, for such a [illegible] I fully believe the people in that area are entitled to that facility, but I believe that the total national picture could have been better served by establishing a mobile unit which could visit all the districts. It could spend, maybe, in the district and it could then visit all of the schools including the High School to provide treatment. So I should have much preferred to have seen that money spent on the purchasing of a mobile unit.

With regard to the telecommunications equipment which was installed at the hospital recently, this could be given as $6,000. Now, Sir, I have to assume that that is the correct figure. It was unlikely to be used for operating the equipment, that is presumably like a T.A.B. unit where [illegible] telephone lines or whatever. Sir, for the information of such a sophisticated piece of equipment which has only been utilised [illegible] in the last two and a half months one has to wonder whether those [illegible] are so whether this piece really [illegible]. However, Sir, my observations do indicate that there is no question that X-rays have a diagnostic value. I question the urgency for this to need to be telephoned to Miami to be read by a radiologist and the information telephoned back.

If, as we have been given to understand on the Island to read X-rays and to interpret the diagnostic benefit, we have a fairly decent Air-Taxi service in this country which could take those X-rays to Miami fairly rapidly. Sir, in the cases where the reading of the X-rays would help in urgent diagnosis, probably even in the time it takes [illegible] aspect of the situation, I believe, [illegible] have an X-ray. So, Sir, I question this kind of [illegible]

MR. W. BEARD MILLER (CONTINUING): where I know that they do not have the proper bandages to treat such patients. Because an unfortunate incident happened last year when a friend of mine was burnt and I unrolled the bum bandages, Sir, because there were none in stock at the hospital. When we look at this kind of commitment you have kinds of architectural diagnostic equipment and the utilization rate, if it is to be done at the expense of necessary supplies I think, Sir, something is seriously wrong with the management in place.

I note with interest, Sir, that steps have been taken to improve the accountancy situation at the hospital and hopefully they are going to continue to do this because in spite of the fact that the amount of money that they have had for almost every year for the past four or five years. I believe I am safe in saying that the amount invested in medical fees at the hospital did not produce a significant increase in the revenue anticipated, but a very significant increase in the unpredicted purposes for the hospital. So I look forward to improvements in that area.

Then again, Sir, we go back to Tobago because in the budget address and we find that we have spent $1,000,000 on a kitchen, two more oxygen facilities. Now, Sir, I do not hospital which has a utilization rate or occupancy rate of 60 per cent I wonder what they are going to do with the number of meals which has to produce in a kitchen and existing more facility would cost more than $1 million. The greater room in that facility, Sir, is probably bigger than the one which exists in the biggest local hotel. If we feel the people in the 60 beds who are seeing there may be probably would not properly utilize the total capacity of that facility. While I will welcome, Sir, that in accountancy such a facility is to be used to build in provision for increased capacity in the future expansion of the hospital, $1 million is no wonder like a lot of money for a kitchen, meeting room and rest rooms. It is a very expensive facility. Sir. I look there and I know it personally. However, I believe that it is going to create some problems not that dissimilar, Sir, to what we encountered in the operating theatre a couple of years ago when we had a problem with the water system. I hope, Sir, that the same problem does not happen with the kitchen. I believe that it is very difficult for water to reach upstairs now if any flooding materials to be.

Sir, it is this kind of thing which is basically wastage of public funds. It must happen that these facilities were open when I was walking around, Sir, but I noticed that the supply line goes to the fish tank from one room, goes to a one inch line to supply the hospital. There is believe to have been time to supply this new facility and goes back down to a three quarters of an inch line to supply the facility. I believe that there are going to be some problems with pressure and other technical problems of water supply when the plumbing is done to that kind of fashion. Sir, something has to be done about the background and additions which have taken place in these facilities over the past couple of years. I have interested them sometimes suddenly on top of what they believe for the water supply and things like that.

In the early seventies when the plans were first laid there was a complete map of the plumbing facilities there and all the drainage supply lines were clearly marked out. Sir, I believe it would take several Wednesdays, or the coming years, to straighten out the mess which exists there now.

I hope that the cause which the honourable First Elected Member of Roseau South told me that many have not been created, but my information has it,

MR. D. FRASER MILLAR (Commissioner): Sir, that is an individual who specifically is in a wide categorage there, there may and yet still needed people to find their way around the complicated building that we've set up there. I also have said it is not how I see to incorporate the Administrative Services Unit. The signs because there are some people in this country who cannot read and write, and there may be some obstacle if cannot read and write but can follow a sign.

The Honourable Secretary in his address made that suggestion are the most important elements in government expenditure that personal emolument in that province. That year stands at over $700,000 and he hopes that the estimates will be with the Chief Medical Officer presently in Afghanistan to assist in the formula of the hospital.

That will provide a certain amount of savings but I hope, Sir, although I have not seen the formulary that is how can what Organization Activities is some responsible committee which is to identify the medications which are to be prescribed, they are not of any reason validity or will not produce any larger benefit to the patient. Because I am of the opinion, Sir, that there is a marked difference in the effectiveness of medications made by generic companies as opposed to those made by brand name companies. So I hope that the country will be multiplied but that they will not compromise the individual receiving the medication.

The Honourable Third Division Member also gave a figure which amounts to $77,000 for the cost of rehabilitation. It says that it includes specialists mentioned in the formula and also consultations with private physicians. That is good as we say that the number of existing specialists in 1977 are only three. In 1984 we have eight physicians from overseas and do not include those visiting physicians so some have expanded as we do not have beds $70,000 a year. I wonder if you have any figure and breakdown to those people who are coming for this kind of money, Sir.

It is good to know that the public health section is undertaking to look into the problems to be placed in primary health care. However, Sir has stated also, the Honourable Third Division Member said that existing one of the workshop a country on mental illness are established under the jurisdiction of the Provincial Secretary, for Social Services and Social Services with the Chief Medical Officer and also senior representatives from the Education and Social Services Department. Mr. President, Sir as my belief, and I have expressed this many times before, that it is bad management practice. The more you the Members of Executive Council being chairmen of boards and committees that sometimes may, Sir, be that because of the leadership responsibility by the chairman of the board to a junior officer, whether that junior officer of he disagrees or felt he should have. I misunderstanding which he can not name anybody has been, the chairman of the committee would accept, if he would or just make that recommendation, also if, Sir, the fact that the Provincial Secretary chairmanship of this committee might not be sufficient the usefulness and the information which can be gathered from that committee. I hope that I am proven wrong, Sir.

I am also pleased to see that there is money to be provided possibly for the health care of the elderly and I supported the motion of the Hon. Member from Fort-Rupert for elderly people at the Pines. This has long been a serious matter needed attention. I have that we are overcrowded and that we are adequately house the elderly, as that were at the Pines.

MR. D. LEGARE MARTIN (CONSERVATIVE): I thank the hon. gentleman for his interest, Sir, that he took in my speech last night that previously steps were taken during 1984 to address the problem of mental health, drug and alcohol abuse services. Since again I stated that there is a desperate need for these services and I offer all the support which I can give to the provision of these services in the hope that they can alleviate some of the suffering which is caused in these areas.

Mr. Speaker, in your throne speech you said that the Department of Social Services will be further strengthened during 1985 to enable it to meet growing demands. The honourable Third Opposition Member put it a little differently. He said the Department of Social Services in Government has a real place. I am all for the Social Services Department having a real place, more officers allocated but, Sir, I emphasized the hope that the Department is not going to have a real place but is going to have a real outlook on the problems and the solutions of these problems which exist in this country. There exist problems also in the social life of our population. There are social problems of the elderly and there needs to be the growth in real of counselling and education. If, I hope, Sir, that with the increased funding, Government is not increased its funding in an small extent, we would have a correspondingly increase in the services provided by that department. There is a desperate need for these officers to help out this field in this country to meet the needs in the immediate discretion to meet those people who need their services and help to assist them. I therefore hope that the new officers, new clerks, new desks and new equipment will not encourage them to say there was just for the problems to come to their desks, but that the Minister will find a way to motivate them and send them out into the various districts to provide the various services where they are needed.

With regard to Civil Aviation, Sir, I myself am quite proud of the new airport terminal which we have. It is a good facility. There are some things which I think could have been better, but it is there and I think it is the job of the new Government to operate the facility until the provincial with officials, officials could be better served with the tourists and the local people who pass through the facility.

Now, Sir, we go to Human Services. In your Throne Speech, Sir, you indicated that the Minister was borrowing a sum of $3.5 million annually during the four year period from 1985 to 1988. Sir, that is a serious situation and I would hope that any spending in particular a country with resources as small as ours, can maintain to substantial any service or facility at that rate. On the statement, there did indicate for the year ended 30th June, 1985, which was indicated showing that there is a deficit at the end of the year ended 30th June, 1985, of $14 million plus. Now, Sir, I will not say that I do not support Capital Expenditure but I believe there comes a time when the nation has a debt must tighten his belt or lose his pants. While I would not oppose that Capital Expenditure has contributed tremendously to our economy there is a certain amount of additional people who must have employment we have a national dilemma; $3.5 million a year is a fair amount for anyone. I am not completely unfamiliar to the fact, Sir, that we continue to substantially contribute to our provincial revenues by having on the other side of that coin, Sir, the argument given is that if we do not have a provincial airline why should we at any time of it is not a profitable venture. That is a true argument, Mr. Speaker, but the argument can also be extended that if there is motivation for a province to have its own airline why should we provide the necessary funds to the Capital Expenditure to some have for up to twenty million. Because if the country is not earning enough to spend money in our economy and if the situation is

MR. D. BRIAN MCFEE (CONTINUED): not wanted have to invest money in our financial institutions which can pay sensible interest to those savers, they are going to come to Nigeria from the Caymanians who live here will not be in a position to afford to go anywhere on Cayman Airways. There is an argument, Sir, which might seem to be plausible. In all the years of constitutional advancement Cayman Airways I have yet to hear any figures presented on the cost to the individual in this country of subsidising that airline. Perhaps, Sir, I believe that that airline I myself subscribe to sometimes on this,but I think that the national interest in maintaining like ours would not the penalty rather and the other activities would simply adapt themselves I do not have the figures here before me so as what are tonight on the passage of which must before the advent of Cayman Airways but, Sir, I have that today that the airline charges westbound Miami between here and there. You can fly from Miami to Grand Cayman almost as cheaply as you can fly from Miami to Cayman.

Further, Sir, if any books in conversations in other territories around us the nationals especially in the United States might now still find that it is more economic to fly from Cayman: to Kingston Jam, they there for two nights and three days whereas that they can normally fly from Miami to Cayman round trip. So, Sir, I think that the existence of Cayman Airways has to be looked at very critically. I look forward to the report which I hope will soon be laid by the ministry who have been tasked to do a detailed survey on that. However, Sir, I do not believe that if we were to lose Cayman Airways and unfortunately, Sir, the figures presented to the general circulate that it will probably cost much more at this stage to get rid of it than to keep it, it would be two cheaply. It is employing a number of people. It is unthinkable a certain amount into the gross national product of this country,but I think that we have to take a critical look at the situation and determine whether in general, the maintenance or the modification of a number of the gross national product, and if another airline could not provide the same contribution without the subsidisation of gross national product. So I look forward to a critical look at the situation by using Cayman Airways. I would look at this figures with an open mind. I am not biased either way whether it should continue or be wound down,but I think that it has to be looked at critically in the interests of the overall of the economy of this country.

I note, Sir, that in your Throne Speech you said that the Labour Office will continue to provide assistance to employers and employees where possible and I can quite appreciate by the passage of the motion a few days ago which was brought by the Second Official Member - Second Official Member for Health Day and seconded by myself. I am not sufficiently clear for should be presented, Sir, I promised to have serious legislation brought as soon as possible to try to eliminate some of the problems in this country. Because until the employees of the Labour Office have during a reasonable period have to be given authority to look into. They cannot continue to unnecessarily delay their way around; they have to be given the legislation under which they are to and to do our obligation, Sir, to provide to the employers the guidelines on which he can operate, and to the employee the guidelines of what he is expected to perform. So I look forward with keen and participation to the implementation of the Labour Legislation.

The Fire service sub-station at Frank Sound was completed in 1986. This is a service for which all the hardships and problems of the eastern districts of Grand Cayman are grateful. The fire service is doing a remarkably good job and I would offer to that Department all the support that I can. In fact, Sir, I think that it is the only Government detached

MR. D. BRAND (Attorney-General): On the first occasion on which I have not applied my mind.

You also mentioned in your Budget Speech, Sir, plans to redevelop the present Post Office in Queen Street and the construction of a multi-storey car park. I do not know which is needed more, Sir, the new Post Office or the multi-storey car park, but I do not think it can be denied that a need exists for both facilities. If the Government can find a way to accommodate them simultaneously, hopefully having that a self parking system in that the needs of the car owners and persons who work in the city, so be it, Sir. That is the kind of Government which this country needs. We need to identify how we are going to provide these services and we need to identify by what means we are going to pay for these services.

The Public Works Department, Mr. President, this speaks to a Department which I think needs some close scrutiny. Estimated expenditure of the Department totalled $8 million in 1982 as do a capital works programme of $9 million. I should propose that the Public Works Department be audited from cost since it became a trading facility, an inspection facility, a licensing facility for the trades such as electrical, plumbing, carpentry, auto mechanics or whatever. However, Sir, it remains to provide funds for recurrent expenditure of $8 million and inasmuch as only $1 million is being recovered, I believe, Sir, and I have seen evidence on this, that when Public Works Department gives out maintenance to persons or enterprises there is usually a savings to them, if the Public Works Department just will of the capital expenditure can be provided enterprise and private contractors it would be better off, Sir, not the way it is presently being done. At the moment the contract is let some where between Public Works Department supplying the materials, on the contract are for labour for the walls of the building, the plumbing and the roof while Public Works Department does the electrical and plumbing and supplies all the materials. It is going to be very difficult to evaluate a savings in that kind of a situation because the private contractor who has the contract is responsible in meeting his deadlines in which he loses his profit for the contract if he has to wait for Public Works Department to do the electrical or the plumbing or he has to wait for them to provide him with materials. He could come up to a loss position and to eliminate that possibility, Sir, I believe that some of the private contractors are forced to inflate the estimated cost for the building in order to safeguard their profits.

Sir, the maintenance section of Public Works Department is necessary, but I think that something is going to have to be done to correct there. One example is what is described the hall in the night time the post office, Sir, has been out for three years. The way the conversations has to go about getting that bulb replaced, I think, is to write a letter to the Postmaster General who will probably write one to the Financial Secretary of the Portfolio who in turn will write one to the Minister of Public Works, who then will refer a memorandum to his maintenance co-ordinator who will have a truck to work this will not be through a night bulb. So, if we take the front of the hotel of Delap, when the power of the bulb or three rooms has probably dimmed in that security, and someone else must arrive that is to say one's fault never will this matter although and possibly the bulb. The fact that one may have to leave George Town to go to North Side to change one light bulb is going to take them all day nearly. With the rates deficient

MR. D. RANDALL MILLER (CHAIRMANTIME): We have assistance which we are paying increasing time duty to be going to have had to be a fairly expensive high level. So, Sir, I would welcome any the creation of a post of minister or maintenance now in case of these older areas. We have spent a lot of money over the past couple of years building civic centres and I think there is some $500,000 budgeted in this year's budget to complete the civic centre in Mount Pearl. That is going to be a great facility, Sir, but it is going to need maintenance. It has to be cheaper to give subsidy to these outlying districts or a weekly or monthly basis. It is the minor maintenance of the public buildings in these districts. In South Side we have a couple thousand persons and all of the civic buildings are in one community. The mayor of that town district that way is surrounded as much as a mile square, but there is still places like Pouch Cove, Flatrock, Torbay to name the question of these areas for maintenance and financial assistance to these districts because I believe again as the Member across the House, who can no doubt speak on that better than people, who are here all the personal involvement of this country.

In the meantime, Sir, I do hear that there may be some success for our Pacific Rose with Pearl at the CFTDO meeting in Argentina next May, anyhow that we hope that we do get back into the United States market and the Pacific Rose can in fact be put back on a profitable footing.

The Port Authority mentioned in the Budget Address, Sir, speculation, sometimes it is a valuable asset. That is good news indeed, Sir, because the new public expenditure which Government has the new public Government is going to be. The only piece of information in that address which I query, Sir, is where the Financial Secretary says that it would be surprised that some of Georgs Pond was the highest escape throughout our hour of any point in the Caribbean of a similar industrial mix of the Eastern region that we have in our province. As I said I have my doubts on that statement but I will give him the benefit of the doubt and assume that he has the documentary evidence to prove it.

It is also nice to hear, Sir, that the plans are well advanced for the planning of permanent housing for the Labrador ridge. That has long been needed to stop the deterioration of the entire life in the area.

Mr. Speaker, it is noted that the Department of Development and Economic Planning is going to take on the energy problem in the Labrador West Town area. I support this proposal. I think that it is long overdue. Again, I think that it is a wise decision to create the programs in the area where it can be most highly publicized and therefore the greatest amount of revenue can be realized on the expenditure.

It is great to have that info, with the removal of the rent Agricultural Zone the Minister there is going to be continued and beneficial rent expanded planned on the development of agriculture in this country.

From his answer given to questions of mine on the floor of this Assembly responsible the Minister Responsible to Newfoundland Hydro is going to be in some difficulty for some time. That is understandable, Sir, but hopefully a way can be found to provide some capital cost in the water price to me as indication how please that some individuals who are being under the Housing Corporation had arrears of rent payment. Now, Sir, I do not believe that those are the kind of people who really need assistance in some more security, because they could quite readily qualify for a Housing mortgage in the private market and I know that funds there for the people who are genuinely in need of that kind of help.

MR. D. BRIAN HOWARD (CONSERVATIVE): Now, Mr. President, I would like to get to the nitty gritty of the appropriation Bill, that is dollars and cents. I think that it is very commendable, Sir, that the Government has found a way to come up with a surplus budget for the year 1986 while projecting for a deficit position. However, Sir, as I view a Private Member's Motion coming before this House of this to which some adjustments were made yesterday by the Member already, I will reserve my comments until the presentation of that motion. I do think though, Sir, that the Member was misled yesterday in relying the position what my motives for bringing those motions were. However, Sir, I think I would say more adequately deal with the position which he has taken on that the previously those motions.

Sir, the estimated expenditure for 1986 is $42.6 million, an increase of $4.6 million or 9.1 per cent. This is of considerable view by the Government, Sir, because they have projected a declining economy. I think economic have been declining for the last year, certainly for the last month of the year 1985, but I still join them in their optimism. I believe that the country is on the threshold of revitalization and I think that although the problems of this country were certainly greater than I anticipated in making allocations to offices, we hope the people there will not have the economic benefit. Who can fault this country out of the doldrums and I intend to offer them my full support to bring us and make investor confidence. I can in particular this, Mr. President, in the last couple of days on the debating of the Revenue Bills I have heard the words "double taxation" on different occasions, Sir. I hope that they were not using "double taxation" in the same terminology as I used it earlier in referring to the specific individual, but I will assume, Sir, that they were talking about the less fortunate people in this country. Now, Mr. President, much has been made of the argument that the Revenue Bills are going to affect those unfortunate people so terribly bad, Sir, any Government can but declare to the people that which is not from the people. In the past the revenue has been raised from the "Unwanted" Company in terms of increasing fees and charges of that nature and, Sir, the result of the matter is I have it to be that the less fortunate was never the target of the taxation. I do not think that there is any form of taxation which effectively taxes the rich to any extent other than in the form of direct taxation, Sir, and such as rates, high personal income, unemployment to create the situation which is what that already be based on. We have that there have been quite a few working persons we have had a fairly good growth rate that present for the last several years. In other circumstances, Sir, any form of taxation is going to stand up on the little man as they term him. This is nothing new. This is not something which the Government has decided up to present the Tax-Bills as to be performed to out of the little man. We are glad being a little more acceptable with the little man. We are making him to contribute and we are initiating the ways in which he will contribute. What has been done in the past, Sir, is they have had initiating him, "Now it must have to contribute, we will tax the banks, taxes companies and all the other areas of the financial industry and so will not upset your majority". That is not a fact, Sir. The fact is that when a banking license goes up my banking charges go up. When my banking charges go up as a merchant in this country, the prices on my shelves go up. When the prices on my shelves go up the little man have to pay more for the goods which he buys from my store. So it all stems up on the little man.

MR. D. BRIAN MILLER (CONSERVATIVE): Mr. Speaker, I would only like to say that I would be very glad to see a copy of Hansard which is being introduced by the new Government. It has always been that way. It is a straightforward point of fact.

I disagree with the Premier speaking yesterday in his argument on the Throne Speech. I will not go into the fact of misreporting but I think it should be pointed out that the Leader was right when he said that the Premier was not present.

MR. SPEAKER: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker....

MR. SPEAKER: I think you probably made a point of misinformation, but I am not quite...

MR. SPEAKER: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am being completely misquoted by the Liberal Member for North Bay. I did not say....

MR. SPEAKER: It is a point of misinformation. I suppose...

MR. SPEAKER: May I proceed my friend?

MR. SPEAKER: Well, let us speak for a moment. If you will sit down I will explain. I think it would be helpful if members were carefully certain what are points of order and what are points of explanation and if Hansard, with those two entirely opposite and there can be no misunderstanding would clearly understand what was permissible interruption. It is perfectly permissible to interrupt a speaking Member to move a Standing Order motion which is not a point of order but is not necessary to give up the floor to say that one is raising a point of order when a speaking Member misquotes him or when he thinks he can help by clarifying something which he is saying. However, under Standing Order 34(1)(b) of the speaking Member will not give way since he has to seek to secure his right to offer an explanation in terms of Standing Order 34(3). It is often helpful if the speaking Member will give permission to the Member and to ask him to give way on a point of order which then turns out not to be a point of order at all.

So I do not think that your interruption is a point of order. I think it is under Standing Order 34(1)(b). As far as I am concerned, provided the Liberal Member from North Bay, while he continues to be, is willing to allow you to misinform, you may continue speaking.

MR. LEONARD A. FISCHER: Mr. Speaker, that is exactly the section of the Standing Orders which I have risen before me and I wish to clarify what the Elected Member for North Bay has just said since he has given way.

Secondly, on my behalf of the People I said that we believed that as a matter of principle that we should be opposed to any form of racism in the most expressive form of racism, and because of the share of our economy that all people have to be equal in the face of each endeavour form of racism that it has a much greater effect on the White people. My White people I did not use the term in a derogatory manner. I spoke in the one time I will off and I believe, Sir, that the Elected Member for North Bay is quite aware of exactly what I meant by that. In any of your different remarks, I feel, in making the most important to the public and I will, Mr. Speaker, my rights will your permission if he continues to misquote me.

MR. D. FRANK WILLIAMS: Mr. President, I thought I had made it quite clear that I was not attempting to quote the Member in fear of misquoting him. I do not really....

MR. PRESIDENT: I am in the Member's hands, but I wonder whether we have been interrupted already it would be a convenient moment to withdraw for lunch. If you want to finish dealing with a point I am quite happy for you to spend five minutes on that ...

MR. D. FRANK WILLIAMS: Well, maybe we could just put this to rest.

MR. PRESIDENT: Put this to rest. Alright.

MR. D. FRANK WILLIAMS: Yes, sir. I was talking about import duty and I do not wish to question the Member concerned what he finally had said about it, but what I was getting to was that import duty is 33 per cent of the revenue in this country. My interpretation, Sir, and it is my right to interpret what he said, of what the Member was saying was that import duty causes more hardship to the little man than it does to some other sections of the community. However, Sir, I think that that part of the import duty which one contributes to one's purchasing power which the country can I believe, Sir, that as has previously been said the greater purchasing power the more necessity of the properties. I agree with that and therefore, Sir, it follows that those who have the greatest purchasing power in this country are going to make the greatest contribution in import duty.

We can take lunch now, sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: (Inaudible) I think we need time to digest that. Let us therefore suspend proceedings until 2.15 p.m.

AT 1.45 P.M. THE HOUSE RESUMED

BEING RESUMED AT 2.15 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. The Minister for Natural Resources.

MR. LIBERTO A. TORRES: Mr. President, there is a list of clarifications which we require. I do not know if you would take it at this point that we have misunderstood what he would be good if the House could have one point clarified before we continue so that we do not make a mistake which we have explained already through the proceedings. I would like to state the point if you do not mind, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Is this a separate point from the point which you clarified before?

MR. LAWRENCE A. ZIMMERMAN: Mike points have to do with section 301(b)(3) and section 316 of the Standing Orders since they relate to a point of order, we have developing practice and needs to say one is missing on a point of information, because there may be some quick points, namely that one relies on a point of order must take one minute that one's point of order is to be with an explanation or to elucidate or whatever?

MR. SPEAKER: My understanding of Standing Orders is that if a Member is relying on a point of order he is relying in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 301(3)(a). Under those circumstances he should not be relying on a point of order and he should immediately specify in detail what the points of order are and identify which order of the Standing Order he relies is being broken. If a Member is relying in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 301(3)(b), then it is not a point of order at all and he should simply say that he is relying in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 301(3)(b) to intervene the motion. The difficulty of making the intervention in that if a Member is relying on a point of order under 301(3)(a) he is absolutely entitled to be heard. Until I make that is in fact a point of order at all. If he is relying under 301(3)(b) then it is up to the Member being interrupted to decide whether to give way or not. If the Member being interrupted declines to give way then the intervention is entitled to have up to fifteen minutes to explain the terms of Standing Order 301(3).

Does that make it clear or not?

MR. ERNESTO M. ORTEGA: Quite good very much, Mr. President. I think that makes the point clearer than it was before.

MR. SPEAKER: Well that necessarily is how I interpret Standing Orders and it will be helpful, I invite all Members of any Member who does have a genuine point of order rather than to be relying under 301(3)(a) and specifically specifically the Standing Order which he has to be relying on, that that is those are only to be relying on a point of order that is just to be relying under Standing Order 301(3)(a).

Alright, and the Elected Member for Secret Ridge.

MR. D. EDGAR KILLICK: Mr. President, I would like to deal briefly with the capital expenditure. Limited experience is estimated at £2.5 million. There is a massive shortfall in unmet necessities this year and I do not agree with what was stated yesterday that there has been a cut in capital expenditure. I think that there is really an understanding between capital expenditure provided recently, and there is a view taken by the Government to the areas that we which need immediate and which require, capital expenditure.

I would also like to compliment the newly Elected Members of Executive Council on the way they have shown personally their capital expenditure budget, in that they achieved most of the objectives, in fact I think all of the objectives with reasons to why that needs were in the specific areas. I think, Sir, that they have done a commendable good job of spending every penny available, however,

I note, Sir, with pleasure that two out of my five requests this year have been provided for in the Budget, that is the replacement of Gibraltar Rock Road in North Side which is a road which was mentioned about five years ago and it never was completed to the stage where it would be useful to the farmers who live in the area. Also there is provision for five, not for

MR. D. EZEKIEL MILLER (CONTINUING): The extension of the North Side Primary School and development of the facilities there. So I wholeheartedly support these two areas.

The other area which I offer a lot of support to, Sir, is the $50,000 which they have provided for the construction of some more facilities for George Town, which I think are very much needed facilities.

Mentioning this point, Sir, that the Town Building was a good investment, and as I said earlier I do not think that it was a good investment and I think that is to turn out here in this even after paying the funds which were paid we have to allocate a figure in the capital expenditure of $600,000 to make the building useful as a Government administrative building. That is not to provide facilities. That is to fix the building so that it will be useful.

Sir, Mr. President, I agree with the other major pronouncements established in the Budget Address under capital expenditure, that is the water and sewage projects, the Central George Town Project, the sports and cultural centre and parks. The Post and Police Centre, and the School Buildings at the Lower Valley Consolidated High Schools in Cayman Brac and Cayman Brac. I think they have done a remarkable job like I said in providing the said amount and I offer them my congratulations, Sir.

It is with these remarks, Sir, that I offer my support to the Appropriation Bill, 1985. Thank you, Sir.

HON. PRESIDENT: Does any other Member wish to speak? I think the First Elected Member for the Lower Valley area.

CAPT. MARK E. MCCOSKEY: Mr. President, I take this opportunity to congratulate you, Sir, on this very impressive and comprehensive Throne Speech and I would like to thank and congratulate the Honourable Third Official Member for his very clear, progressive and comprehensive Budget Address which he delivered to this Honourable House on 1st March. I am indeed proud, Sir, to be able to stand in this Legislative Assembly once more, representing the people of the Third Electoral District of the Cayman Islands, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and to be able to make my contribution to this debate.

I am very thankful to all who helped to return me to this seat and I shall do all that I can to uphold their trust.

Mr. President, I am very concerned by the fact that I am the only Assembly to represent the people of my District and as a Member of the Legislature of the Cayman Islands. I shall always be guided by standing orders and your decisions as President. I feel this is the way all Legislatures should behave and why I ask all Members to consider the situation carefully. Let us put politics aside and join shoulder to shoulder to represent our people and to provide the proper Government for the people which they became used to the Cayman Islands.

Mr. President, I am very grateful to the present Elected Members of Executive Council for having which they have given to ordinary Members of this House of which I am one. This situation did not exist in the five previous years that I served as a Member here and I can assure you that it is very much welcomed and very helpful to the ordinary Members.

I again pledge my support to the Government and we have been my policy from the date I entered this House, I shall give them my full support wherever in my judgement their actions are in the best interests of the Cayman Islands.

CAPT. HERBERT D. KIRKCONNELL (CONTINUING): Mr. President, speaking on Clayton Lewis, Standard 3 of the Guyana Syllabus, which is accompanied by 80 miles of sewer water pipes, gives me quite a different approach to the needs of my people than other Members who have the privilege to reach central George Town. It is not in the position that Opposition Members are right now as their duties are very grateful, and would like to go on record to thanking each of the four Elected Members of Georgetown Council for their visits to my division so shortly after they took office. I think already we made by the fact that four of them were present in Clayton Lewis at the same time. I am also most grateful to them for allowing us to hold a public meeting at the same time during the Friday night that they visited, after everybody a complete tour of the island and seeing our needs and finding the funds for themselves.

I had the honour of chairing the platform with the four honourable Members and to serve as moderator for the night. Each Member enhanced considerably their portfolio and I would like to say at this time that this was very greatly appreciated by all in attendance, and I am sorry this did not attract more people since everyone that did not attend who would have enjoyed their visit very much. Again may I say thank you to each of the Honourable Members.

Mr. Speaker, I could not stand here and not thank the Honourable Minister for the work they have achieved since the administration during the four years it was his responsibility. We are very grateful for all the achievements which have been made in my division.

I must also state on behalf of my people that we feel we have failed in having my colleague the Honourable Third Elected Member of Georgetown Council as a Member of Georgetown Council, and in particular representing district administration. We are very grateful that you have placed this responsibility in the Ministry.

As I said earlier, we being separated by 60 miles from central George Town, myself a lonely who is unintelligible about the situation in the two smaller islands. We are possibly fifteen years behind the development in Great Guyana and we are struggling hard to achieve the gap.

In your Throne Speech, Mr. President, you stated most of the infrastructure necessary for economic development in Guyana are in place and I agree. You also stated that attention will be focused on attracting developers and visitors alike to help our economy to expand and to generate employment that is most meaningful. It is my view that the first step in achieving this points should be to obtain a market study for projected tourists and their numbers and how they would relate to Guyana first and Latin Guyana. There is an internationally respected firm in the United States, as recommended and unanimously given which has been functioning mainly in the Caribbean since 1957. This firm has also been lately studied in the Guyana Islands since 1977 and was responsible for the Guyana Islands tourist development plan. I strongly suggest that we employ a firm of this structure to make a study in Guyana first. In my opinion it would not be a costly outlay and it would invariably pay us on the right tracks for future development. I think this survey could be done in three phases, the first phase being a preliminary market assessment. I am told this could be done in approximately six weeks.

If the first phase proves the practicality then we could move on to the second and third phases which I understand would take approximately an additional three months

CAPT. WEST P. PINKOWSKI (continued): After hearing these figures at hand we could then make plans. It is noted that this year the new Airport plan for the Cayman Islands states that there was substantial opportunity in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman for development, while they considered that Grand Cayman was nominal saturated.

Mr. President, I therefore would appreciate it if the Honourable Member of Executive Council responsible for Tourism Aviation and Trade would give this study very serious consideration. It is my judgement that it will be a great step forward in the development of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, and will enable us to help ourselves, boost our economy and provide employment for our people with the needed development.

I strongly recommend the development of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman as an alternative means to further promote the Cayman Islands as a viable Caribbean resort for North Americans, Canadian and to a lesser extent Europeans tourists.

Mr. President, continuing to deal with my statement the present Cayman Airways fleet of five flights to Brac and Grand Cayman from Cayman Brac have often had to encounter the weather hazards in Cayman Brac and I am very grateful to the present management that they was fit to substitute the flights on Monday when it was proposed that they would be changed. We are finding that our reasons is gradually increasing and it is my hope that we will be able to help Cayman Airways and not continue to increase additional expenditures.

We are proud of the increase in our runway. We now consider our runway equal to if not better than the Owen Roberts Airport. Prior to my leave, Mr. President, to the airport terminal and I shall deal with them later. While desktop with Cayman Airways I have talked with the Chairman and the Member responsible for Tourism Aviation and Trade and made the point to me quite forcibly that if the relationship between Brac and Little Cayman as opposed to the scheduled service it was more, it would definitely encourage tourism in the two smaller islands. May I express my concern for having this Mr. President, the passenger being many small, that only 19 seats available created the situation where sometimes we have to use Cayman Brac to take them to Cayman Brac. Naturally, sometimes visiting to a destination may want to stay longer sometimes or another and not to be delayed and forced to pay additional hotel expenses in Grand Cayman, so they rather select their trip completely to Brac or Grand Cayman as their destination. If the Twin-Otter was working as a shuttle service with the first departure at 7.30 a.m. each morning and it would make flights approximately every three hours until the regular last one closed. It would provide to each and every person wishing to come to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman having guaranteed reservations on the same departing flight. This is done in the United Kingdom by British Airways and I understand it is very successful. I feel that it is worth our trying this to help Cayman Airways.

Mr. President, on my leave on the Caribbean Express I spoke of the higher freight rates which we have to pay to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I do not want to bore you by this statement but it is my responsibility to bring to this Honourable House the needs of my people and especially if I think I have them, to use paying a much higher per freight although the distance is almost the same. Except for the Cayman Islands is privileged to enjoy Customs and Trade therefore the local cost of our Ch'ng, KIONG H. KIONGOMESS (CONTINUING): Unemployment is unacceptably high. This is further aggravated by the fact that people from Upper Demerara who succeed in getting jobs in Upper Demerara still own land down this coast which they cannot develop because of lack of water. You see, Mr. President, when this Government is the cause of our misfortunes in the election, the cost of living in Upper Demerara has to be considerably higher than Upper Corentyne. This does not seem to discriminate under the heading of fraudulent, does it, Mr. Speaker, as I would be interested to hear what kind of explanations the Minister has to offer for this particular anomaly.

We are very proud of the development of our Public Hospital. The Minister of Economic Planning visited there on Study Night and I think they were quite impressed with what they saw. We realize that we have a health hazard and we are pleased by the fact that we have a facility such as we have, but the fact remains that many people in our interior who are not able to pay their medical fees. I understand that the Department of Social Services will take action on this matter and the indigent people who are unable to pay, their medical bills. I might be wrong but help of the Social Services in providing this facility for my people, as it presently that do not enjoy this privilege.

Mr. President, we have noticed with deep interest the development of the Water Authority here in Upper Demerara. I honestly feel that consideration will be given to this problem but I would not like the Water Authority to make available their services to people in Upper Demerara, because presently we have experiencing a very serious drought. They still owing to us the bills of the year and some of them are becoming very costly to correct. If a common water line could be connected,and we do not anticipate large quantities of water, I believe that they might be encouraged to use facilities.

Previous speakers have highlighted a change in our Liquor Licensing Law. Mr. President, I do not share their view. I feel that although we do need laws to regulate our liquor, we also need laws which will protect our churches and our schools. We must realize that alcohol is definitely not a necessity of life. It is a luxury and an expensive one at that,and I would advocate today of this in the case of the Government Revenue of this nature. Only the construction of a church or a mosque should be obtained in the Law that this consideration is given to locating it in my opinion. In our fast growing and drinking people must be protected and our churches and our youth, and I feel that considerable emphasis be given in this vein.

Mr. President, the Annual Estimates laid in November 1988 are, in my opinion, a very great disappointment. I would like at this time to congratulate the Chairman and his entire staff for the good work and also the people of the Upper Islands for the orderly manner in which the elections was conducted. It was a privilege to be and again I compliment all who took part in it.

I thank you Mr. Vice President, for the opportunity which I certainly have to the public and I feel that we as people citizens must do all we can to provide facilities for our youth and to prevent them going in the wrong

HON. MARY S. KINGSBURY (CONTINUED): Mr. Speaker, I congratulate all the cadets and the cheerleaders which are now the representative sports on the Cayman Islands. We have proud that a step has been taken forward in our district and the Cayman Sea Scouts Association has been formed. They are cheerily planning a camp to celebrate and I hope that it will be successful. I am very grateful to all who have volunteered and are continuing to help. It is encouraging our youth to participate in team-sport and to realize that team-work is necessary to be successful in their adult life.

I turn now to the Tourism sector. It is noted that at the end of 1992 there were 350 hotels and tourist accommodations and this was an increase of seven. I am happy to see that the market has increased and I hope this will continue to do so. It is also true that the satisfaction of the Government is down. We have the visibility and the infrastructure to work on.

Also we note in the Budget Address the recent visit the Cayman Islands Chamber Board in delegation to our Mainland Headquarters. We also heard of their growth and the purposes of the society.

Will anyone be correct explanation I am happy to see that this has not developed as many had predicted that it would. I am happy that this is continuing to hold its own and I am hoping that it will increase.

Further, when the Speaker has spoken our Cayman Islands dollar is proposed to our neighbours' Jamaican currency it really speaks highly for our tourist industry and the Ministry of Tourism Aviation and Trade that they continues to increase. I have talked to many and they all quickly say the cost is high but they do get the service, and I hope that a company employed within the American industry will continue their on and investments in Jamaica and that they will make every effort to give them a holiday worth for a dollar spent.

I would like at this time to congratulate Cable and Wireless on the establishment of the submarine cabled optic, between Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac and their other many developments here in Grand Cayman. We have a first class telecommunications system and for the first time ever the reception of television by cable and satellites are to able to visibly our local channels from Cayman Brac without slight interruption. It is a great improvement and I look forward to the further improvements which are planned and will come on stream towards the middle of this year. This necessary is to be computerized and modernized for the way they are providing the Corporations to take advantage possibilities in the telecommunications world.

Cayman Turtle Farm has had many set-backs both before the Government purchased it and since. It is my hope that the CITES meeting in Argentina in April this month in the United States to lift the ban on the sterile juveniles and let us go ahead with our planned development. I also feel that there is money to be made in shrimp, lobster and fish farming and that area should be given a careful look at, as if we had more than one product we certainly would have more than one choice.

The Fire Service, also a small Government body on the Cayman Islands is most exceptional. Our Chief Fire Officer and his staff in all they have accomplished during the years. The Grand Cayman station is ideally sited centrally to the East End, North Side area and I am happy to see that. I fully realize that it is also needed in the West Bay area and that I hope will come.

CAPT. ALBERT B. KINGCOMBE (CONTINUING). Thank heaven we do not have, Mr. President, where we have to depend on the fire service in Pigeon Cove and Gloucester. We would like to have as reasonable as possible but we do feel that we must have fireman on call 24 hours a day for we have had major fires! Our loss goes to eighteen months. There have been fires on files which has risen on that unfortunately which we had had in previous years. So the need for a reasonable fire service does exist.

The Police Department is playing a great part in the security and development of these Islands. I suspect each and every one of the officers who are in the Pigeon Cove area have quite a large job for a small force! and I feel that the time has come where both electronic help may assist because to employ the telephone in the station is hence a day. With the police cars having radio communications in them they could be sent to the scene in a short period of time. As it is we will the police car in the patrol car phone in to the station and there is no means of one has a hand for the police, of getting in contact with them unless they do go by the scene accidentally.

I am very proud to see that station, the largest welcome center in the Pigeon Islands will be housed in proper quarters in the very near future, in the Town building. Much has been said about the significance of the Town building. I suppose in them and I suppose so must. I think that is use a view similar taken by this Government. The location is near to this building, the Legislative Assembly and the Customs building and so does have Cooper Jane added it a great asset. It is also close to the Port Authority. It has been able to give proper heating to the many departments which will be occupied therefore and opened several floors. As I said I appreciated it then and I express for gratitude now.

Sandy and Army Department to speak! A very important part of our Government. In addition the development of these Islands. We understand that the Army Department still have active in Pigeon Cove and Little Cayman in the Cayman Islands Militia in order to help assist the Police Officers in order to help maintain the security of the Islands. We would like to have as reasonable as possible but we do feel that we must have fireman on call 24 hours a day for we have had major fires! Our loss goes to eighteen months. There have been fires on files which has risen on that unfortunately which we had had in previous years. So the need for a reasonable fire service does exist.

Hospital Department and Council. I could not attend the budget and pay my remarks to the late Dr. Lightfoot for his invaluable service to the community when he may rest be heard that department. I remember that without him and his department the success which we enjoy today would not have been possible. Any of us who remember what mosquitoes used a major factor responsible again.

The Planning Department. During the last year and a half I have had really close contact on a number of the Central Planning Authority and the Development Control Board in Cayman Brac and I am happy to see the progress that Department is making. The new head of the department, Mr. Peter King, is working very hard to help develop the Planning Department and I look forward to a whole. We have been most helpful to the Development Control Board in Cayman Brac. We have made the weekly phone and fax information on applications which we mail as members of the Board but is attached to assisting on the Department, and they are only too happy to help us. I would like to congratulate him on the job he is doing and thank him for his service to our Board in particular.

Our physicians. The health and welfare of our people is one of the major concerns. From whether to necessary, I fully realize that we can all have confidence to continue a balanced budget and to provide the necessary expenses for our people. Recently

MR. SPEAKER, MISCHIEVOUS CONSTITUENCY: We cannot forget the people of our communities who cannot help themselves. I hope that we will continue to give them even all the attention it needs.

I have touched on education, which is quite largely an urban part of my duties but, Mr. President, I am encouraged to see in the estimates that funds will be available from the contingencies of the Duty owed to Cayman Brac and its airport terminal. We need to ensure that it is not just paid on promises but we are seeking an improved air terminal.

We must do more to help the people. Our airports cannot be presently located very close to the runway and with the way jets the tarmac will give us the required international distance and provide facilities to welcome people to come to our Islands. We do not want and we do not need something as elaborate as Grand Cayman, but we do want that it be modern to attract and efficient to the needs of our community.

Mr. President, I could go my full debate on the Throne Speech and Budget Address that I will very probably but one of the Cayman Islands could accommodate a budget that of Sixty million, having a population of under 17,000 people. Today we are debating a budget of Sixty-six million. This places requirements, Mr. President, truly a large budget for a small community and I congratulate the Members of Government on how they have approached the various departments. I realise that the economies have been a difficult one, but I think, from observations here today and I am looking forward to further discussions this is a reasonable budget.

Mr. President, I agree with the needs of our dependable Police Officials member on his pleading remarks on the Budget Address and I would like to quote them—

> "There is no doubt in my mind, Mr. President, that the Cayman Islands is one of the most profitable financial centres, and so are, in my view, on the threshold of great things for these Islands and our people, but we need to concentrate on the world around us, lest we lose this opportunity."

These are wise words, Mr. President, and I hope that all the people will give them their serious consideration.

Mr. President, I had hoped that I would have gone on for considerably longer, but I am having problems with my throat and Members have been quite so brief on myself I will try to conclude at this time.

In conclusion I would like to thank you, Sir, for the Throne Speech and the Honourable Third Official Member for the very relative Budget Address. May I again ask all Honourable Members of this Legislative Assembly to take initiative out of their problems in this Chamber, and abide by the Standing Orders. We should all remember that every word spoken in this Legislative Assembly is recorded in the Hansard and is now considered part of Public Expense. In this white world we live in we must be therefore be very considerate in our actions.

Mr. President, I suppose the Appropriation Bill, 1981, will look forward to going this debate in the Committee Stage.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: I'd like to ask for one additional question before we go to another Member wishes to speak, which that if he speaks for any length of time he may break before he finishes. I think that it will be convenient for someone to do so.

(PAUSE) Does anyone else? The Member certainly may rest I shall be obliged to invite the Honourable Third Official Member to exercise his right of reply.

(PAUSE) Would the Honourable Third Official Member wish to exercise his right of reply?

HON. TRAVER C. JEFFERSON: No, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Sorry!

HON. TRAVER C. JEFFERSON: No, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: There is that anyone of the Members wishes to speak. (PAUSE) If the Standing Order says I think. If no Member wishes to speak the question is that the Bill entitled a Bill for a law to authorize certain expenditure for the purposes of the financial year, 1965. be read a second time and in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 52(1) that Bill and the motions would then stand suspended to Friday next. So if no Member wishes to speak... the First Elected Member for Dodan Town.

MR. JAMES H. DOUGLAS: Mr. President, I will speak on the Estate Duty question until the house adjourns and I promise you I will be back tomorrow also.

If the Elected Members and the Government Bench with the exception I think that our voices will not be heard at the end. My colleague the Second Elected Member for Dodan Town is prepared to take his chance or speak as one of the last.

I am very pleased to be here to debate the Loan Budget. There are many people who I am sure present that my colleague and myself would not be having [illegible] to our people in the Dodan Town Division as some returned civil & judiciary criticism the noise or person responsible for employment. I must point it to the opposition that they have as a good point and that they realised as very sensitive. I am sure the more like very sorry apologising to them at the end.

Unfortunately in this already connected elsewhere more of my other party, three colleagues have returned to the house, but they will prove that the Government policy to be the people of the Dodan Division and the Legislative Assembly. I wish to pay tribute to my other colleagues of the party even those objected and I wish to endorse the Government of the day that we will be fair and that they will be fair.

In my constituency the voice of the majority prevails and that is what happens here. The people had their own representation there and for what reason I do not know. However, they felt unable to show this. As I go around and talk with people I encounter many the same thing, strong disappointment of the present administration and they are now angry because of taxes for what they see happening to the country.

Much discussion has gone on and much will follow my debate, but how much is what I personally am ashamed to see the many members of this Legislature and the Elected Members of Executive Council would try to manipulate the party, manipulate the funds and try to stop the people's voice

Mr. JAMES K. DUGGAN (CONTINUED): developments of this country which he's been going on very successfully. I have mentioned many times that they appear to generate the fears of the Guyana Taiwan to the people abroad if they continue to abandon the previous administration and to tell the people that the country is broke.

I'm a new group to the bank of Guyana maybe he would be very foolish to start blaming to see the bank manager of he's going to tell the bank manager that he is broke; he has no reserves, he has got nothing and expects to stay there the next week, and he has no insurance, because it would then be very foolish for the bank manager to even talk to him, much less consider loaning him money. That is the position which our Minister of Economic Growth and Planning is put into finding us.

I am very pleased that the Government has a public servant who is capable of painting vividly the facts as he has so capably done and I refer to the honourable Third Official Member. I imagine that it has been a very difficult task with all of the garbage which has been thrown around him to be able to present the true financial picture of the country to the people as he has so ably done.

Mr. President, it does not take a great genius to play with the figures as the Minister of Economic Growth does them. Mr. President, if only a country was broke and on its knees, and suffering gloom and depression it was this country in 1992. The records will bear out what I point to saying. At that time the country had a very small budget. The money which the Government was capable of borrowing was very small. There was no Guyanese there was no exception. If my memory serves me correctly the maximum that the country at that time was able to borrow was $3.5 million. But the country had a long term debt of about $7.5 million, and the Gross National Product was also low. I may not have my calculator and myself to back me in my arguments for saying that the country was in a very poor position at that time.

It is true that the administration had some public buildings, but it was also true, Mr. President, that the payments on these capital expenditures did not begin until after the party was administration took over in 1992. So the money which they had spent to build these Government buildings was money which was not borrowed by any stretch. If a country with a debt of about $5 million in 1992 and assets of about $7.5 million was not broke but in the world was a country to be broke in 1994, when we had a capital and Revenue of over $20 million. At what point, if I can comment and I think that I can, the Minister could stand on around $10 million with appreciation $8 million of that having been brought forward from the administration of 1992.

The Co-Operative Secretary as I am sure he was the one responsible for preparing these figures and presenting them to the public and probably encouraging his other colleagues to argue them with him, should be ashamed of himself for having watched the part of Financial Secretary with the attendant lawyers and for giving this position and probably trying to use his finest position to lay to mislead the people of this country in the manner he has done. I wish he was here today to hear me, but I hope that the good Lord is helping me and that the advice of the Devil is helping mine; and I am going to ahead and do so.

Mr. President, this country prospered in the years 1992 to 1994 which the only term administration has to its never experienced before, and probably will ever in the future. During that time this country was able, to spend $20 million on capital expenditure from many lines projects. There were very few projects of the country which existed at the attention to which

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS (Delaware): I move his withdrawal sir. It is the only time in the existence of the Civil Service Commission in this country that the Civil Service Rules have been violated to such a shocking degree. It may not look so bad down here in the Midwest where the Government has to ask the Civil Service not to use for a while, but to which some sharks of voting areas.

I am very proud that my home the people of the Midwest in this Federal Government can be heard since we happened to invest three of us in the House.

I suppose fully the violence which came about by our administration that I have that my colleagues who are here with me today also fully support it. We have nothing to hide. We have nothing to be ashamed of. We have the people of the Civil Service Commission to our country and we have taken pride in this country which nobody else. My colleague from Rhode Island, Thank God, can claim one party in this country, which none have the first position in this country. It is a name which has been honored through the history of this country and the people of that name have played a great part in the development of this country. We are proud of that background. We have our roots here. We intend to stay here and we intend to carry on the fight.

Mr. Chairman, I will try to work with the Democratic Party as we have in the past.

MR. PRESIDENT: Would it be a convenient moment, sir, you have to have received a natural break for us to take the afternoon break.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: I am in your hands for the next four days, sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Well if it is the time then, I can state that a breakfast will not come again. I still suppose proceedings until approximately 4:30 p.m. That is about fifteen minutes.

AT 3:22 P.M. THE HOUSE RECESSED

HOUSE RECONVENED AT 3:40 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.
Proceedings are resumed.
The first Democrat Member for Indiana

Miss.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGS: Mr. President, the Democratic people have always been people who have been very progressive people who are very independent minded people who have tried to make their own way in life and to make their mark in history. This has been brought about because of our affiliation with the sea. Most have Democratic Governors have followed the sea and although a lot of

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT (SAINT KITTS): Delegations regrettably have left their seats at precisely the moment I have wanted their people to be reminded of it. I am very proud of the people of Guyana because I have always said that the only contribution we have in the world is the Jewish faith. They are the only people who have suffered and been through the administration of each one that we have. I am very proud to be able to stand in this House as a representative of the Saint Kitts district. In case the Members had forgotten it, it is the first capital of the Islands. It will be the capital again and it is the political capital.

For my convenience I am going to deal with the Budget Address and the Throne Speech separately. There may be occasionally some overlaps.

The speech which you, Mr. President of this Assembly have delivered to the House was duly done. I cannot associate myself with it having unfortunately done, but it was duly done. It is a speech which deserves much praise and thought. I will deal with what I consider to be the important points in your speech.

You, Throne Speech similarly to the United States wants us how the State of the Union message vastly despite the existence of the Cold War peace and the hopes and aspirations for the years to come.

The year 1989 saw the country have two Presidents (cancelled), one sponsored by the party which and the other one by a third party nevertheless Democratic the country seem. So you do the year, your task to contend with the difficult problem of opinion with regard to what was taking place in the country. Mr. President, I distinctly feel that the people of our country are disillusioned because they went through a period of eight years when the presidency in this country was utilized; when the people from all walks of life had a chance to make a decent livelihood for their families. They did not have to worry as we are all worrying now that some of those were going to be forced on them in the next attempt of this Government. The accomplishments of this country in the past eight years was phenomenal. We had received a push where we were the envy of many parts of the world, particularly in the Caribbean. We like to associate ourselves with the Caribbean because we are a part of it. Unfortunately we cannot move ourselves out of the Caribbean. As unfortunate happens in the Caribbean we are going to have some sort of effect on the Guyana Dollar.

I do only wish that this year, your year has the dedication of our new Chief of Staff. We have had over many months of grave worry, many crisis conversations with Caracas. Outside from Caracas in this country, one of Venezuelan descent, invisibly account for about 30 per cent of our economic population. The people of Venezuela have helped the Guyana dollar many a hard pressed and many of them have been very supportive of this country. Many of them in grave fear helped to shape the destiny of this country by electing as representatives to the Legislature Assembly. So we must not lose sight of the fact that we are closely linked. Anyway, Mr. President, there comes a time in the history of a country where there comes a time in the growing period of a man, and a woman where they like to know that they have entered the ranks of maturity or manhood. The Guyana Situation has come to that place and I sincerely wish the very best we made and was glad to make that move to put us out on our own of dispute. The only thing which I regret is that no Caymanian was the privilege possibly at this time to put on this Cloak. I will consider it a great honour in this country if we ever reach the stage where Caymanians can be appointed to the Court of Appeal.

MR. JAMES M. HODGE (continued): I feel that we have reached the point where we should call the whole end not some other minority, and I think that is the issue the Court appeal will have to answer in that manner. What they will look on that as giving jurisdiction completely to the Supervisor people.

I will endorse mostly to the part of your Thesis Speech which deals with the Civil Service. According to the figures delivered by you, Mr. President there are 1,600 people employed in the Civil Service at this moment. I do not believe that that takes into account the people who work on a day to day basis in the Public Works and maybe the Health Department and across like that. I am sure that by the time everything is accounted for this Government is directly responsible today for 25 per cent or more of the work force's employment. That is contrary to the point where it is becoming alarming. Any Civil Service in any country which grows to the proportions number in which ours has grown calls for serious study.

I feel as I have said for many years now I proclaimed to the Executive Council for the whole time that I was there, that the time has come to curtail further employment in Government positions. I know that this is a difficult thing to accomplish and many people will get hurt, but again the country as a whole will benefit. I feel that it is time that we come to grips and change some of the rules and regulations which govern employment in the Civil Service. We have many dedicated Civil Servants; many people who have been there for many years at small salaries and so forth, but we must now consolidate and make changes. The picture is a very serious one. It is one which requires examination. It is one which could build up visible unemployment and if the services of this country is such that is the area which we can really look to.

In my opinion a small cost of hard pushed people should be granted from Portfolio to Portfolio in Government so that when the time comes and there is an unexpected Hurricane or as a Permanent Secretary we could then be able to reach out and get capable people to fill those positions. As it is now, we depend too much on Temporary. We depend too much on subvention in the Civil Service coming by filling a dead man's boots. I feel that we have to be cautious with this system we will be paying out too much money for what is not in return. It is an area which in my opinion certainly should be given to.

Another area, Mr. President, is the unemployment rate among first school leavers. They should be imbued in possibilities of responsibility commensurate with their ability and their needs rather than just being put into a job to fill the time lapse. When a young man or a young woman has gotten from passing abroad in any university or college they acquire different habits to what they were used to in the Caymans. Their perspective of life has broadened and they do not just, I would say rightly so, that they should come back in and take a position with any person who has opened a post for twenty years and they are enjoying going home.

We must get to the point where we create the Civil Servants on merit and merit only. Our permanent will shortly become disillusioned and they will leave the Civil Service and go into the private sector unless there is a change of environment there. There is a chance for that to take responsible positions. There is not that sense of frustration hanging over their head while waiting to their going a more responsible position.

Too many times I know have one young people come back and join the services and they are put in positions where their job is under less than people from abroad, or with less than someone who has come there for two or three years from

Mr. CHRIS M. BROWN (CONSERVATIVE): I'm sure many other people have some kind words to say in this debate, but I am particularly pleased to support the motion moved by my hon. friend the Member for Ayr (Mr. Hamilton) because it will be my last opportunity to speak in a debate on the police before I am no longer a Member of this House. I have enjoyed my time here, and I am grateful to the people of Ayr for having given me the opportunity to represent them in this Assembly. I have always tried to be fair to the police, and I am grateful to them for the way they have responded to me. I have also enjoyed my time in the Scottish Office, and I am grateful to the Minister of State, the Under-Secretary and the hon. Member for Edinburgh, Central (Mr. Lynda) for the way they have responded to me.

I am delighted that the Minister has announced the appointment of a new Chief Constable for Strathclyde. I am sure that he will be a welcome addition to the police force in Scotland. I am also pleased that the Minister has announced the appointment of a new Chief Constable for Lothian and Borders. I am sure that he will be a welcome addition to the police force in Scotland.

I am delighted

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY (Belleville): Mr. President, I think it is disgraceful, Mr. President, in the face of violent opposition by a handful of people, I would say, against the most Conservative of parties, I know that Mike Harris is back for debate here and I will hold openly to that debate when the time comes. I believe that steps should have been taken by the Government to stop the abuse and the violence which grew to involve a professional man who conducted his office, in my opinion, in a very professional manner. It is time that the entire Conservative Caucus and I will stand here loudly and vigorously against which I believe to be right. I feel that the man was held a hostage because of the fascist actions of a few inside the proceedings. I am ashamed, as I have said before, Mr. President, not from the side of the Conservatives of Ontario, but on the back of taxpayers for two and one-half and the lack of support for the man who fulfilled the highest police position in the country to be assassinated out of the country in the manner which these persons planned Government did.

I final strongly, Mr. President, that it was another story of the trade unionists and the tax-payers of this country. On behalf of my party in order for a few individuals to have their way, something which I thought could not have been done under any kind of Government. Unfortunately I was wrong on that one as I have been in so many things lately with regard to the present administration.

I will endorse my most sacrifice of my thanks to the working people. My home having made over the past eighteen years the ancient city which we are fortunate enough to call our home and I am proud to have been associated with the citizens here and I am glad to know that our people today are not being used obviously not being recovered from the face of those brave lives because they have terminated a union.

I am going to deal with this subject in two ways. I am going to deal with what I think is the long term answer as the answer and I am going to try to work to be the rehabilitation other also. I have said from time to time the criminals should be made to work. I think that is a fair thing, even if it is the professional people have more to the mental health of the person concerned that is not carried on [illegible] unfortunately, during time I have been asked this subject is been many requests. I am in favour of a rehabilitation system to be put into effect to help those people. It is my own [illegible] those people from the community for one, two, three, five years or whatever it may be if we do not try to rehabilitate them in some such like society humanly. I will be the first one to agree that might be difficult to rehabilitate a person who has moved from to the cause to prison because every effort which society to check this must definitely have changed by that time, but I think we should have an attempt at it.

I am not one who believes in being cruel because I think that the state may have other for it. Some criminals [illegible] should be given any liberty to which they could be

MR. HUGHES (CONSTITUENCY): Just what sort of public service rather than being one of crisis. Perhaps the youngster at that point will merely be standing on his legs for the first time since he has entered this parliament.

I am sure the House will welcome the assurance that the maximum sentences will remain as they are, unless it would be for the purpose of consistency that the maximum sentence should be increased. It is really disgraceful that while there has been the appropriate panic when we quite rightly are powerfully home over 100 people in one raid and maybe a dozen or more waiting to go there, ... It appears to be that the prison is basically more secure where everybody wants to be an unpalatable solution since to that. We rightly object to go to this prison. However, more and more the prisons do become filled.

Which way do Government's thinking on sentencing must be accentuated. We need a system where there will be more checks and balances to it. The identity cards which were spoken of in your speech will be a means of easily distinguishing the people who are here under false pretences, but I have really to think about its, because if we start handing cards to every man, woman, child. The people of foreign origin will have to be issued a different card to enable them to be distinguished from. I would never like to think that the identity cards would be used in a manner similar to what has been done with the unfortunate system in South Africa.

In addressing the Nassau Agreement which was entered into last year between this country, the United States of America and the United Kingdom much was quite said about this particular weapon system. However, I am happy to see that these Polaris are now gradually, as we are beginning to realise that it was a step made in the right direction. It has got us in a much stronger bargaining position and it identifies the British Islands as an area where we are not trying to build an atomic bomb as many others. I am sure that in the progress with this there will be some slips from time to time, but it is much better to have these slips, Mr. Speaker, than to find the cross which our country would have faced if we had gone on such lengths because of lack of initiative. I would like the Members of the present Government that it is not too late to deal with the negotiations which will be attendant to this particular agreement in the future. When any steps are taken by this Government with regard to this agreement in the future, I hope that the members of Government will consultations to appear with Members of the House as can come under the wide term consultation when an application is. I hope that they will not find themselves out in the dark dealing with this, trying to keep the rest of us from knowing what they are doing.

I would also make that that this agreement, to be successful and not have the pressures of this country, must be negotiated and carried out in many different matters over many years to come. Great pressure will be exerted on the United States multilateral use also by the United Kingdom submarines to get us to accede to further requests. I would hope that any changes in this will be given by giving it on the basis of Polaris rightboush nombs for the next eight agreements, eighteen months for the next eight agreement until eventually we may get to the stage that we will have a choice. However, by that time the country should have built up an that it would not be affected by the moves then to make, but if we made hurriedly and agree to all the requests which the United States Government will put before us, the only other future we could bring ourselves is a very gloomy and depressing one on this country.

MR. JAMES M. HOUSER (COUNTY): As a point of order, Mr. President, I think that we ought to come to a conclusion as to whether or not you had an Eighteen Committee Council for two or three months ago because nobody knows. I would like to speak again to indicate to me that you were only elected into the Eighteen Member Committee and not one of the Thirty members of the Thirty Member Council. Regardless of whether just Democratic elected officials or any of those individuals could have thought that member would have been made in a more diverse manner than the manner in which you did it.

Someone has seen fit to re-classify the Committeemen of the Elected members of Democratic Council since the last election. I am glad to see that all some of the re-classifying it took so many people to do since a few people made some decisions. It is obvious to the Elected Members of this House that the country as a whole that re-classifying our Democratic Committee Council will find dissatisfaction with enough work to keep them busy.

MR. SPEAKER: I think that that has now come for our edification.

ADJOURNMENT

MOTION BY MR. HOUSER: Mr. President, I move the adjournment of this House until 10:00 a.m. tomorrow morning, CST.

MR. SPEAKER: The question is that this House do now adjourn until 10:00 a.m. tomorrow morning. Those in favor signify by saying Aye; opposed Nay. The Ayes have it, and the motion carries, and it is so ordered. The House stands adjourned until 10:00 A.M., TUESDAY, 31ST MARCH, 1981.

FRIDAY

31ST MARCH, 1995

10:30 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Prayer to be recited.
Proceedings are resumed. Questions.
The Elected Member for North Side.

QUESTIONS

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR NORTH SIDE TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH, EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 22: SHOULD THE MEMBER STATE THE COST OF THE NEW SIGNS RECENTLY INSTALLED AT THE HOSPITAL, INCLUDING LABOUR?

ANSWER: NO SIGNS HAVE RECENTLY BEEN INSTALLED AT THE HOSPITAL AND THEREFORE THERE HAVE BEEN NO COSTS ASSOCIATED WITH THE PURCHASE OR INSTALLATION OF THE SAID SIGNS.

SUPPLEMENTARY:

MR. F. LEONARD MILLER: A supplementary, Mr. President. I wonder if the Member could state clearly that there has been no labour cost in relation to the signs at the hospital, whether they have been erected or not?

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think, well, I will allow the Member to ask, but the question is the cost of signs recently installed.

HON. ALDRIN O. ROGERS: Mr. President, that is a fairly broad question, but maybe I could give the Member some information that would help. That is that although no signs have been installed, a signage plan for the hospital to be used in the future has been devised and the cost of that was $1,000.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no further supplementary, I will invite the Elected Member from North Side to ask the next question.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR NORTH SIDE TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

NO. 23: WHAT IS THE MEMBER STATE WHETHER ANY FUNDS WERE RECOVERED FROM THE CAYMAN ISLANDS TREASURY UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF BRITAIN MINISTER'S NOTICE NO. 1 OF 1993 - DOMINICIDER OF SOLOMON - PASSED BY THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY ON 1ST DECEMBER, 1993?

ANSWER: THE MOTION, AS SUCH, DID NOT AUTHORIZE ANY EXPENDITURE AND NO FUNDS WERE REQUIRED UNTIL THE COMMON DEFENSE FUNDING UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 3 OF 1983

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

DR. G. BAYO ADEKOYA: Mr. President, may I ask the Member if he can tell us how this use of the spending of funds compares with the spending of funds on the investigations which were tabled by this member?

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not really think that is a supplementary that arises out of the answer to the question. If the Member wishes to find out the cost of various investigations then he can put down a substantive question about it.

DR. G. BAYO ADEKOYA: That is fair enough, Mr. President. May I also ask if the Member can state how this use of the spending of funds compares with the $50,000 given to the Commissioner whose premature passing of the Scene was for some fundamental wage remained to this?

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not really think that is a supplementary either, but I suspect you think you have made your point.

MR. O. SEGUN MILLER: Mr. President, a supplementary, Sir. The Member in his answer stated that the motion did not authorise the disbursement of any funds. Could the Member advise how the persons can merely be indemnified fully for expenses without spending any funds that they have themselves?

DR. THOMAS O. ADEDOKUN: Mr. President, my understanding is that the motion was recommending strongly that the Commissioner should be indemnified or be invited to proceed with that mission. However, the authority for disbursement by the Commissioner would have to be brought back to the House.

MR. PRESIDENT: Perhaps it will be of assistance to the House if I explained that the motion would have been, in my view, an contravention of Standing Orders had it sought to authorise expenditure. I advised the motion because it contained a recommendation, not an authority, and as the Honourable Chief Opposition Member said, it would have been necessary to return to the House for the authorisation of expenditure.

DR. G. BAYO ADEKOYA: Mr. President, may I ask the Member if it is correct that the only body which can authorise expenditure is the Finance Committee?

DR. THOMAS O. ADEMOREN: Mr. President, that is correct, the only authority is the Chief which can authorise expenditure is Finance Committee.

MR. PRESIDENT: I wonder if the Honourable Member, before we be make it public please to the House, would like to mention also the constitutional provision..... which I am trying to find:

SIR, KIRWAN J. MURPHY: Section 3(1)(a) may be relevant.

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think it is 3(1)(a). I am thinking for the precision of the Constitution which envisages the Oireachtas to certify exemptives under certain circumstances. I am sure there is such a provision.

MRS. CORY, CHARLES J. HAUGHEY: Mr. President, would it not be "Government's reserved power - 28(1)(b)"?

MR. PRESIDENT: That is limited to a period when the territory is in receipt of financial assistance. Perhaps that is what I am thinking of. It does not apply at present, but there are circumstances under which it could theoretically apply.

I am sorry to have interrupted the business of the House, but I think the supplemental answer to the Honourable Third Principal Member has given.

If there is no further supplementary, I will invite the Second Principal Member for Post and to ask the next question.

THE SECOND PRINCIPAL MEMBER FOR POST AND TELEGRAPHS (MRS. MACKEON): I am directed by the Government to answer Question No. 24.

No. 24: MR. MACKEON asked the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs if the Government is aware of the hardship caused to persons living in the Dublin Mountains by the lack of telephone facilities; and if he will make a statement on the matter.

ANSWER: The Government has taken a decision to introduce a Bill to establish a Water Board for the licensing of fishing and a Minister of Authority.

MR. PRESIDENT: Unless there is any supplementary, I will invite the Second Principal Member for Post and to ask the next question.

THE SECOND PRINCIPAL MEMBER FOR POST AND TELEGRAPHS (MRS. MACKEON): I am directed by the Government to answer Question No. 25.

No. 25: MR. MACKEON asked the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs if the Government is aware of the hardship caused to persons living in the Dublin Mountains by the lack of telephone facilities; and if he will make a statement on the matter.

ANSWER: The Government has taken a decision to introduce a Bill to establish a Water Board for the licensing of fishing and a Minister of Authority.

MR. PRESIDENT: Unless there is any supplementary, I will invite the Second Principal Member for Post and to ask the next question.

THE SECOND PRINCIPAL MEMBER FOR POST AND TELEGRAPHS (MRS. MACKEON): I am directed by the Government to answer Question No. 26.

No. 26: MR. MACKEON asked the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs if the actual cost will be of laying of and erecting the 200-ft. surface around the new Airport terminal during its construction;

ANSWER: The small areas of roadway broken and replaced during the roadworks of car parks and associated areas around the new terminal building, these were in the Northern Bonding Handling Area and the Passenger Short-Stay Car Park. The costs only represented approximately 10 yards of roadway. Upon instruction by Public Works Representative Engineers, these areas showed to be below the required quality and some inconsistency removed and replaced by the paving contractors responsible for supply and placing this element of roadway. This work was carried out at no additional cost to Government.

SUPPLEMENTARY:

MR. O. RAYE BOWDEN: Mr. President, may I ask the Member if it is correct that the reason for appointment Public Works Department to monitor these jobs was that there could be supervision of the works to ensure quality and to ensure that the people get value for the money which was spent by Government?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, the answer is yes.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no further supplementary, I will invite the Second Elected Member for West Bay to ask the next question.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD ELECTED MEMBER REPRESENTING MIN COMMUNICATION WORKS AND DISTRICT ADMINISTRATION:

NO. 85: WILL THE MEMBER STATE HOW MANY PERSONS HAVE BEEN LAID OFF BY THE PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT SINCE 14TH NOVEMBER, 1984, GIVING A BREAKDOWN OF CAYMANIANS AND NON-CAYMANIANS?

ANSWER: THE NUMBER OF PERSONS LAID OFF BY THE PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT SINCE 14TH NOVEMBER, 1984, IS TWENTY-FOUR. OF THESE, TWO WERE CAYMANIAN AND TWENTY-TWO WERE NON-CAYMANIAN. ALL WERE CASUAL PAID EMPLOYEES.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JOHN B. MCLEAN: Mr. President, a supplementary. Will the Honourable Member say whether any of these persons, who were laid off, have been reinstated?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, I understand that some of them have been reinstated.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: A supplementary, Mr. President. Would the Member state whether the two Caymanians laid off were reinstated?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, I am not sure on that, Sir.

MR. JOHN B. MCLEAN: Mr. President, another supplementary. Is the Honourable Member able to tell this Honourable House the reasons for having to lay off twenty-four persons from the Public Works Department?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, the workload in Public Works Department was reduced; the money for capital projects has not been approved and no capital projects can be started until approved by Finance Committee. This was the reason of the reduced workload. Secondly, the laying off of labour was to make more jobs available for Caymanians.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, I just comment, Sir. I am confused by that answer because my supplementary was .....

MR. PRESIDENT: You must ask another question.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: My supplementary, Mr. President, was would the Member state whether the two Corporations were re-employed. The Honourable Member's answer was that the laying off of persons was to provide employment for Non-Africans. So I was surprised by that answer, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: But you must form your supplementary. I propose to move on to the order ...

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Would the Honourable Member, Mr. President, say if he has opinion laying off for Non-Africans will provide labour for additional Corporations?

MR. SPEAKER: No, I am afraid the Honourable Member cannot be asked for opinions. There is a Standing Order that provides that, but you could, for instance, ask the Honourable Member how many additional Corporations have been taken on because some of his unemployed can be the effect that some had, and that might have confused you.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, would the Honourable Member state the number of Corporations who have been taken on?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKWOOD: Mr. President, I am afraid I do not have the answer on that, but I would be happy to supply this information to the Member.

MR. SPEAKER: I think it might help Members if you were able to let them know whether the two Corporations who were laid off have been re-employed and how many Corporations have been taken on during this period, because you did tell the House that was one of the reasons for laying off non-Corporations. So I think that perhaps might be helpful to Members and I am grateful to you for undertaking to provide the information.

The Elected Member for East End.

MR. JOHN H. MEGGAN: Mr. President, the Honourable Member has stated that twenty-two non-Corporations have been laid off in order to create jobs for Corporations. Can the Member say what will happen to the non-Corporations once Corporations are found for them?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKWOOD: Mr. President, I think that is something I am unable to answer, Sir.

MR. JOSE B. MARKS: Mr. President, since ...

MR. PRESIDENT: I think it would be for another Member to ..... answer that question because the explanation is, would they have to leave the country, then it is an immigration matter which should be addressed to the Honourable Chief Official Member promptly.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKWOOD: Mr. President, the immigration authorities were advised of the lay off of these foreign labourers.

MR. JOHN H. MEGGAN: Mr. President, that is the answer I wanted, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: If there is no further supplementary, I will invite the Elected Member for East End to ask the next question.

THE ELECTED MEMBERS FOR SOUTH END MAY ASK THE HONOURABLE UNITED SECRETARY ACCESS RESPONSIBILITY FOR CONSERVATION WORKS AND DEVELOPMENT ADMINISTRATION

NO. 87: WILL THE HONOURABLE UNITED MINISTER ASSURE THE PEOPLE OF CONSTANCE ASPHALT ROT-MIX ON THE ROAD FROM MOUNT TO SAUK AND ALSO EXTEND THE ELECTRICITY BY 1962?

ANSWER: THERE ARE NO PLANS TO CARRY OUT SUCH WORK BY EITHER OF THE TWO YEARS BY 1962.

THE CAPITAL BUDGET PROPOSALS DO INCLUDE PROVIDING OF ASPHALT-MIX COATING TO 14 MILES OF ROAD FROM DEARBORN TO MOUNT AND A PROVISION FOR EXTENSION OF ELECTRICITY. UNFORTUNATELY, THIS PROJECT UNFORTUNATELY DOES NOT INCLUDE IN THE 1962 CAPITAL BUDGET.

IT IS, HOWEVER, GOVERNMENT'S INTENTION TO CONTINUE TO HAVE THIS SURFACE ON THE ROAD IN THIS AREA SUBJECT TO INCREMENTS OF 1.50 2 MILES PER YEAR SUBJECT TO AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS.

SUPPLEMENTARY:

HON. E. RAY ROBERTS: Mr. President, may I ask the Honourable Member if he is aware that there are eight four years, eight years, his-self has been put on the roads department from the government of Indian Head every year.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. MACDONALD: Mr. President, sir, I

MR. PRESIDENT: I'm sorry sir is supplementary. I will invite the Hon. Minister for Indian Head to ask the next question.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR SOUTH STRIKE ARE THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER RESPONSIBLE FOR TOURISM AND CENTRAL AFFAIRS

NO. 88: DURING THE YUKON STATE MINISTER CONFERENCE SPEECH, DO HIS OWN WORK WITH ANY ACCORD, EXPRESSED HIS RESIGNATION OR WAS HE REQUESTED BY CABINET TO WITHDRAW INTO TAKING THIS ACTION?

ANSWER: NO CABINET MINISTER ANNOUNCED THAT HOWEVER THE HONOURABLE HAS HE HAS DECIDED TO RETIRE EARLY. HIS OWN WORDS WERE QUOTED IN A PRESS RELEASE ISSUED AT THAT TIME. I AM ENCLOSED A COPY OF IT IN CASE THE MEMBER DID NOT SEE IT THEN, BUT I HAVE NOTHING TO ADD TO IT.

SUPPLEMENTARY:

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: Will he not considered by Cabinet to, which authority or recommendation from the Elected Executive Council that it should be done if he considers his resignation and make an offer to settle his contract?

HON. DENNIS H. ROGERS: I have no knowledge of that at all.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: My question to Minister Committee to a question put there that the Elected Members of Executive Council had been the cause to grant his removal. Did you subscribe there?

MR. DENNIS M. BROWN: No, Sir, I am really not in a position to do so because I was not a party of any meetings or negotiations where this discussed at all.

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY: Sir, since the Honourable Member responsible, should you not have been privy to what went on and have been privy enough to have him to explain this question when he came to the floor of this House?

MR. DENNIS M. BROWN: Although I am responsible for this, where it comes to the issuing of certain visa waiver officials that the Foreign Office have to approve, those arrangements, like, are made by the Government and the Foreign Office. I honestly was not a part of any of these discussions. I do not know what really took place.

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY: Well, if you are responsible with the Visa positions, why are you not acquainted with the Visa policies? In this case you failed the question bluntly that the Foreign Office should have to be approached on more or less again. Did the Foreign Office then agree at this time for the disapproval of Commissioner Stewart's visa position.

MR. DENNIS M. BROWN: I do not think, as far as I understand, it was a case of disapproval at all, Sir. It was a case of merely maintenance and I will presume that the Foreign Office had been notified about his decision to arrive early.

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY: Do you have that file available now to be able to know. It is still the same thing. I would like to see those documents, Mr. Speaker. I will read with it in the new debate.

MR. SPEAKER: If there is no further Supplementary, I will invite the second Alternate Member for Western Area to ask the next question.

THE SECOND ALTERNATE MEMBER FOR WESTERN AREA (MR. MCKINNEY) ASKED THE FOLLOWING QUESTION WITHOUT NOTICE:

QUESTION: WOULD THE MINISTER STATE WHAT PREVIOUS CONVICTIONS HAD THE PRISONER WHO WAS SENT CONVICTED OF A SHORT SENTENCE AND DEATH OF MINOR OFFENCES WAS RECENTLY PERMITTED TO SERVE THAT OF WHO RELEASED EARLY?

ANSWER: THE PREVIOUS CONVICTIONS ARE:

(a) THEFTING CLOTHING ON 14th MAY, 1967;
(b) HOUSEBREAKING ON 3rd NOVEMBER, 1967;
(c) IMPROPER BEHAVIOUR ON 28th AUGUST, 1970;
(d) ASSAULTING POLICE ON 28th AUGUST, 1970.
(e) POSSESSION OF CANNABIS IN 1972; AND
(f) POSSESSION OF CANNABIS ON 24th SEPTEMBER, 1966.

ALL OF THE ABOVE CONVICTIONS ARISE FROM THE MOST RECENT ONE IN 1966 AND OVER 10 YEARS AGO.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JAMES H. BOGGESS: What do the prosecutors bring you here for if you do not have to really do what is required by the questions that are asked?

MR. DENNIS E. FOSTER: Mr. President, I just thought I would make it clear that prior to the last conviction the most were quite old convictions.

MR. JAMES H. BOGGESS: Would it not be considered that a charge of manslaughter is a felony serious offense?

MR. DENNIS E. FOSTER: Yes, I think manslaughter generally is a serious offense, Sir.

MR. JOHN E. NELSON: Mr. President, while I respect this body it would take a good damn player to play it. Can the Honorable Member say why a person who has such a long record has been released and is now on a free recovery again?

MR. DENNIS E. FOSTER: Mr. President, the Member knows the circumstances, Sir, but I will remind him of them. I think if I gather the facts correctly it was a case where his father was sentenced for a very small amount of money found in a dilapidated car and he was given a maximum sentence of which is a minimum prescribed by law for a second offense. He was sentenced for two years with a fine of $2,500. By this being pronounced in the case the Magistrate or officer in charge of the court had no choice but to hand down that sentence, but he then in turn recommended to the Governor that he should exercise his prerogative powers to mitigate the sentence. At that natural justice may also be done in the case.

MR. JAMES H. BOGGESS: Can you advise the House whether this case for rehabilitation had been previously turned down?

MR. DENNIS E. FOSTER: Mr. President, to the intention of the Member that I should cite things that were discussed in Executive Council. I do not really think it is advisable or necessary.

MR. JAMES H. BOGGESS: I think, Mr. President, my remarks regarded only a yes or a no remark. That is a very simple answer. I have gotten used to it still don't like them in the Budget debate also to speak be passed merely yes.

I will ask a further supplementary. Has there been given to anyone else such such a long second term this way in the past?

HON. DENNIS E. FOSTER: Mr. President, I do not think that any such circumstances in this have arisen before, at least not to my knowledge, Sir.

MR. JAMES H. BOGGESS: Will the other person, the Executive Council and the Governor have such file in other cases with the provisions of long amounts of money, let us say,-- not that many. I do not think I can call of order, and he has come with a man having this type of criminal record, they have seen fit to give mercy. Why?

HON. DENNIS M. HOUSE: Mr. President, I think, Sir, if there was a question once to take, rest on the Air Force, with the recommendation coming from the Headquarters it would be dealt with the same way.

MR. JAMES M. BOOTH: With this proposed Standard Commandment, here, I agree it would.

MR. PRESIDENT: Ordered Order: The Senator does not have comments, he may only ask questions.

If there is no further explanation, I will ask the Federal Election Member from Boston Town to ask the next question.

THE SECOND SELECTED MEMBER FOR BOSTON TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER REPRESENTING THE TREASURY AND FINANCIAL AFFAIRS

NO. 10: WOULD THE HONOURABLE STATE HOUSING THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT WOULD CONSIDER THE SUBSIDIES AS REFERRED TO AND AGREED TO BY THE CONSTITUTIONAL ASSEMBLY?

ANSWER: YES.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JAMES M. BOOTH: Would the honourable Member state which?

HON. DENNIS M. HOUSE: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. JAMES M. BOOTH: How about a referendum, Sir?

HON. DENNIS M. HOUSE: A question.

MR. JAMES M. BOOTH: Direct, constitutional thing?

HON. DENNIS M. HOUSE: I could not hear, Sir.

MR. JAMES M. BOOTH: Is it the policy of the present Government to seek money to finance the proposed electrical scheme?

MR. PRESIDENT: That is not a proper question. It is really out of order the terms under .....

HON. MICHAEL J. SMITH: Mr. President, Sir, may I rise on a point of order that it is my understanding that the procedure of the introduction of motion is your constitutional practice which the Constitution is which you are to give direction whether cases should or you do may not be given. It is your discretion. The information by any Member that you asked other than precisely in accordance with legal direction is necessary to formulate answers.

MR. JAMES M. BOOTH: Well, is it not a fact that the President of the House normally seek Executive Council or cabinet matters before a decision is actually made? Would you (the Honourable Second Official Member) advise the House whether or not I am correct?

SIR. MICHAEL J. SHANLEY: You are correct, Sir, and he may discharged such advice if he so wishes.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: And you may then appeal to the Foreign and Commonwealth Office might?

MR. SPEAKMAN: Could I make the position clear through there could be exclusion in Members' minds. There is a distinction as been what happened in capital cases and in other cases.

In accordance with the provisions of the Royal Instructions (and it is Royal Instructions 1983)- cxvi [211], I am obliged to consult Executive Council about capital cases, but I am then to decide there cases in my own deliberate judgment as Governor. I am not bound by the advice of Executive Council nor subject to the normal constitutional provisions about what I should do if I disregard such advice.

In non-capital cases when the prerogative of mercy may be exercised, I am also obliged to consult Executive Council and in those cases if I do not follow Executive Council's advice I am subject to the normal constitutional provisions which say that I must report to the Secretary of State. I can read the constitutional provisions in full if Members wish to be apprised of them, but essentially that I must report to the Secretary of State if I do not accept Executive Council's advice. So there is a distinction between capital and non-capital cases.

We are talking here about a non-capital case and in a non-accident case I could not certainly do either, but in that case I should be obliged to report it the Secretary of State.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: I would like to thank you, Sir. I am familiar with the position. I just wanted the public to hear the answer and I will deal with it on the debate on the Budget Address and Throne Speech when I will have latitude.

MR. SPEAKMAN: Perhaps I should just advise the Member that although of course he will have certain latitude, the latitude will not extend to statements which are out of order, and it is out of order to impute improper motives to another Member.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: I just note that other Members do not have any more latitude than the Members sitting here will have, Sir.

I would like to ask another supplementary. Why did you not agree previously to allow freedom in this particular case and later on thought more mind accurately?

MR. PRESIDENT: Could I make one more point clear for Members of the House and members of the public? There is a legal distinction between murder and other things. For any of the ones to need previously, means that the person sentenced has had conviction expunged totally, because it is considered that the conviction was wrong and usually this is done in very exceptional circumstances where fresh evidence has come to light after a person convicted a reasonable of the kind after careful enquiry (usually judicial enquiry) that the conviction was pardoned.

Sometimes of pardons is a separate matter which can also be granted by the exercise of the prerogative. It does mean that the person was convicted and that the conviction is expunged. It simply means that part of his sentence

MR. PRESIDENT (interposing). As mentioned prior to the recess on another matter, it may happen as we proceed in the case of a prisoner who is mentally ill and it is decided to release him forthwith. That may happen in certain other cases. That did happen in the case which is now the question.

I omit other more supplementary, but I did want to make it clear that it was not a problem; it was a decision of a part of a sentence.

MR. JAMES M. BOURAS: If this is the most serious, Sir, and I will use money. Did any other evidence come to light after 14th November, 1991, that would give reason to alter sentiment merely in this particular case?

MR. DENNIS M. POWELL: Not to my knowledge, Sir.

MR. JAMES M. BOURAS: Is this just a fulfilment of execution procedure?

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think that is a proper question either.

Is there any further supplementary?

MR. M. MENDES ROSE: Mr. President, not a supplementary, Sir, but under Standing Order 22, I believe, Sir, that I can make a personal explanation since serious imputations or allegations have been cast on my honesty.

MR. PRESIDENT: I have not heard anybody .....

MR. JAMES M. BOURAS: Mr. President, I did not cast any imputations. I just asked for particulars surrounding this case, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I have not heard anybody cast aspersions on your honesty. ..

MR. M. MENDES ROSE: Mr. President, I just .....

MR. PRESIDENT: I am understand that since it was not the Minister, you may wish to make a personal explanation.

MR. M. MENDES ROSE: Certainly, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: However, in the course of an explanation you must not say things which are not so, and I did not hear anybody cast aspersions on your honesty.

MR. M. MENDES ROSE: Thank you very much, Sir, but since we have gone before, I rely by saying here is just so exact.

MR. JAMES M. BOURAS: Should not the Member stand when he is addressing the Chair, Sir?

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member should stand, yes.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

MR. M. MARKHAM BUSH: Yes, Sir, I am standing, Sir. Thank you very much.

Mr. President, the record for any moment of correspondence to the press. I beg your permission, Sir, to tell this Honourable House that the man referred to in the question just asked is related to me. Yes, he is a cousin. Yes, he is a first cousin.

Mr. President, I am not embarrassed by this question, although I am sure the questioner expected me to be. I can only say, Sir, simply this but for this enemy, there goes either one of us in this Honourable House.

I also want to inform this Honourable House and the people of this country, Sir, that I in no way influenced or even attempted to influence his release. Personally, Sir, I think the case was investigated by this Honourable Chief Secretary, the Most Official Member.

I should think since in addition, Sir, that if other persons related more closely to Members of this Honourable House who are permanent residents more near, and had the evidence in a more mere not disappear .....

MR. JAMES M. BOOSS: Mr. President, that is a matter of opinion.....

MR. M. MARKHAM BUSH: ..... from the record house, this question would not have been asked in this Honourable House today .....

MR. JAMES M. BOOSS: ..... the Member is completely out of order .....

MR. SPEAKER: Would Members please sit. Thank you. I think the Second Elected Member for West Bay has strayed beyond what is permissible by way of personal explanation, as his recent observations has indicated.

MR. M. MARKHAM BUSH: Thank you very much, Sir. I abide by your ruling, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: Thank you.

Miss, I think, has considered question, the next item on the Order Paper is the continuation of the debate on the Throne Speech, and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town was speaking.

CONTINUATION OF THE DEBATE ON THE THRONE SPEECH AND SECOND READING OF THE APPROPRIATION (1965) BILL, 1965

MR. JAMES M. BOOSS: Mr. President, this is probably a good time for me to deal with the question that just been asked. Mr. President, some of the Members of this House, also of the Members of the last Government and the Opposition as a whole I think were concerned about this action. I had many people who asked me about it. I also had people to lobby in favour of the General Elections on this issue, and I am sure my fellow colleagues also experienced the same thing.

MR. JAMES M. BROOKS (CONTINUING): I do not think I am telling any tales out of school at this point, but there have been discussions now by these people in the past and merge in that time was here given the idea of this man's qualifications.

We have had many cases and I would like to make it clear, only right that I have fought for many years for this Board to see that we have an adequate duty law. There have been many cases, many of them I am sure that unconstitutional many for the years, and I am sure that right in the Governor's time the Lyblom at Beechwood Girls' Home might many girls' be many people possibly prosecutors for the first offense and get away that has been shown to them.

While now a point for the majority in that way. I feel strongly, Mr. President, as I feel about the dismissal of the previous Commissioner. When the light can way the day to the patient which has significantly been done the order by Philip Carpenter previous. Now if will say that as the first appointee that the night when may now is going to have resigned for the Governments of this country.

We have to be very careful in the image that we portray. In speaking like this I do not want to give the impression that we favor the use of force, however I do most possibly know it is wrong. But, Mr. President, I object a Resolution such as this to have been taken by our Governments and so sincerely advise the Legislature.

I am sure to, in this House, getting negative to questions that simply from the public. I am used to being told that I am out of order because I have called back and forth a thing or said such a thing, when the same individuals in having given the other Members to be the same things without to having brought to their attentions as this is nothing new to me.

I like a friend of Commissioner Stevens and I did not keep it a secret from anyone. If I owned any friendship to a person, why should I consider that person a friend? In my opinion Commissioner Stevens was still in this country in an unpredictably fashion and his reputation was ruined to be torn apart by the press without any action ever being taken by the Government to arrest him. If the man had been guilty then he should have suffered.

Some Indian from the Western district made himself very responsible in many areas of the country unfortunately downgrading this gentleman. That is one of the reasons that the Private Worker's Bill, which will be debated in this House, was made, because although Commissioner Stevens, like any other Civil Servant, is taken care of under the Government Regulations, government was fit to make an error, and it was about time for somebody to make a move to keep that and order in this country and to keep this reason of like which have being said to be perpetuated much further.

Government may hide the real issue as best they can, but I have been told reliably that Commissioner Stevens was moved on reason. I would not like to go any further in my debate and really describe when I heard mentioned this of Commissioner Stevens.

It's a question that I personally made to the previous elected Executive Council they agreed and endorsed in this affirmative that they had confidence in what now being made. In discussion with Councillor Stokes I gathered from what I was told that is actually what took place.

[illegible] SAMUEL K. EDWARDS (CONTINUED): My point, Mr. Speaker, is as I have said before that we are in a very poor condition in this country when a person is able to manipulate a position of [illegible], one of the highest in the land, and [illegible] and do everything to accomplish that person, eventually get into politics and through the political machinery [illegible] to dominate a man's conscience.

Sir, it is a serious thing. It is as serious as what I think has been done with regards to abusing money which I am sure is part of the party in which many should not have been placed. That, Mr. President, is what I am opposed to and it is what I will speak out against.

Much has been said on the part by a responsible politician about the inadequacy in the Police Department, but it seems as though the Police Department has been doing their job. It was other areas that fell down. I was very pleased to hear on one of the occasions that we [illegible] have that there has been a decline in the number of gang cases in 1982. I hope that that will continue. But, I will never unapologetically from this House and from any other place in the land, Mr. President, that I feel why Commissioner Stevens was scandalized in the way he was in because the man had found a way of coping with the drug trade. He was one of the few who even half that courage who came to grips with it, and it is because he was able to bring some order to successful constitutions. He stepped on the toes of some people and that is why the campaign was built up against him, and that is why he was constantly slandered in the manner in which he was. I hope the present Chief of Police and the Chiefs of Police to come will be dealt with in a more just manner.

I hope that this system will be scuttled away from our society that we will see no more of [illegible] in any respect.

I was very pleased that the Honourable Third Official Member did also to advise this House that a meeting that we mainly had been going under the notion that had been [illegible] around this Island by some [illegible] people with regards to the Cayman matter.

Mr. President, I will go on to my deliberation with something right now until the Lunch Recess Speech. I apologise to the House if [illegible] circumstances, in my deliberations, with us some of the things which you have dealt with and some of the things dealt with by the Honourable Third Official Member. I have tried to put them in order and to follow the manner in which the points are given.

Reference was made to the Community College. The Community College has served this country well. It has done a good job, it has helped a lot of people and the environment has encouraged diversity. However, in my opinion, it is time for us to take a further step and I think it is time that the Cayman Islands worked towards maintaining a graduate college here in the Island.

This should be done in affiliation with the International College of the Cayman Islands. I know the first thing we will hear is that I have personal interest. Mr. Speaker, I have no personal interest in it. I simply intend to fully support it and I have given them three years. I gave them the land on which the College is built. I am a life-time trustee. I have not attended meetings in several years. My only wish is to see that College grow and grow for the benefit of Caymanians. It has been recognised. Many students have come on them at our junior secondary degrees in the United States of America and in the United

Mr. Speaker Sir, Grenada (inaudible) Kingdom. What I find to have why we cannot work hand-in-hand with that institution and have our own local College. It will save Government a lot of money because we would educate these people there for half of where we - that is in some fields - the College cannot teach everything, but in some fields these people could be trained from what we could pay for the training of one person abroad also.

I know that in most cases Government has sent students abroad on scholarship to colleges that are not accredited as well as the International College of the Cayman Islands is. I am hopeful that those who are responsible for the education of our youngsters will bear in mind what I have said today on this subject and not just look at it as a cheap saving from the expenditure. The education of the youngsters of this country is of priority.

If we look back over the history of the Caribbean we see milestones mainly why these countries have faced with the many problems that they have faced. We see an difference as have faced the same things. Education was looked upon in the beginning as a priority. It was only made available to those could afford to send their children abroad. That system continued in this country until probably twenty or so years ago.

You can count on the fingers of one hand the number of people in my age group in this country who were lucky enough to have a college education. The rest of us had to get some knowledge of hard knocks.

We have reached this stage and for the past eight years the Minister for Government did put a lot of emphasis on education. He appointed it in every area that finances would provide. He arranged for student loans. He enlarged the educational system. He gave a lot of scholarships and we paid attention to the vocational training institute. We put up the Hotel Training School, the Agricultural Society and the Lands and Surveys School. I am certain that in the very near future some of these establishments will still be handled by Government.

I know that the present Government is now taking a backward step with regards to scholarships. I have looked through the estimates very closely and if I read them correctly it is my opinion that it is intended this year to spend probably half of what was given last year to send students abroad on scholarships.

I hope that this is not the intention of this Government in an attempt to balance their misfortune budget which I will deal with at this time or in. If it is, we will soon find out that the youngsters of this country will not suffer in their hands at such a feeble attempt being made to balance a budget. The youngsters of this country happen to be and an idea of the financial position of this country, I would say it is the whole intelligent if they are qualified enough to go abroad.

Steps were taken under the Duly from administration to raise extra monies in normal month and I hope our elected Government will see fit to continue along those lines.

Drug and alcohol abuse is a serious thing in any society. It exists in each and in those in every economy today. There are few families in the world who are not affected by it one way or another. So it is not something, Mr. Speaker, that we can touch under the carpet and forget about. It is an ongoing problem. It is a terrible world disease and it is incumbent upon the Legislative Assembly of this country to do something about it.

MR. JAMES M. DOUGLAS (CONTINUING): I hope that a programme will be forthcoming when we get into the Committee Stage of the Pensions Legislation where we will decide that more attention has to be paid to this subject and that more money has to be allocated for it. It is a surprise to me that the amount allocated is so little in that of the many areas of television that the Unity Team got from the present Members who are of the Majority Team in this House. We were continually told on many street corners what we were receiving the least with regards to the annual receipts of this country.

I certainly do not think that we, as a Government should, as trained to work with them, the Union group made political hay out them and of doing nothing, or purposely to do nothing in the years to come.

Our administration put into motion the completion of the wing at the Home for the Indigent people of this country.

MR. PRESIDENT: Would it be a convenient moment for us to take the usual morning break now?

HON. JAMES M. DOUGLAS: I am in your hands, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Will I imagine you are probably contemplating for quite some time and therefore ...

HON. JAMES M. DOUGLAS: I promised that I would and I will open it again on Monday, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Let us then proceed forward for approximately fifteen minutes until 11:45 a.m.

AT 11:15 A.M. THE HOUSE RESUMED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 11:40 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.

Proceedings are resumed. The Hon. Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, the Unity Team in the past few years made quite a mistake in trying to market themselves as a low-cost housing programme. For the low income housing that was created by Government funds in the Eastern Avenue area of George Town, congratulations from that scene must go to the previous Member who had the portfolio of Health, Education and Social Services. The man who has been in the usual manner of a certain Member of this House, contributed on the floor of this House as well as on the outside.

Yesterday reference was made to him as the little man with big brains. I think that we have big brains because there is more in his bank pocket than there is in the heads of the majority of Members.

I also notice in the present elected Government that the people of this country are expecting that pensions be retrieved and be dealt with by Government's help and not only in the districts of George Town, but to be extended in the other districts of Lesser Island.

MR. JAMES M. HANLEY (CONTINUED): The members of the Daily Texan who are still in this House will undoubtedly be asking the public as we should like to see that this is done.

The other big issue that was made by the Urban Renewal Administration was the Housing Development Corporation. We could easily see the problems that the man in the middle income bracket would have and the difficulties he is encountering in obtaining mortgage financing for a home. I don't know if the people and if the Government upon this Government or if it is some requirements of many societies of the world to see that private ownership is kept alive.

I will recommend the resolution which was presented to myself and the other Members of the Daily Texan when the Legislature recently was held in Austin area. Enough time had been told before we got there. The way in which the people came to the point they would have turned and jackhammered us if they were able to do so. I will remember the night that myself and my colleagues had on the floor of the House in attempting to get that bill passed; the same Members who are constituting Government at the moment were, with a few exceptions, were the same Members who originally opposed us on the passage of that bill in Austin, Texas. Then did the bill was passed into law. It took courage to bring it into existence of various kinds that were made over which we had no control, and of the legislature experienced in a certain section. Finally, we were able to get the Housing Development Corporation into existence. At that point Government assisted the Housing Development Corporation by loaning the Corporation $187,000 so enable it to get started. The Housing Development Corporation hired two employees after a time search. The Housing Development Corporation received grant from the Austin Industrial Corporation and Texas Electric Investment Company, and to my knowledge it is the only invested there.

I have taken some quotations in this House which pertain to the Housing Development Corporation and I have not received the reports that I think should have been forthcoming. During the time that I was the Mayor approximately five, six hundred $2,000 mortgages or a value of $750,000. Mr. President, there were many more applications, but we could not deal with them as the money was not available, and I refer back to the difficulty in obtaining the money as I go on in my speech. But we can possibly see that Government should not put but very little money into the Housing Development Corporation. It is seen that the sum of $1,000 was loaned in the first place that people have in this country, but Government's only direct expense was $187,000.

Mr. President, we received a report which was made up of many distinguished persons in the community. The problems which were considered were given by that board were a thousand of money, many months, and it is on these problems which I, as the Member responsible for the Board, voted upon. I was shocked to learn the Honorable Member who is now responsible for it, after he had been in office for over one month, wrote to this House that he had not found time to look at the records or to have any information on the Housing Development Corporation.

It was grounds which was made in this House it was stated that the Housing Development Corporation is originally purchasing a certain for funds in every thousand. Mr. President, the method which would have furnished this funds for the Housing Development Corporation have been put in effect for a long time. What is the authority we used to get roughly $750,000 authorized? It is all that has been used. However, it is not in the point that they have actually pursue the record. The point, Mr. President, is that there is no harmony. The record is on, that we do not have a healthy

MR. SIKES OF SOUTH CAROLINA: The Honorable Member who is directly responsible for that is the Portfolio now, in my opinion, will never be able to cope with the problems throughout the Housing Development Corporation, and if we stand here for one second from now there will be only little money ever subscribed in the home county through his efforts. He is incapable of dealing with it. Besides that, in so many cases which will touch the generosity of his heart.

A further statement can only be the answer that future transactions that relate to the true purpose of the scheme. I really shouldn't have read it over several times. What is meant by the true purpose of the scheme?

Mr. President, it is the accident to everybody that the true purpose of the scheme was to enable returnees in the middle income bracket to eventually own their home. Many low people who are earning $50,000 a year in this country can afford to own a home. Many of them will never own a home because as the family burden increases, in order to meet the repayment over of 15 to 25 year mark, most of the people, if they pay this fluctuating cost, would not be able to pay. Therefore, what will eventually happen in this country is that we will have a society which will become a homeless society. A society with no savings. A society where the people will subscribe the maximum of Government's stability in the country because their will look at their relatives and fathers and see that if they are living in such sub-standard home after so many years of the great efficiency of this country, they will only be dismissed and they will say to the public that there is no need for such a society for me.

If we want to come to grips with the social problems, that is the area we must come to grips with. But, Mr. President, it is unfortunate that the public in the middle income class in the Cayman Islands had a brief glimpse of the type of future they would like to enjoy, but the clouds of darkness have come over their eyes and they can easily see the danger of the Housing Development Corporation.

In my opinion, Government will take no steps to try to convince this institution. Three years from now we will still have the same difficulties and we will have no alternative solution because of the unfavourable Member in charge should his Bill be defeated and both my colleagues have in reply to a question that if sufficient Government votes could be found that would not give added revenue to the Corporation, then I really have to wonder what we are dealing with.

The next item I will deal with is Tourism. I will deal with it as the subject matter then dealing with what you, Mr. President, said in your speech and that the honourable Third Official Member has said in his.

Tourism is the mainstay of the economy of the Cayman Islands. It is a very fragile and a very fragile commodity. When you have great tourism increases it does not happen by accident. It does not happen by people sitting on their backsides thinking that tourists will come to the Islands. It means the expenditure of a lot of time and effort.

Whenever we read about one of the largest insurance companies in America that have ever taken place in this country. Everybody was talking about 30 years ago the tremendous impact the Hurricane Hotel had on the economy of the country.

Immediately our attitude for the entire years of 1969 is to 18,000 tourists or an increase of about 20,000 people for the year. Again, Mr. President, 18,000 tourists

Mr. Mike H. Mason (continued): ...was not around much if at all compared to 196 persons. But when you take 13.8 per cent of approximately 150,000 you will readily see the additional effort that had to be made each year in order to maintain the numbers by the year before and to increase it by that larger percentage.

Guyana's receipts for the year of 1984 rose by 14.6 per cent; a total of $83,683 or so thousand, again, Mr. President, of about 80,000 persons from the year.

Tourism increased in 1984 by 50,000 people. That meant a lot of additional money into the economy of this country. Mr. President, I am sure that under the present administration there will not be one year in which we will see an increase of 80,000 tourists.

I am sure that once the true facts would be ascertained the predictability in the economy of the Cayman Islands last year from tourism was up to near unbelievable. This is what has enabled our people to enjoy the type of society that they enjoy, but to maintain this we must have firm and determined leadership.

It is the viewpoint of this Government that they ourselves to look for avenues where tourism can be improved. We have continue to open additional offices in the outside world. Presently we have offices in Miami, Houston, Chicago, New York, Toronto, Los Angeles, Seattle and London. I am pleased to say that it was under this Party from administration, of which I am part, that it was possible for us to open several of those offices. However, we must not sit idly back; we must continue to explore market place and Guyana must be known as a tourist destination people will think of a vacation.

I give much credit to the hard working staffs of the Tourism Corporation. I have found most of them to be very dedicated and it is only with that kind of dedication that we can continue to hold our own in the tourist market.

Again, one of the major things that assists us in being so successful in tourism is that over the years we have had outstanding and very loyal personnel. We have gone into the market place upon the profiles of people who have known this for years. Now I understand that the Amerindian department has been changed and I will deal accordingly in keeping with that.

I asked a question earlier of the Tourism Department what the relationship has been here, and he told me in absolutely of the Islands, particularly, and also the people. Mr. President, this right is now extraordinarily important. For eight years that was the thrust of our programme for tourism. We have continually educated our people in the advantages and there have been chain all over the world from our advertisements.

An effective media programme is what Guyana needs. I would hope that whatever efforts the next two months while this House is in session that the Honourable Member presently responsible will see fit to, either as Member of this House, work with the Deputy Tourism Minister, or to the advertising and promotion plan, and what he proposes to do. Although the new advertising agency which I understand he has secured, I'm sure to know the type of advertising media. We need to find out if he has done about the millboard matters.

Mr. President, an experienced panel of advertising executives to the millboard material, and the idea of Miami at the present time there is publicly owned hundred thousand dollars worth of good advertising collateral; and I would urge the Honourable Member that this should not be discarded

Mr. Hubert M. Bergen (continuing): and therein lies my concern because we have brought us to provide hospitals in Bermuda - hospitals which we will never recoup. This statement is going for by the Cayman Islands' people and we should sometimes to use it as well as the new material which he will have.

One thing which bothers me, and I believe my colleagues, Mr. Speaker, is the manner from of Government which we have gone into to. Years ago, originally which was known there in this country, we experienced it to decide that this is what is happening again.

I understand that when the respected Honourable Member from Lawyers went abroad to select his advertising agency, he took along with him a so called Bermuda expert. In my opinion I understand many times to the Bermuda delegation. We have a different type of tourism than Bermuda. I feel he was a man who had previously lived I think the correct test in the Bermuda Department of Tourism should be an expert to advise the Responsible Member. In my opinion he should have also to do this on his own accord.

In the administration of the speech it was pointed out that the hospitality industry is responsible for employing about 1,200 persons which would be good news of the Labour force. The heartening thing about it is that about 85 per cent of the people employed are Caymanian. I am very proud of this and I think one of the things which has brought this about was the continuity which has been given through the Hotel Training School.

One of the problems that the country faces with regards to tourism is that legislation must strongly come to this House where we set higher standards in the accommodation industry and restaurants. This must be done if we are to remain in the tourism field abroad as we have been going. We must maintain a high degree of standard. The hospitality industry must maintain from their desire to continually improve prices. We must stabilize the prices. We must stabilize the industry. Prices in Cayman are very high compared to tourist resorts in many other areas of the world, and I believe we do the wants of the returning dollar tourist pounds are paying attention to their bills and we must be very careful that the hotelmen, in particular, are not allowed to commercialize seasons and tourism while Government continues to increase their expenditures for entertaining because the hospitality industry in the Cayman Islands is a whole service but very little money in the circulating and operation of the Cayman Islands. The bulk of the entertainment has always been carried by the Government.

We must set up an Examinations system in the tourism industry where we constantly inspect and take action whenever it is needed. If we do not do this we will shortly find out that the problems are starting up with us and other islands in the Cayman Islands overboard is going to suffer from it. There is no action that can be put into the financial community that has the enormous power of the tourist dollar. I am very concerned about it because I have an closely association with it for eight years and although I may be considered an speculator, although I assure you I will continue to operate, if the Honourable Member responsible should ever think that I would help him, I would like to do so for the benefit of the country.

Another matter, in my opinion, which needs to be attended to is the long road Prices to a cruise ship landing jetty in George Town. I am not an engineer, but in my opinion it will not be that extensive an undertaking compared to the dollars it would yield to the treasury of this country.

MR. JAMES K. RONDEAU (OPPOSITION): It is much more important for us to do this, Mr. President, because George Town, whether I like it or not, is the capital. It is the hub of activity in this country and I think it makes much more sense to expand the George Town community as regards to the airport than to do so for us to go with a Bonaventure controversial election time type of building a smaller ship landing in Cayo.

I respect the people of West Bay very much. I have many close friends in the West Bay district, but in my opinion a smaller ship landing in West Bay is not going to solve any problem, it is going to make more problems than we presently have. I would think that when the time comes for us to deal with this in the Committee Stages, the Members will find out and review in their opinions with regards to the taken flow that has been put in this unbalanced budget to try to fool the people. I will deal with that later on my dissertation, Mr. President, but if anyone has the idea that we are picking this land and that we are going to build a smaller ship landing in West Bay until the ship pilotage says I am in the budget, they will be fooled across that they are going to be fooled in the future.

One area which I heard compliments several times by various Members of the Sister Islands Department, and I too, would like to add my compliments to the efficient fire service that we have and the capable management of the fire service by Mr. Adams. I hope until this many, many times in the past that the time is a capable man and has done a capable job from this country.

I am proud that under the Montly Term Government in the good 1980's, we were able to build a fire station in Creek Ground. There is something that has been badly needed over the years because it takes a long time to respond to a fire in East End or North Side mainly from George Town and sometimes even traffic.

I feel that the time has come again because we have to contend with a lot of traffic and we are getting a lot of homes in the West Bay area, for a fire station to be established for that area. However, I do not believe in duplicating the public by saying that we can get it up again with the small amount which I see appropriated in the budget.

One Member spoke about the improvements of the fire service in Cayman Brac. Mr. President, I am prepared to support that under certain circumstances. Government presently has to maintain a fire service protection at the Cayman Brac Airport. We have spent a lot of money in the last few years in upgrading the airport and runway facilities in Cayman Brac. It is planned to build a new terminal building in Cayman Brac. When all of this is done, Cayman Brac will be all to international standards and it will be mandatory at that point for a fire service to be maintained at the airport. As well as Cayman Brac is I think it would be somewhat ridiculous for us to go to the extreme of that, which may be how maybe such from the present site for the mile away - I do not exactly know what it is, why not be another fire service when we already have one at the airport.

If we were to them I would say that we could have finance and that it be turned on a 24 hour a day basis. However, I cannot give my support to building up another fire service in Cayman Brac when Government is looking to have to expend a lot of money by losing the use of the airport as it grows. It will only be another parallel service which the people of this country will be paying for.

MR. JAMES K. POLITIS (CONTINUING): We have a notice on this House during this Meeting which Labour Legislation and we have had I think very questions also with regards to Labour Legislation. Labour Legislation should come forward. We have passed the stage where we can continue to substitute without any legislation. It is a shortcut back because there are many loopholes attached to Labour.

I would point out to this House that Labour Legislation, contrary to what my good friend the Hon Roy Mac Keon, has drafted under the auspices of the Daily Labour Government could not be presented to this House. Unfortunately, time did not permit us to adopt this, as the whole gist of the Legislation is already adopted although we may wish to add the penalty clause to it, and it should come forward to this House. I will explore it although it does not come under the Speech of today. I will support Labour if they bring suitable legislation that should come here.

This Legislation was drafted by an ILO representative. The present and past Attorney-Generals both gave some help on it. The Honourable Leader of Opposition also spoke on the matter recently and he said that he had been officially asked to deal with Labour Legislation. He knew I had many discussions on Labour. He knew I had many discussions about the Merchant Legislation. Secondly, I must admit that sometimes I guess I make things look complicated, but at the time I took it that I was a part of Government and I believe that whenever I speak, although it was informally without publicity it is an answer or that my answer is conveyed with the Government, that it was not necessary for me to go ahead and issue a long detailed letter and spoil the nice thing that. I thought it would be quite an acceptable answer. If I acted incorrectly, I apologise, but I will advise the House that that is what makes the Merchant Navy Legislation, because Government gets bogged down in too many petty frivolities.

Now, in some aspects, Mr. President, we've lost a lot of possibility for Deputy Team. Unfortunately we do make a problem with traffic in Nauru Town, but the unfortunate thing is it is not going to get any better - it is going to get worse. We need to make a major study with regards to the traffic problem, and I would say immediately in Nauru Town. Under our administration now was carried out, but I felt it was not carried out far enough. More needs to be done in this particular area, however, Mr. President, as my opinion is for an Building & Air Port facility. I approved it when I was a Member of Executive Council and I will endeavour to proceed it in this House. I feel that it is an investment which Government should have considered still. They should go out and use their financial position to say we cannot afford the facility to undertake this. And if we are going to do it, I feel it be shared, Mr. President. In overseas Nauru trade which we most notice another will probably bring $30 to $35 per square foot to make up a cost work facility. Why do not we go up around the Angle & Secret in the first area where land would probably be bought for 25 per cent of what it would for this type of land area.

MR. SPEAKER: I think that it will probably be convenient for me, Members of the Bench to have early lunch and the Minister to resume the Conference in this Room. So, unless the Member speaking wants to have refreshment break, I will suspend proceedings .....

MR. JAMES M. RODDY: Could I have just three minutes more to wind this session up, Mr. Chairman, and come back?

MR. PASHAYAN: Sure, certainly.

MR. JAMES M. RODDY: This proposal is nothing new. It was put forward by the post Association Council and we rejected it then. I hate to see it coming back upon reasons in my opinion as to why Government should support to a special interest group.

We have discouraged for years a Post Office and we do need one, but in my opinion, again, we should give further study to this. We have plenty of land in the airport area land which is not expensive. It is within the zone where mail is brought in and it would be much easier to deal with. There is plenty of parking space. We should consider putting the new Post Office at the airport and building a small sub-station in Canoga Park.

This Post Office location seems out many miles of what was where it was better to accommodate from that area than it would by using this expensive land down here for it. Mr. Chairman,

Mr. Chairman, I will rest my point and I will be back like tomorrow, and be willing.

MR. PASHAYAN: I do not see any objection why Members have they the lunch at their place is expected to come. I think we might be able to be back by 2:00 o'clock again we are breaking rather early. So let us suspend proceedings until 2:00 o'clock.

MR. JAMES M. BORDEN: Mr. Chairman, would I just say something on that, then? I have a commitment which will keep me until about 2:30 p.m., because I was hoping that it would be the usual time ....

MR. PASHAYAN: Very well then. Let us say until 2:15 p.m.

AT 12:58 P.M. THE HOUSE RECESSED

ACTING PRESIDENT AT 2:21 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Motion is carried. Proceedings are resumed. The Chair declares recess for Bubble Team.

H. DAVID M. DOLLEY: Mr. President, I apologize for being a bit late, but I was held up in traffic on the way from the airport.

Mr. President, the Turtle Room is an institution in this country which has had a noble past - one which has encountered many, many difficulties over the years. However, it is an establishment which us, the people of the Cayman Islands, identify with. The Turtle industry has played a big part in the history of the Cayman Islands for hundreds of years, so in my opinion it was appropriate that Government also found and not close the Turtle Farm in its liquidation.

There had been many years of concern with regards to the Turtle and that should be passed on to future generations to come. I am very proud to know that the Cayman Islands Government was able to purchase the Turtle Farm and that it was done during the Unity Team administration.

With the problems that the Turtle Farm is currently experiencing it is difficult for it to get to a breakeven position, but I believe that we can look into other areas with regards to the Turtle Farm, for instance a restaurant which would serve turtle products, and further afield, in look at the establishment of a brewery. This was done in the later months of 2004, but I do not believe that it has gotten to the point where it can be established yet. However, I would hope that the present administration would look into these because they could be very profitable and it could mean that the Turtle Farm could operate at a profitable balance, even if we are not allowed to trade direct due to the restrictions of the CITES treaty.

The Honorable Member who was responsible for operations in the last administration secured a lot of efforts on behalf of the Turtle Farm. He made many valuable trade abroad which are important as well I am hopeful that this administration will proceed along the lines which have been laid down by the Honorable Member for the past.

I am very pleased to see that the Cayman Turtle Farm is available with the programme of releasing small turtles back into the wilds. This can only put back us in our traps abroad as well as to help possible hunting in the wild around our country.

Thought can be given to the establishment of other products at the Turtle Farm, for instance such as the production of shells for jewellery. This has become a big issue in countries like the United States of America and a lot of shells are now being seized in the ranges which is within the turtle farm.

Hopefully, in the year ahead, Cayman Turtle Farm will get to the point where it can at least provide enough turtle meat for local demand. In spite the present time this has not been possible. What we need to do is to continue to employ experienced and professional persons abroad which can assist us with our many problems - people who are competent with their principles and who have ability to do the work. Our administration did have such people and I hope that the present administration will see fit to continue with these competent people.

Mr. James M. Eagan (continuing): The economic circumstances, including on the debt which has been done which required to increase quite by the previous administration, I was to note the problem to establish, finally, the reforms people around the Islands. Mr. President, this is a very important issue because it affects the Island people and it will affect everyone as a whole in the years to come. It is my opinion to assess the problem as it is for very much longer. We must do everything possible to increase the military bases which surround the Trust Islands. It is an exceptional thing for America and we should not allow our Islands to be used as many other countries have allowed their countries to be abused.

Mr. President, in establishing these ambassador duties posts, we must also be very careful that we do not jeopardize the welfare of our local fishermen. Guam since, for years, have been used to fishing grounds and a few months ago I heard that there was a move afoot to where this ocean would be controlled and that fishing licenses were going to be issued to the local people. This is essentially I see as very difficult and I hope that it will not really be pursued in the immediate future. There may come when that may be necessary, but I do not believe it is necessary at this point.

With regards to the negotiations, I am a bit hesitant personally to criticize the negotiations affecting this being pursued by Ambassador Haydn Williams upon as where the Members of the House would not like aware of what is going on. We are all fairtood Members of the House, elected by the people, by the majority of the people to represent districts. We now have to see about the well-being of these people. The negotiations, as stated, permit executive Oversight to control the flow and to do as they see fit. I am of the opinion that these negotiations may be taken-advised too far and we may get negotiations which our local people will decide are required to live under. Personally, I imagine, although myself and my colleagues may disagree, we still suffer the fate which is usually suffered when the ruling party has the majority.

Reference was made that the Territorial Development, which was formerly the agriculture function, will be engaged in several other major programs in 1985. I would like to know what these major programs are so I can advise the other Members of the House would like to know also.

In passing the budget I do not find any money available for these major projects and I am wondering why this was initiated. If we have no money voted in do these major projects, then how are we going to do the major initiative? Is it that we are paying the services to the Honorable Member who is responsible for that Function? Is it that we think he can accomplish the things which were set out in the Bible as being accomplished by Jesus when he blessed the fishes and the loaves of bread? I wonder why reference of this nature was not made in regards to the other Portfolios and why it was only this portfolio which this reference was drawn to, and I wonder what is intended to be done?

The Governor advises, Mr. President, is something which is much needed by this country. If we are to further develop these of tourism and in the business community. Much has been said about this across from the present party in power and it is different. Much was said about the purchase of the property where this will be located, but it only serves to remind the House and the people, as a whole, that the Governor advised in January of 1985 and all of the groundwork surrounding that including the negotiation for the 1.75 with Courtesy Development Bank was undertaken and done during the early

MR. JAMES M. QUIGLEY (CONTINUING): Mian Administration. Credit cannot be taken exclusively by the present administration for the return. We will give credit if they continue to develop this scheme in the comprehensive manner in which it was conceived to be done.

This country is faced with a major problem come 30th April of this year. At that time the concession which was granted to the Cayman Islands by the United States of American Government under the Bermuda II Treaty will expire. I would like to elaborate on this very important issue.

When the first Bermuda air treaty was negotiated and signed in Washington, D.C., the honourable financial Secretary of this country at the time, the Honourable Vassel Johnson, went with the delegation, or I think headed the delegation to Washington, D.C., for negotiations between the United Kingdom and the United States of America. Upon his return we learnt that he had not been allowed to participate or to take part in any of the negotiations, with the result that the Cayman Islands and the United Kingdom territories in the Caribbean as a whole suffered unnecessarily.

The Caribbean air routes were more or less given away to the United States in return for the United Kingdom being able to continue their air routes out of Hong Kong. A chess game was played and we were the pawns on the chess board. The Cayman Islands suffered tremendously as a result of this.

To give the Members of this House an idea of how we really suffered, we were allowed two points into the United States out of seven named points. We could select two at any one time. If we decided one of these routes was not paying off we could change it by giving the notice for another route. It was only up before the 1971 administration to make this Government would have opted for Miami and Atlanta.

Atlanta, as a terminal point for air traffic in the southern United States,would have diverted traffic off our Miami operation, and besides that there was a problem as to whether the DC 10-10 with its limitation on fuel would be able to service the Atlanta route. We immediately decided that we would not for Houston to cover the western part of the United States. So we chose Miami and Houston, and we still continue on those two routes.

American carriers by the same token were allowed to come from any point in the United States to the Cayman Islands. We could have had, if business had warranted it, an airline from New York, Chicago, Los Angeles or any part of the United States, and we would not have been able to prevent that route. Also, under the Bermuda II it was agreed that any country could operate more than one carrier on any specific route.

Sometimes, in the past eight years, we had been faced with as many as six to seven applications from other airlines in the United States to fly the Miami route. To stop unnecessary flight we had to pay a lot of legal fees in order to try to keep these airlines off the Miami route. We went to Washington and were lucky enough, through personal contacts, to establish an arrangement whereby the United States assured us that for the next 2 half years they would not allow another carrier on the Miami route other than Republic and our national flag carrier. They also gave us an agreement that if any American carrier decided to operate out of any other city in the United States, we would have immediate approval to commence that route if we so desired.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN (CONTINUED): This was a difficult thing to get and the entire negotiations are very wrong in my mind because the English had a very strong delegation at the meeting. At first they bluntly told us that we could not take part. We would have to trust them and they would negotiate on our behalf. That was not good enough for us and we did not accept it.

They then told us that only three representatives from the Cayman Islands could attend the meeting. We did not accept that either. What I am trying to tell the House with all due respect to Her Majesty's service, we did not obtain any good or any help from them in these negotiations. What we finally did accomplish was accomplished entirely on our own. The Civil Authority in the United States, which used to govern the operation of all airlines, has now been abolished and the function of that body has been passed on to the transportation department; so it is with the transportation department that we will now have to negotiate.

In addition to this, the Bermuda II treaty is about to end and new negotiations will have to take place. If we are not forceful enough in the coming months in unions upon the United Kingdom and the United States of America our desire to maintain our own national airline and our desire to keep further competition off the Miami and Houston routes and maybe other routes in the United States, we are faced with a grave and serious problem. I personally am concerned about it and I hope that our present Government will be able to cope with it in a manner to where we maintain, at least, the status quo which we have now.

Instead of taking this as a point of criticism, I hope the present Government will pay the attention on this particular point.

You touched on Cayman Airways in your speech, Mr. President, and I beg the indulgence of the House to be able to speak on it now. At the present time, shortly, taken on an great debit.

Cayman Airways has had a difficult and rocky past. About the only thing in the country that has probably been lied about more than myself is Cayman Airways. However, Cayman Airways signifies to the world the courage and determination of the people of a small country. It is vital for the economy and the future growth of this country.

If we allow Cayman Airways to be abolished, Government is going to suffer a substantial loss. Not just what we suffer at the present time, but what we will suffer in the future; because having Cayman Airways we are able to more or less negotiate the traffic into this country and work along with the Tourism Department. Once Cayman Airways is not there we are not going to find the foreign carriers giving us that assistance. Like what we will find is that once we become entirely dependent upon foreign carriers, we will be treated as we have been treated in the past, particularly by British West Indian Airways when they pulled out on very short notice. Foreign airlines are not going to subsidize this route just to please us.

Another point to think about is the disruption in the economy to the present 300 employees of Cayman Airways. Cayman Airways, owned by Government, and with the figures not included in the Civil List which was given to us, is another one of the big employers of labour in our country. Most of these people are well trained, have acquired great skill and maintain commendable salaries. Once these people lose their jobs there is no way in the world that they are going to get similar jobs with other airlines, and we must remember that a greater proportion of

MR. JAMES M. JOHNSTON (Inaudible): these employees are young fellows who have become pilots and co-pilots. They are now able to earn a decent living. They are able to live in our community and spend their money.

Some foreign assistance came in handy. It will be just as we were told by AID when they employed only two Cayman pilots, Captain Thompson and Captain Bodden. They told us we certainly knew that after each did work a tour of the Cayman Airways personnel who use Caymanians can fly on the Cayman Airways plane which was also owned by AID and the Cayman Islands Government. It will mean that some of our people may be able to assume blanket agent jobs or jobs of that nature until the other assistance, but our main personnel will be our own.

I have read and heard much in the past couple of months about the study of Cayman Airways' operations being conducted by Aitkenair. This is a bit difficult for me to understand because Cayman Airways is a small airline operating two jets and one small propeller aircraft. Aitkenair is a large international carrier. The problems which they encounter are identical to the problems which are encountered by Cayman Airways. In my opinion, Aitkenair studying the problem of Cayman Airways and giving up with an answer for the future would be like asking Cayman Airways to study the problems of the American airlines or Eastern Airlines in the United States. I am sure that none of us are inclined to the point where we believe that anyone from Cayman Airways would be asked to study the problems of one of these major carriers. I just wonder how we obtained them and were they the advantages of the Kennedy Airport?

Mr. President, I beg leave of the House to deal further in my speech with Cayman Airways. I will not be talking the next thing over again, but I will be dealing with some specific facts.

According to the Open Internal International Airport terminal, without a doubt the Cayman Islands have an opportunity in the Caribbean and one probably based upon more than that that we could compare with Jamaica in many, many other respects. It is a monument to the people and it is a monument which will stand for many, many years. It is a monument which cannot be destroyed by the whims and fancies of politics.

Mr. President, the airport terminal should have a very bright future for it is like the Bethesdden in church who have been baptized below. It is also meet to forgive by man.

The airport terminal building was probably the only enterprise which Government has ever undertaken which came in within the budgeted cost and was completed before the time called for in the contract. Again, we have had many instances of these facts.

The question was raised in this House Mr. President, by some Member as the moment Honourable Member in charge of that Portfolio with regards to the cost. The cost was put at $18,000 plus, when it was opened on 31st December, 1969. The cost was put at $2,000 plus, when it was opened on 20th January, 1968.

I point this out to show you how the present elected Executive Council will work with figures when it is for political good. I asked for a breakdown of these expenses and I was furnished with a breakdown which showed that of the $18,000 which was alleged to have been the cost on 10th November, $2,000 plus of that was a payment to Arch and Godfrey which I would assume, Mr. President, was a part of the contract price. As far as I am aware, Arch and Godfrey was not supposed to do anything outside the contract that will have to be paid for.

Mr. James M. Scotty (continued): there was also a cost of $2,000 plus to the Public Works Department. Now I point these out, Mr. President, to show, particularly the public works expenditure that if there was an expenditure of $2,000 plus for 2000 Knockout Fun Athletics Competition Public Works took place on [illegible] have been a corresponding cost to Public Works in March-April, 1987, yet it was approximately 4000 plus to me.

We have heard of the plans for the financial management of the airport. I can advise the House that the management plan for Queen Elizabeth Hilmpiscomil Airport Limited was put into effect as right 18 months ago when it was formalized. It was formulated at the time when the Airport was taken over with Caribbean Development Bank and based on what we obtained from Caribbean Development Bank to finance the improvements and based on the future revenue. The future revenue on annual basis that would help pay off the loan, plus all the management and operations of costs and still leave a surplus. That is why today I question when I hear of this new financial plan for management which has been recognized, and of the new Airport rates which are being put into effect; and I wonder why it was necessary to do this.

Before I leave the airport terminal, Mr. President, there was for many years back a direct connection between the Cayman Islands, Miami, Florida and Cuba Cubana. The Mayor of Dade County happens to be a personal friend of mine as well as a personal friend of many, many Caymanians. He has been visiting this Island for many years. He was [illegible] extremely upset on behalf of the people of Dade County by the manner in which he was treated on the terminal. As far as I am aware this airline has never been installed and it may be chance a lot of disappointment for a neighbouring country and neighbourly people. If they are not prepared to install this airline, Mr. President, before it gathers much more dust I would ask the responsible Government to see if they would make way this available [illegible] I will keep it for you.

Several Members, Mr. President, have commented and made many remarks with regards to the Tower Building. They have said that it was not a good investment. That it was ill-advised for Government to purchase it, and it seems we have heard a lot of political rhetoric. I am proud that upon the Tower Building was a part of the accomplishments of the Unity Team Government, but we as Members of the Third Term Government should really take the praise for the Tower Building.

The Honourable Third Official Member was really the one who carried out the negotiations and was where the purchase of the Tower Building. I congratulated him the day it was done and I continue to congratulate him. Regardless of what his critics may say, I think it was a very wise move.

I have heard here, that the Tower Building, in fact I have never been on the grounds of it, but it has a fine amount of land. Apparently it is well constructed and surely by the square footage of it which I have been told by the [illegible] Government to buy it. In other words what I am saying is that we have gotten a bargain. We have paid about $4 million, at least, less than what it would have been built for.

MR. JAMES M. DUNCAN (Continued), from Anderson Mercer, the financial genius, to add to the debate that we were lucky for Government to keep the Lower Building which had just been completed and that it would have been better to create duplicate another - again, if we had built a similar building we would not have had the additional debt to maintain for then to spend, which they say we did not have.

Mr. Speaker: For what reason will I would hear from the present Minister who are in the House, other than the Unity Team Members who are here, was the Administration and Executive that was done in the Unity Team Government while responsible to the Opposition of the previous Government Records. I truly wonder why those people would have said about the construction of this Façade between 1976 and 1981, when you look at the construction of the present Façade under this present Government. If your Government played the part, if ever anything was suitable to be in the construction of these Figures.

I would like if know was available to really deal or laugh with the construction of these Façade, to have academia, we have courts, we have hospitals, we have airports, we have Magistrate, we have Supreme-in-Law, non-in-Law, Jake and every member of a family who would wear be put in a Grand Jury have been put on the present Jury. No thought was given or to the composition of the Grand Jury Jurisdiction.

On that Façade we tried to see that every District was represented as much as possible. I know that in the Magistrate Jury there would have been Disability to get Jury members from that District, but I know there are a few of the people who would have been glad to take part. But, the Magistrate of Façade Jury and Grand Jury, I admit subjects to correctness, but I do not think there is a member from these Districts in any of the Façade, it is going to take more than that to obviate the voice of Façade Youth.

Now, Mr. Speaker, we move to the new Façade which was administratively, in a public attempt to balance the budget, has inconvenienced the people. The first term, Mr. President, made after the elections by this present Government was to demolish the Administration Law. But, the disappointed Minister in his delivery of the budget Address told us that last year, 1984, 160 Jurisdictions were implemented under the Magistrates Court Law, none of these Jurisdictions, Mr. President, probably cost for as high as $400,000. Just per cent of the Jurisdictions were then supposed to have been paid to Government. But, but we assume, Mr. President, that each one of those Jurisdictions last year only had a value of $150,000 each year which we could assume, that would mean $24,000 under the Jurisdiction that should have come into the Treasury. But, the present Government have seen fit to abolish that law, did away with it completely and gone up the might to that body.

They then come in the Legislative Assembly Building as every month that which was in the books for many years. Jurisdiction should really have been abolished, but in they could not think they further retained, they came up with Jurisdiction in these last and the whole matter then.

We know the percentage that Unions have been increased 400 per cent and the cost of that will be borne by the Jurisdiction public and the Jurisdiction from abroad who live here. It will hurt the person people because it was to increase their cost of living. Import duty on airfreight has been increased by about 200 per cent. Again, who is going to pay and who is going to bear the burden of these increases? It falls on the backs of the Jurisdiction and Jurisdiction. Again, while it will do is increase the cost of living for the poorer people in our country and it will

MR. JAMES M. FOSTER (CONSERVATIVE): Some Members always do have midnight sessions as most people will begin to whip by then. So the people who will benefit in the end will be those with hearing interests.

The warehousing fees have been increased. Cigarettes have been increased by 20 per cent. I am not going to speak very strongly on that because that is an increase I think the public can bear.

Liquor licences have gone up by some three by 200 per cent. These are increases which normally would never be contemplated by Governments. This will affect our local people and it will affect the tourists. Most of all, these and, it is affecting many of these approaches.

The cost of writing a cheque has gone up 100 per cent, and again this is going to be borne substantially by the Caymanian public.

The withholding increase to the 7 1/2 per cent stamp duty on mortgages principles. This is going to affect local mortgages and foreign investors, but most of all, Mr. Speaker, it could have a very, very damaging effect on the economy of this country. The only asset that Caymanians really possess is land. A great majority of Caymanians built their land for their coming years to help provide sustenance to themselves and their families.

Land is bought to many times by foreign investors or speculators. Many of these people pay a deposit, return to the United States, sell some property or make a home or whatever they have to do, and pay off the agreement in probably 6 months. Leaving that time is the hold essentially by a form of sharecropper or a mortgage agreement. This is going to cut these two avenues which this country will enjoy, either that increase it because it is going to deter people from investing in the country.

I am sure that a more equitable way could have been found to deal with this problem. I would suggest to the Members that they consider that all agreements be registered within so many days. If the agreement was only for $25,000 or $50,000 more within a stated time than what the agreement was for, then that additional amount would bear the 7 1/2 per cent stamp tax. However, I believe that if this goes through in the manner in which it is now, it is going to affect the economy of the Islands drastically.

We also have the increased in hire-purchase. I will not relate the merits or the demerits of hire-purchasing. I have an involvement in purchasing as one of my companies handles the sales from Tempo company here on the Island. However, Mr. President, if we had not been multiplying now on this in the past, I think we made a mistake because we should have been collecting it. However, 7 1/2 per cent on most things is a bit high. It might a case of which the Government could obtain. I will say here and now that I will unequivocally vote for the withholding tax, but I am hoping that we can see an amendment to it rather than the way in which it has been proposed.

I reasonably based of I can't see any of the $1 million tax which is now being levied on the consumer. This will affect Corporations, companies and tourists, and will probably 170,000 tourists going through this airport this year, plus about 30,000 Caymanians. It is going to amount to a tidy sum. Seeing these plans for the financing of the airport, I think it is unnecessary at this point to put it on at this point.

MR. JAMES M. MORRIS (CONTINUING): Mr. President, I welcomed previously the budget of 1986, which has been announced in this House and I prefer to it as being a nasty auto budget and a budget which was not brought out - and I stand by that. There are many areas today where money could have been saved which we have not spoken about. Areas which would not affect the morale of the Cayman Islands adversely. Areas which would spread the burden of taxation. Areas where large amounts of money could have been secured without hurting anyone or making many more poor Caymanians. The problem is that our physical resources should have not reached this dreadful stage.

I think that the present budget before us, with all due respect to the honourable Third Official Member, is a bit misleading. I am not blaming him for the misleading part, because I am familiar with the way these budgets are formulated. I really feel that most of the supplement things which have been formulated in the budget were against his advice.

There is nothing in the budget which may help on the street and see the market attitude which was alluded to by the Financial Secretary and the reason for which it was decided will benefit. There are things which will bring problems during this year, and I will point them out as I go along.

The country already is in a depression; a recession where it is quite plain an economy which had plenty is an economy which has nothing. We are going from light into darkness. The country needs leadership and not a divided confrontation ways-ends which divide us in the house. This is the reason which I mentioned in the beginning today. The country needs direction. It needs a back into the future. Today, exactly what we are and is going out tomorrow.

It is necessary, Mr. President, to give me and administration a 30 day honeymoon. It is done in the United States and it can also be here. The 30 days for that honeymoon has past and it is time for us to see some positive action. ...

The Members of the Unity Team who are here are still willing to work for the good of our people. That is the commitment we took to our people and that is what we have come in the game. In the case of my colleague from Bodden Town - he and I have served now for over 12 years serving the people of Bodden Town and the people of the Cayman Islands. However, as an Legislative Members of this country must utilize all our knowledge who are able to give us new ideas. Many people can come up with ideas which are worthless a lot believe them when we have worked on for months and months. This we must cooperate. For we still break people in and let us try to build a society on what we have. Let us try to build something for the future.

Mr. President, I have just about dealt with your Throne Speech. At this point I move .....

MR. SPEAKER: I wonder whether, if you have reached a natural break, it would be a convenient moment from your point of view to take the customary break .. Yes. In that case I will suspend proceedings for approximately 15 minutes until about 3.30 p.m.

AT 3:20 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

House resumed at 5.45 p.m.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. The Minister of Finance for Ontario.

MR. CHARLES S. BOSCHE (Algoma-Manitoulin): Mr. Speaker, I have now come to the point of my deliberations which deal with the budget, which, although I discussed with many areas of it, it was only just finished by the Ontario Treasurer. I wish to congratulate him for his fortnightly service, obtaining our knowledge. I thought congratulations were for the previous position he found himself in because it used to be a difficult burden to bear knowing the manner in which the former Provincial Secretary could shrink in the Provincial Secretary for every, and to put us with the present placing Executive Council which I am sure need every pressure to get the way.

We have just come through an election in this country which the honourable Prime Minister in his address referred to. It was stressful, Mr. President, a dirty campaign. It was a campaign where many of small minds preyed on every person in this country who was -- it was a campaign in which the Progressive Conservative Party played a very prominent part. If the lines had been built by that Conservative Party, God knows what would happen.

One statement which I like made by the Honourable Prime Minister is that he wants to make changes in the country's economic development policies. I recognize because what I hope does not that this country has been so just in most of its economic development policies, but we are stumbling in the dark as a new world who has lost the compass, or as I said it was in a skyscraper that has lost its window.

We have been waiting nearly four months to find out the direction we are going under this Government but we still do not know what direction we are going. The Government plan if there is no unemployment, they cannot even tell us how many unemployed there are in this country. We are told to expect more unemployment in the months ahead. We are told to expect more inflation in the months ahead. We are told to expect more taxes in the months ahead. We are told to expect more of everything in the months ahead. We are told to expect more of everything in the months ahead. We are told to expect more of everything in the months ahead.

There is today a blanket of gloom hanging over our people in this country. There is a feeling of helplessness in every town which we serve. There is lethargy. There is stagnation. Nothing is happening in the country today to give any person faith or hope.

I was in the United States at the time that John F. Kennedy became the President of the United States. He succeeded President Eisenhower who was a great man, but not a great leader. The United States at that time had sunk to the point where everybody hung their heads down. We saw with a smile. There was no hope. The day after the election, although President Kennedy had not taken his seat yet. Just October of 1960 the United States and people had hope. That is what I compare those Liberals to at the present time.

The leaders which we had know in Government Council were mainly the leaders of this Government because the years of 1972 and 1973, and I do not have to remind the people of this country what happened in this country during those four years. It is good to say that the problems which were dominant that

MR. JAMES M. GOOSS (CONTINUED): will become the dominant problem in this administration.

The present Honourable Minister Electoral Member of Executive Council was the Honourable Secretary of the country at that time and with all his authority he was not able to keep the economy of this country going. Because on one hand he may have been in favour of doing so, but on the other hand he held the Constitution of this country which has the development plan which the administration of that time had put together. A development plan which would have completely destroyed this country.

These people speak of development today. What type of development would we have to look forward to today and what development would we have had with the last eight years if that massive plan which they devised by outside sources for this country would have come through?

Mr. President, it was a good thing that the people of this country removed. It was a good thing that they were able to see through what was happening, because if that plan had gone through we would have no development on the island today. We would have no investors here because everybody had gone to the point where rents are low.

I remember very vividly those years. They were difficult years for everyone in the Cayman Islands. When one stops to think about what happened under that development plan, from Spotts up to Rock End Point Caribbeana, down Lucy North Side, we could have had to have four acres for the average man to build a home. What would have happened to the principle of Ownership which happens to be land? It would have had no value. It could have been eliminated by policies taken by the Central Planning Authority so where one could not have developed 10 acres of one did and the five acres to build a house upon. The result would have been that some of these farmers, who had the money to spread, would have come in, bought the land and four years later the development plan would have been changed and by that time no Caymanian would have any land left - but he would have gotten a pittance for it. Then the rich would have soared and the special interests groups would have profited.

That is what this country was saved from then. It was saved from bankruptcy because we had a budget at that time of about $12 million and we had a debt of about $2 million. We had the resources used up. So we had no reserve to fall back on. Even the banking institutions, which have their friends, would not agree. The country was in such a poor state.

The administration which had taken place had been done on the promise of permanence you to come to pay, and we started paying for that in 1972. So I can understand. I think the country as a whole is concerned.

A lot of this which has been done to this country has been done because we have had a Civil Service type Government. We may have elections and our people may be elected by the electorate, but, Mr. President, this form of Government and the manner in which it operates is actually a Civil Service system. Coupled with that, the present administration in the past entrenched and adopted every suggestion that was made by the advisers from other countries - experts who have nothing within our country. These experts may have done their jobs in their own countries, but it certainly did not play a part in the Cayman Islands.

MR. JAMES M. BUCKLEY (CONTINUED): They promised to share profits. They promised a problem under which we made no more profits and no contracts would have been let that time and no orders have been taken. No version could be taken unless they were led by the hand of an expert from abroad or a consultant.

While in what I am afraid we are about to embarrass again. This time it would be more tragic because this time it would be the Seventh Continental playing that part. All of us in this room have read and heard stories about the unpredictable things that happened in the Seventh Continental. Syria disappeared. Persia disappeared. Europe disappeared. Our relations disappeared along with that.

I think I should accord a welcome to the present movement that the people are a little more apt to be united and dictatorial in the Seventh Continental. Europe in this country, as I would personally be by speech, are very determined and knowledgeable people, and we pay honor, respect and prospect to our forefathers. We pay homage to our heritage.

Our forefathers have given us a lot to build upon from the cause from which broke and we the people of the Eastern Peninsula should be willing to build upon that. Our forefathers came from abroad. They were free countries where they were humiliated and subjugated by many human laws, and that is why they were willing to flee the dominion of tyranny in the Colonial in the constitution of 1787 a few hundred years ago. It was much better to live that way and live in freedom than to live in their own fatherland. Therefore, Mr. President, we will never allow this country to go in the manner in which some of these people think it will go.

I will almost the most part of my speech be the complete agreement. Because the agreement was not understood and people were not able to realize internment the reasoning behind it made them seek other, constitutionally obvious the election campaign, about the particular agreement. However, it was a step forward for those lasting development in our country. I am very pleased to see Miss Hunsaqata Third Official Member, in his speech, would advise the House and the people that there is very little recession in the financial community here at present.

We are able to enter a phase where there will be more negotiations, and I would hope that the next negotiation will seek only an agreement to deal in services rather of major trade. This agreement was entered into with the belief that it would take two years to successfully move to a treaty stage, and during that time we would like to see a little give on a take. If we each of us at this time had to give a bite of that pie, the particular agreement would be of advantage to this country.

In making this agreement the Islands received many benefits. One of those benefits was felt before that many of the people in the financial community, many of the lawyers, have been employed and they could not travel into the United States. There had been a commitment that there would be no more federal bureaucrats.

This agreement has allowed us to allow our light on this financial world as a beacon shining into the night. It benefits in the whole world that the Eastern Islands are not prepared to stay alone with the communist trends. It has benefited to the whole world that we will do everything possible to increase the investment in our country, but we will not abandon the customs of the Islands to communism.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN (CONTINUING): Hurricane is a bad word. There are many evil effects suffered by the individuals who are hit by the franchise who have to put up with the inconvenience by the country as a whole. In order to accelerate the health, tangible results have to measure up to enough money to feed that habit, and this is where we get a breakdown in society. It is the incumbent upon everyone in the Cayman Islands to work against the narcotic trade.

Hurricane Gilbert left many economic effects many, many people and there are very few families who have not been touched by the effects of it.

We must never, Mr. President, lose sight of the fact that the economy of the Cayman Islands is greatly influenced by personal fortune over which we have no control. Our own made decisions, one can have devaluation of currencies, one can have epidemics, unfavourable/risky oil effects us, but the factor likely that will affect our economy is the natural inherently.

During 1978 to 1979 we heard that the economy was strangulated here because of the unfavourable recession. It is true, there was a real recession during those years, but the Cayman Islands should not have suffered in the manner in which they did. The Cayman Islands suffered greatly at that time because of local problems and the lack of politics.

We must fight ourselves out to the future and be the world people who are capable of shaping the destiny of our own economy. In any constituency there is usually the controlling and the governed. We must be very careful and confident to ensure that we are responsible to the fight and the interests.

The year 1985 was a very good year for the country and for the people of the Cayman Islands. The Cayman Islands experienced might good years similar to that where the economy increased by at least 20% per year, where every sector of the community benefited, where every person in the Cayman Islands could hold his head up with pride because he had a job and he was earning a decent wage. Those days appear to have passed. The year 1990 may not be a good year.

Banking licenses commenced in 1966. They commenced and were here were registered here because the financial community had faith in the Government. They had faith in the stability of the country. If you look at the records and can easily see the substantial increase in this area which took place from 1977 through 1984.

The banking community plays a great part in the economy and well-being of this country. They are on their side a responsible people and in my opinion they owe a lot of responsibility to the local community. It must not be an easy decision to the point where the banking community is just going for the financial community and not for our people. It is time that the banking community adhere on a programme of certain staff training. The banks have just with us for many years and it is surprising the amount of Caymanians who have come and gone and there are many few Caymanians who ever get to the position of authority. They are usually subjected to the lower ranks as here are of mind and [illegible] of labour. The banking community owes it to the stability which they enjoy here to put in a decent amount staff training courses and train the people for middle management at least.

MR. JAMES K. LOUIE (LEGISLATIVE): We have to, in the very near future, set up a new strong banking relationship. The time has passed when we can expect one or two men to build this bank. We must have the strong enough to ensure that we do not have any further runs like the Intraspac debacle.

The failure of Intraspac and the attendant damage that was done to this country, mainly to the small people who still paying and will pay for the rest of their lives, was brought about because we were not vigilant. The banking community which existed at that time should probably have ensured that this would not have happened if we had not been ignorant. But the most finger must be laid at the feet of the former Government - Secretary of this country because he is the person who was ultimately responsible to seeing that the banks stayed within certain guidelines, and evidently he did not pay any attention to this particular case. We cannot allow ourselves to without any more failures of this nature. We should make a determined effort at this time to enhance more of the international banks. When I say international banks, I am not really talking about a place or the world and the Mainstreet. I am talking about their physical presence.

Many of these institutions will probably be moving from Hong Kong in the next few years and we should make a determined effort to try to bring some of this business to the Cayman Islands. We started on it a few months ago and we need a team to Hong Kong. I hope that the present administration will continue along those lines.

Looking at the economic opportunities, directly to Government revenue, about 7.2 per cent of the amount that is earned and investment of money that will be spent. That is a fairly large slice of the pie and although it we would have a very hard time in balancing our budget. It is not only the direct money that is received by Government, it is the many benefits of the business which we get from it.

Mr. President, I come to the things for the future that I would like to touch on. One of these, Mr. President, is that it is my opinion we need a development bank that can assure that local people will have a chance to enter the business field. If we do not get such an institution in the near future, the time will shortly come when there will be but very few Caymanians who will be managers and owners of their own businesses. The situation means the local people in establishing businesses of their own or the present time is not a good situation.

The next thing that we should work on, and more immediately, is the setting up of a monetary authority which could eventually lead to a central bank. Developments which are taking place in the Cayman Islands have risen at the present. It would go a long way in helping us with revenue and Government would have more effective control with regards to banking. I know that this is a subject which has been brought up before many times again to the former Financial Secretary who has always been strongly against it.

The Agricultural and Industry Development Board plays a vital role in the community at the present time. I am pleased to know that it was not my again thanks the administrations of the Utility Team and it was equally administrations under the auspices of Agriculture, Lands and Natural Resources. I pay tribute to my colleagues for the manner in which my duties were the Authority. However, we have only begun to scratch the surface. There is a lot to do that needs to be done and we need to look into other avenues so that we can produce the long-term planning that was denied to the country. This probably represents the last chance for Caymanians to harness entrepreneurs.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN (CONTINUED): I can very proud that we have our own currency and our own Currency Board. It has been a tremendous success from the beginning. I am pleased to know that during our administration we were able to have the Currency Board issue the $50 and $100 notes.

As mentioned by the Honourable Financial Secretary, who quoted correctly almost my whole $18 million, and in circulation we have about $15 million. So you can easily see that we have a very strong currency.

At this point I would like to give another thought as to what can be done to strengthen this position. At the present time gold prices are very low, according to all the authorities it will not go much lower, and then we are in for a tremendous rise in price. Gold is what has backed most major currencies from the establishment of time. It is looked upon as the true wealth and I do not believe there we can issue with gold. Having $18 million in reserve, I would think it would be a practical idea for us to at least invest $5 million in gold to back our currency. The effect of our currency being backed by gold might be tremendous. It would cause notice to the world of our strong financial conditions.

I do not believe that our present Financial Secretary has been negligent to the point that we have large investments still in the pounds sterling area. If we do, for God's sake get them out and buy gold.

During 1984 the Currency Board contributed to the general revenue of this country $240,642. This is a fairly large amount of money, and this given I have not really gotten to that part of the budget yet where this will be how that revenue is spent. It should be, I am sure, at least $250,000 or $300,000. My colleague has just told me that they expect to get $600,000.

Before I get off the currency issue, I would think one suggestion and that is that we just put some commemorative coins this year which will have the new Government Building featured on the back of them. I think it is a suggestion that is worthwhile and a suggestion that could bring money to the Government and would pay tribute to the people of this country by showing what a determined spirit can do.

During 1984, we were lucky enough to continue to have a lot of expensive aviation here. According to the Honourable Financial Secretary, during the year 1983 there were 7,664 more commercial vehicles which landed in the Cayman Islands than there were. The money which the currency regulation has brought to these Islands and to the general revenue for the year 1984 represents 10.9 per cent of Government revenue. Now, in continuing the prosperity that this enjoyment to our country we should make a determined effort to promote economic the benefits of banking registration in the Cayman Islands. We should not just rely from now and hope that people are going to continue to come.

Years ago we would never have believed that our company registrar would get to the point where there are nearly 10,000 companies registered in the Cayman Islands.

Another area which has great potential for the future is in the area of the insurance companies, and I spoke on very lenient that this legislature has brought into being during the administration of the Unity Team. We have helped to put in a form of revenue which should last for many years to come. At the present time there are 371 insurance and 38 A licences. The Honourable Financial Secretary advised this House that, according to information available to him, it represents four times more than we had in 1983.

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY (RUTHERFORD): I commend the present Financial Secretary for his ability to discern what action should be taken and I refer to the point where he is planning through the Portfolio to organise a seminar of Caymanian companies. He should be commended for taking that action as it is a step in the right direction.

As the tourism industry grows in the Cayman Islands and more and more companies register here, it will eventually provide a pool of long-term funding. At the present, according to the figures presented, it provides 1/3 per cent of Government revenue per year.

Mr. President, my next subject is a very long one and it will take me quite some time. I wonder if it would not be appropriate for us to stop at this point?

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think Members will object to adjourning a little bit early, and I am certainly quite willing to have the question put if that will be more convenient from the point of view of your speech?

Would the Honourable First Official Member ....

ADJOURNMENT

HON. JAMES M. POOLEY: Mr. President, I move the adjournment of this House until 10:00 a.m., Monday, 21st March, 1995, pm.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that this House do now adjourn until 10:00 a.m., Monday, 21st March, 1995. Does any Honourable Member wish to speak? In that case I will put the question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. AT 4:45 P.M. THE HOUSE ADJOURNED UNTIL 10:00 A.M., MONDAY, 21ST MARCH, 1995.

MR. PRESIDENT: Prayers be offered. Proceedings are resumed. That I presentation of Papers and Reports. The Chairman of the Cayman Islands Branch of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

COMMONWEALTH DAY MESSAGE

HON. W. ROSWELL BODDEN: Mr. President, it gives me much pleasure at this time to read the Commonwealth Day message as received from Dr. the Honourable Sir Ronald Baker, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, which reads as follows:-

> "On Commonwealth Day, which falls on 12 March, I extend greetings to all my fellow Parliamentarians. On this day we rededicate ourselves to the principles of international peace and order, liberty of the individual, faith in the inherent dignity and worth of human beings, eradication of all forms of racialism and racial prejudice, elimination of colonialism, achievement of a more equitable international society and international cooperation contained in the Declaration of the Commonwealth principles adopted in 1971.
> As members of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association (CPA), we hold these principles dear, and in our various meetings and conferences it has been our endeavour to re-emphasise them.
> The hallmark of the various Commonwealth organisations has been cooperation and consultation. It is the same spirit our Association brings Parliamentarians together on one platform, where they exchange information and experience in a free and cordial atmosphere. In our parliamentary institutions and the ideals underlying them, we have much in common because of the Commonwealth connection. Relating the democratic processes, the CPA through seminars and other means has been engaged in broadening the understanding of, and promoting the respect for, parliamentary institutions. The Commonwealth link has lent a great stability to our Association, and a sense of belonging to the Members.
> The Commonwealth has evolved with the times. In the process of transformation the Commonwealth has shown great dynamism and resilience. It has grown in membership as well as in the scope of its activities. It has been a common meeting ground of the developed and the developing countries and a forum of excellent opportunities, where Parliamentarians meet freely and gain a better understanding of each other and forge personal ties.

In times of crisis the Commonwealth has provided a holding vessel. The sinews parliamentary culture, the same medium of of speech and frequent meetings have forged many members a sense of kinship and emotional attachment.

During the tenure of my office as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, I look forward to meeting a number of leaders, representatives of the Commonwealth countries and members of the Association and to exchange ideas as to how best we may further and strengthen the worldwide, understanding and cooperation among the various members of the Association."

MR. PRESIDENT: Questions. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTIONS

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

HON. JI: Would the Member kindly explain the intents to development school children specify bus stops and if so, what are the locations to the West Bay district?

ANSWER: The intents to development school children do not specify bus stops.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

HON. M. MEDERO BUSH: Supplementary, Mr. President. I do not suppose it is any use asking the Member why not because he did not make up the advertisement I am wondering whether he would give an undertaking to see that when the next advertisements are made up that all districts will have specified locations for bus stops?

HON. HENRY O. BARNES: Mr. President, since the question specifically deals with West Bay I have determined that there are about 25 pick-up and drop-off points in the districts which have established through practice. It appears from a glance at the advertisements that these could be made format by an exchange of letters, and I would seek to do this in the future.

HON. CLEVELAND A. PIERSON: Supplementary, Mr. President. Since this question deals with bus stops and it is of interest to the Cayman Islands I wonder if the Member could satisfy us here that he will do his best to ensure that the same procedure is extended to other districts in the Cayman Islands?

HON. HENRY O. BARNES: Yes, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no further supplementary I will invite the Second Elected Member for West Bay to ask the next question.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL REPRESENTING FOR TOURISM AVIATION AND SPORTS

NO. 12: Would the Member state what progress was done by Cayman Airways Limited in respect of the previous Chairman's financial account and what steps have been taken to recover them?

ANSWER: With the respect, I must point out that this matter relates to the day-to-day management of the company for which I am not directly responsible.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no supplementary the Elected Member for East End may ask the next question.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR EAST END TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR TOURISM AVIATION AND SPORTS

NO. 13: Will the Member explain to this Honourable House the objective of the recent registration of unemployed in the various districts and how soon the results will be attended to?

ANSWER: Government decided that it was time to obtain a realistic figure of the unemployed and in the same vein to make the public more aware of the services being offered by the Labour Office, and to ascertain the number categories of those unemployed. The results of the survey will also be made available to the Commission Protection Board to assist it when considering requests for gainful occupation licences.

The Labour Office has already successfully placed a number of those unemployed and efforts in this area will continue.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask the Member what category of unemployed persons were placed in job vacancies?

HON. M. MEDLEY BODDEN: Mr. President, since some hotel workers and a few more common categories.

MR. ROLAND MASEFIELD: Mr. President, as a result of a question asked in this Honourable House a few days ago until the Member advise whether the Commissions who were laid off by Government were registered by the Labour Board?

MR. PRESIDENT: I am not sure whether the Member was here when that question was asked and answered. It was another Member of whom it was asked, I think. But it was asked of the Third Elected Member of Executive Council who I think undertook to obtain some information and circulate it. Perhaps I could ask the two Members concerned in this case if the information already received is sufficient to answer your point now. Would that be satisfactory to you?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask the Member if the survey completed by Government now completed as it would have how many people to lay off from Public Works Department?

MR. W. MICHAEL BERRY: Not to my knowledge, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no further supplementary the next question may be asked by the elected member from East Fork.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR EAST FORK TO ASK THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL MEMBER REPRESENTING THE AGRICULTURAL AND RENEWABLE RESOURCES:

NO. 32: With the Hamlet close whether or not it be correct that certain new agricultural policies will be implemented this year and would he tell what they are and how soon they may be done?

ANSWER: We are still in policy formulation stages. The only real policy which has already taken effect is to develop the information flow on priority agricultural issues so as not to impede the market mechanism.

No established policies have been discontinued, and with the assistance of the newly established Agricultural Development Committee by Executive Council it is hoped to identify the areas which call for policy revision or new policies. It is also hoped to examine the feasibility of a viable agricultural economy for Labrador, who would be able to undertake agricultural production of highest quality and maximum and thus improve overall outputs.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JOHN B. MCGEE: Yes, President, a supplementary. To the best of my knowledge the farm at Lower Valley has already been established for some years. Would the Minister enlighten me as to what further changes will be made at the farm?

HON. HAROLD G. JOHNSON: The Lower Valley farm will continue to be a demonstration farm, Mr. President. I cannot envision any changes taking place.

MR. JOHN C. CROSBIE: Mr. President, perhaps I should have anticipated from my Lower Valley, has there been an experimental farm. I wonder if the Minister would enlighten me about the changes there?

HON. HAROLD G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, the answer would be the answer that I gave just recently. There is no difference really. It is probably just the same kind which is used here.

MR. G. WILLIS ROWSELL: Mr. President, can the Minister say how many of the members of the newly established Agricultural Development Committee have any expertise in agriculture?

HON. HAROLD G. JOHNSON: I did not hear the question, Mr. President.

MR. SPEAKER: Would you like to repeat it?

MR. G. WILLIS ROWSELL: Mr. President, the question is will the Member state how many members of the newly established Agricultural Development Committee which has set up by Executive Council recently, have any experience in agriculture?

HON. WILLIAM C. JOHNSON: Mr. President, we have very experienced farmers on the Board together with the Chief Agriculturist and Personnel Officer. It is hoped that when we recruit the extension worker he will be the expert on the board. At the present time the board consists of only farmers.

MR. S. SAANID MUSLIM: A supplementary, Mr. President. Can the Member state whether or not the demonstration farm or experimental farm, whatever it is called, did not do the part will revolve on the spot market in competition with the local farmer?

HON. WILLIAM C. JOHNSON: Yes, Mr. President, and the farmers took exception to it. This is why we mentioned here that it is a new policy now that the Department of Agriculture does not operate against farmers in the market. Because from the demonstration farm will just be offering to the farmers on a wholesale basis and they will be same market as the farmers.

MR. JOHN M. MEKALI: Mr. President, those prices are no different to what happened before. The produce was offered to the farmer before but I would like to ensure that it was only a few who made mistake. Could the Member say what will be done with the crops which are produced by the experimental farm as a result of experiments in the future?

HON. WILLIAM C. JOHNSON: Mr. President, this question will be different to Government institutions which have dealt of them. Since it is only maybe it will be different to the farmers as a wholesale basis.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there be no further supplementary the next question will again be asked by the Member for East Bel.

THE QUESTION WHICH WAS ASKED BY MR./MR THE HONOURABLE MINISTER, MINISTRY OF AGRICULTURE, COOPERATIVES AND DEVELOPMENT AND RESPONSE FOLLOWS:

MP 25: Will the Member state whether or not it is the intention of Government to work with the Agricultural Society as has been done in the past and whether monetary sequence and/or disposition by the society will be implemented?

REPLY: It is my definitely the intention to maintain a good working relationship with the Agricultural Society. For the moment, the President of the society is a member of the newly formed Agricultural Development Committee, through which lucky policy direction is expected to be generated. It follows, therefore, that any input from the society as conveyed by the President in his capacity as a member of the Committee will receive due consideration, and will indeed be most welcome. However implementation of the society's suggestions will of course be considered upon merit as discerned by the Committee.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JOHN M. MEKALI: Mr. President, a supplementary. The Member stated that it is the intention to maintain a good working relationship with the society. Will the Member also state whether he feels it would be a good idea for him to attend and become a member of the society?

MRS. MARGARET G. MCNEELY: I would respectfully like to make that declaration, Mr. President.

MR. JOHN B. BROOKS: Mr. President, I really was not expecting that an explanation. I was asking a question. I feel that the Member responsible for this Resolution or explanation should not be given. I feel that it is his place to attend the meeting.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is any further explanation, I will ask the Elected Member for Bridgetown East to ask the next question.

MR. JAMES M. BROOKS: On the Order Paper, Mr. President, I think there is possibly a mistake made either by myself or the staff. I think this question should really be addressed to the Honourable Deputy Elected Member of Executive Council rather than the Second Elected Member of Executive Council. I think I made a mistake.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think there is room for both, sir.

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR BRIDGETOWN EAST TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL REPRESENTING THE MINISTRY OF HOUSING AND LANDS

Q1. By: Will the Member state the amount of funds withdrawn from the financial commodity for use by the Housing Development Corporation since 31/01/69; the number of mortgages and dollar amounts placed since 31/12/70; and the number of mortgages and the financial amounts of such mortgages placed before 31/01/69?

A1 Ans: The amount of funds withdrawn from the financial commodity for use by the Housing Development Corporation since 31st December, 1970, is $500,000.

No new mortgages have been approved since 31st December, 1970, so there were no funds available with which any mortgage.

The number of mortgages placed before 31st December, 1970, is twenty, with a total dollar value of approximately $1,777,000. Further breakdown is as follows:

(1) Insured loans (19) $947,700

(2) Uninsured loans (1) $100,000

(3) Approved loans not yet placed or cancelled (3) $130,000

Eight of the placed loans were placed prior to 31/12/64 totalling $360,3000 and a further nine date totalling $111,9000.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. G. HALL GUSTAVE: Mr. President, may the Member give the reasons for the withdrawal back of confidence by the financial community in purchasing bonds since November, 1970?

HON. CHARLES F. ADAMSON: Mr. President, there are several points which to the least sympathetic, which in my opinion impair the lack of confidence in the institutions making further contributions to the Security Corporation.

MR. D. LACY SCOTT: Mr. President, in making this remarks I have to make a statement from the Senate, before December, 1934, amounting to the amount 3,777,000 had been given to the Authority for funds. Since that time only 840,000 has been given. Which of the two figures indicates a lack of confidence in the Security Authority? Is it the figure since December or the figure before?

HON. ROBERT F. WAGNER: Mr. President, there may be a claim to view as far as contributions are concerned. The figure of $60,000 mentioned here has just been authorized by Congress. It seems to through complications be being implemented in the near term.

MR. D. LACY SCOTT: Mr. President, the new mortgages have been granted since December, 1934. If had been granted prior to December, 1934, which of these two figures would indicate a lack of confidence in the economy?

MR. CHARLES F. ADAMSON: Mr. President, since the Federal Government would seem to stand as surety in the Corporation's security scheme and there is nothing that the Senate should do unless they do just all they can possibly guarantee purchasers against the application of new funds. It is just not time to put a bill over today for lack merely of. It had been more time since the last authorization was made.

MR. D. LACY SCOTT: Mr. President, I could have not heard an objection to my question. Which of the two figures show a lack of confidence, the issuing of 22 mortgages before December or the issuing of 60 mortgages since December?

HON. ROBERT F. WAGNER: Mr. President, the 3100 mortgages to the date would not indicate confidence in the Security Corporation were made some time before then. It is not as though authorizations were made right up to the 31st December and after that nothing was permitted. It was finally come time before the 31st December that any authorization was made to the Board.

MR. D. LACY SCOTT: Can the Senator say that the authorization of 3777,000 came back to the Board?

HON. CHARLES F. ADAMSON. Mr. President, I am not quite certain on this but I believe that it was some time in September.

MR. CHARLES K. BURDICK: In the request to that question, Mr. President, I have to make some statement from the Senator. I am quoting from his report:

> "No new mortgages have been approved since 31st December, 1934, or those above not funds available until very recently."

I have that question in regard to whether or not any part of the "no funds available until very recently". Is the Senator referring to the $60,000 which the Authority has authorized since December?

MR. HARRY G. JOHNSON: For, Mr. President, those are the only funds available to the Corporation now.

MR. JAMES M. MINOR: My question the housing corporation will give out mortgages, how many mortgages do you think you will be able to put out from the $61,000 which you received?

MR. HARRY G. JOHNSON: I am not sure, Mr. President, because it appears to me that new policies will have to be adopted by the Housing Corporation. For instance we have some mortgages granted to a person with a net worth of over $100,000. The amount of these mortgages is $62,500 and it is the opinion that mortgages could not be granted to persons with net worth of over $100,000. There are policies which have to be reviewed. I am not too sure that the $61,000 sum is low I should like to see that distribution will start again when funds are collected.

MR. JAMES M. MINOR: Mr. President, a further explanation. This is a bit of an explanation too. The Housing Corporation has a loan committee which is composed of many worthy people in the community and if persons with assets of over $100,000 has been granted a loan I am not really familiar with it. Really this is not a question. I just wanted to point that out. It is handled by a board and if some particular person has assets of $100,000 I am not aware of it.

Could I ask the following supplementary? Would the Hansard please elaborate on the purposes of a lack of confidence to be done by the previous administration which is keeping money from being multiplied? I think that was the gist of his reply and I would like him to further elaborate on the lack of confidence in order done by the previous administration.

MR. HARRY G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I have been informed that the lack of confidence which was mentioned was in relation due to a statement made by a Member of the last Government stressed to banks that had they failed to make their contributions perhaps other action would be taken against them.

MR. JAMES M. MINOR: Mr. President, to supplement this I would like to ask some of those money words too. In his reply he mentioned that we made more available, I think, to the Corporation. I would like the Member to advise us whether on the City Hospital there were funds available to the Housing Corporation to take care of the re-housing commitments, and what were the amount there on 31st December, 1971?

MR. HARRY G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I have given the answer here that on the 31st November, 1971, there were 17 closed loans valued at $442,300. There were five committed loans valued at $156,000, and there appeared loans not yet closed or committed valued at $135,000. So the Corporation will have funds for pending commitments.

MR. JAMES M. MINOR: I think the Member may rush for nothing so if that because in one of his replies he gave the impression that there was no money left in the Housing Corporation at all as at 31st November, 1971. The Member spoke of the responsibility of confidence which has been built up since the election. He said that before the election in the few months that the Board was operating, there had been a total commitment of $778,000. I do not remember the exact figure which was multiplied up to that date.

MR. JAMES K. BOYCE (COMPTROLLER): Evidently there was at least three members of a Middle Bridge Service Building committee who felt that needed. We have explained to me that so far they have, I think, put $80,000 aboard. How about the others would show willingness in the administration? The previous committee of Senate on the question of bonds admin. Dr. Slat Recreation, Dept?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think that is a question which was raised already by the Second Alternate Member from Pueblo West.

MR. D. WAYNE ANDERSON: I believe I never got an answer to it.

MR. JAMES M. LOCKER: Well, I will ask if I may get an answer from him. Would the Member state whether approximately $50,000 of the $80,000 which he has collected since the election was completed by the financial chairmanship before the election or whether this is completely new money which he has received?

MR. WAYNE D. MINGER: Mr. President, the problem is that the appropriation request the new Governments in the Arkansas Watershed. Have we an opportunity -- are we still voting additional funds.

MR. JAMES M. LOCKER: Mr. President, if he may clarify that point for the Members. The point is that they have been an effort nearly five months and I believe they have done a tremendous job.

MR. PRESIDENT: Point, order. The Member must ask a question not make statements.

MR. JAMES M. LOCKER: Well I think we should clarify this matter, Sir. My recall I ask the Member whether there is any hope of further funding?

MR. WAYNE D. MINGER: Mr. President, I have made them.

MR. JAMES M. LOCKER: The people do not, Mr. President, I really did not receive a reply to my previous question because he was interested in his answer that the reason for the monthly reservation being on such a low position was because of lack of funds in the previous administration. I asked whether of the $80,000 which he has committed since the election, $50,000 of that was contributed by that financial chairmanship before the election. If the answer is in the affirmative it would mean that they have only contributed $10,000 on their own, since the election.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no further supplementary....

MR. JAMES M. MINGER: Mr. President, I am ready for my answer. I have some further questions.

MR. PRESIDENT: I believe that you have not satisfied with the answer you received to your inquiry.

MR. JAMES M. LOCKER: I did not get an answer as to whether the $80,000 was committed before the election or not, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: He answered the question, or should I say either you did asked that question be again again. We may not have given you a specific answer to your inquiry.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Well I will choose it, Sir, as the country will know. It was committed before. Would the Member state whether steps to any proposal afoot by the present administration to put down the practice or curtail the Housing Corporation's activities?

HON. WILTON O. JOHNSON: Not to my knowledge, Mr. President.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Would the Member state whether there would be the possibility during 1985 of at least matching the amount of mortgages which were placed in 1984?

HON. WILTON O. JOHNSON: It is the intention of this Board to do so, Mr. President. Perhaps the question will be looked upon at the end of the year.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Does that scheme of funds come the Member proposes to do today

HON. WILTON O. JOHNSON: Mr. President, we are negotiating. We are not established.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: With whom are we negotiating, the Caribbean Development Bank?

HON. WILTON O. JOHNSON: Possibly one source.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Would not their interest be higher as they the Corporation would not be able to pay out the loans at a low rate as it has done?

HON. WILTON O. JOHNSON: I did not say that we would accept their terms.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Will the Member then state please Cayman the Housing Corporation will accept?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: We will accept the terms provided by Board policy.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I have no further questions at this time. I think the public is aware of what is happening.

MR. PRESIDENT: Unless any other Member has further questions let us pass to the next question. Again the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR BODDEN TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL WHETHER HE WOULD KINDLY STATE THE POSITION AS AT TODAY

QUESTION: Will the Member advise the terms of appointment of the new accountancy agency in North America for Cayman Airways and the Cayman Islands Department of Tourism, and whether such agency provided services for any other entity in the Caribbean?

ANSWER: The agreements between Premier's Department, Government employees Bureau are regarded as confidential and the release of full details of the appointment is therefore not possible. However, it is safe to say that the appointment conforms to the standard agreement used by the Australian Association of Stockbroking Agencies, and was settled by the Legal Department.

The Agency agreements are dealt in the normal manner.

QUESTIONS:

MR. JAMES M. BOOLEY: Mr. President, it may be argued that the agreement with Queen Victoria should be confidential but with all agreements which are made by Government and are subject to Minister Committees, particularly the Premiers of the States might have a right to know what those agreements contained. I wonder why the Government has taken this step at this time in not being willing to make the terms available to the Members of the House to see how to vote the funds for it?

MR. PRESIDENT: Could the Member state that into a question because as far as we notify a statement.

MR. JAMES M. BOOLEY: Well I think that we had a question Mr. Speaker, that is the question. The Member has stated in his reply that the agreements between the Authority, Government and Queen Victoria are regarded as confidential and the release of full details of the appointment is therefore not possible. I said that I would overrule the point that maybe Queen Victoria could be established under those terms, but the Finance Department has to pay the money to maintain this agreement. Under the most recent agreements on that basis that the Members made available to the House so that we may be governed the proper in our consideration of the budget?

THE HON. MURRAY ROBERTS: Mr. President, copies of the agreement can be made available to Members of the Premiers Committee but I do not feel that it is in the interests of Government to unveil this information in an open House. However, copies will be made available to Members of the Premiers Committee, which are to be treated in a confidential manner.

MR. C. PETTY BROWN: Mr. President, can I ask the Minister for some information publicly the terms under which the contracting party will work, should the Member tell us the terms of appointment generally, since how the job been advertised it would have agreed the terms under which the contracting party would work?

THE HON. MURRAY ROBERTS: Mr. President, I think this would be a departure from what has happened in the past with other similar agreements. However, the Member raising the question is a Member of the Premiers Committee and he will personally have the full details when he gets his copy of the agreement.

MR. C. PETTY BROWN: Mr. President, is the Member saying that he will not have the public have the general terms of the appointment for this contract?

HON. E. MORGAN PHILPOTT: I would ask Members of Parliament to treat that sort of information. I have never seen any piece of statement made available to the public.

MR. C. VALLEE (QUEBEC): Is the Member saying that he will not tell the public news, Mr. Speaker?

HON. E. MORGAN PHILPOTT: The Member can provide his own interpretation, Sir.

MR. C. VALLEE (QUEBEC): Can I ask him if he will allow the public to decide it as well?

MR. JAMES K. HUGHES: Mr. Speaker, may I ask the Member a further supplementary as to whether he was satisfied in securing the services of this particular agency on the basis of an open, fair examination?

HON. E. MORGAN PHILPOTT: Mr. Speaker, the expert from Europe referred to by the Member was a member of the advisory committee which dealt with applications. That committee was composed of members of the Department of Trade and Members of Parliament.

MR. JAMES K. HUGHES: Will it be the case Department of Trade and Commerce, under which terms of reference will we have the assurance of a so called expert from Denmark in advising on this agreement?

HON. E. MORGAN PHILPOTT: The terms of reference for his services were to be just as otherwise in the case of the committee.

MR. GILLES G. GRENIER: Will they be published this point where Canadians have to make application or to get just a part of the Danish Scientific syndicate?

HON. E. MORGAN PHILPOTT: I am not familiar with the Danish Scientific syndicate, Mr. President.

MR. GILLES G. GRENIER: Could the Minister state under the terms of reference the amount of money that Dr. Mills was to receive?

HON. E. MORGAN PHILPOTT: The details referred to in the answer are not as Dr. Mills was to receive.

MR. JAMES M. HOUSTON: Will the advertising policy figure among the items of which he is being asked for these particular services in the Eastern Provinces?

HON. E. MORGAN PHILPOTT: I am not familiar with what their advertising policy is, but our advertising policy will continue to be maintained at a high level and will be directed towards the continued growth and development of tourism in the Atlantic Provinces.

MR. SPEAKER: If there is no further supplementary I will recognize the Right Honourable Member for Rocky Town to ask the next question.

MR. JAMES K. BOYCE: Mr. President, I must apologise but because of all the shift of responsibility on Government it knew the question I am not quite sure whether I have this question posed to the right Member or not.

QUESTION ASKED BY MR. BOYCE TO ASK THE SECRETARIAT RECORD SECRETARY MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR LABOUR LEGISLATION AND ITEMS

MR. ED: Will the Member state when labour legislation, drafted during the term of the previous administration, will be presented to the Legislature for action?

ANSWER: The Honourable Member is aware that on Thursday, 6th March, 1985, a Select Committee of the whole House was appointed to formulate draft labour legislation, which, when completed will be presented to this Honourable House. Any provisions drafts of labour legislation will be made available to the Committee for consideration.

MR. H. DOUGLAS LEWIS: Mr. President, the question has been directed to the right Member.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JAMES K. BOYCE: May I ask the Member if the last Government's drafted legislation will be made available though it was not enacted it will come forward to the Committee for consideration?

MR. H. DOUGLAS LEWIS: Mr. President, in the debate last year I thought it was brought out that there was no Labour Legislation drafted by the past Government would be brought forward. What I did say was that any previous drafts of labour legislation will be made available to the Committee for consideration. I did not say legislation drafted by the past Government because it is my understanding that none was made.

MR. JAMES K. BOYCE: I do not know whose fault was or his understanding of it, but I think it was made completely plain that Labour Legislation had been drafted by the previous administration and the cost of such a draft, if I may say it to the House, was I think $250,000. So it is unfair to say that legislation has not been drafted. I am asking whether he will make that a part of what is submitted to the Committee for study?

MR. H. DOUGLAS LEWIS: Mr. President, my understanding which I referred to a while ago and which was just confirmed to by the Member was based on a statement made by the Honourable Second Official Member of Government last week. I emphasized any draft legislation was prepared by the International Labour Organization and this is what I am referring to which will be made available to the Committee for consideration.

MR. JAMES K. BOYCE: Thank you.

MR. SPEAKER: It is 11 o'clock so that concludes Question Time.

I have been given notice by the Honourable First Official Member of his intention to make a statement under Standing Order 20, paragraph (1). So I will invite him to make it at this time.

PARLIAMENT OF PINEY ISLANDS, HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES DEBATES

SUSPENSION ORDER 30(2)

MR. DENNIS D. DOUGLAS: Mr. President, under standing order 17(1)(g) statements by Members of the Government come right after Question time. I note you noticed this morning as you have correctly said, Sir, and I would like to make a statement now.

The Constitution provides for the Governor to exercise the prerogative of mercy. In particular section 17(a) empowers him to remit the whole or a part of any sentence. So is provided to exclude Executive Council before pardoning anybody. This power of pardon is rarely used. Circumstances in which it may be considered are, for example, when a prisoner is terminally ill or on the recommendation of a court. It was used twice. Director of Prisons named Lavina Curtis. A question about this case was asked in the Legislative Assembly last Friday.

Lest any misunderstanding should take place it has been decided. Justice Sunk please notify us a change of punishment of servitude to February 1994. A unanimous decision of the court was reached by the Full Court confirmation of a similar offence during 1974. Between 1977 and 1979 it had also had convictions for some unrelated non-drug offences, details of which were given to the Assembly.

The magistrate considered a two year sentence amply severe, having regard to the fact that the offence involved which was one gram, and to the fact that the prosecution case were more than four years old. He accordingly recommended that the Governor remit part of the sentence.

At the Government's request the Chief Justice was requested to establish whether if the magistrate's recommendations were accepted, any other sentences in respect of other mandatory minimum sentences have been imposed should in certain have some of those sentences remitted too. The Chief Justice reported that none should. All those cases were on the Justice entirely different from that of Lavina Curtis.

The Executive also considered that the unfortunate combination of the remote imprisonment for such fair and reasonable. That is probably what it ought have received and there had been a mandatory sentence.

Separate representations about the case were subsequently made to the Governor by Mr. John Edwina Barker for Mary Day, from which considerably Bank arose. He pointed out that Dawn had been sentenced while pregnancy a termination appropriate and should therefore have been treated with sympathy rather than with condemnation. In considering the case both the Attorney General and the Commissioner of Police agreed that consumption would have been a more appropriate charge. Conviction on such a charge would not have carried a mandatory minimum penalty. The Legislative Assembly subsequently reduced cocaine as a less serious offence than possession and provided for lesser penalties.

The Governor consulted Executive Council in accordance Members' views about the possible exercise of the prerogative of mercy. He was advised against considering it at this time but a recommendation was made that the case should be reviewed after Dawn had served a year's more in prison. The Governor again consulted Executive Council in December, this time on the advice of Mother Teresa Hospital Authority, having regard to the opinions which had been expressed by Mr. Chief Justice and the magistrate.

The Executive Council then advised that the balance of Dawn's sentence should be remitted. It was with the result that Dawn served ten months in prison, the equivalent,

MR. DAVID D. EVANS (NORTHWEST): noting the reference for the statutory entitlement to one third maximum for post hostilities of a fifteen month sentence.

MR. SPEAKER: Then I am the order paper, consideration of the debate on the Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill, 1985, the First Elected Member for Middle Arm may continue.

CONTINUATION OF THE DEBATE ON THE SECOND READING AND ASKING LEAVE OF THE APPROPRIATION BILL, 1985

MR. CLYDE K. WELLS: Mr. Speaker, as I spoke and spoke on the 1985 budget which has been delivered by the Honourable Minister of Energy to this House, it is necessary to consider the entire stewardship of the Lucky Team administration from 1979 to 1985. The reason for this is that 1984 was first the culmination of the promises for growth, development and prosperity which this country had experienced from 1979 to 1984. The Honourable Minister in his delivery has given us various figures which I will quote from. He has advised this House that the construction industry contributes about three million a year to the economy and that the employment in the construction industry is about one people, for this could be people in different shapes.

I will try to point out to this House why to the country at large that we have to be very careful as to what is done by Government so that this can continue at a good rate of growth. The construction industry is very vital to the economy of our Province. It takes employment in the part of it because to develop a hotel, condominium project or whatever it may be because when built it is a lasting type of investment. While I may frankly I would not like to be brought to task later on by someone who may think that I supported that thing until just for ever. I am talking with regard to the longer of the life of an investment type of development. Mr. Speaker, it would just this type of industry to continue it does rely extensively upon people having money in investment, faith in Government and stability.

Take in that context about the major development of this country between 1979 and 1984. During that time people in the Eastern Province enjoyed a measure of life which they had never been able to enjoy before. This figure represents a large amount of people, young people mostly who have employment in this country, and it is very vital that we continue the building trade moving.

The building trade moved ahead during the previous administration of 1979 to 1985 as never it other trade schools were. It has done a lot for the people who have taken the time to go through these schools. I would like to point out to this House that anything from the figures of the Provincial Economic Council there was a drop in approvals in 1984. Approvals dropped from 831 million in 1983 to 804.7 million in 1984, or a 7% per cent decrease. This is a frightening thing and in my opinion a lot of it could have to be laid at the feet of the objection in the United States as well as the election in our own Province. Coupled with that is the difficulty of obtaining long term financing.

I have stressed this because I feel that it is vital when the statistics have fallen in our economy and faith in our Government, and that is why I suffer a further decline in 1985. The indications on the outside are continually receiving

Mr. SPEAKER (Mr. Ramjattan): [illegible] from our Government that they will be determined to continue the policies of peace and prosperity. If this signal is not forthcoming in the days ahead, Mr. President, the entire economy may suffer drastically in time.

The Development Plan which was brought during the previous administration of 1977 to 1981 had a realistic approach to the development of this country. Changes will be necessary to improve upon anything after a period of seven or eight years, but I am hopeful that the present Government will not tamper with that and that it will not, by its present legislation in this House just because it has the majority of votes. This would seriously affect the growth of this country.

It is well known by this Government and many observers to agree that one of the downfalls of the 1978 to 1981 administration was the Development Plan which they tried to keep on an annual basis by the Ministries. Our country has plan and it has not brought about significantly by the manner in which Government policy with the Development Plan for the country. I like symmetry and my constituency will also, hopefully, have this Development Plan so not to be tampered with and that we will not start up with the pressures of the old Development Plan being done in this way that passed by the House.

I would have to give credit to the previous chairman of the Development Board under the administration 1977 to 1981. I think the Board did a good job and it carried out the policies of Government, and it also carried out the policies as laid down in the land. I am sure that the present chairman has the responsibility which rightly is on the right shoulders and I hope that he will carry out a programme of rehabilitation to be sure that the infrastructure in our country is improved significantly so that the production will be brought about and I am asking the Members of the Government Bench to be very cautious that this new Development Plan and not what will cope with the problems of the country.

According to the report from the Honourable Minister of Finance, Government's total property taxes are at a very high figure for the year and the total value of property assessment was $69,4 million. What amount collected this year is planned to be increased significantly to 1985. With reference to the new proposed Stamp Duty Act I would like all Members to look at that there is to be the area of 10 per cent of Government revenue which comes from the transfer of land. If that revenue is not forthcoming in the years that Government will suffer. The people of this country will suffer and transfers are not going to be made as they have been in the past if there is any hampering with the development of the Islands, and, in my opinion, the more stamp duty for persons through this Bench. There are many pitfalls in the proposed Bill. I will try to deal with them later on in my contribution, but I can safely say that the Law Society of Trade would have proposed something to bring to the attention of the Members of the House to the pitfalls which exist in the present provisions implication.

The Honourable Minister of Economic Affairs stated in his submission that during the year 1981 the exemptions were registered under the Registration Act. That is still a significant amount of transfers. What brings me to my other point, Mr. President, is to why the new administration is not [illegible] the exemptions this year. In the year 1981, I think that there were 200 exemptions transferred. In the year 1982, I think that there were somewhere around 250. In 1983, that is the projection there was a drop and I think that during that year there only 75 registrations. However, the present Government

MR. JAMES M. HOOSEY (CONTINUED): some to this House when they proposed to take the conservation aide off, and said that they were taking it off because of the stagnation in the economy and the fact that conservations were not being built. Mr. President, when there were 230 registrations in 1969, which was nearly half of the amount which was registered in 1973, when there was a significant increase was. There was no reason to attack the economy and blame the increase by saying that the conservation industry was lagging so badly, mainly in the conservation phase of it because of the conservation aide. The conservation bug is something which could have worked. It could have been collected because the law plainly set out how it was to be collected, and a conservation developer could make it back a certificate of fitness from the Attorney General before that conservation would be registered. So there is no reason why we could not have collected it. We have lost a significant part of the economy and we are going back to mortgaging it back from the Local people to pay for conservations. This would alarm anyone and it is alarming the local levels. It is alarming the Americans who have built this country as to whether Government has any type of policy at all.

I think that must has been said about this legislation but one of the legal aspects of this country is my gratitude with the elected Member of Roosevelt Council, Gold Coast where we did not see anything materially wrong with the two unit plan because why it was passed expected years ago. It could have contributed a lot to the economy and I think that is . where that it has been taken off.

The main part of my deliberation, Mr. President,will concern on the Portfolio of Agriculture Land and Natural Resources for the year 1986.

MR. SPEAKER: I wonder whether before the Member enters on another part it would be convenient to take the morning break. I will suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes until 11.50 a.m.

AT 11.35 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

AFTER RESUMING AT 11.70 A.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. The Elected Member for Golden Sand.

MR. JAMES M. HOOSEY: Mr. President, I would like at this point to deal a bit with the submissions on record to agriculture. During the United Seas administration this department was headed up in 1980 and 1984 under the leadership of the Elected Member for Port Sea, a colleague of mine whom I am very pleased to associate with. During the time that he was in charge of this portfolio he implemented many efforts to enhance agriculture in this country. I think he like many other people in a bit concerned that even with the

Mr. JAMES M. KNIGHT (CONSTITUENCY): appreciation of hon'ble and the mechanization of them the used agriculture was left out. I think that is one drawback to the growth of this country that we can export but many things do the people do come to you first to answer agriculture for the country.

It would be very good if the Member would make himself available to the common people and experience the state of the body as the Prayer Member experienced there. The former Member was that there was television now to enable farmers in the Eastern District to get to those factories. Governments during them they experienced but of money to sustain the farmers. The Member suggested an interesting outside and point of an attempt to improve the skills in this country. Aside this was done with the assistance of funding by the Government. He needed many delegations always and to enquire the assistance of consultants when required, and not at the level of the small home level. We got data play the Government programme which has helped the rubber industry in this country. It is only one that our local farmers in a few areas are having able to supply the demand in the country. Now this is only a temporary stage and this is why it is so important that the Government and the Member in charge of this Ministry work very effectively in the future.

I must mention the necessity of the Agricultural Society and the Association of the members. They have done more than their share so far as supplying the Country in this regard. We should try to market in every area that we can. It is ideal that the Government formulate proper policy and at which level consultancy that industry should increase in this area. We should make a serious attempt to grow local crops and possibly flowers and no fertilizer is going to be done in order to agriculture for the country. Therefore this is only a temporary stage and this is why it is so important that the Government and the Member in charge of this Ministry work very effectively in the future.

I must mention the necessity of the Agricultural Society and the Association of the members. They have done more than their share so far as supplying the Country in this regard. We should try to market in every area that we can. It is ideal that the Government formulate proper policy and at which level consultancy that industry should increase in this area. We should make a serious attempt to grow local crops and possibly flowers and no fertilizer is going to be done in order to agriculture for the country. We must be more aggressive in the marketing strategies we have done before.

The honourable Member during the years 1980 to 1985 did exhibition where members can be involved the people and the Department and they worked together to promote a common goal.

This Portfolio should also pay much attention to the planting industry in these islands. It can be promoted economically, maybe more so in the past where we could secure employment. Besides to do so is going to need the guiding hand of Government. It is going to be necessary to provide more funding. It is going to be necessary for us to also include the services of people who can market our local produce. This could possibly be done through Government assistance and funding in the form of a cooperative and we should make a determined effort to have our fishing industry properly developed. Again the honourable Member expressed a lot of efforts in this particular area, but I still pointed the Bonus were to be going to be of any use if we must designate. We also will need to explore.

I am pleased that the honourable elected Member for Port Moresby was able to put in a programme of importance of local waste. This has helped the Capital City in the clean environment and he has helped the country progress. I am very pleased that the new administration has been fit to promote funds for a rat control dig in Gizumbur as it was once probably the majority of the people for eating and even with new the have increased. Because, I still pointed the House and the people of the country Tolanam that is only a contemplation of the province surrounding Kiwai Island Member of Parliament

MR. JOHN M. BOGGS (CONTINUING). Correct, because plans were fully agreed that had we lasted I can thank the present administration for completing if only one worthwhile project of the anti-town movement.

I will speak further on this in my speech to really show what the objectives of Bodden Town will be next year.

The million dollar parking tournament which was supposed just gone was a tremendous success. Again I speak subject to correction, Mr. President, because I do not know whether that has also been taken away, from the Ministries of Tourism and Trade or whether it will continue under the Leader responsible for Tourism Aviation and Trade. I apologise if my assumption is wrong that this has also been given to the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council. If I am wrong I apologise. Because, again this was a tremendous success for the year. It was a bold step forward and considering the benefits which were derived by this country Government had but little expenditure. I would like to praise all of the people in the private sector who contributed tremendously and effort he showed to make that the success that it was.

This year that particular programme will be sponsored by Mr. Slaughter, a businessman from Miami who is world famous. I wish to thank him publicly also for his efforts on our behalf just to still. I hope, he also with the administration of Government involvement. This was the way to use and if before the objections was I hope that it will continue.

I also hope that the present administration will continue the Premier's Road project. This has contributed much to the economy for many years now and it has been started under the Unity Team's administration. Just because it was started by our administration I hope that the new administration will not see fit to abolish it. It has meant much to our people and it has meant much to the economy. During the time that this project has been going on we have had several shutdown. They all have done a wonderful job. I must at this point pay tribute to the chairman who piloted it through Lady, Mr. Lookwood. I would also like to give my thanks to Dr. Frank Hirtzel.

The previous Member of Executive Council responsible for the agriculture portfolio started a piggery programme and an abattoir. I maybe have not succeeded completely in the revenue budget for this year but I do hope that these worthwhile programmes will continue. I also hope that the Member responsible will see fit to put forward a programme to give more feeder roads in the interior. During our administration we assisted people in agriculture in every respect that we could.

Nearly all of the equipment which would be needed and the supplies which are needed to successfully carry on agriculture in this country had the duty removed from them by us. I hope that the Member in charge now will not be using his financial knowledge in order to persuade the House in the near future to restore these duties on to the backs of our people.

The year 1986, in continuing the programme of the Unity Team Government a police station was built at Bodden Town and a whole complex which cost $650,000. I am very proud for my people of the district of Bodden Town and for the Islands as a whole that Government was able to expend these funds on their behalf. To those who have not seen the police complex in Bodden Town it is a beautiful building and it is in an asset to that district. I am hoping that we will all be able to attend a dedication of this nice complex at East End which I understand will eventually cost $1,500 and which was started under our administration. I believe

MR. JAMES M. BARRY (Chief Steward): The committee in the time of the elections and referendum in the neighborhood of $600,000. So when that is spread I hope we will not have an occasion to impinge it to take.

I know that the elected Member for East End has worked very hard to benefit his people. Even the year 1977, since since he has been an Elected Member he has worked diligently on their behalf, and have and has made many strides in the last eight years.

There will also be a necessity in the near future to construct a police station for the district of West End. The circumstances have been worsened in the neighborhood of Lady Cumberbatch Estates to purchase skyhouse or whatever name in West Bay. We which is in hope we will be able to build a police station, a community hall and possibly an area for sporting facilities. Again I hope that the Elected Members in Government who are leading Government at this moment see fit to consider that policy.

Anyone that under our administration put a police house and I will deal with this matter later. So it is reasonable that George Town come below in the near future provision the estimated funds to provide the many facilities for this district. I will support it fully and accordingly I will also support a request for a station for North Side.

The Honourable Financial Secretary in his statutory position was to be sure the expenditure and budget of the Civil Service is $68,000,000 which represent for about 44 per cent of the national revenue. And this included the large salary increase and the salary scale for the Civil Service which one does accept the fact from administration in the year 1981. However, Mr. President, I must give a word of warning at this point that any time the Civil Service salary and benefits take 44 per cent of the general expense it is reaching an alarming figure. We have spoken a little on this in the previous debates, and I will speak a little more on it now.

I think it is incumbent on you as the Chairman of this committee and the person ultimately responsible for the Civil Service to see that we do not have a further large increase in the expenditure. We must get to the point where people are paid for what they do. We must get to a position where people are promoted on merit and ability and not on longevity by keeping the same system. Those days are past and these issues continue if our country is to proceed in the manner which it should do.

In my opinion, consideration should be given to a change in the Public Service Commission. I feel that the present Public Service Commission is an accumulation of the past in our scientific days and that we should make an attempt to streamline it.

The next point which I would ensure, Mr. President, is the ship registration. My colleague from Bodden Town and myself over the years have fervently tried to get proper ship registration legislation in this country. We have experienced many attempts to deal with this by bringing experts here and so forth, but we have come to a point where there is a little reluctance in it. It was noted last year that the ship registration should be abolished for various reasons, one of them being that it is not a large revenue earner. I spoke against it at that time, Mr. President. I speak against the closure of the registry at this point and I think I will continue to do so for many years to this future. Ship registration to me, if not a revenue earner, is a vital thing. It shows our flag abroad. It gives employment and gives some control in the local market. When you consider the

MR. SPEAKER (Continued): Development of this Cayman Islands and the Government of the Territory could never support a motion like this evening.

The Honourable Financial Secretary in his budget statement has given that there is a reasonably substantial fiscal deficit. We anticipated this earlier enough to ensure we could do. When the Budget of the Cayman Islands is compared to similar countries in the Caribbean with the same size and population then we can hardly complain that Government has been lean. I only hope, Mr. Speaker, that when we get back in October the 23rd August the Honourable Financial Secretary and Members of this House will be able to give the same optimistic report. Although with the help of my country and the people I hope that it will be so, my financial fears are that unless we get substantial aid.

I say to most people in the Cayman Islands be glad of these and with all we can encourage ourselves during the next elected Government will make. Whether these moves will be beneficial to the country as a whole or whether the Government will continue to support special interest groups remains to be seen.

The 1981 Budget as presented to the House began with a balanced budget of $23.4 million. However, when additional moneys are to be taken during the year including the re-assessment of the rebate that was enacted since then, the 1981 Budget was $23.7 million. This is a large amount of money and a very large amount of money when you consider the size of our population. However, that money was needed. We borrowed a little of it as the Honourable Financial Secretary has explained and we will be continuing later in my discussion. I am pleased to note, Mr. Speaker, to point out that the new Government has not been able to increase that budget for the year 1982, but neither have we decreased it from what was given in 1981. For a country to continue and grow as we have been growing, this is impossible.

I have a special part in my speech to deal with what I usually look at the Budget and I will leave the back of my Administration until then. However, I am very vexed that for the entire period of our Administration the local people have not failed more in love the growth budget, the number of ones who to balance our budget, we have had to put large emphasis in revenue and would not tax the local people, particularly poor ones.

The year 1982 ended with a deficit of $700,000 which is the first deficit which has been recorded since the year 1977. So the country as a whole, the Legislative Assembly as a whole and the Islands people as a whole know that this speaks highly for the stewardship of the newly elected administration.

The Honourable Financial Secretary has indicated to us that with the Port Authority, Town and the various other loans; the Town Authority loan, the airport loan and so forth, the debt for the country now is $22.4 million. This is not an alarming amount when you consider the size of our budget and when you consider what the debt has stood at in relation to budgets in the past. We are also indebted, as he mentioned, to Caribbean Development Bank for $700,000 for students loans. Again, I and my colleagues are very proud that this is something else which we introduced under our administration.

The General Reserves as at 31st January, 1982 stood at $10.1 million and during the year they earned $1 million in interest. Leaving the sum $9.1 million and there are specific requirements including the Cayman Brac airport runway. The Government Members in this House are seeking to further maximize the

MR. JAMES M. BRYSON (CONTINUED): ...reserve funds of those Islands by $2.3 million in order to pay to Saipan their 1998 uncollectable budget... those funds now to make, Mr. President, I will warn the Members of the House and the country as a whole that the large reserves which have been built up will be nearly depleted. That is where the problem comes in. It is not the economy which the present Elected Members of Government should have so many kind words for before and after the election that the economy was broken. The country was not broken in their view, Mr. President, but we are facing the point where it is nothing more than a political smokescreen. Because in the short period of little over four months, since this section passed the House, they will have taken over $6 million from accounts and that is nearly just $1 million more than which they said the people's tax did not have. So I wonder if we did not have those resources where could they have put this money to responsibly spend as they have been using.

The balance of reserves at the end of December, as reported by the Honorable Financial Secretary, stood at $27.7 million. With the $2.3 million which the Executive Branch is now proposing that we take for 1998 to will begin us with the small amount of $5.4 million. The former Financial Secretary of this country, who is now the Honorable Speaker Pangelinan of Commonwealth, in some deliberation in this House Chamber this morning, has said that when he left Government a year and a half ago there was $21 million in reserves. This was a big increase, Mr. President, and it was only said to start an argument with the Ways Then administration and on the present Honorable Financial Secretary. I think that the statement should have been withdrawn because we are also aware that as the time he left Government he had started a financial mobility that before that whole substantial amounts of money were taken out of the reserve fund to be used for the benefits of the people of the Northern Islands. So the reserves did not stand at $21 million when he vacated the office.

Another source of revenue which has been accomplished during the Ways Then administration was the privatization of the Postal Savings. In the years to come this will have a significant impact on the people of the Northern Islands. Many people depend on having cash a facility. They thought of having the chance to compete for the Post Office people from other countries who had been employed here, and to open the type of business which they would be proud of. We have given them this opportunity. At the present time ownership in the Financial Secretary's speech there are 14 mistakes who will shortly enter the privatization. Some of these have now completed the third year of a five year course. I don't have all the previous of success and I hope that they can become as much an asset of our public business here.

Mr. President, my fellow colleagues from Saipan may say during the Ways Then administration was majorities for the Territory of Commonwealth and made appearance a lot of effort that year Senate president's vision was established. The first water supply was established in the districts of Saipan Town in Susupe Valley. The second one is now being completed to meet the need of the work on the Beach but will provide the completed Garapan water distribution and to check the manner in which we looked at the problems of the community that we placed a supply of water as being of vital necessity. In order to provide for the number of customers which we now and for our local people, water is of paramount importance. I would like to say briefly to Saipan Water Company, I think they have three plans, who have the desalinization plant on the West Hagåtña Road. They have contributed tremendously to the capital growth of tourism which has provided money for investment, money for the infrastructure, money

Mr. Chief M. Sparrow/continued: for the hotel-keepers and money for the airlines. If they had not had the foresight to go ahead with development, today the country would have been build ahead at least five years in the development.

I would like to point out to the Members of this House that as was the intention of our administration to see that never was placed in the standard of water and before it would have been piped to an hundred in some of the native areas. Unfortunately I believe the present elected Government have not been fit to provide funds to enable this to happen.

My colleague from Caicos and Cay is also responsible for seeing that the sewerage system would come into effect by the year 1980. We along with other members of Government negotiated successfully for the Inter-Development Bank, our administration purchased the land and we put the full plan into action for the sewerage system for the West Bay beach area. Again this is important if we are to overcome to alleviate the number of tourists to the country that we do. It is also important for the welfare of the local people and to see that we maybe thought opinions before any could get in. My colleague spent a lot of his time and effort in bringing this to what I would call a successful conclusion, and again we will be ready to capitalise in future.

The administration was also responsible to negotiate money that the Private Sector could provide the necessary funds for the purchase of land in West Bay. This is a large piece of land and it will be many years before it is fully utilized. However, it will provide a natural place to have a civic centre and parking facility to service the people of West Bay. I would like at this point to warn the present Members for West Bay not to look around for this, because this was done in a previous administration. It was this which appeared that Government as well as the private citizens of this country had already only four weddable money to invest in work in many ways to better the life of our people. I hope that they will provide the funds necessary to the most famous to see that development takes place. In the present budget, although they provided as much as possible to service the Last Electric, I apologise if there is any worry or if for the development there, but I have not got some monies for. I do apologise because I have not had a chance to complete my work on the budget as presented by the honourable Financial Secretary. That is why it will be necessary, Mr. President, for me to continue debating until tomorrow afternoon.

The administration in the year 1982, as in previous years before that, was for to provide money for West Bay, North Side and the other districts to provide community parks and playing fields. This is something which we attended to every year. As I mentioned previously, Government bought the land for the sewerage project on West Bay Road and we purchased the land for the new airport terminal at Owen Roads. I should stress at this point that as I go further in my debate I will be dealing on matters that will the airport terminal and the other facilities for Owen Roads.

We also provided a lump sum grant in Small Grant for the people who have lands and they are in the banking business. Much was said about this issue and I think some people even went so far as to say the money would discredit the work in the Sanitary Board. However, Mr. President, it was one of the first duties in South Sound where this could have been and that I am very pleased that the Member whose family who also came under attack first and stood firm, and that it was completed. I am sure that the people particularly who appear to the taxpaint business in their small hotels will pay tribute for what people do make for that being done.

MR. JAMES H. BOREN (CONTINUING): ...that grew up when establishment of metropolitan districts as Memphis Light, Gas and Water Division was a great step forward and it shows that we have confidence in every level of government in this country.

Property appraisals as I understand it while ago have decreased in value. In 1932 there was a total appraisal of $28.7 million in Memphis, Tennessee. In 1952 it increased to $83.1 million. Mr. President, I am sure that some day in the near future the present financial problems of Southern Bell will be joyfully forgotten & plan to construct the tallest building in this country. If this should ever come about, Mr. President, I am sure it would be the beginning of a revolution in this country. It would be a revolution in views if nothing else because Engineers never that years have taken pride in the ownership of property. The most important of the whole city would and it is their social security for coming years. That is why the public must act accordingly in the years 1954 to 1975 when the development plan of Dixie area would have unquestionably increased the value of property in the Cayuga Islands. People who thought they lost wealth because they owned land, and they owned land in the areas which could have been developed and developed property, suddenly found themselves out in the dark. If that law had been given through as Commission could possess may acquire in my hands today.

I would like at this point, Mr. President, to praise the work which has been done by Nashville Tennessee and Memphis Light Gas and Water Division for the many years which it has been serving in this capacity. It has built the groundwork for the success of our industry. Many of us can remember the good old days we have enjoyed to when the municipal problem was really something to contend with. I spoke last year, Mr. President, and spoke this to one of my good friends, Mr. Whitsitt who was in charge of that department for many years did an outstanding job and should be commended by the people of the Cayuga Islands forever and ever. I was not a friend of his, either. I could not remember him as such, but I believe in giving credit where credit is due.

Mr. President, the Interstate Plan for this country which was just formed by our administration in 1947 would increase in our population and brought great improvement in this country. I would like the present elected Governor of this State that he agree with what is going to their destruction in our country. It brought members of our people in these areas and believe me, if it is compared with it will bring them again.

There was a committee to meet with the Governor this week and set up by Governor from Texas that morning, our administration, and I would hope that a committee representation would be taken to this and that some time in the near future the House will be told that we plan to put in a suitable building code. Personally I would hope that not too many bureaucrats would be used by the Civil Service Act of the Planning Department.

Mr. President, my next examination will be dealing with the Department of Health Education and Public Welfare, and this will be a very long examination. As we have received just about one week time for finishing I would be willing to stop at this point and be recognized this afternoon.

MR. PRESIDENT: If it is a short matter then we hardly stop and it is going to be going on for a long time.

MR. JAMES H. BOREN: I am prepared to go on, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Could look at a bit of the Department for another ten or fifteen minutes?

MR. JAMES V. SCOTT: I can deal with my first two items on it, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Alright.

MR. JAMES V. SCOTT: The Portfolio of Health Education and Social Services is the most important Portfolio in our Government. It is a Portfolio where we deal with the day to day problems of sick people, and when you are sick, Mr. President, nothing in the world matters more to you at that time other than to have your first problem well-taken care of and understood. As far as education goes, it is an understatement to say the future of this country depends. If anything is not properly attended to we will easily revert back to the days in the history of the Cayman Islands of the early 1950's. We have moved away from that. In the past eight years Government has made strides in education which have been unmatched in the previous history of education in this country. This must continue.

It is unfortunate, Mr. President, that the Member who headed this Portfolio in the Lucky Team administration was not elected in the Elections. Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Ramon, Member Bodden would probably be the most person who has been encouraged the most from some sources. A reference has been made here, and I will be dealing with this later, Mr. President, which in my opinion should never have been made by a Member of this House. The matter may be trivial to anyone, but as far as his having gone, and he has provided help to the country, there are some people in his Lucky Team most of those on the present Elected Government would have to check himself. My hope does lapse to myself health and educational services in this country that any other Member who has occupied the Portfolio, and hopefully any who will be in the future.

At this point, Mr. President....

MR. D. EBANKS MILLER: Mr. President, I wish to venture under standing order 49(7)(b) my right to clarification the matter which the Member has just referred to, if he was referring to what I said in my speech.

MR. JAMES V. SCOTT: Mr. President, I am ready at this time to give him the floor as he may wish his point.

MR. PRESIDENT: You may go ahead and make the point now then.

MR. D. EBANKS MILLER: Yes, Mr. President, I did not question which the Member had expressed as responsible the Portfolio under his administration. I merely just wanted, Sir, just in my writing and in my interpretation of those expressions, it was a waste of taxpayers funds as was done in the Lucky Administration, Sir.

MR. JAMES V. SCOTT: Mr. President, I am not sure whether what I was referring to that particular Member or not.

MR. D. EBANKS MILLER: Thank you, Sir.

MR. JAMES V. SCOTT: Mr. President, I do question why the previous Member responsible for this Portfolio was not in and the actual representative to our young people, which was done a few weeks ago. Many people....

MR. BENTON D. FRANCIS: Mr. President, I wonder if the Member would give way, Sir?

Mr. President, I thought that the Question Time would be very clear that I did not approve the questionnaire which was put to the children. I think the Member is out of order when he attributes that motion to me, Sir.

MR. FIDELIS K. BOUCAUT: Mr. President, if I had been in that Member's place I would be ashamed to admit to my fellow Legislative Members and to the country as a whole that such an outrage could be carried out by one of the departments for which I was responsible and not know anything about it. I see only scratching on this Resolution in yesterday, but now I will spend more time to discuss with it.

Mr. President, the sanctity of the home is of great importance in a community, and the home stands as the link between the parent and the child. I would accordingly say that these type of questions may be done in a communist society but I would hope would not continue to be done in our society. I stand on first question though as any human being could also do, and emphasis which will have to eliminate the drug problem, such as the acquisition of my life if it had to be, I would do it for the people of the Cayman Islands. However, Mr. President, I do not think it is necessary for us to produce a questionnaire and give it to children of ten and eleven years old, and expect them to answer truthfully to the questions. I honestly have never seen the questionnaire and if I had maybe I could elaborate more on it, but I fail to see where we have any precautions or we can get anything from such a questionnaire. Children of ten and eleven years old should not be asked questions of this nature against their parents. In the circumstances the honesty of the home and if we were to continue with things would wind up like the majority which have been in the United States in the past few weeks concerning the use abuse of young children.

There have been two aims to this argument, one for and one against whether the children should be questioned in the manner in which they have been questioned. I am not here to say which is correct but I am here to say, Mr. President, that I am against such questionnaires being given to children ten and eleven years old. I will state further, Mr. President, that the Member of this House who is assigned a portfolio of Government is responsible for anything and everything which happens in that portfolio. He cannot shy away from it. The blame should never be put on the technical Secretary, the Assistant Secretary, the clerk, the Secretary or anyone else. The Member must do as I have done in the past and say, "I was responsible". He should not shy away from it. The Member owes it to the people of this country that they know everything which takes place in his portfolio and he ought ultimately be the one who permissions it. If not, Mr. President, as any policy might look into what I have been talking about for years and that is a Government of Civil Servants, and so should which at this point the Question ends.

Why do we have the clause for Government under our Constitution by the Members who are elected to fill these positions are going to take the complete advice of the Civil Service and leave it completely to the Civil Service to run our country. If that is so, however, Mr. President, you should question this House today and the next will realize these powers should be the repeal of the Election Law.

HON. DENNIS O. DUGAN: Mr. President, I wonder whether the Member is prepared to give way [illegible]?

MR. JAMES M. BROOM: Mr. President, I am very pleased to give way.

HON. DENNIS O. DUGAN: Mr. President, in the customary fashion the Member is misleading the House. It is very clear and on the record that I only used yesterday the question in regard to the qualifications that if the rate could be established that the increase was approved during my administration I would have willingly accepted the blame or responsibility for it. However, I made it clear that we were able to satisfy no other the qualifications was approved. That is on record so the Member would not go out and tell half truths or whatever he could call them, sir. If he can please his memory to anybody of that kind.

MR. DENNIS M. MCDONOUGH: Mr. President, I am not saying to give this House a half truth and I do just what was the rules be before. I admit, to my second night, I agreed, and I am proud of it, that I was elected here and debated a very long time, and listened unbelievable. However, Mr. President, I still remain the fact that no record plans the previous Member or blame the Civil Service. Expansion to Lawrence Cemetery took place on the 31st December, and this operation was only six and a half months later. It has not [illegible] a half months to fully appoint Mrs. [illegible] with the problems attendant to his position. So he cannot sit, very [illegible] it. So not responsible.

MR. PRESIDENT: I know that I thanked the Member to [illegible] but I wonder if we have come to the end of that particular point would be in a consultation. However, it take [illegible] that I will suspend proceedings until 8.30 p.m.

At 10.30 P.M. the House adjourned.

HOUSE RESUMED AT 8.30 P.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. The Right Elected Member for Berbice, Mrs.

MR. JAMES M. BROOM: Mr. President, in the budget debate we were told that in 1984 the Government spent $6.5 million for health care for the Guyana Defence. Of this, capital expenditure amounted to about $500,000. This is a significant sum of money and it is a significant amount of some which has been invested in our people. We hope that in 1985 the people will continue to receive the same type of health service which they did in the previous administration.

Attention was paid to many areas and namely the state of Ireland the dental clinic at the hospital are renovated and Government personnel is able to provide accommodation

MR. JAMES K. BATTEN (Scarborough): New additions for dental treatment at Central Mobile have established and equipped an Oral Aid. A portable dispensal unit has been purchased and $10,000 was spent on medical equipment. Also the rehabilitation equipment was transferred to Lakeshore Psychiatric Hospital from another ministry the same year. I understand that some of these have obtained with the help of one of the staff members at the hospital, and I congratulate that staff member.

Delivery of medicine from the pharmacy has always been a problem. It continued into 1982, and I am sure that we will also see it in 1983. I would commend the Chief for saying that in my opinion much more money should be allocated at the hospital for this. The pharmacist who prepared the bills for patients said that payments could sometimes be held up for a couple of months. In many cases, the staff in the wards and nursing positions make sure that the patients leave the hospital and by that time it is not usually collectable.

With regard to the nursing shortage I have the impression that many people who cannot afford to pay find it easier to get work in other areas by nursing vacancies in establishments. I think that the attitude of the patients, and so is not able to volunteer while the patient is still in the hospital, that the nurses could not be able to pay the bill when they left. In principle, I commend my sympathy and I hope that the Government will be involved with that and that the patients of the past will continue. It may that hospitals charge people who do not afford to pay, if a deposit system could be introduced to where a deposit would have to be paid at the time that the person enters the hospital. Now by saying this I do not intend in any way to mean that any patient will be turned away from the Ontario Psychiatric Hospital or any of the mentally ill hospitals because they were not able to pay a deposit. I do not prefer to do it in that manner.

I am pleased to see that in 1983, there was the appointment of a second full time doctor to Cedar Lake.

The purchase of additional mental health beds in 1983, amounted to $700,000. Of that the purchase of beds for the treatment of patients amounted to $600,000. The Mental Health for that particular year provided a program to upgrade the auxiliary facilities for the elderly people of the Cedar Islands. Work was done in this area and again I hope that the personal interaction will continue there there.

I think the physicians from various the this year have performed many invaluable services at the hospital in undertaking in problems in ophthalmology, orthopaedics, neurosurgical surgery, brain metal surgery, neurology, plastic surgery, psychiatry and neurosurgery and thyroid disorders. These people have to be complimented and we should extend every reasonable undertakings to them to enable them this continue in the future, and maybe even on a broader scale.

The immunization programme for children has been successful. Even in one part of the province there has been and it is probably one of the highest percentages in the world. In my opinion, Governments should begin discussion the Canada committee to provide family planning clinics throughout the country. This is something which we can no longer keep under the carpet. It must be dealt with. The same thing applies to sexually transmitted diseases. I unreservedly use phrases when I say this applies to the people. If you take the amount of people we have in this country, it could probably assume to the highest incidence of this illness in the world. If we do not eliminate education and treatment soon this will probably be, and will not affect the whole of the country. Ideally the view has been that the Ontario Government should introduce sexual education and maybe even some legislation on this subject for inclusion in the school curriculum. However, it needs to be dealt with and dealt with on merit.

MR. JAMES M. [illegible]: I pay tribute to the Clerk and Deputy Clerk for their assistance with any and all problems. Where the organizations have made changes I personally and they have spent much time and effort and money to ensure that our people were satisfied.

Another particular which must be dealt with is the matter of the Clerk and Recorder position. Offices dealing in these matters should be organized and be handled only by properly trained staff. Many other members of the House share this problem. We have to do our best to have these offices and they have proved to be very helpful, particularly in the long Adjournment. We could help our county records a lot if this is done and done as soon.

There was a comment dealing with the problems of the mentally ill which was contributed by the previous administration and the member who made responsible. I hope I have that will continue and will receive primary attention from Government.

Primary health care clinics were established at Nuku Lau and the doctors' clinics expanded to cover a week.

I would also like to pay tribute to the Rotary Club for helping to provide the blood pressure and diabetes screening equipment. We are fortunate to have members of our organizations spend so much time and effort in helping the less fortunate in our community. Rotary has done this for many years and I am sure that they will continue with it in the future.

It was the Member responsible for this portfolio also helped to organize the Seventh Summer Games and the other sporting week. There are two important areas in our country where further work should be done, and I hope that the Member responsible will continue to pay to his support.

A medical clinical care unit was established at the start. This was something I gave my support to and will continue to support as I feel it is time that we were to provide with the problems of the elderly people and the retirement people who are not able to take care of themselves. To avoid having a great shock on the hospital and it was brought a stress in the part of the facilities there.

Mr. Speaker, during the last eight years the previous administration neglected the out-patients and subsidy used at the hospital. A new duty was added for specialists. A new physiotherapy unit was installed. An out-patients duty was added. Kitchen facilities were renovated. A new operating room and recovery room built. The out-patients department was renovated. Some doctors' quarters were built and a department was built for the doctor on call. Eight hospital beds were added. A new operating was delivered from at the Public Hospital at Lautoka from the Indian and also Malay area facilities. The public health offices were renovated. Some public health officers were added to the force. The vaccine programme was continued. There was a public awareness the shortage of drugs. Mos dental clinics were added. There was renovation to the Lautoka Eye Dental clinic and an X-ray block and sterilizers were installed at Lautoka Eye. Three dental nurses were graduated with regularly basic examinations. This represented a ten of capital expenditure but there is no better area where the money could have been spent than in the care and protection of our people.

Mr. WALTER H. BOSSERT (CONTINUING): With respect to education, another department which just misses the responsibilities of the Honourable Minister of Revenue is Social Services responsible for Health Education and Special Services, which is the second largest in terms of dollars which was about 7½ per cent of the total amount of money spent in the field of education.

In 1965 the previous administration announced the policy of withdrawing revenue grants to assist the private schools in our country. The private schools which operate in our country have an enrolment of approximately 1,900 pupils of the 6,274 who are attending schools in this country, or 30 per cent of the total number of students are enrolled in private schools. This contains the Government unfortunately because of the way in which the legislation was drafted to handle all of these students as would find that our budget would be seriously strained.

The Middle School was built during the administration of the years from between 1977 and 1980. This is a facility was open to respond to the educational aspirations in the Cayman Islands. The present enrolment in the Middle School is a large enrolment for a school which has only been in operation a few years. I am very proud that this was one of the accomplishments of our administration. It was a policy decision taken which proved to be taken in the right direction. In the one opinion, Mr. Speaker, that the High School was getting too large and that we were right before to move the youngsters of eleven years old and up away from the neighbourhood and education which used to the High School. I think that the decision was a wise one and again history will prove that to be wise also.

Student enrolment at the High School is 858 which means that for the next three years we can look forward to over 200 plus students every year leaving the High School and going out into the world seeking employment. In most cases grant assistance should be paid to be in the area of vocational guidance and counselling for the young students. As many times we find that the average child coming out of the High School really has no direction to be taken particularly should he would wish to enter one. As a result we find that some of them take up the square pegs in round holes.

In particular the Budget for 1984 we find that the annual cost per pupil in our primary schools in the Sister Islands was $1,980.89 compared to Cayman where which was $1,830.89, this is a very large discrepancy and I really wonder why this should be. I can agree that costs in Cayman have should be much higher than in Sister Islands but to have an excess of 50 per cent more spent in Cayman above is this high.

The annual cost per pupil in the Cayman Islands High School which is located here in George Town was $1,938.99 per child. The annual cost in Cayman Brac was $2,752.00. My previous remark with regard to the differences in cost should be noted as the Cayman Brac High School is not located on the primary school.

The annual cost per pupil in the Cayman Islands Middle School was assessed to be $2,369.00. The accommodation cost for students was listed in 1984 as exceeding slightly a million dollars. This is a large expenditure, Mr. Speaker, but I cannot see where we can expect to be lowered, anyway in the near future because as the population continues to increase there will be more demand for accommodation. Government has seen fit to consolidate the High School and the Middle School in George Town and the primary students from the other districts have to be involved in. In many cases the parents of these children could very afford, with all of the other problems which they encounter financially. In fact the money to accommodate these children in the

Mr. Miss K. Sutney (Constituency): High School and the Middle School. Therefore, I must commend to support the proposal whereby Government pays for this transportation. I hope that it will continue to be run by private enterprise carefully monitored, and that Government has no intention because of the weakness of politics to try to make any change in this respect.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to place a suggestion on record that either this Government immediately the enlargement of the present High School system on Georgia Street, a High School be erected in the very near future in the Indian Cove/Glendale area. This could save money as far as transportation is concerned and every penny counts these days. I would not be against it being built in the Riverbend area either. It is my opinion that this is justified because the population of the Seaham district is growing and it is quite a problem for many of these youngsters to come from the eastern municipalities and to arrive in Georgia Town around 8:30 in the morning to be ready to go to school. It would also save many problems. It would ease congestion if our suggestion should be considered and adopted. After all, Eskimo Town contains the politicians capital so we can use the capital to spare some for, and it was quite plain during this that we associate ourselves with the districts of Port Hope North.

In the year 1969, two tennis courts and two volleyball and a multiple purpose hall were provided at the Middle School. I would like to see this completed in 1970. Contracts were provided at the Middle School and the High School.

Now, Mr. Speaker, we have one alarming problem associated with education and that was revealed in the honourable Third Opposition Member's Budget Address when he mentioned to us that the teaching force consisted of 75 per cent expatriates and only 25 per cent Labradorians. This is a problem which should be addressed by Government as soon. We should endeavour locally and we should prepare and assist people in our district to train as teachers. It is much easier for a teacher to deal with the problems of our people when he has been born and bred with us. This is not saying that the expatriate teachers are not also trying. I do not wish to infer that. What I am saying is that it would be much better in the years to come if we could change this composition to where we had 75 per cent of the teachers who were Labradorians and 25 per cent who were expatriates.

I think this can be accomplished by placing more emphasis on education, especially our matriculation programme and training the graduates mentally when they come here. I had occasion last year to deal with a problem of a local teacher who had acquired a Bachelor's degree and then went off after some time at the High School to acquire another so that eventually that person received a Master's degree. When coming back to Grand Falls with a Master's degree was not in a position of being a telephone operator at the High School, plus suffering many other indignities. The guy would then die down into practically less. I hereby place points out to show the members of the House that we should accept our graduates as teachers a little sooner so learning when they are trained in this country. This young lady involved had very little assistance from Government during her training. I think she is still employed by Government and I believe that she will make a good addition to the school system in the end.

During the last eight years the Liberal administration experienced the educational difficulties of this country and addressed the problems in all areas from pre-school to adolescence with the introduction of the special education programme for the physically and mentally disturbed. This was done by the former Liberal administration

Mr. SAINT M. JOSEPH (Independent): For this Ministry and the Government body of the Community College will speak for the efforts in this area.

School libraries and reading workshops were established. A pre-school educational programme was started. Resource rooms were built at all primary schools to attend to the learning disabilities of the youngsters. A curriculum co-ordinator for social studies was appointed and also an examinations officer for primary schools. These were steps in the right direction.

The building itself which was made by Mr. Simon Hawker of Government, the Member responsible for Health Education and Social Services, was taken by task force early in 1977 to accommodate the Caribbean Examination Council for the Cayman Islands. This will go down in history as a very memorable step and one which would possibly earn him at least a CSE if he was not so small and had no pen behind his ears. Mr. President, we can all visualize the state of affairs which would have existed in the Cayman Islands today if for eight years we had without this country in the group of personality to accept the Caribbean Examination Council exams. These exams would have taught our children to strive only for high, commendable, acceptable, first class, and not just. I cannot understand, Mr. President, why the Member who was responsible for this up until 1976 would have ever considered putting this state beyond the means of the future generation of this country.

Mr. President, renovation took place in all of the schools throughout the Cayman Islands and this period also saw the beginning of the Lighthouse School. This is a school which is much needed. Such is a school which I trust will change positive Government policies. These are children who although handicapped can play a part in the society if the right type of education is made available to them.

Mr. President, I come to social services and I quote the words of the Honourable Financial Secretary when in his speech he said:

> "Changes can be made from the Department of Social Services in 1980."

Mr. President, many talks have been held; many studies have circulated about the lack of attention which was directed to social services by the previous administration. However, I will attempt to show that all of these studies have simply been shelved. I will attempt as I proceed with my deliberations on this subject to point out that Section of the present administration building on the foundation which was laid by the previous administration, they have attempted to take it down and this year they are not even paying the attention to it that we paid to it last year, much less speaking on it.

The budget for social services in 1980 was up 14 per cent over 1979. We commend the staff of this department and applaud additional personnel. I will give an indication, Mr. President, as to really what was done in regard to the field of social services.

The Bible has said that we will have the poor with us for ever and many people in this country are poor. It is no shame to be poor. There are many fine Members of this House who at one time in their life could not have been considered poor. However, in 1978 as little attention was paid to the poor relief fund which helps to take care of the poor people in our country, there only $13,300 was spent on poor relief.

MR. JAMES K. HOUSER (CONTINUING): Mr. President, that is not the end of the bills. I can remember sitting down several evenings along with my colleague here from Seldom Seen in 1978. At that time I can remember discussing the budget for the previous year for poor relief was $700 and many tables of it had been spent. When the Minister Responsible started the Saltbanking Program we ventured why it was not going ahead and also why it had not been started the year before. The present Honourable Elected Member of Parliament responsible for Social Services was also the Member for Social Services at that time and responsibly when we talked in the administration of the town relief funds we were told that it was so little that there was no way that she could begin to spend it, because if she had spent $10 out of it somebody would have turned up and needed $100 and that she would not have had anything to give them. After about a day and a half of debate my colleague from Seldom Seen and myself, with the assistance of some of the other Members were able to get that increased, I think, to $2,000. I am just giving the Members the history of what has happened with this particular thing under the administration of the present Honourable Member who is responsible for it.

In the year 1982, the government spent $126,257 on poor relief. Mine notes that the poor relief expenditure has increased by roughly 1,000 per cent in the last eight years. That does not mean that we have that many more people. It means that we are paying better attention to those who do have.

In 1978 provincial expenditures amounted for an expenditure of $12,761 by the then Government. This Government had as five Members responsible for Social Education and Social Services the same Member who is the Minister responsible for Health Education and Social Services in the year 1985. In 1982, Mr. President, this expenditure was an expenditure of $40,219, a tremendous increase in eight years, an increase of roughly about 1,200 per cent. But the Member who was responsible or split as all the Members of the Party have been responsible by the newspapers and by certain people for the responsibility for their lack of attention to social services. Those figures speak for themselves as to what is attempted to do, Mr. President.

During the previous administration substantial funds were loaned to the Town. This arises in a project which the National Council of Social Services has undertaken with. It is a project which with public support has gone into, but in the end they felt short of the necessary funds to complete and Government was asked to come to their assistance. I would suggest to Honourable Members here that I think that the announcements backed up the Government to the National Council of Social Services approximately half a million dollars.

Another point which I would like to bring up, Mr. President, is that during our administration the pension to Newfoundlanders after March was implemented and this eliminated the war years of suffering which existed in many poor families in the country. In addition to that the pension was implemented to bring it in line with the minimum wage of today. There are things which the people as a whole will not forget and it is hopefully which the present Government should not forget. They should pay attention to this as necessary welfare change in the future although I doubt they will be there long enough for us to have to change that soon.

We also established free medical care for the pensioners. This again was a substantial benefit to Government revenues, but we felt that there was no better cause than these people should have to receive good medical treatment free because pensioners who had to pay some cost sufficient, and that

MR. JAMES H. QUILLEN (CONTINUED): those people who had given many years to Government service, in their waning years should be able to live with dignity.

A new provision was instituted for the Civil Service and not just for the Legislative Assembly whereby the present Minister of Government could like to widow the pensionable bachelor. This was a welcome change from what had been in accordance before.

Another great help came with the passing of the Supreme Pensions Ordinance; equal rights were given for husbands and wives under that Law. This was something that my colleague and myself had sponsored in this Assembly from 1972, which was when we brought our first motion, I think.

A pensions Board was established for the Judiciary and staffed, and Government undertakes to provide maintenance and staffing costs of the Pensions Boards' Office. Again I give credit to the organisation which helped to provide the money to assist this. It shows that the people of this country are willing to put their shoulders to the wheel with Government wherever it is needed.

A pensions collection system was started in Cayman Brac and we saw the consummation of the Cayman Water company. Road was made accessible previously, as I have touched on before, were completed.

Land was purchased in many areas of the country for cemeteries and the facilities were improved in all areas. In addition money was voted under the Budget and used to fence these cemeteries. We purchased additional land in all districts for playgrounds and in built most of them.

We regularly saw about land be passed grants for use by the public. Recreation facilities were provided for the public at the George Town Dump. We provided money for Mull Service Lane through Town to the Civil Service Credit Union. We subsidized the recreation of students' fares. We passed money to nearly every private school in this country at some low rates of interest and in some cases with no interest at all, in addition to the grants which were given to them on the regular budget.

The sports complex at the Middle School was started and I am hopeful that the Member again will not give it the second position when it is completed, as it was started under the Unity Team administration.

At the end of the year, due to our commitment to the young people of this country, there were 20 students given scholarships. Mr. President, I mean once more that this is an area where much attention needs to be given. This is an area which we cannot cut in order to try to balance the budget. The young people of this country must have the help so that they can come back as capable citizens and help us to establish a community which we will be proud of.

I pay tribute again to another person on the loss of a Cessna Twin Otter, Report has also it to make such a large donation to the cultural centre in George Town. I give it Mr. President and I hope that with Government and the private sector working together, the establishment of the cultural centre will become a fact in the very near future.

Mr. President, I come to social problem. I am very proud that that is one of the responsibilities of Government where we have a separate Department at the head of it. The present Minister of Civil Aviation has proved his ability in many areas. He has proved that under the Cabinet System he gives the opportunity, to the

MR. JAMES M. SCOBEY (CONTINUING): ...congressional committees. I also wish to thank our entire staff.

During our administration we provided a new administrative office for state government. We established the international section and two area liaison units for the state. Mr. President, the design of that complex is similar to the design of the Samoan Fitness administration offices and is the most pleasant workplace. It gives me great pleasure to see that our country was able to help this, and it gives the people of this country great pride. Moreover, to the inhabitants who come to Samoa Islands, it proves to them that we are capable of administering our own affairs. If some more people passed through Pago Pago's airport in 1972 will find them well here through Samoan hands. This alone must be ample of all advantages that we received during our tenure. I will deal with this further in my answer in regard to choosing the amount of revenue which is earned from these areas.

In 1964 we had through them Roberts airport 255,220 people of which 214,371 people as nonresidents. Data data available is recorded there will be twelve, to create doubt as to why a new airport terminal had to be built. Our there should be expressed but one which should meet the needs of the country hopefully for the next fifteen years.

I personally am very proud of the new airport terminal and I am proud that it was a fruition of our appreciation to Pago Pago for the friends who helped to pioneer the success which our country enjoys today. That airport terminal of ours could be probably Polynesia's largest investment, but it is an investment which has put together modern ethnic architecture, with help from the Samoan Development Bank. When the management-in-place that facility should not fail itself to serve visitors and still leave a surplus each year. I have had many good comments made about it and I am proud that I had the opportunity to play the part which is that I did.

Samoan Air was previously at 17,979 people and expenditures of 18,851. This again was a great increase and it is these that there is a chance for Samoan Air and Samoa to develop in the future along the lines of Trans Samoa. In fact there can be talked why in the future of the Samoan Islands.

Revenue in the year 1967 from civil aviation was $2,841,116. During 1967 changes flights were established from Trans Samoa to New York and Chicago. This opens up two important tourist areas to the Samoan Islands by direct service. For many years our Government, through the assistance of the Department of Tourism, has established offices in New York and Chicago. For these are areas of great potential and we point this view we have really not tapped the surface of it. I hope that these will continue, hopefully on a yearly basis rather than really are looking at a time.

We have been able in the last year to increase our revenues at the airport through the establishment of Samoans stewardess from time, with their exploits into the United States of America. We have also helped to establish a service from Samoa and Cairns Islands which has added considerably to the economy of Samoan Airways and which I will deal with when I come to the Samoa Airways section of my speech.

During the year 1967 we had to suspend the operation of the jet service into Samoa Isles. This was the history of Samoan Trans and while Samoa successfully but we failed to make with it on the best manner that we could. Shortly, I think, we have with be given these good reliable services I am sorry that this step had to be taken but it had to be taken in regard to safety and to economics on the operation. I am glad that

MR. JAMES M. ADAMS (CONTINUED): We were able to re-distribute the surplus in December of that year. I know that the people of Laguna Beach have been very thankful that we have extended to them the water received from State facilities we have been experiencing here in Laguna for many years.

We expanded the old terminal building at Laguna Base in order to serve both the Sheriff's and Fire Departments. However, a new terminal is planned for Laguna Base this year. I expect that it will be completed in the year 1965, but at least it is available for the people of Laguna Base to look forward to. They have assured themselves benefits in the long range under the previous administration, but the old terminal for the Navy has been expanded to double its former size.

We established the Santa Ana Canyon Sanitary District, one in Laguna Canyon and one in Laguna Base.

Now, Mr. President, we come to the formation of the new Orange Harbor District. Under the plan which we had worked out, and I do not know how many changes have been made in it since the election, it will provide revenue this year of approximately $622,000; that is vessel revenue, which will go towards retiring the Dana Point Harbor Development Bond of $3 million which is to be repaid over a period of seven years. Tax Supervision Fund is $169,000. Again most of this was the result of legislation which was part of the administration. Leasing fees should bring in income of $453,000. I do not have the exact figure as yet, as to the income it is expected to get with the rental rate increase. The service charge tax is a new tax which was part of the administration and will probably bring in their county approximately $650,000 in this year of 1965. However, it is safe to assume that the income will be in the vicinity of $700,000. Along with that we will have the new property tax which the previous administration has instituted. So, Mr. President, I will only say that this was one more effort expended by the present administration to pull a few more dollars out of the pockets of Orange County.

I would suggest to the present Member in charge of this portfolio that we spend a few additional dollars and install some real water in the outside ponding area of the airport. Sometimes one has to stand outside on foot to see there and a lady to walk for people to be impressed through customs and immigration, something which I think should be accomplished by further attention than it is, because we have wonderful facilities and we are still having temper to preserve the amenities here that we enjoy.

Mr. President, before leaving this area I would like to speak on the question which I posed to the Member responsible for the Portfolio during this Session when I was told that the cost of the flood opening of the airport was $19,500 plus compared to $6,000 plus for the second runway. I requested a breakdown of this, Mr. President, and I am not that pleased with the answer. Because it was an expenditure known of $13,000 plus as soon as rock and bedding. This made up a part of the $28,000 plus. Mr. President, as far as I can ascertain all of the cost of rock and bedding was incurred under the contract under which the airport was built. I am not aware of any additional funds on a rush basis being needed to pay for rock and bedding. The rock they should apply with the $6,000 plus which is the allowance was paid for the flood opening by the civil Defense Department. The civil Defense Department had been contemplating this airport project for a long time and had given valuable assistance when the possibility was there we might use the new airport.

MR. JAMES M. DOUGLAS (CONTINUING): ... which they had to do for the first opening would be any difference to the work which they did on the second opening. If we had to pay them $3,000 for what was done on the first opening, why did we not pay something on the second opening?

I mention this because I think the guarantees of this nature should be observed correctly and should not be misleading to the Members of the House as well as to the public.

MR. W. HOWARD BOZMAN: Mr. President, on a point of order, Sir. I would like to clarify what the Member is saying regarding my party.

MR. PRESIDENT: Are you stating as a point of order or a point of explanation?

MR. W. HOWARD BOZMAN: Yes, Sir, under 3(f)....

MR. JAMES M. DOUGLAS: Mr. President, I do not think it is a point of order, but as a point of explanation I would be glad to yield the floor.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think that the Assistant to Regional Director Member of Executive Council was probably absent when I mentioned to the House the other day the difference between a point of order and a point of explanation. I think that this is a point of explanation. But since the Member has spoken may you may continue.

MR. W. HOWARD BOZMAN: Thank you very much, Sir. I think that the Member is talking contradictions regarding the party which I have. I would like to clarify that the explanation given to my Member of this House that it belong to $3,500 paid to Arab and Godfrey which was additional considerations outside the contract terms for the clean up of the corridor in preparation for the ceremonies which were performed on 25th November. $3,500 was paid to Public Works Department but no additional payments were made to them for the ceremony which was held on 25th November. The explanation which I have given by this House is correct as provided to me by the Municipal.

MR. JAMES M. DOUGLAS: Mr. President, I do not think the Member has enlightened us very much because that was roughly what I was talking about. What I am saying, Mr. President, is that if we paid $3,500 to Arab and Godfrey for whom we do not know but you have said Godfrey or some time ago, it is not charged for the clean up. We would have had to pay it whether it was paid for the 25th November or we paid it on the 23rd November. So I do not think that it was fair to include into the speaking explanation a figure of this nature. I think it was only done for the reason that the Member was trying to mislead this House. The same thing...

MR. W. HOWARD BOZMAN: Mr. President...

MR. PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. W. HOWARD BOZMAN: Again on clarification, Sir, regarding here we must understand, Sir. The amount paid to Arab and Godfrey was not included in the contract sum. It was paid first because of the immediate opening.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I did not say it was paid twice. I pointed very clearly I think that many of the people that Godfrey C. Jr. was giving, and I am not sure of it, he would have to have been paid for them to clean up the project when they finished in whether it was the 31st December or the 31st January. It is also $2,000 plus paid to the Public Works Department I am not aware of that that was ever paid back for. However, what I would say the Public Works Department I am sure signed a check in the sporting accumulation in the 30th January or April or 31st December. If they were paid $2,000 plus on 31st December then there should be some account paid to them on 30th January when their accounts were open. It is an expenditure which in my opinion did not only relate to the question which was put to the Member.

HON. SPEAKER: I think we have reached the time when normally we break in the afternoon. If the Member has finished speaking on this particular point?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Sir, I am finished on that particular point.

HON. SPEAKER: Yes, I was not assuming that you had finished your speech. I think I will suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes.

AT 4.31 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

AT 4.47 P.M. THE HOUSE RESUMED

HON. SPEAKER: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. The First Elected Member for Sister Isles.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: I do not intend to be repetitive, but I think the Speaker was dealing with the circumstances on the first opening of the winders and the second opening of the winders. There was a figure given of $2,000 plus, I think it was, which was paid to Public Works Department and I understand that the money was paid for counting the checks which were made available to the public, and was also paid for the transportation of the money which the Member spoke from. I was not really aware of this expenditure, but if this expenditure was paid to Public Works Department for performing that work, then it had to be paid to Public Works Department on some other application for the second opening also because I am aware that similar arrangements took place. In regard to the expenditure to Arch and Godfrey, if that was not covered in the original estimate then it is additional expenditure. It would have had to have been paid to Arch and Godfrey in order that some of it had been covered on the 31st December, because the only reason the cheques which had been issued at some date subsequent to that the counting was. So that is an expenditure which

Hon. WADE H. MCCREE (continuing): I should almost hesitate to put one enlargement or a name of the official opening.

The next point on this, Mr. President, which I will speak on is that I notice in the final running there was a substantial amount of plant floor for public relations which was just into the reply. Now I am sure with all the pressures I have seen of the meeting floor in the paper that there also had to be quite a bit of expenditure for routine relations at the second opening. It may be that in the case of the first opening it was considered under a contract with an agency. With the second opening it is probably just considered a part of the cost of Government operating the public relations office, in which case it may take some time to give the breakdown of all. However, it would have been quite an improvement either way you look at it.

Mr. President, in reviewing the 1968 budget, as I stated previously, I put a high priority on the 1968 budget considerations must be given to the eight years of the previous administration. Surely that time span justifies the Government's bill for the past. In addition negotiations took place, mainly, on the level of the Director of Public Relations and his staff to examine that we had complied or come out as many miles and we do, this fact. That is something which I am also proud of because I am only proud of that country. Every country contains a Disneyland aspect. If our system has it the right that we on the Cayman Islands should have the control over the [illegible] which surrounds these islands.

The Cayman Islands Airport Authority building or administration block at the airport was built under our administration and is a lasting monument to the people of the Cayman Islands.

We also saw the establishment of new postage stamps which we have on sale in the Cayman Islands.

We built the new station at Owen Roberts Airport which is used by the staff there in regard to flight movements at the airport. As well as that the Government has purchased new fire trucks and security vehicles. We installed radio equipment, a generator and a lighting system for Cayman Brac. I want at this point pay tribute to another Caymanian who in my opinion has done and is continuing to do an excellent job. I refer to the present Fire Chief. I think he is one of the most important in Government and a department which deserves very fine recognition by the Portfolio.

According to the report given to us by the Financial Secretary the Fire Department received £9,45 per head more for protection in 1967 than they did in 1968. In connection, Mr. President, that with the expansion and development which has taken place in Grand Cayman in the last eight years and also in our sister Islands this no time had no major fire of any magnitude. I hope that this can continue into the future.

A new airport which has been purchased for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman also provided a small fire fighting unit. In addition a 100 feet tower was erected for communication with the aircraft as a result of the fire.

Mr. President, I come to the point of Labour and Labour legislation. Caymanian labour relations are very important for the development of any country. We in the Cayman Islands have been very fortunate over the years to have management and workers have usually been able to come together very closely, and I do want to see the other one's problems. We have gone on this until now somehow. There always is the needs of people and we will find

MR. DAVID M. BLOOD (CONTINUED): ...that in the very near future we may have major labour problems. It was for this reason we felt we should remind the working force in this country that our non-existent or, at least, poor record in terms of labour legislation in this House. I personally sent off and obtained copies of labour legislation from many of the different committees in the Commonwealth countries, as well as some Canadian material. I perused this labour legislation very closely. I made it the Leader's responsibility, perhaps that's legislation which I thought we could introduce once it had been put in appropriate language. I subsequently spoke to the previous Attorney-General on several occasions and had discussions with him and members of my staff somewhat daily with him on this particular subject.

He gave me a copy of the Ontario labour code which was, I think, just completed for that country. I perused that very closely and gave a study of my opinions as to the things which we could incorporate into this Act. Unfortunately I was never able to get a commitment during the Legal Department which I could bring to this House. I was approached by the International Union Representative in Kingston, Canada who offered his services if one of these sessions to come to Ottawa to prepare a new labour code. I agreed to the expenditure of approximately $10,000 and the man was to travel to Ottawa and be employed this legislation. I understood at the Attorney-General that his appointment and I then brought it to Executive Council, and they brought it to this House in the form of a motion to be put before the Members of this House that it be dealt with by a Select Committee so that each and every Member could participate and give us their input. I felt that this was very important because from this type of legislation which would affect one and all in our country, it was necessary that each and every one, whether in the party which was in power or in the opposition should have a chance to air their views fully.

Unfortunately this motion got out of the Committee stage and as such died with the 27th Parliament. As such the results of the election changed many things and this Bill was never dealt with. So the Government now has before it a labour code and a complete comprehensive labour law. I can only hope that in some time the Elected Members of Government will see fit to bring that back to the House or into a Committee, so that it can be dealt with and then all Members will have a choice. However, it should not be there very long because it was just mentioned under the auspices of the United Farm Organizations. The Government has already expended money and energy on it and it should come forward. I feel that each and every one of us should look at it and give our input into it.

Mr. President, labour unions are nothing new. They have played their part in the development of every country in the globe today. I will remind Members of this House that a lot of Governments have spent many hours dealing with some of big labour organizations. I, in my capacity now as the Opposition Spokesman on Labour legislation and what a labour union is. I spoke on this subject before in the House and I am still prepared to negotiate quickly with such ... movements if it should be required by the working force of this country.

The new organization just mentioned a moment ago which has recently come to us that there were 200 people unemployed in this country. Now, Mr. President, if we look at a percentage of the population as well as a percentage of the personal labour force, it stands, in my mind, extremely high. We should be thankful that there are not more people than unemployed in the country. However, the fact still remains that we do have problems

MR. JAMES M. BOSSY (CONSTITUTION): who are economically affected in this country. I hope so, but right now, as I said, that cannot be done in view of the present policies of the present Government, because I see many more people than this being affected and losing employment in the near future.

Mr. President, I am very sorry that a delay because the Labour Officer under the previous administration had gone to the Seychelles and consulted and talked to many stakeholders of such industry. I will urge the Members of the present Elected House that in the type of Government and type of economy which we have, this is my opinion was more than time a step to make because it does show the utmost effort of the Government and it shows the sincere approach which exists throughout the islands today with regard to the problems of the present unemployment. It also shows to the people that there is a lack of responsibility and things are not as good as some people would like them to believe. In my opinion, this is a step which we should never have made in playing it as we such a great thing which was done.

I am asking the Members of the present Electoral House to do their duties. Please tell their fellow Members in the House and the people of the Labour Islands what they plan to do about the unemployment which exists. Whether they will keep their minds on real questions to go down the path blindly, or whether they are prepared to come out boldly and create Government policies, and there the methods which they will use to help alleviate this problem remains to be seen.

Mr. President, I will now deal with the Post Office. I am very pleased again to see from the speech which was delivered that the Seychelles is a Corporation. That goes very well in the Civil Service which is filled by Seychellois although they do not have the college degrees. But they do have the ability to cope with these jobs. I am pleased that already we will have, I hope, the opening of the new Post Office at Victoria which have been built already that now for lease to the people of Mont Fleuri.

Mr. President, I cannot go lightly over this subject because I have to thank many people who assisted in getting us to that point. But the main thanks must go to Captain Clive Rouget who kept up a constant fight over many years to see that this should be done. An estimated sum of the money will be put in a lot of the money already, and Government I would say covered the expenditure. I hope that the people of Mont Fleuri will continue to keep that in the beautiful manner that it was and that they will use it wisely. Also I hope that it will not become a dumping ground.

Mr. President, another Hon. Minister, my colleague from Anse Royale. Then had the honour of being the elected Member of Executive Council responsible for Communications and Works. I would like to pay tribute to him for the manner in which he dealt with the day to day problems of the portfolio, and the time that he spent contributing the many things which were done by the Government in that portfolio.

I would like to thank the Public Works Department for the work they played in the construction of the new Pointe Larue Airport terminal. The Head of that Department happens to be a Seychellois and one who appears to be very capable, and he was ably assisted by his assistant whose name I think is Mr. Jolicoeur. I had the pleasure of working in many committee meetings with these two gentlemen and I can tell the people of the Outer Islands that they had their interests at heart and that they did everything they could be cooperative and to see that the airport project was completed on time and within the budgeted figure.

MR. JAMES M. POTTER (CHAIRMAN): Public Works Department continues to carry a heavy work-load and I am not saying that everything done is done as expeditiously as it should be done, or that the most could not be ascertained. However, by and large they have accomplished most of the tasks which have been set before them.

Our administration in 1993 ran in the new Public Works Department at Cayman Brac. That will ease the problems in respect of Public Works in the Lesser Islands. I do not know whether it has had the second Captain, but I wish it the best of luck.

We also provided for Beach public rights of way and in doing so the cause.

A new aviation was built at the hospital in Cayman Brac and renovation took place on all the main in the various districts of the Islands.

A new runway for aeroplanes was built at Owen Roberts Airport and maintenance took place on the runway on several occasions during a year. We re-surfaced the mile of the North coast road in Cayman Brac. We provided sidewalks at the Creek in Cayman Brac and on West Bay Road and Seaview Road. This is a big plus which you got there so a big job would be done to see that these new sidewalks completed. It is a costly exercise but is hopefully will be of tremendous benefit to the people of this country.

We also created the establishment of the Staff post in Cayman Brac.

We built additions to three primary schools and the High School.

Altogether there was about 10 million dollars carried out in 1994. Additionally to this, the Government also undertook to build another Hurricane of Bodden Town and in George Town we saw the building of the new airport operations room. In East End some houses were built, the long awaited little Cayman was built and we saw the completion of the dock in Cayman Brac. This facility was badly needed for visitor vessels tremendously. It has, I think, reduced their cost of docking, it could be has reduced the cost of importation into the country.

We made loans to Cayman Brac Power and Light Company in order that they could be assured of providing power services for Cayman Brac.

Our administration also saw to it that the purchase of lands was guaranteed for Caribbean Utilities Company and guaranteed by Government.

Public Works carried out some of many duties across the islands. They provided new toilets blocks, new shelters, stay-put rooms, carrying cases, playing fields, hard courts at five primary schools, all of which cost $222,000. Expenditure was provided at the Lighthouse School to the extent of $249,000. We repaired the High School assembly hall and the library and they were both air-conditioned at a cost of $129,000. We improved construction on a science building, assembly hall, theatre and recreational facilities. Altogether this should have cost $43,000, of which at the time of the estimates $182,000 had been spent. So that these facilities are maintained I will ask the Members of the House and the people of this Cayman Islands to remember that these are not words of the present administration.

Mr. JAMES M. ERSKINE (CONTINUING): ... the Guyana Public Works Department with the construction of the packing sheds which is approximately 100,000 square feet, and provides for the packing of fruit domestic as well as for export. In addition to this shed, provision for packing room for 500 crates, the area of the fruit loading ramp, the necessary fencing and landscaping. These things represent an approximate cost of $1,000,000.

The final phase of the new cocoa factory at Mahaica Berbice should be in the vicinity of $10 M million dollars. At the figures made available by the Financial Secretary. While some progress was made by Public Works Department in 1974 with Caribbean Development Bank of $12.5 million. However we ... ascertained the experts in this sector can now readily see that the project will be completed for much less than previously estimated.

Another point, Mr. President, is that the Georgetown building was completed approximately four months ahead of schedule and it was brought in at budgeted cost. This is something which can hardly be said for any job undertaken in the Region before, particularly by Government.

The Linden building was programmed in 1973 and I see according to the agreed Development Programme $12,250, and that more improvements will take place in 1974. Another work of the agents agree that as we said I think it was been proved by this time that the purchase of the Linden Building was a worthwhile thing done by Government. It was a very wise move and it has provided much needed accommodation at a small loss seen that it is now been built at the present time.

Necessarily and incorporate to the improvement administration Building and Fort Wark Building in 1974 some $275,700. Also in 1974 a bank was built at Little Cayman.

Mr. President will recall a number life-blood area of the country, the Post Authority and the Stores in Georgetown, again I am very pleased to see this although a capable Chairman was named from that position a few months ago, we have another Chairman filling that position. I hope that he can continue in the footsteps of his predecessor, and if so we have no cause to worry.

I am pleased that the promises ... for the coming years will be realized. I congratulate ... on his and I also wish to thank the various hard operators who have assisted in this venture.

Mr. Chairman Sir we proceed to see that the highest ever throughput per hour of any port ... of similar size in the Caribbean which is very good in George Town. This is a very good feature and one to be envied, and a record which I hope we will uphold.

Mr. President, I would like to touch on capital expenditure. In 1974 the proposed budget calls for a capital expenditure of $9.9 million. Local financing will provide for $7.3 million of this expenditure, while $2.6 million comes from loan funds. Now, Mr. President, I would have thought that this was unsatisfactory, this administration which has power to do the most ... for all problems in our society and which is filled with financial promises, would have paid more attention to the capital budget for 1974, particularly in view of the unemployment situation which exists.

In 1973 the previous government spent $19,253,675 on capital expenditure of which about $10.1 million came from local revenue, and about $7.1 million of it from loan funds. 1973 was a reasonably good year for the construction industry in the country and for the workers of this country because much work was executed by Government. While the present budget with the promises

MR. HUGH H. BOGGS (CONTINUING): ...Mr. President, there is going to be a reduction of nearly 40 per cent in the expenditure as compared with last year. I seriously question how they can figure that they will get this saving based on the work that they have done and maintenance since they have been in office.

The water and sewerage project was started under administration with a part of it being brought to fulfillment last year and a part of it still remaining. All the financing and negotiations which were necessary to ensure that this project was continued were put in place previously.

The same applies to the sports and cultural centre at the Middle School and the Boys' Most Night Centre; the school buildings for the Middle School, Cayman Islands High School and Cayman Brac High School.

A significant point which I have not spoken on before, Mr. President, is the amount of the Roadways District has a couple of years ago. This was a fund which should have been repealed many years ago. It was a fund which the Roadway Members ought to get rescinded four or several years before it was finally removed, as it had no more place in our present economy. By removing the roadways matters regulations which existed under the financial community. The Roadways District has use as enactments of the past and was dead. It had no other use. We waited for several years but the then Financial Secretary of the Islands was against the removal of roadways control. It was not until then late 1978 that the law was finally repealed.

The financial figures of Government show that the loans made by Government on 31st December, 1978 amounted to $14,967,080.00. This is a lot of money and it is good to know that the Government was in a position to enable these loans to be made.

With regard to capital, Mr. President, between 1978 and 1979 $9,369,900 of Government capital was spent by the administration in power then, while from 1979 to 1982 the only borrowings which were made by our administration were $5,143,182. Any have been made above that date do appear to the Loans Ledger and the May statement. However, when we compare the financial position of Government now compared to 1979 and 1976 it can readily be seen that we were borrowing much more than we were capable of repaying at that point.

In 1978 the debt of the Government, that is the long term debt, was 50.6 per cent of the local revenue budgeted for that year. The borrowing limit from local revenue was 14 per cent of general revenue. Now, Mr. President, compare with any financial authority we all know that any country which is made 50 per cent of the local revenue to be used to finance long term debts, is beginning to have problems. We were facing those problems in 1979. The people in the country know it and the local Government knew it, and it was a good thing that we did not continue with that policy.

In 1983 in the budget which was presented by the previous administration the debt stood at 18.6 per cent of local revenue compared with the 50.6 per cent it was in 1978. The borrowing limit of Government's various times in 1983 was 2.6 per cent of local revenue compared to the 14 per cent that it was in 1979.

In 1978, Mr. President, the total recurrent of this country stood at $7860,000 approximately. In late 1983 that stood at $20.13 million, quite about a 1,000 per cent increase.

MR. JAMES M. BUDGET (CONTINUED): I will deal with the capital expenditure which has been made in our sister Islands. In 1978 to 1982 $610,002 was spent during these four years on capital expenditure. In the years 1977 to 1983 $10,500,300.22 was spent in the Sister Islands. This represents for an eight year period, compared to the four year period before, approximately twenty times the amount which was then spent.

In 1983 our Government spent in the Sister Islands $3,805,285. I am sorry and do apologise that I do not have the amount available to me which was spent in 1974. During that time in the year 1983 the revenue generated was $702,048 from the Sister Islands which represented an outlay of $3,772,689; or roughly four times the amount which was received in the form of revenue. I state these figures, Mr. President, so that the Members of the Assembly and the people of the Islands as a whole may know that the Sister Islands were never neglected under the previous administration, and I hope that with the two capable representatives they have, during this year they will treat them in like manner as we did.

Here is such some significance when we realize that the population of the Sister Islands compared to the population census of Grand Cayman is only 8.9 per cent.

Mr. President, our present budget before us is a budget which is unrealistic. It is a budget which can never be carried out. It is a budget where we are going to see a tremendous increase by the end of this year and I will attempts to point to this House how this will come about.

There is an item for furniture and equipment under the Judges. In 1982 this particular item cost in expenditure $65,317. In the year 1985 we have budgeted $10,000, quite a reduction and we must consider how we are going to be able to provide for the on-going necessities which will be needed. This is obviously unrealistic. These figures have been put in in a feeble attempt to balance the budget and although they will be looking about $1.3 million from the reserves of this country in order to try to carry out the work which they plan to carry out in 1985, they still have a problem. They still cannot come within any possibility of balancing the budget for this year.

Communications equipment in 1982 cost $84,274. This year we propose to spend $10,000. With heavy equipment, Mr. President, as one check back on the records of expenditure for many years now we find that it is an item which continues to increase from year to year due to the nature of the business. In 1983 we spent $420,730 to purchase new heavy equipment. This year we expect to be able to do it with $172,500. Mr. President, this is unreasonable.

As for our medical equipment to recommend this to take care of and assist our people and costs for this in 1982 were $238,000. But the people who were going to take care of every $10 which passes the country in the year 1985 have budgeted $80,000 for this.

This is very sensible, Mr. President, and we will have to fight very hard when we come to the Committee Stages to try to get something done about it.

Another heavy expenditure over the years for Government is the purchase of new vehicles. This year it is for the police, the prison, a firefighting truck, the water authority and my portfolio. However, in the year 1982 $335,760 were spent. This year it is expected that we will spend $167,000.

MR. JAMES M. ROGERS [CONTINUED]: Mr. President, I will be ready on Wednesday to put Dean at third podium and carry on tomorrow, because my speech alone is to be about 4,50.

MR. PRESIDENT: I was waiting for a convenient break because the time has come for the recess of this morning.

ADJOURNMENT

SEN. DENNIS E. POSTON: Mr. President, I move the adjournment of Ohio House until 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that Ohio House do now adjourn until 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

TUESDAY

21ST MARCH, 2023

12:00 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated,
Prayers are answered,
Before I call the First Elected Member for Southern Town to ask the first of the questions submitted in his name I should like, and I think the House would perhaps like it recorded that we all learned yesterday with shock and sorrow of the sudden death of the Prime Minister of Barbosia. Some Members perhaps have not heard but he died of a heart attack. It was on the night news yesterday. I think it would be the wish of the House that I send a message of condolences from this House since we cannot be present and from the Government and people of these Islands to the Government of Barbosia. If Members agree as I see they do I will arrange to do that. I think we might just write in this House the names of the Members of the Legislative Assembly right to appear there across all this page.

Questions. The First Elected Member for Dodder Town.

QUESTIONS

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR DODDER TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR COMMUNICATIONS WORKS AND EMERGENCY ADMINISTRATION: WHAT

MR. SPEAKER: Would the Member please indicate whether proposals have been submitted from the private sector for the proposed multi-storey car park and by whom such proposals were submitted?

MR. JAMES M. MURRAY: Mr. Speaker, this question is directed to the First Elected Member of Executive Council responsible for Communications Works and Internal Administration. In his Order Paper I apologise that it is mentioned as the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council.

MR. WESLEY S. ROBERTS: Mr. Speaker, I should just like to make an explanation before reading the reply to the question. The Ministry that I have is under the Ministry of Communications and Works. This is a proposal which included a multi-storey car park and also contained a development master and has therefore passed to me for preliminary investigation. However, this is being done in association with the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council responsible for Communications Works and Internal Administration.

REPLY: The proposal currently being examined for a multi-storey car park in central George Town was submitted to me by Hazlewood, Bradford and Partners at the request of the Honourable Financial Secretary. The proposal is in fact more accurately termed a "shopping" plaza as it has also to examine the problem of traffic circulation and congestion in the Seaview area, to analyse the various options available to alleviate these problems and to make recommendations for proposed solutions.

In addition to the Report, over 100 commercial establishments in the downtown George Town area have been canvassed in an effort to ascertain the degree of support the proposed facility would receive. No one spoke against the need for such a facility and many emphasized the great urgency for it. In fact, one hundred 100 firms which responded indicated they are willing to reserve a total of over 800 spaces depending of course upon the price.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JAMES M. DOWDEN: Mr. President, could I ask counsel whether the Member who gave the reply to my question is really the person of making decisions and negotiations on behalf of the Portfolios, or whether it is just for this particular Portfolio?

HON. PASCOE G. JOHNSON: I gave the reason already.

MR. JAMES M. DOWDEN: Mr. President, yesterday I had the privilege of being informed on most of the responsibilities by my colleague and myself in this particular Portfolio. Does counsel have some evidence or should we establish evidence in the House?

HON. PASCOE G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I thought that I took care before answering the question to give the reason why I was delegating the answer myself.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, on a point of information, I took pains to point out that there was a mistake on the Order Paper and that the question should have been posed to the Honourable Third Elected Member of Counties because as far as I am aware it is Counties Portfolio which deals with Provincial Administration. I am confused at this point and I think the House is also.

MR. PRESIDENT: On a point of explanation merely of a ruling. I think without being unfair to the Speaker in the Assembly to place my hand on the relevant Standing Order that is for Members of Government to answer questions which of them will answer a particular question. Much though this questioning puts that is provision for answer by one Member he may put an answer from another.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: I accept your explanation, Sir, in the vein which the words which things have changed.

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think they have changed. That, I think, has been standard practice in the past.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: I bow to your ruling, Sir. Could I pose another question? Is the Member aware that the firm which submitted this offer to newly January has also submitted a previous proposal on the same subject?

HON. PASCOE G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I am not aware of that.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Is the Member not aware that the proposal was rejected previously?

MR. PASCOE G. JOHNSON: No, Mr. President, ...

MR. G. ELLIS BROWN: Mr. President, may I ask the Member if the proposal for a new park includes the construction of the new Post Office?

MR. PRESIDENT: Did Honourable Member hear? I would only hear part of it. I am not sure whether your microphone was operating.

HON. WILFRED G. JOHNSON: Yes, Sir, I heard the question.

MR. PRESIDENT: Alright.

HON. WILFRED G. JOHNSON: Yes, the fact is that the present plaza is supposed to be the new site of a Post Office.

MR. JAMES M. BOWDEN: Could the Member state if he is in possession what this will be done between Government and the private sector on a joint venture?

HON. WILFRED G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, we have not reached that point of the study yet to determine who would do the construction; whether it will be Government or the private sector. Certain proposals have been put forward that these are being studied. Nothing has been put before Government as yet.

MR. JAMES M. BOWDEN: Mr. President, the Member mentioned that there was a proposal from, I think, Hutchinson, Bowflow and Partners. My question to him was not who would do the construction, but what would be more or less the financial arrangement. Would Government put up the land and these people would put up a certain amount of money to which this value and the rent would be lowered, or what would be the proposal?

HON. WILFRED G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, as I said before we have not reached that stage of consideration as yet. If the new park is going to be built on Government property it is very likely that it will be Government would rather than.

MR. JAMES M. BOWDEN: Would the Member state if the proposal did not indicate that this particular company would wish to participate financially in this venture?

HON. WILFRED G. JOHNSON: Not to my knowledge, Mr. President.

MR. JAMES M. BOWDEN: Mr. President, the Member's knowledge must be lacking because he tells the House that no proposals have been considered, and so have gone to the public and asked them how much of the system they would take. This seems a bit unusual. I wonder what is in this proposal. Could the Member explain the Hyson what type of proposal he received coming on behalf of the Cayman Islands Government from Hutchinson, Bradford and Partners?

HON. WILFRED G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, what has been done already is just merely for preliminary investigations to see whether the first the public of downtown Georgetown feels that a new park facility is something really needed today. However, we the Government are not committed to any suggestion made that the private sector or from any private individuals. It is for Government to look at the problem if it is a problem, the new library, and do whatever is necessary to alleviate that problem.

HON. DAVID M. CROSBY: Mr. President, I thank my hon. friend on the Opposition Benches for his question. Could he mention whether the proposal to allow the private sector participation is for new projects or for existing projects?

HON. FRED D. DOWNEY: Mr. President, the Member said that if our park facility is needed today and...

HON. DAVID M. CROSBY: No, Mr. President, I do not want my question misconstrued. I did not say that. I said why don't your old child health clinic in Spaniard's Town we have a traffic problem, I did not say that a multi-storey car park was the answer to that problem.

HON. DAVID M. CROSBY: Well, that is just another way of putting it, Mr. President, but if there is a traffic problem, then it does without saying that additional facilities are required. Mr. President, the proposal was made to Government. It was picked up the media not to ignore it. We studied it and we discovered the private sector is now here fully alive to it. Something must take the place which essentially was not put there by Government. Letters from influential business community Government members of the Dominican community in central George Town and so the proposal therefore had easy access to the press. The press announced to us, and I think everybody knows the views of the Government about it. The Government accepted such a facility in George Town. It was not put there deliberately by Government.

HON. DAVID M. CROSBY: As this is a proposal then which apparently has not really received much discussion from Government will the Member give this House an assurance that he will explore the possibilities of his responsible for this facility, also with the private sector to ensure that the private sector will not undertake this notion that Government at this time?

HON. TRUMAN B. BODDEN: Mr. President, Government is always very grateful for what the private sector can do. It is a matter of building the private sector interested in providing services like these.

HON. DAVID M. CROSBY: Mr. President, he has just assured this House that the private sector is very much interested in this proposal. What I am trying to get across is that rather than the Government using its limited resources at the present time urging to put in this facility, would it not be better if he left responsible made to the local financial community that they undertake the financial risks rather than Government?

HON. TRUMAN B. BODDEN: Mr. President, I do not know what the Member means by financial burden. If the facility is going to be built eventually Government would have to seek financial assistance from the private sector. However, I should very much like anyone in the private sector will want to build a multi-storey car park although I believe that it would be an economic burden.

HON. DAVID M. CROSBY: Mr. President, the financial community is the one which has helped to make this possible. Would it not be the willingness of Government to attempt to get the financial community to put in some kind of car parking facility? When the Member spoke about the financial side of it I was only thinking that the Government

MR. JAMES M. BOGGES (CONTINUING): Even stories told by him the country was broke and I know that it is deeply broke now after they have used up about $6.5 million of revenue in four months. So I know we are broke.

MR. D. BRIAN MILLER: Was the Member asking a question?

MR. PRESIDENT: Was a question asked? There was a bit of a statement made afterwards but it started with a question. I am afraid that I have now forgotten what the question was but as long as the Member knows. You did make such a long statement after your question I was thinking that the statement was going to be turned into a question too.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGES: No, sir, I merely said that the Parliamentary Member had been telling the people of this country that ... it was broke and after using up $6.5 million I know it is broke.

MR. PRESIDENT: Yes, but what you started by asking was since the financial community had solved a lot of the traffic circulation problems would they not help solve these? That was the question and that is a perfectly proper supplementary.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGES: I am getting confused, Mr. President, with these questions. The Member asks that the Government do both. Well that is quite true, but nevertheless we all know that in order to finance any sizeable project, Government is never able to find the money up front to do so. This financing must come from the private sector, from institutions who can very well provide mortgage money.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGES: The Member has said, ...

MR. PRESIDENT: Yes, I think the Member for North Side was on his feet, and he has not had a chance yet.

MR. D. BRIAN MILLER: Could the Member state, Sir, if it is not now the policy of the new Government to carefully discreetly consider solutions and methods of payment before taking such a giant step?

HON. JAMES M. BOGGES: Mr. President, that is exactly so. We intend accordingly to any projects we undertake. We first examine the need and secondly the method of financing it.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGES: Mr. President, the Member has said that the country is broke and that has been said on many occasions. Could the Member advise this House whether to his knowledge there was not over $10 million in reserves on the 31st November, 1984, and that would cause us to be broke since then?

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not really think that that is a supplementary which arises out of the answer to the original question It arises out of statements which have been made subsequently and we have wandered rather astray. If the Member wants to put down a substantive question on the point, he may, although it is a point which has been put as a question separately already.

MR. JAMES M. BOGGES: I will withdraw the question and deal with it in debate this morning, Sir. I have one more question. I have to make a bit of statement to make this question, Mr. President.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN (CONTINUING): The presumption....

MR. PRESIDING: Make sure the question arises.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: On the question is pending. You must not worry about that, Sir. The land which we are talking about is Government land right across from this building in the road. Land is land, that would cost $8000 to 10000 per square foot to build. Will the Member make this House aware that if such an undertaking is done by this Government, he will say at first time wisely and not waiting Government's next approach look to put a new park out?

HON. THOMAS G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I cannot give this assurance. That is a decision which Government must make.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: With all his financial problems, Mr. President, would it not be better to try to maximize property value. So say, $5 per square foot, instead of immediately property would $50 per square foot?

HON. THOMAS G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, the property in question unfortunately belongs to Government at the present time and should over a long number of years, because it is used as a public use park most of the time.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, we must look at the opportunity value. Certainly the Member would not want the Government to sell that land at $4 or $5 a square foot. As the spirit of the statement such of a commercial enterprise in Caymans Brac. To surrender a piece of land by parking here on it....

MR. SPEAKER: The Member must make it a question.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: I think I did make it a question, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: Not yet. It has all been a statement so far.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Well, Mr. President, I am asking the Member that if I am sure he is quite aware of the value of that land and it would not be sold for $5 or $6 a square foot, would he not consider using other land which could be more easily spared than to use that particular land? That is a consideration which we would like it have.

HON. THOMAS G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I should very much like Government would be able this Honourable building that piece of land. For I am glad to be accessible to central George Town so that it may be used for the purpose for which it is originally. I should very much welcome the opportunity to find a large enough parcel of land around central George Town to replace that particular site.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: May the Member not first address this House that that particular piece of land was considered more or less worthless?

HON. THOMAS G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I said as from years gone by until the present date because it has become an increasing concern to Government as until now.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Elected Member for North Side.

MR. D. REGINALD ARCHER: Could the Member state that in fact the acquisition of using that piece of land has been reduced by the last improvement made in the construction of the Tower Building?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I object. It is a matter of opinion with regard to the Tower Building. It can be substantiated that the Tower Building was probably one of the best investments this Government has undertaken in a long time.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, it seems to me if we are getting at those questions. The Member is making a question and the other Member is answering it.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I did not realize. I objected to the Member making that type of statement which was a matter of opinion. It should have been asked on from the Chair as far as I am concerned.

MR. PRESIDENT: I did not hear...

MR. D. REGINALD ARCHER: Opinions have been made all morning, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINDSAY A. RUSSELL: Thank you, Mr. President. I have been trying for the last fifteen minutes or so to get your eye. Mr. President, I am going to follow what I am going to say by a question, but it appears to me, Sir, that these questions are intended to be a big joke on this floor when I believe that Members are genuinely trying to get proper answers.

My question is, Sir, this in view of the importance of this project could the Member advise if any other similar local enterprising firms other than Safehaven, Bradford and Scotiabank were requested to submit a proposal on this project?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: I am not aware of that, Mr. President. I have left Government and the project was handed to me and I answered it to the extent that I mentioned a while ago.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Did it come into the Member's hands or was it solicited?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: May I have the question again, Sir. I did not hear it.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I will try to answer so that he knows my side also. Did the Member state whether the proposal just came into his hands or he had told the Banks or did he solicit on his behalf collate the proposal from Safehaven, Bradford and Scotiabank?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: I did not solicit the report, Sir. I found the report on my desk.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, following on the reply made by the Member a few minutes ago in acknowledging the contributions

MR. JAMES M. ANDERSON (CONSTITUENCY): ...of the land needs done because it has not yet in this case reached some of a release to Government. I will pose the question to him. Would he consider the land on the Seven Mile Beach where we have the Government's negotiations which should probably cost $300,000 to implement at this time and the land is probably worth $2.5 million; do view of us having a $300,000 investment selling on a $2.5 million further investment, would he consider that as contributing to be considering the long term view?

HON. JAMES M. MORGAN: Mr. President, the word contribution used by the Member himself. I did not call the land contribution.

MR. JAMES M. MORGAN: I will make the answer for him then. I will say no financial value.

HON. JAMES M. MORGAN: Neither did I say no financial value. I said it brought no financial return which is different from financial value.

MR. JAMES M. ANDERSON: Will Minister not consider as to whether he should consider the land on Seven Mile Beach to have little or no value because there is only a $300,000 liability on it and it is probably no return to Government?

HON. JAMES M. MORGAN: All kind, Mr. President, whether it be views for Seven Mile Beach or the central George Town is valuable property.

MR. JAMES M. ANDERSON: That is what I was saying in part only.

MR. SPEAKER: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. CLIFFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, by follow on my supplementary, would the Member state whether it be the intention of Government to propose other local engineering firms be asked proposals before Government's action on this project?

HON. JAMES M. MORGAN: Mr. President, I cannot give any assurance what this will be done. I stated that the report which was then submitted by Halcrow, Rendel and Partners was requested by the Honourable Financial Secretary. The report does not only deal with it as was stated that I mentioned already. As to what further steps or actions which Government will be taking on this particular subject it is not known at this time.

MR. CLIFFORD A. PIERSON: A further supplementary, Mr. President. Would it be possible for me to ascertain what is going on from Government procedure for the Government to employ by which as many experts as possible so that a very sensible decision could be made in such a major project?

HON. JAMES M. MORGAN: The Government would have no objection to this, Mr. President.

MR. CLIFFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, with respect, Sir, I did not get an answer to my question. If I am not going to have my question answered I am wasting time, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: I think you have had your question answered.

MR. LEROY A. DAVIS: No, Sir, I did not. My question was that with such an important project would it not be reasonable to assume that Government will attempt to get as many experts from similar engineering firms as possible? We have had one report so far and we have acted on this.

HON. MARK G. ROBISON: Mr. President, I have already said that Government has made no decision on this particular matter and if it is the Government's wish to have other engineers or consultants provide a report on the project I am sure that this will be done.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for Boston Rise.

MR. C. SAID BOXALL: Mr. President, may I ask if the proposal currently being considered by Government makes any recommendation with regard to the lease or ownership of the car-park?

HON. MARK G. ROBISON: The recommendation, Mr. President, is that Government owns the facility.

MR. C. SAID BOXALL: Mr. President, what part would the private contractors play in this game?

HON. MARK G. ROBISON: The private contractor would have a contract to construct the facility and that is right all.

MR. JAMES M. ROGERS: Well, in this publication were the proposed sites Fire Fighting, Brelford and Hawkins. Could the Member advise this House what part did they propose to play in the overall completion of this project?

HON. MARK G. ROBISON: Actually no part, Mr. President. They submitted a report and it is well known by everyone that if Government is going to undertake a project, that they propose to put out to tender and it is made from there. However, there is no commitment on the part of the firm who submitted the report that they should do the job.

MR. JAMES M. ROGERS: Will they not therefore be going to the Member's attention that Government had a raffle problem. Could the Member speak whether that is correct?

HON. MARK G. ROBISON: I do not know, Mr. President. The request for this report, as I said before, was made by the honourable Financial Secretary.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think we might move to the next question. We have an hour exhausted there are 4 questions.

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR DEVILS HILL TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SPEAKER REGARDING NUMBER OF RECEPTIVE COURTS, PROBABILITY FOR TENNIS PLAYING AND TYPE

Q. 47: Will the Member advise where, when and with whom have personal contacts been made in Washington, D.C., in an attempt to obtain the present marketability of the exemptions that exist in the Grand Lagoon - Point Pocket?

ARMAND: Official contacts have been made in person through the British Embassy in Washington, D.C., with the U.S. State Department and the U.S. Department of Transportation. Negotiations are continuing and it is not considered appropriate at this time to recall the nature of these negotiations because the outcome could be prejudiced.

QUESTIONS:

MR. C. RAY ROBERTS: Mr. President, I monitor the answer made as attempt at any rate. I assume if the Member would elaborate on that I might.

RT. H. MONRO DONSON: Mr. President, I apologise for that, Sir. I should point out that the first contact was made on 21st December, 1964.

MR. JAMES M. BOSWELL: Could the Member state whether that was a personal contact, or just a telephone contact encouraging to make progress?

RT. H. MONRO DONSON: Mr. President, that was a personal contact. It was an official visit to Washington on that date.

MR. JAMES M. BOSWELL: Could the Member advise that whether in the contacts he said were made through the British Embassy in Washington, the British also became involved in making the meetings and accompanied the Wayne delegations to the meetings?

RT. H. MONRO DONSON: Mr. President, the arrangements were made through the British Embassy in Washington and officials from the Embassy accompanied the delegation from Cyprus to the meetings which were held at the State Department and the Department of Transportation.

MR. JAMES M. BOSWELL: Was the people from the British Embassy that we saw on the grade of the Air Attaché or somebody of that nature who assisted?

RT. H. MONRO DONSON: I would say that the grade is one referred to if the person from the British Embassy who attended was, I would say, the second in command with respect to aviation matters.

MR. JAMES M. BOSWELL: In other words the Member put the offer?

RT. H. MONRO DONSON: I would not call him a chief, Sir. I should be more correctly higher than that.

MR. JAMES M. BOSWELL: Could the Member advise the name of that Government official made to the United States Department of Transportation and the State Department? Was it on the ambassador level or below?

RT. H. MONRO DONSON: Mr. President, I do not have that fact here with me but my recollection is that at the State Department it was one of the Under Secretaries of State responsible for transportation and at the Department of Transportation it was at an equivalent level. However, if the Member wishes the exact grading of the individuals whom we held meetings with I am happy that be written.

MR. JAMES M. BOOCOCK: So, my only concern, Mr. President, is that it be known that there is no use in wasting any but level negotiations unless they start at a Washington level, and I am quite aware of how the Soviet Embassy in Washington will attempt to lead people into discussions with the claims. So I am trying to obtain from the Member whether his contacts have been on such a level that we may be optimistic of some hope for a continuation of the negotiations? I am simply aware of how this is done because I have been a lot of it on behalf of the Government. All I am trying to find out is whether we have any hope?

HON. H. DONALD MUNRO: Mr. President, I am satisfied that the level of persons whom we have had discussions with in Washington are of a level that we can expect that our case will be given due consideration. I am satisfied and I do not feel that we deal with any people at the level of clerk.

MR. S. HALL BOOCOCK: Mr. President, will the Member tell us if any of the people he dealt with are in a position to make decisions regarding the extension of the moratorium?

HON. H. DONALD MUNRO: Mr. President, they would not be the people who would make the decisions, but they would be level that they could make recommendations. However, these decisions would be made by persons at a higher level naturally.

MR. JAMES M. BOOCOCK: Was any comment made with the Secretary of Transportation on the discussions anyway?

HON. H. DONALD MUNRO: Yes, Mr. President, contact was been made through our legal counsel with the Secretary for Transportation at the State Department.

MR. JAMES M. BOOCOCK: Why has the delegation not pursued that contact in order to ensure that we get our message across at the highest possible level?

HON. H. DONALD MUNRO: Mr. President, it is being quietly pursued at the highest possible level, both from this end and from the United Kingdom namely through the officials in Washington. As the Member knows very well, I am sure, the case on behalf of Cayman Airways has to be put forward to the United States by the United Kingdom aviation authorities.

MR. JAMES M. BOOCOCK: Not necessarily, Sir, it is but I suppose if that we would not have the existing moratorium which we have had for two and a half years.

MR. SPEAKER: Order, order. The Member has not made statements. He must ask questions.

MR. JAMES M. BOOCOCK: Mr. President, a statement was made to me. I should at least have the liberty of explaining my side....

MR. SPEAKER: You were given an answer to a question.

MR. JAMES M. BOOCOCK: Mr. President, I can deal with the matter.

MR. SPEAKER: If there is no further supplementary the First Elected Member for Bodden Town may ask the next question.

THE HONORABLE EDWARD KENNEDY ASKED THEN TO ASK THE HONORABLE SECRETARY OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL REGULATIONS AND POLICIES AFFECTING THE STATE

QUESTION: Would the Minister advise what future action Government proposes to take in regard to negotiations with United States and United Kingdom delegations on air routes under the Bermuda II agreement?

ANSWER: The UK/US Air Services Agreement, commonly referred to as Bermuda II, is a treaty between the Governments of the United Kingdom and the United States of America. Therefore, the Cayman Islands Government is not in a position to open direct negotiations. However, representations will be made to Her Majesty's Government for consultations whenever the Agreement is being renegotiated.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JAMES M. RUTLEY: Will a Cayman delegation be able to visit the area when the right to participate in one of those talks between the United Kingdom and the United States of America's Governments?

HON. W. MCKEVA BODDEN: A request will be made whenever renegotiations are held for a Cayman delegation to be included as a part of the United Kingdom team which might be negotiating this Bermuda II Agreement.

MR. JAMES M. RUTLEY: Has any assistance been made by the Cayman Government that they do take part in these negotiations?

HON. W. MCKEVA BODDEN: Mr. Speaker, no discussions has ever been made because, to the best of my knowledge, no date has been set or any discussions have been held between the United Kingdom and the United States to decide when or where the Bermuda II Agreement will be renegotiated.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. Speaker, may I ask the Member whether when making the representations to Her Majesty's Government will they require that the Attorney General or some other legal mind be included in the negotiating team?

MR. SPEAKER: Did you say [illegible] the negotiating team? I did not hear.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Yes, the last which will go to Washington for the negotiations.

HON. W. MCKEVA BODDEN: Mr. Speaker, whenever Bermuda II comes up for renegotiation and the Cayman Islands Government is finally invited to attend those negotiations, I would say that it is quite likely that the honourable Second Official Member of Government would be included in that team.

MR. SPEAKER: If there is no further supplementary, then Question...

Then S. The nominations of the Police on the appropriation Bill, 1985. The Hon. Second Member for Bodden Town was speaking.

CONSIDERATION OF THE REPORT ON THE TRUSTEESHIP AGREEMENTS (THE SECOND REPORT OF THE ADMINISTRATION TASK FORCE) S.Con. 1995

MR. PAUL H. DOUGLAS: Mr. President, the questions which have just been posed to the Honorable Second Ranking Member of Executive Command were questions made out of sympathy, concern for the people of the Cayman Islands and for the immediacy of the Cayman Islands.

If ever the sword of Damocles hung over the heads of people, the sentence is appropriate in such a regard. It is something which could quickly will destroy the livelihood of many people in the Cayman Islands, and could completely devastate the economy.

If the Members of the present Electoral House would wish to cooperate, maybe there could come from this side of the House which would be of assistance. I visited on behalf of the Cayman Islands Government for a brief period and established some very good personal contacts in Washington in respect of people at the United Kingdom Embassy as well as in the Executive Secretary of the United States Government.

Mr. President, I do not think that any Member in the House is more aware of the problems which are attendant to this subject than I am, having dealt with it for so long. Recently it came about many years ago, the Cayman Islands Government at that time sent a delegation. It was a delegation which did not intend on promulgating the sovereign rights of the Cayman Islands, but rather was a delegation which met in the State Department discussed the problem with the fifth and ninth ranking officials in the United Kingdom Embassy in Washington, D.C. This delegation was headed at that time by the man who is now the Honorable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council. On his return, as he may recall whether he had been able to participate, if I remember correctly, his answer was, "No".

The result was, Mr. President, that the Cayman Islands and its other Caribbean territories which are still under colonial rule continued unknowingly to Britain II. Our rights were jeopardized once by the United States authorities in order for the United Kingdom authorities to have full sway out of many ways, as it was considered to be a much more lucrative market. What is one of the reasons that Cayman Airways has been so handicapped from the beginning. The United States can fly planes from any point in that territory to the Cayman Islands. Although we have two airports which will be up to international standards we have not been allowed the same latitude which the United Kingdom enjoys, in that they can designate American airlines into Grand Cayman Montego or Cornwall. We are looked at as one territory and one point of entry.

These things have come about, Mr. President, because we had no representation and because we could not take part in the negotiations. I am quite aware that as a territory of the United Kingdom we cannot adopt responsibilities with the United States Government and rightly so, as I am fully aware of all of that. However, we can indeed hope that we have our rights to attend and to take part.

Mr. President, just as Mr. and a half years ago we discussed the same problem when the United Kingdom began negotiating with the Americans back on matters of certain things which involved it. The outcome was will be the Government Administration Building. All the correspondence is there.

MR. JAMES M. MCCORMACK (CONTINUING): We were told that we could not take part in the official talks. I shuddered otherwise what we encounter this. I was later told after Washington, in discussions with the United Kingdom Ambassador that the representatives like you invading this particular subject, that only three from the Cayman Delegation could attend the talks. Again I and my delegation stood our ground. By the way, in addition to that it was stated that all of us would have to be people of Caymanian origin. I explained to him the nature of the Cayman Islands and that we had to depend on expertise from abroad. I pointed to our Honourable Speaker, Official Member who is sitting over there and said that he was not a Caymanian, but was a British subject. At least it should have made no difference whether he was a part of the Caymanian team or not as far as the United Kingdom delegation was concerned. After a long, hard fight they finally gave in and we were accorded seats with them to the meeting room in the Department of State.

The Americans had a very strong team, the United Kingdom had a strong team, but I was able to benefit of your involvement, by permission from the United Kingdom delegate, to make oral inputs many occasions on our behalf. I will say from the floor of the House this morning, and I think the people who came there with me will back me what I am saying, that at this point we received no assistance from the United Kingdom delegation. The fight was carried completely by the Caymanian delegation. The talks broke up and they gave Irish recommended to the United Kingdom. They broke up because at the end of it all the United Kingdom delegation was not prepared to give a small voice to the fishing of the Cayman Islands Government to allow us to get some of the things which we needed. It was only through the personal help of the leader of the American delegation that we recommend the concessions which we have today and which has kept me alive for the past half hour.

I should have mentioned and I state now that if we had to depend on the United Kingdom delegation, we did have money on us for what we would have got. We did get the concessions. It was mentioned in a side letter written by the American leader of the delegation. We not only welcomed the concessions but as were proud who maybe enjoy them than they should any American service begin to fly from certain points to the United States to the Cayman Islands, we would be considered favourably and favourably to parallel such routes. We did not have those rights under the original Bermuda II Agreement.

So, Mr. President, I am very thankful with the long, hard, work read which one have failed on such negotiations. I am only trying out of concern for my people and for the country to ensure that the rights gains we have and that we got to reach us to wean out of the real agreements, and that we do not let someone else upgrade only our birthrights. This is why the questions I have asked have been tabled for this House. It is concern for my people.

Mr. President, I would like to voice my sympathy to the people of Jamaica and to the family of the Prime Minister at that necessary. I happen to have had the privilege of sitting in several proceedings meetings with this gentleman, and I have been on panels where he both spoke to large audiences, and I became quite friendly with him. So I am very saddened to hear of his loss and I do sympathise with the Government.

I am sure, Mr. President, that by the time I sit down tomorrow afternoon you will have no trouble in getting the other Members to their fees. Because by that time I think I will have finished these representations sufficiently and I will have let the

Mr. James M. Bodden (continued): ...some kinds of expatriate banks. ...has unfortunately not on the party caucus which I understand was held... in this building yesterday evening, I am sure that every Member has been put in the right mood to begin talking about the Budget. I will only remind the Senate that the session that I hope is to be sure that my colleague have spoke out the last Government speaker... or at least the next to the last one. So if the Government wants to be protected I hope a colleague who can stand as I could and deal with them. So they are not going to have to sit there for long. A question of what plans were made in the party caucus held in this building yesterday evening, we are prepared to deal with it in the orderly mode of debate.

Mr. Speaker, in continued debates, and I believe even in the questions, it has been said that the responsibility of the Government of the Unity Team Government. Well, if it is, Mr. Speaker, it is no wonder that we have business one can imagine going after page and I am not any place where one will find any happiness for the Unity Team Government other than a debate undertaken by Mr. Ulysses Seymour which was then a debate undertaken by Mr. Ulysses Seymour which was then a debate undertaken by Mr. Ulysses Seymour which was then

MR. JAMES M. MCCORM (CONTINUING): Mr. Speaker, eight years in Government administration I am quite aware of all the rules and regulations and things you have to do. The honourable Financial Secretary is responsible for the majority of these items, but ultimately this is an elected decision. We appear to the capital investments and indeed one section under areas of expenditure, as well as nothing in our laws. This is a political decision taken by the elected Members of Executive Council so therefore my points is directed to the fact of them that they have increased and promoted in this country the recurrent budget, and I will deal with it step by step.

Yesterday I had mentioned the point of the purchase of vehicles, where in 1984 the Government spent $222,166 and they proposed to do it this year with $352,000.

I go on now to airport development. For this do mainly on the field such as the parking apron and go North at Owen Roberts Airport and the work which has to be done on Cayman Brac. This last year it went the Government $2,574,814 to do this and this year it is only proposed to spend $328,000 or about 12 per cent of what was spent last year. You do have remember that recurring expenses such as this give fewer interests and they give employment to many people. Therefore, when the high unemployment rate which exists in this country today, which the present Elected Government have participated, it should look at the ways they could do something to try to keep activity along. It is also understandable, Mr. President, that these costs would be a bit reduced this year, but what I am saying to the people of this country is that it would have been more realistic if they had figures to relate exactly to what was spent last year. That maybe some of the poor people who need employment through the efforts of this Government.

Another point, Mr. President, is that looking at the budget for 1985 the people of this country cannot view critical as because in 1984 to cost the Government $44,826 for the investments. We have got more people on the scrolls now and this year they have told us it is going to cost $80,000. So again we are spending this year one third of what we spent on the scholarships last year and we have more people.

Another item is disaster preparedness, last year it cost $27,000. This year they are going to do it for $2,000.

$140,000 was budgeted for fire service buildings in 1984. This year $70,000 is budgeted, just on a campaign pledge and as politicians we have heard that the West Bay area is going to have a fire station. Of course I can go on to deal with this a bit further also but, however, here on the fire service buildings we have reduced it from $140,000 to $60,000.

Government staff housing for 1984 was budgeted at $105,187. This year they propose to spend $70,000.

In the year 1984 $245,000 was spent on medical facilities. This year it is going to be reduced to $138,000.

In 1984 $1,106,787 was spent on the purchase of land. This year we are going to spend the grand sum of $65,000. And I will deal with this subject again but, Mr. President, but in perusing the estimates I find that $40,000 is to purchase a piece of house land I imagine somewhere in the West Bay Beach area to provide the employees housing going for that day. Now whether there have changed dramatically, Mr. President, the piece of land which we are proposing to buy in Seven Mile Beach

MR. JAMES W. BOYCE (CONTINUED): for this amount of money must be the envy of a postage stamp. So they have been unselfish to the people of Rock Bay and the people of this country, and they have brought a budget to here in attempt to fool the Members of this House, and realizing that we also have a financial problem on this side of the house, my apology to the Second Elected Member for George Town, who has since left the Benches of the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council.

Almost unchallenged, really in 1961 were $3,197,719. This year they are $7,883,719.

Further items of expenditure to be provided in the 1962 budget which make it a problematic and unrealistic budget are under Personal and Personal offices, the 1962 estimates are $436,899. It has increased in the 1965 estimates to $3+3,053.

Legislative Department in the year 1961 cost $189,496. It has been reduced this year to $109,010. Now, here is a Portfolio which has really disappeared and it goes to show where has happened and what I meant when I passed a question to the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council in this House a while ago.

Minister Education and Trade has a very large Portfolio, and I am glad that it may not disrupt and that people have cooperated to do the job which I see doing. However, Foreign Relations and Trade Administration in the year 1961 was $738,247. That year this year has been reduced to $557,520, a significant decrease and a significant reminder to the people of this country that the important Portfolio, which keeps the money coming into this country is thought of by the present administration that they would make such a drastic cut as they have done with this.

The next Portfolio which appears unfavourably is the Administration of Communications and Works. When I picked this out, Mr. Speaker, the people of this country will see the significance of the words I made a while ago, and the reason why it was announced by the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council, because the administration cost of Communications and Works has gone up from $345,272 to $170,196. As I go along on my calculations we will find where all of this money has gone to and which particulars Portfolio you have in. This is where the significance comes in in regard to the announcing of the conversions by that particular Member.

Non-statutory Government expenses have increased from $260,000 to $41,000 from this year.

Equipment purchases on page 32 have been reduced from $225,000 to $208,000.

Local Audit Government notes, which still gave one penny somewhere in the Civil Service Commission and the Police, in other words there was a penny more there this year, last year were $265,996 and this year are proposed to be $400,012.

Head 8, Colonial and Judicial Offices. To find the cost for this administration was $379,705. It has been increased this year to $1+1,712

The Legislative Department is, the cause of expenses and revenues have significantly affected here. The cost last year was $181,272 and has been reduced to $10,510 this year. Legislative Department grants and subventions were $21,000 last year reduced to $10,000 this year.

Police Department supplies and materials has an expenditure last year of $193,100. It has now been decreased to $09,800. Maintenance services for the Police Department cost last year $295,887 reduced this year to $292,213.

MR. JAMES M. DUNN (CONTINUING): Equipment rental for the Police Department was $166,757 last year. I think this was mostly equipment purchased rather than rentals. It has increased to $33,500 this year.

Fleet and Development Facilities dealing with grants and contributions last year spent $460,822 and that was reduced this year to $270,621.

Non-capitalized equipment purchases last year were $880,409 and this year will be $85,000.

I have already covered items to the Civil Service Association; last year under our administration $665,000 was spent.

Grants and contributions for the Municipal Office of Health Education and Social Services were last year $201,807. This year they will be $238,600.

Tuition reduction and fringe personnel emoluments were $481,870 last year, reduced this year to $130,139. Supplies and materials for Cowtown Auditorium and Stockyards $27,465 last year. This year we are going to spend $1,600. So we should not even expect this year to get a penny from the portfolio of Tourism Activities and Trade until we do an Economic Feasibility. It will probably be an appeals which came from the Department of Agriculture. Utility expenditures for this department was $10,254 last year reduced this year on the zero estimates to $200. So they will not even be able to turn on the lights up there. This is a very ridiculous situation for a country to be in. Maintenance services for Tourism Activities and Trade were $108,025 last year, but this year is $71,000. Grants and contributions for this Municipal were $77,363 last year and is $35,000 this year.

Communications and Works personnel emoluments were $238,809 last year, and this year is $81,308. Supply for this Portfolio was $6,778 last year, and this year is $5,000. In addition to this the Member in charge of this Portfolio happens to have added local administration to his Portfolio. So how in the world is he going to make his budget to the committee of Ways and Means with a cut budget like this. Communications and Works supplies and materials last year were $12,750. This year $500 will be spent. What a ridiculous situation.

Inter-departmental services under Communications and Works were cut from $11,701 to $700 this year. Now, Mr. President, if there was any doubt in the people's mind as to how ridiculous this budget is, we should have been able by this time to prove our point. All of that money which has been cut from the Communications and Works budget and from the Tourism Activities and Trade budget has now gone on to what is known as Sub-Divisional and Natural Resources Portfolio which used to be under the name of the Department of Agriculture.

This year we have a total under this department, Head 38, of $880,736 compared to $440,005 the year before. So this is why I requested to get the answer which I got to my question when it was posed to the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council.

Mr. President, the Honourable Financial Secretary said in his Budget Address that this year the local revenues were being reduced in order with the additional revenue.

HON. SPEAKER: I am told the hope is finished so perhaps....

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY: Sec, as this time I would like to apply, Sir,

MR. PRESIDENT: I will suspend proceedings for fifteen minutes and we can resume at 11.45 a.m.

AT 11.30 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

AND RESUMED AT 11.45 A.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. The Elected Member for Saddle Peak.

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY: Mr. Speaker, I would like at this time to call for a vote of no confidence.

MR. SPEAKER: Do you wish me to put the question?

MR. JAMES M. DOOLEY: On no confidence, yes.

Mr. Speaker, in analysing the 1996 budget and addressing the speech which was delivered to this House, the Honourable Financial Secretary said that this year the local residents would be required to assist with the additional revenue. Mr. Speaker, when you accept matters or do something you cannot say that you request him to assist. Because once these measures will be passed that they shall have the full force of enactments behind them. So therefore it is not a matter of wishing to use proceeds to assist, we are then completely committed to assist.

I have dealt with the misleading manner in which they have tried to balance the budget when making estimates which they have will come short now since in 1996 to it than they have budgeted. Therefore, there will be an over-expenditure of at least $6 million by the end of 1996.

The people may have been misled into complacency by believing that we have a balanced budget. However, Mr. Speaker, I think that the public at large can easily see by now that this is not a balanced budget, although since $6 million will be taken from the funds in the General Account, which according to the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council do not not know.

I will deal at this point, Mr. Speaker, with the additional revenue which is to be raised through this year, and I will show the people that the main areas of increased have to deal with the tax on the steel. The one and half cents will be spending there just have millions every day.

Stamps tax has been increased to income from $20,000 for 1995 to a projected $100,000 in 1996.

Liquor licenses is also projected $34,000 in income for the Government. The year 1996 is to be expected that will receive $200,000.

MR. SPEAKER (CONTINUING): Trade licences have increased from $250,000 in the year 1964 to $450,000 in the year 1965.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sure in the view of certain legislation which is before the House and which I will deal with later. It is projected that year 1966 when only $71,777 was collected in court fines, this year they will collect $140,000.

Land registry fees have been increased from $84,850 in income in 1961 to $200,000 in income in 1965.

Stamping applications have been increased from $177,000 in 1962 to $340,000 in 1965, or just about double. Stamping applications have to be paid for by people who are either businessmen or people who are resident or have a financial interest in the development of this country.

It is projected that revenue from the revenue stamps which is the Land Transfer Tax will increase to $4,500,000, or an increase of $1.2 million for the year. This is a significant increase, Mr. Speaker, and I am sure that it was projected on the new revenue measures to respond to unavoidable contracts and agreements which have been signed in this House and which have affected some debits already. I only warn the Members that with those tightening measures and the manner in which they have approached the upcoming of this country, that instead of having $3.4 million from revenue stamps, we will probably be lucky if we receive half of that amount. People are not going to invest in a country in which they have no faith and in which the stability has apparently been lost.

Another item, Mr. Speaker, which is unavoidable is their debt and debts in which $350,000 in the year 1966 from the interests due on the overseas debts. Because of the manner in which the present elected Government have dealt with the business of this country, we find that a $10 million plus in finances has been shrunk at this time to about $4.5 million. Or to put it another way the present Elected Executive Council, in four months of administration has already taken $4.5 million out of reserves which has been put into reserve by the only Labour Government.

Mr. Speaker, I am sure that there is no way at this time that the present elected Government can get away from the fact that these measures did exist. Much has been said about the money not being available to Government, and that the country was broke. Mr. Speaker, the country is just bursting broke. So we cannot expect to have $500,000 accrued in interest from the measures of this country this year.

So after all of those points have been taken into consideration, Mr. Speaker, we can easily assume that the country finds a year in which there will have to be an over-expenditure of about $5 million, which will not be covered by revenue.

I will deal with the revenue measures which have been tabled in the House and that does the increases.

The hotel room tax will be increased from 4% to $10 per room.

Sales agreements which are assignable will carry an increase tax of seven and a half per cent. Mr. Speaker, this can drastically affect one income. This seven and a half per cent tax, and I am not speaking because I am a real estate broker, now have a lot of local people as well as it does have the knowledge. This document was purchased privately which is by an assignable deed which is then sold privately.

We have also seen the introduction into Session of a duty increase to the people of this country by changing the duty payable on freight which would come on the aircraft.

Mr. Glenn W. Goode (continuing): The law before said that it would be the freight rate charged for ocean freight, or $5 per ton, of whatever the amount was. This means that if the freight by air freight was $50 before or in view, the person would normally pay only half or $25. With this new law going into effect a person will pay $25, or $50 per cent more to ocean back he would before. This will have devastating on the Cayman Islands, and it particularly may hurt the airline, the very thing which we need to sustain. What this will do is to entice people to ship their freight by the shipping companies rather than by planes. The airline which is the principal line carrier will suffer tremendously as a result of this.

Telephone service on airplanes have increased from five cents to ten cents, or a 100 per cent increase.

The Government has attempted to deal with the transshipping trade which are being acted on the Islands by placing a use fee of $100 on each overseas visit. Now I do not imagine that that is proposed to be just for one week of the year, but I think that it would be considered to be for the benefit of the businessmen. In my opinion that is a bit low, but whereas I think it is another area which we should consider it would be inequitable if we asked to change the full amount and a half year work in that. I think a consideration on this particular section should be entertained by both sides of the House because we are looking at an area where the tourism sector could be seriously affected.

Liquor distributors will now pay $2,500 for their license instead of the previous $400, an increase of 525 per cent. The retailers will pay $3,000 for a license instead of the previous $350. The restaurant will now pay $100 for their license originally is $50 unfortunately. The hotel license to sell liquor will increase for those who have 20 rooms or less from $400 to $1,000. The hotel with 20 rooms or more will increase from $1000 to $2,000. The hotel with 50 rooms or more will increase

Mr. James K. Boyce (continued): permits by remarks at a time, but in a very large amount. He threw all of that out of the window in favour of having our local people to the extent that they are now being asked to be taxed under these legislations.

The district of Mission that is represented by my colleague and my self has received but very little attention in the 1968 budget, except for instances in Capilano Creek. I have already shown expenditure by Government in Capilano River but, for instance, Capilano Creek is being asked $250,000 to extend the Bluff road to the benefit of whom? Indian Road is getting a subsidy. I do not say this disparagingly because three-fifths of the people of the Province for agricultural in the district he may have shared with us some of our tax information, but we may have to assist him. It is also much needed by the people who reside in that district. So I am glad that we have been able to get from the Provincial Government the commitment amount of $19,000 to improve the cattle dip in Chilliwack.

The Sardis Park Elementary School will also receive part of the extra from the mill rate and it will get $21,000 for expenditure on that. Chilliwack Primary School will share with them that the expenditure of $22,360 for a hard surface at the Chilliwack Primary School.

Before I should forget this very short and important point, Mr. Speaker, I would be being remiss in that the private mail of the editor of that newspaper is finally being passed. I do not know what the arguments of that particular protest be, Mr. Speaker, but I am glad to see that they are showing gratitude to at least one of their civic corporations.

I would like to point out a few further discrepancies in regard to the budget in areas which apparently the Provincial Government has chosen to ignore such concern. That is unfortunate since under Social Services, the page 91 of the present budget estimated to rise $1,000 this year. That is very little, Mr. Speaker, and I do not think what kind of a programme or school counselling can be put into effect with $1,000. Also there is another expenditure for private individuals under that department. Private agencies and sports facilities were cried down in the last administration and this administration was supposed to have cured all of the ills in connection with that department. However, we note from the magnificent sum of $9,000 for having appropriated extra grant towards sports equipment. That will probably buy a few extras for the playgrounds.

Another area which was a lack of concern in the previous Session was public parks, gardens and beaches. In this particular appropriation we find $200 and $1,000 of expenditure for this year.

Mr. Speaker, an medical care already we are presently in around $300,000 this year. I do not have available to me the amount that was expended last year under this section of the appropriation, but I am certain that it was much more than this. Members could judge what they are, if you are going to be able to attend to many people who need hospital consideration with the $300,000 which have been appropriated. It must be true that I have misunderstood a matter that we are supposing to utilize all of the facilities in the Provincial Hospital in Kamloops and to send the people there who need medical attention.

Mr. Speaker, the people of the West Kootenay have problems and were told that they would be getting a fair station. In perusing the budget which has been presented I would

MR. JAMES H. DOOLEY (CONTINUING): And when the people of West Bay do be denied because we have an appropriation of only $75,000 towards purchasing of a site for a five classroom primary school. I made it abundantly clear that I thought that this was a necessity, and that I would be prepared to support the expenditure on a five classroom primary West Bay. However, what are we going to do with $25,000? And we going only to one of the schools who have five classrooms today to buy a five toy five schools to supply the services with?

Another misleading thing we heard in the West Bay area was that they were told that they would be providing a service ship landing jetty in West Bay. I find on the budget sheet for the year 1969 we are only going to spend $15,000 to purchase the land compared to an expenditure this year of way over $1 million to purchase Government land. This $15,000 is going to be used to purchase an frontage along about three of land on Seven Mile Beach. Because if we are going to put a service ship landing in that is the most place where we have a sandy beach if it is going to serve West Bay at all. This I may point out at this stage, in my opinion, I think is a ridiculous and one which should not be further considered because it is not going to really work in relation to the amount of money which would have to be spent to provide this facility. However, this can we buy for $75,000?

Then we have a further West Water extensions and they do give $25,000 to construct a jetty and for maintenance of the North Coast jetty. I quite, Mr. President, I will be on the Elected Members of both Boards to be thankful with we are to give up a budget which is available. The budget which has been presented to us is not a realistic budget and shows wastage of money and only makes work and wages for the job, or if the job is done the over-expenditure on purpose like this will be a scandalous shame.

Mr. President, I come to more of the amendments of the Law and Regulations which are proposed to be passed by this Bill. We have a look at the books which is the Airport Regulations Law and it came into effect, I think, on 15th January, 1969. The Elected Executive Council do not presently to change the manner in which Regulations can be made by the Executive Council and they are proposing to put the same-enterprise Ministers. I say enterprise because once this Bill the Elected Executive Council can do its own wisdom and its own good time put these Regulations into effect without once coming back to the Elected House. Therefore, this is the only time that we Elected Members representing our people have an opportunity to discuss and to stand our wisdom with those of power.

I will read, with your permission, section 3 of the proposed Regulations which it is proposed to change under the proposed new Regulation here. There are some of the more which are particularly major bits sections:

"(1) Electronic or interfering with the proper use of the airport;

(2) Electronically any person acting in the execution of his duty in relation to the airport;

(3) Knowingly or the airport after having been required by a constable or an authorised officer to leave it;

(4) Wilfully any vehicle or animal in or on the airport after being required by an authorised officer to remove it or after the presence on the airport has been forbidden by an authorised officer or in his discretion;

MR. JAMES M. SPICER (CONTINUED):

(xx) throwing, leaving or dropping anything capable of causing injury to any person or property;

(xy) spending any waste, fence, hoarding or post;

(xxi) failure to comply with the weight of the load" contained in the Schedule;

(xxi) driving or placing a vehicle carelessly or dangerously or without consideration for persons using the street;

(xxii) failure by the driver of a vehicle to stop when required by a constable to do so.

(xxiii) failure by the driver of a vehicle which is involved in an accident to give his name and address and the name and address of the owner of the vehicle to any person having reasonable ground for requiring them;

(xxiv) failure by the driver of a vehicle constructed to propel by a constable or by the person in charge of the element any accident in which the vehicle is involved.

(xxv) failure by the driver of a vehicle to comply with any direction for the regulation of traffic given by a constable or a traffic sign;

(xxvi) parking a vehicle elsewhere than in a place provided for that purpose and in the manner required by an authorised officer;

(xxvii) failure by the person in charge of a vehicle to remove it from any parking place when required by an authorised officer to do so;

(xxviii) loading or unloading from a vehicle, passengers or goods elsewhere than in a place provided for that purpose;

(xxix) driving a motor vehicle on any roadway in an attempt to speed greater than thirty miles per hour or such other speed as may be prescribed by a traffic sign;

(xxx) smoking, drinking or otherwise dumping any waste, ashes or plant or rubbish on any place but;

(xxxi) littering or leaving litter except in a receptacle provided for the purpose."

Now the reason I have taken the time, Mr. President, to read these out is to show to the Members of this House and the public at large that there by and large were other safeguards. We are only dealing with one or two areas where these legislations which would be of a serious nature. Under the present law whoever is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction, is subject to a fine of $50 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months. Now, Mr. President, we have that Electoral Tribunal coming back to the Municipalities Assembly and asking that they may have the power to increase this up a fine of $1,000 or

MR. JAMES M. DOUGAN (Cookstown): Congratulations are due to the Minister for Agriculture on the publication of these Regulations. They are very important to the farming community. I am sure that the Minister will be glad to hear that the Regulations have been welcomed by the farming community. I am sure that the Minister will be glad to hear that the Regulations have been welcomed by the farming community. I am sure that the Minister will be glad to hear that the Regulations have been welcomed by the farming community.

The main purpose of the Regulations which the Statutory Committee wishes to discuss with the Minister is the Interpretation Act, Chapter III, which came into force on the 31st December, 1954. With your permission, Sir, I will read the appropriate section of this Act. It is Section 27 and it says:

"Where a Act confers power on any authority to make any Regulations, the following provisions shall, unless the contrary intention appears, have effect with reference to the making, issue and operation of such Regulations -

(a) a Regulation may be made, issued, amended, revoked or revoked by the same authority and in the same manner by and in which it was made;

(b) the Regulations may provide in respect of a breach of any of the provisions thereof that the offender shall, subject to the law otherwise provided, be liable to such fine not exceeding twenty-five pounds, or to such term of imprisonment with hard labour not exceeding three months, or to both such fine and imprisonment, as may be therein prescribed;

(c) where any Act confers power on any authority to make Regulations for any general purpose, and also for any special purpose specified thereto, the enumeration of the special purposes shall not be deemed to derogate from the generality of the power conferred with reference to the general purpose;

(d) no Regulation shall be inconsistent with the provisions of any Act;

(e) any breach of any Regulation may, unless the Act otherwise provides, be enforced in a summary manner;

(f) any reference in any Regulation to "the Act" shall be read and construed as meaning the Act authorising the power to make or issue such Regulations."

Now, Mr. President, if I agree that this should probably be enough information as we no longer have the power to be laid before Parliament in relation to the Orders in Council the way it was when we got the Act commenced, the specific fine here would now be £50 in our currency. If we take the reduction the power has suffered in the world market we could possibly be looking at a little more fine as being the fine.

Have to what this Regulation is

MR. JAMES H. JOHNSON (CONTINUED):

> "On the Solstice of the world twenty-five pounds one hundredth ounces of the world one thousand dollars, and by the Selection of the Lords Three minute and One hundredth thereafter of the world twelve months".

We are increasing the penalty of assessments from three months to twelve months, or a 400 per cent increase. We are changing the twenty-five pounds to a maximum of $1,000, an about thirty times what the fine could be imposed now before. Now I agree that one dollar is a very strong requirement and the maximum fine regard to the stability, but not even one dollar has increased in twelve years the standing ovation, as this enters. Finally I ask the distinguished Secretary to vote nay on the people of the Mayor Emeritus.

Mr. President, this point permission this may be a good time for me to stop at the next Pearl I will be finishing with will be quite lengthy.

MR. PRESIDENT: What you said it would be a good time to stop I think you missed one there. I think probably you should...

MR. JAMES H. JOHNSON: Mr., Sir, Excuse me.

MR. PRESIDENT: Very well, I will suspend proceedings until 2:15 p.m.

AT 12:30 P.M. THE HOUSE RECESSED

AFTER RECESS AT 2:30 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: I have to announce proceedings are resumed, before I recall the First Placed Member for Second Time to continue speaking, perhaps I might lay the Member's indulgence to read out the contents of a petition which has just reached me from one of our Members. It is from the Third Placed Member for West Bay and is addressed to the Speaker, Members and Clerks.

> "Hello There, Congratulations are first class, Wonderful work and wonderful. The Seychois are taking great care of us and I am falling in love with Seychelles and the people. I can only hope that actually be happy. Miss a good Seychois.
> Sophie"

I will give it to the Clerk so that if any Member wishes to see it, they may have the opportunity of doing so.

MR. D. EDMOND HOARE: To the privy to be back before the Speaker to rise, Sir. (LAUGHTER)

MR. PEPPERSACK: I would only like there to only change that one bill be back before this meeting is over.

Earlier there was one other thing which has been brought to my notice which I should have mentioned this morning, but I thought to do so when I was mentioning the economic and fisheries which I felt some Members would feel in knowing of the role of the death of the late Minister of Education. Some may that I learned yesterday sad of the death of the former Chief Minister of this territory, Mr. Sheridan Morris. I am sure that Members would wish me to express my regret at learning of that news.

The Minister of Works Member for Public Works.

MR. JAMES M. MORRIS: Mr. President, I would like to speak on another proposed bill which is before the House. This is a bill for a law to amend the Marine Conservation Act, 1978. Mr. President, I would congratulate myself with certain aspects of this, namely the development of marine parks in certain areas of the country's waters. However, in my opinion they have gone too far with this. I think the original proposal was for areas more offshore than what has been published in this newspaper. For instance, if I am reading this correctly, we can draw from backbone to midway down South Sound. It appears that fishing will be prohibited. There also appear to be areas in North Sound and in Cayladena, and in the South Sound area.

I heard it said on the radio that in the newspaper that a certain area in the North Sound would be prohibited for boats regardless of whether they were fishing or not. If that is so, this again is one of the more unreasonable areas of the South Sound and I am at a loss why there could not be a certain amount of activity in that general area. To make recommendations that our local people cannot fish within a hundred or the shoreline, I think again carries the process a little too far. Commissions by nature have been used to dealing with conditions from the sea bed and it will be very difficult, I think, to enforce this in the Legislature.

The marine parks are necessary for the future growth of tourism in the country and to benefit the inhabitants of the Islands in the future. I also associate myself with some of the enforcement measures in regard to check, detector and so forth. However, Mr. President, it is difficult to associate myself with certain sections of this bill, because we know that the powers of the persons Minister Executive Council are far reaching and they are usually contained by experts in their decisions. So what we may find in the end result further is that Regulations will be held that they cannot even see the people wanted to take a swim. I am very aware of those for reasoning powers and the manner in which it is intended to use them.

I am also against giving them the right to make blanket Regulations under this Bill for the fear of what it may do to our people. Some weeks ago there was a meeting around the Islands and I really feel that it was more than a success. It was a total fellowship attended by the total Caymanian Electoral Number of Executive Council had need to request to the car parking facility. This total fellowship was to overturn fishing in certain areas of the Islands for tourists. Because the people rose up against the total fellowship, there was tremendous hue fracking, and they were justly told that this would not apply to the local people. They could automatically be prevented because. It would apply only to the foreigners who came here. Well, Mr. President, believe me whether the real offshore islands of the Cayman Islands, there are very few people who are coming to the Cayman Islands, particularly if they come as tourists who are going out grouper fishing.

MR. JAMES H. PIPPY (CONTINUING): So what I am saying to this group is that I feel even the juveniles who there all along be reported the moral principles, but because the trial Judges did not have enough time on it to finally hunt out this material in their books.

If we look at section 3 of this proposed bill imposing civil offenses and penalties under the covered unfair practices is of the provisions here, we find that the fines proposed here is not exceeding $5,000, or a term of imprisonment not exceeding twelve months, or both such fine or imprisonment, "and in addition thereto the amount of compensation any person who is the owner or equipment that is to be utilized has been used for the purpose of committing or participating the commission of such offense". The qualification further part of it is, "for the extension of the owner for such purpose". This is an excessive fine. It would have been better to have proposed different types of fines for certain sections of the law.

For a fisherman who has been used to working late at night to feed a family meal and who may not be fully aware of the law when it is passed, and he may go out and do unlawful fishing. I do not know what the final may be. It may be only one or two. They then put him in jail for twelve months. They confiscate his boat and then they confiscate his brother's boat which he may happen to have nothing to do with because they do not look at the statement to be used, and they put him in jail for a year. Maybe they even confiscate the family members away from society. It is a ridiculous piece of legislation.

MR. K. KOKEBOK RIBU: So that is the fact?

MR. JAMES H. PIPPY: The law can be interpreted in any way that we wish to do it. What I am saying is that this law plainly states, "or the extension to its owner for such purpose". It is very broad. Somebody could make the whole attorney in his hand. He could be using one of these and commit an offense by violating any more search than he was supposed to search, or fish in an area in which he was not supposed to be fishing in. They could find plankton plankton in the other boat in his hand, and it would be ruled that he intended to use that boat as might allow it. Just because the other one. So I am thinking with reasonableness, and the word in the provision will be based with some good intentions.

MR. K. KOKEBOK RIBU: But that is not in the law.

MR. JAMES H. PIPPY: The Member should say in interpret the law when he gets up. And then we will receive him.

Mr. President, I do sympathize that for the people whom this may affect the penalties are very severe. After reading this I wonder why there was not about $500,000 put into the budget this year which it was hoped would be collected from fines in the courts, instead of the more than doubling which was done. I could not conscientiously be support this although I hope that we have more fines of legislation. However, I would ask that the Committee Steward "Reform of Executive Summit" consider this and otherwise making more changes in it.

We come to the most important bill which is the Shrimp Law, or a bill for a law to amend the Shrimp Law, Act 19 of 1973. This deals with amendments to section 3, 4A and 5B of the present Shrimp Law. Section 3 deals with electrical contractors under this law and it calls for $1,000 or twelve months imprisonment in place of the $500 fine at the present time and six months to section 4A, subsection (1) of section 3.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT (continuing): Mr. President, I can announce myself with that section and would be prepared to vote in favour of it.

Subsection (2) of section (5) of section 57 increases the fines from $500 to $2,000 and imprisonment from two years, where the present law is only six months. Again, for a conviction of that type, I would associate myself and will probably vote in favour of that section.

However, Mr. President, we come to section 65 where we get into more far reaching effects. This section says:

> "Whenever anyone may bring or cause or permit dangerously or recklessly, or at a speed or in a manner or in a condition which is dangerous to the public, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, including the nature, condition and use of the road or place and the amount of traffic which is actually at the time, or which might reasonably be expected to be on the road or place shall be guilty of an offence and liable
> (a) on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding $500 or to a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months or both;"

Again, Mr. President, with some minor amendments would, I would also support this section. I would like to have a little clarification on what is meant by "criminal" negligence or criminal carelessness or recklessly. From the legal mind of the House the Honourable Second Official Member where we come to consideration of this. The fine here is being increased from $500 to $2,000 or twelve months. When we have subsection (2) where the fine is going to be increased from $500 to $2,000.

Also we have section 67 which says:

> "Whenever anyone may bring any kind of vehicle or animal without due care or attention or without reasonable consideration for other persons shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding $500 or to a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months or both."

Like in a previous section and the increase to $2,000 for this, I just make it very difficult for me to support that particular section.

I can see the distance that the elected Members of Government would go in the saying of money should the case which may give another penalty, in order for them to spend up this year and not be at least $2 million in debt. However, I feel that we cannot give that opportunity to use this measure recklessly.

Mr. President, the question was put to this House dealing with the release from Northwood Estate of a certain person in the community and I feel strongly that a person with a person should be the one which this particular fine, the leniency and the money given to him was excessive, because there are many people who have been afflicted by accidental records of a minor nature in this country and such leniency has not been given to them in the past. I think in view recently a Magistrate which could come back to haunt me, and I think that it should never have been done.

MR. JAMES M. HOGGY (COLLINGWOOD): I know the manner in which this type of thing is usually dealt with, and I am quite aware that on the previous occasions it was turned down by the Elected Executive Council on recommendations that it should come back for consideration after at least a year of the sentence had been served. That year, I think, would have been up either at the end of February or beginning of March, which means that consideration could have been given to it in Executive Council or about the first April. However, I was pleased to hear that a petition signed by fifty people indicated that serving time would be honoured by the Elected Executive Council in as short a time.

The most puzzling of this legislation (possibly as a genuine attempt being made to curtail the freedom of interpretation in this House. Saying that Standing Order Seven does not apply to this eleven times. I would point out that in the previous administration which lasted for eight years, the Standing Order was never used on one occasion. It is therefore, Mr. Speaker, that every one who is in Elected Representative will have the full time which is necessary to speak within certain guidelines on the Resolution towards emphasis which comes before this House, and that right should never be curtailed, particularly when there is a minority group as has existed in this House.

Mr. Speaker, May's Parliamentary Practice generally that the rights of the minority are protected by the discretionary power which is given to the Chair and is completely exercised in refusing to accept a motion for closure. The Common Speaking Order, which is Standard of the House of Commons in England was a further protection of minority rights by providing the Standing Order 32;

> "If a division be held upon a question for the closure of debate under Standing Order No. 30 (Closure), that question shall not be decided in the affirmative unless it appears by the numbers declared from the chair that not fewer than one hundred Members voted in the majority in support of the motion."

This number in proportion is probably a high amount because not all Members attend the House of Commons sittings except on very special occasions.

I am pointing these important rules of order out to the House to ensure that the freedom of debate will continue unrestricted in this House as it has been in the past.

Mr. Speaker, much has been said in the past about the services of the Government Information Services which were eliminated last. The one factor against this was what was termed to be the excessive cost of operating such a facility. I wish to point to the budget where you observe where we are given that for the provision of the salary and emoluments for the staff and for seven others, for seven months the cost will be $74,000. That is only looking at the salary of one experienced person. Mr. Speaker, once we add to that the sums which would have to be paid if this person occupied quarters in the private sector, and so add the other attendant expenses with it, we will soon run up to the figure of $100,000 a year which was made before. We will also probably have a service which is not effective as it was had before.

There is a figure in the budget of $50,000 to help with pensioner rehabilitation. I suppose this may reach and hope that it will be carried through. However, again I will remind the Members of the House and the people of the country as a whole that like this was stimulated by the poor administration also.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT (CONTINUING): He had sent the Director of the Maritime Trade School an account for dismantling all the equipment of Northwood prison requesting taking an agreement to cover according the people who were transported there by Japanese three main type of trade. I am very glad that they have accepted one more of our ideas. In fact, so we think with you, there are many ideas in the budget. It is all a combination of things which were started by us.

Mr. President, I move to the point in my address where I deal with the old political whipping boy, Captain Aikman. Captain Aikman has formed it a duty to the country's history that he has pronounced that the country take a decisive step towards abolishing the future of civil aviation in this country. That step was taken in the form of this committee, because we chose to do this we had to break the established bond which LACSA had with the Cayman Islands.

At this point in our history it was a good thing that the Cayman Islands are flooded, we hope on solid rock, because the fall of this established bond would have taken us off the precipice that we just broke. It was such a drastic step. There have been in our history something which has come to benefit this country as for us with Members of Parliament, Capt. LACSA. But I am here to tell the House and tell them in no uncertain terms that everything which was made for the Cayman Islands under the LACSA agreement ended, and ends tremendously. The old records were brought here from Costa Rica and they are stored, I hope, in the vault in the underground section of the Government Administration Building. Should anyone take the time to peruse, everything is recorded there and it will prove the untruths which have been told by many people on the outside or next to by some Members of this House about the performance of LACSA.

It is true that Captain Aikman has had many difficulties to overcome but, Mr. President, the prosperity which has been experienced into this country in the last eight years would never have been experienced if we had not been masters of our own skies. If we had not been in a position that we could counter moves which were made by other countries and other companies, we would have been at the complete mercy of any airlines, and most foreign airlines would leave this country immediately if they were not in a position where they were at least asking others to breathing room. This history will be able to tell the great benefits which Captain Aikman has played in the development of this country.

Last year with the increased route structure and the operation into the Turks and Caicos Islands, the airlines should be making money on their participation route as the load factors are very high. It was a gamble taken which paid off and will pay off tremendously. In addition to that Captain Aikman was able to make an agreement with Cayman Airways from operations from the New York and Chicago. New York and Chicago were just two of the cities of the United States where hundreds & lots of tourist dollars have been generated from. We have offices in both cities but, Mr. President, we have not yet mounted any real effort to get the business from there as we should be getting. Recently, with the onset of Cayman Airways we have able to tap these markets, and speak on for on I am aware the load factors are very good. I hope that in the near of New York this can continue on a yearly basis rather than a seasonal basis.

In addition to that the company will also be able to derive revenue from other structure, and we have the re-joining business from the republic of Haiti. All of these things have added tremendously to the chance of Cayman Airways.

MR. JAMES K. POLK (CONTINUED): The balance sheet for Cayman Airways was prepared late last year by the auditors Price Waterhouse and Company. We did not have a chance to deal with it and table it before the last election. However, for the financial year ended 30th June, 1994, there is a significant factor to remember in Cayman Airways, and that is that the operational loss for 1994 was $18,188,288 compared to a loss in 1993 of $7,882,377. With the continuation of good management policies and with the appointment of experienced people, it is a possibility that if Cayman Airways continues to generate the income which it is doing at present, the airline may be in a position at the end of the financial year in June, 1995, to find out that it may only lose $2 million overall on the operation. The overall loss last year was $8,759,316. The depreciation which is included in that sum amounts to over $3 million last year which is a non-expendable cash item.

The deficit from the beginning of the operation has been $15,287,000. One of the problems which Cayman Airways has always faced is that it had to operate from time to time ... nearly all of the time on borrowed capital with a very high interest rate being paid. However, in addition to this I would point out to the House that although we have this huge $15 million in Cayman Airways which is money on deposit in United States Treasury funds, which is on record of the tax payers.

To fully understand what has been going on the two balance sheets should be analysed, but at least one should read the one we

In looking at this deficit we must consider what the present value of the planes would be if they should be sold, and also the increased value of the office buildings at the airports. The last figures which I mentioned are reflected in a lower value in the books of the company than they would be if they were both evaluated.

If we were to look at what Cayman Airways has done for the country, we look at the young people who have obtained their qualifications to a whom. We have young people today who are pilots of their airplanes, flight engineers and a couple of them are navigators who are very young in years of age. We know what these young people have accomplished for them, and we know that they would never have been able to do it if the country had not taken a bold step into the future.

The income paid to the Caymanian staff of Cayman Airways would probably be about $5.5 million a year. Most of the people there come a long way also. Furthermore, if we consider the multiplier effect from it, generates a huge amount of money into the economy of this country.

I would like to pose a question at this time to the Members of the House and the public at large, and that is what does Republic Airlines or the owners contribute to the Cayman Islands? In the case of Republic Airlines, although I do suspect them, I feel certain that their expenditure in the local labour force would not be half a million dollars a year. Look at the amount of Caymanians who would have well paying jobs and would have their futures if we were to liquidate Cayman Airways.

I heard a rumour on the road this past week, and I hope that we must never believe these rumours unless they are published in the Herald, the gospel of the kingdom, but I heard that the two Members associated personally with the airline had gone to the United Kingdom in the hope of selling the aircraft to one of the United Kingdom airlines. I hope that this is untrue, and I hope that these Members do not have such a thing in mind to do.

MR. JAMES M. BURKE (CONTINUING): When we consider the losses we have already sustained the losses which have occurred particularly on the Cayman Brac run, where we have had to use the private owner charter in a position where it cannot break even at five or four stations and accordingly, therefore, the people from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman are a part of the economy of Grand Cayman. They are part of the population of the Islands and we have to protect them. We have to give them the services which we are entitled to in Grand Cayman.

We should look at the overall value to the community which Cayman Airways is in. It is our calculation already - it amounts to the world at large that 18,000 people are accomplishing something.

Another factor which should be taken into consideration, Mr. President, is that according to statistics available at the Government Administration Building each overlay passenger to the Cayman Islands provides direct benefits to the Cayman Islands Treasury in the sum of about $60. There is from this various taxation methods which are used here. The average passenger is spending about $400 to $600 in our economy and that is the one which is generating the machinery which pushes Government wheels. So if we multiply that Government is getting $60 from every tourist who comes here, and if Cayman Airways had brought in and taken out 300,000 of those, Mr. President, we are then looking at direct benefits to the Cayman Islands Government of $18 million. So if we have lost $8.5 million out of that in the private operation, we are still ahead on the overall position.

In addition to this we must look at the other additional benefits which have accrued to Government. Let us look at the large amount of fees which are paid in landing fees which help to maintain our airports and help us to service the loan from Roberts Airport Terminal. Look at the permit fees which are paid. In addition the airline has to pay Customs to Government on the basis although it is a fairly small sum.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: (Interruption)

MR. JAMES M. BURKE: Sorry? Does the Member want a point of explanation? I will give it to him

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: No.

MR. JAMES M. BURKE: I thought he would like that. I'm sorry I did not understand what the Member said.

Mr. President, the value of Cayman Airways to our country is understood. I am hopeful that if the right steps are established it will be in nearly a profit position this year. Even so, Mr. President, we must be vigilant in order to continue on the moves which we make. The worst thing which could ever happen to Grand Cayman and the Cayman Islands would be for us to jeopardize our national carrier, just like our place in the market place to a foreign carrier, and then be subservients as we were in the days of LACSA.

The relationship, Mr. President, with LACSA was not a case of where we had 49 per cent as the majority shareholder and they had 51 per cent. It was the share of the money and the plane, and of the people of the Cayman Islands were the slaves. LACSA was the owners. We had people who were willing to give under that type of subjugation and hold it.

Another question arose, Mr. President, has been that Cayman Airways has enough fuel, as I indicated not a minute ago, to use borrowed money instead of private contribution.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT (CONTINUING): Mr. President, I commit all those who would attempt to hide from the people of this country the financial problems of tomorrow.

Our surplus balance at the end of October, 1969 stood at $661,000. At that point the Democrats were in excess of $30 million, and ever since this administration has been in power, in the months of November and December they have been in the surplus balance; they added about $9.5 million from the surplus revenue and General Revenues, and they have wound up with a deficit of $225,000. Really, Mr. President, what they have done to this is has cost the tax-payers of this country for those two presidents to keep the pendulum in office, over $1 billion a month. When we have come to the point where another attempt has been made to further deplete the General Revenues by asking for one-hour $2.5 billion this week to balance the budget. In just four and a half months since the election the present Administration Cabinet will have used up from General Revenues nearly $6.5 billion. So they have sought then the Democratic Senate Finance Member of Democratic Council proposed his submission to this purpose and said that the country was broke. It was not broke at that time, but it is beginning to get badly sore now, I have that he was very sensitive with his remarks but we really need a whip board to work on that way.

Mr. President, the future of our country looks bleak. It looks dark and depressing. These proposals a good politician game to try to accomplish the Ohio Valley coal miners from the House. However, we are prepared to help the people of this country here in spite of all our political differences the country must come first. The people put forward this fiscal budget, but we are prepared to offer ideas and work together with them for the benefit of the people. However, we are not prepared to be in a position of master and slave. We ask for the sensible thrift policies in our country and restore sanity to our system.

There is one particular person in Democratic Council whom I have to pray for, and that is the Democratic Secretary, because I think he has done a terrific job for Government and I know that he has the country at heart. I only hope that he has a very difficult task having to deal with these elected Members every day. I pray that God will give him the strength to carry him on having such a heavy load. (Interruption - Laughter) I want to have that to him.

MR. SPEAKER: Do you want to awaken him? (Laughter)

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: No, I am leaving that for the Second Elected Member of most day I do, Sir.

MR. W. ROBERT BOSI: Do you want me to speak now, or when?

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: No, no, not yet.

Mr. Speaker, I have finished the business for a very long time and I am pleased that I was able to do so because in my opinion it was important that someone about the other side of this picture. We should not be looking through the looking-glass just really our eyes on one side. Every argument has two sides. This has not been explained often because the true picture was not being presented to the people of this country.

MR. MIKE H. HOUSTON (HOUSTINGHAM): I think I have covered all matters which were in the Budget Address, the Hansard speech and the proposed powers for this year.

I hope that God will bless us all and that we can make out into a Budget which will be hotly debated by Members. I am only pointing out to the Members of the House and the people at large that there is a terrible problem and that we have a Withdrawal Budget before us, a Budget which has not been properly thought out. We must look for black and black times ahead of us unless a radical change is made in the direction of the present Elected Executive Council.

Mr. President, what I have said is not idle talk. It is the actual picture. Instead of looking at it emotionally I hope the Members of the Elected Executive Council will deal with it in a proper manner and will look at the suggestions which I have made and which are being made by the Unity Team representatives, and consider how they can best be used.

I thank you, Mr. President, for your tolerance and I thank the Members of this House.

MR. SPEAKER: I wonder whether before I invite any other Member to speak it may be convenient to take the afternoon break now, rather than assert a speech and have to go for five minutes. So I will suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes.

AT 2.33 P.M. THE HOUSE RESUMED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 3.50 P.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.

Proceedings are resumed. Continuation of the debate on the Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill, 1985. Does another Member wish to speak? The Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. CHARLES E. KENDALL: Mr. President, I would like to congratulate you and express my appreciation for your remarks and information thereon. I also wish to thank the Honourable Financial Secretary, the Honourable Third Official Member of this House for presenting such a detailed account of all financial activities within Government. These presentations were capably delivered and they provide important directions for the deliberations of this Honourable House.

Mr. Speaker, I will try to follow your example and be brief as possible. I remember well a saying of the Second Elected Member of Bodden Town, the late Sir Vassel Johnson Honourable House some years ago that the mind can only absorb what the bottom can endure. Mr. President, I realize that saying. However has reached that endurance point and I will not perform it too much. It is a pity that the previous speaker has failed to follow the words of wisdom spoken by his colleague.

MOW. SAINT-CHARLES (Translation): Mr. President, Mr. President, we believe we and the people have made their choice. Although a few members do not like the results they must try to learn and live with it for the next four years.

Mr. President, the First Elected Member for Riviere Rose said in his debate that the people are giving buckets of tears because of the decision in which they find themselves today. This might well be so, Mr. President, but he has not mentioned the reason why. If they are indeed crying buckets of tears it is because they are finding out more and more the economic problems the last administration has caused or to the present administration, and which are now coming to light.

I remember very well the day we talked to the faces of the people after the election, and people remarked on the accompaniment I used. Before the election they were afraid to voice their feelings for fear of victimization. Today, Mr. President, they are talking openly and freely. I have been talking with citizens of every and still receive congratulations and good wishes for the task ahead. People are happy and there is no doubt about it, Mr. President, a lot of good has been made by the opposition to this House about the ample opportunity to sustain fees which this Government has introduced. Increasing fees is nothing new and I would like to remind the opposition that their administration also raised revenue by increasing user fees in order to balance their budget on several occasions.

Mr. President, I have been listening very carefully to the debate, and I am alarmed at some of the misleading statements which have been made. I have not to talk myself if I was hearing correctly. I believe that the knowledgeable leaders of the last Government would have told the people the true financial position in which they left our Island on the 16th November, 1982. I also expected them to account for their past deeds and to ask the people to forgive them for their poor mis-management over the past two years in particular. Instead, Mr. President, I have heard nothing but wild and unfounded statements in an attempt to justify their reckless and disastrous financial policies which have brought our country to the brink of disaster. It is quite clear that they cannot explain or defend their position. In order to divert attention away from the fiasco and penalties they have to foreseen, they have resorted to criticizing the present administration which has only had three months, not five months as the leader said, in office.

The measure which this debate has made clear to us is that we have never taught people here what words mean. It is not the politics of the people who elected them, but rather their own personal welfare.

Mr. President, the budget before this Honourable House has been made up from the crumbs left over from the last administration. We were presented with a meagre which showed a deficit of $17 million. There was no way we could keep such a budget in this Honourable House. Such cut expenditures could be realized no further as had no choice but to bring in new measures which would balance the budget.

Mr. President, this budget is proof of the concern of the people of our Islands about the ever financial position in which the Irish Town Government has put us today. I promise that our Government will do its utmost to remedy this mess, and that when the financial problems improve, which I am confident that they will, measures will be taken to relieve our people to the possible way and to reduce the cost of living charges and wherever we can.

MR. CARL STAPLES (CONTINUING): Mr. President, when a person is unable to manage his own financial affairs successfully, how can that person be expected to run the affairs of our country successfully. I pose that question, Mr. President.

The estimates also show that the Utility Fuels Development brought forward a surplus from 1982 of $1,600,995 and ended up with a deficit of $968,577, a total of $2,569,572. The Utility Fuels took its cash of $6,112,616 from General Revenue. The total funds used by them were $8,670,187 in Estimates Third Budget.

In Estimates This 1983 Budget we will have to have the sum of $2,288,000 from General Revenue. Mr. President, we are taking $2,188,000 back from General Revenue that the Utility Fuels did in 1984. Thus, Mr. President, these projects themselves and will pass on the people that we are spending their money wisely.

Mr. President, much has been said about the Revenues of this country. I am taking the Financial Secretary's Budget Address and I find that on the 4th January, 1983, the Revenues stood at $210.7 million. Estimates carried for 1983 was 81 million but when these amounts are added together we have $11.1 million. A sum of $9.4 million is for specific appropriations for 1984, and this was the Utility Fuels Development, was taken from General Revenue leaving a balance of $7.7 million. The balance brought forward to 1984 is therefore $7.7 million, of which Government has agreed with Provident Bank to leave the present fiscal deposit plus revenue earned for 1983 with them. The reason for this arrangement is to ensure Barbados that there will be $6.6 million to purchase the Power Buildings as agreed. That means, Mr. President, that we have an unappropriated balance of $1.1 million in Revenue.

If we have to take the $2.2 million to balance the 1984 Budget, we will only have a balance of approximately $800,000. Now, Mr. President, I am not making much the balance of accounts as shown on Government's books. I am dealing with the actual cash available for expenditure. I am afraid, Mr. President, that we as Social Democrats on this side of the House will have to use the financial reserves on the other side of the House for some good help, because we cannot have $2 million when there is only $1 million left.

Furthermore, Mr. President, where is the money coming from to pay off the millions of dollars which Cabinet already owes. I am right that it will not be long before Government will be called on again to make good some of its overdrafts.

Mr. President, the people have heard for themselves the Manifesto on which the Utility Fuels Development would have taken this country and they have welcomed us power. The people, Mr. President, would not appreciate gloom and depression. They would not be fooled again and continuation.

I do not believe that any sound thinking Barbadian would agree us to follow their advice because the country would be driven hard and fast on the way of Bankruptcy. The more one examines and studies the financial condition of this country today, the more evidence one finds of the Utility Fuels Development and mis-management over the past ten years or somewhere. From 1976 to 1981 the Government of the so called Utility Fuels that took for the country. I am one of the first people to admit it. However, Mr. President, like a car which gave a good deal of trouble, they worked to scrap and after that they have scrapped and created Government funds, and it has put us in a financial bind.

SAS-CAPT. CHARLES E. KIRKPATRICK (CONTINUING): If anything was to stop any new constructions and plans of Cayman Airways, we would be in some difficulty today. The main reason for this security is the unbelievable manner in which the affairs of Cayman Airways in particular have been conducted.

In May, 1982 the Government paid off the indebtedness of the airline and also for the one BAC 1-11 aircraft, on the 2nd November, 1982, the same year, the Hon. Financial Member of Cayman Islands also was then responsible for the airport, announced that Cayman Airways had acquired two 737-200 aircrafts to replace the two BAC 1-11s. This was at a cost of U.S. 9 million. We were told that the replacement of aircrafts would enable the airline to become a viable operation. We now have the facts in our possession and find that the two 737-200 aircrafts have substantially increased the losses by an alarming amount. It is approaching $3 million of the new earnings just simply plus Government's injection of millions of dollars a year to keep it flying. This cannot be allowed to continue affecting the Treasury.

Steps have already been taken to reduce expenditure, but it is doubtful that the present aircraft will ever break even because they are too expensive to operate. Perhaps the Member who was responsible for the airplane now realizes that the two BAC 1-11 aircrafts were not the answer for the losses sustained by it, and that the 737-200 aircrafts, although desirable, are too costly to operate on the routes we fly and the usage we have for them.

Some of the statements made during this Session show the lack of responsibility among the Duty Free Members, which cost them dearly in the last election. The financial problems which we have today were created by them. They are fond of saying that when they took over the Government there was no money in the Treasury, but they never mention that they found no Government liabilities either. Today the situation is much different. We have inherited many financial problems, the principal of which is Cayman Airways' disastrous financial position which concerns daily.

This is the present Government's task to investigate and the affairs of Cayman Airways before it sinks the country. For years they have misled the public on the financial position of Cayman Airways, withholding accounts and other information. When we asked questions in this House we were told that we would get them in due course. When asked what the reason was the reply was "the course of the country". Now Mr. Speaker, they will be getting the same problem, believe you me.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town while he was the Member responsible for Tourism Aviation and Trade, stood on the floor of this Honourable House a year ago, and declared that he would keep the airline flying if it took the last penny in the country. Well, Mr. Speaker, that statement is nothing else but a reflection of what has caused the present situation of this country. The former Government had the priorities wrong. Because, lack of self respect, would keep that on sinking is detestable like as what prevails, Mr. Speaker. If we spend every penny and the last penny on the airlines or any other items we may think that we need, I can you how will we provide medical care for our people, educate our youth or develop our social services. With what will we pay the Civil Service and maintain the business of Government. With what will we provide the many needs and amenities our people want and need in this country?

I have said before and I repeat, Government of itself has nothing. Before it can provide something for the people it must first raise the money from them to pay for it.

DOR.CAPT.CHARLES D.KIMBROUGH (CONTINUING): There is no such delay in this country as a veto upon a specific section of the republic, or upon the less fortunate or wealth ones, or the back ward during their meeting in opposition Members. This kind of talk, Mr. President, is nothing but political phrases. It can serve no purpose but to cause the needs of discontent among our people. All based are ultimately borne by the consumer whether that consumer be rich or poor, and this Government is conscious of that fact.

The money derived from these taxes we used to pay for the services which the people want and demand, that is providing there is a responsible and a responsive Government. However, a Government cannot be held to be responsible when its leader declares that it will use the last penny in the treasury to keep income taxes flying while other needs and necessities go unheeded. Mr. President, saying it was not enough. They almost did it, and that is the end of the whole procedure. We still do not own a single bolt and the entire personnel is increasing daily.

In recent years the Government has been much further removed the duty from some items. Let me tell you how this was done. When they took off the duty from chicken and potatoes, Brinkley plays a package of a few pennies on these items, they then turned around and theoretically decreased the freight rates on airline cargo, thus enabling us the kind of food on every plane brought duty free country by air. In spite of a reduction in the consumers, these prices have risen. This is what I call politicial phrases, Mr. President, political phrases which cannot only be deceive the people and to mislead them. This Government needs revenue and so we must tell the people so, and tell them why. It is nothing but sheer deception for Government to make people who are living off a few pennies of duty on one or two items and then to take from the dollars somewhere else.

Mr. President, this Government intends to tell the people the truth at all times. We feel that they are entitled to know the facts. If there is no money they must know it. If there are funds to be paid they must know it. If there are new programs which will cost money, they must know it.

Mr. President, the people have elected us to run the business of Government, their business for them and we shall not take away or will take the drink of the minorities.

Much has been said in this Session about the sick and the poor. How are these sick and who are the poor? By what standards and what norms are we identifying them? Last we left some that which as many other developing countries have fallen into we should seriously consider that question also, as well as the question of what we can a Government in these Islands can do to alleviate the plight of the less fortunate.

Over 3,000 years ago our Lord Jesus, the greatest teacher of all time addressed himself to this problem which has stayed with us from the beginning of time, and will continue as be predicted until the end of time. I cannot answer all the problems in which he mentions the poverty and sickness around a few minutes. We must not handle the sick and the blind, and discussing the lepers, giving them all an equal chance to go out and help themselves. We as a democratic Government are not supposed to support the people as the Communists nations. Our role is to provide a good educational system and a good and proper health care system for our people, also seek to maintain a society in which there are jobs and opportunities for everyone to make a decent living.

GOVERNMENT CHANGES & ECONOMIC RESPONSIBILITY: It seems nonsense to preside these things, Mr. President, but previously the money we collected was the end of it. There is an old and true saying. It is not what one has, but how one makes it that counts. A lot of nonsense has been published and spoken during the last term. The people have dismissed with the nonsense provided, and made their dissatisfaction known on 18th November, 1964. Now, just three months later, we find the leaders of that Government putting themselves forward as the champions of the poor as they call it. Mr. President, they spent eight years in office, millions of dollars and a lot of time talking about the poor. But they did nothing or very little to alleviate their plight. All they did was talk, talk, talk as they are doing now.

Mr. President, the old people will not be shown... Some time ago it was announced that the Hon. Finance for Sedom Town, the leaders of the opposition, said at a public meeting that they had made the money in the Treasury last they would spend it as they saw fit. That was not a responsible attitude, Mr. President. As I said before, it was that attitude which is the direct cause of our present financial difficulties. I cannot go to my business and spend ten shillings carelessly. The money is not mine. It belongs to the business and it can only be spent as the Government see fit, by the Parliament of the Dominion Nations, to pay the staff, to replace the stock, to meet overheads such as electricity and phone bills, and so on. Mind would my business be, Mr. President, if every time a dollar appeared, I grabbed it and said that I had made it and I would spend it as I saw fit? I tell you where it would be. It would be where this Government was on 18th November, 1964 and where the opposition would like to see it again.

I see, Mr. President, would like to see our country free from poverty, free from disease, free from ignorance, free from suffering, and most of all free from ignorance. However, we cannot accomplish this by taking increases or spending every penny in the Treasury to keep the electors happy. It requires hard, hard and sensible planning.

I am not for opposition. Opposition is good. However, it must be responsible opposition. Can it be called responsible, Mr. President, for elected members of this Assembly to walk in while an appeal is being by trying to maintain the people here believing that Government is going to oppose them?

This Government was elected in the 18th November, 1964, because the people wanted a change from the irresponsible and wasteful policies of the former Government. Mr. President, we intend to provide that change so whether the opposition votes for it or not it matters not. If so the end of our four years of responsibility the people feel differently, they will do to this administration just what they did to the party from that Government sat out.

Mr. President, we believe the people are reasonable people. We believe that they are capable of viewing the situation and understanding it when they are given the facts. I believe that it is for us to endeavour and re-examine the programmes of those Islands from both the short range and long range points of view. We should not merely attempt to consider the way other countries are progressed. We should develop policies designed to meet our own peculiar problems in the light of past experience.

We have a few years from now, that a good economy and a good life for our children which only results from plans which maintain our political stability and enhance our financial position.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL (OPPOSITION): Our future will be secure only if we construct economical and efficient telephone systems. Mr. Speaker, the second greatest asset of this administration is the value of our civil service. It must be kept in mind keeping in mind the need to commit unnecessary expenditures. The staff increases the recurrent expenditure considerably. Other recurrent expenditure for the year 1980 is $146,883,095 which is 75.2 per cent of our total revenue. If the administrative expenditure of $3,589,252 is added it will take all but one cent of the total revenue of this country to run it.

Mr. Speaker, all of us should be concerned knowing that it has taken such a large percentage of our revenue to keep the wheels of Government turning. I therefore that we have reached a danger point and we must thoroughly examine and take immediate action now while we still have time. Employment in the private sector must be stimulated. I refer in particular to the areas of tourism and banking where we need to develop local expertise.

It should be noted that last year 693 persons were directly employed in Banking, and 75 per cent of these were Caymanians. Bearing in mind the enormous revenues from tourism we must cultivate the positive attitude of our people towards visitors. We must promote our tourism and take maximum advantage effectively, using discretion when necessary.

I believe the collection of duty outstanding system still needs us in this respect.

We must continue to cooperate fully with countries and Governments fighting the drug problem which has serious international implications threatening our free society. We are reminded one of the Caribbean nations for this vicious evil and we must do all we can to prevent the involvement of Caymanians. If left unchecked the drug traffic could cause us to lose all that we and our forefathers fought so hard to achieve. We must make every effort to rid our islands of this evil menace which will destroy our children and bring this country to its knees. Mr. Speaker, I pledge my full support to assist in eradicating drugs in our islands.

Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, Mr. Speaker, as has been stated in Her Excellency Speech has most of the infrastructure necessary to accommodate development now complete on Cayman Brac. When the new terminal building at Gerrard Smith Airport now been completed and the road through the Bluff, I am sure that we will witness developments to help us to expand our economy and to provide employment for our people.

Since the beginning of the new year we have had several travellers of cruise ship at Cayman Brac, and I have been informed that the prospects of getting additional businesses are good. The re-introduction of the jet service to Cayman Brac on the 21st September, 1988, has had a stimulating effect on our tourist industry, and we are getting more visitors on a regular.

On the 8th February, this year Cable and Wireless Bahamas Ltd. officially commenced cable system into operation at Cayman Brac. This new system will provide high quality telephone, telex, data transmission and the internet to Cayman Brac. It means that a new era in the history of telecommunications has become a reality for the people of Cayman Brac and they will now enjoy a first class service.

We hope to start work on the construction of the Bluff road as soon as the funds have been approved by the Finance Committee.

NEW EAST CAYMAN DEVELOPMENTS (CONTINUED): A tender for the new terminal building will soon be placed, and when complete will be submitted to the European Development Fund representative for final approval. It is hoped that work on this project will start in the second half of 1976. At the First Elected Session for Cayman Brac said he was aware the old terminal building will have to be removed in order to comply with International requirements relating to airfields before it can be classed as an international airport.

Mr. Speaker, I have to a previous agreement with the people of Cayman Brac. The Government is aware of the hardship that the people in the Sister Islands have had to pay in port rent duty on excess freight charges levied by the existing sea shipping companies on cargo going there. This is not a just position and I am confident that my colleagues in Executive Council will agree to the removal of this anomaly.

As stated in the budget Address the Sister Authority is aware of the supply of potable water in Cayman Brac and plans are being formulated to provide an emergency supply this year.

The capital projects have been reviewed and it is hoped that work will be available to carry out other needed projects as the financial position improves.

I explained that the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman proposed that support be given to carry out a further study of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. In this regard the First Elected Member for Bodden Town said that as they say Cayman Brac and Little Cayman might be the future hope of the Cayman Islands. This is one of the few constructive remarks which he has made in his long-repetitious debate. Mr Speaker, I recognized that the sister Islands had great potential years ago, and it was for this reason that I persuaded the 1970 to 1972 administration to place priority on the infrastructure of Cayman Brac. I was then the Member responsible for Communications Works and Planning administration, and both of the sister Islands took great strides, particularly Cayman Brac.

During this period a new civic centre was built and opened. The Radio Service was expanded with funds which were received from Cayman energy, and Government also put in a substantial amount of money to bring up the grade of the hospital. New X-ray equipment and a new refrigerator were also added.

A postage stamp was purchased and postage collection was started for the first time on the 1st July, 1975.

A new warehouse was built at the Creek which was the first phase in the development of a port facility for Cayman Brac.

In 1975 the Government decided to send a delegation to the Caribbean Development Bank in Barbados for the purpose of seeking loan funds for capital projects. The Financial Secretary, and the Chief Engineer of the day and myself were the delegates. Our visit was successful and funds were approved for the new dock, the Bluff road and also for the Gerrard Smith Airport.

The new administration building was started in 1975 but was not completed until 1978. Plans were approved to have the Public Works Department at the present site although it was not completed until 1979.

MR. CAPT. CHARLES A. KNOTTENBELT (CONTINUED): Mr. President, the reason I have mentioned the difference developments is to show the Members of this Honourable House and the public how far the Minister Elected Member for Rodney Bay will go to distort the true facts and mislead the people. We know just well who the driving force was behind the development of Cypress Lane and Little Cypress, but he fails to give full credit to his Unity Labour Movement colleagues. Mr. President, a drowning man will grasp at a straw. I fail to see what political mileage he hopes to get now. The elections were over four years on the 14th November when he and his Unity Team Colleagues were soundly trounced and put out of office. Instead of accepting his defeat in a gracious and statesmanlike manner, he was acted like a child who has, and I quote, "had his cookie taken".

Mr. President, I will turn to the Rural Authority. The Rural Authority provided four markets and started to provide permanent entrepot for produce sales. There are plans to construct three of these recently at Dennery South and the other at Mont Sec. The decision to construct the recently at Mont Sec was made by the corporation but facing unprecedented or corrosion type in Soufriere town. In addition, the drainage at Mont Sec is a constantly used efforts drive pretreatment and safety. It will also help the economy at Mont Sec and should bring more tourist dollars to that district. I would like similar to the one at Soufriere will have to be built when we have found a suitable site. It is hoped that the pretreatment entrance will be constructed during the third quarter of 1985.

Mr. President, the four Elected Members of Executive Council visited all the districts with their Principal Secretaries and the Chief Engineer of Public Works Department.

The capital road programme will be carried out in accordance with the wishes of the Members of the Legislative Assembly in each District.

I have noted the comments of the Elected Member for South West with regard to the need for a permanent and maintenance person to care for the public buildings in his district. I assure the Member that this matter will be given my consideration.

Mr. President, the Hon. Financial Member for Soufriere Town said that developers were waiting for a permit from the Government to grow tea. Mr. President, we have given that permit. In November, 1984 we repealed the Development and Planning, Investment Law, 1982, which compelled them to pay a fee of $3,500 per unit to consultants before they even started. We have also spoken to the developers of the Jalousie Hill Resort and we have been assisting them in every way. They are hoping to start construction of their resort project in May. They told us that they will employ between 300 and 350 construction workers, which means that they will need every construction man they can get.

There are other projects which have been approved and may materialise are being considered as well. Mr. President, the future outlook for our Nation is bright and I feel confident that we are on the threshold of a new era in our development. I am sure that this will prove my confidence and that 1985 will be a prosperous year for all Saintonians.

To sum up my response to the Budget Address of the Financial Secretary, I would like to underscore the need for financial restraint. With increasing budget expenditure it has been necessary to curtail a substantial number of projects and services where possible capital expenditure and new services.

MR. CARL CHARLES [LIBERAL]: We also have to acknowledge that because necessary, but we must bear in mind that revenue necessary must not mike us lose our competitive edge in comparison with other offshore financial centres.

I believe that the measures which we have taken are inevitable, while preserving our economic base. I believe that the Cayman Islands will continue to prosper if we promote our country the way we have been advantageously.

We have an enviable heritage to preserve and if we act responsibly and wisely we will continue to enjoy our prosperity in the future.

Mr. President, I support a Bill for a Law to appropriate certain expenditures for the purposes of the financial year, 1992.

I thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: There are just five minutes until we would normally adjourn. What may be useful is for me to invite any Member to comment on a private. Is anyone else who is not speaking now I should be quite ready to invite the Honourable First Official Member to move the adjournment. Let us just give them a moment to decide. I think we have nobody else wish to speak.

Would the Honourable First Official Member like to move the adjournment then.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.
Personal statements are resumed.
Questions. The First Elected Member for Roseau Town. Has the Member made arrangements for any colleague to ask the question standing in his name?

MR. G. MALIC SCOTT: Mr. President, I am prepared to ask the question.

HON. MICHAEL J. JAMES: Under Standing Order 9(5).

MR. PRESIDENT: Yes, I thought so - I was looking hard for it. Thank you very much. I thought that there was such a provision. Very well, that will be in order.

Q U E S T I O N

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR ROSEAU TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SENIOR OFFICIAL MEMBER RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT.

(On the absence of the First Elected Member for Roseau Town, the Second Elected Member for Roseau Town asked the question).

MR. AS: Will the Member state whether Government will consider presenting legislation to this Honourable House in the immediate future to institute a monetary authority aimed at boosting the Central Bank for the country?

ANSWER: There are currently no plans to introduce legislation to provide for the establishment of a Eastern Caribbean monetary authority or Central Bank.

As the House will be aware, legislation amending the Currency Law has been presented from time to time which unfortunately have dictated new currency and banking arrangements. Thus, the Currency Law (Revised) already provides for the Currency Board to carry out certain operations, more generally associated with a monetary authority, in addition to the normal function of the issue and redemption of currency. I refer specifically to the ability of the Board to accept foreign funds, and to make short-term advances to the local banks and to calculate a clearing house system. In addition, a major function of a monetary authority/Central Bank, namely the supervision of the banking sector, is carried out by a separate Government Department.

Government, advised by the Currency Board is constantly keeping under review the most viable to implement fully the existing powers of the Currency Board or to seek additional powers for a central monetary institution in order to meet the growing needs of the Islands. At present, no changes in the existing arrangements are considered necessary.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

DR. LLEWELYN A. FRANCIS: Supplementary, Mr. President. The question arised - would the Member consider presenting legislation - I wonder if he would advise the House, since there are no immediate plans for introducing a monetary authority, of his understanding of the functions of a monetary authority?

MR. SPEAKER: I think that I would like to see the first

MR. PRESIDENT (CONTINUING): ...answer before considering the supplementary.

Yes, I think that is a perfectly proper supplementary - it embodies one of part of the answer to the first question, so I will allow it.

HON. E.C. JESSEMAN: Mr. President, a monetary authority [illegible] a Currency Board and a Central Bank in concept and execution. It performs all the Currency Board functions and, indeed, the Currency Law would provide adequate basis for a small monetary authority.

MR. DAVID A. DABUA: Supplementary, Mr. President. The answer received was that a monetary authority would fall between the functions of a Currency Board and a Central Bank - would the Member state whether in his opinion he feels that we have developed to the stage where we should be looking into the development of a monetary authority for this country?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think, with respect, he could treat the answer to the original question, the last paragraph of the answer to the original question.

MR. EDWARD A. ASPREY: With respect, Mr. President, I think the final section of the answer - whether there are moves to introduce legislation to provide for the establishment of a monetary authority, so we would not have answer of my question, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Will the hon. gentleman agree whether he considers one necessary?

MR. EDWARD A. ASPREY: My supplementary question, Mr. President sir - In view of the commitment of our country, the answer we have been given, that it is felt that it is high time we should, in fact, be looking into the development of a monetary authority for the Cayman Islands, since he mentioned in answer to my supplementary that it does, in fact, fall between the functions of a Currency Board and a Central Bank.

MR. PRESIDENT: Very well. In my present view it has already been answered, but if the Member is not clear about the answer, I will allow the supplementary in order to enable the Chief Official Member to put the matter beyond any doubt.

MR. JAMES A. BODDEN: Mr. President.....

MR. PRESIDENT: No, the supplementary can be answered.

HON. E.C. JESSEMAN: Mr. President, I do not even know what the supplementary is.

To my view the powers of the Currency Board at the moment have not been fully exercised, therefore it would seem to me that to move from a position of a Currency Board where you use only maybe a few of the powers which it presently has, to a monetary authority, I think, Mr. President, would be a bit premature.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member for North Side.

MR. D. KENNETH BANKS: Could the Member advise, Sir, whether in

MR. [illegible]: [illegible] that if such a necessary authority were to become a source of great revenue for Government, it would not be essential to re-introduce exchange control but it [illegible] become so simple.

MR. [illegible]: Currently, as I understand, exchange control, banking supervision and matters relating to currency is what would be considered by either a monetary authority or a Central Bank. I do not think that at this present stage of our development that the moving on to establish a monetary authority is going to provide a great deal of income for the Cayman Islands Government.

I think, as I said in the answer, the monetary authority that should be [illegible] at any stage there would be the financial community [illegible] the fees and [illegible] some income, that we will go, but at the moment we see no need.

MR. [illegible] [illegible]: Supplementary, Mr. President. I note the question raised by the member from North Side until it appears to me somewhat redundant.

MR. D. [illegible]: Mr. President....

MR. SPEAKER: Order, order. The Member can ask her questions with statements. You must just ask questions, supplementaries.

MR. [illegible]: Mr. President, I am attempting to ask a supplementary. Perhaps if you would be a little tolerant I would, Sir. I had to make that point for me to make my supplementary.

My supplementary has to do with the answer the Third Official Member made regarding the [illegible] of the monetary authority. Without a monetary authority we have specialist on exchange control matters in this country, that is why I said it was redundant. My question is -- is it the intention [illegible] a monetary authority can not fully understood why a feasibility study has not really been undertaken by Government. May I explain why I made that statement, Sir?

MR. SPEAKER: Mr. [illegible], you cannot go into long explanations. You have asked a question, it can be answered.

MR. [illegible]: My question, Sir, is it because....

MR. SPEAKER: You have asked already, you have asked your question, is it because.....why you have interrupted me. All right ask the question again because the Minister may have forgotten it now.

MR. [illegible]: Supplementary. Is it because the whole matter of a monetary authority is not fully understood by Government why a feasibility study has not yet been undertaken by Government?

MR. [illegible]: Mr. President, the Government understands that a monetary authority is, that is why I am saying the answer, that I do not think it is necessary. We have looked at the experience from time to time using the facilities and expertise of the Bank of England, and as we all know, the Bank of England has been responsible, for many, many years in establishing Central banks

HON. F. C. PROCTOR (Continuing): ...in various countries of the world as well as monetary authorities. So we understand what a monetary authority is, Mr. President.

MR. LEONARD A. FIGARO: Supplementary, Mr. President. Is the Minister sure that a monetary authority's functions are other than exchange control functions?

HON. F. C. PROCTOR: Mr. President, as I indicated earlier, it is only one of the functions that a Central Bank or a monetary authority may find itself dealing with, and that is exchange control. In the Cayman Islands there is no exchange control, but in other parts of the world there are exchange control regulations in place. It also deals with the supervision of the banking system and the issuance of currency.

MR. C. RAYO ARCHER: May I ask the Minister what is the money supply now known to be inadequate to our times, would he look into the establishment of either a Central Bank or a monetary authority which would, more or less, replace the money supply.

MR. SPEAKER: That supplementary seems to me,...

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: I am asking if for that reason he would look into the establishment - it is very relevant, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: What is very relevant?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: A supplementary question is very relevant to the answer.....

MR. SPEAKER: I am not saying the supplementary is irrelevant - all I was saying was the supplementary seems to me to contain a statement, or an expression of opinion, which may be out of order. You said the money supply.....

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Sir, I am simply asking if the Minister will look into the establishment of a monetary authority or a Central Bank so as to guarantee the smooth flow of the money supply, which, at this time, from the budget, has been shown to inadequate to the.....

MR. SPEAKER: It is that part of the question that seems to me to be out of order. If you think it is a question, not in an expression of opinion that the money supply seems to be out of order or something, then the question will be in order.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Then, Mr. President, I will put it this way - will the Minister look into the establishment of a monetary authority or a Central Bank so as to guarantee the smooth flow of the money supply.

HON. F. C. PROCTOR: That would be acceptable.

HON. T. C. MCCARTHY: Mr. President, the money supply - by that I take it, he is talking about the domestic money supply - is still quite small, and, as I indicated in the answer, we are monitoring the situation. Whenever it becomes necessary we will do something about it.

We are not against looking at it; we are basically saying that we are constantly monitoring the situation, so we are aware what the problem is and when we feel it is necessary we will take action having legislation to the House.

MR. TYRONE A. ELLERBE: A supplementary, Mr. President. In view of the expanded jurisdiction of a monetary authority, would the Member state whether he would be prepared to consider a feasibility study into the establishment of a monetary authority to determine whether such a body would be viable for this country?

MR. P. C. JAGGERNAUTH: Mr. President, the Government would take on at any time an examination.

MR. LINWOOD A. PETERKIN: Mr. President, I do not think this answers my question. What I really asked was would the Member be prepared to undertake a feasibility study to determine the viability of a monetary authority?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think he gave an answer - it may not have been an answer that satisfied him, but it was an answer.
The Member for North Side.

MR. D. ERROL STUART: Could the Member state, Sir, whether Government is not at this time satisfied with the present arrangement that the Currency Board and the Banking Inspection unit if it is not, in his view, performing the functions adequately?

MR. P. C. JAGGERNAUTH: Mr. President, it is my view, and I believe in the view of Government, we are satisfied with the Bank Inspection section of Finance and Development; we are also satisfied with the Currency Board operations at the present time.

MR. D. ERROL STUART: A further supplementary, Sir. Could the Member indicate whether he feels the private sector is being adequately served by the arrangements and whether they are satisfied with these arrangements?

MR. P. C. JAGGERNAUTH: Mr. President, as the Member responsible for the financial community of these Islands, I have never heard any statement by any member of the financial community that they are dissatisfied with the Bank Inspection section or the Currency Board's functions. Therefore, in the absence of this information and taking into account the positive side, where people have made statements that the Bank Inspection section is running smoothly and they are quite happy with it, namely, the Currency Board functions.

MR. LINWOOD A. PETERKIN: Mr. President, a supplementary. Could the Member state whether he is aware that apart from maintaining the private sector, that part of his responsibility is to advise this Government possible measures which internationally are accepted?

MR. P. C. JAGGERNAUTH: Yes, Mr. President, I am aware that the Financial Secretary's responsibility is to be the financial and economic adviser to this Government.

MR. LINWOOD A. PETERKIN: Mr. President, another supplementary. Would the Member state whether he is aware that the functions of a monetary authority would perhaps be to monitor the exchange control of currency i.e. to U.S. dollars?

MR. P. C. JAGGERNAUTH: Mr. President, it all depends on whether that be considered the appropriate thing to do at this particular time.

MR. LINWOOD A. PETERKIN: Mr. President I am not going to make a statement but would the Member state whether he is aware of the amount of money that is generated through this function alone that is not retained

MR. LAWSON A. PIERSON (CONTINUING): ... by the U. banks in this country?

MR. [illegible]: Yes, Mr. President, I am aware.

MR. LAWSON A. PIERSON: Mr. President, a further supplementary, in view of the Member's answer, would he advise whether he feels that such a provision would be beneficial to this country and would bring in a lot of added and needed revenue?

MR. [illegible]: Mr. President, since we have a few minutes we have to take think about the commercial banks that are operating in Puerto Rico and the services that they are giving to the Commonwealth as well as to the domestic population, and while it may come that a panel would be appointed and the possibility of making huge sums of money through a monetary authority. It is a matter of Government's policy decision at the time. On that score, Mr. President, it takes more than me to make that policy.

MR. LAWSON A. PIERSON: What is the reason for a possibility study, Mr. President. Would the Member kindly whether he has or will done any possibility to determine the benefits that would accrue to Government since this function is not basically a function of a commercial bank

MR. [illegible]: Mr. President, as I gave in the answer, the Treasury Board is monitoring the situation in the private sector. We have not done a financial analysis of how much the monetary authority would save should it go in this direction, but it is not something that would take us years to do, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member from North Side,

MR. [illegible]: Mr. President, would the Member write the Bill or not the immediate past Government Stabilization Law Reform Act?

MR. [illegible]: I do not really think that is a relevant supplementary.

MR. [illegible]: Mr. President, may I ask the Member first upon the benefits taken would accrue to Government revenue-wise, does he also consider that the establishment of a Central Monetary Authority would also help in times of inflation to reduce the money supply and in times of recession, like the present time, to increase the money supply?

MR. PRESIDENT: I have called the Member to avoid expressions of opinion, and like the present time, might be considered an expression of opinion, but the part of the question is in order.

MR. [illegible]: Sen. Mr. President, but I was asking that as a statement of fact, not an opinion.

MR. PRESIDENT: It is somewhere a matter of opinion whether something is a fact or not, but let us have the supplementary please.

MR. [illegible]: Mr. President, the money supply in this country is very small, that is the domestic money supply, and it is a scientific point as to whether the monetary authority should be initiating a new possible monetary policy which puts all unnecessary money supply within the country and hopefully eliminates the economy started.

MR. LINWOOD A. HOLTON: Mr. President, a supplementary. Is the Member aware, Sir, that the functions of exchange rates fall out of the Bank of Canada and really should be conducted through the Government's monetary authority or similar organization?

MR. SPEAKER: I think that is an expression of opinion also, and if you would like to rephrase the supplementary slightly differently without expressing opinions.....

MR. LINWOOD A. HOLTON: Mr. Speaker, could the Member state whether or not he is aware that the functions of a monetary authority may entail the control of exchange rates that is not being considered by the A Bank?

HON. T.C. DOUGLAS: Mr. President, sometimes I think we are dealing with a Central Bank type, and not just a monetary authority, because a Central Bank is a different institution altogether from what we are talking about, namely Board and monetary authority. It is not like a reserve Board, a currency Board is dealing with currency on a parity basis and it has a fixed parity. If we get on to Central Banks we are talking about something totally different, not fixed parity at all.

MR. SPEAKER: The original question did mention a Central Bank, so I think it is perfectly in order for a supplementary to inquire about Central Bank.

MR. LINWOOD A. HOLTON: Mr. Speaker, if I may enlighten the Member, the currency Board is the embryonic stage for a monetary authority which then progresses into a Central Bank, so I think it is important for us to know the exact relationship.

MR. SPEAKER: Yes. That does not appear to have been a question, certainly, that was.....

MR. LINWOOD A. HOLTON: I could that I was trying to enlighten the Member on this matter.

MR. SPEAKER: Yes.....

HON. T.C. DOUGLAS: Mr. Speaker, this Member needs more enlightenment about Currency Board movement to Central Banks and the help was provided on monetary authorities.

MR. SPEAKER: Perhaps the Member was enlightening the remainder of the House.

I think that..... Well, the Member from Leaf Rapids, then I think we have almost exhausted the possibilities of this topic.

MR. D. STANLEY KNOWLES: Mr. Speaker, before we get a long way to go, could the Member state, Sir, if, in his view, this step towards a monetary authority at this time may not be a necessary groundwork for necessary and early legislation in the Interests and steps in our Government?

HON. T.C. DOUGLAS: Any such proposal would naturally have an educational function, whether we call it a currency Board or whether we call it a monetary authority. There will be need to employ staff to carry out these functions.

Now, the answer just is hypothetical, Mr. Speaker, if we do not know exactly what functions we are going to carry out as a monetary authority, to employ staff about how much might we are going to have. But certainly it was said in the broad nature of which this is done in the HON. D. D. CAMPBELL (Communications): woman, which is very small indeed.

MR. LINDSAY A. BODDEN: Mr.President, this will be my last supplementary, Sir. On the question of homosexuality, Sir, I wonder if the Member can advise the House how he would be able to determine whether the functions of a monitoring authority would benefit this country or not if a feasibility study has not yet been undertaken to determine the viability?

SEN.D.C.CAMPBELL: Mr.President, we have gotten away from the idea of a feasibility study. We are constantly monitoring the situation, we are aware of what the situation is. If we are to do a further study it is also the publication of the monitoring that we have already done and are constantly doing.

MR.SPEAKER: I think we could move to the next question. It is agreed that the First Elected Member of Sudden Rock.

MR.G.HALL ROBERTS: Yes, Mr.Speaker. With your permission I will ask the question. This question is directed to the Second Elected Member responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Trade. It reads -

QUESTION NO.63: Will the Member state why it was decided to reinstate the persons dismissed from management supervisory positions with Cayman Airways Limited who had been entitled at that date to repayment of redundancy payments which they had to be given a loss of seniority to the airline, whether their reinstatements to their former positions will result in any financial loss to Cayman Airways Limited and why took the decision?

ANSWER: This is a matter for the day-to-day management of Cayman Airways Limited for which I am not responsible.

MR.G.HALL ROBERTS: Mr.Speaker, may I ask the Member if Cayman Airways is owned by the Government?

HON.K.BODDEN ROBERTS: Mr.Speaker, with respect, I think the Member seeking that question is fully aware, but does it be owned by the Government of the Cayman Islands.

MR.LINDSAY A.BODDEN: Mr.Speaker, a supplementary. Would the Member advise this House whether or not the Member's Ministerial responsibility as Member of the Executive is in any way the reason for this question?

HON.K.BODDEN ROBERTS: The answer to that is no. As the Member responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Trade, Cayman Airways falls under my portfolio. Because I am responsible for the airline, the day-to-day management of Cayman Airways does not concern me as far as I am a Ministry Member and it has a Board which the responsibilities have been vested to run the airline.

MR.G.HALL ROBERTS: Mr.Speaker, may I ask the Member if he is aware that under the circumstances there is an obligation to answer supplementary questions or enquiries which arise under his answer?

MR. SPEAKER: No, I think that really you should ask me what the answer is on Standing Orders.

MR. RALPH BOSSON: Mr. Speaker, I am referring to section 2 of the Constitution, with delegated responsibility to Director Services of Executive Council.

MR. SPEAKER: Can the Member tell me what part of section 2 of the Constitution requires Members to have responsibility has been delegated to answer parliamentary questions?

MR. RALPH BOSSON: I think it is 2(2). Sir, but let me be sure.

MR. SPEAKER: Not on my reading, 2 (2) requires them to support in the Legislature decisions any matter decided upon in Council, it does not mention parliamentary questions.

As far as Standing Orders are concerned, our Standing Orders provide that I cannot disallow quite the particular one, but I think it is Standing Order 9(1) that if no Standing Order explicitly covers a particular matter, we shall be guided by the usage and practice of the House of Commons, and the practice and ways in the United Kingdom is that United Kingdom Ministers do not answer questions about supposedly management of nationalised industries in the United Kingdom, of the Chairman, British Airways or the Capital or the Steel Industry, nor it would be inconsistent with that practice for the Minister concerned - the relevant part of Erskine May's words that -

"Ministerial Responsibility has refused, on grounds of public policy, to answer questions seeking information on the day-to-day administration of the Undertakings, that is in relation to U.K. Ministers and nationalised industries in the United Kingdom, and in my view Cayman Airways is in precisely similar position to a United Kingdom nationalised industry.

MR. LEONARD J. PARSONS: Mr. Speaker, on a matter of clarity should be then assume, Mr. Chief of the Fire Dept. Cayman Airways is the Member responsible Council as the Minister responsible for Cayman Airways is in the Department similar to what you just referred to?

MR. SPEAKER: That was the view I was expressing that Cayman Airways, being now Minister responsible Council, is in a similar position to a nationalised industry in the United Kingdom, such as British Airways, Rank Xerox Ltd, Electricity and so on. Our Standing Orders provide that unless the Standing Orders themselves say that something different, we shall be guided by the practice and ways of the House of Commons.

Erskine May, from which I quoted, explaining what the practice of the House of Commons, in relation to questions about the day-to-day administration of nationalised industries has been, and I was simply saying that it seemed to me that the Member was following the United Kingdom practice in that the Standing Orders provide for United Kingdom practice to be followed and that therefore the Member was, in my general view, right in order in refusing to answer the question.

MR. LEONARD J. PARSONS: Mr. Speaker, on a further point of clarity, should the House then consider that the Honourable Minister Cayman Airways' operation will not be brought to this honourable House?

MR. [illegible]: I think it be question of determining what is a matter of day-to-day management and what is a matter of significant policy and I would suggest that the Member concerned might request policy issues or matters of day-to-day administration. I would certainly be reluctant that matters of day-to-day administration can be used to obtain information that is not to be disclosed in the House of Commons. In the distinction between matters of day-to-day administration and matters of policy. Sometimes the distinction may not be easy to draw - there may be a borderline case where there is a slightly grey area.

MR. JOHN G. DOWNEY: Mr. Speaker, to come that.....

MR. SPEAKER: The Member for Mount Scio rise first, I will call you afterwards, if I may.

MR. RICHARD HISCOCK: Supplementary, Mr. Speaker, is the Member stating that it is the view and theorize policy of the presentation of the new Government to refuse any policy-oriented questions or answers without consultation in the day-to-day management?

MR. F. MORGAN POWER: I would say yes, to that Mr. Speaker without any prejudice or the day-to-day management of the company or my position.

MR. [illegible]: The Member for Bonavista North.

MR. JOHN G. REID: Mr. Speaker, this seems to be a new policy. If the next supplementary, Sir, but other Members have directed questions to you - I am sensitive, Sir, that if we succeed the Premise of this Government we could place a different emphasis on this matter of, perhaps, Crown Liaison, because I do not think that there is another area the Government that has been questioned more on the floor of this Assembly House, on day-to-day management and matters. It seems strange to us that today we are going to have, as from a few days ago with another question, that we were not allowed to go any further with the day-to-day management. I disagree with it.

MR. SPEAKER: The manner of answers is entrusted to his mind, but frankly, as does arise in my mind I have heard on many occasions in the past, and I am speaking of the time when the previous Government was in power, the Member responsible for Tourism, Culture and Trade and at that stage responsible also for Crown Lands, always declined to answer questions about Crown Lands or answer them in the event a decision that is was going to be made but we are not going to provide information about decisions contemplated which is. I am not sure that we have specifically quoted the previous decisions in Speaker's Rulings. I have studied them, and I quoted them because a Member was seeking whether the Member for Labrador, Minister and Trade has a responsibility duty to answer, and it seems to me that is the place, as Presiding Officer, to rule in the House what the requirements of our Standing Orders are, and that is what I was trying to do.

That that ruling, all I can do is explain to you again the manner what Standing Orders purports, is to that for all Ministers' duties will be living taken a precaution to decide whether he will answer it or not. If you will remember, what I read out from

MR. SPEAKER (CONTINUED): Speaking only for myself, that suggestion would have merit on grounds of public policy in answer questions and so on, but not the Speaker who to anticipate a question may not be correct or a question may not be answered, it is the Government of the day that is saying what its policy is to decline to answer questions of a certain kind. All I am saying, in trying to explain to the House why I have not accepted this point of order is that that is how it has been adopted in the United Kingdom, according to Erskine May and because our Standing Orders provide that Ministerial practice is followed.

MR. EDWARD A. BYRNE: Mr. Speaker, I fully understand your explanation on Erskine May's. My question is here, Sir, for my future guidance and I am sure for the guidance of any other Member in the House - can we be assured that in future we will not get answers to similar questions because it is my understanding, Sir, that a subject of Cyprus affairs falls under the responsibility of the Second Elected Member in Executive Council and it is his ultimate responsibility of the Department.

Now it could be that he does not plan to deal with the day-to-day running, but I would just like to have for future guidance whether we can expect to get answers on similar questions.

HON. W. NORMAN ZEROUKI: Mr. President, this is not the answer to a question, but before everybody is allowed a statement, I would like to make a statement as well.

I see my position as the Member responsible for Labour, Education and Trade as you have quite rightly put it previously, responsible for policy matters, and I will be prepared to answer questions in relation to policy matters of the company, however I would point out that in the past four years this line of questioning and answering in connection with the day-to-day management of Cyprus Airways has been accepted by this House before. Normally, it appears to me that when the opposition receives this type of answer and it is better than it is accepted, but when it is not what they want to hear, then they need a little further. I am standing on principle, Sir.

HON. G. SAID TO SPEAKER: Mr. President, will the Member give us the assurance that he will seek your permission to allow him to answer these questions about Cyprus Airways, in the future, should the Royal Prerogative, perceived, you have the right to give to him any instructions that you may find necessary, and give the assurance to the Legislative Assembly all questions concerning Cyprus Airways?

MR. SPEAKER: I think that supplementary is out of order on the grounds that it is hypothetical, because it presumes that the Government will be giving instructions, under the Royal Prerogative to the Member.....

HON. G. SAID INTERJECTING: I am sorry, Mr. President, you misunderstood me. I am asking him to seek your permission to give the answers.

MR. SPEAKER: Oh! So your question to will the Member seek permission to give answers about the day-to-day administration of Cyprus Airways? I do not think he would need my permission, however, I will allow him to answer.

HON. W. NORMAN ZEROUKI: Mr. President, with due respect, I think I answered that previously. I have no intention to seek your permission

HON. W. ARTHUR RUGGLES (CONTINUING): If that is the procedure, he answer any questions in connection with the day-to-day management of Cayman Airways. I am prepared to answer questions in relation to policy matters and I think that is where.

MR. CLAUDE DOUGLAS: Mr.Speaker, may I ask if this question does not relate to policy, the policy of hiring and firing and marketing people. Is not that a policy decision?

HON. W. ARTHUR RUGGLES: It is a policy that comes under management, Sir, it is a management policy.

MR. LEONARD A. PARSONS: Mr.Speaker would it be in order for the Members of this Honourable House, in Finance Committee, to enquire for any supplementary funds, for us to request information as to what part of those supplementary funds may be as a result of mismanagement of the operations of Cayman Airways?

MR. SPEAKER: I dare say, I am afraid. The supplementary we will it be in order in future for Members of the House to ask questions as to whether requests for supplementary appropriation were necessary.....

MR. LEONARD A. PARSONS: Let me elucidate, Mr.Speaker, whenever we come before this House to grant supplementary expenditure on Cayman Airways and it is felt by many Members here that this is a direct result of mismanagement of the operations of Cayman Airways, my question is will we be able to get a breakdown in future as to what part of this may already relate to the operations of Cayman Airways? Because if we are not able to ask questions in this House regarding the operations of Cayman Airways, then I feel it is not fair to us to be asked to approve supplementary expenditure in this matter.

HON. W. ARTHUR RUGGLES: Mr.Speaker, I think that when supplementary expenditure is asked for from the Finance Committee, I dare say the Chairman of that Committee, who is the Honourable Financial Secretary, and is left to Members to support this or not, however, we propose mismanagement, is dependent on us as to a question to judge whether it is either of mismanagement or not. I would do not know who is in that position.

MR. CLAUDE DOUGLAS: Mr.Speaker, as the Member mentioned the matter of policy, may I ask a supplementary question. Who sets the policy for the Manager? Is it the Board of Directors?

HON. W. ARTHUR RUGGLES: Yes, Sir, I would think it is the Board of Directors.

MR. CLAUDE DOUGLAS: Mr.Speaker, may I look for time to see, since is not customarily true that the Managing Director would be able to have the input into the policies carried out by management and should therefore be in a position to answer for any policies which may be carried out by the Manager or supervisors down the line?

HON. W. ARTHUR RUGGLES: The Manager answers to the Board.

MR. CLAUDE DOUGLAS: In which case is he responsible then for policy? Mr.Speaker, I am asking a supplementary.

HON. W. ARTHUR RUGGLES: The Manager, I think, would be responsible to carry out the policies or directives given from the Board.

MR. SPEAKER: Any other question please?
Item 2 - Contribution of the deficit on the

MR. SPEAKER (CONTINUED): Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill. Does any further Member wish to speak?

CONSIDERATION OF THE ESTIMATES OF THE YOUTH AFFAIRS AND SPORTS SECTION AND SECOND READING OF THE APPROPRIATION BILL, 1985

MR. SPEAKER: The Second Reading Debate for Hansard.

MR. ALEXANDER ROBIN: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is a pleasure and honour for me to take part in this Budget Debate and participate in my Ministerial Review and Plans Speech debate.

I would like to commence, Sir, by thanking very sincerely, the Members of the staff of the House for the extra to which they have gone out of their way to make me feel welcome since I left, from helping me in different ways, as a young Member and for encouraging those kind of responses and gestures.

The Legislature, Sir, in its opinion, Sir, has a fine staff, even the least that one of them is a most good friend of mine and the staff, as I have found them, are very hard working and do it sometimes me to pay tribute to our young Clerks for the wonderful job they are doing.

Also on this item, I would like to say for the record, a vote of thanks to the former Clerk for the guidance and help she has given me.

Also, Sir, I would like to say a word of thanks to the Vice Principal Secretaries who have helped me tremendously in my first months here.

As most generally before giving my opinion of the Budget or the Ministerial Review, I would venture to speak a little on the attractions of parliamentary life in this country, as I see it.

Mr. Speaker, one of the most outstanding developments we have inherited from Britain, is our parliamentary democratic traditions. Sir, there are aspects of parliaments in the Commonwealth that have adopted the Westminster system with very little change. Guiana, this is so because we find that system becomes extremely suited to our needs when we find a system adopted to us. Not sufficiently flexible and viewed to allow us to apply any practicable adaption to fit in with our peculiar needs. This type of democratic system is a monumental system I regard as our greatest heritage in our democratic system.

The Constitution of Parliament, Sir, I believe, is one of the greatest contributions made by the British people in the history of man. They have struggled hard to accept that the divine right of kings in the Magna Carta, which is the foundation stone of parliamentary democracy, and I believe the freedom loving humanity of the world owes a debt of gratitude to the British nation for this.

Mr. Speaker, in this short speech, I think to say I think you are doing a fine job as President of this Assembly. I can see, Sir, though it is a tough job, even I, as a young Member, have gained great confidence, Sir, as Senior Members have tended time to time to me. But, whatever the criticism of Great Britain as a colonial power and the system which is now associated to the Commonwealth, I can only say that parliamentary government is the greatest because of it. Seen in the Cayman Islands, I believe it is the right thing and I trust that whatever role in this Honourable Chamber it may mean a model for study and emulation.

Mr. Speaker, as a new Member of this Parliament, of this Assembly, I have my impressions. I like my lesson and I do hope that one day which I am just [illegible] to see a more parliamentary bias-politic involved. No more, Sir, and the Budget for 1984 or 1985.

Mr. President [illegible] : Since [illegible] at different places, with different minds, different problems, and not today or next year, I still hope to see it done during my term. Of course, I hope it takes no [illegible]. It can only do the country good for the long run.

While in my opinion, and [illegible], I have to [illegible].

Mr. President, since I have been here, [illegible] I have always [illegible] could be considered [illegible]. [illegible], I am not [illegible], and we must [illegible] in this House, [illegible] I should remind Honourable Members that it is not only on the floor of this House that one communicates, indeed, Sir, the whole country is watching us. Not I believe more so, on the outside, where [illegible] people are [illegible] our [illegible] here and there our actions, such deeds, have a [illegible] effect on them, [illegible] for me, Sir, sometimes [illegible] where I have nothing to [illegible] on as soon [illegible], the people who sent me here did so with the [illegible] that I would never [illegible] them down. I said then and I also told them that I would not, as a Member, submit to [illegible] on them that I would do, as a Member, where I would not [illegible] my personal integrity, or my [illegible] principle. So I [illegible] to make no [illegible]. I, Sir, owe [illegible] as a [illegible] duty, [illegible] and [illegible]. That is so, because I am a [illegible] [illegible] Chinese.

Mr. Chairman, Sir, [illegible] [illegible] Mr. [illegible] I [illegible] of that fact. As I said [illegible] in this House, I am no [illegible] by any means and have no [illegible] of [illegible] people by my people.

Mr. President, I [illegible] on this [illegible] I was [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of the Queen [illegible] on it now on the [illegible] and as I [illegible] to [illegible] the background against which I propose to make my [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] from the Throne.

Mr. President, Robert Frost, the great poet, wrote [illegible] ago -

> "The woods are lovely, dark and deep
> But I have promises to keep
> And miles to go before I sleep."

Like Robert Louis King, I have a dream I have a dream today and like [illegible] I have promises to keep and miles to go [illegible] before I sleep.

Sir, the Budget and the [illegible] speech before us today, which I must now comment upon both on [illegible] very [illegible]. To say, Sir, that I, as I am a new member, would not have [illegible] forces to [illegible] a most [illegible] [illegible], would not be true, but, Sir, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Mr. Vandeberg [continuing]: they have neglected the future

Mr. President, as an example, if I go to the bank tomorrow and borrow the National Debt on my name, I have mortgaged my assets and my future earnings, because that money must be repaid in the future. If I accept that borrowed money today and do not use it wisely, I can, sir, jeopardize my own fortune and I can, sir, jeopardize my own future.

Much, sir, has been said about the need to take economy, the previous administration became one of the so heavy taxed great nations. Why, sir, I dare state upon any responsible authorities of conflict among the economists based on taking control of the whole nation's responsibility of maintaining the future of this country.

Sir, we have only as much land to develop. I do not have that the undeveloped lands is readily avail- ables, but to be utilized and when we have developed which we can handle we can handle it more fluent.

Having taken great heed of last war, enough navies were built to win Poland for the peace. In fact, many of them are antiquated today. Of those completed, only eight small ships, during that great hostility have been actually necessary with evidence, so were battleship of which I guess there are just eight to protect us during ground and sea.

I will guess today, sir, that at the peak of that load the aircraft for the reconstruction industries of this nation substantial the Department by 2 to 1. The money that those workers earned was mostly received on wages. If the policies to support were taken necessarily to economy.

Most probably of all is that many of our responsible young men were encouraged to stay out of high school by push a chair—Lawrence or a construction site where they learned there were that key to use design from the Department Defense forces. Today, many of those young men are putting around without the high school certificate that they could have acquired in that period of time; they are not qualified today to do anything other than what they learned on the construction site and with the loss having passed, they are not qualified to earn the wages to support their family. Now! I say sorry!

Mr. President, the revenue that was earned by Government, like the wages earned by our people, are mostly wasted. As the members come in, the Daily Government Account of the spending employees and machinery accounts is published in their good newspapers, but as I said earlier, they should be used in those new ports we could have here built in this period, therefore for the next five years to come to me, this unnecessary to build any great amounts of roads, the market be already placed, they surrounded our farms. Well, Mr. President, in the meaning of the resolution by the Second Session Number four I think from that we are in four years peace of time.

The reasons that they have in Alaska since has been spent simply because it was there to spend. Today some of our non-essential services are like because Government allowed the country to overspend in that two-year period. The fact, sir, was spent by unemployment development was only in- vested in a quick profit without any the regard for the economy.

There used to many shady dealings by the unscrupulous developers during that time that the entire Industry was brought into ill-repute and suspicion has been cast on the honest developer who has the economy at heart. For, if they cannot build, they cannot build. Well, Mr. President, now has the future of this

MR. P.MORGAN: (Interjection) ... assembly was mortgaged.

... Mr.President, the Government.....

MR.M.J.R. ROSEN: On a point of order, Mr.President, the Minister is misleading the House.

MR.SPEAKER: I think he is probably just explaining as quite acceptable matter.

MR.M.KAMANA JUNIOR: The Government, Sir, that was elected on 14th November was elected also to place measures to change course. We have all intentions of bringing our economy and social development under a sensible control. And the people of this country wanted to continue this managing of the finance, they would have returned the Unity administration to power in October. The Government, the new Government have a difficult task before us, we cannot undo what our misdeeds of the previous Government that was sent packing on 14th November, on the opportunities and those measures which, Mr.Speaker Correctly, he has pointed. Years ago! Not today - years ago when their developments were already to bring the entire mismanagement which finally ends ill-reputed by Bachmann dealings, such as soil-scandal revelations' money that finding to Solomon Islands for the peoples generation or further than that, when they bought what was supposed to be a piece of Jewish land, only to find out when they got to Canada, that had bought a worthless piece of swamp.

In certain instances, Sir, these unscrupulous unpatriotic acts of partnership with Members of the Unity team, and, Mr.Speaker, the lack of leadership exhibited by the Captain Solomon Government has fallen upon the shoulders of the present administration, and because of the opportunities we, they are now exercising their policy of widening up the parties. I refer to the meeting that took place in Dublon Town last Monday night, and such as the case quite likely to be on the floor of this Honourable House. If we still looking at my notice!

The purpose of this, Sir, must not be used to be every one in the country, but this purpose is to develop policies in the new Government and shift the blame from the mismanagement as one experiencing from the policies of the non-alignment Unity administration. These members of the opposition and their associates, one saying that after June we have in office the new Government, of which, Sir, I am proud to be a part, have abandoned no new policies. Sir, considering the need, including un-paid bills, that was inherited from the previous administration in 14th November I fail to see what we could have done in so short a time.

MR. SPEAKER: I wonder if this should be a convenient moment to take a break? If that suits the Member, then let us suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes and return about twenty-five to three.

At 11:30 A.M. the House suspended

THE HOUSE RECESSED AT 12:38 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. The Senate Standard Member for Vani Kay.

MR. M.NARASAYA REDDY (VANIKAYAPADU): Mr.President, Sir, law and principles, policies such as the non-development of the areas have been referred to, and the Governor of the undivided Andhra Pradesh. Such policies were set here and they moved from one period to another without any clear policies or plan.

Mr.President, Sir, the country today...

MR. JAMES M.DOUGLAS: We have known that the Member might not be capable of following a speech written to be presented, but after all, under Standing Order 81, I think it is so, the Member should not really be reading a considerably prepared speech, but without speak from notes.

MR. SPEAKER: I think the Member is reading from either scripture notes, just as I think members of Members have referred to factual scripture notes.

MR. JAMES M.DOUGLAS: My notes might have been copious, Sir, but they numbered only about 20 pages which was delivered over four days.

MR. SPEAKER: May be the Member was planning to keeping to take for two days.

MR. M.NARASAYA REDDY: Mr.President, I am not going to be four days, Sir. The Bible they are going to take will be five months and a half hours, but I have points can be. While Jesus Christ I am a true Member and I sincerely believe for not more than half hours as much as the previous speaker. He spoke for five days. He has spoken years of unnecessary remarks and procedure in his books.

MR. JAMES M.DOUGLAS: Mr.President, I will speak for a long time, but I did not read a prepared speech.

MR. SPEAKER: The Member may continue.

MR. M.NARASAYA REDDY: Mr.President, the country today is paying the cost of this mismanagement and it will continue to pay until the new Government can devise a new workable plan that will enhance equity in our development. Our key interests, Sir, to maintain the integrity and credibility to make pay the bills.

The needs of our people are great. We need to pay urgent attention to our social development. We need to improve our educational system so that we can prepare all of our people for their rightful place in our developing country.

Mr.President, Sir, these things are not urgently attended to, the majority of our people will soon become disillusioned in their country. If indeed we have not got

MR. MACKAY, MISS (Wexford): reached that stage.

This is an intolerable situation that can only lead to the overall disenfranchisement and unrest that we all know will spell doom for our so fragile economy. Human problems, along with our other basic needs, have to take first place and that is what we are here for, to serve people.

All, it has been said that in case this Government of steady hands nothing, before it can give us anything, it must first take away from us something.

Sir, the role of a responsible Government surely is to relieve rather than add to the problems. If they cannot get it right - and they must be used wisely to provide the things that our people need. No one can, taken in any sense but if this country is to maintain its essential economic infrastructure, Government must have money. That is what budgets are all about and that is what the 1990 Budget presumably before this Assembly in the autumn.

In this budget, Sir, Government must outline the projects that it intends to execute for the year, including the desperately needed hospitals - colleges that will begin to prepare our people, especially our young people, for a more productive role in our society. That budget also must make provision for the collection of moneys owed to us in order to pay for this peripheral spending.

Mr. President, the leaders of the opposition have attacked these cases, both in this Chamber and on the public platform, as being oppressive to the poor. The great mathematician of the Opposition has said that the new rates system in the present budget for 1990 will cost every household in this country £250 per year - that was taken to be said on a public platform in Dublin town.

Mr. President, I do not know if this is correct or not but I should think that if it is correct it is roughly correct taken per day per household. Sir, what is this roughly amount when you consider that some households send out children to school five days per week with lunch-money possibly five sandwiches and five tapes-pocket.

Mr. President, using that household's figures, if each household spends one beer or packet of cigarettes less per day the most would be affected by it - mind, we are only talking about decent, solid pro-Irish households. So why all the nonsense about spending the poor? In my opinion this material money squandering the British are being put forward for the sole purpose of creating discontent among the masses, that can only lead to the social disintegration that has seen other dictatorship countries upset. This contention and they say they are protecting the poor people. Well I want to marvel the objection, and also marvel the ingenuity, that our politicians, Fianna Fáil would have been more lucky, more lucky, if we had not, in our good wisdom, set aside the Supplementary Pensions Fund, which the late Mr. Haughey made a most astute move. The total amount which would have been paid out this year would be in the region of £300,000. Did they pay it? No, they kept that £300,000. Did they pay it? No, they would forget that Supplementary Pensions Fund.

Sir, Mr. President, if the opposition were genuinely concerned about the lowly people, they would have explained the matter straight to the Honourable Members, last week, rather than the latest Gallup poll of a subservient Labour Party.

Anyhow now, Sir, should say my position on the Labour withdrawal from this country. I presume the withdrawal the motion which was passed without the support of the two

MR. MACDONALD (CONTINUED): Workers from the outside soon ascertained that they wanted to blame the Federal Member for not having labour legislation in the country. After they had been in power for eight years. Since that action, Sir, what has proved me more than anybody else, is to find out that they had paid somebody from T.L.C. or somewhere like that some $10,000 to come here to do some work of study - some report that they are always complaining about. Not that they paid this man $10,000 and still labour legislation was not brought in this House. But when my motion was brought to this honourable House, the two Members from the Pacific Coast immediately acted as if someone had stepped on a pin - just like that, Mr.Speaker, "I am the champion of the poor man".

Mr.Speaker, this motion calls for a Royal Commission which I suggest to see a Labour Office people should be set up to advise the workers of this country.

Recently, Mr.Speaker, I met a young man on the street, from my constituency, who had been recently married four months since he was not employed, after working two years, he did not know that there was a Labour Office that could have helped him find a job. I, of course, directed him to the Labour Office and he now pleased as I job the next week. The Labour Officers should be complimented for the job they are doing, but we must give them a chance here. We must put our efforts where our mouth is; we must work, not pay people $10,000 and get nothing done.

The Labour Officers should be complimented, but, as I said, we need to give them a time to prove that they do a better job.

Civil Service and Training. Mr.Speaker, another area of great concern to me is the Civil Service where qualified and specialized Canadians are rejected. It just seems to me, Sir, that as soon as a Government gives many and numerous qualifications for any post and persons, there is some Government effort to squeeze them out. That, in short order, the post is filled by an outsider. These are the complaints I get, Sir, and I am only giving to the House what I get.

I know, Sir, that in years gone by many of our promising people left the Civil Service because of the poor pay and poor working conditions. Many of those who left the Service have returned to the private sector and we can be justly proud of them. But lately, Sir, the complaints in the Public Service is comparable to the complaints in the private sector, yet our more gifted people continue to study it.

Mr.Speaker, I believe the whole matter is in need of urgent review and some sensible adjustments. Sir, I would check here and identify instances often instances where qualified and specialized Canadians have been pushed out of the public service to make room for some outsider in the post. My colleague from the Bonavista-Twillingate is but one of these examples, not only has he packed out of the service but certain leaders of the party have threatened, using the privileges that we enjoy in this House, threatened to destroy his professionality.

As I said earlier, we do need to address ourselves to the task of encouraging young promising Canadians to the service and after training them, ensure that they are put in positions for which they can feel what they are trained and appreciated.

As in closing, Sir, we will be hearing more and more qualified personnel in our public service and if we do not seek to correct our ways and to train them, we will only continue to become more and more dependent on outside help, a conclusion Sir, that I cannot agree with.

Mr.Mwanyigha (continued): On a final observation, Sir, I would like that Ulaya and Bahari MPs should take very well instead of the elections, but I would ask them to not decide the idea of which Governments in the water and clean their environment in the country, forget who I am, and take curious thought that I am a representative of the people. Do not give me orders, and when I work my book, make promises like the leaders give anything other by me'. They are not doing anything for me - what I ask is that they do the things that my people suggest of me.

Sir, in the manifesto most members they were in the party survive and there for that reason alone, support the budget.

In the case of farming, I believe, Sir, some companies in the private sector are helping to do a fair job. Cable and Wireless seem to be doing a wonderful job. At the present they employ 217 pensionable and 30 casual workers. Out of 217, 20 are in parents and out of the 22 they have 17 nationalists. All the key employments posts are filled by Zanzibaris.

With the national budget for this year given as well over half a million dollars, so, in my opinion, Cable and Wireless is doing pretty good and must be congratulated for putting something back into the country.

Other companies in this country could take an example from Cable and Wireless.

I believe, Sir, that in fairness, more promise a condition should be created that the employees, and they should retain in large businesses firms, banks and commercials, should notify the board of the number of Zanzibaris employed and indicate whether any Zanzibaris after suitable training, would fill the posts for which the appointments be being made. The names could be tested for two or three years, during which time the Zanzibaris could move a few months training should be given by the new employer. If circumstances training is necessary, this would be undertaken only at the successful completion, possibly one-five three or six months' secondment under the holder of the names for practical assessment and experience. At the end, if the Zanzibari has acquired already or has only satisfactorily, should be longer in necessary to bring in another applicant for that particular post. There should be an incentive for some of any employer to recruit a Zanzibari in favour of someone else.

The Corporations should permanently and I hope they do, and have the try to train your employees.

I would like to mention especially that I believe people from countries who come in these islands to take up jobs, which, as the rounds, should be filled by Zanzibaris. I should hope that all of these people would like to know that when a Zanzibari is fully qualified and able, he will give the job. A certain difficulties in which countries, where, when the local nationals be qualified, he or she gets the job. Until that time, and this is the situation in most countries like the Cayman Islands, we, for some time, must employ persons from overseas with certain expertise.

Mr.Speaker, Sir, I am sure to point that to out a thing, detrimental both for my people who should be in the Queen that's happy; those who have been and those who come for those whose loyalty.

In dealing with the training of Zanzibaris, Sir, I welcome the announcement that the Education Department will be establishing a full-fledged technical college in these Islands some time during this year.

Sir, in my opinion, to it would

MR. SAID ESSOP (UDF-INANDA): Sir, we have no reserves. They will but very little in any year. Their last year they had R1,716,115 in reserve, that was at the 31st of December, 1975 and on the 31st of December, 1976 that figure has been reduced by 86% and they only have R228,947 left. So they were used to working without reserves; they did not understand the working; they did not understand the value; they did not understand the necessity.

We took over at the end of 1976 and by the end of one year the reserves had started to accumulate and we had, 31st December, R1,033,302 in reserve. By the 31st December 1980 the reserves had gone to R6,872,805, a 500% increase as you will see, and in another 12 months the reserves had again doubled and at the 31st of December, 1981 it was R12,433,735, a 79% increase over the previous year. Now, needless to say, as far as reserves were concerned, was the best year the Government enjoyed. At that stage the reserves were exceeding the 5 months' requirement, or the 2 months' reserve, and we were in a safe position. This safe position continued as indicated by the Budget Address and that condition would still exist, I daresay, had there not been a change in the Government, change, taking place by the Elected Members whose master-minds had precipitated running the country without reserves during the dark period from 1976 to 1979.

And so, Mr.Speaker, I think the little maple leaf can no longer work, because the public will now understand how the maple is done, just like that little maple leaf had other games in it, as I said a game, which is related to what they are doing in other areas, as I will tell you. It had a card in the pack called a special card - the card had no back - in one side it had the ace of spade, when you turned it over in the little maple leaf and brought to your shakepeare audience, in the case of Shamrock and this is what they have been doing with Government's finances, and this is not coming from Government, this is not coming from the Financial Secretary, this is coming from statements by Elected Members of Executive Council. Sometimes they tell you "well, you know the reserves are there"; next time it is a collateral for a loan, or a hypothecation; one minute it is reserve the next minute it is something else. First they had the disappearing act, where is the cash, and then it was not there. They also have the cat where they always it was one minute it is one thing in the Budget, the next minute there was no reserves could even be a possibility in the country, they say they have wiped down the reserves.

You see, having manipulated, having perhaps from their election on hook-winking the public, that the country was broke and that there were no reserves, they find it difficult to accept that there are reserves. And even now, while they are spending the reserves, they are still saying the reserves never existed, or the reserves are encumbered in such a way that Government cannot spend them, yet they are spending them at the tune of over R1M per month.

So, they grudgingly, they have reluctantly admitted that there are reserves, and had it not been for their contemptuous disregard in balancing the Budget, they would not have, on the 31st of March, allowed the Estimates to show that the country had reserves, because you cannot take away R2-Gt from reserves, if there are no reserves. So by their own action they have admitted that the reserves are there.

So, if they had not done anything to the Finance Committee, and if they did not again today come a-begging to the Legislative Assembly, the public would have believed that there were no reserves. But the public statement that has just, take out from Finance Committee, the authority to spend R7.5M UR on Cayton Airways, and they understood that as the Financial Secretary said in his speech, spend over R500,000 out of that authority to spend, and now the public understands

MR. G. RAIG DOUGLAS (CONSERVATIVE): ... as they take another £2,000 from what they have left.

So I am not entirely anyone to take the word of the Unity Free Government as to whether there were surpluses; I am taking them to task the words of the Financial Members of Executive Council, because this Budget which we are now with the work of the Financial Secretary alone; this Budget which has come to the House had the approval of Executive Council, as will appear later on which came to the House here. When they ask this House to give £2,00 to help them balance the 1953 Budget, they are admitting that a surplus we there, and when they ask us to accept the fact that they can save £200,000 on whatever work they may have to do, they are asking us -- "Remember the Blanks", in fact, they are admitting that what had been said in this Council by many and on other occasions before that, it was said up, but would require the little magic box to make it right.

So, having now established that there is a reason, which the Elected Members at least admit, to look then are entitled to admit it, but they now have admitted it, I will move on to the other words of the Budget which show that the country is not back on the Rice of Servitude, but is heading that way, and the second point I wish to make is with regard to surplus balances.

We left a good surplus available, and in fact, in December. When I asked the Financial Secretary about the surplus. I also asked him about the surplus balances, and he spoke now a possible one, that there was a surplus balance.

Add to this, it disappeared - it disappeared because then, between November and now - it disappeared, because the Budget which they have put forward shows that they have taken no that surplus balance, and now have a deficit on the Rice of December of $682,000 (a deficit we left). So we had surplus balances, all through our 1952, now the Financial Secretary has made it clear that on the 31th of December, when asked about the surplus balances, that there was no surplus balances. We have pointed out on some occasion that the figures then had not just come in, and he did then admit on reconsidered possible that there had nothing to do with the surplus balances. So what has happened in between that surplus, which they admitted they had. They admitted on January the 31th of January that the surplus balances before on the Rice of December. That has been said, and I take credit that by their own statement that they had nearly $1M in surplus balances on the Rice of December; but on the Rice of December there was a minus balance, we they had almost that $1M, plus going in respect to the sum of minus $682,000, not only did they spend our balances, at the rate of $2M a month; but they must have gone away with the surplus balances of the 1952 speech, and the only reason why they have not spent $1M a month in surplus balances because we say not there. They have the responsibility of spending it.

So they took that $1M, one each, which they added into there, the Rice of December, 1953, spent it, spent all the rest of the money which they anticipated during November and December, which are very big months for surplus collections and used up the great part of $682,000. I will give the explanation, Mr.President, but I should like to say that this is surprising on a high scale. They have the responsibility to spend but we hope for the sake of the country they can find ways to spend, because they have an abnormal expenditure for spending, unfortunately as they have done, spending surpluses and reserves, but we hope the Rice might learn

MR. D.R.JEFFERS: Mr.President, I move the adjournment of this Honourable Council to 10 a.m. tomorrow.

MR.SPEAKER: The question is that this House do now adjourn.

MR. BRADSHAW (CONTINUING): ...until 10:00 a.m. tomorrow. If any member objects to agreeing, I will put the question. Will those in favour please say aye?

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. AT 4:20 P.M. THAT HOUSE ADJOURNED UNTIL 10:00 A.M. THURSDAY, 24TH MARCH, 1960.

MR. G. NATO asked (CONSERVATIVE): In connection the $15.6 million dollars that remains, and, if I have to be one hundred, I will accept figure which the Member from North Side was given by the Minister Secretary. The Chairman Secretary said "Yes, I have in mind what I have been saying I have in mind that there is about $10 million ... acknowledge that statement, in connection, the response.

Now the time allocated Members was getting on that Member Constituency not one of them could get up and explain to the House statement which they had published. Anyway, they have $2.4M on the understanding he was at and some State money ... says.

There is also Revenue, in Question, of this year, on the basis of estimate, they put out a statement on the front page of the Compass explaining Government's position, and if you read this statement, you will see that they show that our net overall position, as at 31st of October, 1982, which responds to statement, was ... $1,268,849, and they had to base that the Financial Secretary had write in November to the Finance Committee that we have $10M, and then had to know that they now began the machinery to spend $15.6 million out of it. And they had to know that they had actually spent a sum of over $600,000 since they withdrew in November. Just they came out the Treasury, mean,why the propaganda that on the 31st of October there was only $1.6M in reserves. And if this were so how could they take $15.6 million from it in November, if we did not have it on the 31st of October?

If the story ended there, they could have to cause shame, but it does not end there, because in the Budget which is before the House, they are asking the members if they approve this Budget, to increase that revenue, into the revenue a increase Income of $8,800,000 to help them balance the 1983 Budget. So how can this become real be asked, on the 1st of March, to increase $8,800,000 this of revenue if we only have $1 that is not accumulated - $1.6 million million. So there has to be a misdescription of the figures in some where. I know the Compass tried to ascertain that, the Compass gave up additional saying that both sides may correct, the figures in that one case correct and the figures the two Statements were provided were wrong, but no matter how reverse he may do, he cannot arrive this and one out of figures in March, and I do not think the Financial Secretary is wrong.

They were playing a little game that reminds me of ... game that was said on television about 12 to 15 years ago. Where they offered for sale a little magic box and, would in it how opened the box and there is a card just like the box over and above it and a slightly polished the other card, and you opened it and there was no card.

There were 47 questions in the Question answering, to these people, but they were to go the Secretary and you opened the box and they showed on the questions, and they said 'We used $2,44 out of $1' and they got it, but then they went home and they opened and opened it in January 1983 and they said 'There is no money' then they closed the box and they covered it again and they came to see in the 1st of March and may 'We do have more money, please, please but we have $1.2 M out of these questions in that envelope' but you can't see inside so that we may influence it'.

But the story does not end there. They closed the box again and he heard in this Chamber words the 1st of March, in another BOX, about the questions and remembered you can't touch them, and you they have opened the box again today and they say here there exactly the figure again that they said it is worth $800,000 in interest on their cash balances. And if that, was in cash balances, and if there was no money, how can they have paid out in interest this year?

MR. BRIAN BEDDOE (NOTTINGHAM): Today's statement does not look very much and you would anticipate some of those, several million dollars left there; I would please somethings like the Financial Secretary will be there, something in the vicinity of $5M either way of those transfers. So there is no question about the reserves, the reserves are there, they were not there by the Philly Shop, they were left there by them and they are still there with the exception of what has been used by the present administration. And this, Mr.Speaker, is only the beginning of the story. Because in December when the House met in this special meeting, I asked the question, which was answered by the Financial Secretary - what were the reserves on the 31st of October, and on the 10th of December, just ten days before the meeting, and the Financial Secretary, in his considered manner, answered - 'The reserves of the country are, if I do not remember the exact figure, but in the vicinity of $19M, but I'm all for the Financial Secretary not necessarily had to be playing a game.

The point I want to make is not only were the reserves in the Government's coffers, but there remains unaccounted, these reserves are unaccounted, and they have been issued from the present administration to Government, I'm sorry with this budget. They will be drawn from the Depreciation Fund to finally account. Some of these revenues will definitely be there and will yield substantial interest during 1985, no figure in the question as to whether there were reserves; there is no question as to whether the reserves were substantial; there is no question as to whether the reserves are still there, but as the year these reserves are being spent by the present administration, there is only that the country is going will soon come, because they have already taken out, they have permission to take out $3.7 M here today and that is a lot of money in the few months that they have been in office. Just - there were there are those monies that have been in excess of 1 cent of the excess of five months.

But it is time that we time to time during the daily administration we look today from the newspaper, when we see that the reserves were outside too high, because it is possible it has money in reserve on which you are only earning five and you are to borrow money at 18% to do that you need to do, but no matter, in our entire right hearts, after we build up the reserves in three months, we never dreamt that there were being a big surplus and like to where this new Executive Council has come. They have drawn down the reserves which were comfortable and adequate, at the start of September, 1984 and throughout the entire year of 1985, they have now which have down to where they were before what is supposed to be safe contingency which is frankly totally inadequate.

It is true that when we passed the budget for 1984 we anticipated something of this nature, because of this time the reserves, notwithstanding to the existing provisions of the Government, would have to be drawn down. And it is true that during this year we intend to propose the adoption of Caymen Bonds like one of emergency measure which had a three hundred for and when the need arose, as had the case on hand, did we first that $3M were or less only represented the interest which the Government would earn during 1984, on the deposits which we had, as we have already spent it. But since the election, this new Government has reduced the reserves to where they are much less in what is considered adequate.

According to the budget Address the Financial Secretary stated that at year end, that is 31st June 1985, they will have $7.2M left, and although at the rate of $3M a month they will be out of reserves by June of 1985.

But the Leader of this previous Government knows the interest between 1985 and here and they are used to working on a give-and-take; they are used to having the country in a

MR. M. MASTERS (CONSERVATIVE): Sir, I would like to make a few remarks which, I hope, will be of interest to the House, but I do not wish to take up too much time. I would like to congratulate the Minister of Finance (Mr. Doody) on bringing down a budget which I think is a very responsible budget under the circumstances. I think it is a budget that is going to help the economy of this province. I think it is a budget that is going to help the people of this province. I think it is a budget that is going to help the mixed industry of this province. I think it is a budget that is going to help the other industry of this province.

MR. O. ERIC BOSSEY (CONSTITUENCY): The Budget Address was like the Throne Speech and paternalistically the Solicitor-General told us that 1984 had been a good year for the Government and that the new administration inherited a sound financial position.

I would like to start by most the many nasty words that were hurled across, during and after the elections concerning the finances of this country. Under Labour's stewardship of these Islands, has the Government enjoyed such a stable and sound financial position. But when he was seeking to appeal to a certain group of people abroad the propaganda that the country was broke, that there were no resources. This, Mr.President, could only be said in language that would be unparliamentary and I do not want to get into that, but anyone of us in any walk of life abroad Members of Parliament Cabinet did recommend to the public a picture that the country was broke. This recommendation included Legislative Assembly, our Financial Secretary, put an article in the newspaper on the 1st of November which should never have been there under circumstances could not be backed up, such of this nature, to get into Executive Council.

On the 1st of November, 1984 the Financial Secretary put out a statement which was headed 'Government position' and he stood the statement, which was mostly figures, with this like 'It is my opinion that the Caymans Islands Government is in a sound financial position'. He spoke with many words and I will have them to deal with the newspaper, but I think that in the Caymans statement also, because it is my opinion that you're a country to be in a sound financial position, it must have a substantial reserve, and this Government had a reserve on the 31st of December, 1983 of $10,130,850. These figures are now up to the end of August, 1984 and he showed the interest received from January to August, 1984 $702,717. He showed that during the year he had depreciated $2M from the reserve to do the Cayman Brac Airport, leaving a balance on the 31st of August, 1984 of $8,832,220. This is a statement of the Financial Secretary one week or so after some of the new present Members of Executive Council had said that there was no reserve. In fact, they had monkeyed around with the figures, they had juggled the figures and they had come up with a story that we had in fact something million dollars of unencumbered reserves.

This is only the beginning of the story, they went on with their propaganda, aided by the Caymanian and the Herald, that the country was broke. In November they were elected to Executive Council and they were still telling people that there was no reserve. For three Members of Executive Council sent to the Finance Committee in November and asked the Finance Committee to approve $2.4M of expenditure for building a block of apartments that they wanted to pay off debts which Cayman Airways owed.

During the election they were saying that the reserves were not there because they were encumbered by different things, yet they came in in November and asked that we approve $2M (87.4 million U.S. dollars) out of the reserves.

In the Finance Committee we had the Member, the Member from North Side who asked a question as to whether the Financial Secretary and the country had reserves and was told a resolution

MR. MR. MACKAY HUGH (CONTINUING): ...mention that Port Hay has no secondary industries, because we heard again with that we can turn him on anytime.

Mr.Speaker, the Lending Clerk and the Mayor both came to Port Hay and I have had the assurance of the Minister of Industrial Development, Mr. Joe Mc Any now, Sir, I feel did a good job from 1978 to 1985 for Port Hay. But ever since the 1985 Elections Port Hay was neglected because all we did basically got were a few crumbs. But anytime the Members from Port Hay want to call the people here and there to work.

Mr.Speaker, like Lending Clerk I feel still Lending much and needed development into our constituency, and Port Hay is a prime site for it. I commend Andy Lake for coming Anyroad, since he said he is such a gentle. So put the Lending Library there in Shanty Town, which is already over-crowded. Put that aside, Sir, that is the mentality of the Unity Team.

The commission and the people will be worked this year and the planning fields will be put in operation this year. I feel, Sir, that they will get the shops from Lime Dwight, whether it be a Stump-Lake plaza or Lone or whatever it is the name and the wharf, but we are going to put it, and this was the Lending Clerk saying that would remember that he is not the Member on this side: he is not the Member any longer, he is just the Member.

Mr.Speaker, I feel sorry for, Minister of Industrial Affairs many times Lights and one field has not been in operation since Some lights were placed. They were said not to function since there was a power, but the lights would function, but the Unity Team, they did not listen and the field, as I said, has been out of use for many, many years. But again this was pointed out by the Unity Team, in which it appeared that opposition would use it for their own benefit.

The importance of this field, yes, was a Lending problem and it is a problem that I intend to keep. So keep many mental problems in Port Hay and Port Hay is a Lending district, so I encourage see where we can participation should not decide to keep our campaign promise.

The last matter for Port of Spain concerns Sir, hence to have proposed road for on a part of the country, which the two Unity representatives were named to more unnecessary notice in this Honourable House. The present Member is not a Port Hayer and, as I said, the Honourable Prime Minister Secretary in four Many Day, thereby we have the voice to put the things which our district needs, even if it means another 50 for on a part of expenditure.

Mr.Speaker, if I am not mistaken, there was one decent piece of road done and that is back to Scarborough Road, and this was done just in time to promise a few votes. I have asked that the Main Roadhead be changed to Scarborough Main and Shrewsbury, I want to ask why I feel that this Road should be named Sailor/British Hero of the Hanson of the Lending Board, a well-known Lending and Industrialist of our community and a former Legislator, the late Adam Isaac Smith, Member and Businessman and the late well-known Chester, Senator Hyman and Attorney of our community, Alex Rouse Smith. These three gentlemen of Port Hay have done great work in the field of politics, business education and social work. They, Sir, have left a great heritage and I think if Lending Members can name their roads after them, I feel that they would be ... honour and privilege of Parent, should rename the Scarborough Road Facilities. Avenue. And I hope that this will be done in the very near future.

Mr.Speaker, while essentially with the most of Port Hay - when discussions in the Estates with Government Ministers, Port Hay would like to have their roads not be ripped up, because it would depreciate the value of property in that area.

MR.W.MOHAMED BUSH (CONTINUING): that was because certain people had no time to buy up property so that they would have made quick money on the Queen's Highway. But, Mr.President, our road in the Berbice/Abary Pleasants ... area will be done this year.

There are a lot of roads which must be done before the entire package area is all to be on their tracks ... get them done.

Mr.President, as far as Black Bay is concerned and the representation, I am grateful also again, a sincere compliment to the Minister and again I intend to speak to with the help from the people when I have responsibility to clearly meet this new ... these additional responsibilities. Sir, Mr.President, it is time for a new generation of leadership to come with new problems and new opportunities. This right is a new world to be won.

Mr.President, the new Democratic Council, with deployment have been cast as the Four Elected Members of Council. But I feel, Sir, that we must give them the chance to do the job, as I am wondering whether these people who put up and claim they are champions of the people, if they were on the other side, what would ... the position today. I do not think it would be any better than what we found it when we became Members of this Honourable House on November 26th. I feel, Sir, that they are capable, honest men and they might not be endowed with as many degrees as a Rhodes or Harvard to sell him to Berbice, but they are honest and they are hard working and that is why I voted for them and this is all I ask of them. I believe, Sir, the election that we had in 1985, coming from the era of pluralism like United States, will be welcome to do away with the ... this country and will find the four Elected Members with the three appointed Official Members, thinking to do business with them. But we, on all honesty, must give them a chance; we will get the investment, but we will not compromise across this country, or maybe our independence, or what have you. We intend to run a clean ship.

In conclusion, Sir, I believe that all of us, we should create participation problems in this country. While in a dangerous dynamics that has led to the destruction of political stability in every country we think it has been promoted. Although I am a poor man, from a poor family, I consider that I am here to represent all of the people of this country and in particular all the people of West Bay. It is my belief that if our country possess that all of our people will be given the chance to prosper, if we as Legislature here, perform our Annual duty. I believe that if the resolution and responsible for any of us, as Legislature, to continuously maintain our presence of any special sector of our society because the true position. What we must do, in my opinion, is to work hard and to work hard - politics as our duty, to alleviate, as far as humanly possible, all of the problems of our developing country. Unless I am mistaken, which I very much doubt, certain Members of this House seem to be intent on fighting our Agents and pitting one side against the other, and that is my opinion. But I ask them this question - where are the people who anticipate to see benefits from this kind of irresponsible conduct? And I am now referring particularly to a publication in Berbice that was published in one of the last week issues of the country, the Chronicle dated, on Friday, where the opposition held a meeting with their financial agents with Mr.Hubert Stoutly, saying, and I quote "they were going to recommend this budget and the Governor would have to go collect and that was ... Mr.Speaker, if our economy is going to get going again, then these kind statements will have to stop now, in this House, should not be said primarily to sabotage this country, full into stupid decay. We, in this House, are the pioneers, so are responsible for shaping the economy-that is why each

Mr. K. Mpofu (continued): ... Sir. So we have to look very closely at the high rates that are charged in these Estates.

In fact, protect our consumers, I feel, Sir, we need to look seriously at, and I would recommend strongly, some sort of bench patrol to patrol our business, especially in the night. I have had complaints of people being subjected and this to another thing that could have an adverse effect on our tourist industry. I think it would be wise of Government were to set up this bench patrol.

The Minister, Mr. President, I see in the Finance Minister that there is a change in command of the Police forces. I welcome this change, I am also pleased that a local man has been promoted to second place... But, Sir, it is only left to see how effective they will be.

The training programme seems to be well underway and I am hoping that at the end of the programme, the Police Force and our people would have developed their ability

Over the past years there have been many people brought in here who were supposed to train and organise our forces, but in the end they ran away thinking that we are making but a very wasteful in the area that our Force rendered, in my opinion, little benefit. We have some good Police and Army, we have some that should not be here in this country. Some of them have undermined our Army and have hurt and should be prosecuted. With the growing crime rate in our country, that is not another cost that we must pay for development, but I will suggest Commissioner Police Force be of permanent employment. The time I say Commissioner Police Force, I mean a Police Force made up of Zimbabwe, because it is my firm belief that a Zimbabwe, well trained, well motivated and with enforcement in this country that we may choose leaders.

Mr. President, thanks be but one issue I would speak on before I start with the remark of my constituency and the things would be education to it.

Mr. President, Comrades, as we have many jobs to provide and adding value to our economy. I am happy to see that the Honourable Minister of Government is beginning a seminar to help promote the country as a base for association-type companies. The use of companies, Sir, has increased dramatically over the past years, primarily because they often give large or middle-sized companies the potential to reach agreement between-related companies in the Americas, Europe and Management through a single corporate vehicle. The association enables, in principle, how to come a widely-discussed phenomenon because it allows individual members to take advantage of the benefits of a capable programme whereby the same financial commitments, that would be required if each were to form its own company, the company, I feel, is a good start to promoting this kind and I feel would be a means by which Government's economic and investment. I wish it all the best.

Generally, Mr. President, the investment seems to be doing good. It has its plus points, I guess due to the arrangement in the very real competence and knowledge [illegible] a piece of the small pie Zimbabwe, I must back to remind the country that when the going gets rough and the stone pile up, the Argosy people in this country expect [illegible] and [illegible] to assist.

Mr. President, the [illegible] Chamber that investment in the last three years has been [illegible] this country who will not [illegible] parties part of their business activities the country, [illegible] a great amount of investment are part-owned, with the money going into other country. These companies that are [illegible] this [illegible] the biggest part of their business overseas and only the small amount of [illegible] to life here in our country. I believe

MR. SPEAKER, CLOSE [CONTINUED]: take should not be allowed to continue. There are large internationally known companies doing business here with enough capacity and experience to make any of these ideas breathe. To offset this situation, she [Lou Arnold] is expected to say that the Minister should prove to the Superintendent of Insurance that the Israel market is unable or unwilling to settle claims. The Superintendent will be able to monitor and control the amount of local business that can be underwritten to the detriment of our local industry. I believe, Sir, it is a large amount of money leaving our country and this government is the only way good premiums, which these companies pay out overseas, will be able to stay in this country.

Insurance companies in Guyana, Sir, pay their taxes; they have businesses and they put a lot of money in the economy. Consumers should not be taken from this deficiency in the bill. When the Bill was passed in 1979 a fear was that it skirted the economy then and I must congratulate the Daily Argument, with all the bad things they did, they did do one good thing, and it worried the country that time and circumstance change, and the country must grow and the law must be amended to reflect those changes.

Now, Mr. President, my constituency, the Fifth Electoral District - West Bay. Mr. President, one of my political rivals, John A. Kennedy once said - "It is time for a real generation of leadership to solve real problems now the real opportunities, the blame is a word we'll do away with a real generation of leadership.

Now the point I was going to have heard the Fifth Electoral Member from Demerara-Mahaica speak on what West Bay would not mean what it does not mean. But might mean, Sir. West Bay was left out, it had no representation it suffered tremendously, people left the district and built their homes elsewhere. It became the black sheep of the country. Sir, small districts like Fifth Demerara-Mahaica, Fifth Cuyuni-Mazaruni get one seat because, Sir, because West Bay was left out and got two whilst West Bay, because some got one and that is not fair. North Side, I think, had nothing either.

Sir, we had to learn what way to grow to George Town to watch our football team play football. West Bay's played Bay himself for years. Our representation, it seemed, became like Rip Van Winkle - he was to complacent that he lay down by the foot of the trees and went to sleep and when he awakened twenty years later, his gun was rusted, his dog was dead and there was nothing left for poor old Rip Van Winkle.

Thank you, Mr. President, proud then. Now, as I say, West Bay has a new generation of leadership. Instead of having one Member and a Bill, we now have three. West Bay has the three elected Members and one Parliamentary Secretary to also a good citizen from West Bay and I believe this is a good team, as any, to pay him his compliments, and to say that he is doing a good job. I believe he left given in the jobs which we feel is good to see him still serving as Parliamentary Secretary, because Mr. Speaker Speaker had said on the Ministers, Sir, Ministers should fire him. Anyway, I think he knows the joke and I would prefer to leave it at that.

But, Mr. President, West Bay has representation. The Second Elected Member from Region Four, in his early campaign in his meetings at Bodles Town the other night, told the people where West Bay had no representations. West Bay has three able representatives and we are still living in our districts, and we still use the seats; we still remain with the economy; we are not like the Second Elected Member from Region Four, who left his constituency left his problems and went to another Commissionary to live, he should not

MS. V. KENDALL told [illegible]: develop our own culture and our own identity. I have always believed that we do not need to import some of the high rent bands that we import into this country to entertain our tourists; they could have discovered to them so many wonders the Kingdom of Knowledge in the Cayman Islands. I do agree, like this, our local entertainers are trying to do a fair job, but they should not be encouraged to believe that they must imitate the Jamaican bands imported here.

Mr. President, a good example of what can be done locally is the wonderful culture of what is known as Caribbean Pattoit, developed by a talented local lady, Mr. Edwina Solomon. She, this is the kind of entertainment that tourists expect to find when they come to our country, and we should do everything in our power to encourage and develop this indigenous culture of which we have so much.

Gentlemen, Sir, I do not have anything else to say but I do want to make one point clear, that Government has absolutely good reasons, we possess a good sense of opinion that is probably associated in any of the scholarship recipients from within our Islands right now. With a little effort, we could help develop enough entrepreneurial ability to benefit our present business interests.

Mr. President, Sir, we are quite glad to move forward and that is only one week out of the year. Again I say, we must do more to encourage these talents and to develop for our own benefit.

Mr. President, I would mention that the Cayman Islands have four separate physical attractions that are unsurpassed anywhere in the world and that is the beautiful waters surrounding our shores. It is a fact that many of the tourists who come here each year come here to dive or to come to them and I am happy to see that the Government has recently taken steps to preserve and maintain this natural asset. We could not save Coral Gardens but I am sure the opposition will have a duty then to develop the package we have to do something now to help maintain our good natural environment.

Mr. President, I am aware that there is resentment against the Casino Bonds - ask people from early years have been slow in finding their private investments and it is most difficult for them now to easily accept that of us who do make our private investments they still have to accept some responsibility. Sir, the situation is not being helped when the opposition talks publicly on the floor of this House about having to pay $5,000 for casinos, a figure far out by the Second Elected Member from South Side did in his political meeting. It is suicidal to talk that nonsense.

When I said earlier in my speech that there is something for everyone to do to encourage and develop our tourist industry, this was what I had in mind. I myself, Sir, am not, and I cannot be happy about being told when I can fish and where I cannot fish. Of course, I still do not know my Bible text which was discussed after our land-locked waters on West Bay, but I understand, as I said earlier, that there is a price to pay for something or whatever is the tourist industry is to this country, which amounts to $72M per year. This money we [illegible] is [illegible] and it is absolutely many of the little people, we [illegible] and when looking at the opposition get up and make [illegible] possible statements about [illegible] people against many efforts to preserve the few natural assets that we have for the future, they are not helping the country, but [illegible] are seeking the needs for the social needs that will lead to our [illegible]. When I see and hear [illegible] of the people today on I ask myself this question .. are these people really concerned about this country or are they concerned

MR. K. MORGAN BOYD (CONSERVATIVE): Short sale? Is there anyone coming into camp land up around North Side or is anyone coming camp land to some other area? Is this the case, Sir?

The Sister Islands economy benefits greatly from tourism and it is encouraging to see the especially stylish, by yesterday this industry and is promoting it for the future, for all Caymanians alike.

I had many complaints by citizens about the reckless attitude of some of those drive operators who seem to have no respect for the water and others using it, while they pay for protection for themselves. As an example, Sir, a fishing boat or other boats is required to stay 100 yards clear of the dive-boats, but the dive-boats are allowed to come anchorage alongside a fishing boat. This is definitely not right and somehow we must do something about regulation or rule that will end the problems in this area, there is much dissatisfaction here.

Also I feel, Sir, that if there are areas where the fishermen cannot go, then there should be a place where they can go and fish with no being prohibited to the divers. As it stands, it seems to me very unfair and must be changed so that the fishers will not be caught in between the disagreement in this country.

Mr.Speaker, in the Budget I see for last year we received $22,537 in fees and now $30,000. I am wondering, given our close proximity to the United States, why we are not receiving more. Now, Sir, I realize there is the question of hotel beds and I hope with the coming of the Hyatt this year this will begin to show substantial increases.

The other factor, as the Financial Secretary was explaining to me, is the matter European Dollar and the strong US Dollar, which makes the European market more attractive. But, on the other hand, as I said, bearing in mind our close proximity, I strongly US Dollar should permit more Americans to travel to Cayman to buy our European imports, jewellery, cameras, perfumes,etc. which should be relatively cheaper here than in the United States. Why, may be, Mr.Speaker, cheaper in the long term here I say.

I feel we really have to play close attention to the high cost of construction here. I believe we are exhorbitantly expensive. As far as the United States market is concerned, which gives us a greater percentage of our visitors, I believe much more growth is possible.

Mr.Speaker, looking at a matter side noting among of U.S.households last year, showed that only 20% of U.S.households took a vacation of seven days or more. That means that 80%, almost two-thirds of the population did not take a vacation, and of those 30% who did take a vacation of seven days plus, less than 4% visited the Caribbean. The same survey, Sir, tells us that only 22% of those interviewed had once visited the Caribbean on vacation while a great 20% said they would like to visit the Caribbean Islands. A good percentage of those living us use in the age group of less than 35 years old, so I feel that we have only begun to scratch the surface. I believe that with powerful marketing efforts there could be numerous specific interest markets with good potential for growth, as I stated Sir, the Government of Jamaica, when they can, and I quote "the Department has released a new administrative agency and will shortly be creating a whole new design and promotion approach to the presentation of its products throughout the world". I trust that the Government will take the things I have spoken of into consideration. The market place is much more competitive than it was ten years ago, all our countries are going flat out to attract the business. Antigua, Jamaica, and the

MR. W. MARSHALL HESS (CONTINUED): would have benefitted - he would have been joined, but the people did right when they joined him from that position on November 14th.

MR. JAMES M. BOLING: I did for the country what you will never be able to do.

MR. W. MARSHALL HESS: We have to see that yet, Mr. Speaker, I am still a young man and by the looks of it, some people in this House are going down fast.

MEMBERS: (Laughter)

MR PRESIDENT: Order, order. The Member should continue with his speech.

MR. W. MARSHALL HESS: Mr. President, Sir, Caymanians were also accused of not supporting our national athletes and this has been done many times in the past, Sir, and this is not true. Caymanians, I feel today, support our national athletes, but more such support would be given to having it done on a stable position, when we have the cases where the Caymanians are being charged $60 for a round trip between here and Miami and Caymanians has to pay in the region of $600. I am wondering, Sir, whether they had Caymanians at heart, and I say, no.

We also, Sir, have been accused of making the airline as a political football, but it looks to us that it was more of a financial investment for certain people, and if this high form of negotiation had commenced, we can easily see anyone what would have happened to our national airline. It is why, as of last night, Sir, all the real estates now know what the condition is today; and the whole way, now the Member of the previous administration, can say that this is a good position for this country to be in.

As I said, Sir, we support Cayman Airways and I hope that soon it will be made into a corporation where, at least, we will break even.

Our Fire Service. All Caymanians, Sir, are appreciative of the performance of the Fire Service Department. Today saw the addition of a sub-station that was badly needed in the eastern district and I am happy for this.

My own district of West Bay and the West Bay Beach were in need of a station and I trust that this need will soon be attended to, even if we have to use the garage-area piece of land in West Bay.

Mr. President, the scene now back to our resort area, and the Ruritania area in West Bay is another needed area besides. That, Mr. President, West Bay is a very large populated District and I feel that the Government should do well in bringing a fire station in that area.

The main station at the airport is in need of upgrading and we must also ensure that the equipment is dealt with any needs that may arise there. The Fire Service has many Caymanians who are doing a good job, some of them in senior lineups and I, too, should like to join those who have congratulated our Fire Chief and his fine staff. However, Sir, complacency are not enough for this man and his staff to do the job, I believe that he has necessary manpower since the grants, but nothing has been done to keep the men happy in a decent working atmosphere. A lounge for the station is needed for more reasons than one and I truly that this requirement will be something more than what has been done in the past, a more comfortable room for the staff of this Service.

If the Fire Chief and his staff are happy

MR.V. MATHEW (Kottayam): Each and every one of us welcomes the Budget. Even then, I would like to make a few observations in the Budget. I congratulate our Prime Minister and the entire Government for the Budget. I would also like to congratulate the Finance Minister for presenting such a wonderful Budget. I support the Budget.

Sir, the Budget is very important to me, not only because it is a Union Government Budget but also because a great many of my constituents depend on it for a livelihood. I was elected on February, as a result of the mid-term poll and within five months I had to go for another election. Because of this, Sir, I appreciate the value of stability for our economy, and this industry must be protected and upgraded to make it more competitive.

Mr. President, Sir, in the budget, although the industry enjoys some concessions - 20 per cent of excise duty - I would like to see the industry enjoy 100 per cent. Exemption and this is not an impossible goal if we provide this certainty for our people.

I also see the direct expenditure from this sector of the economy is in the region of Rs.4,42, which is total impact on the economy of Rs.8 lakh. Sir, if we do this large export from which the country is dependent to our development.

This is a highly employment intensive business and new prospect should be our people, since we have no choice, in maintaining an economic balance. We had one problem, Sir, but that was resolved during the Opposition.

And the lack of small cultural industries is why I have spent so much time in my debate, emphasising the need for us to maintain a stable, mutual climate. It was clear the reason for delaying the decision is this House for a further long, in which I would say should not mention the one that invigorate the country.

For a worker or artisan primarily to must be assured that job and he must be paid properly for performing it. The Minister, on the other hand, if he is to be kept happy, must feel that he is getting value for his money, which will the result be high, as it is high in these industries, including the cost of getting to those industries. As I mentioned in the beginning to maintain balance this one must pay from income to another income. Mr.President, there is only a small possibility that there is not enough we can do about it. There are lot of other things we can do. We have always felt the township may come from citizens and received funding. Through education we can encourage our people to participate in the field through private of our economy. This is all done in which study Government can help. Whether he is working in the industry or not.

Mr.President, it would not be reasonable that anybody with no small income would be without some cost and we must educate our people and inspire them to accept to pay the cost. With the assistance we come here, many local things are being discriminated that our home treasure society. Many people in the small economy, but there are others,such as fraud, parallel-ism and other allied evils. The task for Government is to minimise the effects of these evils only in maintaining this social and political atmosphere upon which the industry is so dependent.

Sir, encouragements in one area that I have already and an still encouraged about. But we in particular, one regret that sometimes will not please the manner of money now required to invest from their hands in the Union Budget or any other discrimination only in final methods different from what they had left behind.

We, in this country, must maintain our

MR. SPEAKER, SOME PEOPLE (Inaudible). As well, have persons without a couple that they have good facilities when it comes to upgrade. We have seen, in my constituency, some new recognition [illegible] and have been effective rehabilitation to attend [illegible] meetings. We will should take our hats off to these five facilities who have entered under such adverse conditions. I believe, Sir, that we must pay tribute to those men who are responsible who have financed to help [illegible] have said [illegible]. They have done a good job and I say thanks.

MR. SPEAKER, Sir, I believe our [illegible] a definite and material identity and rise to a degree of [illegible] among our people. It opens up possibilities for education and employment and helps to [illegible] our young people for the [illegible] of [illegible] in our community.

In comparison [illegible] what would have been [illegible] from Alberta, [illegible], I feel, in the past did little to help develop sports in a proper perspective.

We, Sir, I feel, have to [illegible] area [illegible]. MR. SPEAKER, I am not [illegible] [illegible] of sports but little has been done and the young people have the ability, [illegible] must now have [illegible] with [illegible] that ability.

I see in the budget speech that [illegible] through Social Services [illegible] to establish a multi-purpose [illegible] [illegible] [illegible], [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

MR. W.VASSEUR SIOUI (CONTINUED): under the past leaders of the Government there that could have been used for our social development, were diverted to the military policy. Members of the new Executive Council will visit, and during the campaign to put the military under civilian management in order to civilianize Quebec. I look forward to that day.

Mr.Speaker, I realize that an election is an expensive proposition, but I also believe, also, that a great part of the blame with Quebec Liberals because was from the hiring of unnecessary and expensive staff members. Also, for the election announced up until now only a delegation from the new Government, some seven, even of the candidates were ready to close, because of unpaid bills, and yet the new Government have been accused of watching the money's finances - what rubbish, Mr. Speaker.

The airline boycott, I feel, Sir, has been one of the main reasons for our disunity as far as our financial position is concerned. The boycott has been backed by such names, musical brothers, sisters, comedians, disc-jockeys, show-biz people and who knows politician Presidents, they talk about nationalism - that is where nationalism was, and these were the people who vacationed the Laurentians who helped to build the airlines and kept it from folding to pieces, scarred for months. Mr.Speaker, in my opinion, they were not for Quebecair, they only used used the Quebecair wars.

Mr.Speaker, if the Chairman of that airline had been employed by any other large corporation, he would have been fired one month after he took office as Chairman.

MR.JAMES K.BENNETT: Mr.President, the Member is imputing evil to the right of which under the standing Orders of the House.

MR.PRESIDENT: Order what standing Order?

MR. JAMES K.BENNETT: 33 (3) and (4).

MR.PRESIDENT: 33 (3) and (4) say that it is out of order to use offensive and insulting language or to impute improper motives to another Member. My understanding of what the Member-opposite was saying was that the previous Chairman ....

MR. JAMES K.BENNETT: Mr.President, I was the former Chairman of Quebec Telephone and I challenge any Chairman to do any better than I did, the present one included.

MR.PRESIDENT: I do not think the Member is accomplishing by standing Orders from expressing his opinion that you did not do an effective job any more than you have been stopped from expressing the opinion that the present Members of Government are not doing effective jobs. If he wished to say that you believed Quebecair to be an effective and insulting company, I would certainly stop him. As I understand it, he has been questioning your efficiency, was questioning the propriety of your conduct as Chairman, and that he is entitled to. So long as you are entitled to question the efficiency and the effectiveness of the present Members of Executive Council. If I were to stop him now I would have had to stop numerous times in previous days and I do not think that you would have thought that right.

MR.W.VASSEUR SIOUI (CONTINUED): Mr.President, the Chairman of the Board of Quebec Airways or Tele-1 was Chairman; if he were his stock running operated he is in charge, he should surely scrutinize the Member from Sorbier from was in charge, if any action has subsequently that the airline took between up until the 30th June, 1964 of $10,000,000. Mr.President, in my opinion, you, if he had been working for any other large corporation

MR. K. BARRETT-BROWN (Conservative): The economy could quite well take more charges for putting the letters into the right slot.

Mr. President, I could mention today why some big companies are not happy with the postal dispensation at the moment, but I will confine myself to one thing, not grumbling.

The moment will remember also, Mr. President, that yesterday we were not allowed the normal Business of the House with which to debate the 1968 Wages Act. Why was that put on the Agenda under the Ministry knowing that was not so. That was put on the Agenda if a resolution, as I am not arguing anything that is wrong. They could not like whatever it was about, they said.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think we have already gone beyond the normal time for the Lunch Break, so as the Member was interrupted temporarily, I will suspend proceedings until 2.15.

AT 12.55 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

At 2.20 P.M. THE HOUSE RESUMED

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.
Proceedings are resumed.
The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH (ELECTED MEMBER): Mr. Speaker, contributing to the Social Services, we must be thankful to the Survey Club and those who support it for the fact that here they have provided the time to raise for our troubled youth. The Recreature Park for-sure and the Prospero Pebble Mine for CAYMA.

I feel, Sir, it is incumbent upon the Government to ensure that these human life changing difficult and complex people who understand and deal with these problems of youth, for-example, this particular case out east to be the case in the Sister Islands. I have received many complaints of these girls roaming around the neighbourhood, unfortunately they are without unnecessarily dressed and there seems to be a lack of supervision at the home and I questioned the qualifications of these nurses who seem to be on a long vacation in this country.

Despite these two fine institutions, some of our young people are still being subjected to domestic violence which cannot be wiped under here. Sir, I do not agree with Hon. J. that not even one of our young people should be sent off of this country. If we do not have the facilities that is dealt with then we must get them, even if it means an additional jail or penitentiary.

Mr.Speaker, this country owes a great deal to all of the members clubs in this country who have really restored the moral fibre over the years when the Government fine because of the high revenues and surpluses ignored our growing social problems.

Another area of disagreement is on the Maintenance Fund in this country. I came to join a question to this unresolvable issue, what can $30 per week buy for a child today? Even men who work and on their pleas are withdrawn and locate them imprisoned for one not on any any contributing to our social stability. They, I feel, should be compelled by law to provide from those salaries to help prevent them from becoming a further strain on our nations social system. $30 is certainly not enough and I would like to see this increased and accompanied by having to deal with the product any cost of living.

Mr.Speaker, we are thankful for the Government who had the declaration for providing the proposed sports complex on Walker's Road, it is a step in the right direction, but certainly we have a long way to go. We must consider the facilities necessary, not only on Walker's Road, but in the districts and the local neighbourhood that will offer our youths the opportunity to play together and to learn to care while reducing off the energies of youth.

In providing these facilities, Sir, with our limited resources, we have to be careful to avoid waste such as occurred in the playing field in my constituency. Mr.Speaker, I believe its time now in this country for the appointment of a National sports commission and the creation of a National sports fund to provide assistance for organizations in the Entrepreneurial Sector.

I would also like to make a brief mention of a recent suggestion, and I hope that the Member responsible is taking his notes - the creation of a national square dance to encourage our young people to participate. Mr.Speaker, Cayman sports and cultural heritage

MR. [illegible] SOSA (DOMINICAN REPUBLIC): [illegible]

Sir, there has never been a most pro-[illegible] have never been and there is not now the [illegible] of school teachers to go daily the highways and byways of our country ... to the [illegible] lack of school work. All the money in the world [illegible] be used properly into our treasury. And I believe our good Honorable Secretary, would not mind that, if we had all the money in the world we would help our needed projects and we [illegible] might disagree, and believe us that we [illegible] projects. We do not have any more improvement and rehabilitation than any most [illegible] money back again in the [illegible].

Sir, Mr. President, the Trade Administration Agency, they wanted [illegible] money and [illegible], in my opinion, a [illegible] do there is a [illegible] way? The administration of the [illegible] spent $350 M; how much was spent on social [illegible]? Looking at the Appropriation Bill for the current [illegible] $2,387,000 was [illegible] to be spent, and the [illegible] Administration. [illegible] to spend only $2,226,428 and [illegible] 1983 and for 1983, they [illegible] spent $850,581, making a total [illegible] of $3,136,979. This is the [illegible] which they spent in there has [illegible] $200 million.

MR. JAMES M. [illegible]: In a point of [illegible] and [illegible] under Standing Order 21, Sir, the Member [illegible] and the people [illegible]. The [illegible] amount that was [illegible] and spent. There [illegible] administration was [illegible] and not [illegible].

MR. P. [illegible]: I thank the Member from Kaduna East for that point. May I intend, Sir, [illegible] and [illegible] but he cannot say that I am not [illegible] by saying that they only spent one [illegible] that they [illegible] of the [illegible] $3,136,979. As I said in their eight years, they did not [illegible] they had budgeted for.

In the Estimates, Sir, for 1983, we [illegible] to spend $1,961,621. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Honourable Mr. Minister finally gave this [illegible] to come [illegible], and if we spend [illegible] for this year [illegible] $4,288,763, a total of $3,750 [illegible] what the Unity [illegible] for Unity eight years in Unity [illegible].

Mr. President, I have no doubt in my mind that the present [illegible] will spend the money that is [illegible] which will help [illegible] and to the [illegible] that is so necessary in our country, and, Sir, I have no doubt that given the opportunity, this new Government will spend more [illegible], and I say that I am [illegible] with the [illegible] for this year, and at least the [illegible] is the last time to [illegible], because we will spend in this year [illegible], as part more of what they spent in their entire two terms, or this Government does have a social [illegible]. The [illegible] should be [illegible] of [illegible] this [illegible] total [illegible] in the Estimate for [illegible], for [illegible], when he will [illegible] that our [illegible] to waste the money on the [illegible], and, Sir, if in the course of the year this [illegible] are [illegible] to build more [illegible], then they will be built.

Mr. President, all of us in this Assembly have [illegible] have a great [illegible] of the social problems to be caused by the misuse of drugs, this problem must be approached with the [illegible] from drug rehabilitation centres. Those people who become addicted to this social [illegible], must be given a chance to live [illegible] and useful lives.

Also many [illegible] people, Mr. President, are

MR.R.MORRIS DUPLOOIJ: ...want to remove the already have mental defects and I think it is important that they are placed in a separate building from others, not all of the time, but some of the time, and are given specialist treatment.

I believe that, also, that we should be prudent [illegible] mind-drug situation in which young people or in early age, can be associated with the dangers of drug usage I believe that this should begin in the schools.

This task is not an easy [illegible] responsibilities of the most we must try to do something to make our young people

MR.PRESIDENT, there is, it seems, [illegible] people [illegible] in this day [illegible], we have been saddened by some reports that the Bahamas, and more recently the Cayman and Turks Islands, [illegible] drug traffic. We think great credit to [illegible] people, to make it easier for them to destroy society, Mr.President, too long have our [illegible] high time to punish for smoking less than a stick of ganja while the big boys [illegible] have at the [illegible] enforcement in this country.

Mr.President, I am glad that I can [illegible] for giving rights where rights is due and if one section of our community is going to suffer [illegible] all must suffer for the same cause. The drug [illegible] in this country need to be looked at, I [illegible] agree with [illegible] and I do not see [illegible] that the punishment of the [illegible] should be taken away, as the only [illegible] especially with a first offender. Those situations being [illegible] which unfortunately [illegible] are the feelings of the people, must address ourselves to it [illegible].

Sir, I have also believed that only people in a lesser crime than the wedding. The drug user himself is a victim. I believe that whether he is [illegible] he is not.

Question raised by the Honourable Member Last week, I am sure [illegible] the questions already have the answers they were seeking.

MR.C.BAIN SCOTT: Mr.President, on a point of order, the Member must not impute improper motives for the making of that question.

MR.PRESIDENT: I do not think that unnecessarily [illegible] Members is necessarily an improper motive. I think most questions are asked in the hope of enlightening somebody.

MR.K.MACKEY SMITH: Yes, Sir, I have a few other questions...

MR.PRESIDENT: There are different kinds of enlightenment. Of course, but.....

MR.K.MACKEY SMITH: Mr.President, I, Sir, am not enlightened. Nevertheless I see the hon. member going to [illegible], I say, think for it is not I.

Another purpose of these questions, I am sure was to place emphasis that I, in my role, as a legislator [illegible] conclude [illegible] the evidence from [illegible] of this case who happens to be a relative of mine. Both of the Elected Members from Grand Bahama have [illegible] the request for clemency for this man originated in the Courts whereunder [illegible] by the residents, requests of the drug [illegible] request for clemency was made a year ago, on [illegible] long before I was elected to this Honourable House.

I, Sir, would like certain [illegible], on the acceptance of questions by the Speaker of this House [illegible] clemency. But the fact [illegible] have merely in clarity [illegible] to a minute that it would have been difficult for him [illegible] to question him. That is the only [illegible], Sir, but I have heard of instances where evidence has [illegible] from the Court House in a change room, [illegible] stuck envelope of ganja [illegible] that charge. Mr. President, was one of [illegible] I would like [illegible] and prying into [illegible].

[illegible] morning, in which the house rose to its feet on three hours on the morning and a long warmth in the afternoon. The days are just enough for this short season to provide that possible. Use, if I use my good will figures as my friends in the opposition, I should really try to figure out what the average guest temperature in this world.

I ask in the budget address where Government will provide the service this year with a view to enabling the service here a stable interpretation again. Although I know that I would help to alleviate some of our problems, I am not sure to exchange development in Singapore in some might well be handled by private enterprise. Why the drawing of school children to these festivals before expenditure by Government. In the meantime this matter is not how much the majority of every country deplorably which because of the political aspect of the situation have gone unheeded. Publishing or my, this new Government must urgently address itself to the problems before we find ourselves with a deficit on our hands that has really been unnecessarily avoided in the past.

Some of the basic technological ideas children have no doubt in your condition, for my other day, the children were packed into the house under the worst of overcrowding conditions. On returning home in the afternoons on a rainy day, they see put of the house in the rain for the classrooms that their homes to have their school books, their clothes, their bodies washed. This is unjustified for no time for the people of every Government to provide the opportunity. I must do more to object.

The two main objectives that we have to put in our discussion during the years, will accelerate some of the problems that that is not enough. These objectives that are being put that no amount of money must provide the assistance to encourage a society.

Mr. President, [illegible] from here [illegible] Singapore was mentioned just now. The two airports, the new facilities that we build, the ferry that sought to move of this [illegible] expansion, if I remember correctly, cost [illegible] of private development, of a cost of $12,000,000 and when the Government of the day undertook a responsible attempt of the year ago, for the private sector, the ferry here, on they are anxious now, stopped a small [illegible] project.

On behalf the country, which would like, why, commend the work of all departments such as Singapore, Singapore, and medical [illegible]. Since 1978, the Government in the previous administration have spent more than $60,000 broadway down while and building that have without deteriorating our health care service.

Last year they planned a new [illegible] for the $500,000-hospital. They also put the Government's hand in [illegible] which, a most unavailable place, and Singapore there, why, no one will not seem the problem, has figured out the extent of the [illegible] that they have [illegible]. This I do know, and that is, all [illegible] which can read for the people and they, like, in my opinion, to

MR. K. KAUNDA (UNIP) (CONTINUED): ... [illegible]. ... those so-called shortcomings of the Welfare Society, were now saying incredible things from 40 fourteen-in a pack of stupidities that one gave you answer.

I ask the previous Member for Lands working between eight and six o'clock and 40 or 50 a week of negotiations, while his fellow, Mr. Fraser-Moleketi, encouraged the public never before a real enjoyment of experience came that: the Island.
That, Sir, is their mentality of helping the poor.

I am dealing with the Budget and I would say, although it is not the opinion of some of my other colleagues, that I had hoped to hear Mr. Ken Grant the Vice President of UNIP, instead of bringing someone else. I know the man who is acting as a qualified man, he has been here before, he is a good man, but I contend, Sir, that if a man has called an UNIP or stood in the other reserves for months and for months, and for months, why do we need to bring someone in to replace him? I believe and I would have thought he would make just a good choice. I only use words, but that in my opinion, and as I said before, somatitationally, otherwise are perfect.

Social Services. Mr. Speaker, Sir,
Honourable Financial Secretary said on page 22 of his Budget
Address that change was the breakdown for the Department of Social Services for 1964. Perhaps, Sir, there were mistakes, but there certainly was not enough and not, in my opinion, in the right areas.
The new Government, in keeping with our promises, must pay attention concentration to the social problems of our country as a matter of urgency.

Mr. President, the Prime Minister Member from Nadola Township, during his three or four days speech in the House, he took much offence that we had received this sum of money for social services. I said it myself and I say it today, the Unity Government administration has no commitment to social development.
This country today needs a social programme that will work at every level of our community to enable our people to benefit fully during the have a chance in the future.

Sir, as they have [illegible] about has not been all good, in fact, morality things have gotten worse.
Today, Mr. President, we see a number of social problems in our country resulting of family support, exposure of our young people to anti-social behaviour and creations of new dictations in our society. We see prostitute ghetting, careless shopping crowd, juve-tilation, disrespect for the law and mounting problems of the over-powers family.

I, Sir, do not contend that nonetheless we could have prevented all of our social problems, but I did expect to see a clear course of positive action carried out now that the Unity Government would have announced on the end to the kind of social development which I believed would have prevented most of the problems facing us today.

They talk about the increase in the welfare rolls ... but yet, Sir, I agree again that they did increase the amount in the welfare rolls, of course I believe it was done for political reasons, but, Mr. President, giving someone $50 a month did nothing to help the problem except to the very soul of our society. What a month could half people like Shepiole Zwelakhe who they were giving it to or how were wives, but it did no well-paid to blame of alleviating our social economy of the day. When we look at the amount of money spent on this country during their administration, in comparison to what they spent on social services, it is no wonder we have such backwards when it comes to social

MR. MAKGEKA (MAKWASSIE): ... and it is the only way before take him home.

Sir, lack of proper training today is the forerunner of much of the hooliganism in our society. Many of our young children are being taken out of school at age 15 and 16 years with hardly any qualifications for anything, and without the means or opportunity of getting any training. Our most of these young people, after leaving school roam about like a lame-duck. Is there any wonder what they human frustrated and rebellious and get into mischief?

Mr. President, I believe that these are the few of our young people who, if they are given a chance to do something constructive, will not succeed. We have them in every society, but more so here, because they are the out of school with no hope of breaking it all so as anything.

Sometimes, Sir, as an example, if I need my washing machine or refrigerator in my car repaired, to be almost a certainty that I will have to call an electrician, and, with the exception of one or two, the all Makwassies, will not be much better than a doubler, who will always be sure what the result is. In these are things that are affecting our economy and make life in these industrial very expensive.

In the past ministers, Sir, I made that nothing was being done for our young people. Some people wrote letters to the press saying that I should be doing more. Anyway, Mr. President, like the secretariat village, are what I was talking about and I am very happy to be a part of a thriving, well-organized Government, who cares. One need not be doing something about it.

The previous administration did about : Natal teaching school that was badly needed and I give them credit for that, but they were not nearly enough. The Native teaching School, in my opinion, is not a joke. For what jobs are we training scholars? On what basis are they going to find jobs? Sometimes, Sir, I wonder if the previous Government did not have ulterior motives behind, thinking as ways to waste the money belonging to the people; that would ensure that the black people, would never, ever get a chance to help ourselves.

Sir, thank God, we have found that the majority have confidence and, as the honourable Chief Minister said in his address - "We are on the threshold of great things".

Mr. President, I had hoped that the few Hon. Members who mentioned the land-locked status would have come this House with their open mind and that they would have joined with us in trying to do what they obviously did not have the experience to do, but instead, they have come in here, as I said in opening that was prepared to condemn the people and to make clear my opinion the new Government.

MR. ROBERT D. MOLEKA: Mr. President, on a point of order. The Member is referring to the Members of the previous Government and I happen to be one - I have never spoke to confuse the people of this country - I will never try to confuse them, I will never try to mislead them and I think if he is referring to the two Members from Lesotho he should say so. That I do not want to be included with them in ...

MR. M.MOKHEHLE SIKOTA: Mr. President, he was part of the Unity Cabinet and it was a Unity Government he has not forgotten.

Mr. President, they have come in here, completely in my opinion, to confuse, and they have been confusing our people ... to make them my opinion the new Government.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: Mr. President, I do not think anyone since I have been in politics or my colleague has been in politics, for twelve years, they've been mislead or misformed the people of this country. We have tried to show what we going on, all of because we are telling the people how the condition the country is in that is upset.

MR. L. STANLEY MILLER: Mr. President on a point of clarity. Sir, I think you asked quite a question here a few days ago explaining that when people were asking on points of order or questions, they should quote chapter and verse of the Standing Orders under which they are ...

MR. PRESIDENT: I think what I said was if somebody rose on a point of order they should tell me which Standing Order the point of order was on. If they do not I will assume that it is a point of explanation and since the Member gave way, then it will be responded to under S.O. (b) - rose on a point of order.

MR. LINDSAY J. PATTERSON: Mr. President, on a point of order under S.O. (b), it states specifically that no Member shall impute improper motives to another Member, so I think that the Member from East End was quite in order. Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think it is improper to state people may be in what many politicians do all the time.

MR. LINDSAY J. PATTERSON: It is improper, Sir, to state that the Member is doing it, if he is not.

MR. PRESIDENT: Whether he has done it, it is a matter of opinion and people are allowed freely to express their opinions in the House.

The Member may continue.

MR. H. MONTAGU EDGE: Thank you very much, Sir. Continuing the point? commiseration, but I want to remind them that they would stop speaking and I want to remind them that they should ignore commentators. This is what they have told us.

And it is my opinion that they are saying it, again to the people unnecessarily. I do believe that much of this is tough and I wonder if they really want to get back in power. I believe, Sir, that they should be happy to see the new Council electing to maintain them at the road that they have started. It must be plain to the country now that they were incapable of proceeding the development as are on. They are misleading the people and this is my opinion, but I believe it is all right. They are like what my uncle used to say about a certain man in my constituency that he would go around and rock the boat - I pick for another he would whisper - I know you don't have one'. They are happy to find a fault, they are looking for a fault and making what they do not like it.

As I said, Sir, I suppose the expected community college and I will suggest at this time that we name it the Alpha Community College, certainly, Sir. We have all the ingredients - we are a new beginning.

Transportation for school children. Mr. President, in my Resolution document, at the present time, we only transport in one form or the other, about twelve thousand of school children to the High Schools and Middle Schools in Georgetown from the outer districts. Sir, I see in the Estimates where we will spend $388,000 on this transportation this year. So we have found ... by an equally large sum to be by and on what we basically a part-time

THURSDAY

14TH MARCH, 1996

10:00 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.

Proceedings are resumed. It being Thursday, it is Private Members' Motions which have priority, and there being no questions, the first item on the Order Paper is Private Member's Motion No. 5 of 1996. The debate on that Motion had begun on Tuesday, I think, of last week, and the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town was speaking.

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. D. KAYE BODDEN: Mr. President, with your indulgence I would like the House to know that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town telephoned me to say that he was not feeling well this morning, but may be here some time later during the day.

MR. PRESIDENT: Thank you.

MR. D. KAYE BODDEN: And, Mr. President, if you would repeat your indulgence, I would just like to say that I regret the passing of Mr Ira Thompson who did so much to preserve the history of these Islands, and would like to remind the House that Government some time ago, purchased the many artifacts that he had collected over the years. When we .....

MR. PRESIDENT: Perhaps, if I could just recommend we start and thank you for it, I am sure all Members would wish to join in expressing their sorrow at learning of the death of Mr Ira Thompson, who was a very widely respected and loved gentleman.

Thank you.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.5/96
CONFIRMATION OF POLICE
(CONTINUATION OF DEBATE)

MR. D. KAYE BODDEN (CONTINUING): Mr. President, when the debate was adjourned on Private Member's Motion No.5, dealing with the Commissioner of Police, by closing statement had been that I supported the original motion passed by this House in 1992 - the motion which is now the subject of the Motion before the House seeking to rescind the original motion.

The reasons why I supported the original motion still remain the reasons why I still support it. The original motion resolved that it affirms [that is referring to the Honourable House] its fullest confidence in the integrity and probity of the Commissioner of Police. I still support that statement. I still have, although he is gone, the fullest confidence in the integrity of the former Commissioner of Police.

From the time he came to this Island he conducted himself in a manner befitting the rank of the highest police officer in the land. Members know that he had served as a high ranking police officer in these Islands several years before and had returned to England where he had been given a higher post, and he came back for his second tour of duty to serve as our

MR. G. LEE BODDEN (COMMISSIONER): Commissioner of Police. He came back to Cayman the second time in 1960, and one of his first actions was to meet with the Members of the Legislative Assembly. In that meeting he set out in an easy plan which he had for the improvement of the Police Force. Members also told him in that meeting of the many complaints we had about the Police Force at that time. He told him about the many promises which the Police Force had got to undertake and a plan of action which was well known to all the Members of the Legislative Assembly, as the representatives of the people of the Cayman Islands.

I can say that when he left here last year, he had carried out most of these plans. He had brought about improvement in the Force. One must understand that when the Commissioner arrived here in 1960, the Police Force was at an all time low in morale. There was public agitation against the police. The scene was leading to disciplines, and the Commissioner fathered about his job of building a Police Force of which we could be proud.

He accomplished this, and we find himself again being asked by the Queen granted the Cayman Islands the Prefixes of 1953, She, herself, bestowed upon the Police Force of the Cayman Islands, the suffix name of the Cayman Islands Royal Police Force. An honour which is only bestowed when a Police Force merits such recognition.

The programme worked out by the Commissioner was the formation of the Special Constabulary. This new unit in the Force was made up of volunteers from the private sector who dedicated themselves to extensive training; who received no pay, and who were willing to come out and render whatever extra hours are needed. I need not elaborate on the fine job they did with the security for the Queen's visit and on the many other occasions when their services have been used. And this is why I support the motion which affirms the confidence in the Commissioner of Police.

He also told us the one of his early ambitions that he wished to see up and working was in the Sister. This is something that had been talked about for very years, and is just one of the first questions asked in this House in 1972 had been, "When will Government buy a police boat?". So the Commissioner set up a marine unit in which the police had, at one time, three patrol boats which were used for patrolling the Islands; which have given assistance in rescuing those stranded in ships; which have been used to save the lives of people in distress, and the full unit is commanded by a Cayman Islander once. And this is why I still have confidence in the Commissioner Sinuens.

He spoke about the need for improvement in the facility for vehicle licensing and the issuing of driving licenses. The licensing department of Government of the Police Force had been working under conditions which were not conducive to the efficient carrying out of their job. And it was at the instigation of the Commissioner of Police that we built the new building all out of capital funds from our revenue - funds that mine were borrowed. This is one of the items that answers the question, "What did we do with the money that we spent?".

This fine building, Mr. President, enabled the Commissioner to carry out his hope for improving the facilities for the licensing department of Government.

The Commissioner spoke about the need for the provision of a modern communications network and of other new equipment. May I assure him and this Legislature that I agree with the original motion which affirms the confidence which the Legislative Assembly feels they should express to the Commissioner.

MR. G. CRAIG BROWN (CONTINUING): He had, as one of his qualifications, the ranking of the general standard of performance of the Police Force, and this has been done. We must remember that however much we criticise the Police Force, the performance of the individual officers is of a much higher standard than it has ever been in the past.

I do not want to go into the detailed programme for training which he set out, but I have two full pages of the officers who went away on different courses - officers who excelled in the classes in which they had been placed, and who came back and are now performing their functions.

One of his charges was also rectified and that is why I can say that I have the utmost confidence and I fully agree with the motion that was proposed and cannot agree with the attempt to remove that motion. But, the matter that most caused his downfall was that of the dual positions in these Islands.

Mr. Speaker, we are complaining that we only failed the little boy who smoked his little stick of ganja and that the dealers of any substance have never been brought before the courts. And the members of the Legislative Assembly, although some of them may drug it badly, know the Commissioner of Police is mandate to go all out to arrest the drug problem. And he spent about his job and he did bring to court many drug dealers and many drug problems. We also have tremendous assistance to the United States of America in which we spend the drug problem. But the head of the drug dealer, like the head of the mythical de long scorpion, and when you touch them you have trouble on your hands. And I believe it was because of this fine job the Commissioner had done in dealing with the drug heads, that he was removed wrongfully and that he left this Island virtually a disgraced man. He was humiliated; he was abused and finally rejected.

The second reason why I agree with the original motion and why I feel it should never be rescinded is because what motion also said that the Legislative Assembly will afford him all possible support in carrying out his duties of enforcing law and order in these Islands. This statement should stand for all times, and for all Commissioners of Police; the present one, and the ones to come in the future.

If this motion is rescinded today, the Legislative Assembly will be saying we would not have stood behind Commissioner Stevens in carrying out his duties of enforcing law and order. But, what is even worse, we will be saying to the incumbent Commissioner of Police that he will not stand behind him in the carrying out of his duties of enforcing law and order. And what would be most disastrous is that we would be saying to future generations to come that the Legislative Assembly will not stand behind the Commissioner of Police who enforces law and order.

So, for the two reasons just mentioned, we should not rescind the motion. The original motion went on and further resolved that this House strongly recommend that should the Commissioner of Police wish to institute proceedings for defamation against any person who have made or published such false allegations, Government as these allegations were made as a result of the carrying out of his official duties, the Government agree to indemnify fully the Commissioner of Police in any costs and outlays he may incur in bringing such action.

What the resolution did was simply to recommend that the Government should pay any expenses that he may incur in bringing action. But the resolution did not authorise the payment. There

MR. C. MAIG SCOTT (SOUTHERTON): It is only one body which can authorise a payment, and that is the Finance Committee.

So the resolution which was passed, merely expressed the wish of the Members who voted for it. It did not put any charge upon the finances of this country. It did not put any obligation on the Financial Secretary to expend any money. It could not. It simply said, "..... we feel strongly", and that what is happening to the Commissioner of Police could happen to any other Civil Servant. It could happen to the Governor of the land. It could happen to the judge of the Grand Court. It could happen to the Collector of Customs.

We feel this action is wrong because I believe that certain unsavoury elements for political power in this country went all out to make the Commissioner of Police a scapegoat, and also had in the back of their minds that if they could destroy the public servant, it would bring down the Government.

One must remember, in dealing with this motion before the House, the aim in which it was set. One must remember the conditions that prevailed; the atmosphere that led to the attack upon the Commissioner. It came at a time when the Cayman Government was at the height of its glory. We had just brought Her Majesty the Queen to the Cayman Islands - something never done before in our long history. It was brought at a time when we had the largest surplus in our revenue. It was brought at a time when we had the largest reserves in our country. It was brought at a time when the elected Government had confirmed at its very best, and the would-be politicians knew that the next move would be an election and if they did not start something there might even be nominations. There would not be any elections and we would just all be returned as the two Members from Sudden Death had been in 1972, that is the Member for East End had been in 1968 - returned without any opposition.

So the devil minds of the opposition had to find some mischief, and it is unfortunate that they selected an innocent man. It is unfortunate that they pounced upon the one man who had ever been willing to bring the drug dealers to justice in this country; and one wonders how far the drug money has really reached in this country.

The motion before the House would remind one of the last motions ever passed. Had, if that unpatriotic motion had done what the opposition claims it had done, I would say we should rescind it. Many elected members have spoken . They claimed it would break the Government (they might not have minded it in this House this time, but they have proclaimed it enough times from that they have). And, they associated some of the public with these wild assumptions that the Government would go broke.

So the motion over nothing, but the very citizens of the people who were against that motion cost there Islands a lot of money and a lot of anguish. It cost, as a result of this little tempest in a teapot which was started after the Queen's visit, an investigation of many public servants - cost that costs much money. Many questions were raised in the House in the early stages. At that time the money expended by Government was a little over $25,000; and I think afterwards there may have been other costs, or at least it must have cost the Government (F.C.O.) it was even the British Government some money.

Also, it has resulted this year in the opposition to have the Commissioner out of his job. We have called this Finance Committee the day after the swearing-in of the

MR. G. ERIC BOGGIS (CONTINUING): ...nearly ruined Honiara; and, in fact, the meeting was so hurriedly called that I did not get my notice as I had gone off to Makira. I did not receive the notice until I came back. But, it was so hurriedly called, telling us that all of a sudden the Commissioner wanted to retire and leave, and that we would have a new Commissioner; but, to get rid of Commissioner Kissoon they would have to pay him $50,000. And Finance Committee voted the money. I agree of public funds because Commissioner Kissoon's contract was to run until August, and if he had served us all of these years, we realise how hard he was, he could have lasted until August and we would not be paying two Commissioners of Police salaries from January to August. So we paid eight months extra anyway. We paid the eight months salary for the Commissioner to the end of his contract and we did not get any return for it because he was sent off. And of course, while we were paying him we had to pay whoever was acting or whoever was the new Commissioner. So it did cost the Government extra money.

While the elected members of Executive Council were making this thought provoking speech, they were destroying the documents and the records which are left, ending 31st September, 1982, in a deficit position or surplus in this range of $800,000. So this was just another $50,000 out of that.

I am not saying that we should not have brought in a new Commissioner of Police when the Commissioner's contract was up, but there was no need to do it in this fashion. And the feedback I am getting from the public is that this motion, or rather the explanation to this motion, had a lot to do with it, and the Commissioner's leaving in a manner result of complaint procedure. While it cannot be proven .....

HON. SIR PETER KENILOREA: Mr. President, I wonder if the Member would give way under Standing Order 32?

I should just like to draw the attention of the Chair, and the Member, Mr. President, to the statement that was circulated by the Honourable Prime Minister on this question of the Commissioner's departure as a result of a question asked by the Union during this Meeting.

I think the Member is making somewhat a position entirely different from the statement made by the Commissioner on his early retirement.

MR. G. ERIC BOGGIS: Mr. President, I have that statement right here, and in fact, just been reading from certain parts of it when I dealt with the achievement of the Commissioner. I am well aware of what the statement said. It was a press release, and with your permission I will read it for the benefit of the Honourable Member.

> "His Excellency the Governor, Mr. Peter Lloyd, today announced that the Commissioner of Police, Mr. E.J.S. Stevens, QPM, will be retiring at the end of the year. A separate announcement will be made later about the appointment of his successor.
> Mr. Stevens was promoted from his post as Commandant of the Police College in Exeter, England, to be the head of CID in the Cayman Islands in mid 1978. In 1980 Mr. Russell, the then Governor, invited him to become Commissioner of the Cayman Islands Police for a period of five years to develop, re-equip and manage training for the force.
>
> Commenting on his decision to retire, Mr. Stevens said, "When I assumed command of the force in 1980, I said several major objectives. They included the formation of the Spaniel Conservancy and of a marine unit; improvements in the facilities for mobile klaxonway and the cause of driving; Mounsea; the provision of a modern communications network and of video new equipments; arrangements for boats and some refresher training to be undertaken locally; and the maintenance of the general standard of performance. Both of these objectives having been realised, it is now necessary to consider what should be the next steps in the development of the Royal Solent Islands Police Force. I believe that this might appropriately be considered by whoever will become responsible for implementing any decisions reached - and that is why I think it is now time for a new Commissioner to find out the action that had been planned."

MR. S. PAUL SCOTT (CONTINUED):

The Governor said he was deeply indebted to Mr. Stevens who had served the Islands with distinction. "The task of a Commissioner of Police is never easy, particularly in a small community", he added, "and must often be controversial. But, Mr. Stevens can take pride in what has been achieved during his tenure of office. I shall remember in particular the successful performance of the force at the time of Lord Lucan's Royal Visit, and the splendid manner in which the duty was done during the recent elections. All of us owe much to Mr. Stevens, and, like his many friends here, I am grateful for the invaluable contributions he made. Furthermore, I quite understand the reasons which have prompted his retirement and have therefore agreed the arrangements proposed. "

The main thing of the Deputy's Party was to get rid of Commissioner Stevens if they were elected; although the getting rid of the Commissioner or any public servant is outside the domain of the Government under the Constitution. Every member of the Deputy Team and in their campaign that they would like to see the Commissioner go. And when he became one day, or picked on announcements to learn, one day after they were voted into a majority into Executive Council - what do you suppose the public to believe? Nobody ever changed my beliefs. I believe he left. I believe he retired. I believe he would have been a fool to stay with the vicious attack that had been made upon him by what is now a majority of the members of this House.

I understand that your Excellency has accepted his retirement. I understand that. But, I also know that the public are there believes that he were helped along in his retirement. It was a retirement that he did on his own, but which was forced upon him because he feared the representations that would come from a Government who had campaigned to get rid of him. He feared, or must have feared, what they would do to him. So they tell him go," they are not going to pay him anything. And so he volunteered his own head to leaving because he would have been sacked had he stayed.

The reason for the original motion which necessitation to occupy today, was because the Government of the day felt that the Commissioner had been unjustly criticised; had been unfairly attacked, and it did no good to the image of this country for would-be investors going around the place on public platforms saying our Commissioner was corrupt and that our Government were corrupt. And some people would disagree, I believe, which one mistake if it could bring them into power.

MR. G. WAIT HOUSE (CONTINUING): We can't make any more time for the hon. Member who left it a little bit too late to escape that distinction.

I now turn to the motion which is before the House. The Motion is phrased in such a way as to leave out the substantive portion of the original motion. The Motion reads:

> "NOTING the Private Member's Motion No.3/84, passed by the Legislative Assembly on 2nd December, 1984, it was recommended that this Government move to indemnify Philip Ben Commissioner of Police, Mr. James Stevens, in any costs and outlays he may claim in bringing proceedings for defamation against persons who made or published false allegations against his conduct and character;".

The key words that have been left out are, 'official duties'. Had the original motion read that the allegations were made as a result of the carrying out of his official duties, Government would stand behind him. But, these people who have brought this Motion have actually left out the words, 'result of the carrying out of his official duties'. This is the crux of the whole matter.

The motion that was passed originally did not give additional powers to people to resort to the Government for legal fees. It specified it to be an officer of the Government who was falsely abused while carrying out his official duties. There is no excuse for leaving out those words, and I understand why they have been left out. Throughout the campaign against this army, no mention was ever made from any platform that the Government was assisting behind a police officer in the execution of his duties, or the words read, 'in the carrying out of his official duties'.

Mr. President, it was brought out during Question Time in this House a few days ago that the Private Member's Motion passed in 1984 is dead in the water, and in itself is not even Government's policy. The Honourable Premier said in reply that no money has been spent under this motion, and that no money will ever be spent because the motion did not guarantee the spending of the money.

Now, if the motion is important and if the motion has not, in the past, and will not in the future, spend any money, why should it be rescinded? Is it simply to get rid of that little part of the motion that affirms the confidence in the integrity of the man, or that little part that said that we will stand behind a police officer just by which I mean the entire Police Force in the execution of his duties keeping law and order in the country? Or is the reason so easily understood, because not only did the members of this Legislature speak overseas, to raise the Commissioner's profile, but they also proceeded to get rid of the Commonwealth notice as they called it.

In nine things out of ten that we have dealt with in this House since the December election, we have only been dealing with the misinformation of the public. We have only been dealing with things that ..... if the Member wants to speak I will give way.

MR. SPEAKER: We did not hear.

MR. G. RAYE ROGERS (CONTINUING): We have been dealing solely with original premises and then Motions before the House to for the ratification of another contract premise. It cost us $40,000 in November to ratify a contract premise.

MR. M. McKAYA ROSE: What about Mrs. Rogers?

MR. G. RAYE ROGERS: It is going to cost much more in the long run of confidence and in the administration of this Police Force when they find out that this Government no longer stands behind them in the examination of their official duties. This matter goes a lot further.

Everyone knows that in the Magistrate which governs the Civil Service, and in your other powers, there is always a commission from Government, and it has been done in the past, to give consideration for legal fees whether the person be a poor person or whether he be a public officer. All expenses are paid, and even without this matter, would have been paid. I think if the Commissioner wanted to institute proceedings he would have paid his legal fees. This was not the object of this motion. The object was to try to put a period upon the mention of certain disciplinary points who had become threatening certain;

They were sending letters to the papers. They were organizing meetings. They were holding public meetings. We have coming near to a situation of real strife in this country, there, as my colleague from Bodden Town said, the fuse was lighted the day. This was the circumstance in which this motion originated for the good and peace of this country. It was not for the matter of paying legal fees.

MR. M. McKAYA ROSE: Did you say?

MR. G. RAYE ROGERS: Many the Police would have done it. Then of course, and the Commissioner, being a man of substance, might have paid his own way. But, it was simply to put a lid on this situation that had broken out. The motion was passed simply to ensure the political discrimination that were caused by ourselves, but not well-meaning people.

Today, if we pass this motion Member's Motion, we will be going back to anarchy. We will be going back to mob rule. We will be going back to the situation where no public officials of the Government can be respected.

Now, we are not here in judgment of the Commissioner. This Motion is not to decide whether he did right or wrong. This Motion is not to say whether he had been good or evil. This Motion which has been brought would suggest a ludicrous motion. This Motion which is before us would be a step backward, when no person who is attacked would know who might be a fair target. It has some meaning ramifications; some of them not understood by the enlightened temperaments of the time against our Commissioner of Police. He may have had his faults, but no person would have come against him if they had existed until they had found someone without even the least a stone;

I will close with two Scripts which will remain realistic in my mind. One is that when the Commissioner left this Island he had every right to smile because of his love of the challenge which the political machinery the this Island would have used against him. The second thought that will not be uttered in my mind is that it is a disgrace to the people of the Cayman Islands to suggest a motion which simply ramifications our commitments to support the police in their unselfish duties.

MR. S. MARY BOOKER (CONTINUING): Finally, when the public became aware that some of the perpetrations of the politicians against the Commissioner were themselves chargeable in corporation involved in crime, the public loosened the war which it had been taught to be. And now today, that all of that has been said to work, it is wrong to pronounce it and bring it up-to-date in the old genre fashion, and to appeal to our more simply to ratify the action that was expressed during the political campaign.

MR. PRESIDENT: Does any other Member wish to speak? Then I will invite the mover to exercise his right of reply.

MR. R. MONTAGUE DIGGS: Mr. President, in bringing this Motion to this Honourable House, I did so upon the request of my constituency, and many others from other districts, including citizens and voters from the Golden Rock constituency.

In bringing this Motion I had not really expected the reaction, foolish debate we have just listened to. But, Mr. President, if nothing else, this motion has served to highlight what really got the ex-Commissioner into difficulty with the public.

Mr. President, I first want to thank the Honourable First Official Member for his contribution and for his debate in which he enlightened the House. What they, who opposed this Motion here today, perhaps fail to understand is that in the early debate in 1623 on Sukkoth Hebrew's Holy Day, members of the public and myself were interrogated. And I firmly believe, Sir, that the motion was brought to this Honourable House in 1993 for that purpose and that purpose alone. They wanted to castigate people; they wanted to say certain things that they have said here could not be said on the public platform. Just like the Honourable gentleman just heard. This is one of the reasons why the motion was brought. They had not the guts to get on the public platform and say the things that they have said here. But they could do so here under the honoured privilege of this House.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member must not impute improper motives to another Member, and it is unparliamentary to say that anything Member said lied.

MR. R. MONTAGUE DIGGS: Thank you very much, Sir. Maybe misinformation is another word that could be used. I heard it used before.

Mr. President, let us get down to the Motion, politics, let us deal with politics, Sir.

Sir, a Commissioner of Police or any police officer, in my opinion, should not align himself with political leaders. Right or wrong, the people of this country feel that the ex-Commissioner of Police was chargeable of applying the law firmly to certain political leaders, their families and their friends.

Whether it be true or not, there were many rumours of the ex-Commissioner's failure to enforce the law against certain political leaders and their friends. We have heard, Sir, of the case of the Cecils, of when the Commissioner had certain information challenging Mr. Romero's involvement with drugs. But, Sir, Mr. Speaker was allowed to rescue .....

MR. PRESIDENT: Order. The Government may refer to any case of which a judicial decision is pending, and my information is that in the case of which mention is being made, a judicial

MR. SPEAKER (CONTINUING): ...decision might be pending because... [illegible] hoped that if they were brought back here there would be a trial.

MR. V. HOWARTH (RCD): Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I rise by point ruling. However, a Bill of Particulars or did they [illegible] Mr. Smith is not coming back to this country.

Anyway, I abide by your ruling on the President of this House. I was not going to refer to the case, Sir, so more than to say that one Kenyan walked out of the offices of a political leader in this country.

Another case I would cite, Sir, is that when a relative of a leading politician had in his possession an unlicensed firearm, namely, Sir, a revolver gun. He was not prosecuted. The public knows about this and the public was upset.

The ex-Commissioner's action in causing the ministerials was upheld by the public as the stand beside the agent's lines. Sir, there was a general outcry for his resignation then, and as Shakespeare says the conduct of the fellow Romans. Sadly enough in this country, Mr. President, we find leading the response for the fellow Romans.

I mention, Sir, of the Police Force was subsequently ordered and during the course of this ruling the results were not published, although promises were made to the public. I hope Government Ministers of Government will remember that remarks. It was a campaign promise that Flat Rocks should be only public and it has not yet been made public. I would like to see it. However, during the course of this motion, the ex-Commissioner of Police's resignation was pressured for two more years by the Unity Administration.

In September, 1992, Her Majesty's Secretary of State, Mr. Brooke, upon the result of the preliminary review, ordered a further investigation of allegations made against the Commissioner. By what were those allegations made? Who made the allegations that would this second review? Where was this man working? Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, the name was Snapshot.

On 12th September, 1992, as I explained it and I may be corrected, the Governor of this country informed Legislature that the Commissioner had resigned, as had Mitchinson of Scotland Yard. What did we see? We saw the following morning that Members of the Unity Government, or some of them, not necessarily in this Assembly had decided to give Mr. Brooke a vote of confidence. As you then was published in the newspaper of the Daily Nation, the Sun, on Friday morning, 18th September, 1992.

This was, in my opinion, and I will hold it forever and ever, the statement of Mr. Brooke and his political release. Thanking them, not only at the Government people who wanted him to leave, but at the authority of Her Majesty's representative in this country.

Now, however this was with a proper denouncement of the authority of the Police Force as published in the Times newspaper in September, 1992, after a certain political leader had been arrested while driving under the influence of drugs. He always was seen brought before the court when a Detective Politician and members of his family, as a result, erroneously damaged the Swire Inn to the tune of $2,000.

MR. M. MENDEZ ROSE (CONTINUING): Mr. President, these are the things that cause the general public of these islands, including this Member, to look faith in the Commissioner's ability to operate the Police force of this colony, and which led to the cry for his termination.

In my opinion, Sir, Mr. Stevens exhibited good judgment when he tendered his resignation after a new Government was elected in this Assembly. That was said and done publicly before this honourable House, hopefully, will aid in restoring the Caymanian people's confidence in the Police Force; something that no one can deny is not now needed.

As far as the candidates of this election is concerned, we have much above the $60,000 and I would also here for public record that I have nothing of that nature. Although I understand they have begun to comment on that Finance Committee meeting. That had I been there, Sir, I would not have agreed because the cut of the Commissioner of Police in the estimates of the year has seen this country threatened and unnecessary and pharmacies of dollars, and no one knows where it will or just end.

Sir, as far as it being a campaign promise, yes, it was a campaign promise, and, yes, it helped to beat the Unity Team considerably at the polls. I would say, Sir, that the 5,350 odd voters that the majority in this House today have enfranchised, these all honest people concerned about the welfare of this country.

One thing the member proved to us, or purport to explain to this House which was lost - either the Commissioner of Police getting his $60,000 or the same thing that they did in a previous Civil Service, Mrs. Ellens, in the region of $40,000. Why was not that explained?

As I said, Sir, his explanations are not justified. I think the Minister personally before the House is a good one. If he is unnecessary, Sir, it is only since what should have been done before, and that was to remove the first unnecessary position.

The Commissioner, Mr. President, has gone home. The Unity Team has been beaten at the polls, and I believe I have the votes for this Motion to be passed. I will say, Sir, that the Chair has proved a full stroke.

Thank you.

MR. SPEAKER: Unfortunately this was not the Minister's speech which I have been contemplating since he made it. and I think that position is still the case, in order to avoid any public misunderstanding, if I might on reflection to do this since it was a point made in the House on Monday. I would ordinarily have asked another Member to move it on my behalf, but since the Member was electing the Speaker, nobody else will be speaking to this Motion and there will not be an opportunity.

If I understood him correctly, the reason of the Motion said that the Unity Team, at some point I think in the summer of 1984, removed Mr. Stevens' services for the period. If I did understand him to say that, then I must say and that the statement is totally misguided. Constitutionally, no Member of the Government has any right whatsoever to approve or remove the contract of any officer. In the specific case of the Commissioner of Police, the approval of the Secretary of State to an appointment or a removal of officers is required. That approval was sought without consulting any Member of the Government and it was given. And, in any case, we were advised,sometime in late 1984 if memory recalls

MR. PRESIDING (CONTINUED): the previous time, before Mr. Stevens unfortunately came here at that extreme lateness and my predecessor, Mr. Stovell, kind he would come for five years and that although his original contract was a three year contract, it could automatically be followed by a further two year increment. So I suppose either it is to be terminated, a statement that the Unity Team rescind his contract. It played no part in the matter at all.

Well, then we put the question that Finance Member's motion No.2/65 be passed.

QUESTION PUT: AYES AND NOES

MR. [illegible]: I think the ayes have it.

MR. M. MERRITT BIGG: Could we have a division?

MR. PRESIDING: I think both of you were right. You ask for a division - yes. Will the Clerk please carry out the division?

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.2/65 MOVED BY MAJORITY.

MR. PRESIDING: I declare the Motion carried.

I think probably now it is a convenient time to suspend proceedings. Before I do so however I may just inform the House that I have, quite, unfortunately an engagement that before lunch and as I will have much, rather than inconvenience the House by suspending proceedings only very for the lunch break, I have asked the Honourable First Official Member to preside either now and until lunch-time. I shall be back again after lunch.

So I will now suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes.

THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER TOOK THE CHAIR

MR. SPEAKER: Motion to be moved. Proceedings are resumed. Private Member's Motion No. 6/96.

MOTION
PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 6/96
ESTABLISHMENT OF FOUR-YEAR DEVELOPMENT PLAN

MR. D. BRIAN WILLIAMS: Mr. Speaker, I wish to move Private Member's Motion No. 6, standing in my name which reads:

"BELIEVING it essential that a plan should be formulated to establish the areas to which priority should be given with particular reference to the Social, Educational, Medical, Economic and all other needs of the inhabitants of the Cayman Islands;

AND BELIEVING in formulating such a Plan it is incumbent to determine the resources and the amount of revenue that will be required to finance such needs;

BE IT RESOLVED that Government prepare a Five-Year Economic Development Plan to establish the Social, Educational, Medical, Economic and all other needs of the inhabitants of the Cayman Islands, the steps to be taken to fulfil such needs and the order of priority to be given thereto as well as the manner in which it is proposed to raise the necessary revenue to finance the said needs; and be it further

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that Government lay such a plan on the Table of this honourable House for consideration during 1997."

MR. W. MCTAGGART SMITH: Mr. Speaker, I beg to second the motion.

MR. SPEAKER: The motion to be moved that Government prepare a four-year Economic Development Plan to establish the social, educational, medical, economic and all other needs of the inhabitants of the Cayman Islands, the steps to be taken to fulfil such needs and the order of priority to be given thereto as well as the manner in which it is proposed to raise the necessary revenue to finance the said needs; and be it further resolved that Government lay such a plan on the Table of this honourable House for consideration during 1997.

Does the mover of the motion wish to speak.

MR. D. BRAGG MILLER: Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, in the circumstances this Session, I will make an attempt to make the usual type of debate in this Honourable House and if the breakfast there the battle took place then the fight for days. Not that I am afraid to fight in the trenches, Sir, because I have spent number two pneumonia and thirty-two in my hometown of the debate came back to the trench level.

Planning, Mr. President, may be described as the process for the long-term economic and social development of a country, and this, Sir, in country the intent of this Throne and before this Honourable House.

Mr. President, this country has long been provided an economic plan, but for the last eight years the only realization of Government's economic policy was in the annual budget. They are confined mainly to increased spending with the most part on administrative diversity defined, other than increased revenue.

The many jobs such a plan, Mr. President, I believe, is clearly understood in the fact that over 6850 million was expended and the only positive achievement is a little school, which, Sir, in my opinion should have been built; a new Lieutenant Governor's residence and a few other amenities.

Mr. President, our daily dealings with private enterprise. Many whom and others are in the province, and many social life based our balanced industries. Most of whom, Sir, have experienced during these years of great prosperity in this country, a reduction in their real wealth because they have been encouraged to hold their land simply in the form of whatever private. The money that they get from the sale of their lands is not liquid and they have no more land to sell.

The Government's financial statement as contained in the Throne Speech was laid on the Table of this Honourable House on the 1st of March, showing a deficit position of $8358,000 at the end of December, 1984.

Mr. President, as with the Throne Speech, I believe the time is ripe for action and not talk, and that is why I have moved this motion here today.

Sir, you will recall, Sir, that the Government announced five-year plan that was used to Government in the early 1970's gave us this beautiful building in which we are now assembled, the Court Building, the Government Administration Building, the dock, the highschool, the nursing school in all the districts. In other words, Mr. President, that plan gave us the infrastructure on which the economic base of the late 1970's were plans. That base, Sir, was the greatest base ever experienced in the history of these Islands.

Mr. President, Members will no doubt note that there have been minor changes in the wording of the original motion which I presented, and that, Sir, is simply what is known as the dance of legislation. The intent is the same, but the wording support for the legislation, we have to give a little to get a little. So there is no real change in the intent of the motion, and I am quite happy with the final wording.

Mr. President, I believe that when Government prepares a five-year economic development plan, and I have the assurance in the Members now will be working on that plan, that they will produce a good and comprehensive plan.

The aim of the plan, Mr. President, as I see it should be to reduce unemployment by replacing Canadian

MR. P. BEZALEL MILLER (OCHRIDGTON): ...and non-ministerial forecasting with simplified decentralization and national budgeting. It should also give priority to the needs for such inter and provide the framework for the Honourable Third Opposition Member to develop his annual budget.

The budget makers, I believe, make this plan have meaningful, which provide an more orientated, comprehensive and future minded, and those decisions under a dynamic plan might be considered by a continual process of preparing sets of decisions for future action which would be directed at achieving the goals and objectives of this five-year plan; and anticipating ahead in a way of determining the needs on their direction.

The five perspectives that I would like to see employed in the development of this five-year economic plan, Mr. Speaker, are: planning; programming; decision-making; implementation; and evaluation.

The planning, Mr. would involve identification of the needs of this country over the next five years. The programming would be the matching of priorities in these needs - that is what will be done in each year. Budgeting would be the purpose of implementing the goals of the solution for the needs and identification of the sources of funding for the projects. Implementation would then, Sir, with the actual implementation of the solution of the needs. Last, Sir, but by no means least and in many considerations most important would be evaluation. This, Mr, should be a continual and objective look at the solution developed to determine if it has in fact met the needs or solved the problems that have been identified.

Mr. President, I believe we could be on the threshold of creating those islands of the Bahamas envisaged by the Honourable Third Opposition Member in answer to a question. I asked during a debate of this House concerning the seasonal impact that there was an increase in the first two months of the year 1993 over 1992, and it was a substantial sum. Mr. President, that represents the real growth because no new revenue measures had yet been introduced.

If all plans, Sir, that is a game that we are in the threshold of another term, and I am very optimistic about that, Sir, that we will see a turn-around in the economy under this new Government, this plan becomes even more important if we are to build the pillars of the first term.

To create this anticipated term and to provide maximum benefits for the people of this country, this plan must give importance to a major investment natural resource - our people.

Mr. President, while the Labour Legislation, which will soon be enacted by this Honourable House, will provide one of the necessary framework for this measure even if we have to lean trade unions to remove those destructive theories as they are usually experimented when formed for political manoeuvrings welcomed by the Second Elected Member for Golden Gates. I beg your pardon, Sir, I think it was the First Elected Member for Golden Gates who said it.

However, if this plan provides first I anticipate that it will be effective manpower development which creates a source to harness and release the human energies, talents and knowledge of our young people towards sustaining our economic development. Finally, Mr. President, are the most important

MR. D. MAGEN WYNNE (CONTINUED): measure possible to the government, but, on the good years the politician have tended to limit and discourage outlays that go to human, social and economic disability.

This plan, Mr. President, must therefore encompass various activities that allow for manpower forecasting, manpower compensation, manpower planning, performance and appraisal, and human development for the growth of this country.

This manpower planning and development should provide higher wages, job satisfaction and acceptable environments. The plan must facilitate the development of the following basic attitudes, Mr. President. These attitudes are optimism, self-confidence, commitment and trust in our people, especially our youth.

Mr. President, it is my belief, one might formulate for this country, that contrary to many of the more mechanical theories of economic development, future economic growth is not necessarily an issue by overseas investments, nor of the concentration to some, on both of these, Mr. President, were looking on the past Government. How do I believe that to obtain resources into the hands of the entrepreneurs, is not really true in the past Government, when they were to rely on citizens of development and wealth without really raising the standard of living.

This five-year economic plan, in the longest application and implementation must be a concerted effort by the Government to raise the standard of living, the social well-being of Dominicans. This is meant to be, Mr. President, through a coordinated and total use of all the resources of this country, both physical and human.

This plan, also, must be the process of determining national security and social goals of the future, with the ultimate aim of eradicating the problems of hunger, ill and sickness in this country. It must be the means whereby the talent, intelligence and technical skills of the people of this country are brought to bear upon the formulation of programmes for the future growth and development. Indeed, also, it is the mechanism to act as the bridge between long range planning and policy making.

I believe that the plan, which will be presented to this Assembly soon by Government of this Nation is planned, well defined a social and political philosophy that the people of this country can be justly proud and that they will obtain maximum benefits as the gross national product is marketed under this plan.

It is something of a truism, Mr. President, that we are living in an era of planning and whether it be the Socialistic state, Communism, the Totalitarian with the responsibility to shareholders, or even the Democratic Economic system with the burden of our national budget.

Planning and control is part of our daily lives. We may not like it. We may even resent it when it is imposed, but we are part of self-discipline, however, I have come to realize that it is an essential factor in my business and private life and that it should be in our national aspirations if we are to be successful in the future development of this country.

Mr. President, as Parliamentarians we are privileged to serve in this House by the citizens of this country. We are custodians of our moral heritage, and we have a responsibility to live it on to future generations to-

MR. D. BRUCE MILLER (continuing): ...an enhanced and improved estate, in the true sense of the word, Mr. President, we must plan.

...Our economic plan, Mr. President, should be a dynamic one, subject to review every year to allow for changing national circumstances and the needs of our national economy.

Mr. President, I am not in the habit of quoting other authors, as I do not believe that the ability to intersperse quotes from books which one carries around for public display is any great reflection on one's intelligence. But while preparing this speech last night, I was reminded by my good wife of a quotation by Seneca. "Our plans must carry because they have no aim. When we are does not know what harbour he is making for, no wind is the right wind."

Mr. President, I ask all Members of this Honourable House, especially those who have proclaimed themselves champions of the little people, to support this motion. Let them put their efforts where their words have been for the last several days. I trust, Sir, that with their support this motion will be passed and this Government will produce a five-year economic plan which will lead to unprecedented development and prosperity in our country. Sir, most importantly it will have the ultimate effect of raising the standard of living of all Caymanians.

Thank you, Mr. President.

PRIVATE MEMBERS MOTION NO. 4/96

ESTABLISHMENT OF ECONOMIC ADVISORY COMMITTEE - DEBATE

MR. PRESIDENT: The motion is open for debate.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES E. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, I would like to support the motion, Private Member's Motion No. 4, before this House because I feel that it is timely. I feel that a plan is the first order of the day in a government that is presently managed day by day.

A plan is absolutely necessary in order for this Government or any other Government, or business, to know where it is headed. One cannot chart the course of any journey unless one knows where one wants to go. This is true if you are on a ship - you have to find out where you are, determine where you want to go and plot out your course. I feel that this Motion today will do just that.

We cannot continue to have a Government that is operated from minute to minute in a haphazard manner. It would appear that way. We need a Government with a long-term policy on the welfare of this country. We need a new direction and I am sure that this plan will help us to go in the proper direction when approved.

Mr. President, when people come to our country, particularly foreign investors, one of the first things they ask is, "What are the plans for your country?". What do you hope to achieve? Where are you going from here?".

If we do not have such a plan to show the foreign investor, then he will realize that the Government is not a Government of substance, and not being a Government of substance it has no stability.

I think that this motion will show the foreign investor that we have a Government with substance and a Government of stability, and that their investment will be properly secured if they choose to come to our country. We trust, Mr. President, that it has the confidence which the people of our Islands have placed in all of us in this Honourable House today. I believe by supporting this Motion, we will do just that.

I thank you, Mr. President.

SEN. E. MORAN SCORSI: Mr. President, I rise to support Senate Member's motion No. 6, which would recommend to the Economic Advisory Committee to set up an economic five-year plan.

Most primarily problems such results cannot be given day to day, we can realistically view the opposite. I believe, Sir, that Guidelines have an old line, misunderstood manner which is costly and disadvantage. A plain code the scenes and enables a government or legislature to measure their performance and ask the qualifications are confirmed in an orderly and businesslike fashion.

A proper plan can be the answer which will help to direct the future course of this country, and I am able to give this motion, Sir, my full support.

MR. PRESIDENT: Does any other Member wish to speak?

MR. P. MENESES JOSE: Mr. President, I would not have it said that I lack an opportunity to speak, and especially on such a momentous occasion in this Government when we call for the introduction of a five-year economic plan.

Sir, as I say, I feel, we the backbenches contact that we are right to proclaim Cayetano Guidelines. It is through the taxes of history that we are able to project possible future development. As we have plans for our future and try to establish goals, Mr. Government should view this task with enthusiasm.

It is a task filled with great potential. It is a task that will affect the lives of our children and grandchildren, and to put it in simple terms, the policies we establish today will affect the future of the Cayetano Islands. The question is, what kind of Cayetano do we want to see tomorrow?

Before we can answer this question, Cayetano as a whole, and its Government, must have a clear sense of national purpose. The time has come, at last, Sir, we have long years when we must set our national goal. This national goal must be to develop an economic plan that will set policy in every area that affects our lives materially, and that will help determine the future for all Cayetanos in which our socio-economic opportunities will widen, but more importantly where patriotism of freedom, stability and justice will prevail for everyone.

While these goals, Mr. President, might be found in their very nature nebulous, this is a task to which we must achieve success. If we fail this task, we fail in the greatest challenge facing us today.

Statistics has been said that we are in the threshold of another crisis, and by all indications if no great problems arise or disaster, statistics will be whispered around. Taken place, we are moving into a period of hidden times. But, if this is so, we cannot allow this fear to be every which way the wind blows. We have seen the disadvantages effects of a new Government, of which has taken place over the we have had misunderstood policies of the previous administrations, and we must now embark on a workable course.

Sir, I have always maintained that our economic and material development was for sustain the social development of these islands. This has already created social problems and we must now embark on a progress plan of social development for this country.

MR. M. MONTEIRO DIAS (Interpretation): Social development has affirmed, more than anyone else, our young people. Mr Chairman, has been held in this year for social development, and I urge this Parliament to take a social development plan into serious consideration when we meet on the Economic Advisory Committee.

Sir, I wish to say that I support this Motion. It takes, Sir, a new mentality to reach into the little and hearts of the people to make ourselves to face the competition of the world, and I congratulate the Elected Member for North Side for his foresight.

I support the Motion, Sir. Thank you very much.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Honourable third Official Member.

HON. CHARLES S. DARGENTON: Mr. President, as the Government considers this period of plan development, we find the period to be very timely in respect of various expenditures.

We see the need for a water supply, a sewerage collection system, additional fire stations throughout the districts, the need to strengthen roads and the traffic flow needs attention. As we look at all of these, Mr. President, it seems only logical that a development plan is needed. It will provide, hopefully, the answers to some of these problems, and I commend the Elected Member for North Side for the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there are no other speakers, would the mover like to exercise his option to sum up?

MR. D. DIXON MILLER: Mr. President, I would just like to thank Members for their support and I think they have brought to light the problems of the areas that we represent. I think the importance of identifying the priorities and needs of providing solutions for these needs in identifying the sources of revenue and how the cost of these needs will be made for, the public expenditure will be high. I would just, once again, like to thank Members for their support, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that Motion No. 6/93 be passed.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED.

MR. M. MONTEIRO DIAS: Could we have a division, Sir?

MR. PRESIDENT: There are no nays.

MR. M. MONTEIRO DIAS: Hon Member has not voted, Sir, and I understand I have the right to ask for a Standing Order 23(1).

MR. PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. M. MONTEIRO DIAS: Thank you, Sir.

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTION NO. 1/85 PASSED.

HON. MICHAEL J. KIRKBY: Mr. President, Sir, the next motion which is to be moved on the Private Member's Motion No. 6/85 relates to a matter which goes, when you are dealing on Government Private Officials' Member, some considerable responsibility for. It is my understanding that the substantive Government is restraining other hands to answer the Chair, and I feel that it would be inadvisable if the matter for which some responsibility were to be debated until you were not in an opportunity to carry out your normal functions as the Government Member having responsible responsibility for that, and if in deed your wish and the wish of the House, would I suggest that perhaps we suspend sitting whence another time normally so that when the House reassembles at, say, two-fifteen o'clock, you will be in your normal place.

MR. PRESIDENT: Yes, thank you for that. I believe some Members wanted to go to Sydney as well, if they have not already gone (laughter) as I understand it is Governor's Cup today.

HON. MICHAEL J. KIRKBY: Are there any tickets going? (laughter)

MR. PRESIDENT: Knowing all that is going on I think I am correct in saying that two-fifteen o'clock.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. Private Members' Motions - Motion No.5 of 1985. The Elected Member for North Side.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 5/85
ELECTORAL LEGISLATION

MR. D. REGGIE MILLER: Mr. President, I wish to move Private Member's Motion No.5/85 on Electoral Legislation standing in my name. The Motion reads:

"WHEREAS in certain Electoral Districts of the Cayman Islands each registered voter is entitled to vote for more than one candidate;

BE IT RESOLVED that this Honourable House appoint a Committee to study the Electoral Legislation and its effect in the Cayman Islands and to recommend such changes in the said legislation as will ensure that in all Electoral Districts of the said Islands each registered voter shall be entitled to vote for one candidate only."

MR. M. MASTERS BROWN: Mr. President, I second the Motion.

MR. D. REGGIE MILLER: Mr. President, I crave your indulgence, Sir, to suffer quite closely to my notes as such a delicate subject.

MR. PRESIDENT: So long as your notes are not too copious I am sure the House will not object.

MR. D. REGGIE MILLER: No, Sir.

Mr. President, while I realize that the Elections Law, 1984 (Law 22 of 1984), is a fairly up-to-date Law, and I do agree with most of the Law, there remains in the new Legislation carried on the old Law, in specific cases of multiple member voting. That is in some Districts, Sir, we find one of the new Electoral Districts with registered voters is allowed to vote more than once.

In the electoral districts of George Town and West Bay, each registered voter is allowed three votes while those of Bodden Town and the Eastern Districts are allowed two votes and those of East End and North Side are allowed only one vote. The latter case of each registered voter having only one vote is the only democratic process.

Mr. President, but at this time would be inappropriate to name them as I am not, and I repeat I am not advocating or espousing any Lobbying with the Constituencies of these Districts because there will be those who speak to this Motion who might suggest that is what I am advocating. Now, Sir, as I foreshadow there be increase the number of representatives in this House.

MR. D. BRAND Mister (DOMINICA): I consider the pillar of any democracy to be one voter, one vote. Rather, Sir, what I am proposing is that we look at the election law to find a solution to this multiple ballot voting.

Mr. President, I believe that this anomaly of multiple ballot voting can be resolved by the redistribution of the electoral districts in the principal Law. In the principal Law, electoral districts names or electoral districts are mentioned under section 4, and I would propose, Sir, that this section 4 be amended to remove this anomaly.

What I propose, Sir, is that section 4, which now reads: "(1) For the purposes of the election of Members of the Assembly and of organising and conducting the Times of persons entitled to vote at such elections the Cayman Islands shall be divided into nine electoral Districts as defined in the First Schedule.".

Subsection (2) of section 4 Sir: "The First and Second Electoral Districts shall each be represented in the Assembly by three elected Members.".

I am proposing, Sir, that this subsection (1) be amended to read: "The First and Second Electoral Districts shall be divided into three constituencies each being represented in the Assembly by one elected Member.".

Further, Sir, that subsection (3) of section 4 which now reads: "The Third and Fourth Electoral Districts shall each be represented in the Assembly by two elected Members.", be amended to read: "The Third and Fourth Electoral Districts shall be divided into two constituencies each being represented in the Assembly by one elected Member.".

These two amendments, Mr. President, I feel will effectively negate those subsections (2) and (3) which the provision of subsection (1) which allows one voter, one vote, which is as it should be in a democracy such as ours.

Mr. President, this division of these electoral districts into constituencies to coincide with the number of representatives now in the Assembly, would be a simple and straightforward physical division similar to those made for the electoral districts system.

The representation of voters in each of these constituencies would be the same except that in those electoral districts that would be multi-valued, they would only be the constituency in which they are entitled to vote in accordance with the other provisions of the Election Law. Candidates, Sir, would then only continue to represent a specific constituency within those electoral districts which have more than one constituency.

One voter, one vote should be it is to be noted that there are voters have three votes, some voters two votes and other voters one vote. Mr. President, I believe that the Cayman Islands can be only democracy in the face of this world in operation today which allows multiple ballot voting. It is time we brought ourselves in line with the other great democracies to ensure a democratic future for our children.

While, Sir, in some parts of the United States of America with the electoral is complete and each, there is a form of multiple ballot voting. I think I am correct in saying that in those instances, although the voter votes more than once, he votes only once for each office. In other words he may be voting in one election for four members of council, but he votes for those four people rather than four times maybe in or the same thing as we do in our multiple choice voting. So the electoral three representatives would be in the same manner in some constituencies.

MR. D. BRUCE MILLER (CONTINUING): Further to the adherence of the principle of one vote, one vote, there are other advantages in connection of this system, Sir, such as pinpointing the responsibility which the constituency body represented by only one member and he will either receive the credit or the blame, as penalty of the task, or they can, will no longer be possible.

Political shrewd voting by the more mature could lend itself to use by special interest groups which are multi-representative electorates as they could manipulate the election of their candidate by casting only one of their votes for that candidate and reducing the load of votes to be shared by the other candidates.

In other words, Mr. Speaker, take the Nine Electoral District of West Bay. At the last election they had approximately 8,000 registered voters. With most voters having eleven votes, that would give a total vote pool of 5,000. If 1,000 of those voters, Sir, for whatever reason decided to cast only one of the three eligible votes, they would effectively reduce the vote pool by 2,000 votes; therefore reducing the votes that can be shared among the other candidates for the electoral district and giving their lives, so to speak, Sir, a head start at the gate. Surely, Mr. President, like my deep concern that some interest group, whether nationalistic, parochial group or whatever interest group could unduly influence an election and thereby the Government of this country to their own advantage using multiple choice voting.

Mr. Speaker, some members of this House, or both as some ministers, have complained as to why I have brought this Motion so late after an election. I believe, Sir, that that remains under investigation, as I made explanations, towards the original intention of this Assembly. I would not, Sir, want us to be accused of electoral Gerrymandering to win a seat by leaving it until next year or the year before elections. Whereas, Sir, would I want to be party to changing the electoral process less than one year before polling day as was done with the principal Law in 1988. Surely, Sir, I would hope that this could be done in such as possible to give the residents of this country plenty of time to become familiar with the changes in the Law, and Government plenty of time to educate and inform the people affected by the changes in the Law.

I will not be directly affected by the changes as I represent one of the two Electorate that enjoy the same reasonable measure of one person, one vote. I therefore accept fully the responsibility of the Bills or course as the case may be, and very often, Sir, a first shot at each.

In closing, Sir, I would like to make it clear that in bringing this Motion it is my intention that the terms of reference for this Committee to seek that its deliberations and recommendations are confined to the Election Law and the definition of electoral districts, and not with increasing the membership of this honourable House as to change the Constitution.

I therefore, Sir, ask Members of this honourable House to support this Motion.

Thank You.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 9/94 - ELECTORAL REGISTRATION BILLS

MR. SPEAKER: Private Member's Motion No. 9 of 1994 to now open for debate. The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

SPEAKS
ELECTIONS AMENDMENT BILL NO. 3/85

MR. LIPSON A. SPEAKS: Mr. President, I have already told the Elected Member for North Side that I would be speaking on this Motion. Unfortunately, Mr. President, I misread my chance to speak on the one that preceded us, but I made sure that I was here for this one.

Mr. President, I believe that recently after the elections you circulated to Members of the Assembly on the question of the Election Law and you requested Members to submit any recommendations which they may have, especially on constituency in the remaking of Law 38 of 1983.

I submit, Mr. President, against a ministerial amendment to the Election Law - a law that I feel is fairly adequate and perhaps would be subject to just a few minor amendments after quite a lot of study has been given to it. I am not saying, Sir, and I would not object to any move that there are allowing reasons for bringing this Private Member's Motion, but it does seem somewhat premature that this should be brought to a Parliamentary Session at this point in time.

I think that this Motion is unnecessary. I do not see the necessity for having to change our Election Law to enable registered voters to be entitled to one vote for one candidate. I would perhaps agree with it, Sir, if a referendum was given to having a look at all the electoral districts in this country and perhaps increasing the Members for North Side and East End. Maybe at that time the Elected Member for North Side would accommodate his position.

Mr. President, the people of this country recently went through an election campaign that was held not under the present Law. There were no problems, and the people voted for those whom they wanted to represent them over the next four years.

I see this Motion, Mr. President, as just another way of being somewhat vindictive, and I believe, Sir, that it is just another way to try to rub it in, even though we had a landslide victory at the polls, we are still not happy.

I believe, Mr. President, that to divide our country into sectors would be to foster strife and people. We have a situation, Mr. President, in the Cayman Islands where we can still mix with people regardless of their political, religious, social or other leaning.

Mr. President, in my opinion such a Motion borders on irresponsible action, and this is one of the things that I feel should destroy this country. We have seen such unfortunate events divide countries such as South Africa, Rhodesia and other places, and I believe, Mr. President, that this is another attempt to divide our people. There is no reason why I feel that I should be afraid of this Motion be passed, while I have no doubt it will be in favour of the composition of this House, but I feel a Motion is difficult to go through I feel that it should be amended to read that the Committee should recommend seven changes or may be more in the necessary and not specifically as it is stated here.

MR. LYNCH: Mr. President, in the Orange State electoral district we have three candidates and I believe, Mr. President, that is true in many other districts where candidates receive under fifty per cent of the vote--a majority of the population, regardless of the result, would not endorse backgrounds of those candidates.

I can speak specifically of our Honorable Second Elected Member of Executive Council in every area that I have been I have received support. I know that that Member has received the same support and the same is true of the Honorable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council. The three Members for George Town.

In my society, Mr. President, the atmosphere under these circumstances are strained. I am sure that in the recent elections there was one vote cast for the Honorable Second Elected Member of Executive Council that perhaps was not cast for the Honorable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council. The same could be true of myself, but this does mean that we should tamper with the Constitution just to suit our own whims, feelings or desires. We are dealing, in the matter of this Motion before us, with a very delicate instrument in the constitution that should not be allowed to be tampered with.

I feel that this Motion before us is very much premature. When the idea of bringing this Motion was discussed sometime previously, I believe that it was the feeling of the people who disagreed at that time, and I am surprised to see that the Elected Member for North Side would sustain in bringing this here before us today. There are more important issues facing this country than dealing merely with the Electoral Law.

I suggest that all efforts be made at this point in time to improve the general status of this country, but we are dividing the country when we try to bring in these constitutional changes that only what this Motion suggests.

Mr. President, I wanted in my visits to this House that the future of this country depends upon our stability. Stability, Mr. President, is the key to our future, and if we allow ourselves to be put into positions where we start dividing ourselves, we will not succeed.

Mr. President, I believe the last major revision of the Constitution was in 1959. Perhaps it is time that we do have a serious look at the various electoral districts in Grand Turk, and perhaps a revision of representation in Legislative Assembly should be in perspective to the population. Perhaps, Mr. President, it is time that we had another look at the composition of the Executive Council. But this whole exercise will take time and it will take a lot of deep study. We cannot make these changes overnight, and for us to hurry with the Electoral Law would be a grave mistake.

Mr. President, my objection to this Motion is mainly on the basis of my desire to see us continue to live in peace and harmony in this country. So my main argument--- We do not want the Member for South Caicos and South Dimsdale Ward, and another one just for the place where several millions Dollars, and another one for the East End area. What are we doing? Under the Electoral Law any registered voter can exercise his franchise of voting. My only vote for one, but on these of us who have where there are three members running, we know where are these people. This is his democratic rights. I wonder if the Member is here to take this away from him?

MR. LINDSAY A. STEARNS (CONTINUING): Mr. President, I regard this motion as a very bad motion. I regard any motion that I feel is not in the best interest of our people and country as a bad motion, and, Mr. President, I would be remiss in my duties if I did not vote against the passage of this motion. I feel that if this motion had come about either we had had time to study the situation too precisely, I may have been in a better position to deal with it in a positive manner. But this is being pulled out of the sky, Mr. President. It is being done in a piecemeal manner after you spoke to us and asked us to submit your suggestions so that it could be done in a very comprehensive manner.

Mr. President, in the historical Statutes of George Town and Knox Bay we have three seats each. I cannot speak for Knox Bay, but I know that in George Town we still have a fairly stable society. We have people, regardless of creed or other leanings or backgrounds, who can still mix together. Mr. President, I believe that it is true to say that those of who were successful in the last election received support from a wide cross-section of the community. I do not feel that we were split that way. I do not feel, sir, that the constituency was on the basis of where you came from or what section of the constituency you belong to. I believe, sir, that the people of the George Town electoral district in particular and of this country as a whole experienced their frustrations on the basis of electing an MLA whom they felt was best able to represent them on the country.

Mr. President, let me not make charges for charges sake. I feel that this House would be much better served if any charges made here are made with open eyes and [illegible] I do not feel, sir, that this House should be involved in charges or the whims and fancies of Members of this House. I feel, sir, that we are very capable, honest and intelligent men and that our main interest is the interest of the future development and continued stability and prosperity of this country. Let us become, Mr. President, that in our endeavour and zeal we do not make charges that could destroy this country.

Thank you, Mr. President.

HON. DENNIS A. FOSTER: Mr. President, I am sure every Member of this House is aware that 'discretion' means wisdom and therefore I am going to speak on it and surely what I feel should be done in relation to the Motion.

The last speaker, Mr. President, mentioned your letter of the 31st of January, 1968, to all Members in which you called for their comments and recommendations. In addition to that, Mr. President, the Governor of Cayman, when I have heard much praise given to the Chief Minister, has set up a committee of six of his key staff who helped him during the election who were officers of the Government, to go over it with him.

There are many small amounts and small matters in the Estimates that are discussed and that I think we should not right away feel they be forgotten. If, Mr. President, as a result of your letter to all Members we get a few minor amendments, well then a draft bill can be done in the normal way and presented to the House. If, on the other hand, Mr. President, we get many major and controversial suggestions, well then a bill can still be drafted, but put to a Select Committee of the White House.

REP. DENNIS E. EICHER (CONTINUED): Mr. President, we have a very small population here, Sir, and to split up even the bigger districts like Helena Town and West Side would have the number of persons in each section would be very small. I do not know if there be any specific formula in other parts of the world in respect to the number of representation for a constituency, but I am sure if there be, Sir, they would be much, much bigger in number than we have here.

Mr. President, I think it would be useful for us to take the course that the member has suggested and I suggest, Sir, that we take the course which you started with in your letter and I am sure the Government will follow it up very closely. I cannot support the Motion, but I am sure, Sir, my constituency and the constituency that used to be made by the Election Law will be glad as a result of your letter and as a result of meetings that are going to take place with the Chairperson of Boundaries and his members.

I think members should hopefully reconsider the Constitution of this Motion, Sir, and have it take out time and look into this how to suggested.

Thank you, Sir.

HON. JOSEPH M. MALAMBO: Mr. President, I am totally opposed to the Motion before the House as I feel we really after a General Election this Motion makes us a step in the face to the voters of these Islands.

We have heard here, Mr. President, . once the first few days of the Constitutional motion, but, Mr. President, to me that motion was a motion which represented somebody that was very important. I feel that the Motion before us should a name 'the Speaker of your people Motion' because this Motion does do nothing else but to divide our people.

If this Motion is passed, Mr. President, we will be having only 8 Elected Members for Foreign Town only as the debate on this Motion we became one very public to say because I think he has pointed out every time that this Motion would become a detriment to the country and the people. My honest opinion is, Sir, that this Motion should be withdrawn and a public apology made to the people of this country.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Hon. Elected Member for the Eastern Division.

CAPT. HENRY C. KAMAKAMAKA: Mr. President, Hon. Private Member's Motion No. 3 was before this honourable House for very great concern from the first time I read it.

We have just completed a General Election which was properly handled and the people behaved in a proper manner, but,nevertheless, it did have an effect of division in our constituencies. This I think really ought to be.

I represent the Third Electoral District with my colleague the honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council and I am very proud that we as a team consider ourselves to represent each and every person living in Ogasa Town and Little Ogasa. What has the Motion would be done to our District, I have considered carefully on that.

CAPT. HARRY S. KITCHINGMAN (CONTINUING): I find it is our duty to enable the population of the Cayman Islands, that all the organisation and all Honourable Members of this House work from with our elected Members of Government in order to solidify our position that must stand. I can think of many things that are more important at this time that we should be wasting valuable time to discuss that this. Therefore, Mr. President, I invite the Elected Member for East End in moving that it would be my wish that the Mover would withdraw this Motion for I cannot support it, Sir.

Thank you.

HON. D. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, the Motion before this House, if carried, would in effect divide Grand Cayman into three electoral districts and three electoral districts of the same size as would be effected here in West Bay these electoral districts, three in George Town, two in Bodden Town and two in the Sister Islands.

As has been mentioned, the area of the islands is small. We have only 100 square miles and within that area we already have six electoral districts. The enactment would in effect give us twelve electoral districts although we only exist there or will then six Unofficial Members. Now, for political purposes we would have twelve electoral districts.

The population is small - it is approx 20,000 at the present time, and I believe that six electoral districts are quite adequate and we would not have any hope.

The Most Hooted Member for the Sister Islands who spoke, mentioned something about how the Sister Islands' district would have to be divided. He did not elaborate on it, but there would be many difficulties. For example, who would get the Little Cayman district with a population of 30 people, and would you put it along with Spot Bay or would you put it along with the Creek? Who would decide the formula under which we would decide on a constituency with the size and special characteristics of the two Sister Islands? Then who would decide the electoral boundaries within the George Town district? Would we split it from north to south or would we split it from east to west? Another item is the only district of the four electoral constituencies that have treaty sub-divisions into electoral constituencies because of the particular shape being extremely long it could easily be divided into two districts. But I should hope that there is no more division. The Government have brought enough division to Bodden Town already.

Some Member mentioned that in the last election there were instances where a candidate may have received only one vote. But what is wrong with that? If that candidate was smart enough to convince people to vote only for one person or if the people who contributed so much for that one person that they would not give their votes to anybody else, I see nothing wrong with it because this is a democracy and people have a say.

When I go to the polls I have a right to vote for one person or to vote for more than one person and this is a right that should not be denied. So if there is a duel constituency and a person wants to vote for one person, that is fine. If there are three candidates and the person wants to vote for two people, that is fine, and if he wants to vote for all three, that is also fine.

MR. G. MAIT ROSEN (CONTINUED): The Electoral Law which we have a thorough revision in 1992 and now assented to by the Governor in December 17, 1992. It was necessary to revise the Electoral Law because it had been on the books for a long time. I think the law we had been working with has actually been passed in 1966. There may have been some amendments over the years, but in 1992 we had a new Constitution and so we were amending the Electoral Order that had been passed before the 1992 Constitution was in use now-adays to bring the law up to date; and we hoped some time could have been caught when new laws for the General Elections.

The Law would provide a Select Committee. There were many reasons as to why everybody concerned had an opportunity to have some input in the law.

The recent elections showed a high turnout of voters in every district and in fact in North Side, Port and Middle Town the number of people turning out was exceptionally high for any country. Even in George Town where the turnout had been low in some years, there was an extremely good turnout of voters. The candidates returned, I believe, with the candidates that the public wanted.

I have always said that in elections we find that the public will normally return the people they believe to be the best ones to represent them. It is true that sometimes they find very soon they have made a mistake, but that is the way elections go. So if the honeymoon period with only after a couple of months, if as the electorate who brought and paid the price for the type of government they have and they will have an opportunity to correct that error after four years, which period, might even be asked so it is to think your original opinion.

If this Motion had gone to the House asking for a National election where Cayman Brac could represent the Cayman Islands, I would have supported it because I have seen also in other Islands that we believe the impression that there is an inadequate attitude which has prevented the capital budget which has been approved this year in that some allowance like Middle Town and East End, with no representation in Executive Council, have found themselves without any capital work. But I will debate this later when I come to the Budget.

It is true that there are not many places left in the world with such constituencies. In the Caribbean many of our sister Islands have the one member constituency. Why I would like to ask is, are they any better off by having this constituency? Are they any better off than the Jamaica Labour people or the Bajan Labour people, or the predominantly happy people in Trinidad South? Are they any better off by having one member constituencies?

There is no evidence at all that our electorate' system is not working well. Members come and go. Some of them a little faster than others, but this is a part of the election process and we have to consider that system because there is a danger in tampering with what has been established - whether it is the present thinking on the Jamaican Electoral System the people in a country have to accept a way of life. The way of life they have grown up with. This applies to which they were born.

There is a danger in tampering with the Constitution, which we are not doing here. There is a danger in tampering with the Electoral Law. There is a danger in tampering with, as a former Member of the House used to say, things that are working well. If it works well don't fix it.

MR. G. DALE DOWDEN (Government): I would not like to see this Motion sent to a Select Committee of this House. I would like to see it voted on here and action taken immediately on it. I believe the system recommended in this Motion would increase substantially the cost of running an election and would therefore complicate what already is a very complex system.

It is good there have been changes in electoral procedure. Many years ago, in English history, Lord John Russell had a lot to do with parliamentary reform, but that was necessary because there were grave inequities that existed then that do not exist here. For example, at the time of the 1832 first parliamentary reform, there were many boroughs in England that had nobody living in them at all, yet they were sending three or four members to parliament and some of the newly populated and highly industrialized cities had no members of parliament to represent them. And there were grave inequities at that time and he brought a Bill that divided Englandshire in some equitable electoral system so that a certain number of people would have reasonable representation. That is not the case here now I believe we have an election system that has worked quite well.

Those islands had its first election over one hundred and fifty years ago. Only a few short years ago we celebrated the 'Jubilee Anniversary of Parliamentary Government in the Queen Islands', and although Members may disagree somewhat I believe the election system that we have is a good one. It will undoubtedly help to preserve the system as it is. Because of that I cannot lend my support to the Motion before the House.

MR. SPEAKER: Does any other Honourable Member wish to speak?

Does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply? Oh, I beg your pardon - the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. STANLEY O. DIXON: Mr. Speaker, I am not rising to support this Motion at all either, neither am I going to condone what I believe to be the thought behind the bringing of the Motion.

Members seem to have been debating our electoral system rather than what I perceive to be the gist of this Motion, and that is that democracy is based on the premise of one man, one vote. As I see it this is what the Elected Member for North Side is seeking with this Motion. Therefore, having given consideration to that, I do not see the Motion as an obstruction as I might as some Members seem to see it. To start, I recall, Mr. President, that when our new Constitution was being drafted in 1972 there was a request done by the Constitutional Commissioners, Lord Oxford and Asquith. The request consisted of recommendations and then it had explanations and observations.

One of the observations was concerning which the Commissioners Lord Oxford and Asquith said was that it was to his regret that he had not been able to call the time of single member constituencies to the Island and implement of that day, but it was a matter which he hoped the next Assembly shortly after 1973 would address itself to.

Succeeding Members might found it convenient or not to their liking to discuss the matter that. The Elected Member for North Side who brought this Motion sees the system as somewhat inequitable. That being the case, Mr. President, I do not think that the Member could be criticised for having brought the Motion.

MRS. EDWARD O. REVELS (CONTINUING): To perpetuate a system that if we accept democracy as one must, one will do not in my opinion an enlightened approach. To discuss the electoral system generally, there are problems under the Electoral Law. For example, the question of postal voting where a complete constituency could be determined by a batch of say 100 or 150 postal ballots which could be controlled by a party, and those 150 votes could then determine all three representatives from the district let us say of West Ely.

If we had single member constituencies this would be more difficult. But, Mr. Speaker, having said all of that I recognise that you have circulated every Member of this House asking them to come on their comments if you will for any alternative of course or modification to the Law and that this would be given some consideration. I think that is the way that something like this should be handled. It is obviously not a popular move to introduce the single member constituency and I am afraid that the Electoral Reform for North Side will have to be obviously a lot more selling techniques on this concept if it is to find favour in this House and, I dare say, in the Islands because as one Member said there are people who cherish long established traditions very deeply.

Mr. Speaker, as I said, because of that fact I will vote against the Motion. I do not see the sense in setting up a multitude of Committees to look into the electoral process, and it is possible that a Committee may come from the comments that you have solicited and it is a matter for which I am totally will not recommend any hasty precipitate action as it is a matter which I would want to consult broadly on and discuss openly that my constituents, for example, understand what was being proposed before I took a position on the matter.

I have said this, Mr. Speaker, to say that I think the issue here is basically that I consider our interpretation of democracy. In this House we have one vote only and it is the recognised concept of democracy - one person, one vote. This could be the effect of what the Elected Member for North Side is attempting to do. I see nothing sinister or unusual in it. In fact, our situation in these Islands must be unique where we still have the multiple member constituency where a person has the right to exercise one, two or three votes.

Merely going that impress to the Motion, I must warn the Elected Member for North Side that for the reasons which I stated I will be voting against it.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think in fact it will probably be convenient if we take our customary afternoon break now, so I will suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes.

AT 2.57 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RECONVENED AT 8:45 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. Pursuant to Member's Notice No. 6 of 1985, Does any other Member wish to speak? Does the mover wish to reply?

MR. S. BEALE SPEAKER: Yes, Mr. President. This is obviously the first opportunity I have had to speak alone on my Motion, but it is a quiet feeling. Sir, until I am sure it will happen many times in the future. It clearly identifies my political vulnerability as the appointed Members will have to be careful how they use their votes from now on.

Mr. President, I, in lobbying for the passage of the Motion, got some feedback that there would be some hesitancies, but not in my wildest imagination, Sir, could I have anticipated the violent reactions of certain Members of this House. It was, Sir, that a Motion which I thought and clearly in my presentation of that Motion stated that it was brought on the grounds to remedy equality with the two democratic process of one voter, one vote, it will not only one man, one vote because the women might get upset and think I do not want them to have a voice, however, the true democratic process of one voter, one vote, is why, Sir, that I have brought this for attention, maybe on for ever in Bermuda.

I apologize, as I said to my preamble-tion, I single member representing the people in the beautiful district of North Side using the true democratic process.

I would just like to draw your attention, Sir, to the areas where we are hearing the words separation, secession, dividing people by colour, the Motion in no way, Sir, if it was passed would or would have done that. There is nothing in the Motion that says we have to divide the electorate into good, better, black or white, and in my presentation I said that it would be impossible division should not exist for the electoral districts.

Mr. President, that statement for physical division need not mean it has to be in a straight line, it does mean it has to be the better-off areas and the bad areas separated. I believe, Sir, it would be very difficult to divide any of the multiple constituencies into single voter constituencies and not include people of all walks of life in all other areas where they were identified as single member constituencies.

Sir, I feel strongly about this...I have brought it to the attention of the House. I feel that it is my duty to my people and, Sir, I have no shame now, nor apologies for bringing the Motion. It is for us to be reviewed in as the Million/Mulloway Motion in the future, I am happy to accept that. Sir. I am proud of it because I am simply trying to equate the democratic process and I hope, Sir, that clearly those people on right and that those representative politics which so much has been made of and which certain Members have tried to identify as my motive for bringing this Motion, does not in fact raise its head under this system and we do find special interest groups electing their representatives for their own benefit and it matters the destiny of this country.

MR. D. EDGAR HARPER (Continued): ...that shows me once more, Sir, he that some people may be shouted not bother with the Election Law when it fact is was compared with the fifty-five different Sections in 1893. Only Mr Speaker, that left little time for the populace of this country to comprehend, understand and appreciate all of the changes that were only under that Law. It also created some confusion in the elections.

There are other Members, Sir, who do not want to tamper with the Election Law, but they are happy to tamper with an even more sacred document, that is the Constitution, because the only way they can increase membership of this honourable House is by changing the Constitution; and I am not prepared to support any changes in our Constitution. So you see, Sir, those people seem to be speaking with forked tongues. Or the one hand they do not want to tamper with one thing, but they are quite willing to tamper with something that is even more sacred or more important in protecting a democratic process.

Hon Members, Mr. Speaker, tried to dissect the mechanism and said that there are so many areas in this country that are more important than changes to the Elections Law. Why again not these Members, Sir, brought Private Members' Motions to identify those needs and to seek solutions to those needs? Why are they sitting back refusing the needs as neglected? I quite strongly object this and I would apologize to you, Sir, in this same letter about meeting of the Committee to look at the Elections Law received after I had handed this Motion to the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.

Sir, my contention in this principle, and that, Sir, is what I mean, if one votes, one vote, would not allow me to withdraw the Motion after having put it forward. If I am defeated, so be it, Mr. President. As I said, I shall never be afraid to stand on a principle which I believe, or to stand alone on something which I believe will improve a situation, create more opportunity for our people. So, Sir, with those few remarks I commend the Motion to the Members and implore them to support the Motion, even if they have to rethink it.

Thank you.

HON. PRESIDENT: I will now put the question.

QUESTION PUT: AYES AND NOES.

HON. D. DAVID WILLIAMS: May we have a division, Sir?

HON. PRESIDENT: Certainly. Will the Clerk please call the division.?

MR. SPEAKER: The Government Motion cannot now be put as it has been defeated (Laughter)

TODAY: 9 APRIL - 12 NOES

MR. SPEAKER: I declare the Motion lost.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.6/85 INCREASE

MR. V. MATTHEWS (Teller): It does show that the opposition and Government can work together though.

MR. SPEAKER: Order! Order!
The next item on the Order Paper is Private Member's Motion No.6 of 1985 to be moved by the Fourth Elected Member for Broken Town. Perhaps I was just remind the House of what I said. I think it was before Private Member's Motion No. 1 was moved, was. I drew Members' attention to the provisions of Standing Order 82 and those provisions of course apply in the case of Private Member's Motion No. 6. In other words as soon as the mover has moved his Motion and it has been seconded I am obliged by Standing Order to put the question that it be referred to a Select Committee on Standing Orders.

MR. DR. RAIS BOSCH: Mr. President, I understand from reading that under Standing Order 82 this Motion, once moved, will go to a Committee and that once I move the Motion there will be no debate. However, I would like to draw your attention, Sir, to Erskine May, page 414, on the moving of motions.

MR. SPEAKER: Could I just ...

MR. D. RAIS BOSCH: It says a Member called upon to move a motion may speak at the moment he actually proposes it, and I am claiming my right to speak before I move my motion that the Motion be now [illegible]

MR. SPEAKER: Perhaps I can just have a look at Erskine May to make sure that that particular .....

MR. G. RAIS HOWARD: I would also like to refer you to the paper that was distributed in the House yesterday where Mr. Laurence said, in the House of Commons, that once a member started to move a motion there was no rule of the House to stop him once he started to move it. So that if I start to move it with only a speech I cannot be stopped from moving the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT: Could you tell me the page again?

MR. G. RAIS HOWARD: Yes, Mr. President. Page 372 and it is the fourth paragraph - "A member called upon to move a motion... ...".

MR. PRESIDENT: I suppose I have a different edition of Erskine May. I have the twentieth edition. Do you have .....?

MR. G. RAIS HOWARD: This is the nineteenth edition.

MR. SPEAKER: Thank you.

HON. MICHAEL J. FOLEY: Mr. President, Sir, if I may perhaps try, and so far as I can see it, myself the Hon. No, under our Standing Orders are bound by those standing Orders except in relation to matters which are not specifically covered therein, in which case we have recourse to the custom and practice of Parliament.

My understanding of Standing Order 82(2) on the reading of it, "When the motion is received, the mover shall move the motion .....", which is not discretionary on his movement at that moment, but that when the moment of time on the Order Paper has come, that he shall move the motion and therefore we have got specific Standing Orders in that effect that way by that you might feel that we do not have to have recourse to the practice and usage of Parliament in relation to a motion that we have a specific direction upon.

MR. SPEAKER: I think that is all perfectly true. What I was doing was reading Erskine May to see whether perhaps in the Standing Orders of Westminster there was a provision similar to Standing Order 82(2) and whether they interpreted their Standing Order in a different way in which I had interpreted ours the other day.

The other day when I first rose to speak, it seemed to me that the only purpose of Standing Order 82(2) would be to ensure that a motion that fell within its ambit went to a Committee on Standing Orders so that that Committee should have an opportunity to advise the mover privately and in confidence before any debate took place on the floor of the House. If that were valued so, I assumed that where it said the mover shall move the motion that that meant simply formally move the motion and get up and have it seconded, and that there could not be any debate which is why I referred the Second Elected Member for West Bay Mr. Jones to move Erskine Mayne's Motion 82.1/82 and where I said how I should be doing.

MR. PRESIDENT (INTERRUPTING): It is perfectly true that Speaker Ray says exactly what you read out. But my own view is, for the reasons acknowledged by the Honourable Second Official Member, that there can have been little practical difference in the specific Standing Order that this House chose to adopt other than the purpose I have never explained, and if the Hansard record is the view that I am mistaken and that it is wrong to present Bills or a motion or to preclude the mover of a motion from speaking on a motion to amend Standing Orders, then it would be helpful to me if on some occasion the Honourable Second Official Member to make his position clearer. But for the moment I think that I am bound to interpret our own Standing Order in the way I did originally at the other day. In either event you formally move the motion, it will be formally seconded, the question is then put and the matter then goes to a Committee on Standing Orders.

MR. J. EARL EDDIE: Mr. President, I apologize for not having been in the Chamber when the other motion was moved a couple of days ago. What happened is that quite until somewhere mid-day the day in which the Business Committee had changed the business of the House and were making us to deal with Private Members' Motions instead of Government Bills, and I flew to my home during the coffee break to get my papers. It took twenty minutes and on that day you had only given us ten minutes for the coffee break or I would have rushed it on that day. (Laughter)

My feeling is that our Standing Order is clear. When the motion is moved the opposition to follow after that, but our Standing Order is sufficient to deal with what will be the matter before the motion is moved and hence our Standing Order is silent on the procedure that we must follow before moving the motion. So in that case we could reasonably have it up to Speaker Ray and she would be what the mover must ask which his motion or else the House may not accommodate the motion. So he should have the right to explain the motion before he moves it. Once having formally moved it and having the motion seconded, you then put the Question which puts the question without any debate. But I think an explanation from the mover moving the motion is very necessary.

MR. PRESIDENT: I was interested the logic of that argument originally. On the other hand if I accepted it, I wonder why it should be the case that those who framed and accepted these Standing Orders should have thought to deny the opportunity to debate the matter in the House. In other words, why they should have sought to allow the moving of the motion, but nobody to debate it at all, and it seems to me that it is equally logical to suppose what I have suggested that is that those who drafted this particular Standing Order had in mind that, for whatever reasons, it was advantageous to always maintain the known a way that discussion of Standing Orders took place in the first instance in a Committee rather than in the House.

As I say I frankly acknowledge that they are ambiguous, but having raised one way did not seem to be totally persuaded that my ruling was wrong I would welcome a clarification to Standing Orders that put that matter beyond the will of the House one way or the other. For the moment I think my ruling will stand.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.7/85:

AMENDMENT TO CAYMAN ISLANDS
CONSTITUTION (AMENDMENT) ORDER 1985

MR. C. RAE-THOMPSON: Mr. President, I will therefore move the Motion as drawn:

"WHEREAS Standing Order 98(2) provides that, "After a question has been proposed a Member may, at any time during the course of debate, whether or not any other Member be speaking, rise in his place and state to move 'That the question be now put' and, unless it appears to the Presiding Officer that the motion is an abuse of the rules of the House or an infringement of the rights of the minority, the question 'That the question be now put' shall be put forthwith; and if that question be agreed upon, the question being debated by the House shall be put forthwith.";

BE IT RESOLVED that under the provisions of Standing Order 98, Standing Order 98 be declared and repealed and that all Standing Orders thereafter be amended by substituting for the Standing Order numbers a number being one less than the present Standing Order number."

MR. PRESIDENT: Will the seconder ....

MR. JOHN S. McLEAN: Mr. President, I beg to second the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT: In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 98(2), I now give the question that the Motion which has just been moved be referred to a Committee on Standing Orders. Members may know that we do not at present in accordance with a Committee, but that when Private Member's Motion No.1 was moved and passed I stated that the Committee of the Whole House, for which that Motion qualified, would be regarded by me as being the Committee on Standing Orders for which Standing Order 98 provides. In other words the question now before the House is that the Motion be referred to a Committee of the Whole House.

QUESTION PUT. AGREED BY MAJORITY. PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.8/85 REFERRED TO A COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE ON STANDING ORDERS.

MR. PRESIDENT: In that case the Motion be referred to a Committee of the Whole House and in accordance with that I appointed the Honourable Chief Official Member to be the Chairman of that Committee for the purpose of Private Member's Motion No.1, and I am reporting him, in order that there shall be no doubt, for the purposes of this Motion now.

Thank Member for Private Member's Motion No.7 of 1985. The Second Elected Member for George Town.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. [illegible]
ESTABLISHMENT OF YOUTH CENTRES

MR. LINFORD A. PIERCE: Mr. Speaker, private member's Motion No. 7 of 1985 - Establishment of Youth Centre reads:

> WHEREAS there is a growing social problem in this country and juvenile delinquency is on the increase, principally in the more densely populated and environmentally deprived areas of George Town;
>
> AND WHEREAS no form of intake or youth activities other than certain limited organised sporting activities are established in these areas;
>
> BE IT RESOLVED that Government take immediate steps to examine the feasibility of establishing a Youth Centre in the central George Town area, adequate to provide accommodation for various forms of youth activities to be organised under the auspices of a Statutory body or group such as the Scout Association or Cadet Organisation;
>
> BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that such feasibility study be given top priority as a matter of urgency and thereafter carried out in such as possible and practicable manner with a report ready for the November Meeting of the Legislative Assembly at the very latest."

MR. S. HOSPEDA SMITH: Mr. Speaker, I second the Motion.

MR. SPEAKER: The motion may stand in the name of the Hon. Member.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERCE: Mr. Speaker, as I have said in this honourable House on more than one occasion the most important thing today in the lives of our youth - the young people of this country, Mr. Speaker, and that is the use and waste of tomorrow and indeed the future leaders of this House.

Mr. Speaker, while I am sympathetic, like other Members in this House, this House is ready for a major plan such as a major recreation plan. I see this as a plan that will no doubt take a number of years to get all things in motion to implement. Such investigations, Mr. Speaker, I do not see as being the effective way of addressing the problem before us today.

Today in Cayman, Mr. Speaker, in discussing some of the problems facing the Cayman Islands today, I still respected gentlemen said to me that we have minimum lighting about the education in our various primary schools of this country's development, but in this session much more emphasis should be given to the youth as I stated that is perhaps the most important issue facing this country today. I could not agree more, Mr. Speaker. I happen to be a member of this House and in my constituency as much I am called upon to act as a Magistrate or as a member of the House in the juvenile courts. It is very sad, Mr. Speaker, to see the number of young people who are brought before the juvenile court for shoplifting.

MR. LINDSAY A. PEEPLES (CONTINUING): This Motion, Mr. President, seeks to establish or to implement preventative measures. There is no use ... closing the gates once the horse has escaped. It is one thing to say that Government can prevent measures, I hope measures by keeping the young people in jail and taking money that is supposed schools. Mr. President, whenever we view the solution of our problems within the scope of detention centers, whether it be an approved school or training the girls, then I think we will indeed be taking a retrograde step.

We owe it this country, Mr. President, regardless of their financial, mental, social, religious or whatever background can boast that we care insofar to the society ills that are facing this country. Many of the parents, Mr. President, would wish that we could take our hands and put them on our children's shoulders, but this is not possible.

Mr. President, I happen to be very, very happy to many of the people in the poor areas of this community as well as the financial district of Georgetown. By the right and I will vote in favour of Bills in dismissing a problem that is developing around this country Town areas. The representatives for Kaniye Town are aware of this problem. There are many such similar problems, Mr. President, throughout the country. There are problems in West Bay, there are problems in Georgetown. Problem Town and in each and every district of this country. But, I think it is true to say that geographically the principal intensity of the problem is within the Georgetown Municipal districts.

Mr. President, I am not ignorant ... this problem. In this Motion I am referring to some attention at an immediate need. A result that is obvious to any resident of the Municipal districts of Georgetown and any district in this area. There is a growing disregard for law and order in this country and whether we want to accept this or not, this is the type of problem that forms the embryonic precursors for social decay. I believe and sincerely believe, Mr. President, that any funds allocated in this Government for the establishment of a Youth Centre in Georgetown will be money well spent. I am not in this like suggesting that we should allocate knowledge the full amount of money that may be required. This Motion is seeking for negotiating that a feasibility study be conducted to determine the type of Youth Centre and where and how this could be established.

I have certain suggestions, Mr. President, but I would be more than happy to share within the body of a Committee and I hope, Sir, that it will be possible for me to be able to share these ideas. We say that there is no money available, Mr. President, I wonder what will happen to the economy tomorrow if because of any disregard on the part of this Social social problems developed ... the economic system of our country. I wonder what the position would be if because of the disregard to this problem that some country was inflamed in this area of the country.

Mr. President, I am sure that even with the establishment of a Youth Centre we will still have the problems. But until a facility will provide recommendation for many, many of our youth who are out on the streets. Such a facility will provide a variety of activities which our youth could participate in.

Several weeks ago I visited the Thursday Young where a number of our young boys were in the weights lifting gym, but in my assessment and during the past every now and then they are being kicked out of that room and have no place where they may be accommodated.

MR. LINDSAY A. BURNSIDE (CONSTITUENCY): There are a group of people in this city who are seeking, waiting and praying to be able to have activities, healthy activities to be involved in. Are we making too much, Mr. President, to spend a little money in the north of this country? We must realize that the social problems in this country are like a cancer. You may feel better by some form of medication, but it does not necessarily make it disappear.

The same problems exist in the East End area and I would hope to see a similar facility, perhaps a Civic Culture South Centre or whatever established in that area.

Mr. President, it is difficult for Members to say no to this Motion unless they have taken time on the Members' Own Budget to experiment alternative with the problems in this area. I was happy shortly after the election when the Honourable Member of Executive Council found the time to drive around George Town and by doing that, Mr. President, we found a number of problems that we were not aware existed in this section of the country.

I would like to make it abundantly clear, Mr. President, that I have no vested interest except of my interest in the youth of this country. They are crying out for help, Mr. President, and it is up to the representatives of this country to help them.

I realize, Mr. President, that I will have the opportunity to reply to this, but I would hope that my reply will be very short because I will get the full support of the House. It would be very sad, Mr. President, if four more prominent Members of this Honourable House felt that they could not support such a worthy project and undertaking. All we are asking for in this Motion is the opportunity for us to be able to study the problems which the George Town area.

As I said, Sir, I realize I am running short time, I realize that a Motion was passed this morning, Private Member's Motion No. 4 to appoint an Economic Advisory Committee that will look at these problems, but I am talking of a people type of involvement in this country.

I trust, Mr. President, that the House will see fit to support this Motion.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: As the hour is now a quarter after half-past four o'clock, I will invite the Honourable First Official Member to move the adjournment.

Debate on the Motion will stand over until the Motion is next dealt on the Order Paper.

FRIDAY

16TH MARCH, 1988

10.05 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.
Proceedings are resumed.
I have given notice by, I think, two Government Members that they wish to make statements under the provisions of Standing Order 60, paragraph (1). I, for that do as I think the statements should be taken before the debate since there are no questions on today's Order Paper. Then the debate on the Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill, 1988 may continue.
The Honourable Second Official Member.

STANDING ORDER 60

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

HON. MICHAEL J. BEARCROFT: Mr. President, my Honourable Members of this House are aware of the circulation of the Order Papers and the various Bills, one of the matters due for debate this and following at this Session of the Legislative Assembly is the Legal Practitioners (Amendment) Bill, 1988. This is a very short Bill seeking only to make a couple of very technical changes to the Legal Practitioners Law to bring it into line with other legislation which has been passed recently.
Since the Bill was forwarded to the Clerk for transmission to Members and placing upon the Order Paper, there have been a number of discussions held and I have been investigating several other matters, which if they are approved by the Government will necessitate several new amendments to the Legal Practitioners Law some time later this year. As, Mr. President, I felt in the past that Members would prefer if at all possible not to have their time burdened with a number of short separate Bills coming at regular intervals through the year, I am requesting the permission of the Honourable House to withdraw from the House the Legal Practitioners (Amendment) Bill, 1988. The request for withdrawal of the Bill, Mr. President, is made under Standing Order 60, and since the terms of the Standing Order are that I make a motion for withdrawal, I would wish to request leave of the House and yourself without notice, in accordance with Standing Order 53, to move that the Legal Practitioners (Amendment) Bill, 1988, be withdrawn from the Honourable House.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, under Standing Order 53 I beg you...

MR. PRESIDENT: I think we must finish dealing with the previous motion. I had not realised that the Honourable Second Official Member was going to be doing slightly more than make a statement. He has actually sought permission to make a motion. I was just reading through the Standing Orders myself to get the position quite straight. I think he is quite right that in terms of Standing Order 60 it is proper that there should be a motion for the withdrawal of the Bill, and I think that under the

MR. DEPUTY SPEAKER (MR. SPEAKER): Circumstances which he has outlined I am prepared to grant his leave - and I am looking up the right Standing Order - to move that motion without notice, so that the question can be put.

MR. MICHAEL J. BRADLEY: My apologies, Mr. Speaker, under Standing Order 32, sub-order (9)(iii)....

MR. SPEAKER: What he says.

MR. MICHAEL J. BRADLEY: It may be made without notice. I am sorry for misleading the Chair.

MR. SPEAKER: I had just got there myself. Do I do not think that the Member needs permission. I think it is quite proper for the question now to be put.

The question then is that a Bill for a Law to amend the Social Development Law should be withdrawn for the reasons which were outlined by the honourable Nursing Officer. Does any Member wish to speak? If not I will put that question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. THE MENTAL PRACTITIONERS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1988, WITHDRAWN.

MR. SPEAKER: Now the statement by the honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KINGSWORTH: Mr. Speaker, under Standing Order 37 I beg your permission to make a statement with regard to a Bill for a Law to amend the Traffic Law, Law 18 of 1978. I wish to inform Members of this honourable House that it is my intention, with their permission, to withdraw a Bill for a Law to amend the Traffic Law, Law 18 of 1978.

The reasons for withdrawing the Bill are firstly, since the Bill was published and circulated I have received many requests from responsible and responsible people to give further consideration to the two amendments relating to sections 66 and 68. Secondly, since there was an advisory committee established with the Traffic Law, Law 18 of 1978, and all the numerous amendments with a view to bringing a new comprehensive Traffic Bill to this honourable House, I consider that the representation which I have received concerning this short amending Bill could more usefully be considered by this committee. Accordingly I ask Leave of this House to withdraw this Bill.

MR. SPEAKER: May I take it that like the previous speaker you are seeking to move a motion for the Bill's withdrawal in terms of Standing Order 68?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KINGSWORTH: Yes.

MR. SPEAKER: In that case the question before the House is that a Bill for a Law to amend the Traffic Law should be withdrawn in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 68. Unless any Member wishes to speak I will put that question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. IN ACCORDANCE WITH STANDING ORDER 68, THE TRAFFIC (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1988, WAS WITHDRAWN.

MR. SPEAKER: That completes the Statements of which I have given notice. We can now turn to the first item on today's Order Paper, the consideration of the Address. The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

CONTINUATION OF THE DEBATE ON THE THRONE SPEECH AND SECOND READING OF THE APPROPRIATION [1965] LAW, 1965

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. Speaker, at the adjournment of this debate on Wednesday I had been speaking on the point which had been highlighted that the Government came into office in November, and that the new Government had inherited such a sorry mess. I had dealt with the Reserves which I stated were actually there as the Financial Secretary had said they were, until that those Reserves, unencumbered, were in the amount of $10 million. I had also touched on the surplus figures which existed. The Second Elected Member for West Bay and his counterparts on Executive Council had lambasted the poor state of the country owing as much in bills and being in such a poor financial condition. However, this is not borne out by the estimates and it is not borne out by the Budget Address.

The matter of surplus revenue is one which can be shown from the examination of a statement made by the four Elected Members of Executive Council themselves after they took office when they said that they had found surplus revenue of $277,500 at the 31st October. This is repeated twice on the Corpus of Monday, 26th November. So surplus revenue did exist and in fact the honourable Financial Secretary himself had given an answer in December to a question that we did have surplus revenue.

However, the Budget which has been presented shows that on the 31st December there was a deficit of $222,537. So the story which had been circulated before the election and the story which is still being circulated whenever it suits certain people, that the country was broke until 30th June, because the new Government inherited the $382,500 which existed on the 31st October according to their own statements and took out of it a deficit of $222,537, making a total of $1,744,037. Now this figure of $1,744,037 is the deficit which we would have right now if they had not found that surplus of $382,500 in this year's accounts.

However, this is not all the story because people will remember that I mentioned that on November they had come to Finance Committee and practically begged for $3.4 million to come out of the Reserves. So one knows just what has happened to that money, with the exception of the fact that the Financial Secretary has told us that they spent over $300,000 out of the amounts $3.4 million to pay some bills for Cayman Airways.

I believe the reason why they are using the Reserves, and the reason why they are standing exceptions that is simply to gain some credibility as the Financial Wizard that has been advertised what the country was broke. The country was not broke. It had Reserves of $10 million. It had surplus revenue of nearly $1 million and if the present trend of spending continues the country will be broke by June, 1965.

Also take stock of people moving on the Sister Isles and only then Reserves existed; not only story that surpluses existed, but accidentally there also they are again engaged great public debts. Here again one Member said in the Chamber that we have mortgaged the future. What statement has an unfortunate as all because the Financial Secretary told us on Page 17, I think, that the public debt is now only $11.8 million. The total public debt at the

MR. R. REID HARPER (CONSERVATIVE): Last December, there was $111.8 million, which excludes the Post Automobile Loan. It gives me a distorted account of how he arrived at the figure of $111.8 million. So if a country with the kind of revenue we have took out a loan for only about $111.8 million, it has not mortgaged the future of this country.

If you look at the history of public debts the world over or anywhere particular, and we will see that there were times in our history when this country's future had been mortgaged because of the large public debt which this country owed. In 1951 when a certain Government came to power the public debt stood at just a little over $2 million. Following that came the first years under the new Constitution with Planned Nurture of Governments given the responsibility for meeting many responsibilities of Government. By 1956 the public debt mushroomed to these first years to a figure close to $7 million. At that time in our history the public debt was about 80 per cent of the recurrent revenue. At this time the country's future was mortgaged because the Government had created such a large debt in proportion to recurrent revenue, and the principle of the children to pay, that the country's future was mortgaged. At that time it was taking something between 10 and 13 per cent of the recurrent revenue just to service the debt. So that is the only time in the history of these Islands that we have had an unfortunately large public debt in relation to the recurrent revenue which is the means of servicing the debt. So we had a servicing problem then.

While the public debt as that time was just a little under $7 million, today we are told that the public debt after eight years has only risen to $111.8 million, just a 50 per cent increase in eight years, while in those four years the office we had a 700 per cent increase.

The figures which we really need to examine is the relationship of the public debt to the recurrent revenue. Because when a man gets a mortgage the main criteria for that mortgage is how much salary the man is earning, how much income he has and to be able to service the debt. The problem in 1978 was that Government was closed bankrupt because it had borrowed to the hilt and became difficult.

When we look ahead in 1978 and first each economy can be put the public debt under control, and not to borrow during these first four years until such time we get a figure which we could manage. You will see that we did this because in 1977 the public debt was $7,012,010. In 1981 it was $111,847,000 pounds. It was $7,332,000. So that while we had contained the debt we had increased the economy so that the ability for anything extra had grown. What happened is that the public borrowed and we find that instead of having a debt which was 80 per cent of the recurrent revenue, we then used debt which gave a lesser percentage of recurrent revenue. In 1977 the percentage had developed so where the public debt was 58 per cent of the revenue. The next year that dropped to 60 per cent of the revenue. The following year that dropped to 46 per cent of the revenue, and in 1980 it was 32 per cent of the revenue. Since 1980 the public debt has not gone higher at 37 per cent. In 1981 it was 19 per cent. In 1982 it was 14 per cent. In 1983 it was 10 per cent. In 1984 it was 10 per cent and in 1984, May again they could be borrowing the future of this country it was still with 20.3 per cent. Now 1985 the public debt of $111.8 million will still be less than 20 per cent of the recurrent revenue so the statement that we had mortgaged the country, which I understand it mean that we had borrowed beyond our ability to service our obligations at all.

MS. C. SAIU BOSSY (CONTINUING): I have spent a long time on these three areas, recurrent revenue, capital revenue, public debt and the relation to our ability to pay, and the deficit. However, this is necessary because the second must be set straight. If the country is broke let us say it is broke. When the country is not broke let us tell the truth, because with our tourism and with our reputation having the country's image abroad is important and must supersede political ambitions of politicians who will speculate false stories which would damage the image of this country just to get another Government out of power.

It has been said that the budget is unrealistic and why, Sir, is not a reflection on the Financial Secretary, but on the Elected Members of Executive Council who have allowed this to happen. Let us look at the capital budget first and see what I am talking about.

The capital budget which they have put forward for the year 1995 is only $8,850,022, while the revised capital budget for 1992 was $20,128,275. In other words while we were able to spend during 1994 $18 million on capital projects they have put forward a budget in which they intend to spend $8 million. In other words they have cut the capital budget in half. The capital budget is the budget which builds roads, constructs buildings, pays huge heavy equipment and vehicles. I wonder if these Members really realize what they have done. In their attempt to balance the budget they have cut the capital budget drastically. Do they not know that this action will jeopardize many of the economy which has been working very hard these past few years? Have they not realized that by the cuts which they have made, nothing they have done could ever create the hope which Government's policies of cutting the capital budget will do.

You my fellow people, do we think the people of the Cayman Islands during the year 1995 are going to ask you and accept only half of the services which they received in 1994? I understand that the Honourable Elected Member of Central Administration will have the capital budget down previous services whether we want we will be serviced, or we have to pay it was increased. I do not have to explain with her cover operation, but the plain fact is that the Islands' capital budget was cut by the Elected Members of Executive Council in half, at a time when they are having problems with the economy. This is bound to cause further downturn in the economy.

If they had only put forward a capital budget less than we did in 1994 it might be understood, but to cut it by half is ridiculous. If you look at the capital budget for 1993 one will see that our actual expenditure is what year was $10,000,000. So we actually spent, and when I look at our current figures, more money on capital projects in 1993 than we expect to spend in 1995. So the country has gone back two years, do just three years, because if they spent here in 1993 they must be spending around the 1995 budget. So this country has gone back three years in the three months they have been in office, because the public is expecting the same level of performance. It just none of them recognized in their campaign to give a higher level of performance than before. But they believe that they can do it with half the money. They believe that the prices are going to fall when they move in by buildozers, flow tracks and whatever else the capital budget buys. They truly believe that, and that is why this budget is unrealistic.

MR. C. RAY NICHOLS ADDRESSING: If one examines it closely one will see that the budget put forward for 1985 for the purchase of vehicles is $935,794 less than was spent in 1984. What are they going to do? Are they going to tax their people? Look what the previous PC team inherited when they took office in 1976. We have an idea what the Public Works where they had four dump trucks. They had to buy one of them up to put the water in. Every time it rains they have a problem of flood to purchase new trucks and rear spray trucks. To whom will the money go?

The thing which gives me very concern is that the vote for local construction is $2,102,982 less than it was in 1984. I wonder if they have explained this to the people in the constituencies that they promised to give jobs to. I wonder if they have explained that the Government this year is going to help the construction industry. What the Government this year is going to improve the construction industry, and that this year they will pay for local construction $2 million less than last year. These figures are contained on Page 164 of the Budget and are the figures. I would not like to see them if I had to put them forward for them.

In the summary they show that capital projects are reduced by $2 million but what figure is only $2 million less than what we budgeted for in November, 1983 when we made up the estimates. The true figure is really the $12 million which is spent minus the $2 million which they hope to spend, or a difference of $10,982,984. So this budget is unrealistic. You cannot provide the services which were provided in the local for less money than was spent in 1984.

There a matter like Mosquito Seasonal and Drainage vote where the amount of responsible decrease on the price of oil. How can they hope to accomplish what they have set out in this budget.

We had a problem in this House last week when a question was answered about whether there would be any bus service on the route, the night route, the sixth street, and we were told that this year it had not been budgeted for. Now if it been budgeted for the capital budget would not be cut by as much as it has been cut. So the budget is really not balanced, there is not enough capital projects which are needed.

If they only with figures had only wanted the capital budget they could be accused, but in the recurrent budget I see in many areas increases where it appears that their expenditure for 1985 will be more than those expenditure for 1984. However, on a close examination one will see that there is not an increase in services. It is simply a salary increase, and the actual recurrent expenditure for providing the services have been reduced to make it appear that the budget has been balanced.

But we deal with a few of these and we will see how successful this budget is. The first thing we can say that this budget cannot balanced. They show that in December, 1985 they will have some $15,000 in surplus that year. However, there is only one way that can happen, and that is if they can find some way to eliminate the four trucks in this year. If they can stop two hands of rice or both businesses then they may end up with a balanced budget. But if they have to spend money in October, November and December I could bet any one of them that they will end with a deficit.

MR. G. RAY BODLEY (CONTINUING): I presumed to surmise some of the ways in which we appear that the employee hours seem unexpected when they have not been increased. Let us take a look at the Legislature department and we will go to Page 48 where the estimates for employees this year are $10,910. Last year we expended $98,500, and in 1975 we received that figure at the end of the year to $104,375. They show a decrease of $67,000 on that page alone. Of course a half hearted attempt is made to explain that this deficiency will be made up under Item 05-011. However, that figure is only $2,000 so it does not fool anybody who examines this closely. The employee supplies and materials are cut by a further $7,000 and that item has not been made up by what they seem to say is the contingency authorization for it.

The fact is that it is cut by $47,000 and the other note has only increased by $4,000. Let us look elsewhere in this. We will see that the total vote for that department has been increased by $70,910. However, if we look at the estimates we will see under personal emoluments that the estimate have increased by $114,910. So that while the total vote for that department has increased by $70,000, the staff has been given less money to run this place day by day. Consider there is an increase of $70,000 overall but there is an increase of $114,000 in salaries. So the Clerk has been given less money this year to run this department than the Clerk had been given in 1975. Even what I hear Members are going to be demanding more services. They want six Hansards a year and will get that because the Bigsby Team can provide it. Then we have more services yet they give the Clerk less money. So when we examine the estimates it is impossible to say that the budget has been balanced.

What is going to happen is that throughout the year not only the Legislative Assembly Department but all the other departments of Government will have to come back for more money, as we I said earlier they will have to claim over the back on the $114,000.

If we look at Page 37 we see the same thing happening only in the other sense, because the estimate for this department is actually shown as less than the new for 1975 $230,000 less which is the actual figure minus $69,811. So they give inadequate for less than they will be 1976. Not only have they budgeted for less but the deficiency is more than the budget shows. Because here again we have had salary increases which have another bite into the money. The approved estimate for salaries had been $161,075 for 1975 and these salaries have gone up to $190,820. So the difference between that is $21,255 and we have to add that to the other $69,811, which means by how much the salaries have actually been cut.

On Page 40 they have cut the supplies for the Police Department by $25,000. They have cut the equipment for the police force by $67,000. Can the police operate on less than they did last year? All the welfares cost less? Is there the same which they really should, they have more wages for services coming for additional policemen. So they are going to have more bullets to shoot, to provide equipment for, and yet they cut the budget below what it was last year. They come under the services now ask for some additional bullets. They have one Chief Inspector, four sergeants and one clerical officer. So how can they put in the same man hours for the department and have cut supplies and equipment by over $100,000? This is a make believe budget. One kind of budget which in Newfoundland would have created if it had been necessary for him to write a budget.

MR. G. WILLIAM SCOTT (CONTINUING): The Liberals do not believe what we put these estimates, when we have full well that the politicians are going to need the same number of seats and holders and heaters and boots or whatever they may be for. The Leader of the Opposition would have sent off the minority, as I said earlier, on the 20th September when this money runs out.

Now, the department which these two Members of Executive Council have placed their star is the Department of Social Services on page 101. Here we see the difference between words and actions, here we see the difference between campaign promises and the realities of running a Government, because do we hear more from Alice in Wonderland recently herself than on the vote for Social Services. We know the many promises they made to the contrary. We even read the motions and the speeches which have come. We heard the many words they were about how the Government looked at Social Services, but now they are going to do something for everybody. Now to look at the votes. It shows a total increase of $17,941, which of course a real increase would not be a real figure. I do not expect too much from the new Government in the way of increases because it has been demonstrated that they are looking at the ability to create revenue or to raise commodity taxes to balance the budget.

So the total increase of $17,941 if it were an increase in ourselves would make me happy. However, if we look at that page we will see that under personal emoluments are entitled, the exclusive for this department have gone from $218,728 to $402,509. So there is a salary increase of $183,781. So what has actually happened to Social Services? They have been hurt. The money to provide the services has not, they have a salary increase of $83,996. So if the services were to remain the same we should have an increase in the overall budget of $83,996. However, the increase is only $17,000. So the services have been cut by $71,840. No new people are added on this figure.

Under Tax Services they are going to add one executive officer, one secretary or something like that. In other words they are going to add one member of staff to Social Services Department. However, this is not included in this vote at all. So this salary increase of $83,996 is simply to pay the salaries.

MR. DENNIS O. EGARR: Mr. President, under Standing Order 42 (1)(b) the Member has given way, Sir. He opposes to read mine vote. The Member is using the 1974 increased figures, not the revised figures. The Member should be very well aware that in 1973 the salary increase for all departments was put in the budget for a block vote and it was later distributed. If he looked at the revised figures he would see that the increase in salaries for this particular department for example is only $44,634, whereas the total increase in expenditure is $183,120, not $17,941 as he is claiming. What is applied the approved, not the revised estimate which is the money which was actually spent.

MR. G. WILLIAM SCOTT: Mr. President, I think the Member had put in the budget what he first said because my budget says here on page 101 that the increase was $17,941. Why is he trying to withdraw the issue, was why is he contemplating me when he was willing to say? He says he did they added that the increase for that department was $17,941 and not the minus in Revised figure which is the new figure.

MR. G. MAIN SAGGER (CONTINUING): I am not using Alice in Wonderland figures. I am using the figures which he put forward, and he knows full well that this budget has only about an increase of $17,000 because of the actual increases. I am glad the Financial Secretary. I do not mind any Ministers on this bench [illegible] something was omitted in the budget. I have had it said that that has nothing to do with these figures. So I will give my word then he misses again, but I hope that he will study the budget instead of [illegible] in Wonderland".

MR. M. MCKEEVA BUSH: [illegible]

MR. G. MAIN SAGGER: I have only begun with the Social Services, Mr. President: the approved figure for last year, 1965. I do not need any lectures on the difference between actual figures, revised figures and approved figures. The approved figure, which is the figure we budgeted for this year, $[illegible]. We cannot have one year after the budgets [illegible] which shows up its budget in minus figures of $81,999 - minus $81,000. What is these figures? Even the Second Elected Member for West End will know at the beginning that there is the item for grants, contributions and subscriptions. If one examines the details of that vote one will find that its the vote which includes the pensions, prison [illegible] children care and protection, provides for maternity benefits, maintenance of children in approved schools, maintenance of orphans, poor relief and support grants which is the money which goes, month by month, to [illegible]

So whatever money extra some people might have been told in the budget that is that the 1966 budget shows a $81,000 decrease in helping the poor and the children who need care and protection. Those are their own figures, not from Alice in Wonderland but from Page 101 of the budget, minus $81,000. So if the public balance....

HON. EDWARD O. EBANKS: Mr. President, I wonder if the Member would give way under Standing Order 36(1)(b). I would just like to call his attention again, Mr. President, to the fact that the revised figure for 1965, that is the amount actually spent, was $388,609. So the vote under which this grant is increased by $119,000, not decreased by $81,000. The $81,000 is the difference between the inflated approved figure which was put in last year, which could not be spent wisely.

MR. G. MAIN SAGGER: Mr. President, if this Member wants to speak why did he not speak before me if he is getting ready. I do not know if you use [illegible] but if he is getting this then why do you not let me stop speaking and let him speak. Anyway....

MR. M. MCKEEVA BUSH: So I am telling the truth.

MR. G. MAIN SAGGER: Mr. President, I put it to the incompetent Member that the great Western had said that if they set the truth some people should stumble over it and go their merry way without knowing it. I am thinking, Sir, with this minus figure of $81,000 which is less than this House approved in November, 1965 when it presented the 1966 budget. In despite what they want to say about the Unity Team, an honest attempt to balance a budget in this fashion. It has been balanced by a stabilization in services and the social department will not be able to give to the public the kind of care which they have given in the past.

MR. C. RAY EDDIE (Constituency): I know about the salary increase. The Government deserticized them. We gave the Civil Service a decent wage. Our hands of Government were tying here pay which now for here what people do in the area jobs in the private sector. We gave them decent salaries and we knew that there would be a salary increase this year. I do not think they will ever get a salary increase again as they had before with the cost of what they have now.

So I would like to support what I have been saying. The total vote corresponding to the figures put forward by the Honourable Prime Minister of Ministries should when he helped to present this budget, because the biggest contribution in these areas is the product of the Electoral Government and the Financial Secretary does not direct the policy there; he only manipulates the economy of the figures, showing a total increase of $17,411, with a salary increase of $22,771. Therefore having what I call a service decrease of $11,930.

I have not finished with this. In fact I am just beginning this phase of my speech. On Page 86 we take a look at the personal emoluments.

MR. P. JOSEPH ROSE: (Interruption).

MR. S. ALEC BRIDGE: The Second Elected Member for West Bay wants me to tell him what we spend. We had him here to speak. I thought he should have read that instead of entertaining people, if he wanted details of the budget out.

MR. MORTIMER BUSH: And he is supposed to be enlightening the House. He should tell us how much they spend.

MR. S. ALEC BRIDGE: I do not listen to the Member. I do not take advice from him. When I come advise I know where to get it. If I need any advice on this budget I am going to the Financial Secretary. Some people like to sport a nice shoe, but they cannot wear the pinch.

On Page 86 we see that the same thing has happened, perhaps to a lesser degree. It shows an increase of $870,237. However, if we look at salaries again we will see that salaries have increased by $711,759. So the most important service here of the increase is simply used up by the increase in salaries and therefore cannot provide more to the people who depend the service when they go to the hospital.

Page 116, Lands and Survey Department which is probably one of the smallest in terms of spending. This shows a total increase of $69,601 yet the salaries are much higher than the salaries approved in 1986. What has happened is that this year they will pay in salaries $91,389 more than was approved in 1986. So here again we get a decrease in services of $1,122.

Mosquito Research and Control Unit shows the same thing. There is $66,439 increase in spending, but the salary increase is nearly double the total increase of the approved figures for 1986. The salary increase is $66,084. There is a reduction in services of $59,026 since what was approved in 1986. So if we are looking to Mosquito Research and Control Unit to do the same level of control which we practised in the past, we should not now be cutting the budget and through some Alice in Wonderland formula trying to conceal the decrease in the services.

MR. C. ALLO BOOSEY (CONTINUED): The Standing Committee, in 1982 we approved $176,700 and in fact we actually spent a little bit more, a couple of hundred more. This year they approved $202,200. If we look at the estimates we will see that there is a $28,500 increase in salaries compared to a $45,000 increase in part-recurrent including salaries. So here again in this important department we see a reduction in the money for services, despite the fact that we have opened a new fire station in Frank Sound, and we are talking about one for Cayman Brac and East End.

So the budget is unrealistic. There is no way that the Government can provide these services with the money in this budget. Of course I have spoke a lot about the financial adversity and I have heard a lot about the good management and the fiscal conduct. However, there are only 168 cents in a dollar and if the dollars are not there the services cannot be provided.

MR. SPEAKER: I was going to suggest that we took our break whenever it is convenient to the Member. I imagine he is contemplating for a while. Would this be alright?

MR. C. ALLO BOOSEY: Yes, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: We shall accordingly suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes.

AT 11.30 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

AT 11.45 A.M. THE HOUSE RESUMED

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.
Proceedings are resumed.
The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. C. ALLO BOOSEY: Mr. Speaker, I had discussed ways in which on fixed figures be looked at if certain votes had been increased where they were actually reduced below the approved figures for 1984. I did such a good job on it I am tempted to do it a few more times. I will now deal with the capital expenditure and there are important items have been cut both below the approved figures for 1983 and the revised figures for 1983, and in many cases below the actual expenditure in 1982.

One item is accommodation, computer equipment which is shown with an estimate of $10,000 against a revised figure of $50,000. However, I understand that if major equipment was purchased this year it may not be necessary to have a heavy expenditure.

There is mechanical/heavy equipment and the revised figure for this was $125,750. This year we expect it to spend only $173,000. That note is still more than a quarter of a million dollars - $273,500. Roads highway building

MR. D. WILLIS (Lockyer) (Government Whip): What the Treasurer and the rest of Government can get along without purchasing a substantial amount of equipment? How they galvanise the personnel with their out look on their budget? There is need for vital pieces of equipment, for example. I understand that the multi-flood vehicle should have been completed by mid or September to early October, and we were told here that it may be completed by the end of March, that is the end of this month. One of the reasons for the delay in that case has been because Government has been dragging its heels and stalling for the use of their machines. Here is just one example of a delay owed for the completion of a worthwhile machine. Probably if one knew enough the equipment at Public Works Department and Forestry Centre, one would find the need for much more. So it is totally unrealistic for the Government to budget for heavy equipment this year the sum of $573,000 loans. The budget is really not balanced when realistic items are put out.

We see that the note for vehicles and equipment has been cut, according to those own figures, by $227,000. We find there are only $50,000 as against the revised figure of $738,000. So how can the Minister of Government believe that they can get away with a budget like this, cutting the capital budget in unrealistic areas.

We see that the vote for Lakefield has been cut by $165,000.

Airport development has been cut by $2,000,000. This is understandable since they have been forced the new terminal twice. There should not be need to build this year. That vote is cut by over $2 million.

The vote for rural centres is cut by $500,000 when there is really a surplus need for these centres. Electrification of roads is not to $600,000. Our actual expenditure in 1977 on roads was $1,000,000 yet the figure before they amount to estimate over $1,000,000 was the actual in 1978. The vote for 1978 is $1,700,000 while in 1979 we estimate spent $1,400,000. These figures are unrealistic because the public is demanding more and better roads. We cannot satisfy their demands by spending less. It can only be done as a result of neglect or shoddy work, or it can be avoided, and this is what we see.

I heard Members above glowed the discussion and the plans they had from their Electorate Council Members and I am grateful that I have a discussion with them and mentioned some of the needs in our districts. We agreed with the understanding that it would not be possible to do all the things we had talked about. This is fair enough because Government like other businesses and other people always have more needs than they have money. We spoke about one road which has now become essential for not only Lockyer Valley, but the entire Ipswich, and that is a by-pass road, a road which has become necessary because the growth through Laidley has increased and now virtually paralysed in the mornings and evenings. With a by-pass road traffic could route from North Esk and East and into Gatton that without the congestion there. It would also open up the possibility of Laidley town. I do not expect that this road will be built over the next four years. The reason is that two of the Elected Members of the present Executive Council were Members of the Executive Council during the 1974 to 1977 administration. In 1977 money had been voted to build a community hall in Grandchester and since then it has never finished after the Government had changed in 1974. I do not expect to see any of my schools fulfilled because the capital were from Government. Only yesterday, amidst the fighting which were from Ipswich,

MR. G. HAIG BOSDET (CONTINUING): ...are projects of a political nature. If one examines the capital side one will see that Pagwa Area, Sandy Lake and West Bay...the three constituencies of the Elected Members of Executive Council, have across the board of the capital expenditure. Nothing has been provided for Golden Lake with a little exception which I will deal with later on. Nothing has been provided for East End with one exception which I will deal with later on, and a few crumbs have been thrown to North Side.

I had expected substantial money this year as that was usual. Instead I see that the word is Mr. Moses Commissioner's private arrangements has been fixed irrevocably and a lot of businesses are being driven by the Elected Members of Executive Council. Not even Solomon in all his glory has been arrayed like these divine people who run the Government, and his word has been fixed.

When I had the discussion with Executive Council Members on road work I do not recall their mentioning that road to us. They certainly never told me they were going to fix it. I have no objection that Sandy Lake has been said that the capital works have been carried out with the agreement of the Members from the various Districts.

East End will receive a drill centre which had been budgeted for last year. Part of this money had been set aside. The construction had started and naturally they have to finish it. What do all they will get.

Golden Lake will receive $61,000 for a school building which I think is necessary. It will receive three with Pays End one hand school for the school, and it will receive a cattle dip, it will start something in the vicinity of $100,000. There are only six classroom structures and yet we receive $200,000 out of a $3 million capital expenditure.

Sandy Lake is the same. In Sandy Lake a road will be built which will only benefit four or five families. Could that money not be spent, which has been spent on a North Side road which is a dead end road which goes into Saskatchewan, together with the road which serves Mr. Loutsenko's apartments....

MR. D. BILLARD MILLER: My, President, I wonder if the Member would please give way. On a point of clarification, Sir, I do not think that it is fair to say that the Saskatchewan Side road on North Side will benefit only five families. There are quite a number of people who live in there. In fact I believe that there are people from the Second Elected Member of Golden Lake's District who will benefit if that road is completed, because it will go through some people from Golden Lake's Land as well. So I do not think that it is quite correct to say that only five families will benefit. I think the whole Island will benefit in the widened premises and airfield which will be produced in that area. Thank you.

MR. G. HAIG BOSDET: Mr. President, I do not have objection five families or six families or seven families benefit. The point I am making is that throughout the estimates the Elected Member for North Side has been a strong supporter of the Executive Council and his road has been fixed.

MR. D. RICHARD MILLER: I have no principles, Mr. President.

MR. G. MIKE BOSTON: I am not arguing that they now paying here for living with them. I am only pointing out the inequities of the provincial capital budget which we have, where districts have not been reduced at all. In 1975 to 1976 they did not do anything for Golden Rose. It did not hurt us. We were returned reasonably and I think this time we might be heading for that again. So whether they spend our kind does not hurt me. It does not hurt me whatsoever. It does not hurt the Liberal member for Fort Rae. However, the people of that area are entitled to a piece of the pie. They have been shunned in this politically polished budget.

In one night seems we see that every district except for the benefits. We destroyed Golden Rose in many occasions when we could have planned it because we always seemed to do work simply to get elected. When that comes I do not want to be here because that is unacceptable. When one considers people he will find the Conservatives. When one considers people he will find Golden Rose, one is getting from the electorate shows one night, "You vote for me and you will get this". So my point is proven.

We have been short changed in this budget. I can speak to that. I suspect to be short changed in 1988 and 1989 and 1990, 1991 and 1992. If the public realizes what is happening I am certain that there will be a change and we would be given adequate funds.

Mike Ogilvie Rose. In the four years between 1974 and 1978 there was only a million dollars spent on capital works in Cayoosh Rose. I would think I were in here in 1978 I found the situation where the Liberal ended at Cayoosh Rose. Nothing was done in Golden Rose, Rose and Gunia Rose or Cayoosh Rose. Everything had been done at Fort George Rose and West Bay. We have some fifty schools in that area, where capital works are just up which are unnecessary. I will be standing until that time when I turn to the desk in West Bay for the purpose supplementary of Hansard and to point out complete paradox, that more important and more urgent needs are necessary.

I am dealing with the road works where the budget has been cut this year. What surprises me about what is left is that it is not distributed on a politically basis. It has been distributed on a political basis. We heard from a question asked in this House that the Government this year cannot possibly meeting the cut mix on the major roads. Can you imagine that? They cannot afford to. They have not budgeted in the this budget, except for the major campaign which swept this country. The block-busting had been done somewhere up from West Bay to Smithers and to use the statistics the major roads in North Side and East Side. Miraculously, miraculously we have billion vote getting roads are under this the major interior Rose have been neglected, looked out exceptionally from the budget. This is not fair.

The money which is provided for roads will be the bulk Road in Cayoosh Rose which I believe is necessary, but I would like to question if that road is as necessary as the Golden Rose to the major upkeep from Fort Rae to George Rose. I am not arguing Cayoosh Rose should not have the road fixed. I am saying that Rose road would rather have priority over a major road which now turns its blame bopping. No one has suggested Cayoosh Rose as the Rose the money been during the eight years. I mentioned this between 1972 and 1976 Governments had spent Rose than half a million dollars on capital works in Cayoosh Rose. Between 1976 and 1980 we spent $1.5 million on capital works there and in the four years between 1980 and 1984 we spent $3.4 million on capital works in Cayoosh Rose and Little Cayoosh, somewhere think what the previous Government had spent in four years.

MR. G. MAC EACHEN (Pembroke): Sure, Sir, there are things that we can do for Upper Ottawa Street, but I cannot see how this money could have been spent, or how some Conservative would have objected. I must admit I never placed his road because I did not want my picture in the Herald.

So out of the money provided one third of the money seems to go to Upper Ottawa Street, and the other two thirds are divided between the two other municipalities represented by Elected Members of Association Grants, Upper Town and West End, with as I mentioned the little bit which is left to go to the Pembroke Area. So the $781,000 for Upper Ottawa will go for work inside the Queen Mary and Base Line, Pembroke Bypass in North Bay, traffic improvements and so forth, which is good work in Upper Town. However, we should be thankful as I know they are going to spend the same half for us this year.

I must conclude to deal with other items in the budget which I feel are unsatisfactory. However, I would like to say that in the matter of the roads, I should hope that if the present Conservative Government ever have the opportunity again to prepare another budget, that in the matter of road needs they should consider the percentage rather than urban municipalities, and rather rural areas should be given priority.

Under capital works I see the vote for farm development is down by $184,000. I cannot understand how this vote is down when the provinces that have are going to be so many changes, and pollution and rural development is finally have been made.

I already dealt with the fact regarding equipment, one vote which is down by $193,000, but what has been done here is that the Government was so proud of it could not get together because it would have been too much. On page 151 we see that the vote for technical facilities is down by $269,000. This is at a time when we are going to provide better health care.

The vote for purchase of land is down by over half a million dollars - $560,161. It is a good thing that our administration over the last eight years bought large quantities of land for Government, because there is only $60,000 under purchase of land on this particular vote. In 1965 we had approved $520,611 for the purchase of land and that figure has been reduced to $2,198,761, which simply means that we spent last year half a million dollars more on land than we had budgeted for. All of this came out of last year's revenue and still we ended the year with a surplus. When I say the year I mean the end of the year we were responsible for which was the 31st October, 1965. I know that surplus disappeared between October and December, but that was the present Government which carried out the disappearance act.

The last year we actually purchased $2,198,761 of land. This year the miracle working Government is going to buy all the land which the Government will need for $60,000. The Hon. Member for Sudbury East already dealt with the purchase of the land for the dock in Moss Bay which he related as much as a person would need a hole in his head. He said that to what sense $60,000 would probably only buy a postage stamp size piece of land. By that I imagine he meant that it would be a very small parcel of land not sufficient for building a dock.

Now to open more controversy that there is an unrealistic budget is that in another area I see that $80,000 has been budgeted to build a dock. I have been informed that this loading facility will be similar to the one at Sparks. I do not have the exact figures here with me but the dock at Sparks, I believe cost something in the vicinity of $75,000 to build at that time. Now the present Government is going to build

Mr. G. Hale Goudey (CONSTITUENCY): a dove similar to that in Hant Bay for $20,000. This means that the figure is unrealistic. What is going to happen is that they are going to start the deal with the $20,000. Then they are going to come back to Finance Committee and seek further funds. It is the only way it can be done.

A budget should be a reasonable guess of what one's expenditure should be. We are never able to calculate the cost to the penny, but there should be a reasonable figure which [illegible] would meet the cost. To put in unrealistic figures in an attempt to balance the budget is foolish; money and might even be politically unwise in the long run, although the budget was presented about a surplus of $15,000.

We hear a lot about sporting facilities, playing fields and parks; yet the Government this year has reduced this vote by $169,000. This is a reduction greater than the actual expenditure in 1968. It is a fallacy that 1968 was a year of heavy spending on sporting facilities. Everyone knows that when we were elected in 1970 there were no playing fields except the one in Hope Bay and I believe one in George Town. Bodden Town had no playing field. Now since we have been here for eight years we have purchased the land and built playing fields for the principle in Bodden Town and Savannah. We also purchased land for a field to serve the children who have recently left school. This land is contained in the parcel with the adult centre in Bodden Town. But I have heard no mention of anywhere that land into a playing field, and I do not think it is possible with the little bit of money which is allocated here for sports centres, playing fields and parks. I do not think we will get that playing field this year.

The same thing happened in East End. There were no playing fields until the Unity Team bought a piece of land in the centre of East End. 1969 was a year of heavy spending by the Government on sporting facilities. We bought some parcels of land in West Bay at a cost of nearly half a million dollars, and these parcels of land total about 28.36 acres. This land can later be developed for whatever purposes the new Government may wish to put it to. The sporting complex up at the school on Walkers Road has been started and according to the Hon. Member for Health Education and Social Services work is progressing on it.

However, it is believed that this Government will have no need for land during 1972 to unrealistic. The only piece of land they have budgeted for is the one parcel of land we could do without. Last year we purchased a parcel of land for the sewerage plant, and no purchase of Government in recent times has come under so much criticism. The criticism from the opposition came because they knew Government needed the land. They knew it was a good purchase and they also knew it was a good price. That parcel of land was bought for much less than many other parcels in the same block. It is true that they had people valuing land who said it could be bought for a little over $8,000 an acre. The acreage of the land was 30 acres and I believe some of the people who valued the land said that it could have been bought for a little over $8,000 an acre. This is nonsense. Shame is no part of George Town which is zoned for heavy industry where you can purchase land for that price. I believe if adjoining Government took a very good bargain for what they paid much less than the true value of the land, but there are people who say that you can go out in George Town and buy a parcel of land for $1,000 in that particular area.

The land was ideally situated because it is to be the future site of the sewerage plant, and the heavy concentration of sewerage is in the central George Town area and the West Bay Beach. It is true that Government could have

MR. G. DALE BOOZMAN (CONTINUING): ...good cheaper land, but what can the use of paying up to the price of Rice Ski or behind Boulder Town to buy land for a passenger jet and bring it right across the whole area from Orange Park and Mark Bay. So there were many factors which came into this purchase. There were many factors which made it attractive, and I said in one of my published meetings that it was only because the owner had been a strong supporter of the Rice Town that the opposition had raised so much nonsense about this purchase.

I could name parcels of land in that area. Mr. G. Dalton owns the adjacent lot I believe, and he paid much more per acre for his land back in 1974. There were other landowners in that area who sold and bought for better prices. There are landowners whose acreage would not suffer from the entire plan. It is a good thing that we bought what land because there is only just enough for the West Bay Park, and only enough left which would be available this year for land. It is a good thing that the present Government is getting ready to use this land, and I do hope that they will get some highways out of it as well, which will be necessary to facilitate access time.

MR. TRUSTWORTHY: If the Member has finished dealing with the particular matter perhaps it will be a convenient moment to break.

MR. G. DALE BOOZMAN: Yes, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: In that case I will suspend proceedings until approximately 2.15 p.m.

AT 12.48 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2.33 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.
Proceedings are resumed.
The Second Elected Member for Pickton Town.

MR. G. DALE BOOZMAN: Mr. President, I will now go into portion of my speech dealing with the consolidation budget which has been just finished. It is unrealistic to say a budget is balanced when it has actually been cut in half, that is the simplest terms. It is also unrealistic because the public will expect more services in 1985, the budgets also not balanced when the Senators are reduced below what is considered a safe standard. It is not balanced when when the First Elected Member for Pickton Town calls the penny onto system of taxation in error.

Before getting on to the remainder of my speech, I would like to mention a remark made by the Second Elected Member for West Bay. As far as I was concerned I will not attempt to deal with the many statements which can be made. However, he did make a statement which is factually erroneous, a statement

Mr. S. Gale Denley (continued): which is protected often was the subject. That statement is like referring to a case which was tried in the Grand Court and is unfair to Montana, together with the Montana Legislature, especially when the party and particularly the Fifty Elected Members for besides that interfered with the case, and the results which were brought about by politically determination. This statement is unfair. It is unjustified. The trial of the matter is that the case in question was tried in the Grand Court and there was no political determination. In 1965 certain Members of the Assembly who perhaps did not like the action of the Unity Team asked the Governor to have this case investigated by a special investigator, and you, Sir, wrote to the Chief Justice asking him, I would imagine, to give him guidance on the case. The letter which he wrote to the Governor and which was circulated to all the Members of the Legislative Assembly is that they should clearly that the case was tried in the Grand Court without any political determination. I am reading this letter in the hope that the Member will not persist from propaganda and his wrong statements about this case. The letter reads:

> "Thank you for your letter of July 22nd and June, 1965. I think the more sane Members of the Legislative Assembly had in mind was the case of R.E. Johnson and Sexton. It was not a fair trial. I doubt if the disappearance of a file would have had much effect on the case. What disappeared was an exhibit, a piece of wire with fingerprints. It was impossible to determine how that disappearance came about, and one obvious valid objection was that the exhibit was material until the case itself is closed. All civil courts do exhibits some embarrassment as the proceedings will not final.
> The case proceeded in the Grand Court but was suddenly when it was explained that most of the prosecution witnesses who were taken to one or more places. There was also a lengthening and at the particular the prosecution accepted a plea to a lesser offense. Judgment accepted, and so the accused were sentenced to their time and plea and were final.
>
> The exhibits does not become the property of the Clerk of an exhibit. Steps were taken to impress accuracy and secrecy exhibits are kept in a steel cupboard to which the Assistant Deputy Clerk has the key. Perishable exhibits such as firearms, hand cuffs and expensive jewellery are kept in a safe in the office of the Clerk of the Court. She has the key to that safe.
> I examined the arrangements in person today. While these fire resistant cupboards are reasonably adequate, in the light of the present experience I have decided to improve the Clerk of the Court to obtain funds to buy another larger safe in which to keep exhibits.
> Perhaps I should add that following the disappearance of the exhibit in the case there was a full investigation by the CID. All magistrates, even the Clerk of the Court to the messenger were questioned. The investigation did not turn up any reliable evidence to identify anyone as the culprit. The exhibit mysteriously reappeared after the case ended."

MR. C. RAY BOGGS (CONTINUING): Everybody knows at this time of year is Mr. Edwards who was Clerk of the Court and nonconsensus.

I have taken the time of the House to do this because the Second District Member from Black Hawk has brought considerable comment recently, not only in the House but outside there. I hope that now that he knows the circumstances he personally already knows, that he will desist from his mean habits of intimidating people.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to close with the memo which I have in the Journal as payment to Senate. I think this particular vote should have the same thought that that of payment to Senate be that of Family Law. Because in the recent publication of Members of the new Senate I find the important Senate are filled with family members. I have listed a few of them - nephews, brothers-in-law, brothers, nieces, daughters-in-law. In fact, Sir, the only family member not found on those Boards is the mother-in-law. It is true that on one of the Boards in the past there may have been a relative of the party there. For example on the Iowa Advisory Committee there was a member, but that Board is not a decision making Board. Here on the Iowa Planning Board, the Iowa Juvenile Corrections, the Industrial Board, the Planning Board we have this relation. Also we see in order to know when they recommend anybody from Boston Post, they have a husband and wife team and put the husband on one Board and the wife on another. But, I have no objection to these people personally because I believe they are well qualified to be on the Boards. However, why could the Governor not find somebody else rather than voting husband and wife. On another Board I see two members from West Des. One on one Board and one on the other. Could they not find other people? Did they have to keep it in this family circle?

I see on the other major Boards a manager and his private secretary, one on one Board and one on the other. There are a lot of people out there to choose from. Why must it be kept in the family? I see on the Boards designated nursing nurse, as in the case of the Appeals Tribunal under the Commission. I see old members known to be close to the Members on the Boards and the Board membership stricken with nepotism. But what is more alarming, Sir, is that with the exception of the husband and wife team mentioned, there is nobody from Scottish Rite or East End on a major Board. There is one other man from Drake Area who is now living in Scottish Rite Area of the Boards, but East End has been left completely off. To my knowledge it is only on the Planning Board that one East End person appears. This is wrong to leave these districts without any representation on these Boards.

Closing on this point I would like to say that they are missing a lot if they do not have local input. When we established the Water Authority we decided to always keep on it although it was not written in the law, one Member from each area in which there was a water lake. When the first Members were appointed we had a Member from North Side, a Member from East End and a Member from Lower Valley in Scottish Rite where the three water lakes are situated. The new Governments came in power and took all these Members off and never replaced them with any local people except two local people who have special interests in the water business. They have the Board filled with Court Reporters and so on, and they are missing this local input from North Side, East End and Scottish Rite. Let me say that one of the best contributions ever made on the old Board came from Mr. Otto Kepler who was a Member from Lower Valley. While he was on the Water Authority Board, he brought to our attention the fact that some sewer would have started in that area the water had deteriorated. His belief was that these people were

MR. G. MAIS ROGERS (Constituency): checking off the fresh water and would actually double the lane. We have since ascertained by ... looking at somebody from the United States to visit an another gentleman who had worked on the Panama as a similar problem, and both of these matters connected with Mr. Otto Mathias. The results was that the Government put a moratorium on Mangrove Swamp and Control Unit building canals in the area of the water lens. Although it was not written into Law it was also unwise to go within a mile and a half of a water lens.

This information could not come from any other source but a source which was local and which knew the situation. So that the Government possibilities were understood and disappointed the public at large, particularly the areas affected, they are really hurting themselves. I would like to see this corrected as soon as possible.

In the Budget address I note that Government may contribute, although it is not included in these recent moves, looking into the transportation system with regard to the Building of schools-children. I believe it would be wrong to interfere with the system which was started. It is working well and I do not believe that Government can do a better job of handling the children. It is my belief that if Government were to go into busing the school-children it would be more costly. Just examples were twenty-five or more buses. I believe, are presently employed in the busing of the school-children, and if we were to buy that many buses then capital expenditure would be something in the vicinity of half a million dollars. Just in five more than we are paying now and we would still have the same operating costs because we would have to pay drivers and we would have no more employed at the Busing Scheme. I believe that in the long run the service would deteriorate.

The Elected Member for South Side actually mentioned the high cost of administration at the Public Works Department. So felt that we were spending quite a bit of money and in the fact the Department was doing some capital works which did not justify the expenditure. However, I would like to point out that the vote for Public Works is not really an administrative vote as it is for many other departments. For example if we examine the details we will see that there is a sum of $250,000 for street lighting. This actually has nothing to do with the administration of the Public Works Department. That vote is simply there so that the Public Works may pay Caribbean Utilities Company Limited for the street lights. It is really not an administrative expense like the money for paying a secretary or buying paper for the typewriter. Also there is in that vote a sum of $80,000 for fuel and oil supplies, which again cannot really be called administrative, but would more or less be a capital expense in some other department.

I see that there is a sum of $60,000 for traffic lights and signs which I imagine is money spent on buying traffic signs or having them made here. So that vote, although it is expensive, is really not as bad as it appears on the surface.

There was one campaign promise made, a promise to change the Executive Agreement which will not be carried out. The present Government, in my opinion, will not be able to carry out the promise which I heard during the election that they would change the system of giving information back to the way it was, where the information would be given through the Governor rather than the system of now giving it through the Attorney-General. I do not believe that they will be successful in changing the Executive Agreement in that manner. They may put some other changes but the major campaign promise about the Executive Agreement will not be fulfilled.

MR. S. HAJI MOHD ALI (Kedah): If he were a Malay Government's integrity would suffice. I think we would have a problem with the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and it would be described in the eyes of the United States. So that is one campaign promise which may not be fulfilled.

I agree with most of the statements made by the Honourable Finance Minister in his Budget Address; particularly the one where he says that 1982 was a reasonably successful year. It is a very mild statement but then he is a very moderate man. However, that statement also tells the public that all the propaganda that we heard during the Penang election was pure propaganda, and that the Malays were never broke and that we were handing over the administration during economically rosy. So he said it was a successful fiscal year.

However, he did make one statement on Page 37 which I do not agree with. He said he thinks growth would be made in the country's economic and development policies. But this may have been true when the idea originated in his head before the elections, but regrettably since November there have been major changes in the country's economic development policies. We have new Chairmanship of the economy. We have seen no facts on the Government because they themselves have not their capital expenditure in half. We have seen the increases on local goods, a departure from previous years. We have seen cut backs in manpower in every area. So there has been a major change in Government's policies since the elections.

The Housing Corporation is headed by Tuan Syed Kechik. We heard from questions in this House recently that a lorry plies it is now in. It has no policies, no money and is making no loans. We also know in that same question time that prior to November the housing authority was quite well. I do not expect us to see any improvement in the present condition of no policy, no money and no loans, because those of the four elected Members of Executive Council opposite opposed the Housing Authority and what it was proposed to set up in Penang then. Now these Members, along with the other elected member from the corporation, are making it work. So I do not expect to see any change.

Let me say, Sir, that the opposition did not under the Bill in Penang then. When we returned to Penang a petition was sent to the Governor asking him to do away with the Bill by using his veto power. Some Members were not even satisfied with that and they put their advertisements in the newspapers, called a press conference, which was actually a copy of a letter they had sent to the Secretary of State. This letter is signed by two of the present Elected Members of Executive Council, one the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council at the time who opposed the Bill in Penang then is also associated as speaking with the consent although he did not sign it. This letter went to the Secretary of State saying that the Government would withhold assent to the objectionable Bill or alternatively this be using executive his power of disallowance of the ordinance but. So the opposition to that Bill was amply assured. They gave reasons for it which we not agreeing with certain provisions of the Bill, but of the customs the Malaysian one will see that three Elected Members of Executive Council, assured we have journeyed to have a discussion taken, actually voted against the Third Reading of the Bill. So that while their opposition had been up and to the last they Secretary Defence has been assured in which the full powers and to provide for the guarantee, the result of the petition to which they agreed when the crucial time came at the Third Reading of the Bill. So I do not expect any blame to be made by the Barisan Government for some time to come.

MR. P. RAJ MOHAN (CONTINUING): The Prime Minister mentioned the many avenues of future prosperity and potential for the country, and the Budget Address puts emphasis on the five building blocks to ensure us the three fabulous figures mentioned. This Building was opened by the Government after the completion before the General Election. I understand that it remained shut as was opened the Second Reading after the election. It is my opinion that there was no necessity for a second opening. I have never been to Zeno and I have attended the opening of many buildings around George Town. We are never called back when the staff moves in the furnishings and the gadgets purchased. There was no need to have an operational opening. The building had been opened. However, if I had been in the Government I would have insisted to open that building the second time because it is really worth it. I would hope that it would give to me an understanding given to them a lot of political mileage. So although they had inspected the first opening and did not attend it, they opened it a second time and have enough political mileage one can get from a second baptism. I suppose there is nothing anti-Christian to do with a person who was baptised once in the faith.

Moreover, I am concerned that they put up a plaque at the entrance in honour of a Member who had just come to power. Undoubtedly during the four years in Government he will accomplish much," and he will be many things of which we can be proud. However, I just think the people who put up those plaques like one of the Members whose names and stuff have on the construction of that building, should come clean. I believe in giving honour where honour is due, and if the Member financing has four years and does something substantial I would agree with it. But to just put a plaque identified as mine and shame and ashamed of waste to the one put in by the Member who constructed the terminal building, I think was a waste of public funds. Also as that opening many people were unaware; people who had helped in evolution, some of them in the early days of construction, and I agree, Sir, that those people should have been honoured. There were ways of that who worked hard and I agree some honour should have been given to them. What I cannot understand is how they could open a building built in the early years, headed by the former Member for Islands Activities and I was not given him to make a speech at the opening. This was an insult to the people of the Sister Islands because who then was Sister Islands Member for Sister Isles or not, he has made his contribution to evolution in this country.

I recall when we were elected in 1976, the new Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council Cabinet's desk which was in the same stage of completion as the airport was in 1984. I went out with the Honourable Premier First Elected Member of Executive Council Sentinel the former Member of Executive Council, Mr. Berkeley Bush, to make a speech at the opening of the desk. All the Members agreed to use the night time to fly because Mr. Bush had time to change when the desk was being, and credits for building the desk should go to the Government between 1972 and 1976. Mr. Bush was criticised and he rose and he made a speech and the islands were satisfied. The islands are now dissatisfied that the new Government has tried to pretend that the Member who headed up the construction of the terminal does not exist. However, I still feel that that is so very much wider and that they will have the speech. It really was a shame to treat him in this manner and if this is not politically unfashionable, tell me what is.

MR. SPEAKER: Does any other Member wish to speak? The Honourable Second Elected Member of Pembroke Parish.

HON. E. SCOTT JONES: Mr. President, I wish to join other Honourable Members who have spoken before me in thanking you for your excellent Throne Speech, and especially the Honourable Financial Secretary for his usual fine, factual Budget Address. both of these were very well presented, informative and ably delivered to this Honourable House on Friday, last March.

Each year at Budget time our Financial Secretary has the unenviable task of finding the finances around of this country, and again I am sure that this becomes more complex and burdensome. Needless to say the Budget Address for the year 1986 has been no exception.

I have witnessed first hand some of the very long hours he has spent at his office and I sincerely wish to congratulate him on his determination, ability and foresight.

Mr. Speaker, as has been customary, you have outlined Government's policies and programmes while the Financial Secretary has provided a detailed review of Government's financial affairs and the state of the economy. It is a responsible which any responsible Government must have to publicly review its past and its plans for the future, because in that society the people have a right to know.

Mr. President, as the Honourable Financial Secretary stated this year's Budget Address has brought a significant change in the Membership of this Honourable House there has been no major change in the country's economic development policies. I fully agree with Madame's statement.

I am grateful to the people of George Town for electing me a second time with such an overwhelming majority as their representative for George Town proper, and thank my colleagues for electing me to become a Member of Executive Council. I can only say that as I have done before, I have the interests of my people at heart and I will carry them. It is a fact, Sir, that in the General Election of 1984 the people identified that it was time to have the old styled party system had run their course. This is necessary at this present time. However, Sir, some whose time they were quick to assume others of being peoplists of their home will too suddenly themselves placed those roles. It is certainly just like quickly the tides change when the shoe is on the other foot.

Mr. President, in my opinion it is high time that those who have been elected that the people have spoken; that the last election is over, and so they may just be well settle down and unite against the political stability which has in a very large measure contributed to our success in the past, and will sustain the future of these Islands. Mr. President, the democratic process will not always please everyone. There will be those around who will be displeased with the results and ready to point an accusing finger, but may democracy always be kept alive in our country. The people's right to choose is the cornerstone of any viable society.

Recently the media and while I may consider dangerous posture I have been displeased the purposeful which has been spread the anti Chronicle which have done only the general correspondence Monday with the exception of Tuesday's, all issues of to consider, Sir, where is the love for the Cayman Islands portrayed by some would be leaders? Is it truly love for this country which commands that work, or a desire for power and position?

MR. M. DANIEL ROSSE (CONTINUED). Then, Sir, must mean the dividing line between the politician and the statesman because on him own part a statement taken of the country and a politician thinks of the next election.

I have sat for nine and days and I have listened to complaints from the opposition. Some of the very things which they complained about some of them are making. I have heard suggestions about people who knowing attended and things which needed to be done. May I ask why were these not given in the past eight years since the Party came into office or something else which is good in this country?

Mr. President, there has been talk about turning around the economy. Indeed one may that there has been a slowdown in some areas that aggressive with the social growth which this country has experienced. However, this slowdown was also on the way before the elections of November, 1983. Let me say in fairness, Mr. President, despite inadequacies, much longer had made more powerful commitments than the Cayman Islands cannot turn around the economy by the same step of a foot. I have always said it and I maintain it here once again, however before, the wars of recessions or slowdowns are like acts of God supplies, all reported from the United States of America and all affected by outside forces over which we have no direct control.

Additionally, for, the slowdown of the American years has the tendency ex-Looks especially when the recession unemployment is such an increase elections years of unpaid expenditures programmes for obvious reasons, which fortunately did not bring about the results which expected at the polls. It is all part and parcel of, breakdown, for people to lay blame to economic cycle or administration making or the moral of an economic boom, and again during a discussion which has not been given a fair chance of receiving us.

It is therefore a totally biased and distorted picture to link the recognition of eight years and attempt to compare them with the first three months of the administration of a new Government. This is unacceptable and to my mind prejudice an unfair allegation to the people of this country. I for one could seriously be totally ashamed of their financial ability were they are able to create a boom at any time that the United States and the rest of the world was in the face of an recession, whilst then they are not be more active in economic activity and discuss with the present Government.

I believe that as long as the United States economy is good and remains strong, as long as we remain a stable and strong country, Cayman's economy will not flourish as it has been precipitated. It is all political illusory as for as I am concerned. As a Government we have sound policies...

MR. S. W. TIBBETTS: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the Member is reading his speech. I refer to Standing Order 31(1).

MR. M. MCKEEVA BUSH: The Member should ask that instead of talking about reading the speech.

MR. ARCH MCLAUGHLIN: I have not noticed him reading it. I have seen him referring to his notes.

MR. M. MCKEEVA BUSH: Mr. Speaker, I am not reading my speech, Sir. I have made notes. I am following them closely. However, I can assure the Member that if I did read

MRS. H. NORMAN SCHWARZKOPF (CONTINUING): ...anything at least written by Norman Schwarzkopf and not as was the case with some of the member's statements during the previous administration.

MR. G. MILLS ODOM: On a point of order, Mr. President, he should refer to himself as the Second Elected Member of Executive Council, not as Norman Schwarzkopf.

MR. W. MCKEEVA BODDEN: Hear, hear.

MRS. H. NORMAN SCHWARZKOPF: I believe I am entitled to call myself by the name I have gone by for fifty years if I so choose, Sir. However, I also like to apply my title as often as I can to remind more officials.

I was saying, Mr. President, that as a Government we have acted decisively. We are determined to maintain the strong connection to good Londoners for the Cayman, and we will continue to provide an appropriate destination for the visitors. There are many Caymanians we admire as hard-working, peaceful and joyous. We will seek out and encourage honest businessmen to continue as the backbone here, making it abundantly clear that it will be maintained within the rights of our laws. Caymanians whose interests are ours for sale, nor will they ever be used as a pawn for any manipulating within the approval of overseas Government officials.

MR. JAMES M. RIVARD: Use point of order, Mr. Speaker. Under Standing Order 25(4), although it has been brought to your attention the Member still continues to read his speech.

MR. SPEAKER: If I think the Member is reading his speech I will inform him.

MR. JAMES M. RIVARD: Alright, Sir.

MRS. H. NORMAN SCHWARZKOPF: I'm not sure what is happening there people about reading the speech, Sir. If we are saying anything in favour of them they never notice that we are reading it, just know (laughter). Anyway, if it is against them they do pay attention.

MR. JAMES M. RIVARD: It might have been prepared by someone else.

MRS. H. NORMAN SCHWARZKOPF: You do not have to worry about that, Sir. Maybe the Member is accustomed to writing other people's speeches but I write my own.

I was saying, Mr. President, that I unfortunately the Members both on and out of this House to accept their responsibilities in the true spirit of democracy and follow the sound advice offered by our Financial Secretary when he said it was necessary now more than ever to the preservation of political stability, maintaining our good financial practices and prudent control of Government spending. Because I will have no doubt about it, Sir, but the way when vast ambitious political plans create an atmosphere of political instability and unrest in this country, we can only expect problems in the financial industries which have made this country what it is today. It will then surely, Sir, return to the days of flood and bureaucracy and all the good characteristics of yesterday. Our people may not like the proposals but I have to remind it may of course, as this is one easy way of keeping promises we have done. We will all pay the price, Sir, those who can afford and those who are unable

MR. M. MOHAMED ZAHIR (MINISTER): Sir, I have also listened, Mr. President, the Eleventh Budget and Budget Address entitle Government to review the past and planning the plans for the future. This Government is fully conscious of the needs of this country. We know that we need more field workers for social services. We need more teachers and family people in the rural field. We need more school blocks, better roads, rehabilitation programmes, improvements to prisons facilities and the list could go on and on, for we really have many and varied. However, these all cost money and where will the funds come from?

Certainly the next Government cannot expect to find those funds in the short time frame in which we have had to work. It will take time and patience when the priorities have to be established, which is really financial commitments of Government funds, debts to be paid and a large infrastructure to be considered. ..

It is true that balancing the budget was a serious problem. This was done, Sir, by the introduction of certain measures whereby we have a surplus of funds from Current Revenues, I think it was $24.6 million, which is less than had to be implemented in order to balance the budget last year, in 1984. Mainly this was accomplished through by cutting expenses. I have heard accusations of financial experts, I do not profess to be one, Sir. I was told and I have evidence but I am sure that everybody knows that one way of balancing the budget is to cut the expenses. This is what was done in the case of the budget for 1985.

In spite of all the hullabaloo which has been made in this House about the few persons working overtime I am pleased to say, Sir, that after much pains Government has been able to remove the duty from individual drinking water. It is a long time in coming, Sir, but a glass of duty free water just is not worth it, and I am sure that the billion men who have been raised about so much in this House recently will be appreciative of what we will. It just goes to show us that the pay system in the Government Honourable Mr. Hamid Hassim, "Time longer than Rope" has a grain of truth in it.

I would also point out, Mr. President, that while there has been talk of all the revenue earning projects which this Government has introduced, no mention been made in the Estimates of this House one should find that when the Duty Free people in 1978, the first thing they did at their very first meeting in 1979 was to increase airport duty on liquor, wines, cigarettes, tourist accommodation tax and of course the Gambling Taxes which have been increased and increased and financed in the manner that we cannot add or only more in this range far from of losing many of them. Existing Establishments have, which would have an adverse effect on the future expansion in this country. It is people would argue and people should not be so short.

It must be borne in mind, Mr. President, that plans for the future are very often affected by the conduct of the past. It is therefore to this light that the year 1985 must be considered.

Mr. President, the budget for 1985 stands at $61 million and compares with the budget for the previous year, 1984. I would hasten to say, Sir, at this stage that many of the measures enacted by past budget addresses have gone unheeded under the cry of neglected. We can foresee Honourable Members, as usually put it so should turn out figures to how have recommendations required to provide the services to the people of these Islands.

HON. K. KOMBY DOUBLE (CONTINUING): Our future, also, is therefore strongly affected by the conduct of the last administration. So we are faced today with what could be termed quite rightly have hard financing. "But why" some must ask. Because some just should get blood out of stones and Governments must learn yourself to raise or restrict our tax finances to the very bare necessities. There is no alternative. This has to be done if there are to be any lasting, clearly due to many of these previous Governments we have been plagued by the opposition.

Mr. President, keeping all with the above mean that all the good things we see in our neighbouring countries, all that is fine, I do not discriminate or unfavourably about good communications and a high life style because I can enjoy that as well as the next man. However, it must be remembered that we, unlike the rest pay the price. All the fine facilities we have in place must be maintained. Manpower must be provided, but the other side of the coin is that these must be paid for. They must simply just the same as in the other countries we mentioned. Therefore it can only be reasonable to expect that it must eventually reach the stage where we must put the block to wait the economy, to quote the words of the honourable Financial Secretary. What day have arrived.

It has always been true and it will stand the test of time that we cannot eat what we don't grow and live different things.

Much has been said, Mr. President, as I have mentioned before about the economic warning measures being put forward. However, no-one has mentioned what country there is here to be introduced at this time. This country has in the past been taken on a spending spree especially during 1984, Mr. President. Governments must now find funds to maintain the commitments and these can only come from the public who enjoy and know the benefits. This is a reality which cannot be ignored and now avoided. A careful analysis of Government's estimated revenue will reveal that out of the total revenue of $88.8 million which this country is expected to generate in 1985, $48.8 million or 55.6 per cent goes to recurrent expenditure, the cost of running this country which is not cheap. That is why we badly need late for capital expenditure and very necessary, Sir.

To a household who earns $7,000 a month this means that he is spending $600 out of that $2,200 to operate or run the house, and therefore he only has approximately $900 left for other expenses. Government is in a very similar position. I have explained to all sorts of well-meaning people invited at this new Government, but last year and the year before, and probably going back further, substantial amounts of money have had to be taken from the essential Recurrent Revenue in order to balance the budget.

In 1982 there was $8 million taken and last year there was $12 million. This year there is $2.3 million! So why is this considered such a risk in 1985? It is because there is a new Government that this percentage is being used in a last ditch attempt to discredit the new Government and convince the public that they made a mistake at the polls. Last year one out of seven members of revenue failed to produce what was forecast.

Including the figures one will find that there has been $3 million. Tax was down by over $600,000. Timeshare were down by $800,000. Sales were down by over $5 million. Road taxes were by $700,000 and revisions were down by $80,000. With this sort of performance in 1984 the new Government has inherited a deficit which currently amounts to twenty percent in three months.

MRS. M. ROSALIE BOGGS (CONTINUING): The elected-Board elected, Sir, under the Local Government.

MR. G. MAIO BOUSQUET: On a point of explanation, Mr. President, we did make the estimate that known to us at the time. The decision to withdraw the Police Force by stage to 1984 was... Some areas were done, but couldn't be made 24.

MRS. M. ROSALIE BOGGS: I am not saying that they did not make their estimates, Sir, but those revenue estimates which I have not been taken from the budget and they were certainly less than what was forecast. That was the point which I was making. With regard to making the point I would like to remind the Member that he said he brought a balanced budget to this House, balanced on paper, showing that at the end of 1986 they would have over a half a million dollars surplus. However, if one takes the Revaluation was considered the revenue normal operations, one will find that they ended up in 1987 with a deficit of $17 million.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think this may be a convenient point to take our afternoon break now I will suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes.

AT 3.25 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 3.43 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.

Proceedings are resumed. The Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive Council.

MRS. M. ROSALIE BOGGS: Mr. President, when we took the afternoon break I was saying that the nine-days started under the Unity Team Government. It was telephoned by the Unity Government and I am certain that the public in this country, know that they elected politicians, not magicians. They cannot expect miracles on these matters.

To come also, Mr. President and take out of the Budget of $61 million for 1988. $12 million has already been spent on commitment by the previous Government in 1984, accounting estimates for completing projects which have to be paid for out of this year's vote.

As I have said before, Mr. President, we have to reach these days about the little man and what we are doing to him. But where was the little man when school fees were enforced which perhaps should not have affected many a Dominican family, however I unreservedly reproached politicians from many, many Opposition for what hardship was created because of the introduction of school fees. Where was the little man when hospital fees were introduced? There also presented hardships for the little man. There are others, as observed in Grenada for our Carnivals to have persons fined. There too have affected the little man in one way or another, directly or indirectly, from time to time.

MR. H. DOUGLAS POWELL (CONSERVATIVE): It is my intention, Sir, that adjourned by merely asking Members on the front Bench our views a step to the gallantries which we pay on the public in 1982. However, now many are actually willing to get down to the issues of the year ahead in this relatively standoff to consider, and help him think he really needs it. This is left to be seen, and would certainly be interesting to many of the more recent by this remarks and are being reformed to unfortunately by some people who have no time to spend with them.

Mr. President, the 1982 position is such and it is time that political matters should be put to rest so that all of our energies can be concentrated on the difficult task ahead for this country, the task of restablishing political stability and keeping this ship of state on an even keel. For there be no doubt about it, there are many problems ahead which demand our attention. To be quite the opposite, the politicians, the financial experts, the young administrators and the men on the street in their chosen professions. If we really look into matter this carefully we will post our objectives and find the way to manage ourselves as can reveal high priorities which have increased the prospect of the individual and make this country the success it is today.

However, having said what it is desirable to see happen in certain areas, unfortunate past political mistakes have been forgotten into these Chambers. Therefore, Sir, just as long as these decent people who work their hearts into Pensions Trade and who do a public very valuable to safeguard the public, there will be those who shoulder the responsibility to see the matter straight. The public must know, Sir, and experience of programmes they are asked what went wrong [illegible] ago it has brought nothing but unnecessary and unwelcome divisions amongst our people, which threatens the very fabric on which this country has been built. A division and dangerous situation has developed and if allowed to go unchecked will eventually create more of a devastating effect on the future of this land and our people than any Commando Lt, III or IV as far as that be concerned. Let us put our priorities in order.

Mr. President, I would like now to thank my colleague to our Civil Service which has increased by some six per cent. I too agree with those who have said that we cannot continue to support further increases in this area. However, it must by kept in mind that as more and more demands are made by the public for improved services, just the same as any other business Government must have the available manpower in order to meet those demands.
It cannot be done otherwise and all the fine buildings in the world are useless without the people needed to provide the services to the public. These services must be kept at a desirable level.

I realise that Civil Servants'
salaries account for £39 million of recurrent expenditure but, Sir,
I also realise too that Civil Servants must eat. Civil Servants have families to support and many dedicated Civil Servants work long and hard hours.

I believe that the move to eliminate all posts in establishments which have not been filled is one means of stopping further increases in the Civil Service and reducing expenses to control and I support this action. Regardless, Sir, of those who are quick to criticise it is my opinion that we have a good strong Civil Service and I for one have always supported them, simply because while politicians and their new-fangled ideas come and go, the Civil Service remains the backbone of this country.

MR. W. HOWARD PICKERSGILL (Bonavista): I must have to quickly. I am most pleased to see, Sir, that a local well deserving officer has been given the position of Deputy Coastguard of Caribou, and that she is to have training of local officers in Bonavista Bay. This I believe to be a sound investment in our future because our young people who choose this area of the service must be given an opportunity, and they must be trained and trained well if they are to fill responsible positions in the future to keep law and order in this country.

I must turn to Radio Canada. I feel that Radio Canada is to be commended for their professionalism and commercial success. Without losing that professionalism I make particular note of the fact that a staff of fifteen, thirteen are Canadians who operate the station. This is something to be proud of.

The new Canadian Broadcasting Law which will shortly make this significant is undoubtedly the most important piece of legislation passed in the last four years. While not yet perfect it is a substantial improvement and will serve this country well. The new Board like the previous one I am sure, has been working very hard and I sincerely congratulate them for their dedication and interest in the affairs of this country.

Mr. President, the continued growth in the financial markets is encouraging. Of particular interest is the fact that we are considering to attract banks from further afield than the United States as there all the way are not planned in our banks. Total expenditure in Canada by the banks and trust companies totalled 241 millions as you would, and of course Canada has cost in line with over fifty million. Add the staff on the street and they are fully aware of our heavy dependence on finance and tourism. This has been true for years and will continue to be just as long as we continue to provide the ingredients which attracted investors and travellers here in the first place. These ingredients are stability, safety and friendly Canadians. The importance which we attach to these fragile and fickle industries can never be over-emphasized. They must be presented to our local workers, our local drivers, our shopkeepers and all others at every possible opportunity, because one telephone, one major report from General George Town by misled and misinformed people can cause us to lose overnight the benefits we now enjoy and have worked hard to build up.

Mr. President, the Honourable Financial Secretary went into much detail to point out the high percentage of Canadians employed in the various local businesses, and these figures were most impressive. While I am not over nationalistic, as I have said before, these statistics tell me that more and more Canadians are filling their rightful places in the job market. This is the way it should be. As enterprise continues to do business here, and while there are needs for key personnel to be brought in at certain levels, this must always be seen as a temporary stage so that Canadians can share in the development of our own country.

I believe, Sir, that Cable and Wireless is one company which has set a fine example in this regard and I would certainly like to see more of this type of Canadian involvement at the managerial levels.

Mr. President, I would now like to turn my attention to my areas of responsibility, the Portfolio which has been assigned to me which is the Portfolio of Tourism Aviation and Trade.

HON. M. SPARKY EDDIE (continued): Finally, I must thank the staff of my Department for the assistance which they have so kindly given me and the loyalty which they have shown since I took up my position some three months ago. I continue to count on their support and I am looking forward to working along with them during the rest of my office. I do believe that together we can accomplish much for our Government and for our people.

Yesterday, Mr. President, I made comment on the statements made by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town in his budget. He alleged that in 1994 the Unity Government had spent $712,682 but that this year the Portfolio of Foreign Relations and Trade administration had been brought up to date of that only $586,930 were being provided for expenses. He went on to say further that there would be insufficient funds to pay for electricity and maintenance, and that the Government would have to find over $100,000 to meet these obligations. Well, if that were really the case it would not be saying much for the previous administration, because this means of those that we are told there were no overfalls could be covered. However, Mr. President, the decrease in this vote is simply because several duty-free shops that were initially in the main estimate of this Portfolio were removed to their proper Portfolios. This is the reason for the large difference in the expenditure for that department.

Additionally, the Member should have taken notice, Mr. President, from the total expenditure of this Government under Personal Emoluments that electricity bills are paid by Finance Department and stationery is paid by Personnel Department. I can safely state that the Refurbishment of Foreign Missions and Trade Representatives will be available. However, no funds will be wasted because questions would be found to be quite unnecessary.

Mr. President, the Portfolio and Departments under it have presented sensible budgets which I am prepared to defend. However to reduce unnecessary Government expenditure some of the goals of this Portfolio for the next four years instead of the unrealistic ambitious which were originally laid out might prove prudent. I believe that with the support of my staff we can achieve this.

While engaged in looking at the already laid out plans during this meeting, Sir, that the year 1994 proved to be an excellent year for the tourist industry in the Cayman Islands. This is most encouraging to the staff of this Department and the Portfolio, for a job well done. Air arrivals were up 10.6 per cent and cruise ship arrivals rose by 14.3 per cent over 1993, we an overall increase of 24.3 per cent. It is highly anticipated that there will continue expansion to increase this figure and for our tourism officials' dedication and the quality of the product of tourism in the Cayman Islands.

For 1995 it is estimated that tourist arrivals to the Cayman Islands will continue to increase. Air arrivals are forecast to be 341,881 persons showing an 11.5 per cent. Cruise ship arrivals are forecast to be 810,957 for an increase of 7.6 per cent. It is believed, Sir, that this forecast is a realistic one and as in the case of all projections it is subject to some assumptions. The major one are that the economy of the United States maintains its steady expansion. Also it is hoped that the necessary exchange factor for the strength of the United States dollar against the pound Sterling does not produce a negative effect on tourist arrivals, and the tourism product in the Cayman Islands must be maintained to a high standard. These assumptions have to be made and kept in order for us to meet our projected targets.

MR. E. JOSEPH SCOTT (CONTINUED): With the co-operation of all tourism related businesses in the Cayman Islands and the positive approach to the continued development of tourism in our country, our Department of Tourism has an aggressive marketing programme arranged which is expected to produce favourable results again this year. The William Dollar Sports Fishing Tournament, Cayman Open Tennis Week and all local promotions for which plans are in place and progressing well.

A new Tourism Advisory Committee has been appointed with three sub-committees set up to deal with tourism products, cultural activities and tourism awareness. These Committees are responsible of a cross-section of local industry, additional initiatives and promises to be an asset to our tourism efforts.

Mr. Speaker, I am happy to see the progress which is being made to make marina points in Little Cayman a reality, because I believe that this is the means of preserving our heritage which contributes to account for at least 50 per cent of our tourist arrivals, and which I feel must be preserved for the benefit of Caymanians as well for generations to come.

In a highly competitive tourist area overseas market we must continue very closely the services we provide. We must give fair exchange and fair value because the United States dollar is hard to come and they expect services to reflect for what they spend.

I am also happy to see that I support the procedure which is being made to consult and eventually build existing Relationship in the direction of home ownership which will enable that Statement to receive and handle cruise ship visitors. I think that West Bay is one of the most desirable in our islands and it is time that they received some help in that area. They have my wholehearted support.

A new advertising agency has been appointed for the Department of Tourism and Cayman Airways effective as of 1st April, 1985. Mr. Speaker, this change was not made for the sake of change only but it was felt that a new approach, new attempts and more ideas needed to be put into a revised overseas advertising programme for the Cayman Islands. That is just what we have. Source Offshore Communications Inc. is a creative advertising agency with extensive experience in travel destinations and airlines. They do not have representation in countries like Canada and the Caribbean which would present a conflict of interest. So we believe that they are the right agency for the Cayman Islands and for Cayman Airways. Mr. Speaker, this agency was selected after viewing and listening to presentations from nine advertising agencies for two days. Expert advice at no cost was also obtained by me whether to conglomerate in the Kennedy Triangle or move from the Texas location. So the committee to work with these presentations was composed of a real expert in tourism from Canada, the Managing Director of Cayman Airways, the regional sales manager for Miami, the sales manager for North America, the Director of International sales and marketing for the Department of Tourism and Cayman Airways, the director of tourism, the Principal Secretary for Internal Affairs and myself. I think we had a hard working, well experienced committee which was capable of giving us sound advice so that the selection of the agency would never be in doubt.

After listening to advice from committee members I took the decision and recommended to Government that the new agency be appointed. It was a proper and democratic procedure which I chose to use and which I understand never happened in the past with other appointments which were made of advertising agencies.

Add, Mr. Middle Income Housing: In our efforts for tourism in 1980 a strong public relations programme will of course support our advertising and special market promotions during this year. I may mention here, Sir, that it is the policy and intention of my Ministry to monitor very closely the performance of each of our regional offices to clearly ascertain what contributions they are actually making to the tourism, and what it is costing Government. The more effective to public relations works and I would point out here that after proper consultation, it was possible to save some $90,000 by rationalizing the arrangement which was made with the Cayman Islands News Bureau, and by arranging for the Department of Tourism London office to undertake with the public relations services which had previously been provided by the Kate Bureau.

As the past several years the State of Country has placed considerably to its cap its tourist promotion. Sirs, and we have put a small amount in the budget this year which I trust will receive Members' support, so that we can in the course of the year at least appoint a sales representative for Atlanta with a view to the day being able to open a sales office in that city.

Mr. President, good tourism results cannot be achieved on programmes without a good qualified and experienced sales force and tourist officials. The Department of Tourism is finding it increasingly difficult to hold on to good staff, not to mention being able to attract experienced staff as replacements. In addition to that no Caymanian would have been for the Department of Tourism overseas staff. We have therefore, Sir, had in for a small increase in salaries for this staff and I quite trust that this will receive Members' support at Committee Stage.

I come next to Aviation. It is true, Mr. President, that this department is manned by a well experienced and qualified Supervisor and other Caymanian staff of which we can all be greatly proud. The airport runs highly smoothly and gives excellent service. I find our Director of Civil Aviation a man who is good by the books and I personally appreciate that.

As you stated, Mr. President, it is intended during the course of this year to make an attempt to operate the airport on similar grounds as the Port Authority. Previously, landing fees can be collected and the Financial Secretary will hand over the taxes. By the time of your next Throne Speech you should be able to say the same for the airport operation as is now being done for the Port Authority and Turtle Cayman.

The new terminal, a much needed facility, stands as a tribute to all Caymanians as I exist on the day of the inaugural opening. It is a facility to be proud of and will undoubtedly contribute to our tourism boards mention because of the accommodations provided there. However, here again, I think it may be more building than we can afford for, and the operating cost has to be met. Hide-out only might come from the people who enjoy the use.

I would like to support wholeheartedly the comments made by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac regarding the second Aviation. Our Brac aerodrome the second Aviation in the area. Altogether, this is what I am told by the Chairman Committee. Surely, Mr. President, the points made by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac should be well taken and well considered by us. I have always been a person to always stress which I was never entitled to. The 2,000 Sovereign Cayman people who put us in here are well aware of the quality of person that I am. I do not seek to take anybody's seat. From then. This was not the intention. There has been a big elaborate opening costing some $10,000 in November. While I understand was a very successful function. Nevertheless, it was

MAY. P. DONALD BOUCHER (CONTINUED): a fact that the building segment ready to be occupied. I have seen the measures happen. I have seen the staff move in and start to work in buildings before they were completed and they had the official opening some time afterwards. However, this was totally the opposite. Government felt that since it had been opened prematurely and since all the facilities had been quite a bit and been completed, that when the day finally came that the terminal was completely to some important enough occasion to mark it as a special event. I don't claim that happening. I am sure that the former Member responsible for Tourism Quebec and Parks has worked very hard and I am sure that he got all the credit which he was entitled to when his term moved to Montreal. It just so worked out that on a breath of the elections I happened to be the Member in place at the time. Therefore I fail to see that if this was the way that the election went why anybody's name other than M. Jacques Bedard should have been put on the plaque marking the date on which the terminal was officially opened. This I really do not understand.

I was disappointed a lot to celebrate in this country. I am not a hypocrite and I have never tried to deprive anybody of anything which they were entitled to. I feel that I had as much right to celebrate the ceremony and to have a plaque put there that I was the Member in place on the day it was officially open the same as anybody else. I have no apologies to make for this to anyone.

I hate to belabour the point, Sir, but for the sake of clarity I must point out again because this came up time and time again in question time and through the debate, and I want one very plainly that the accurate page in Hansard and Bathurst Communication Limited and the Public Works Department for the ceremony held on 12th December unfortunately were due to the misconception of work in progress. There were other costs incurred. In other words because of the movement, the contractors had to stop what they were doing, clean up the place for the opening and then resume work after the opening. Mr. President, this was a most unfortunate ceremony because the building was completed and work was finished at that time. I sincerely hope that this will help to clear up this matter in the minds of this House and the public.

I hope indeed the Prime Minister of Quebec Province's recommendation for suitable cause of the new terminal I think that it is a fine suggestion and I continually until nearly this side of those are available funds.

In the course of 1980, Mr. President, as can be seen from the estimates, we plan to start the terminal in Ottawa that will possibly have funds and expect to be able to complete it hopefully in the following year. I want to give this honourable House my assurance that this is the only terminal in the Ottawa Valley which will be only opened once. I am sure that the people of Ottawa Area will welcome this because as the number of tourist arrivals grow there is a pressing need for a new terminal.

Mr. President, the Prime Department is another department officially operated by Diplomacy. Our Chief Fire Officer is an excellent administrator who controls the services of his staff. He runs a good operation and gets very little in return other than dependable fire-fighting equipment. His buildings facilities are poor and need improvements very badly. But he understands very well that there are not enough funds to go around at this time, so he does have to patiently wait.

MR. M. MOSES ROSES (continued): We have put in a small amount for a replacement water heater which he badly needs, a small amount for fuse units to be drilled which are absolutely essential for certain performance, and a few other odds and ends which I trust will maintain Members' support.

A final mention to assure the Hon. Roy and Salem this month have been set aside for the Bureau of Rice Women will remain. I spoke about the need for this in that high density area last time again at every opportunity at my disposal. We hope, Sir, to be able to at least clear the site and the building will come in due course as soon as funds become available.

Mr. President, I must come to Cayman Airways, the proclaimed petitioned "football,wicket of it is so, it has been a football by the whole team. It amounts to me that it has been used as a refuge for politicians and friends. Mr. President, Cayman Airways still always have my full support, as I see it as an essential service in respect of these Islands. I would like to see the ship come when because of problems or economics these Islands become solely dependent on any foreign air services to maintain air services for our people, our tourists and business community.

I have visited on both sides and I have seen the needs, and I do not believe that we should ever again be dependent on outside operators to provide these Islands with air services. I see this as essential to maintain achievable growth in the air industries on which we are dependent. I also see it as essential for maintaining our links with our sister Islands of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, and I see CAL, as essential to continue to provide opportunities for Caymanians who have shown the spirit of adventure as a service. However, having said that, the lives of our national airline and its future must be placed up to.

I do not believe, Mr. President, that any amount of political propaganda could strengthen the struggle Caymanian that I have everything but indifference and genuine concern for Cayman Airways, and that I will do all in my power to see it continue, so I like many others wholeheartedly.

Mr. President, much has been referred about my portfolio. I have learned what I consider very disappointing remarks. Perhaps it is fair that this position I have today is a bit worst for the lowliest boy that Michaelmill as some of the politicians realized me leaving their being unpaid in 1984. However, I can assure the public and I mean that they are aware of the contribution which I have made to Cayman Airways over the many backwardness, and that I too have some ability to provide the needs in my portfolio. I have already mentioned in Cayman Airways that I have helped to build up these air services before the Unity Flag was once heard of. I am not a braggart but I am not unfamiliar with chief aviation matters and proceedings. In 1972 I prepared a docket for the Civil Aeronautics Board of the United States and represented Cayman Airways as the chief witness at the hearing in Washington D.C., which gained for the very first time a foreign carrier's permit which enabled Cayman Airways to take its rightful place amongst international services, that is Kingston & Montego Bay and Miami from the Cayman Islands to the United States of America.

In 1977 I was a member of the delegation which attended the negotiations in Bermuda II and while both the United States and the United Kingdom had airports in the area that are only permanently established in the negotiations were the Caymans for both sides, Mr. Speaker for the United States and Mr. Shackleton for the United Kingdom.

MR. M. MUSSA BAZIGA (Mauritania): Nevertheless, Mr. President, the performance of the Gajese Islamic Delegation is above praise and the results which were out were nothing to be ashamed of. We were proud to be host here, nor did we spend any time talking to blacks. She came for Guyana together and harmoniously and objectively discussed and headed to the United Kingdom and the United States delegates. As a result of that, the Guyana Embassy in addition to Miami was granted another United States visa of entry which is quite evident from a perusing of file. That other point of entry was Chicago or Houston, hence which has proved to be a good route for the citizens to the organization, and a good basis for this country.

In addition to the several United States visits of mine I would like to remind this House that it was the result of the Guyana Islamic Law at that conference which enabled the organization to come to thought about, because it was not our intention or our desire of Islamic Economy Legislation that before any additional comments were developed to affect Guyanese investments that these countries' opinions would be taken personally into consideration. So that is the proceedings for the two successive deputations which Guyana Embassy had organized to mark the fact that a conference was closed in 1983 of which so much talk has been made.

In 1971 I was again Guyana Embassy's witness at the United Nations Security which extended Guyana Citizens' operations powers to the United States for another five years. Shortly after that Russian was interpreted as a declaration. I have pointed this, Sir, not to show us, our lives not simply to point out that I am equally or more qualified than the former Member in question which matters, and will assure that Guyana Islamic representations are stood fully and to the highest authority.

I sometimes myself fully qualified to be the Member responsible for Foreign Affairs and Trade, and to guide, responsible for policy matters relating to the national Flag carrier's operation. The I,MF Guyana Embassy who put us here as their representative also feel that way, and as a my colleagues who voted me into Executive Council. I do not intend to allow anyone in or out of this House to enjoy that I am more receptive, discipline person.

MR. SPEAKER: I think that we have reached the end of discussion and I will ask the Honourable Second Official Member to move the adjournment.

ADJOURNMENT

HON. MINISTER OF HEALTH: Mr. President, Sir, in accordance with Standing Order 20(7) as read with Standing Order 20(9) I do now move that this House do now adjourn until 10.00 a.m. on Monday, 28th March, 1966.

MR. SPEAKER: The question before the House is that this House do now adjourn until 10.00 a.m. on Monday, 28th March, 1966.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE REPORT

MR. EDMOND A. PIENAAR: Mr. President, in accordance with Standing Order 77(1), I, as Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee, beg leave to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the said Committee on the Auditor-General's report and audited accounts of the Government of the Cayman Islands for the year ended 31st December, 1997.

MR. PRESIDENT: So ordered.

MR. EDMOND A. PIENAAR: Mr. President, in connection with the Report, I just wish to say it is my responsibility and duty, as Chairman to give the House and Honourable Members a brief summary of the matters highlighted in the Report and the recommendations thereof.

Mr. President, the Committee held its meetings on the following days -

(i) 6th November, 1997
(ii) 9th January, 1998
(iii) 23rd January, 1998
(iv) 13th February, 1998
(v) 27th February, 1998
(vi) 12th March, 1998.

Mr. President, within the terms of the Committee's reference and the authority contained in Standing Order 79 we summoned the Principal Secretary for Development and Natural Resources to assist the Committee in the matter, and we again wish to record our thanks for the valuable assistance received from him. Also from the Auditor-General and other senior officers connected to assist us.

Mr. President, while we do not all of the observations and recommendations made in the Report, perhaps one observation should be the following.

Item 30 of the Auditor-General's Report on Capital Fund. The Committee investigated the position of the commitments outstanding both on the Capital for the period 1972 to 1998. Following deliberations on a detailed report and breakdown of outstanding debts submitted by the Financial Administrator, the Committee, having noted that the efforts being made by him to ensure that payments are timely and properly made, recommends that every effort be made to determine methods of payments of Capital

MR. LINCOLN A. PEARSON (Westfield): I was not aware of any other than what was published in the Hospital.

The Committee further recommends that a cost-benefit analysis be carried out to determine the profitability of pursuing the principle of rates suggested by the Hospital Administrator as doubtful and facilitate an assessment of employees' time structure, does not warrant the value of debts collected. Further, that Government update its policies in conjunction with Health Services with regards to identification of paying and non-paying patients and to ensure, that proper means tests are carried out where patients state their inability to pay.

Also, Mr. President, item 32 on ... Expenditure - the Committee characterized the problem of outstanding accounts in the sum $1,248,000 for the period late to 1982." The Committee, in finding no explainable reason for outstanding accounts from up to five years to increase, recommends that immediate steps be taken to rectify the problem of outstanding accounts fees and that the collection of particular accounts for this purpose, as provided for under the Law, be paid immediately, and that such appropriate finding to do so, be struck off the register. The Committee further recommends that upon a company being struck from the register, any property existing in or belonging to that company be granted to the Honourable Financial Secretary for the benefit of the Island in accordance with the provisions of the Law. It was also noted that a substantial amount of these outstanding fees were in respect of Local Government ...

Item 43 of the Auditor-General's report on capital projects. It is the opinion of the Committee that, with respect to major capital projects, the Public Works Department be involved only in a supervisory capacity as its experience has shown that historically the private contractors are more expert and efficient. The Committee recommends that a fine Government projects be put to tender to ensure that Government receives the best value for money.

Finally, Mr. President, the item of the Report of project numbers to the Executive Chief with the numbers of paragraph 180 B, which properly was circulated from Mr. George Lagrenade for the enhanced project. The Committee noted that the said property had been purchased by Government for the value and revenue system, structure, for a sum of $380,000. The Committee investigated the matter to ascertain whether, in view of such disadvantageous terms various relationship of the land, the expenditure may have been incurred without due regard to waste and expenditure of Government funds.

The Committee's findings showed that the 74 per cent stamp duty was paid by Government to Mr. Phillip, resulting in a total purchase price for the property in the amount of $410,000. It is the opinion of the Committee that in light of the recommendations made by leading valuators, the price paid for the property was unjustifiably in excess of the market value of the land as agreed by Government's official valuations and the independent valuations from the private sector as above from the reports submitted by them -

(i)	Valuation by Mr. Donaldson of Lands & Survey Department - April 1988	$ 75,000
(ii)	Valuation by Brighton Enterprises - May 1988	$222,720
(iii)	Valuation by Mr. Peter of Lands & Survey Department - July 1984	$ 40,000
(iv)	Valuation by Mr. S Williams - July 1984	$ 99,000
(v)	Valuation by Mr P Smith - January 1988	$ 75,000
(vi)	Valuation by Mr A Peterson-Pomeroy 1988	$ 85,000

MR. DANIEL A. PEARCE (CONTINUING): It is noted, Mr. President, that the county withdrew placed on the property, excluding Creighton Properties' valuation of over $100,000, to $84,000.

The Committee recommends, Mr. President, that on future valuation should be considered through the Douglas County Department that where there is doubt and discrepancy, the County valuations should be corrected by Statement.

Mr. President, also coming from the meeting, the Public Accounts Committee thought that it is time this was discussed, but perhaps not resolved here that we review the terms of reference of the Public Accounts Committee which I think we will have the opportunity to do when we look at the standing orders at a while.

Mr. President, the Public Accounts Committee's Report has received the complete support of all Members of the Committee and this Report is the Report of the Public Accounts Committee to the House. Mr. President, I would therefore move that the recommendations contained therein be adopted by this Honorable House.

MR. S. ROSCOE BOSTELMAN: Mr. President, I wish to second the motion that the recommendations contained in the Public Accounts Committee's Report be adopted by the House.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that the recommendations contained in the Report of the Public Accounts Committee on the Auditor General's report and audited accounts of the Statements of the Crown Estates for the year 1982, be adopted. Standing Order 72(5), I think, applies, and the motion, having been seconded, is open for debate.

REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE

MR. S. ROSCOE BOSTELMAN: Mr. President, I wish to commend the Committee for having gone into the public accounts, but commit myself the adoption of that report. There are three areas mentioned in it that I would like to speak on.

One is the recommendation that there be a change in the valuation of properties bought by Government. Government should not have the sole right of valuing the land. Whether we buy land by private individuals where which stamp duty is payable. The system is questionable now for that the land is valued and if there is doubt about the valuation someone can be brought in where the Government Services could be called upon to give the final say. The system used in the past to determine the value of a parcel of land for stamp duty has been that you have some document taken on that piece. If some anything has been used unlawfully for a likelihood to have been the purchase of that parcel of land for the purpose - the permit which is the subject of a part of this report.

It is true that a Government official has been served in the valuation of land case by this Department of this parcel, unfortunately that is my opinion. The assessment of this parcel of land could be standing for a little over $8,000 an acre. This has to - Commerce was, in fact, was a view parcel assessed at $1,850 an acre, which, again, has to be considered. That piece of land is considered to which is known as Black Rock Bay, South. Next the very name is unfortunate.

MR. R. HARRIS: [illegible] It is county. It is not known.

MR. G. LEE: GORDON (CONTINUING): This parcel of land is also in an area which has been zoned since about 1977, as industrial land - zoned for industrial development. Anyone familiar with land values in Grand Cayman will know that mostly industrial land in the centre of George Town is much higher priced than residential property.

I do not want to give the names, but it is a fact that many people ask the adjacent property to this parcel who purchased and in fact parcel land by that person. It was purchased at a price of between $6,000 and $8,000 an acre. This was back in 1978, and it is suggested that this parcel of land is worth here about $2,000 an acre. It is also known that Hendrick Drive Block has been sold for $60,000 an acre. Other more Hicks, West Bay Beach North, in quite recent transactions land was sold for $40,000 an acre. We have not like to bought or sold for $5,000 an acre, or even less, as has been suggested.

It is time the public knew the truth about this piece of land. This parcel of land was purchased from Mr. George Seymour who owned it for many years and I have been told by Mr. George Seymour, and I have been given his permission to state it, that he knew at the time that he was selling this piece of land he was approached by, from a certain quarter, a parcel of land almost in the same locality on the North Sound Road. Mr. Seymour's objection to that because he did not want to sell that piece of land, while the money received from the sale of this parcel he has been advised by his accountant who stated that he was supposed because he was George Seymour and a known supporter of the most administration. What behind this was however is the fact that this parcel of land was not developed by Government. It was purchased by Planning Committee and at the time of the purchase Members were told the value of the land and Members agreed unanimously to purchase this parcel of land for the price specified. It was only after Planning Committee had agreed that some Members of that same Planning Committee think it to be the public or public meeting maintaining that the Government had accepted for this parcel of land. There was no advertisement. It was a fixed price. The land had been valued at $229,780 by a qualified real estate agent who had sold land in that area for many years.

We did not pay $229,780. This was the asking price of the vendor. We negotiated and there were discussions at the particular time. The Financial Secretary was very satisfied that this was a fair value and was able to purchase it for $220,000 less than the price asked by the owner of the land.

I have seen a list of county parcel of land in that block and I have the price of county parcel sold since 1978. I am concerned that the price we paid for this land, amounting in the vicinity of $10,000 an acre, was a fair value.

I have mentioned that as far back as 1978 land was sold for $2,000 an acre and in some of the recent transactions the land was sold for $40,000 an acre. So I am concerned that the price of $10,000 an acre was a fair price, in fact, if anything, it was considerably less.

Also if we assume that this land in only worth what the lowest value was it is worth, the land would be sold for $222,000 and I have a list of some more going at that figure and less. This how we do calculations.

MR. D. HAIG SIMMS (Queenscliffe): The owners would be very worth $60,000 and it is ridiculous to even imagine that one could buy a house for the George Town for $100,000. Mr Owen Evans then moved to have the matter adjourned and seconded Hugh Brooker Mr Brooker then interjected. There is the place by Council today where the vendor's asking for $1,000. I would like some of those who have condemned this purchase to go and find land for this price in this State.

The ratepayers have been unfairly dealt. I am not condemning the Public Accounts Committee because it was just its function and to make the statement on the information. What I am complaining is the wrong stories which were told during the election campaign. But, this is not stopping us doing good and the Government has done what should be condemned, but history will tell that decision might.

This Parcel was a good purchase. I am not ashamed that the purchase was considered. During the campaign we heard stories like the Government made a mistake. The worst a big headline "Government makes a mistake - another mistake of Government to steal this water and discharge sewers".

This orders had been called by the people who now run the Government, or at least by one of the members, on an unconstitutional debate.

MR. MACKNESS: We are not debating the debate, we are debating the purchase of this particular piece of land on the Public Accounts Committee and that deals with the particular purchase of this land.

HON. ARCHIES A. BOLITHO: Yes, Mr. President.

MR. D. HAIG SIMMS: This particular match the Public Accounts Committee has called an unjustifiable purchase, but there are no facts to justify the case that it is an unjustifiable purchase. The Minister responsible and the Minister in charge to assure that the Government must take steps to make sure that there is no waste or unnecessary spending of public funds because we purchased a piece of land for a valuable service in the future. It is a good thing we mentioned it, as a matter of fact in my debate, because there is no money this year to purchase land.

So, if we examine all the circumstances surrounding this particular parcel, we will see that the sale was justified. The price paid was a fair price. This parcel of land is ideally situated because it is close to the West End Beach and very close to the central part of George Town where it has to be served by the sewerage works. Government inevitably would have found a sewerage parcel of land in Pitt's Lagoon or Lyons area, or maybe even up behind Bridge Town, Beach Hill or West End. One can buy land in some areas for less than $10,000 an acre, but Government would have to get a reticulation plant to serve the West End Beach and Central George Town. So it has to buy a piece of land in this area, and when all the calculations of this sale are now has appraised any parcel of land in this area that will be purchased for less than $30,000. So this has been given another unjustified beating and I believe that Estimate Committee was justified in recommending the purchase and ascertaining the circumstances for this piece of land.

We have had a part of this Bill on the agenda. We knew the answer to it is by a close vote, but none of those things detract from the final satisfaction of the land. Some of them reduce the value to this owner which they have suggested should have been paid. We did not purchase this land to give the Government's requirements. We purchased it for a piece which will provide sewerage.

MR. G. SAID KENNY (CONTINUED): I was a Member of the Finance Committee that recommended this purchase, and unlike some Members who supported it at the time, I continue to support it because I believe it was a fair price paid for fine lakeside property.

The second matter I plan to speak on momentarily is the Report which is before the House, is the hospital issue. I note the comments on the ambulance and the amount of fees outstanding. I would like to say that I'm sure all rights for the Government to endeavour to collect the hospital fees, I cannot approve the endeavours used which only have gone about it.

I have in my possession a letter which was sent to a person who had obtained or had claimed in the hospital in Dauphin. That person left the hospital on the 24th of September with a bill of whose bill or so, and on the bill was mentioned that the money should be paid within thirty days. The lady paid the bill on the 26th of November, and on the 28th of November she received a letter threatening to put her in court if she did not pay the fee.

Is this what the Government is doing with the hospital fees? Here is a person who was given thirty days to pay the bill and although she had paid it, long before the thirty days were up, they were threatening to take her to court. I am absolutely taken aback by the Members of this House in this.

MR. SPEAKER: I must remind the Member that what he was discussing is specific recommendations in the Report. The Member must help me by sticking to them and not dwelling into a general debate about anything that was mentioned in the Report.

MR. G. SAID KENNY: See, ...

MR. SPEAKER: See I really do not think that what the Member has been saying is relevant and I would have stopped him earlier, but I thought perhaps you were going to show us the relevance. He has failed to demonstrate it. Read now I shall drop his rather position.

MR. G. SAID KENNY: Mr. Speaker, a recommendation has been made in the Report and I think Government is relying upon that recommendation; but I am saying that the way they look and about it is wrong. Anyway I will not .....

MR. SPEAKER: Can you show me under .....

MR. G. SAID KENNY: ..... pursue the subject.

The third matter is that of overpayment. The Report correctly, Sir, mentioned that overpayment were unfortunately come a period to quarter that were not considered good accounting practice. It does not simply say that, but this is the meaning of it.

I would like to point out that this occurred simply because human negligence has gone in where we have been, according to the budget address, Government computer - and inside the old system of collection in dealing with companies is very difficult to track them all. This, I believe, will be corrected with the use of the computer and I think this is the reason why the Honourable Financial Secretary has shown that so many companies have been struck off for non-payment of fees. With computer billing, better track can be taken of them.

MR. G. LEIC BIGGS (CONTINUING): Mr. President, I would like to close and I hope that I have made my point that there was nothing wrong with the purchase of that parcel of land; and, if Government in the future does not make any worse investment than that one, we will not have the problems which I foresee in the years before 1980.

MR. SPEAKER: The Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. MRS. CHARLES J. STRACHAN: Mr. President, as a Member of the Port Finance Committee, which the Second Elected Member for Eastern Post has just said to approve of the sum that Finance Committee did approve of the $300,000 for the said piece of land. What he did not say was that the Committee was given given other information. All that the Committee knows was that the asking price of the land was over $500,000 and that they, the Government, had negotiated with Mr. Ingham and they thought the figure that is $300,000, and they thought at that price it was a good buy.

As a Member of Finance Committee we must be guided by the Chairman of that Committee and in the absence of any records of any other information, we must be guided by his decision.

The land, as I said, was quite swampy. I have a piece of land adjoining a piece of property which I happen to own near Smithfield just across the cane fields to the West Bay for $2,500 an acre. Therefore, that land would have cost $112,500 instead of $300,000. So it is very easy to determine, Sir, that the price paid for this land was excessive - there is no question about it. There is no road leading to the land. There is only a dirt road on the Member's side of it. We knew nothing about the accessibility of this land to Finance Committee. We were never told that the Land had no access to it.

The land which I just referred to which was sold for $2,500 has access to it by a paved road. So, Mr. Speaker, there is no question that the Government made a blunder, and I cite Elmslie. So one can tell me that there are side issues and that's all wrong. Figures do not lie, Mr. President. They can mean how far we go. So when one makes a mistake, why not admit it? Why not be honest with the public and say, "Look, we paid $300,000 for it. Sure, we paid more money for the land than what it was worth". The public would appreciate this. We must try to cover up something that has been done.

Mr. Speaker, we have had Days of this present Government because we are going to be honest basically and open with the people at all times.

HON. G. HAIG BODDEN: On a point of order, Mr. President, is the Speaker sure we are debating this matter at the moment?

MR. SPEAKER: He has not told me, so I do not think he is out of order.

HON. CHARLES J. STRACHAN: Mr. Speaker, the second point I would like to touch on is the hospital fees. We had a personal experience with hospital fees. Our maid went to the hospital about two weeks ago. We paid the hospital fees. We got a receipt for it and that's last week, before last Wednesday, we got a letter and we were told, Speaking short, that that hospital fee was due. My wife had immediately kept the receipt and she went back and proved that the fee had been paid.

SEN. CARL E. ALEXANDER (REPUBLICAN): Mr. President, what I am suggesting here, sir, is that there is something wrong with the bookkeeping at the hospital and it needs to be looked into seriously.

Thank you, sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Honorable Miss Crystal Watson.

SEN. CRYSTAL E. WATSON: Mr. President, I am not going to go into the contents of the report. I simply would like to congratulate the Chairman and the Minority Leader, Mr. President, that we have not had such a report from many years concerning the mental institutions of the five Members try new Members to this House. I congratulate them for tackling this task so early in the Session and hope for success.

I congratulate them, sir, and only then to continue to do a good job for this Committee.

SEN. MARIE E. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I too would like to congratulate the Public Accounts Committee for undertaking this study first before the start of this Legislature Assembly was appointed. It is a very healthy condition that a Public Accounts Committee chooses or undertakes over the work and, Mr. President, it is appropriate I suppose that since the last four years, there might have been a Public Accounts Committee because I know that it is something which the Legislature Assembly looks forward to in scrutinizing such a body as look at the financial activities which Departments, hence have been no Reports from such a body in such a long time.

Mr. President, I mainly rose from my seat because I could not resist hearing the old army tale again about the plane of many lord. Mr. President, I doubt that it on the principle during the days of electioneering and so I am bound to speak on it again at this time. We have that very, very, Mr. President, and the Deputy Chief the Public Accounts Committee has given the correct one. They have quoted figures which were used in earlier debates mal-misconceptions. And, Mr. President, two of the reports send this to this Government have used unnecessarily for many years in calculation of properties for stamp duty purposes. Therefore, it cannot be said that these new people who do not know very much about Corporate Land. One of the reports or announcements made from the Government and Survey Department and I think very great respect for the ability of the experts in those the determining land valuation. Also, there is certain income in the private sector, but, Mr. President I personally know and have personally been for many years to do like these jobs.

Now, Mr. President, some the valuation of these people do just known on the scale-price index? However, we the same take there to be a valuation by a sleeve magnifier of the Duty Plan and this valuation be given, Mr. President, some out of this world. And the Government need that and with the past Governments work under many business bodies invested and paid for that sort of valuation we probably would not have found very much left in the Treasury when we got here.

Mr. President, I am not blaming the number of that issue of land because eventually, if we would have entertained a million dollars from that money business group I would not have blamed him. However, here we have valuations given for a piece of land of $25,000, $40,000, $61,000, $75,000 and yet they would not accept these.

MR. HAROLD G. HOLDEN (continuing): They said, "No, we have it lot... if north City Schools is going to build a parking lot for it. We are going to pay you $200,000". Certainly anybody would have objected that Mr. Speaker, I would have objected if I knew it would be disposed.

Mr. Speaker, as I said a bit about the valuation of land in that area, so I was afraid to tell you, Sir, that some other Fair-Lawn properties land was sold in that area at $3,000 an acre. Mr. Speaker, it is not the sort of swamp land which we are talking about here which they paid $480,000 for. It was dry land as well and there was a lot of it. Mr. President, this piece of land which was purchased for $200,000 is the worst kind of swamp land which was still filled in that area. When we say swamp land it is all swamp land. There is no visible piece of dry land anywhere near it. Aside from that, Mr. President, it is directly to the north of their sewage plant which was further described when the purchase of said swamp land. Where they put a garden of $30,000 on, came from is beyond me. Mr. President, the only land which I know of which was sold for that kind of money was to the North Georgia Fair Grounds from the Saint Mary Beach area to the Lakewood Theatre. You could take a stone and throw it from the theatre on to that piece of land. Mr. President, let me say this. It was all dry land. I have not known any land to that area and let me tell you, Mr. Speaker, that I would invest in Georgia Power and in that area for fifty years; I do not know of any land in that South George Fair area which was ever sold for that kind of fabulous price. Even access from Seven Hills Realty running to the North should invalidate as part of the Seven Hills Realty land to sold for this purpose. Mr. President, this particularly northerly North of the sewerage dump off there, right off George Fair. It is not off the Seven Hills Realty.

So, Mr. President, for the record's sake I hope that is the only piece that you possibly can or that piece of land in connection. I make this remark to know that I am not speaking till against him. Look in the Red Book and see what they had paid him - little more.

Mr. President, Mr. Public Accounts Committee mentioned hospital fees. Of course that has always been a bone of contention in the hospital because nobody up there wants to mention hospital fees, I am reminded of that. In the past Government I made an Ministerial Statement many different responsible for collecting fees of. There are two methods available, why, just locate it alone, this is how they did things, Mr. President, 'Just leave it alone'. I have people who have gone to that hospital, honest people who came to pay their bill and remark came by without any bill being requested.

The Honourable Chief Minister of Executive Council mentioned about a bill which was sent out and which bill had already been paid. There is all sorts of confusion up there, Mr. President. When one goes and looks at the staff there, one wonders what they do. I do not want to remark the Chief Secretary or any department of Government but, Mr. President, let me tell you this. I have visited several. I have observed the operation of departments in this Government and I can tell you that there is need for a great shake up in many of them. One thing they always must should how to spend the money which is allocated to them on a quarterly basis, because they have got to spend it before the end of a quarter. The does not matter how it is spent, they must spend it. I believe that it is time for someone to look at the filing systems of hospital fees which is charged up there for the services which are rendered to the extent of $1 or $2 per week.

MR. VASSAR [P. SIMMONS (CONTINUING)]: So we have not changed the budget very much for these expenses but I think that the public has a duty to pay the public that we do charge. I hope that in the coming months someone will look at that expenditure and try to military the waste from which you changed.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. V. HOWARD ESQ.: Mr. President, I had not planned to speak this afternoon as many real beverage from across the way. I decided I would say my piece too. I would associate myself with the thanks and congratulations offered to the Chairman and his Committee for the job which they have done and are doing. I would like to say that the Public Accounts Committee is a very important Committee. The first night person we did not vote on used from the Public Accounts Committee and the Government Secret and Ayins and Ayins, and we-some called us warm paired around a little. I've one did make reverse an excellent a wisp on his hand and some said that he was a mighty boy.

Mr. President, it was always back always to me what has happened and that took place in the buying of that swamp land. So anyone saying or even implying that this is a fair price for the tax-payers of this country. I just have to disagree, Sir, but we, they say that it is a fair price. We wonder the country has suffered. We wonder there is no money now in the Treasury. But we hear many complaints

Sir, I honestly say that this new administration when buying property will not rob the tax-payers as it happened in the buying of that swamp land. I promise the country that if ever a matter as such comes to Finance Committee I will not condone such manipulation of public funds.

Mr. President, several publications can be viewed, one for $21,000, one for $60,000, one for $85,000, one for $75,000, one for $85,000 and one which came from a county supervisor of the Unity Team administration for $225,000. But they say, Mr. President, that is not a fair price. Mr. President, that is ludicrous. I say, Sir, that they should be hung for it. They should be made to pay the difference between the true valuations and the outrageous price which the Unity Team Government paid with the tax-payers' money, wasting the tax-payers' money. And the Treasury has no money and they are still complaining, but that is some Unity Team mentality.

As I said and I repeat, I give the country my assurance that if ever a matter such as this comes to Public Accounts Committee or comes to Finance Committee, I will not condone such manipulation.

Thank you very much, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: The Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. M. BERNICE DORSON: Mr. President, I would like to first wish Honours Saying me the congratulations the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee on such a timely and comprehensive report. As a Member of the Finance Committee in 1988 which dealt with the purchase of the property which have occasioned so much discussion this morning, I would like to make it absolutely clear that at no time were the Members of Finance Committee given the valuation for this property which was provided by the Government Lands and Survey Department.

HON. M. NORMAN SCOTT (CONTINUING): At the time we were told that Government was desperately in need of this five properties that it had been evaluated by a reputable real estate agency that they had negotiated as strongly and put the price up to an acceptable figure, and that they recommended that it be approved. We could only follow those recommendations as they stand, but at no time was it ever suggested that this property had been valued by the Parks and Recreation for $75,000. I would just like to make that small contribution as a Member of the Finance Committee which dealt with this matter in 1984.

Thank you.

MR. SPEAKER: The Elected Member for North Side.

MR. D. DAVID WILSON: Mr. Speaker, as a Member of the Public Accounts Committee I would like to compliment the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town on his usual eloquent, verbose and roundabout way in which he has produced a particular, distinctive and continuous approach to a political problem. Sir. The approach taken by this Committee was based on the facts and figures provided for us. The Committee was very much concerned by the discrepancies that is borne out in the recommendations, Sir. The Committee ultimately failing in its capacity of bringing its deliberations into the open to the House, Sir, felt that there had been to a certain extent some change in the way that the land valuation was arrived. Therefore, it made the recommendation that it ought to involve the Lands and Survey Department in the valuation.

We were not concerned, Sir, with who was involved with the valuation but merely with the figures which lay before the Committee. Sir, maybe even I, through my share in such a discrepancy in the evaluation. However, I believe that I am safe, Sir, because it seems to be from what I heard today a mobile piece of land. One minute it is located in West Bay South. The next minute it is supposed to consist George Town Industrial Park. So maybe that is where the inflated value of the disputed piece of land, as I believe it was, has taken place of itself because it depends on where we put it from one day to the next and where it was located with the relevance to buying the land. If we can find a piece of land which we are very much like that we might have something going for us.

As to the disputed land, Sir, I think the Auditor clearly illustrated what I have said all along in dealing with the hospital. That is bad management. That is why the Committee took the recommendations which it did. We have in a disadvantage, Sir, because there was little evidence available for us to view records. Because as has been expressed earlier there had been some time during which this Committee had not met, and tabled a Report in the House of Assembly. However, I would just like to deal Members' attention to a few other issues and recommendations made.

That is under Item 13, Advance Accounts, under Item 14, Control of Expenditure and Item 21, Supervision against Irregularity. I think that these kind of recommendations clearly illustrate the Cabinet and the approach taken by the Committee.

Thank you, Sir.

HON. MICHAEL J. ECKERT: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I join with my colleague the Honourable First Official Member in congratulating the Public Accounts Committee for having presented so clearly its Report in relation to the finances of Government over this last year.

HON. MICHAEL A. ECKARDT (continuing): I hope, Mr. Speaker, that in my interpretation of section 22 of Standing Orders, he accepts that it will not be the only Report which they will present to honourable Members of this House.

I feel that they are being unduly unkind in only including six out with the past year, Sir. It is my understanding that there has been no Report in respect of the four previous years and I was wondering whether it would be their intention to go back and review the other years, so that the duties imposed upon them by this Standing Order which may not have been fulfilled by the new Public Accounts Committee will be fulfilled by this one.

MR. SPEAKER: Did the Elected Member for East End wish to speak? You caught my eye earlier and I have....

MR. JOHN B. JEFFREY: Yes, Mr. Speaker, I would just like to be very brief. At the time of the purchase of the said plots of property I held responsibility for the Portfolio. I would just like to inform it on record, Mr. Speaker, that my Portfolio was asked for certain information, namely withdrawal from the Lands and Survey Department which I was also responsible for. The withdrawals were just and proceeded and at that point the responsibility was no longer with my Portfolio. I would just like to clear the Portfolio because I would not want anybody to put the idea that we took full responsibility for the purchase.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable Third Official Member.

HON. RONALD S. JEFFERSON: Mr. Speaker, I too like some other Member did not intend speaking, but since everybody is having their turn I will take mine as well.

I would like to join the honourable Members of the House in congratulating the Chairman and Members of the Public Accounts Committee. I think that they have dealt with the Report of the Auditor General in a better fashion. They have made some particularly comments on some aspects of the Auditor General's Report. I think it is known that I should make some comments about that.

With regard to the Item 22, Company Fees indicating that the outstanding fees are a little over $1 million from 1976 to 1981, and their recommendations regarding steps to be taken in the collection, and also the fact that these Companies should be struck from the register as well the following comment or recommendation which indicates that any property owned by these Companies will be vested from the Crown and should be dealt by the Financial Secretary for the Government of the Cayman Islands. Mr. Speaker, since the passing the assembly of Company records has been a burdensome task. What we are considering the fact that there were over 19,000 company records under a year or so ago when a tremendous amount were struck from the Register as a result of the computerization process. To manually accomplish these files we employed people during the summer time. Mr. Speaker how many people we employed, Mr. Speaker, they never thought to be able to go through alphabetically those companies 'A' to 'Z'. We took many approaches to it. We decided maybe one group at 'A' and work down through the names until you reach the alphabet. We would give attention to the letter of the alphabet and determine would have to come to a stop because the workers from colleges who were formerly employed, who were working the ones who only work three hours, for instance, or evenings.

MR. JAMES C. GREENWOOD: (continuing) The fellowship year is really [illegible] and we would never get back to it, Mr. President. Therefore as I recall the process was not actually possible. As a result of the consolidation of the Enclave Registers we are now in a position where we can determine what fees are outstanding, and what Registered Office is responsible for the collection of them. However, we must bear in mind, Mr. President that the Registered Offices are not going to wish their hands into their pocket-books and pay these fees because the real responsibility for paying the fees rests with the shareholders. Until the Registered Offices receive the funds from the shareholders or beneficial owners they are not going to make any payment. There is now [illegible] £1.2 million owed [illegible] as mentioned in fact since that [illegible] 1,095 companies have struck from the records. This is all part of the exercise, Mr. President. In previous years when we were winding up the companies records we struck a [illegible] number of companies from the Register at that time of year. I suppose, nevertheless the exact number now, Mr. President, as I am not going to quite forget. And that we have also, since I say, dissolved Company Registers it is very to determine who owes how much fees, and working with the Registered Offices is possible. If after the Registrar of Companies decides that he has given sufficient notice to the Registered Offices and time given sufficient time for the Registered Offices to make contact with the Beneficial owner of the particular company, and its fee remains [illegible], we then strike the company from the Register. That is the process which is now functioning and it is the same process which is recommended in the Public Accounts Committee Report.

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think [illegible] any other Member wishes to speak but before I invite the Minister to explain, if he wishes, his right of reply I think that it may be convenient to take our usual morning break. So I will suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes. Let us resume at 11.40 a.m.

AT 11.25 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 11.40 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. The Deputy Chief Minister, the Deputy Chief Minister.

MR. LAWRENCE A. DUGGAN: Mr. President, I wish to take this opportunity to thank Members who supported Public Accounts Committee's recommendations, and also for any adverse comments which we may have had on the recommendations. It pertains to the importance and the necessity for such an Improvement Committee.

I would also comment on the recommendation made by the honourable Second Elected Member regarding the activities of the Committee. I agree that perhaps we should go back for another three or four years. The only problem there, Mr. President, is that we have been advised by the Auditor General's Department that prior to 1982 it would be highly difficult for us to examine the audited accounts. However, I will go back to him and see how far back we can go with our Reports.

MR. LEONARD J. FIELDS (CONTINUED): ... It appears, Mr. President, that the thrust of the Report which engendered most discussion were items 30, 31 and 32 of the Report which had to do with hospital fees, namely, fees and the purchase of property ICC - 2. I would like to make it abundantly clear, Mr. President, that our recommendations were directed not under the terms of reference contained in Standing Order 72(1) which leaves the Public Accounts Committee shall examine the accounts showing the appropriation of the sums granted by the House to meet the public expenditure, and of such other accounts laid before the committee as the House may think fit".

It did not, Mr. President, extend to any ministerial responsibility and I would like to make that very clear. It is not our intention, Mr. President, to cast any aspersions or to try to ascribe motives for the purchase of the Post Government Buildings I am aware that facilities for the house are scarce that the Report on the 1965 estimates will be dealing with any criticisms of the present Government. So our problem, Mr. President, is independent. It is not in any way political and I think that it is important that this point be made very, very clear indeed.

There is no doubt in our mind, Mr. President, that the purchase of property ICC - 2 was carried out unsatisfactorily and unwise given. As I stated earlier there was an increase price given by virtue of the new valuation of $67,000.00 to cancel the policy, Mr. President, $413,000.00. I am not here to say that rights or wrongs of the matter earlier our recommendations should be accepted and our report be thrown out.

Perhaps, Mr. President, in future instead of the valuation being done through the Lands and Survey Department and negotiated by two outside valuations, maybe the Government should consider compulsory acquisition where this is seen to be necessary. This would avoid any doubt as to the question of favouritism or political considerations.

I noted the comments made by the Minister Members, in particular those of the Second Elected Member for Belize Town and those comments are well appreciated. There is just one point where I would like to make clear which perhaps escaped the Member. That is that the recommendations of the Committee were that the valuations should be scrutinized through the Lands and Survey Department, and where there is doubt and discrepancy by outside valuations. I accept now, Mr. President, where there could be any major objections to such a procedure. In addition, I feel that Government should consider compulsory acquisition in such cases if we are to avoid the possible of political considerations.

We have not proved this, Mr. President, as a additional feature because we have many hard and sudden and did point very clearly to the terms of reference on these appointments.

On the question of hospital fees, Mr. President, I feel that it is quite necessary for us to note specifically the recommendations made. In short my thrust in the minds of Members of the public I would like to make quite clear that the Committee recommends that every effort be made to reconsider methods of payment of hospital fees at the point of admitting. I think that I need to refer to quite clear also, that in cases where members of the public are unable to pay their hospital fees provisions are made by the Social Services Department to have these waived or otherwise granted. There is no attempt here, Mr. President, to oppress those people who cannot afford to pay the fees. Finally, I must agree with the Honourable Second Elected Member of Commercial District that more effort needs to be made through the hospital administration to collect the fees which are outstanding.

MR. LOWELL P. WEICKER (Continued). On this question of comity from, Mr. President, here again I am glad to note the comments made by the Honorable Third Ranking Member of Appropriations Committee, Senator Cotton, and I think the Committee and Congress as a whole will benefit from the Appropriations Committee's Department will become much more efficient through the implementation of computer services. However, I need to point out to Members that we are dealing here with block grants, or namely we are making a lump sum appropriation to four places from 1979 to 1981. Namely the Intergovernmental Affairs Department must know that that is an ongoing thing. They just have to be cooperating. So what we are debating very here, Mr. President, is that we would wish it. And also Senator Lowell and we have very friendly to the amendment that this will be done.

Mr. President, would I move to change the number of the Public Assembly Committee from eight members; and also the Members of this House for their kind attention, I commit this will see fit to pass this measure and this motion.

Thank you, Mr. President

MR. PRESIDENT: The question before the House is that the Report of the Public Assembly Committee on the Action Request's Report and Additional Amendments of the Appropriations Committee for the year 1981, and the recommendations contained thereto be adopted.

ASSISTANT SPEAKER: Agree.

MR. JAMES M. HODGSON: Mr. President, why was it necessary to have a Division Count when there was no one voting against the motion?

MR. PRESIDENT: Because a valid question that if a Member is going for a Division he must be satisfied now. Because I might have failed to have somebody actually come up.

MR. PRESIDENT (Interjection): The question did come up some before and my initial impression was the same as yours; that if I had not heard anybody say "No", there would be need for a discussion. However, it was obvious and agreed subsequently that perhaps I might not have....

MR. K. MORRIS RISK: It is noticed somebody does not, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am aware, I failed to have the Clerk's count. It was 18 ayes, 7 abstentions, no noes. Is that right?

MR. JAMES M. ROSSER: The Member knows how to move out angrily.

MR. PRESIDENT: Order, order. I am trying to have the Clerk said.

MR. SPEAKER: Item 7(b), Business Committee Report.

BUSINESS COMMITTEE REPORT

MR. EDWARD R. ROSSER: Mr. Speaker, I beg to lay on the table of this honourable House a Business Committee Report of a Business Committee Meeting held on the 6th January, 1967.

MR. SPEAKER: So ordered.

Item 9, Consideration of the Budget of the Supreme Council of the Apostolic Faith, 1967.

The Honourable Second Elected Member for Brooklyn (Mrs. Ivy Stewart) was speaking.

CONSIDERATION OF THE BUDGET FOR THE SUPREME COUNCIL AND SECOND ADDRESS BY THE HONOURABLE (MRS.) IVY STEWART, M.P.

MRS. K. MORRIS ROBERTS: Mr. President, when the House adjourned last Friday I was speaking on the subject of Capital Expenditure. I had unfortunately forgotten and what I like most about Parliament is the opportunity of talking and speaking but not shouting, but that quite rightly these expenditures must be weighed against the cost and other relevant matters.

I therefore note, Mr. President, maybe in the financial statements of Cayman Airways Limited and Cayman Alert Building Limited for the financial year ended 30th June, 1966 which have been tabled in this honourable House on 1st March, 1966. Given current political circumstances most people are already aware that the National Debt has obligations to service any heavy financial losses.

A perusal of the statement of Loss and Profit as audited by Price Waterhouse, shows that the Government Airline showed an operating revenue a total of $713,6 million for the financial year ended 30th June, 1966. However, operating expenses totalled $1.0 million, resulting in an operating loss of $300,000 for the year then ended.

MR. W. STEELE SCOTT (continuing): However, after financing costs of $3.45 million accruing additional under our five leases were added, this brought the overall net loss for the year to $7.25 million. I am quoting United States Dollars throughout, Mr. President.

This result then overtook with losses brought forward from previous years therefore made the overall accumulated deficit of Cayman Airways as at 30th June, 1981 $10,307,000. The financial arrangements of Cayman Air included also provision of accumulated deficit of $680,000 for the year ended 30th June, 1982, which when added to the accumulative deficit of Cayman Airways provided a gross accumulated deficit of $10,987,000.

According to the Balance Sheet of Cayman Airways Limited as final audit account ended 30th June, 1981 the total current assets of $4.4 million as against total current liabilities of $13.6 million. The company therefore had a working capital deficiency of $9 million and a shareholders' deficiency of $2.5 million as at 30th June, 1981. In other words, Mr. President, all the working capital of the company which Government had injected over the years had not only been used up, but the company was also some $9 million with which to meet current bills, in spite of the large advance.

This obvious position emphasizes the pressing need for both short and long term funds to be made available in order to support the operations of Cayman Airways in the foreseeable future, and remain in business. There can be little doubt that the Cayman Islands Government, the company's sole shareholder, will have to decide as called on from time to time to provide further help in the form of further loan finance or capital injection. This is a fact which must be faced and agreed by shareholders.

It might also be pointed out that as at 30th June, 1981 the Cayman Islands Government had already invested capital of $6.75 million, plus loans of $6.5 million outstanding to Cayman Airways. Additionally, the Cayman Islands Government has guaranteed Cayman Airways' loan commitments totalling for the two 737 aircraft which amounts to $7.5 million currently until 1988. It must also be noted that the $6 million also being for the BAC 1-11 aircraft is also held as an equity investment which arises on settlement for the nationalization of the Cayman Islands Government as guarantors of Cayman Airways' interest terms. Government also, however, I understand received loan interest on this amount account. These, Mr. President, are the facts revealed in the accounts of Cayman Airways which have been tabled.

The Opposition, Mr. President, congratulates those five senior citizens on taking an active interest by this Government and voice concern for the elderly men. Sixteen, taking their facts into consideration they have already completed through pensioners and other elderly men, however, could do this country to their advantage by over $3,000 yearly.

Mr. President, some news existing revenues have been identified and to be anticipated this the next financial statements will present a more favourable picture of the financial affairs of the Government airline. Additionally, a decision has been taken to lease at Cayman Air Building Limited to the revenue of this year as well as future we will be drawing on a rent of revenue.

It has always been my view, Mr. President, that Cayman Airways with its present route structure and equipment cannot make the best economic profits needed for it to even become viable.

MR. W. MICHAEL BLOUIN (continuing): ... of course, this has been the case from the very beginning and I am sure that had a proper possibility study been conducted by Government in 1977 this fact would have been established then. In any event some cost cutting measures have been taken with the view of reducing Ingersoll's annual loss and this is done, even when this is accomplished Government here to subsidizing the airline and provide for it for the short subsidy.

Mr. President, after we took office in November, 1984 we found in the financial statements the existence which I have previously outlined of the over $70 million losses. The country from projects we received was from discriminate, appeared to be deep dark with experts, the majority being non-Canadians who were earning high salaries and many of whom had never worked for an airline before to the best of our knowledge. There were bills to be paid immediately. The cheques were due. There were bills from suppliers. At this point I would like to clarify the accounting, shall I say, put forward by the former Liberal Member for Beaches Hon. when he claimed that this new Government is spending at the rate of over $2 million a month. I would like to place it on record that the only amounts which have been spent by this new Government have been the $7.8 million which was been spent on bills owing by Canpac already the order for the company to continue its operations uninterrupted. The other $2.7 million which he refers to is the amount taken from Nanaimo which has been allowed in the budget but which has not been spent. I think that point should be clarified to the public.

We also found that many of our new Canadians in management who were holding responsible positions were underpaid, and many times ignored. At question time the Second Member for Halifax West often mixed automatic questions and explanations on the re-hiring of the Lost Canadians in Canpac Airways. He seems unaware as I can only take this opportunity to assume him that there is a real policy in Canpac Airways that we do not discriminate for political reasons, and therefore they were not rehired for political reasons.

MR. JAMES M. BOSSIN: Mr. President, ...

MR. JAMES M. BOSSIN: The Minister is imputing...

MR. SPEAKER: Are you rising on a point of order?

MR. JAMES M. BOSSIN: Yes, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: Under which Standing Order?

MR. JAMES M. BOSSIN: Under Standing Order 21. The Member is imputing that the....

MR. SPEAKER: Under what Standing Order are you rising on a point of order?

MR. W. MICHAEL BLOUIN: Mr. President, with due respect, Sir, I have Answered enough interruptions. That Member has had his say to speak.

MR. SPEAKER: If he is raising on a point of order and to establish no, you have to give way. (Agreed)

I think of order he must certainly himself first what his point of order is.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: Mr. Speaker, point of order.

MR. SPEAKER: No, that merely gives permission to read on a point of order. It cannot itself be a point of order. I think perhaps you mean Standing Order 33(6).

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: Yes, Sir, that is the one, Standing Order 33(6).

MR. SPEAKER: No, I do not think that the honourable Member has raised a point of order.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: He did say that it was time for...

MR. SPEAKER: No, he made it quite plain the Government has not replied urgently for political reasons. It did not mention your Government. The Member may continue.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: I think I misunderstood them and I thank you for your help now.

MR. R. JOSEPH SAUNDERS: I think that I am fully aware of what I said, Mr. Speaker, and that is exactly where I stand. I only that I have not a man looking in Cayman Brac that this Government has not hired anybody for political reasons nor has they been employed for political reasons. I made no reference to any sort of discrimination on the part of the Member.

Perhaps we have a well experienced and mechanical Chairman of the Board, and a Board of Directors comprised of businessmen and several efficient Government officials who are doing an admirable job in establishing the airline and endeavouring to keep its operations under control.

The Board is making commendable progress and combined with the efforts of management, which I trust shall be permanent, as I said before it is expected that some improvement in the financial position will be forthcoming.

I would also like to advise that the airline business is an ongoing venture and it is hoped to obtain private capital from political influence. Of course, Members can choose between Directors of the best managed services in the world. There matters will be forthcoming in due course.

Mr. Speaker, the future development of the airline although unfortunately expenses can be reduced. Future increased utilization of the new 737 aircraft which are operated operation of a high seat mileage like the 727 which is only utilized 25 per cent due to large mechanically driven by the difficulties of the airline. However, there are many overall considerations to be taken into account and the needs of the airline will be kept constantly under review.

SIR, X. BOSSY'S BOUNCE (CONTINUED): The extension of the Miami/Cayman recreation to Belize actually pursues and establishes Sister Republic developments will be represented through the United Kingdom Dependency Bermuda if so being represented, so that the citizens do not unjustly reprimand us for our wide varieties routes to and from the United States. I wish to assure the people of this country our Government that no stone will be left unturned to keep Cayman flying. We all look forward to the day when we will welcome the wings to bigger and brighter horizons.

Sir, Mr. President, brings me to the subject of the recreation of the recreation on the Miami/Cayman route which will expire on 1st April, 1985 if not extended. My own preference but of course cannot be sure until the time actually comes. Should this not be extended I know I'm absolutely no doubt that this would only further erode and further deteriorate the financial position of the airline, and I would like the opinion to the record that the carriage should be placed seriously in doubt. So we have placed a lot of emphasis on negotiating an extension of this recreation. Shortly after taking office it was discovered that approximately no action had been taken to negotiate an extension from the United States on this recreation. So immediately arrangements were made through the British Embassy in Washington for a meeting with the United States Government officials so that matters could be taken up and resolved and expedite one decision. This meeting was arranged and during the month of December a delegation consisting of the Hon Minister of Cayman Airways who is also the Honourable Member of Executive Council responsible for Communication and Natural Resources, the Managing Director of Cayman Airways, the Principal Secretary of the Ministry of Tourism Aviation and Trade, and the Director of Civil Aviation and myself met with the Chief Aviation Policy and Programme Officer for the State Department and the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy and International Affairs in the Department of Transportation in Washington, D.C.

The meeting was useful and effective and has been continuing ever since to bring this matter to a satisfactory conclusion, and we hope for the best. The concern expressed by the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac for the people of the Cayman Islands in regard to the extension of this recreation is very much appreciated, but I can assure him that this matter is being handled at the highest possible Government level at the present time. It is nevertheless unfortunate to note that as I have said before, no action had been taken to request an extension to the recreation until the new Government took office in late January, 1985. However, the previous Government, and particularly the First Elected Member for Sister Isles knew from 1983 that this recreation would expire on the 1st April, 1985. However, as I said no action had been taken so by, Mr. President, the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac also mentioned in his debate the negotiations which resulted in the present circumstances on which we are seeking an extension, and pointed out what help, if any, had been given by the British Government. There is no doubt that this recreation has been of great benefit to Cayman Airways and I should like to sincerely express our gratitude to all of those who helped to negotiate it. In doing a bit of research on this, although it is shrouded in some confidentiality I am pleased to say that the United Kingdom officials concerned. I can do no better than to quote passages which the First Elected Member for Sister Isles Hon. Haroldy gave at the time after he had visited Washington to represent the Cayman Islands case.

ASST. S. Rusk ACCRA (CONTINUED): He made a telephone call on 1st December 1965 to Mr. Rubens, the leader of the United Kingdom delegation which read as follows:-

> "Thank you for the support which you gave to the interests of the Cyprus Islands in the negotiations with the United States and for the courtesy you extended to the Cyprus delegation. It made a deep and favourable impression on all of us. We were happy to receive their compliments on their friendship to the Cyprus Islands."

Mr. Rubens replied on 3rd December, the actual date on which the United States agreed to the resolution although as of the agreement reached. A further telegram was sent on 17th November at the request of the Prime Minister from Sukkar Tuna which said:-

> "Thanks very much from your message. Your support for our Islands is very much appreciated by the Cyprus Islands people. Thanks to you, Union Delegations and Government, and have transmitted gratitude to you."

I have brought this to the attention of this House and drawn that for the sake of the record does still reflect the exact position.

Mr. Speaker, I have been dealing through the British Government on every practical occasion since 1960 and I, for one, hope there is to be real industrial and commercial life of the Cyprus Islands; the people and the problems, and I run only afraid of my experience with them. The present Government of Cyprus already had the Cyprus delegation in the Islands at which some field in Washington in 1959. Although there have been different versions of the outcome of this, I believe that our present Government can support what I have said with regard to the help we get from the British Government.

In brief and in fact, and I said so earlier and repeat it here, there are matters to be resolved of which the delegation from Cyprus put forward at the Islands II talks in 1959. This raised a second point in the United States for Cyprus Islands and it was also as a result of a Greek Cypriot campaign of letters which enabled this resolution to be imposed in 1952, that assisted greatly with it and I think that the outcome was satisfactory at that time.

I have no doubt, Mr. Speaker, that there is a certain resentment in some areas to the British. However, I feel that many Greek who are aware of the people like the Cypriot intelligent enough to rise over this country. I trust that our people now more calm in the future will allow political propaganda to influence their decision to remain a Crown Colony of Great Britain. This has given us our stability and strength and must be given credit for the success of this country which is often imagined about.

Finally, Mr. President, Cyprus will be made during 1966 to welcome some form of light industries to the Cyprus Islands; industries which are non-polluting and labour intensive. I realise that this is not easy to do and it has been tried many times before. However, we plan to consider carefully proposals about which I would welcome help.

HON. R. MICHAEL SCOTT (CONTINUING):

...I have come to Belize, I believe, Mr. President, that our Labour office can easily be doing a tremendous job for these Governments and these countries as every Minister must be Government, not Democratic Party Members. I feel that they are failing a great deal. I know that the Labour Union has been confirmed by the Government. Obviously, I think that it has served a good purpose. We certainly expect to do more in the future, that of this machine fully we managed a simply, Mr. President, now because we had to consolidate the position right August by the number of unemployed we have in we could in this country. Because before the Elections all who could have from the Government was that there were only unemployables who were unemployable...Everybody could get a job here if they wanted one. So we certainly had to find out what the true position was when one of the promises. The other members I have stabilized before.

Nobody can tell me that 43 people in Belize City, 38 in North Side, 39 in George Town, and so on Belize are all really unemployables. I do not believe that, I believe that they are people looking for jobs and our Labour office has been able to place some of them. When the Government is borrowing money to put them all the unemployed. They have suddenly become unemployed and they are looking. What is the new Government going to do about this or where to?

I do not believe, Mr. President, that the only social well become allowed because Guyana is making a strong Labour movement has been weakened by one leader. However, there will always be those who will claim that most of all is the formation of a Labour union which could only serve to create disharmony and unrest between our people and businesses. The committee which has recently been established as a result of a Trade Union's Motion will resolve, I am sure, workable Labour Legislation which will provide the help and protection which our workers need. So I trust that a Labour union or any of the committee will never take place, as it will not serve the interest of the Caymak Islands and the people.

The future, Mr. President, may be brought by problems. They can only often get worse. However, in the time Diametric confidence I believe that the Guyana Islands will continue to grow from strength to strength through the free determination of our people to stand by what is right and proper for this land. I believe that the Cayman Islands will continue to remain the prosperous offshore financial centre and the preferred tourist destination in the Caribbean. I believe this week will be happy as we continue to offer stability, the same degree of safety and tranquility. Those we still have in this country. After all to make and come let us try to keep it that way. Then we will not only be politicians but we will be statesmen.

I support the appropriation Bill, Sir,

Mr. President, and I thank you.

MR. SPEAKER: Does any other Member wish to speak? Would you like to retain your speech now or do it on going to be Thursday, and I would suggest to suspend proceedings for lunch in about a quarter of an hour? If you are comfortable now does any Minister like to speak. Would you like to start?

MR. JOHN D. MCLEAN: If there are no objections, Mr. President. If you prefer to suspend proceedings I could continue in the time when we...

MR. SPEAKER: Like to speak now. I think for me to do a short of you would The Elected Member for East End.

MR. JOHN S. MOMAGH: Mr. Speaker, for a while I think I misunderstood it whether it made sense for us to stand here and to debate this Budget Address, or to seem to me that the three Members of the Government are being treated in such a hostile way by the general Elected Assembly. However, Mr. Speaker, I am aware that there are those on the outside who cannot take this liberty to speak and to call it like it is. Therefore, I shall debate this Budget Address with gusto.

Mr. Speaker, as we enjoy the Honourable Chief Official Member, the Honourable Financial Secretary has presented us with what I consider a very unimpressive Budget Address and he should be commended. However, Mr. Speaker, before entering into this Budget Address for debate please permit me to say a few moments on my personal feelings on the attitude and behaviour in this Honourable Assembly.

Mr. Speaker, I was first elected to this Honourable Legislative Assembly in 1962 and in these years, Sir, I have never seen so much meanness, selfishness and hatred amongst Elected Members who should all be busy with the same goals in mind. Mr. President, sometimes I have to say to myself, "Why? Shame will to all evil." Mr. Speaker, one of the great things which a Member receives once he is elected to this House is respect of Assembly Rules which we should all abide and comply with. I feel, Sir, that this has not been done by several Members, because of it is the same they are openly fighting the decisions which went with the wish of a majority of Members.

During this session, Mr. President, I have heard insults. I have heard vile allegations. I have heard unparliamentary language. I have heard hilarious giggling and laughing, Mr. President, I have heard nasty words called to Nominated Members. Mr. Speaker, be it a measure or a good legislation it is my honest opinion that it is a shame for any of us to stand here and be political because I feel that we are elected here by the general public, and I would say the majority of the general public. To be elected to the House which we are sitting in Assembly here and have Members reflecting to such legislations given to the citizens of Cayman Islands.

Mr. Speaker, my second visit here was I may seldom Elected Members here. They are speaking, but at that time I was tempted to get to my feet and to say my piece. I honestly feel Mr. Speaker, that the Chair should have stopped a nothing and an open apology should have been made by the Member for such bad remarks and bad behaviour. We must realise, Mr. Speaker, we are no longer on a political platform. We now are in the Chambers of our Seat of Government and I will say that these sorts of behaviour must change for dignity is to be restored here. I refer especially to a Back Bench Member whom like House, Mr. President, the remainder of Members-Please with the behaviour which took place here. We must remember that they are to legislate the times when assembled here and the only people who listen us were known sitting in the gallery. Today whatever is said is heard on the radio all over the world. Have we ever stopped to think like, should we be doing, not only to ourselves but to our country and our people.

Mr. Speaker, my thoughts for today here is for the faith which my people have placed in me and I think that I am right in saying that this was displayed quite clearly, loud and clear at the polls on the General Election in November, 1984. However, Mr. President, my people should warn me to do what I feel to right and I have endeavoured to do this since I have been an Elected Member.

MR. JOHN J. HOLLAND: (continued): Mr. Speaker, may I just bring up a point which I would like to touch on, or I should say a few points. I have personally seen redevelopment; I have seen numerous areas of the newly Elected Government. I have listed this all I could possibly do in my district and I would do the same here, Mr. Speaker. After the General Election by first speech here I made it abundantly clear that the electorate came out and I was requested to work with anybody who took up the new Government knowledging that we were elected for the betterment of this country and the people.

After the General Election, Mr. Speaker, the results were still pending and I took time to write to each of the Elected Members of Assumption Council. I say this at this point because quite unfortunately it was the Young Elected Member for Fort Rex parish and here when he mentioned that the Last Government should try to work with the present Government, this has always been my intention, Sir. I think I acquitted myself accordingly. I wrote to the Members. I received congratulations and I quite like the assurance that I was prepared to work with them for the next four years for the betterment of this country and our people. So when now, Mr. Speaker, now I have been appointed or promoted, this was done on the 21st November and so far I have received one letter. I must say that came from the Honourable Third Elected Member of Assumption Council and I deeply appreciated it. It helps to acknowledge the courtesy of answering my letter. I wished him well then, Mr. Speaker, because I felt that six months do not make a right and again I would be there in high office. It was merely wish to badger them but as I said my party is unwell me to perform as long as I am in this Legislative Assembly. I had various things I had wanted in my district and I did put in those which I would like to do for the years 1994 to 1998. Then for I have learnt through the unfortunate time since the Honourable Member mentioned that a while ago, the Honourable third Elected Member for Assumption Council was quite enthusiastic in having my letter acknowledging which was held by the Members. Again I am grateful to him for his contention.

However, Mr. Speaker, my argument is this. I feel that as an Elected Member for a district in these Islands that I should be given that much power. Even if a name had to be sent in as argued by the Leader Elect on the Portfolio I think I can live that much easier. That was the issue, Mr. Speaker, when I originally said I have been accepted.

In further this, Mr. Speaker, in now all since that a few weeks ago the Hon Minister was able to feature the two Executive Council visitors Ministers and certain representatives were featured on visiting them out there. After all my efforts to try and be work closely with the new Government I knew of who stood to my election and day after it had happened and the only person I know then, Mr. Speaker, was because he unfortunately, the other century, was elected and one of the windows there mentioned to me that the Members had been out there. I think, Mr. Speaker, that this is very bad. We are all here and we should all be working together. It was that already I have named three times when I know have learned many notably by the new Government of a difference.

Let me go on to another point, Mr. Speaker,

MR. MACGUIGAN: Perhaps if you can resume on another point, unless it is your first point, it would be a convenient moment to take the Committee break.

MR. JOHN R. MacLEAN: Yes, Mr. Chairman.

MR. CHAIRMAN: In that case I will suspend proceedings. Before doing so, however, perhaps it may be convenient for the Chair if I mention one point. The honourable Member who was just speaking, the Member for Lasalle, did draw to the attention of the House his view that a Member who spoke during debate at the week before last, made some disparaging, inferences disparagingly to a former Member. The Member quoted the words that he would have expected that to have been ruled out of order. I did at the time consider whether it should be ruled out of order, and have subsequently considered the matter further with - I would find nothing in our Standing Orders which covered the point. They say that it is out of order to use offensive or insulting language about other Members, but they do not mention former Members. I looked at Erskine May, and their Lordships do that it is not out of order to make observations on behaviour of the Members, even if they are highly Unparliamentary.

It therefore seemed to me that I was not in a position to rule him out of order. That said, however, I would strongly endorse the sentiments expressed by the Elected Member for Lasalle. I would ask all Members to recall that they will themselves have view to former Members of this Body and that if a precedent of reflecting unfavourably on former Members were to become common, all present Members would have to assume that they some day would be referred to in that way. I would hope all Members recognized in the event that anything said within this House is privileged, and it seems to me to be undesirable that Elected Members should thereby be responsible for any Member to take advantage of the fact that a statement have to be privileged to insult someone else in a way in which he would not be entitled for fear of a libel action.

So, I would ask all Members to bear these points in mind and when appropriate, even in the heat of the moment, of former Members, to do so within the same sort of restraint which they would certainly be obliged by Standing Orders to observe of present Members.

So I just wanted to explain why I had not ruled the Member out of order, but to make those points for you in a manner of a way.

I will now suspend proceedings until 8.15 p.m.

AT 7:57 P.M. THE HOUSE RECESSED

ROOMS RESUMED AT 8.30 P.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.
Proceedings are resumed.
The Finance Minister has the floor.

MR. JOSIE B. MATHIAS: Mr. President, let me thank you for your address just before Appropriations the House for hours. I am happy to know that you put forward those views and I hope they will be noted by them in the future.

Mr. President, when I accepted Seimone Lucky's speech to Statement 2, could the vice owners. I would like me to make on to the House President which I was not happy with.

Since recently, Mr. President, the Secretariat came to my attention to hold a public meeting. Again, Mr. President, the first knowledge which I had of this meeting was when I heard it on radio broadcast. It is my feeling, Sir, that as the representative for that area I should have been brought in on the plans for such a very important meeting. I should not have heard it on radio broadcast. Several members of the constituency of East End called on me to find out exactly what the meeting was all about and, Mr. President, I was unable to say anything because I knew nothing.

The Friday before the meeting, Mr. President, I was speaking to Minister Jones one of the Ministers, and it was then that I was told that this matter coming to my attention this morning. Mr. President, I was very much upset and I told the Secretariat. I said, it is not fair. I am in the Parliament to represent the people there, and I must take all the blame for not informing the people of these things and for the meeting as a whole.

Mr. President, what annoyed me most was to know that on the night of that meeting my people were told that I have resigned. It was a four o'clock one that I would not be there to come. My people were told that I was finished or how I was treated. Mr. President, I resent this sort of rebellion. It does not only show disrespect for me, but shows disrespect for the people of my constituency. I resent the handing out of documents that my people were not at all pleased with it.

I would have been quite too happy to attend that meeting, Mr. President, had I been invited but the fact remains that I was not. Anyway, how would it be for me to act on a platform and Mr. President, I would go on to also just how many others have we have been left out, but I will omit that for now.

The statutory Boards of Government were not saying that I have to be on my Board. Again, I am here to be on one, but I feel that it is unfair for my Minister not to have my input and representation on all Boards for my Ministry. I object of the Planning Board and the Central Tenders Board. Mr. President, I feel that from Ministry Boards to be completely operated we should have input from all areas of these Ministries, and I would urge that let us have at least some responsibility from my Members.

MR. JOHN R. SMILES (CONTINUING): Mr. President, this sort of attitude, treatment, hatred and revenge is quite evident before us today. It has destroyed other countries and I will say, Mr. President, if we do not disarm ourselves it will destroy ours.

Mr. President, let us now turn to certain areas of the budget for this country for 1980, and let me say that I am pleased to know that our Honourable Financial Secretary has been able to present this country with a zero position which leaves very little doubt in the minds of the people. When I make that statement, Sir, I refer to various other statements which have been issued to the local press by other Members of the Government.

It has been publicly stated, Mr. President, that our country was broke. It has been said from political platforms and to me, Sir, it was only time in an effort to mislead our people. We have never had a certain Member who has been responsible for the gross running of this country for many years state publicly that this country was broke, Mr. President. This remains me of Henry J. Brown when he made the statement, "If you cannot convince the people one way, confuse them". This is what was done, Mr. President. Our people were confused by the smart talking they had had to take whether or not the country was in a position, financially. Thanks God, Mr. President, that we still have in our midst a capable, responsible, dedicated and honest Chancellor who now controls the finances of this country, and I speak of no other than the Honourable Chief Official Member. Through his deliberations of the Budget Address, Mr. President, must have been put right to these falsehoods.

We heard that our country was broke but yet, Mr. President, when the Honourable Financial Secretary presented his Budget Address we were able to hear the truth that we have surpluses left from the last Government which are running deficient. We were told of the millions of dollars which were already spent and we have been told of the millions of dollars which will be used to balance the 1980 budget.

Mr. President, I am not disputing the fact that if the money from the Caymanian people is to be used, we should use it. This is the reason why they were put aside for a rainy day, but at least, Mr. President, we should be honest, speak the truth and admit the money was there. My honest opinion, Sir, is that the people of these Islands after having been misled are due the honour of having a statement issued by the new Member to correct that which was so misleading.

Mr. President, we are dealing with a budget which is going to influence, we hope added dimension prosperous on our people. It is a known fact, Mr. President, that the present Government made every effort to promise roses when they touched on the man on the street the highest. Today, where are we moving? We are moving there and many places. But we say, Mr. President, that it seems as if when the manpower are to materialize in the Chamber, there are those who find it hard to concentrate the remarks. Let me say, Mr. President, I can see that even because I have experienced what it is to sit in the Chamber in the position I am. I do not believe that there is one Member in this Chamber who was raised up as I was. At the age of six I was left without a father and if it was not for a good Christian, Mr. President, I would have either made it. So when I speak of the poor man, Mr. President, I can speak with authority. I know what the poor man is. I know who he is and I speak his language.

MR. JOHN F. KENNEDY (CONTINUING): Mark me now making today, Mr. President, is beyond question from constitutional standpoint that Democrats make large progress and support our stance. Therefore, Mr. President, that is more disadvantageous to us than that which has been stated up to the floor that is an effort to balance this budget.

We have talked, and I will mention a few. Republicans have on the amendment which will affect Department and Republicans alike who gotten up. Mr. President, let one man talk to that there is one Democrat who will not vote on the amendment. Sir, Chairman, it must come on to that little man when it seems as if we should not mention those votes at the airport. Sir, Chairman, it must come on to that little man when it seems as if we should not mention.

We see figures that go up by 100 per cent. Social Insurance now going up by 100 per cent, Defense Department by roughly three and one cent, Education Department by 23 per cent, Labor by 23 per cent, Interior by 22 per cent, Commerce by 22 per cent, Agriculture by about 800 per cent. Among only one thousand by 200 per cent, and we see Justice over 25 per cent being taxed. Treasury has also been increased, and we also see a 7.5 per cent for an additional appropriation. Mr. President, I was told recently a while ago by a public relations source of somebody who was just about to point a white ghetto and who have become disheartened because of some of these taxes which are being discussed here today. This plan has already taken a direction to create three choices. Are we going to increase some of this?

As I said, Mr. President, this budget before us is one which will not mean pleasure to the people of these Islands. I will further say that there is much discontent and uneasy among the people of these Islands. We sometimes do not, Mr. President, that our people are very peaceful and I would not agree more. Recently, Mr. President, when somebody gets their back against a wall they will retaliate. They will revolt.

Again, let me say like Robert F. Kennedy said, "A revolution is coming - a revolution which will be peaceful if we are wise." Why write. Why write. I think it is the duty of the members of this Responsible House to do whatever is needed to avoid such people instead of precautionary plan.

Mr. President, I join with the Second Floating Member for Nuuuga Town when he said that he would not support this way of spending funds to balance a budget. To me, Mr. President, it is what we would term as a "Holiday Mission" way of spending because the time has come when we should fight against reckless spending without precaution our people.

Another area which has been debated by some people in the public sector simply which is necessity, Mr. President, because of deep concern. We have heard much of the programs with the rural well-fields. We have heard of the privatization of some 15 million gallons. Mr. President, again I have received many complaints from inhabitants in this area and I am hoping this will stay away. I have received many complaints of the distribution of these water supply, and according to them it has since gone dry well-fields are established there. As I said, I hope they are wrong here, Mr. President. I do not think that we should wait until they are proven right. I feel it is now for us to do proper tests in that area, proper records, and make immediately clear that we are just faced with a problem since it has to be carried out of this Chamber.

We have also heard much on the well-field developments in the Northern of Saint Croix, my constituents. Mr. President, I feel that the well-fields there that are in the beginning. I feel that these new well-fields are developed in case we should continue as that was planned, and that is to first give the Department of Sugar and

MR. JOSÉ B. MELEAN (CONTINUING): Let them have a supply. Let us monitor it for a while, and if it is proved that there is an adequate supply and that it will not detrimentally affect the land in any way, then we continue to supply those areas.

Mr. President, I speak on behalf of the people of my district. We appreciate with the utmost gratitude but let me say, at the same time we are not prepared to see what Almighty God has endowed us with destroyed. It is a known fact, Sir, that that area of the Islands has already been known to receive less rain than other areas. So, therefore we depend more on our water supply. Let us be more vigilant on the story. I have no doubt in my mind that it would come very handy to set up proper day to day monitoring, and I feel that the gentlemen who is in charge is the one who knows what is to be done. However, Mr. President, let us go about this in the right way. Let us not destroy what can be very good to us in that area in the long run.

Mr. President, let me move on to another area which was mentioned in the Budget Address. I am now speaking of the Cayman Turtle Farm. It is quite pleasing to note that my efforts on this issue are in some manner about to mature. I am hopeful that where we are represented at the next meeting of CITES in Argentina that we will report the goal which we started off with. I am happy that the ban will be lifted and perhaps in the next Budget Session the Honourable Member of Breakers South with the responsibility will be able to come here and to point out to us the great advantages, and what we can start to appreciate the facility there and try to put it back where it was.

I am also glad, Mr. President, to learn that agricultural schools will be piloted in agriculture. I am also happy to know that it is the intention of the Portfolio to continue to work closely with the Agricultural Society.

Mr. President, it is my pleasure in the Portfolio it was an honour, a privilege and my pleasure to work hand in hand with the farmers and the people. I feel, Sir, that they must support it and I am glad to know that this will be continued. The farmer, Mr. President, although sometimes certain people look at him, he is a very outstanding and important person in any society. The farmer is one who produces the needs of every country, because it is a fact that we must all eat. It is my feeling, Sir, that in order for the plans satisfactorily to continue many of the day to day Portfolio requirements will have to be put aside, and the Honourable Member responsible will at some stage find himself out there alongside the farmer. I had to do so, Sir. Many times I ended up walking many with many things on my foot but the beauty of it, Sir, was that the farmers duly appreciated it. They put it on their feet.

Mr. President, there were several projects, several goals set for the Department. We started off the milk production programme. We started off the artificial insemination project. We started off the importing of animals to the Islands in an effort to help the farmer. We brought in chickens. We started innovator roads. We started meat inspection. We brought in women farms and sold them at cost to the farmer. Mr. President, the farmer deeply appreciated this and it is something which we cannot at this time pull back on. We have advanced to a point where we need to press forward, and I was pleased to hear the statement made by the Honourable Member I just right ago that it is the intention to do so.

Before moving to current projects, Mr. President, let me speak a little on Education and Health. Again, Mr. President, I feel that it is only right to pay compliments to the past Member for this Portfolio. I feel, Mr. President, that from the budget we can see that there are large figures to be spent in these areas.

HON. JOHN B. McLEAN (MINORITY LEADER): However, so-to speak the tax which is paid for this purpose is not more than a one thousandth part of what will be paid by our people now left to ignorance.

I am pleased to know, Mr. Speaker, that the standards of education in this country have reached where they now stand. We have given the budget this year to primary schools in Grand Cayman with a population of 2,5?? pupils, but a recurrent expenditure of $1.3 million or an annual cost per pupil of $1,237. We have the primary school in Cayman Brac with a population of 157 and a recurrent expenditure of $284,000, an annual cost of $1,810 per pupil. The Cayman Islands High School in Grand Cayman has 315 pupils and a recurrent expenditure of $1.0 million, an annual cost per pupil of $1,800. Cayman Brac High School has a population of 100 and a recurrent expenditure of $233,000, an annual cost per pupil of $2,700. Last and most important, Mr. Speaker, although it means that there are some in this Chamber from their constituents who disagree with the Cayman Islands Middle School, we have a population there of 324 pupils with a recurrent expenditure of $1.2 million, an annual cost per pupil of $1,255.

I feel, Mr. Speaker, that if there was a step in the right direction made, it was when it was decided to open up the Middle School. I wonder if the Member who spoke last against the Middle School would go out there and convince the parents the time country that the Middle School was something which Government wanted among us. I am certain that he would not get past the first parent.

Again, Mr. Speaker, as I said, the health services in this country are something which we can be justly proud of. I am not here to say that the hospital is being run 100 per cent efficiently. We find there are problems in most institutions. However, again let me say, Mr. Speaker, that it provides a service which we can be proud of. I agree with certain Members that we should have a doctor on call at all times, or I should say in the premises at all times. However, Mr. President, just because of one incident we cannot crucify the whole hospital.

Sometime ago we made loans this morning of hospital fees. Yes, I agree if they are fees which are outstanding we should make a figure to collect them. However, Mr. Speaker, I have right here outside while which were handed to a lady when she left the hospital, a lady who had suffered with heart problems and who became very upset when she was leaving. In fact she fell flushed in her hand and told that she would have to pay shortly.

I feel, Sir, that a proper system should be looked into for collection of fees. Again there are some who are unable, regardless of how small the fee may be, to take care of the fee or to be able to take care of the fee all at once. We may say that pertains with children here no problems, but in the case I am speaking of right now, Mr. Speaker, the lady has not. However, I have been told that they are in no better position than she is, and it is impossible for this bill to be paid all at once. So I would hope that one of the principles of the present Honourable Elected Member of Executive Council responsible for this portfolio will be to try to make some sort of arrangement whereby our people can be treated a little differently with these fees.

Let me briefly speak, Mr. President, on capital projects for 1975. I submitted, Mr. President, to the Honourable Elected Member of Executive Council this responsibilities for various Portfolios, and I will point out that the Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive Council was not

MR. JUDY A. MIHAL (CONTINUED): Mr. Speaker, I do certainly have no responsibility for what I handed. I have from the budget, Sir, what certain projects which were started last year are included but, Mr. Speaker, I feel I had to make that there is not even one small project identified in the budget for my district.

In the last budget there were funds voted to purchase property in Cow Bay. I notice this time, Mr. President, there is not even a token vote, and the funds which were there have disappeared.

I am hopeful, Sir, that again when we go into Finance Committee certain commitments will be given and that at least one item specific for my district can be identified. This, Mr. President, would be greatly appreciated not only by me, but by the people of the District which I represent.

Let me say, Mr. President, in connection of my Budget Address that the Honourable Financial Secretary stated, and I quote:-

> "There is no doubt in my mind, Mr. President, that the Common Market is one of the most progressive offshore financial centres, and we have, in my view, all the ingredients of great things for these Caribbean and our people."

Mr. President, this is very encouraging to hear and I trust that we as Legislators will be mindful of this and endeavour to maintain the viability of this Country, and continue to maintain the stability which we have. Sir, that a good thing can hardly be destroyed.

We continue to show confidence in the neighbouring Islands, mostly Jamaica and Cuba. In this time, Mr. President, they were beautiful Islands too. They were nice Islands which had great potential and resources. What do we have? Mr. President, it is much easier to destroy than to rebuild. Any fool can destroy, but it will take time to rebuild.

Thank you, Mr. President.

HON. FRANKLYN: Does any other Member wish to speak? The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. HAROLD D. HANNAH: Mr. President, first of all I would like to thank you, Mr. President, for the very nice Throne Speech which you delivered to this Session. I would also like to thank the Honourable Elected Official Member for his Budget Address. Mr. President, as one who was the former Financial Secretary of this Government, who has involved in writing Budget Addresses, I am aware, Sir, of what is involved in writing these documents. In February, 1969, when I wrote my first Address it was at a time when the Administration was responsible for writing Both Addresses, the Throne Speech and the Budget Address because we were virtually the Government of the country as well.

Mr. President, the Throne Speech, and I highlight the Throne Speech because it forms precedents in the speaking tradition of the Legislature, is a novel in this country of British tradition. Mr. President, it sets the tenority of the Legislature formally in a very colourful ceremony, a very traditional speaking, and on this occasion it was followed by the Budget Address in exactly followed by this occasion. It sets out the programme for the year. It sets out many measures, and it gives a clear indication of the financial position of the country. So the Throne Speech and the Budget Address on this occasion goes in a very close mix of which the Throne Address has provided for the development and in the financial position.

HON. PERCY C. JOHNSON (CONTINUING): Mr. President, British tradition has served the mother country very well. It retains atmosphere of knights and palaces dear to that country mentality. Many of them go there to watch the traditional activities of that country. They watch the parade of the Queen's Birthday and the changing of the guard. They look at castles and they look at other attractive sights such as gardens, palaces and so forth. Mr. President, British tradition has also benefited the Cayman Islands. Our link with the mother country provides stability. It provides investors' confidence and it provides for us a Whitehall system of Government which is the best in the world.

Mr. President, the fact that we are a Crown Colony has benefited us big time for the country. A big bank the last fifteen to twenty years. From that tradition the country has established a standard of living which is, Mr. President, one of the highest in the region. So the Cayman Islands still hold fast upon traditions, especially since the last few years, as the envy of the Caribbean.

Most of the other Caribbean territories, Mr. President, have moved a little further away from that close contact with the mother country. They will want to be given up eventually. They want their internal self-government and their independence and so they begin almost a psychological separation between themselves and the mother country. They are their own boss. They change the way of life and the way of commerce, which is more always favourable to the investor. Mr. President, we have labeled our constitutional position on the platform from time to time. I know what the feeling of the people, and where I see the people I mean the majority of the people of these Islands, is expressing constitutional change. I hope, Mr. President, that with these statements I make this statement from my Government that we will be a Crown Colony for a long time to come. We have all to gain and nothing to lose from remaining a Crown Colony.

Mr. President, your Throne Speech and the Budget Address gave a stream of facts upon which the economic and social state of the nation can be declared. Mr. President, I will be making this numerous reports, touching subjects which have been touched upon during this debate and will be dealing with them briefly for the benefit of this Honourable House and the public of the Cayman Islands. I do not intend to speak for very long or, Mr. President, to be engaged in recriminations as were made early yesterday in this debate. Although still I be expressing myself I hope. There is no use in expressing ourselves and showing that we will constantly overlook the problems in them.

Mr. President, we heard and saw a lot of bitterness and fire. Black gentlemen they are still affect not troubled the ground we walk and I hope that they will remain there. Some Members of the Opposition said that they are treated as a hostile nation. But, Mr. President, some of them do not even come and communicate with us in the common-room.

Mr. President, we have heard a good and some shade of difference from the Opposition, misconception about the Budget and those Statements. Mr. President, one point which I wondered about which I heard them speaking are whether they really know what they were campaigning in the 1984 General Elections, that they were debating your Throne Speech or the Budget Address. Mr. President, and strangely and considerably contradictory and unwarranted attacks on a personal note against and I will repeat, Mr. President,

SEN. RUSSELL C. JOHNSON (CONTINUING): support be in the best interests of this country, especially one as small as the Cayman Islands.

Mr. President, some people seem to forget that the entire prosperity of the Cayman Islands depends solely upon our political stability. That is why it is so disturbing, Mr. President, that people who have so casually neglected in the 1984 General Election should attempt to disconnect the present Government and undermine political stability in this country.

Mr. President, understanding this document they are definitely trying to do. I understand, Mr. President, that they are pointing an old Committee of Forty-Four to find ways and means of toppling this Government and to call new elections. Mr. President, this information has come to me from numerous calls in recent times and, Mr. President, if that is so I am willing to nothing less than treason. I am going to appeal to you, Mr. President, in your capacity also as Governor and I am doing so before this Honourable House and before the people of this country, that that matter be investigated by the police. If it is correct, Mr. President, I would expect that those members of the Committee of Forty-Four be arrested and charged with treason.

I heard too, Mr. President, that they were attempting to fund people into George Town and surround this Legislative Assembly. They have great ideas about toppling this Government but I should advise them, Mr. President, to think and investigate they have not what they do.

Mr. President, it has come to our knowledge too that they are quite around saying that this will be the shortest lived Government in the history of these Islands because they are using their influence on us. However, Mr. President, we will not be intimidated. We are here as a duly Government and we are going to administer the affairs of this country as we should be done. We were put here by a large majority of the people of this country and we have been given a mandate which we will carry out. That mandate, Mr. President, I can assure you will not be thrown in the trash basket. We will be honouring that, Mr. President, in the backgrounds like this which has perhaps cost them lots of public money just shown out of office by an overwhelming majority of the people of this country. Mr. President, we are not going to just be pressurized; pressurized especially by a minority group, because that will not be in the best interests of this country. Mr. President, neither are we going to allow the political stability of these Islands to be undermined by a handful of people who do not care what happens to this country once they can get their own way.

Mr. President, I believe the majority of the people who put us in this Chamber will strongly resent any attempt by anyone to precipitate the unhappy of this new Government. The people who put us here, Mr. President, wanted a change. They put us here to do a specific job. They just us have to put the country back on the right track once again and, Mr. President, with God's help we will try to do just that.

Mr. President, I believe to some of the people here are busy drawing to pay the taxes. We heard members speaking about things which do not fit for their statute. Persons who had charge of those pensionable portfolios that were those eight years, Mr. President, are now coming in numbers and who have only been in office for three months.

SEN. PEDDICORD: I wonder whether this might be a convenient time to take our customary afternoon break. So I will suspend Proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes.

AT 3.20 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

RECESS ENDED AT 3.48 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Debate be resumed. Proceedings are resumed. The Honourable Minister for Community Council.

HON. ROBERT G. BRIDGE: Mr. Speaker, during this debate the Members of this Honourable House mentioned many things. When we took office in November last year the people of this Territory asked us one thing. They asked us to control inflationary spending. They asked us to do that in order that we might cut expenses first to what is necessary, that we should do away with wasteful spending and relapse of public funds. Sir, Mr. President, that is what we have attempted to do in the three months that we have been in office. Mr. President, we have planned as far as possible this fiscal year which we are living at at this provisional time.

Mr. President, we are not a Government which will spend indiscriminately just by giving out figures. We have committed ourselves to do the best we can with what financing is available in Government. We have committed ourselves not to ignore our debts for which people to pay.

Mr. President, we had to go forward with a budget largely determined by actions of the previous Government, because, Mr. President, we learned in November that this year we will put forward a budget which will reflect the thinking of this new Government. Because, Mr. President, we know that there will be reduced interest in investors' confidence in this country and that consequently the economy will strengthen, and it will grow and so improve our income. Mr. President, we have reached a stage in our present way of life which we normally call the present system of taxation, of a very substantial nature.

We heard the Honourable Third Member say that it was not possible at this time to further tax the citizens therefore. Even with a few moves that we brought forward today largely the legal side of our operation, there are all sorts of moves afoot if.

Mr. President, I will be speaking about the fiscal system of this country at a later stage. Mr. President, you mentioned in your Throne Speech that there was an increase in the Civil Service staff due to demands in the services of Government. Mr. President, I have always been concerned about growth in the Civil Service without much control. My own opinion is that there a department requires an increase in staff that other things should follow. Systems and methods whereby that department should be examined to ensure that work can be minimized so that there is no need for an increase in the complement of staff. This occasion came about in the year 1974 when we ran in the budget a request for 25 per cent increases in staff. I immediately appointed three senior officials in my department and sent them all around to all the other departments to investigate the need for increases in staff. As a result of that exercise the request was cut to exactly one. Some three days, Mr. President, I instructed the Civil Secretary to re-examine job descriptions, methods, systems and what should be done to minimize the work load so that we could not have to face large requests for staff year after year.

HON. WARREN G. HARDING (continuing): Such exercise has not been come to yet. My own opinion, Mr. President, is that under the present system no staff place output service commissioner there who are there believe they (be may come along in should take on part of what they do. It is a sentimental mark to start with which the opposition rose in output.

Mr. President, I have from experience that there are a few departments in this Government headed by local people who have done exactly what I tried to point out a while ago. They have not been fortunate with large increases in staff. I can name those three departments, Mr. President. They are the Treasury, Customs and the Post Office. Mr. President, I have seen those departments asking for small increases in staff and they would be given the run around for months until an Order for staff they requested. Now these, Mr. President, these like are not granted by separate staff but by our own people. On the other hand I have seen other departments headed by executives who seem to have little difficulty in requesting additional staff. I remember with one of the local departments I spoke about a little while ago, not long ago the local officer was replaced by an outstate officer, and some months afterwards I happened to pass around the local office and I could scarcely see anybody in that post office.

Mr. President, Government has quite a lot of problems these days in connection. I would relate quite a lot of experiences which I have had in other departments of Government, personal experiences of these. It would not do any good here. Staff is your problem, Mr. President, and I suppose it. However, I believe that these are like the items which need to be looked at.

Mr. President, restricting of staff was mentioned in the earlier debate from the Opposition side. One Member said that the Public Service Commission was supposed to be an independent from the political part. Mr. President, these Islands are still a Crown Colony and they are a Crown Colony by of their choosing/ of the people of these Islands. Mr. President, the last election there was based on well on constitutional advancement. We heard from the people that they were more than happy with our Crown Colony system of Constitution. Mr. President, the Public Service Commission functions under a Law, a Law which has been legislated by the Members of this honourable House. The Public Service Commission was established to function, Mr. President, to safeguard between the Public Service and any political interference. Therefore, Mr. President, that is the reason for the dislike of the recommendation the Public Service operates. However, Mr. President, usually all Commonwealth countries, as far as I am aware, still operate this system where the Public Service Commission performs a very important function within the machinery system of Government, so I do not think that they have perceived a calculated mechanism.

Perhaps, Mr. President, the Member might want to see here a system which is peculiar used in the United States of America where successful politicians may replace actually officers at their whims and fancies. However, Mr. President, apart from the Member who spoke on the remarks he did about the Public Service Commission, I know that other Members of this honourable House do not share those same views. Our system of Government is quite good. As I mentioned earlier it has served us well in the past, in the present, and I hope in the future as well.

Mr. President, I will now touch on the financial position of this Government. It is quite well known, Mr. President, to all Members of this House that there was a declining economy perhaps from as far back as 1981. However, 1984 demonstrated this quite clearly.

HON. HAROLD O. JOHNSON (CONTINUING): So, when Montano speaks as they did earlier it is to my mind trying to defend a reactionary position. Mr. President, if it has been the fault of the new Government in just three months why did those brilliant financial experts who had charge of this Government for eight years leave it in the position they did? Why come bleating us these months after Johnson, scarcely enough time to see all the people in our Portfolio and to see what they are doing? Mr. President, when we are thinking about the financial position of this country we must bear in mind that we should not create monsters which we cannot control in this country. We are not too small and we have many limitations.

Nowadays, Mr. President, everything which we build here must be the best in the Caribbean and I am not considering this, Mr. President, because economically we build things which we can be proud of. However, Mr. President, even if we can find the cash money to build and to create things, what about the cost of maintenance of these installations and other machinery when they are completed? My mind runs back, Mr. President, to Cayman Airways. I will deal with that later on, I also think of the beautiful airport which we have just built. However, when we try to implement a few more measures we take flights, Mr. President, because one must appreciate the fact that one cannot operate such a large and beautiful installation unless the revenue justifies it, but there are people up there almost fit to be shot because Government has tried to raise fees slightly. So we have good things but we must also know how we are going to pay for them and service them.

Mr. President, I want to make it quite clear to this Legislative Assembly and the people of these Islands that this Administration in Government here is not a budget of this new Government. Neither is the Budget Address a document of this new Government. People may say what they want, we all have something to say about it and I will tell you what this now, Mr. President. When the Budget came to us it contained, Mr. President, a deficit of $1? million. It had included in it, Mr. President, advances which were made in 1984 and would be written off in 1985 amounting to $1.? million. It had included in it, Mr. President, expenditure for projects started in 1983, and a portion of those projects to be completed in 1985 was included in the estimate at over $? million. So as we carry over from 1984 the budget had in it $1.3 million.

Mr. President, when we looked at that budget we said to the honourable Minister that according to the remarks we had from the people of these Islands we could not present a budget in this House unless it was balanced. So we asked him to take it away quickly, to look on it and when it was balanced then he should come back and show it to us. Mr. President, he did so and I should say that he did a very good job of it. However, Mr. President, some men, I comprehend with less. It was perhaps one of the most difficult jobs which he had ever undertaken in his life, the former Unity Lane Government had made it so difficult for him. He came back, Mr. President, and he showed us what he had done. He had removed all the Reserves which were available and had diverted them to Revenue to supplement the shortfall. He had also secured with a few key measures and with that shop could produce approximately $895,000. We had balanced and pruned the budget and brought it down to what we see here now, Mr. President. To be put it forward with a small surplus balance of $15,?19.

Mr. President, I want to repeat this again for the benefit of my colleagues here and the public of the Cayman Islands. This budget is not a budget of this new Government and what is presented here is a penny out of the Unity Lane Government, We are not responsible.

MR. TERRY D. HUNTSMAN (CONTINUING): Mr. President, it is indeed knowledge to all that a budget for the new year is prepared and presented here in November of the old year so that it will be ready for implementation in the new year. Unfortunately because of the elections in November, this date was not possible and instead this has a cycle of every four years.

Mr. President, I will just touch a few of the figures in the recommended capital expenditures. It is odd and a bit of irony to me that across the Chamber in the Appropriations room that the budget for 1982 did not have anything new in it, and it did not provide what was expected for the poor people of these Islands. However, Mr. President, I would just like to remind the Members that the recommended expenditures for 1982 is $8,552,200 above the 1981 estimates. So they cannot say that the new recommended budget is purely focused on a playground problem. Mr. President, what they might have wanted to see in these recommendations is the type of money machine which they are accustomed to. However, that is not exactly so, Mr. President, because our Finance Committee knew that what we had on the front of our mind was principles and what was the best interests of the country. So rude the a-ha comes when finished by Chairwoman on other issue.

Mr. President, it will be noted that in the recommended expenditures many projects in Tortola, local people in this Chamber. I asked Members if they knew why that large percentage of projects was given to the top echelon of the Civil Service in 1981, and the reply was in order for a participatory process. I suppose, Mr. President, that in the years that I have been in this Honourable House never have I heard Members talk in one side of the mouth come off.

Mr. President, looking at the capital side of the budget we find that in 1982 total capital recommended amounts to $9,849,811. The capital put forward in 1981 in which so much was said, Mr. President, amounted to $15,118,808. That looks small but, Mr. President, when we examine the 1982 capital budget we find the large appropriations in there. The interest acceleration totaled at $5,197,709 and the cost of the Court Building, $1,221,168. The two sums make a total of $7,618,878 and when that is taken from the 1982 capital there is a balance of $2,730,933 which is little what we have put forward this year.

So, Mr. President, priorities have been taken into consideration and many members taken out of the budget. We would have liked to see the Virgin Gorda project and the Jost Van Dyke project, Mr. President, as we have now, the largest project which this Government is to undertake so far and that is the sewerage project of the Road Bay Beach, which is costed at the present time at between $10 and $11 million. That project will be on stream, Mr. President. Of course in 1982 there is only small portion of the work that has been completed in the budget and this is the reason why we have not put a large capital budget going forward. However, in my estimation, Mr. President, even if we call this the daily Town budget the estimate behind the recommendations is in accordance with our policy.

Mr. President, I will now speak on the Revenue. This is quite a subject. Mr. President, this subject are causing so many people to attack their Government negative saying so pause to wonder. Mr. President, I think that it is all in vain because any statement which I put my name to in a statement to speak and one which I will always defend. So I am explaining what we as a Government have put forward, exactly what the Revenue position is.

HON. MAGGIE C. HORTON (CONTINUING): Mr. President, we know that the Cayman Islands Government is not an impoverished Government. If we look at its assets, its land and its buildings and other assets, I am sure that we will see that it is a fairly well off Government. Mr. President, it is not small on the question of this Government's assets. So when one speaks about the financial position of a Government we must be compared always the cash position. I want to make it quite clear that that has been our stand on the platform and in this Government. We have been speaking about the cash position of this Government. On the platform I made the figures which were produced by Members of the past Government, and I showed from my calculations that at the time the Government had available cash of $3 million.

Mr. President, there are much accounting and all those big financiers came out with their suggestions and they tried to make me look small. When we entered Government we asked the Honourable Chief Official Member to let us have certain information relating to the financial position of Government as it stood on the 31st October, 1988. We took those figures, Mr. President. We analysed them and we got together a statement showing the surplus and deficit position as that time, amounting to $892,000. They were saying most of the time and even a month before the 31st October, that they had millions of dollars in surplus cash. We showed the General Treasurer, Mr. President, available cash of merely $3 million. We showed a Public Debt of over $13 million and if the amount loan had been added to it at that time we would have recorded the $16 million which have just been declared the Public Debt figure. We also showed some figures relating to Cayman Airways.

The proof of that, Mr. President, was that when the Honourable Chief Official Member decided to move what available cash was in Reserve to supplement the Budget all he could get out of it was $2.3 million. We heard what he said in the Budget Address. He said, Mr. President, that the balance of it was a deficit which would not be necessary because of the blending of those funds against the Loans Settlement Loan. Mr. President, that was still be whatever one likes, depositor, collateral or hypothecation and it is all the same thing. To reach that sum of money is not available for use until after the bank says you have it. That is what has happened to the most of the Reserves which the Opposition over there is talking we must us have.

Mr. President, had it not been for that, I dare say that the Honourable Chief Official Member would not have gone forward to recommend the few tax measures which he did. So, Mr. President, I have no regrets for any statement which I have made. I am not going into politics and making a statement which I cannot stand by. I have served this country for thirty seven and a half years in the Civil Service and two and a half years in the Military Service. I have a track record in this country and I am not going to change that record.

MR. SPEAKER: I have been hoping that you were ready for a natural break. We are in fact slightly over time. So I will invite the Honourable Chief Official Member to move the adjournment.

ADJOURNMENT

HON. ORRIN W. ARCHER: Mr. President, I move the adjournment of this House until 10.00 a.m. tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: The question is that this House do now adjourn until 10:00 a.m. tomorrow.

AGREED.

THE SPEAKER: Please be seated.

Prayers are read. Confirmation of the debate on the Throne Speech and Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill, 1965. The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council.

CONTINUATION OF THE DEBATE ON THE THRONE SPEECH AND SECOND READING OF THE APPROPRIATION (1965) BILL

HON. WARREN C. NISBETT: Mr. Speaker, when I finished yesterday afternoon as a result of the adjournment, I was just at that time through with the subject of Seamoss and as this morning I will go on to another subject, Fiscal Policies.

Mr. President, in the course of debate earlier in this Session I heard remarks passed that the tax system of these Islands was trailing fifty years behind and that the tax system was outmoded. I wondered, Mr. President, whether the speaker from the Opposition was thinking that he was in the Turks and Caicos Islands because I have always heard that that territory was some thirty to fifty years behind the Cayman Islands.

The fiscal policy of this country has been well thought out over the years. In 1959 to 1962 when the then Government sponsored the economic programme, including the programme, Mr. President, was a thorough examination of the fiscal policies of this Government to decide where over the next ten years it would raise the revenue, the level of revenue which would relate to the development of this country as a financial centre for tourist destination.

Mr. President, as a destination for tourists the Islands have done quite well. As a financial centre we have done much better and these developments were possible largely because of the management of the fiscal policies and the administration of the country generally.

The 1972 examination of the fiscal policy indicated that for the foreseeable future this country should not stray away from the indirect system of taxation. That policy is maintained to this day and I hope for the foreseeable future I have that that policy will be maintained.

The direct system of taxation such as income tax, estate duty tax, wealth duty and so on, although looked upon as the most equitable form of taxation cannot do our system any good. What it takes to implement a system like that and the returns would not be all that much, Mr. President, and the managing officers of direct duty may discourage from this country would add to the disaster. So we have no alternative than to continue with our present system of taxation such as taxes on imports, licenses fees from banks, annual fees from companies and so on. These are the main areas of our present revenue and this answers some why that we are treading fifty years behind in our tax system is really hogwash to.

HON. WILLIAM G. JOHNSON (Continuing): Mr. President, many years ago a suggestion was made that we abandon our British Caribbean territory. The British Government thought that too many small colonies were becoming too common and it was almost a duty placed within their small Commonwealth countries.

I remember back in 1970 I had to go to London and attend a meeting with the officials of the Treasury, the Bank of England and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office to relate our particular situation in the Cayman Islands, and to plead with the British Government to have our financial industry plans because we had no alternative. Mr. President, the meeting was very successful. We had the full support of the British Treasury and the Bank of England and so from those days on we had no interference with our financial industry as you no the British Government is composed.

Mr. President, we have done quite well in this country. We are a small territory of one hundred square miles, with 16,000 people and a 200 million budget. To raise 200 million in revenue in this small country is no small feat, Mr. President, and so we have to be very thankful for what we have and what we are receiving. We have no doubt reached a saturation point where our individual sources of taxation is concerned. The Honourable Third Official Member said in his Budget Address that because $1.00 was not possible to tax the offshore industry this year, he had to consider other forms of raising a bit of revenue. Mr. President, he is quite right. At one time there was no bank license fee and within the last two to three years a fee has been introduced. Today's Class A licences fee is up to around $50,000. If we take it beyond that figure, Mr. President, we are going to price ourselves out of the market. Also if we continue to increase company fees, work permits and so on we will do likewise and it would be very unwise for us to continue raising revenue from that source.

What we must do, Mr. President, is to stimulate the economy so that activities here in all the areas of the economy can move on and produce more to the Government and to the treasuries, so that we will not need to think about taxation.

If there is any new form of taxation which can be suggested by anyone which will not discourage or interfere with the present types of things in the Cayman Islands, I will say, "Let's look at it". Seriously, Mr. President, I have been in this game for a long time. I have had the responsibility over that long period of time to find means and ways of raising revenue. I have even been accused in regard to a simple little pull out which members of the Opposition calling it income tax the height of stupidity.

Mr. President, it has been the experiment to find a diversification of the economy and to find additional sources of taxation. I understand to study the offshore insurance industry and very successfully, Mr. President. He determined in that year the Insurance Law which governed that industry put today the Cayman Islands is looked upon as the second destination in offshore insurance business. That, Mr. President, is working the country well. It has added to the economy and it has added additional revenues to Government coffers. It has been a welcome diversification of the financial industry. There are things we must look for which will presently assist the system as it is at the present time. Mr. President, I will be looking forward to any suggestions which anyone can make to the Honourable Third Official Member to improve our revenue system.

SEN. ALLEN J. ELLENDER (CONTINUING): Mr. President, I want to say a few words on Tuesday. It was one of my duty subjects many years back and I was Chairman of the Currency Board until I resigned in March, 1953. I heard the first Russian Sputnik. Some suggestions that perhaps Government should look at the possibility of buying some gold which would be a backing to the Dayton currency in circulation. Mr. President, this is not the first time we have heard that. The thing is that some people cannot learn. A number of years ago the same suggestion was made to me and rather than giving them an answer I went to the Bank of England and asked if they would write a paper on this subject. The reply was very short. It did not take any genius to decide whether a small system like the Dayton Board should become involved in buying gold.

Mr. President, what is wrong is better to be cautiously working. When our boys gold the only benefit he looks for is if after Sunday that gold the price of gold rises, then he is ready to sell his gold he will realize that inflated price. Then he knows that he has made a profit on the deal. Neither, an organization like the Dayton Board, Mr. President, cannot profit unless it has a ready market of course. By the little money which the Board manufactures for the currency in circulation and for the Reserves must be invested in cash or other in order to provide that steady income. Mr. President, the answer is not only if benefit to the Board, the Board gets from the accumulation however such year a certain sum of money in Government's treasury. I see in the budget this year a sum of $500,000 to be paid by the Dayton Board into Government's revenue. For a small system like that which was only established twelve years or so ago to be paying nearly a million dollars of revenue to Government today is also no small feat, Mr. President.

So what would happen if we had our Reserves in gold? We might run short of dollars from one day and eventually we might have to in the end because the price of gold fluctuates. Sometimes it rises and sometimes it falls. So I want to take it upon myself to tell Senators that buying gold is something we should not even dream about.

Mr. President, without objection I would like to mention relating to the Dayton Board to the bill that was introduced some years ago. Mr. President, that note is normally known as the $1 billion note. It was specifically segmented by the Treasury Department. Their opinion of it being a useful note to the country was because they thought it would be used for the Foreign Book Festival. They said that the bill was equivalent to $1bn, and that when nations need here they would buy the note. Until for one cent which cost they would have to pay as a subscription of the Foreign Book Festival. When I approached London about this bill some they asked me if I was to my good senses. I said that it was privileged and that was why I was taking it there. So in that sense they approved of it.

Mr. President, it was never liked by the public. It is out of the usual sequence of the decimal system because we use either a $1, a $5, a $10, a $20 or a $100 note. When we use any other denomination, Mr. President, it is of absolutely no use to people. It makes it difficult to calculate and to use for that matter. So if we walk around some today we find nobody with a $50 note, the banks do not use it, the Secretariat their officials whether commercially or privately, said that what he might want to propose to the next Parliament was to declare that there would be no more printing of the note, and to put it out to see whether it could be sold as a millionaire's

MR. ROBERT G. STANFIELD (CONTINUED): Also, I wish, Mr. President, that we could follow that suggestion and eventually replace that $40 note with a $50 note.

Mr. President, we have had quite a lot of debate here in this Session about the creation of a Monetary Authority which would ultimately lead to a Central Bank operation. Mr. President, the Treasury Board has made many studies of this possibility over the years. Reports were undertaken by the Bank of England on the subject for the benefit of the Treasury Board. In the last study, Mr. President, it was decided to try and see whether the Treasury Board could never since a viewpoint from the local commercial banks. It is quite true there no doubt the board could be given by a function which is equivalent to a Monetary Authority. For that reason an amendment was made to the Currency Act to provide that the Currency Board could accept deposits and make advances for the purpose of this clearing arrangement. However, Mr. President, when we tackled the local commercial banks on it we found difficulties. The banks had quite an unfortunate arrangement amongst them. It was costing them nothing. There were one of the small banks in the centre doing clearing through other banks and finding some difficulties in doing so. However, Mr. President, eventually they too were able to make adequate clearing arrangements. So it ultimately was not necessary to carry out that clearing arrangement.

It is not as simple as all that. The Currency Board would have had to improve its staff and duplicate the activities in order to do that particular kind of thing. Mr. President, nothing more than a branch. The Monetary Authority or a clearing bank usually are included as many activities. Fiscal and forecast they are involved in banking. Mr. President, it was always hoped that the Savings Bank which you have in mind would have remained there to become the nucleus of the banking operation for that Central Bank of it was decided that this was necessary. The minute I walked out of Government, Mr. President, the Savings Bank was demolished. So that possibility of an added activity for a Central Bank disappeared.

Another activity which is done through a General Bank is savings interest. We abolished exchange control in 1960, Mr. President, and I have that it is not the intention of anyone here to reintroduce that subject. So that number that is off the list.

Mr. President, some suggestion to another activity of a Central Bank may be one note that the present system of bank supervision is very satisfactory, as it operates within the portfolio of finance and investments. Therefore in our small system we would have no specific need of having the bank supervision given where it is, to put it into another separate institution.

The other function, Mr. President, of a Central Bank is to be the fiscal point where economic advice is given to Government. Naturally, Mr. President, one would have to employ professional staff to be able to give Government that sort of advice. As it boils down to the fact again, that under the present system the honourable third Official Member to the Government's economic and financial adviser. If advice is required beyond that level then we have to look outside those Islands. So that again does seem as for a long time to come.

The fact is, Mr. President, as the Currency Board concluded several years ago, for the foreseeable future it would not be necessary to consider the operation of a Central Bank in the Cayman Islands.

Hon. Maurice H. Stans (continued): By the time we get to be necessary to operate on to convert the Currency Board into a Monetary Authority that has already been done and all we need to do is to change the designation; and on the system to take over banking and the rest of it. We operate on three banking theories that is a Central Bank function. So, therefore, we find the organization of a Monetary Authority to be consistent I should say that there is absolutely no need for one at the present time.

Mr. President, much use made of exchange control here but records was obtained for a while in the Opposition. Exchange control was always known as a very technical subject. It was always known too as being one of the main safeguards to the banking of our financial centre have been kept in 1966. Mr. President, in 1966 we appointed review the British Exchange Control Law as it was applicable to Jamaica. Of course Jamaica was applicable as the Cayman Islands being a dependency.

At that stage we found that in order to promote our financial industry it was necessary to relax some of the Exchange Control Law which would grant to investors certain privileges which the British Law did not provide. So we have responded to Government to introduce a new Exchange Control Law. The proposals went to the Legal department, the Finance department, and eventually to the Privy Council. Nobody wanted to see this new Exchange Control Law. The British Government could then they had given us one and if we did not like it we could do the job ourselves, so it came back, Mr. President, and the Administration at the time said "We handle to me and said, "Take it your baby".

Within three months we had recommended a new Law, the regulations, the order, the notices, the lot and it 1969 those were introduced. When they came to this Honourable House the Members said that it was too technical a subject and they could not understand it. Anyhow, they said they would accept it because they had confidence that it was well prepared and well presented.

I am just pointing this out, Mr. President to give an idea where exchange control came from. In 1972 when Sterling floated, exchange control in the United Kingdom also commenced. It was only the United States and a couple of other countries like Switzerland and Malta which allowed exchange control within the country of Sterling. The Cayman Islands, Bahamas, Bermuda and all the other Commonwealth countries were told that they must do their own exchange control.

It was at that time, Mr. President, that I personally was used to establish exchange control in these Islands and the following year in 1973, I went to London and examined this to establish exchange control. It was the British Government by ourselves and they asked us to give them our views to stick it down.

The following year, Mr. President, in 1974, we were anxious back to London to discuss the subject and I remained alone with the former Minister Secretary, Mr. Porter. We met in the Bank of England with the Treasury and Finance and Commonwealth Office personnel, and we discussed the subject. It was at that time that the British Government announced that they had agreed that the Cayman Islands could establish exchange control.

Mr. President, unfortunately we did not get around to doing the job until today, three and Companies Law at the time we had a provision making provision to all companies particularly non-residents under exchange control. And we at that time abolished exchange control we would have lost a tremendous amount of income from these non-residents

MRS. HARRIS of Oklahoma: companies because they would automatically have recorded as being an industry company which for some would be than that of a non-resident company. Of course I am not interested in hearing this amount of testimony. If we might have this legal department sit with all the other people which we could find to study this and name of qualifying exchange control without having that reason.

We believe would be his forward, Mr. President, until he left him. Therefore additional, some said that exchange control be foreign by the bank and agreed to. When we said we suggested that we could not allow Mrs. Chairman to do that until we were still keeping on having to find ways and means of changing exchange control. So I went to the Chairman-Designate and I said to him that we must add some more, the two of us, and we must find a means of qualifying exchange control with being our economic. Mr. President, it took us about three months and we believed not be carried. Eventually we found a way out when under the Foreign Exchange Control Law we invented there a corporate of non-resident company which would enable to raise not development exchange control but under the Local Corporate Control Law, which would allow all non-resident companies whether they were designated or such under exchange control or not. So they would recognize to pay that fee. Then we were forward, Mr. President, and we established exchange control.

There is a long history behind exchange control but Hong Kong is got out of it.

Mr. President, we heard mention made here of unemployment in those islands, especially over the past year and I agree with it entirely. I know a lot of people in the construction field and others who have been out of jobs. Mr. President, it has been clearly said here by the Opposition that there has been a down turn in the economy for a little while ago. Whether they wished it or not is for us to be clearly seen by everyone that that is correct.

Mr. President, what I was a bit concerned about is that the Party Government would have known that there was this down turn in the economy and that there was unemployment in the country. They had a golden opportunity to remedy this and to help all those poor people over which have been dwelling recently here in the past two years, but they did not. Mr. President, to have $6.6 million and buy a prefabricated building is something which I cannot understand. The Government has a lot of land. To just by the Government Administration Building the Government made more to buy additional land in that particular vicinity for further expansion of office accommodation. They was recommended a few years ago that this Government Offices would be centralized in that area as far as possible. That was not done, Mr. President. Instead they went and bought a prefabricated building with a small amount of land around it and limited our parking facilities.

Now, Mr. President, that $6.6 million could have been spent in the country. Our poor people, those poor unemployed would have had jobs. That building would have taken about a year and a half to build. It would have still been under-construction. It would have given local materials some business. In fact it would have given everybody some business. One can imagine the benefit, Mr. President, of $6.6 million circulating in the country, especially in poor times. When we talk about the poor we must not think of them on the one hand and they think of ourselves on the other. We must be considerate with our views and do our utmost to help them.

HON. JAMES M. MORRIS (Opposition): Mr. President, the Honourable Third Official Member said that the total cost of the new airport terminal which included the central tower, would be $10.7 million, and not as estimated by Public Works Department which was $15 million, and as mentioned by Caribbean Development Bank at a cost of $16.4 million.

Mr. President, I am sure that the Honourable Third Official Member did not mean to mislead this House. I have been involved in the airport terminal development myself as Financial Secretary. In fact the feasibility study which was undertaken, Mr. President, was during my time. It was undertaken by a Canadian group, paid for by the Canadian Government at a cost of Cdn. $250,000. Mr. President, I do not believe that any opportunity was expressed by this Government to the Canadian Government, for that grant and I would like on behalf of the Government on this occasion to record Government's grateful thanks for that feasibility study and the payment for that study by the Canadian Government.

It was because of that feasibility study that Caribbean Development Bank decided to assist the project by a loan. So whatever others might have thought about the study it had the useful purpose in that development.

Mr. President, the proposal for this terminal was that the central tower should be built first and then the terminal building. Along with that development there was to be a parallel taxiway on the north side of the airfield towards the sea. Mr. President, in the estimates made by public Works Department and by Caribbean Development Bank that parallel taxiway was included and if the cost of the project up to this stage just below three millions, then the reason for this is well known. It is because the project is not completed in its original approved form. That parallel taxiway, Mr. President, I understand cost in the vicinity of $2 million. So if you add $2 million to the $14 million, we have the $16 million.

HON. JAMES M. MORRIS: Mr. President, maybe after I think it is necessary for the House that necessary, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think that it is any more unnecessary than a great deal of what have been spoken in this debate. In this debate I make use of the customary, allowed Members to worry quite fine and wide.

HON. M. MONTAGUE JONES: On a point of order, Mr. President, under Standing Order 23(1) the Members present in this Chamber during a debate should not read books or newspapers. I think the Member should pay attention to what is happening, Sir.

HON. JAMES M. MORRIS: Mr. President, it has been a habit of this House since I have been here, for thirteen years, if a person wanted to take a look at the morning newspaper he was allowed to do so. I do not know why this Member is such an authority as to all of a sudden.

HON. M. MONTAGUE JONES: Mr. President, they have been asking that we follow the rules. Now if one Member has to follow the rules everybody has to follow the rules.

HON. D. HUGH SPOONER: Mr. President, first for the information of the Chair, I am working on a speech which I am going to make pretty soon. There is nothing against working notes. The Member seems to think I am reading and working. I am actually making notes.

MR. PRESIDENT: What the standing order was is that Senators would not read books, newspapers and letters while they are addressing the business before the House. I have always followed that idea that Members who are reading, are reading something which does relate to the business of the House. I know that Members read newspapers. Newspapers usually contain something which relates to the business of the House. Whether they are reading that part of the newspaper it is difficult for me to determine.

MR. JOHN H. STEVENS: Now the parliamentarian of the Senate I happened at the time he spoke to be reading, "The Republican Arkansas commissioner debate".

MR. PRESIDENT: I think we should continue with the debate.

MR. HARRY P. HAMMAN: Mr. President, thank you for your courtesy, Sir. I did not get up out of my seat and interrupt anyone while they were speaking. They spoke for three days and I sat still and listened. I do not intend to speak for three days because that is filibustering.

Mr. President, when I was looking forward on March, 1982, the Senator who was then the Elected Member of Executive Council responsible for Tourism Aviation and Ports took over the planning committee which was looking after the airport terminal, as I pointed out of the picture. I mention that, Mr. President, so that it quite clear that I am aware of and I have knowledge of the background of this project.

Mr. President, much was said about the new Post Office which is now under construction. However, for the benefit of this honourable House I must make it quite clear, Mr. President, that the Post Office has been the subject of a feasibility study from a long time back by the British Post Office authorities. The recommendations was made for the re-siting of that Post Office and the site recommended for the new Post Office is the site behind the Public Library. So there is no reason for anyone to believe that this is a new thought where Government is concerned. Now that the Lands Building has been bought and is standing all the surplus staff of Government there is no need to construct the cost of development for a Post Office Building other than first thought of. This is the reason for the diversification to a multi-storey car parking and Post Office facility together.

Mr. President, there is no doubt in anyone's mind that our parking in central George Town is a unbearably lousy. Neither do there any doubt in the minds of the people that there is need for a new Post Office where additional land space will be available. There is absolutely no space in the old building, Mr. President, to install additional boxes at the present time. There is always a big list of demands for new boxes. However, most boxes are just a small part of the need for a new Post Office. There is no parking around that building. For people to go there they have to park in other people's parking lots.

The facilities within the building, Mr. President are small and invalid, and when we look at the improvements and expansion of other Government offices we cannot but accept that the Post Office too is in need of expansion and is need of a new environment. The question of where it will go I know Mr. Speaker, depends on Government's ability to finance them. However, I can assure this Honourable House that if the need is there for these facilities and this Honourable House is prepared to approve it, and

MR. WARREN G. MAGNUSON: ...we can find the reasons to raise them. What the requirements will be just now,

Mr. President, much was said about the Housing Development Corporation as well. We came across just what it did a few months ago. We considered this when we got to these old properties that happened to the fiscal government during last year. There were originally people considered low income who had property whose value was over $200,000. They had a mortgage of $70,000, $80,000 and even $100,000, they were taken up to $40,000 or less. They were given loans to rehabilitate other homes.

Mr. President some Government provided to establish a Housing Development Corporation one would have thought that this would be help those people who could not negotiate a mortgage with the private institutions. I am sure that many of those in the unfavorable locality who have entered home from the Housing Development Corporation would go to private institutions and raise loans. However, Mr. President, that is something which is unobtained. The new board has been determined to raise fresh efforts to raise additional money and to maintain the present schedule, and to decide what a Government Housing Development Corporation should really be doing, and the sort of responsibilities when it should be undertaken. Because if we walk through the middle, towards and length of this country today we will find a lot of need. I am just saying Mr. President, that we want you considering that money be given to people who cannot repay it. I think this is really misconstrued by Government and that need anybody ashame that I am sure that is still going to continue this scheme. However, Mr. President, we must not go, helping those people who can help themselves. We must think always the poor, those people about which we much has been said in this house.

MR. JAMES M. BECKER: Mr. President, I rise on a point of explanation under Standing Order 32(2).

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member has given way to the Hon...

MR. JAMES M. BECKER: In following the debate of the Honourable Member he seems as though he is trying to cast a different meaning to what was done by the Housing Development Corporation. Under the guidelines and those powers, we are empowered to give mortgages in areas where the people had assessed evidence of less than $25,000, with a maximum amount of $25,000 to be loaned. As far as I am aware there are known any guidelines nor does either in law, regulations or otherwise which said anything about the net worth of a person. I am sure having looked over the list of some of the people who received mortgages, if any of them had a net worth of $150,000 it was probably a consideration by land which was not readily available. It was not assessed again. Governments have had mortgage schemes which were not quite effect under the Housing Development Corporation. One year the Housing Development Corporation Law and the other one was the scheme which was giving all the Bahamas down for the people and people could not receive a mortgage in the private market, or they could not afford to pay high rents.

To be more completely different types of housing schemes, and to my understanding that it was in trying giving to a person who had $150,000 net worth. I do not accept that should be the thinking there. There was a Town Committee and many unemployable people around in all which was responsible for seeing where the mortgages went. I only wanted with the Member to explain that there was anything wrong done under our administration in regard to the Housing Corporation. That is what he is saying to impute wrong-doing he has already, and I have grave objection to it.

HON. VASCO G. PENNACCHI: Mr. President, I was about to finish what I started. I was told by one of the banks who had participated in the Housing Development Corporation that the Corporation had apparently entered into negotiations with those banks in granting mortgages to people who could very well go to those banks and obtain loans. This was ascertained, Mr. President, by the records we found there. If that is the case, I would like to know whether the banking fraternity in those Islands, who can see their office banks which have not yet materialized may fund to the Housing Development Corporation will be reluctant to do so, because they now provide cheap money, five per cent money which is obtainable at nine per cent. They are certainly not going to welcome this cheap money for the Government to enter in competition against them.

That is the reason, Mr. President, why I spoke of what I found there as I did. Certainly it is the case that we will have to remedy it. We have not had the time or the opportunity yet of re-examining their guidelines or their policies, but this will certainly be done before any more mortgages are considered. We must give unto to the feelings of dissenters Members, Mr. President, the investigations which commissioned these firms and we intend to do just that.

Mr. President, I know that the Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive Council has already covered quite a lot on the Seamen II Agreements which was negotiated in 1977...

MR. SPEAKER: I wonder before the Minister starts on what is evidently going to be a new topic, if it will be convenient for us to take our customary morning break. I will therefore now suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes and would ask Members to be ready to resume by 11.30 a.m.

AT 11.30 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

AGAIN RESUMED AT 11.45 A.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.

Proceedings are resumed. The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council?

HON. VASCO G. PENNACCHI: Mr. President, I was going on to speak on Seamen II but before I deal with that subject I want to mention the Public Debt.

Mention was made by a Member of the Opposition that in 1977 this Government had a true position of slightly over $3 million and that in 1978 that position had grown to $7 million. Apparently he thought that it was bad management of the then Government to stand by and see the Public Debt grow at that rate. However, Mr. President, I would remind this Honourable House that in 1976 to 1977 we began implementing an economic plan for this country which would establish the infrastructure and on which future growth would depend. In that infrastructure we had to provide a number of services and accommodation.

MR. WOODS of NORTHUMBERLAND. Mr. Speaker, I am glad to see the Chairman in which we now sit. That was another one on the list. Since we built the warehouse across the road, the police establishment, and the Government Administration Building recently known as the Glass House, we built pieces of new secondary school and of primary schools around the Islands. We rebuilt a portion of the hospital. We built the George Town port which was opened very soon after the new Government took office in 1977 and, Mr. Speaker, we began paving all the roads in the Cayman Islands.

I am sure that anyone who walks around the Cayman Islands today will see such these beautiful appearance, and Parliament has seen the services which have been established, many of them have given Government receipts for the administration of 1978 to 1979 and the loan which had been created during that time, and nothing can be done without money.

The economic plan was based on spending into positive. A large portion of that year is to come from business and a portion of it from Government sources and loans. Mr. Speaker, the circumstances of these periods have caused the economy well. When the new Government took office at the end of 1976 they took over a very strong Government cost a very strong Government. They needed only to wait for the revitalization of the economy.

Mr. Speaker, no one can ignore unemployment in Cayman in the economy. That comes by equity and the most cycle which had been forecast at that time, I knew that we were only out of a terrible recession, late to start between 1975 and 1976. That proved to be correct, Mr. Speaker. The unemployment started in 1975 and by 1982 it peaked. As I explain fiscal why economists in these visiting to Cayman what they did in their country during those periods the economy.

Mr. Speaker, another statement which was made by the Opposition was that in 1979 the Government spend 12 per cent of its economic in spending terms. Mr. Speaker, please before that it was mentioned that it is the usual policy of all economy must be given more than 12 per cent of the economic in spending terms. As all times while I was in the Office of Financial Secretary I made this quite clear and made it known for many years, and I was never put allowed the Government to move in a position until money that policy.

Mr. Speaker, I took the 1978 estimates and examined them with it was the Opposition could come up with the figure of 12 per cent. I cannot find those figures. The 1978 approved estimates contains on pages 78 to 82 that the total cost of spending the funds that were granted to $20,836,836. For some calculation, Mr. Speaker, on page 21 indicates that the estimated expense for 1978 was $21,812,980. If the percentage is taken from that spending is nowhere near 12 per cent.

MR. S. KEN JACKER: On a point of clarification, Mr. Speaker, I thank the Honourable Minister for giving way. I would like to say that the total spending was the total spending was not the total spending of spending the debt plus about a certain percentage of recurrent revenue. I am not talking about total revenue.

MR. WOODS of NORTHUMBERLAND: Mr. Speaker, I wish those people who speak about financial would pay their home attention about investment any more. There is no special revenue for this figure which I am providing. I provided $22,822,800 in the estimate of recurrent expense for 1979.

Hon. Gilles G. Bourget (Stormont): Mr. President, if we look at the level of unemployment today and the kind of persons we find that the percentage of commission does not rise above five per cent or six. It was clear in my mind that the cost to the Government of providing the long term unemployed is only half of what the estimated commitment is. So it is we are trying to play with figures to deceive the public and discredit this Government. Shame. Shame, Mr. President.

Mr. President, another point which I wish to make is this. As the honourable Third Official Opposition Budget Address has made that the actual of the Public Debt so far is $19.4 million. However, he also mentioned that if the Sterling adjustment were made accordingly to the present rate, that the Public debt could be only $11 million. Mr. President, let me say this. Since we are going to consider the public debt at some specific moment, because that we have legislatively kept in balance of some other specific matters why we must take into consideration the increase value of the present value of that debt.

Mr. President, may I remind Members of the Honourable House that the gravity of the Pound Sterling vs United States dollars is worth $2.40. We have seen fluctuation of currency over the last ten years which now could mostly tragic. We have seen already the pound Sterling fluctuate and privacy back to some heights. I not depends on the economic conditions within the country. I have no doubt, Mr. President, that the pound is going to improve. In fact it has started to do so. I would not be one to advise this Honourable House that we should underestimate the Public Debt. We must keep hold of this and so far as I am concerned we should look at the Public Debt as it stands at the moment time. That figure is $19.4 million.

Mr. President, I should state that it is not a reflection on the honourable Third Official Member. The statement which he presents is provided to him by some of the experts, and I am sure that he agrees with me that the parity of the Pound Sterling is worth $2.40. The extent to the rate of what the fluctuation in that currency will be is a guess or so.

The Opposition used this, Mr. President, to underline what they looked at as the Public Debt increment during their office. However, the fact is that we raised loans from time to time which increased from the 1970 to $19.4 million at the end of 1974.

MR. CLIFFORD A. PEARSON: Mr. President, I wonder if the Member would care to let me elucidate under Standing Order 31(1)(b) on a point which was just raised.

MR. PRESIDENT: Will the Member have patch long as I should now rise somehow.

MR. CLIFFORD A. PEARSON: Mr. President, I think it is important that we clarify the point raised by the Member just now. As the member has said I too do not like to volunteer but I think it is a little misleading here. Are we discussing future events, or what happened five years ago, or are we discussing the 1975 Budget? I believe that when we are considering the indebtedness of the Public Debt we have to consider the date. The Public Debt is being considered. If we were going off our Public Debt at the end of 1974 we would reasonably be taking the exchange rate of the normal Sterling to the parity of that currency, and it would not necessarily be at the rate it was originally negotiated. I think we all know that the Pound Sterling is even below the value of the Cayman Islands dollar at

MR. LEROY A. STERON (Queensland): Mr. President, I take point of view. So far as I suppose that the Postal Standing is still equivalent to the party of 3.30 to the United States dollar I think is a matter of misleading. I believe that the honourable Prime Ministerial Member was quite correct in valuing our Public Debt at the then going rate because we are considering the period under review, and that is due to the fact that it may be at some future date. I quite agree with the Honourable Senate Elected Member of Executive Council that it is possible that the pound may remain its strength and by break at 2.40 at some future date. However, right now the situation is not that. The situation is now that it is much weaker, so that when we are considering the revaluation of assets in connection to pounds Sterling we have to consider the correct under review.

Thank you.

HON. HAROLD G. BURROWS: Mr. President, I am quite aware of what statement the Member made and I understand what he is saying, if we were going to consider the explanation being made in 1975, then I would agree not to go by including the entire loan portfolio. I do not agree with it and it does not matter what anybody terms to say about it. That is their own opinion. I am expressing my own opinion.

Mr. President, these explanations in the minds of members do no good to this debate. I did not interrupt with anyone while they were speaking there and talking about 1976 and beyond. I am surprised to think I have been misled by the provisions about seven days and I have a right to do so. I am not disagreeing with them. I am here quietly to my seat. I do not know why all of them must get up and want to give explanations

MR. LEROY A. STERON (Queensland): Mr. President, under Standing Order 84(1)(b) I should like to clarify further what he said.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member has not given way I am afraid this time. I think in fairness he might, there are too many of these....

HON. HAROLD G. BURROWS: I am not giving way, Mr. President.

MR. LEROY A. STERON: May I remind my friend, Mr. Minister, Standing Order 84(1)(b)?

MR. PRESIDENT: You may remind your friend under Standing Order 84(1), the right of explanation.

MR. LEROY A. STERON: Thank you, Sir, under Standing Order 84(1).

HON. W. MCKEEVA CHASE: I think the Member had begun to sit down, Mr. President. Yes, the Member has sat down.

MR. PRESIDENT: And you intervened to give way? Perhaps I misunderstood. You were still on your feet at the time when I adjourned....

HON. HAROLD G. BURROWS: I was going for you, Mr. President, but I didn't see it you ask me so.

MR. PRESIDENT: It is up to you to decide if you wish to give way so that he can misinterpret the matter now. Alright.

MR. J. EDGAR HOOVER. Mr. President....

MR. PRESIDENT: No, we cannot have more than one at a time unless Jesse is a point of order.

MR. D. TENNY HOOVER: Sec, Sir, mine is a point of order under Standing Order 32(1)(a), "On a point of explanation for my personality, Sir, really.

MR. PRESIDENT: No, a point of order only be allowed because we have already got somebody on a point of explanation. If you have a point of order you may raise it. Then the Elected Member for George Town.

MR. EDWARD A. RICKETTS: Mr. President, I am somewhat surprised at the Honourable Fourth Elected Member for Executive Council because as I said it is not a habit of mine to interrupt Members while they are speaking. I just felt that it was necessary at this time to elucidate the matter which he now discussing. Because like the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council I too take more umbrage for having some financial knowledge. So, when I speak I think I speak with some authority also. What I am saying here, Mr. President, is that it is not a proper procedure to point an accusation that the Public Debt of this country as we are considering now, should be taken as being on the record.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member did say that before you spoke.

MR. EDWARD A. RICKETTS: That's no excuse.

MR. PRESIDENT: Let's move on. That point already.

MR. EDWARD A. RICKETTS: The Second....

MR. PRESIDENT: If we continue to interrupt, the Member gets up and says one thing and so on, we should never get on with the debate.

MR. EDWARD A. RICKETTS: I was going on to say, Sir, that my interruption at this point in time was because I feel that any matter in the House should be seriously, since the public can listen to and feel that is a correct information which is being passed on that. This information which was given is probably a distorted picture.

MR. PETER A. JAMES: Mr. President, I have been accustomed to the public of the Cayman Islands for a long time and I have, up to now, Mr. President, that they still understand what I am saying. I am not saying to present a distorted figure. I am not guilty of that in this House. I present a straight figure and a straight picture, and the true facts. This is what some people do not like to hear.

Mr. President, as I said earlier the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council has outlined quite well and quite succinctly the proceedings of the Seventh Session of 1977. However, as I was requested to be the leader of this delegation I think I should also have something to say about it. Mr. President, this agreement, as these negotiations were between the United States Government and the British Government. It was not a Cayman Islands affair. We have a Cayman Islands and Honduras

MR. ROBERT G. [illegible] (CONFIDENTIAL): represented by the United Kingdom at these negotiations. He gave expression to sorrow at the death of the State Department and to [illegible] the British delegation. He said that and, Mr. President, the leader of that team has already been mentioned. There were four members, the Managing Director of Defence Finance who is now the Honorable Secretary of Defence Economy, the Director of Civil Aviation, Mr. Corporation and myself.

As has been, Mr. President, said by the head person of the leader of the United States team, Ambassador Ford, we have given the opportunity of addressing that meeting. We gratefully took the opportunity to do so, one by one. The procedure, at the end of the second day the United States delegation handed their decision to the leader of the British delegation. Ambassador Ford mentioned it to me. The Americans offered us two options or courses of action, Model and Purple. We considered the Ministry and said to him that we could not go home and tell the Government that we accepted only two points out of eight points which we had originally asked for, and that they should reconsider their decision. They said to us at the end of the Bilateral way they handed over their decision, if that time they offered us three [illegible] of two, Model, Purple and New Orleans. They said that because we were [illegible] already operating on Purple in our telecommunications system, that they would allow us to operate only two of those points at any one time.

They asked the note to explain that what the extent to which they would go. Mr. President, with the knowledge of the British team is [illegible] went to the hotel room, telling the British delegation and asked them if he was prepared to believe a word by the United States Government from us. He said yes he was quite willing to do whatever he could to assist us. We did agree, Mr. President, the [illegible] Cyprus delegation, and for hours we worked on [illegible] together on a note to the Ambassador which we thought would bring some resolution from the United States Government. My reaction that we had gone outside of the negotiating room was that as a matter to be considered by the United States Government alone.

We returned the room. We assembled at four minutes afternoon, and then we have explained that it was in order to send it to the British Embassy and the [illegible] of we agree to send signed it and handed it to the British Ambassador. We told us to go home and he would communicate the reply to us in the morning. We came back and discussed that to the Government. We had a [illegible] from the British Ambassador the day after [illegible] home to Polish he said that he went to the State Department. The Secretary of State was not in but we delivered the note to his deputy, we said that in about two weeks we could receive a reply.

The reply came in exactly two weeks, Mr. President, and was that the United States Government had considered our submission. We had rejected [illegible] the two points which included Atlantic City, Philadelphia, Miami, Detroit or Dallas and Los Angeles. The United States Government rejected those points. They said we Miami, New Orleans and in addition to, Mr. President, they gave us Boston, Baltimore or Washington. They said to us that we could operate any two of those five points at any one time.

Mr. President, since we [illegible] to [illegible] this Government we do not wish to dispute. The Minister said that we had gone abroad and we had the prerogative rights of the United Kingdom; that we had gone and discussed the matter back there,

HON. MICHAEL D. DOBBIE (CONTINUING): and that we had arrived safely between the United States and the Philippine Republic some seven days into Hong Kong. Mr. President, that could not be further from the truth. I am surprised, Mr. President, that I represented the Government with my back to the fullest extent, and that we brought back missiles which could not have been achieved or obtained otherwise.

As I said to make it quite clear that every opportunity that the First Elected Member for Public Works gave to discuss these negotiations it was by way

I have no fears about responsibly this Government anywhere or any time.

Mr. President, I want to speak a few words on Cayman Airways. It is one of the happier subjects which we have in this country. It is one which is very concerning to the Member because of past mismanagement and because of the difficult financial situation in which the airline finds itself.

Mr. President, I look a lot about Cayman Airways, especially since the early days. From 1984 to 1992, for nine years I was a Director and the last of those six years I was the Chairman. Mr. President, in those days it was the opinion of the Government that Cayman Airways was a small operation and could be accounted because a self sustaining airline. For a small country with a small local population to become an independent entity is one of the most difficult situations any company can find itself in.

It was because of that, Mr. President, that Cayman Airways was tasked with LOCAL airline of Cayman also in the final nine years of its operations. Many bad things have been said about LACSA. We have met and heard it once and once again, Mr. President, I am prepared to tell this Honourable House and the people of the Cayman Islands that LACSA has served this country well. They are business people and they like to make the best of businesses. Moreover, they also loved the Cayman Islands and they contributed much to this country, which what some people would like us to believe.

Mr. President, one of the difficult things which brought about the split plans of Cayman LACSA is that there were local people involved in that airline who could not be disciplined. They were not prepared to be disciplined under the LACSA administration.

Mr. President, LACSA was responsible for the whole staff and the makeup also of the airline, but LACSA employed what Caymanians were available then. Cayman Airways was operated by a board with the majority Caymanians living here by Caymanians. So where decisions within that airline were concerned, they knew really the market of the Cayman Islands.

Mr. President, what happened from 1992 was that the management of the airline when we took over the management again in November last year. A lot of difficulties existed, Mr. President. The accumulated debt of that airline which is a direct responsibility of this Government because we are the shareholders of that airline, was unbelievable. We joined in the records of the airline at the 30th June, 1994 an accumulated deficit of US$12,887,203. Mr. President, that accumulated loss was done since before the control of that airline.

It was good grounds for closing up the affairs of that company. Mr. President, had the company been wound up that date would have been the responsibility of this Government. When we talk about the financial position of this Government we must not forget the accumulated debts in that airline.

MR. HARRY S. TRUMAN (CONTINUED): Besides these accumulated debts, Mr. President, we found there a deficiency since the strike had depleted accounts at these hospitals of over $5 million. The Veterans Administration estimated that they had gone over $3 million.

That was just the worst of it, Mr. President. When we examined the accounts of the strike we found that they had an accumulation of debts, including what was owing to hospitals of approximately $7 million. We made it the public statement which was issued after we took office that these accumulated debts amounted to $5 million but, Mr. President, taken to the grocery man, officials of those to re-examine the position and they came up with an accumulation of debts of approximately $7 million and not $5 million. When we got into the picture, Mr. President, we found a most serious situation there. The basic payrolls for the veterans' was due within a few days. Most bills for the oil company were there and the oil company was just about to take action against the utilities. We found many urgent bills that needed to be paid and if many of these were not paid within a few days the whole power facility would happen to the utilities. We went to Congress and said that it was their responsibility to help and we needed some money to pay these urgent debts.

The Congress appropriated approximately $2.4 million and, Mr. President, a few of those bills were paid. There are still a lot of debts owing. We think that the owners in the United States have earned a just settlement against allowance for debts amounting to $700,000 or $800,000. These have not been passed by the Legal Department for processing. It is very likely, if we work day shift and the utilities have not got the money, Congress will have to come to the rescue. Considering the worst that can happen in that case of the 70% can be solved in the United States.

Mr. President, there are many cautious writers. In 1947 when the Government decided to release $11 million to the utilities everybody breathed a sigh of relief. The debts owing by the utilities would be repaid and the electricity then used by the utilities would become their investment property. For the first time the utilities would have valuable assets. A part of that money was loaned by the utilities and a part was injected into the equity of the company. The managers of the utilities were told by Senate Committees that they should not embark upon diversification of 70% because it had already been shown that that was a very expensive gimmick with increased labor costs and weight wars, and an attempt which took a lot of justice.

Mr. President, there was no need to mobilize the 300 I-11s that were lying on the line. It was a time for reconciliation and patience. The principle of unions uniting embarking upon the lines for more electricity. However, unfortunately those funds were released, Mr. President, those on positions of responsibility embarked upon security which Governments provide them to do and eventually purchased the 70%, as should I say turned them.

Mr. President, it is the experience of nations that these utilities can never make into a profitable attraction or even a break even attraction for some time, because these electricity are very expensive to operate. Mr. Mr. President, that is going to be something to be looked at, and a decision will have to be taken on when to do the same with payments.

The aircraft which were expected for Canadian use for 707 aircraft. Whatever the case might have been these aircraft would have proved this until gimmick very well, it turned to be too "big lower", Mr. President, and so we got our foreign funds.

MR. JAMES H. BOGGS (CONTINUED): Mr. President, the other thing which we invoked up on that claims was really unbelievable. Mr. President, we found that premises had been made to stage from a wholesale clearance from out going before. People were getting nervous and starting to walk out of the studio. We had to stop this. In fact, Mr. President, that although there are good studio management staff, all the top production ones held by conservatives. Mr. President, when it comes to Conservationists the agitators have it appears that there are only student words, but the words are not criticized by actions.

MR. JAMES H. BOGGS: Mr. President, I inquire as a point of explanation in regard to the Congressional Record.

MR. PRESIDENT: Is the Senator willing to give way? It is up to the Senator speaking whether he will give way as a point of explanation.

MR. JAMES H. BOGGS: Mr. President, I have given a lot of "ways" already. People have asked what they had to explain. I have explained. I am saying what I have to say there is now. I do not see where there is any need for explanation.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Senator is entitled to become a private under Standing Order Rule 4, he states.

MR. JAMES H. BOGGS: I reserve my right, Sir.

MR. JAMES H. JOHNSON: Mr. President, this has been decided this morning and a statement has been issued by the Board of Directors. I re-emphasizing of the serious aspects of the administration has also been mentioned. We are hoping, Mr. President, that that will answer the morale of the problem, which we feel very much as you there. The attached people working from the nights to the lower grades because Govt. already has not in a position to consider giving whatever might be the case. It is just the same action staff here in our opinion fairly well made. There have got to be adjustments along the way.

Mr. President, we are hoping to minimize the losses of Negro Airways, and we hope that the various steps that have been taken so far will enable us doing that.

Mr. President, I am sorry for stealing up of my address but I am afraid that is my fault a little longer than what came as available before the speak you know.

MR. PRESIDENT: If you have finished the part of Negro Airways and have another thing which you wish to say in connection of the like our facilities here.

So I will suspend for deadline until

X:00 p.m.

MR. JAMES H. BOGGS: Well, could I give me a point of explanation at this point, Sir?

MR. PRESIDENT: I have you gave me notice that you have going again. Will you not to have this statement?

MR. JAMES H. BOGGS: No, Sir, I will not do have this statement.

MR. PRESIDENT: Very well, sir. I will let you make your point at this stage. I draw your attention to the terms of Standing Order 24(2). You must not intervene now unless you wish to challenge your former position by new argument.

MR. JAMES M. SCOTT: No, Sir, I will deal just with the few points he chose to.

I am a little shocked to hear the manner in which the Minister approached the debate, but I guess I will have to deal with that at a later point. However, he spoke about Telecommunications. Now, if we are going to Telecommunications the airport, Mr. President we cannot do it just for the sake of putting Communications into jobs which we hope they can fill. We have tried till lately to have as many people of Caymanian origin, Beloners and others in, whether or not we could possibly have. I think every record of the Minister will bear that out; the way that we fought under the previous administration to get them. However, there were certain principles which if our considerations could not be fulfilled with the arrangement which is had. If we look at the proposed Flowchart which I see in the Newspaper today it makes one wonder whether we are going to the right direction now, when I hear of the action which they have recently taken against the Daily Managing Director.

Also the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council spoke about the $10 million saving. It is not $10 million saving, it is $18 million on Cayfair and a lot of this has increased at the time when the Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive Council was the Managing Director of Cayman Airways. We do notice aware of this of it.

With regard to the PAP and PEP schemes, it is a matter of personal opinion. We could debate for ages which would be the best one for the country. We have had evidence done by different consultancies. Some say the Perkins when was the PEP. It depends what we are looking at in regard to expansion of the airline routes. We cannot expand it with the PAP and we cannot compete on the airline route with the PEP as far as employing price Caymanian Airlines which has proven not to be fit on the run.

HON. F. JOSIAH BODDEN: Mr. President, I would like to give a point of order relative to remarks made by the last speaker, Sir, if I may.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please you were mentioned, sir.

HON. F. JOSIAH BODDEN: Alright, in regards my position as Managing Director of Cayman Airways was the present while I would like to say this. The financial statements of Cayman Airways will reveal that up to 30th June, 1990 the accumulated deficit of the company at that time was approximately $292.8 million. I mentioned from Cayman Airways on the 18th December, 1990. The accumulated deficit to be [illegible] which was $37.8 million. That is a vast difference and I think that this should be clearly understood in the minds of this House.

MR. DARIO M. ESCOE: Mr. President, I did not like to intimate that the Member was responsible for it. I was merely enlightening that he be aware of what was caused the difficulties in Cayman Airways.

MR. PRESIDENT: I would that proceedings would be suspended until 2.15 p.m., and I now so suspend that.

AT 12.44 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 8.22 P.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.
Proceedings are resumed.
The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. VINCENT O. ODUBEKO: Mr. Speaker, I will sometime ago put one question on the marine park proposal. I regret to say the Opposition that the proposals which we were getting forward were somehow too extensive, and that we need to take a good look at it before it is implemented.

Mr. Speaker, the marine park proposal was put forward by the Lady Hale Government back in 1986. The consultative exercise undertaken the proposal was obtained by the former Minister responsible for Agriculture and Natural Resources. Mr. Speaker, what we are now putting forward to the public are the proposals which we feel at the stage when we got into office. The marine park will be implemented under a regulation, and the regulation can put forward to Executive Council to begin to close up the many things which we found held in the office.

When Executive Council looked at the proposals the Minister said that it is my view that we must still go ahead the whole thing was put to the public and they had a feedback from them to evaluate what they thought of the proposal and whether they would support what was put forward.

Mr. Speaker, that is exactly what we are doing. The marine park proposal has been taken to fit the interests of the Cayman Islands. Although the park arrangements will not be extended to Lower Land Little Cayman at this stage, although perhaps in another phase. We still have people in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman who thought it was a reasonable proposal as it is. Mr. Speaker, they have accepted that Cayman Brac and Little Cayman in general the mooring park system to protect the waters around those islands also.

In due time, Mr. Speaker, a report will be made of the public's reaction and this will be presented to Executive Council again when we will review the matter and decide whether it should be implemented, and to what extent.

Mr. Speaker, we are enthusiastic to receive on input from the public as will show opinions of individual interests, and reasons which are not designated as classified coasts and unexplored. Executive Council need a public input to these opinions of individual interests so that when they are implemented we will have the entire acceptation of the public in doing so.

We believe, Mr. Speaker, that the marine park proposed will be acceptable very beneficial to these Islands. For one thing the diving here has been developed right here. We just to be sure they the conservation aspect. It's only will the other businesses which are found there are protected as good as you will find anywhere. It has been said that is to only the great barrier reef of Australia which can be compared with our waters.

Mr. Speaker, this will serve three Islands well. It will promote tourism here, economically speaking. It is something which can preserve the clear common benefit in these Islands because perhaps of dollars here to go around during the summer months. The many things to happen in the smaller Islands, Mr. Speaker. The diving there is excellent and that is one attractive people of people there. I have no doubt that

HON. HAROLD G. ROBINSON (CONTINUING): In the months and years to come it will mean those Islands will [illegible] tourist traffic there.

It is for this reason that we must look very carefully at the establishment of marine parks and ensure that it is implemented without due delay. I think it has the support of the entire Cayman Islands and there can be no doubt about the pride we have in these Islands.

Mr. President, a Member from the opposition said that I had also sent up a trial balloon in talking about the proper restrictions. Well, call it what he may it was really not a trial balloon. It was an urgent need to place restrictions on the properties in three areas of these Islands, one in Grand Cayman, one in Little Cayman and one in Cayman Brac, because the people were overlooking entirely about the developments being done to these properties, especially during the spending period. It was discovered that people were going in there and indiscriminately with dynamite, rake and [illegible] destroying large numbers of these properties. It was therefore necessary for that immediate restriction. What happened is that the press release went out to the radio station and for some unknown reason the press release was changed around somewhat and a wrong impression came to the public which is not true at all. However, Mr. President, that was corrected soon afterwards and when the public knew what the provision was, they were satisfied.

We went to Cayman Brac on the 11th Elected Members of Executive Council and met with the public of that Island and explained the Government's action to impose these restrictions. The people there were very happy with what had been done. So whether it be a trial balloon or not it is not, Mr. President, we as a Government take appropriate action when it is necessary. We do not hesitate to step on the shelf to stay there until they become natural.

We found a lot of things there, Mr. President. One was the Regulations to the Water Authority for which was passed back in 1982 without any Regulations. So it is difficult to implement any control where ground water is concerned without those Regulations.

Mr. President, speaking about ground water, the Elected Member for East End had a lot to say about the East End well. Mr. President, when we entered Government we found that the development of the East End well was still underway. In fact this had been approved from the middle of last year and had the Water Authority had a good working machine, perhaps the well would have been in operation before. So we cannot be blamed for opening up the East End well.

Mr. President, shortly after taking office we understood that the East End people were getting somewhat concerned about Government taking water from the wells. So we thought it would be reasonable to meet with the people of East End, explain the whole thing and see whether we could reconcile matters. We knew, Mr. President, that there was an Elected Member in East End. I requested my Principal Secretary to contact the Member many days before the meeting was to advise him of the proposed meeting with the people of his district, and to ask him if he could be with us at the meeting. Well, Mr. President, my information is that the message was delivered. Unfortunately because I was busy with many public engagement I did not encounter the Member myself but my Secretary who had worked with him for a long time and who, I know will be the man who I have the job of speaking with him. If the Member did not get the message it is possibly not my fault.

MR. MARCUS G. STONE (CONTINUING): ... did not attend the meeting, Mr. President, but we still met with the people and talked to them. Mr. President, they are not only complaining about the wells. They are complaining about other things as well. However, Mr. President, that East End has the largest lens of the country. It has a capacity of producing nearly one million gallons of water per day if the wells are properly developed. The wells are four hundred miles in area, eight-eighty feet depth of fresh water. They have so much water in that fresh water lens building that the sea from the land somebody. If a few gallons are taken from it and with the ten wells which are now established there it is hoped that about ninety thousand gallons a day will be taken from it, there is no way in the world, Mr. President, that that small extraction from those wells can damage them.

Apparently, Mr. President, the people were promised by the Duty from Government that water would be piped from those wells into the district of East End. I saw nothing on record, Mr. President, but it is understood that that was the promise made to them. Mr. President, if the Government has the capacity to do so I do hope that if a promise was made; that promise would have been fulfilled.

Mr. President, the Government has spent $150,000 in East End developing those wells last year, and now besides that Government is already in East End a budget item of money to develop a whole section there which is going to come from the budget this year over $250,000. A figure which has already spent on that project last year. So it must be understood, Mr. President, that Government's capacity and capability of doing things is limited at this stage. Just like any other person who got a few shares of the market. Mr. President, I understand that the matter has now been responded and the people are satisfied that the extraction of water there will not damage the lens. The Water Authority still has the responsibility and authority to see to the many ways they are doing with other leases. I am sure that if there is any misuse of authority these people at any time that the Water Authority will take appropriate action to avoid further damage.

Mr. President, the Government is studying at the present time on a number of important issues. As mentioned during Budget Debate, and also recently by the Honourable Second Elected Member of Economic Growth, one of the projects which we have promised we shall. The visit to London recently cleared the air with the British Government and the issue that we placed squarely on the table of importance on that particular subject. We can hope, Mr. President, that before long we will have some news of the United States' decision pertaining this matter. As soon as any information is received we will be pleased to inform the House of this Honourable House.

Another important matter which is now under review is the re-negotiation of the Security Agreement, Mr. President, this is a very sensitive subject and it would not be wise to make any further public comments at this time. However, I can assure this Honourable House that we have been assured by Britain that the highest possible representation in the upcoming talks.

Mr. President, another matter of some importance to the one now before CITIES, the Commonwealth Trade and Development Agency is to be held in Antigua in April of this year. The subject to our bid to have the base in the United States lifted is the establishment of formal trade privileges into that country, a ban which was imposed a few years ago.

HON. HASSAN O. JOHNSON (COMMISSIONER): We are glad, Mr. President, having study sufficient time to examine these two provisions the best possible implementation of Civil Law 7 (1972) will be issuing the Supplementary to this meeting. We found, Mr. President, that the many members of that establishment representing perhaps between or slightly overstaffing, were all responsible for establishment of establishment agencies of which this Ghana Textile is one. Because of this there was a general feeling that whereby the Ghana Textile was created it especially as in the Civil Service and Civil Employment should be protected.

However, Mr. President, we have had people out speculating to ascertain the objectives and the whole committee which are members of CITTED to explain to them what the Ghana Textile means economically than from the Civil, and the fact that the Ghana is making a very considerable profit like. I am happy to say that we have made steps forward after these interviews and I am hopeful that at CITTED we will be able to remove the two Private Members for a decision.

Mr. President, one can never tell in, business in a conference like this, but judging from the many questions we have tackled to already, including Nicaragua and Costa Rica, the United States, Canada and some of the big countries, we have got their support and I am very optimistic that this in which our right will be able to accomplish other objectives that is support the Ghana proposal. For a refreshing agenda will be in the best interests of these Islands.

Mr. President, much was said here about the fact that we were increasing the revenue to increase revenue and the fact that the First Session of the new Government. However, Mr. President, like to put the fact that we have increased in a new legislature. I have been in this Assembly for seventeen years, and is also my responsibility during that time to provide new revenue to supplement the budget. There were always proposals in nearly every year of a Budget Meeting.

Mr. President, in 1977 on the 2nd March when the new Government came into power, revenue measures were introduced, and I would like to read from the Budget Address of the 2nd March, 1977, the measures which were introduced and what was said at that time, and I quote from page 22:-

> "In addition new revenue would have to be introduced to ensure that the economic position was not disrupted and matters would there be certain additional expenditure. Of course it is not to easy task collecting new revenue from a hapless ground but the present situation, therefore, is merely to increase our present revenue. The following measures envisaged to produce a total of ¢105,000 are the following:-

(a) Road Traffic Fee:	¢631,000
(b) Airport Departure Tax:	1133,000
(c) Cigarettes:	¢ 80,000"

As you see, Mr. President, that in 1977 the then Government which was now in the middle Government received to split. Mr. President, ¢105,000 in those days was quite a lot of money in contradiction to the value of money today. But the few measures introduced in this Meeting amount to nearly around ¢300,000.

MR. WALTER E. JOHNSON (CUMBERLAND): Is it worse to me, Mr. President, that there is no good reason for objecting to new taxes at this particular time.

I agree with what was said that the measures being introduced should not be used to hurt the little man. So much was said about this, however, here, Mr. President, in March, 1977 we have cigarettes too, and also liquor, beer and wine. The little man uses these too. So we must be consistent in our arguments and statements.

Another thing I would like to say about measures, Mr. President, is that mention was made of the cigarette revenue which was introduced recently. A number of measures were introduced, especially cigarette stamps. I would like to say that whatever has been introduced there, they were introduced before we took over as Government. So we are not to be blamed for what were given decisions on our shoes, and I think this has to be made quite clear.

Mr. President, I know that the staff of this Legislature have done a tremendous job. On Monday we will be the ones to say whether these measures are treated well, and that the business people will like the measurements. I want to thank them very much for this. I want in particular to say this, Mr. President. I have attended meetings in this House for some seventeen years on the part, and in relaying the first message which came to me for my comments. I read it, Mr. President, and to me it is one of the best measures which has been presented in this House to my knowledge. Mr. President, it is a measure which should not embarrass us if I found it in any Library in the world. I am afraid that I could not say the same about past Governments. So I want to congratulate the Clerk and her staff on the very excellent work which they are producing.

Mr. President, we heard in this House derogatory statements made against the Government. Mr. President, I wonder at times what the politicians mean by the past Party Government. Mr. President, if we do not look forward for the peace we must keep out of their way. If the press slanders us we have sue them. The press is an institution run by people like ourselves. After all, Mr. President, the newspapers and the radio added our daily morning broadcast radio, providing us and keeping us informed of local and world events. The people and people in this Chamber and outside should cooperate in encouraging us things which would one day proudly replace favour in the pages of these newspapers and in the air waves of the radio. So why attack the press. Let us appreciate what they are doing.

Mr. President, I said in my earlier in my debate that this budget was not actually our creation and I explained why I made that statement. It is not meant to be a reflection on anyone. We have just entered into Government. We found many urgent matters to deal with and we were presented with the budget which we actually had time to look at. We made it quite clear that we were not prepared to go forward with one unless it was balanced, and we expressed that decision to them to produce just that. I am glad that just, Mr. President, that I made the statement that the Budget was not ours, because actually it was prepared and presented to us to look at.

It brought out to reflected the thinking perhaps of what some planned when the past eight years of administration. The politics and the views of a new Government cannot always be the same as those of the old Government and therefore, to take some time to, from this into a new presentation. I therefore said that a new budget of this new Government would be the most logical to be presented in November, 1985.

SEN. PASTORE of RHODE ISLAND: Mr. President, I respectfully ask to be excused and thank the Honorable Chief Official Worker for the work which he has done on this budget. It is no easy task in these days, especially when there is confliction going on all the things which people would like done, and all the things which Government itself would like to have done. It is what we have and which is rightly owing the various services of Government, and to particularly certainly those who will receive it to be steady a great task. Therefore I want to thank the Honorable Chief Official Worker for his work and for what he has devoted to presenting the budget as we see it.

Mr. President, we have to recognize that we must have some stability of the financial operation of Government. We must insure that there is sufficient control over expenditure and sufficient discipline in the collection of Government's revenue. We must endeavour to manage the country's economy in a manner to ensure continued economical prosperity because, as I said this morning we have no other alternative than to stimulate the economy. It is only by doing so that this country can expect to maintain and at first sufficient revenue and funds to continue financing the many needs of Government.

Mr. President, the wind of change is blowing and it is blowing in every direction. We must be able to keep abreast of these changes. I shall support wholeheartedly, despite the Honorable Workers of this House, despite the cuts, despite the private sector to continue to maintain to maintain to prohibited and reasonable stability. This is the only way for peace to come.

Mr. President, the Honorable Members of these islands must be of other impression to all of us. There is no use in looking in different direction. We must all head in the same direction and all of us must participate in the way or another to the growth of these islands. So we must go forward with this in mind.

Mr. President, I would like to thank you for your Throne Speech. It was a great pleasure to listen to and we have that the programs which you have mentioned for this new year will bear good fruit for this country.

Mr. President, I suppose your Throne Speech and I also support the Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill, 1965.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Although it is a few minutes earlier than the time we customarily take our afternoon break it may be more convenient to break now rather than to break into somebody's speech. I think I am right that the Honorable Chief Minister of Executive Council looked up if he was catching my eye. Am I right that he plans to speak and to speak for another hour when ten minutes are up? I think perhaps let us take our break right now as will all get our seats back.

AT 3.25 P.M. THE HOUSE RESUMED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 3.38 P.M.

MR. SPEAKER: Please be seated.
Proceedings are resumed.
The Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. EDISON J. SIMONS: Mr. Speaker, I wish to associate myself with your remarks who congratulated you on your previous Throne Speech delivered here on the 1st March, 1966. Unlike the First Elected Member for Golden Rock I have no difficulty in performing in your absence as I experience myself, Mr. Speaker. When one refers in any formal speech to Her Majesty the Queen the term Her Gracious Majesty is used. Since your Throne Speech is undoubtedly a message delivered on behalf of Her Majesty, the accepted performance is to use a gracious speech. However, Mr. President, I can understand what Member's difficulty because in my opinion he would still like to look into country as far away from the British Throne as possible, as he has expressed on the past. The people of this country know this only too well.

I also wish, Mr. President, to commend the Honourable Financial Secretary on his Budget Address, delivered in this Honourable House on the same date. His speech was short, lucid, informative and timely. Mr. President, I feel Members and especially the two Elected Members for Golden Rock need to have a long short memory. The majority of what they said, especially the First Elected Member for Golden Rock, was basically what they have been saying since 1962, and more especially since June of last year. What causes me to think they do not seem to realise that the people did not accept their position in November, and they will not accept it now.

Mr. President, we all remember that the Unity Team were lost to the television and unable to say to call this study and is floored. I would like that statement, Mr. President, to a broken record and I think the Unity Team and their spokesman should employ a new song writer.

The only substance I heard from the leader of the Unity Team in his contribution was his statement that she will commit be allowed to sap the cap. However, it appears to me, Mr. President, that he has not yet realised that in the context of Government, he is now the odd man & may possibly see it that.

The First Elected Member for Golden Rock, Mr. President, does not seem to understand that he lost an election in November last year. He said that the supporters of the present Government, Mr. President, are paying lackeys of means. See, Mr. President, it is true that on the morning of the 11th November last year, I saw quite people crying for joy. For the sheer joy, Mr. President, of being relieved from the stranglehold which the Unity Labour Government held over this country. People are happy again, Mr. President. They feel free to talk and discuss matters without fear of reprisal and victimisation as was the case under the past Government.

Above all, Mr. President, I feel that the population is happy that under this Government they can look forward to a time when the menace of unemployment will not arise as the ugly head in this country for a long time. It is possible, Mr. President, that this is one of the reasons of tension which we fairly do enjoy these days and is not pleasant to any sensible person.

MR. SPEAKER'S CONSTITUENCY. Mr. Speaker, much has been said over the past two weeks about the financial statements of the officers of the Government as at 31st October, 1964, signed by the four Members of Executive Council. It will be recalled, Mr. Speaker, that just as early as December last year the two Elected Members for Belize Town in particular were attempting to say that the present Government was spending money recklessly and using up all of the country's Reserves and that in fact we had already used the entire £6m deficit envisaged in such a short time. It was for this reason, Mr. Speaker, that always that the problem was set out, and it was incumbent upon me to give a simple version of the typical Jane Austen situation of the country which most if not all of the people could understand.

To the best of my knowledge it has been the practice to which be a statement of affairs of the Government the most recent position, because after all that is what is available for spending. We do not see balance sheets of Government in the sense of any other company where profit and loss is stated. The Receiving Stage are a cash balance sheet. So, Mr. Speaker, with this understanding which we understand to have been given to the Bank saying that no deposits would be encumbered during the life of the loan the Power Authority and the Government position given as at 31st October, as well as the Loan Account which was the same position of Government as we see it, that is the Loan was unencumbered position up to that date. This showed a clear indication of £1.8m million pounds which had been spent on the Government of approximately $4 million.

In my humble opinion, Mr. Speaker, the mere fact that the Power Authority have activated interest as one year since the deposit were in proof that the Bank applied the loan as being secured by cash. Whether we say that the funds are hypothecated, assigned, encumbered or what-so-ever is playing with words, Mr. Speaker. We are dealing with the true and final position of the free Reserves of the country.

Mr. Speaker, the Financial Secretary Mr. Bradley Dean have sought to misrepresent this statement by saying that it had to be there or we could not have taken the $2.8m million to transfer to Belmopan for the 1965 Budget. Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Financial Secretary in reply to a question in this Meeting has said that funds from Caribbean Development Bank Assistance to Belize Limited amounting to $1m of the Bank were received in late December. If the statement is looked at, Mr. Speaker, it will be seen that the way we put it forward, only the monies that we would have that the Reserves would substantially increase. So of course would the National Debt.

It matters little, Mr. Speaker, if the Recurrent Account shows a deficit of $1 million as the Budget said if that Reserve Account is in reality committed to various other purposes or items. It is like saying, if it is perfectly possible, Mr. Speaker, to have a Drawing Account of $1 million and on the other hand have an Advance or Loan Account of $1.5 million. The answer simply is that you do not have a deficient account of $1 million, but your real position is a deficiency of half a million dollars if you have a loan of $1.5 million, particularly if the deposit is used to secure the loan or advance.

The other point I would like to make, Mr. Speaker, on the question of Revenue is that the $2.8 million approved by Finance Committee in December was in fact not all spent. It is my understanding that as at the 31st December only $900,000 had been spent on the repayment of Current Liabilities.

SEN. HARRY C. EVANS (CONTINUED): I understand that the payment covered the lease and a payment on account to the city. The other accounts were still being identified at that time. It should be remembered, Mr. President, that whatever bills were given to be paid at that time which necessitated the selling of a Pittman Committee Meeting for the Members' approval were debts or bills which were incurred and left unpaid by the Bailey Cope Government. They were not debts which were incurred by the present Government.

It is also known to many, Mr. President, that while $2.5 million has been budgeted to be taken from Revenue into Recurrent this year, that transfer has not yet taken place. If the year is to be good as I hope it will be, I hope that it will be found unnecessary to make that transfer on the final results. The fact is, Mr. President, that this Government has not yet been able to spend any funds on any new capital projects, and it will not be able to do so until after this budget has been passed. So, Mr. President, any change in the actual surplus of Government between November and the 31st December, 1983, (whether the eliminations incurred by the loan raisers, not by the Government of Nauru.

Mr. President, that is possibly an good a time as any to show that the economy of this territory was in a state of stagnation during 1983, and that is due to a deliberate decision brought on by the policies of the present Government which Government. If we examine the summary of revenue at page 10 of the 1984 estimates we will find that during 1983 imports duty fell short of the budgeted target by $612,000. Taxes also short by $317,000. Licences fell short by $324,000. Sales taxes by $1,880,000. This fall in sales, Mr. President, represents a fall in spending revenue and business profits, and also of wages. Since the wage freeze there. Port fell short by $590,000. Departure taxes were by $34,000 for a total shortfall in projected revenue under these heads of $4,440,000.

Mr. President, if is to be said this all be justified and that under the Hockey Government we have such receipts as bank and trade licences, investment licences, and that is how Government taxes figures can below projected revenue for 1984. In the case of investment licences the figures are below those for 1983.

Similarly under the heading of Fees we find on item Company fees. This again, Mr. President, is below projections and below the actual collections of 1983. Mr. President, these are the areas which were taxed and taxed heavily during the Hilty Team administration, taxes in the pocket, Mr. President, these taxes cannot be raised further without jeopardising the continuance of that business. We must consider, Mr. President, whether the fall in revenue under these items during 1984 is not in fact the evidence to the high taxation placed on these activities by the Hilty Team government.

It does not take a genius to see that if we are to maintain the services at these present levels for our people, there will have to be some form other than those traditionally raised, that is sales, trust and other companies mentioned here. To get a truer picture of the finances in 1984, Mr. President, under the Hilty Team Government we must note that expenditure in 2024 increased $1,34.,656 from surplus and $3,221,096 from Recurrent Revenue for a total of $8,810,157 from Surplus and Revenue, plus $7,063,274 from loans for a total expenditure of $15?4,?56,?31 in increased funds. Yes, Mr. President, a spending spree of $12,152,?31 in increased funds. Yet still the people said, "No", they couldn't have had enough!! Now three months later, Mr. President, these people has the gall to cry so that we must remain in the dark.

MAY. PRICE (Georgia): It should also be clear, Mr. President, why the decision had to be taken this year not to budget for any such item; moreover, necessarily if those loan funds would not be received immediately for some time.

However, Mr. President, that is not the total picture. There is not possibly zero from the figures in that column; $1.2 million was spent during 1964 and charged to Advance Accounts to be applied to specific goods from this year's estimates. This included the payment of $900,000 on behalf of Guyana Airways Limited which I mentioned earlier, Mr. President.

In addition, there is an element of uncommitted capital works carried forward from 1964 estimates to approximately $1.2 million. So, Mr. President, it must be seen quite clearly that it was not an easy task to balance this budget and to select priorities for our capital expenditure. It should also be clear by now, Mr. President, that there was no alternative to raising additional revenue to balance the budget.

These reasons necessary, Mr. President, cannot in my opinion be categorized as acceptable or appropriate. Finances for hotels have not been increased since 1964 and the increases proposed in this budget are quite moderate. The steep duty on a cheque amounts from five to ten cents cannot, Mr. President, be considered burdensome to the masses of ordinary the life-blood and of the little people as I have heard some members say. Again, Mr. President, the discrepancy between is minimal and should not result in increased costs in any case. It certainly will not result in any increased cost to the little people of this country. The increases on liquor licences, Mr. President, are in all fairness aimed only at hotels. The one increase, Mr. President, which has sometimes unfavourable has been mentioned and indeed the increases are so moderate that it will be difficult to pass them on to customers by appreciably rises to individual items on drinks. In the case of a discrepancy the increase is less than 25 per day and with the administrative costs, Mr. President, this is not a great increase. The most is seen for the cocktail, the increase is less than $1 per day. With the hotels to be roughly 50 per cent and so on down the line. Duty on cigarettes, Mr. President is increased by one fifth of one cent per cigarette or four cents per pack. This will undoubtedly be passed on to the consumer, Mr. President, but nonetheless cannot be considered a necessary or single item and the increase is not a large increase.

Regarding the revenue measures, Mr. President, I would also like to point out that the position was applies to our foreign exchange.

Mr. President, there is another function being played by the Electoral Machine for Boards that has not been mentioned which I would like to bring some light on. They are fond of saying that at the end of last the whole exercise charge was 12 per cent of the current revenue. Mr. President, that is not the case. It might be argued that the debt encumbrance if it had all been for from 1970 might have been as much as 12 per cent. I have not had an opportunity to look into that. However, it is that calculation is not right because some have not considered the cost of those used early 1964 when the internal revenue would have been much greater.

They argue, Mr. President, that the 1965 to 1970 Development Loan the terms for them to repay. That is true, Mr. President, but that Government left the country from the projects undertaken by those terms to repay the loans.

MR. SPEAKER: (INTERRUPTION) The Hon. Member for Selkirk-Transcona knows that the question should be directed to the Minister responsible for Manitoba Hydro. Mr. Speaker, unfortunately like so much of what he says, this is not the case. The authority to change cruise ship passengers a landing tax is contained in a bill passed in June, 1979, prior to the utility from going to power. The tax was levied in June, 1980 to take into effect on the 1st January, 1981. It was done in this way to give the cruise ship companies notice so that they could include it in their cruise brochures, and it would take effect after the new dock became operational. Mr. Speaker, from 1981 the revenue from this source was then used to help defray the operating costs of the Winnipeg Harbour Authority and to pay the debt charges. As at the present, Mr. Speaker, as the 30th September, 1984, Government had collected $1,504,765 from this landing tax.

Additionally, up to the end of 1983 the port had made contributions to $7,223,394 to General Revenue over and above the repayment of the loan. Mr. Speaker, between 1977 and 1983 profits from the currency Board transferred to General Revenue amounted to some $8,007,320, whether lumpy from the now-Unity Government.

Some Noble Gesture on the government to the taxpayers seems to be overwhelmingly justifiable. So, Mr. Speaker, it would be safe to say that the harbor regulations by the Lyon-Unity government were reprehensible on many intolerable terms, that is with long assessment periods and low interest rates and with the penalty provisions which could inadequately reimburse the taxpayer, no burden was left on anyone by that Government, or all the country. Mr. Speaker, I could challenge the Unity Government to show just one single unreasonable in their term of office which resulted in a revenue generating project. Above all, Mr. Speaker, the infrastructure which underlined the Unity-Turner economy development was put in place by the 1977 to 1979 Government, not by them. They only were elected, Mr. Speaker, to live on the fruits of others' labours, but would not dissent in such a way as to be of the most benefit to all. Let this tell us that understandings was not of unlimited proportions for all.

Mr. Speaker, one of the most amusing statements which I have heard lately, the winner of this debate was made by the Hon. Member for Selkirk when he said that he was alarmed by the growing prison population, and that he favoured front end-line work for a more form of public service. What I assume he meant to say, Mr. Speaker, was more term of community service. However, Mr. Speaker, the Member must believe that people have been stole Manitoba because it was by and his colleagues who in the Throne Speech of 1977, provided that all such offenders had to go to prison. By subsequent amendments, Mr. Speaker, they legislated minimum sentences for all persons from the normal offences to most drug charges, Mr. Speaker.

This Government has pointed out on page 2 of their book previous speech, Mr. Speaker, that it intends to remove some of the present provisions for mandatory sentences. We intend to provide the courts with wider powers to make community service orders as an alternative to prison sentences where the requirements for community service orders have been set in place. Mr. Speaker, this is regarded as a matter of priority and urgency.

THE SENIOR U. STATES (continuing): Mr. President, the First Elected Member for Roseau South must have been attempting to be unobtrusively funny at this point in his speech, because while he knew we also understood to deplore the present Government on the methods of communicating a new Constitution Agreement as he called it, I presume he means the Independence Treaty which is developed as being negotiated. He said he could sometimes be taken into account was the case when the negotiations went like and all the rest of it. However, Mr. President, I wonder if the First Member just really speaking from experience, because it is my understanding that when he should have gone to London to take part in the first negotiations, he got as far as New York and eventually ended up in Seattle instead of London.

Another point which would be noted here, Mr. President, is that as his colleague the Financial Secretary pointed out that in his opinion there is little evidence of there being any finance industry to phase Dominica today. The need being investigated to look to the tourist trade of the future, in other words, Mr. President, business which flows by sharing the skies of the noisy Concorde/Boeings.

Mr. President, members and the country have no need to fear about the negotiations. We will do as good a job as is humanly possible on them. Above all we will be afraid of good solid advice, Mr. President.

The First Elected Member for Roseau South said that he was right the people were supporting the programme of the last Government at Carib, because in sometimes Dominica did. Mr. President, the member should know that there are no programmes we shall be that successful. Not even the First Elected Member made for that purpose. It is my opinion that we a happy by accident, mostly as a consequence just before election time. It is our intention to achieve the best result possible out of the country, Mr. President, but it will be more after a reasoned and sustainable policy has been established regarding the future. It will not be that policy, Mr. President, to create false or unrealistic hopes in the whole time before of the Government.

Mr. President, in spite of the explanation which I gave regarding the qualifications which was used to explain the connection with the Duty Island Agency, the First Elected Member for Roseau South suggested that I had to accept responsibility for it because I am responsible for all that happens in my Ministry. Mr. President, how about that Member's memory must be. Does he not remember that both he and a former Member in charge of this Ministry discussed all locations of the Cayman Airways' newly acquired Boeing 727 which now put into the service time long years before the elections? They had both been in their responsible Portfolios for approximately eight years and therefore responsibility. However, I am surprised to have all knowledge of my Portfolio after only one week in the office. But misfortune and unreasonable this is, Mr. President.

The same Member said, Mr. President, that the Middle School was a new idea in education to the Dominica citizens introduced by the Mailey Joseph Government. Mr. President, upon that he not so just. The Middle School concept was always a part of the educational system recommended in 1970. If one goes back to the very first report which was done for and accepted by the Government of the day, known as the Williams, Mitchenson Report, we will find that that report included the Middle School concept.

HON. DATUK H. BUJANG (SOUTHWEST): Mr. President, it is perhaps as well that I accept the warning here to try to shock some people back into reality and cause them to realise that the Middle School which was undertaken by the Ulu Ivan Government is not the final and complete answer to our educational needs. We are faced with large capital outlay in the very near future for education, in my opinion, if we are to provide quality education for the children of this beneficiary. For example, Mr. President, the construction of the Middle School has not just been completed and yet the population of that school is already in excess of what was required for it when it was constructed. The Sungai Kua Primary School is very near to capacity in all age groups and already overcrowded in others. Other Malaysian primary schools also need additional classrooms and facilities so, Mr. President, we should reconsider our priorities and ensure that for the foreseeable future there will only be a maintenance school building programme in progress.

The Ulu Ivan Government did not finish or complete the needs in education any more than the Government before them in quite possibly until this one.

One final point on education, Mr. President, is that the First Minister from Ulu Ivan sought for the establishment of the Lighthouse School. Mr. President, that again was started June-1979. The very name signifies its origin. It was started in the Middle Ulu Ivan hall by the Lighthouse in Ocean Bay. So, Mr. President, the Ulu Ivan Area Committee again speaks for that school.

The Ulu Ivan Leader, Mr. President, sought to take credit for the establishment of the medical clinic at the Ulu Ivan Settlement Area. I would just like to remind him, Mr. President, that that came about because of a Private Member's Motion which I brought to this House about two years ago. I do not know why it took two years to until December, 1984, for the facility to be completed.

Mr. President, the Second Minister for Health tried to make it appear during his presentation that less money is budgeted for Social Services this year than was spent last year. That is not so, Mr. President. Last year only $834,581 were spent on Social Services whereas this year it has budgeted $1,861,891, almost twice the actual expenditure in 1985. Mr. President, I too would like to see much more provided under the Social Services vote because I realise that we need more social workers and counsellors out in the field. I realise that we need vocation in the various sports, and we need to give more assistance all around. However, Mr. President, we have to work with what we have.

Medical services have come in for quite a bit of public ranting this debate, Mr. President, but I would censor the Minister by saying that I give to this House my undertaking to make first an inspection of medical services during this term as I did during my first term in this Position. Mr. President, I think I enjoin making Members that when the Jesselton Hospital in 1972, the most that was $15 per day and the total cost of hospital stay including fees and laboratory work and medication was $10. Yet the Duty Team returned. Today, Mr. President, thanks to the fee increases instituted by the Duty Team Government early last year, the Trinity people of this country are now paying $50 per day for a room and a ward to the tune can cost up to a total of $75, depending on the investigation treatment. Sometimes an admission to that room is for any medication.

HON. HARRY S. ESKINE (CONTINUED): I would like to remind Members, Mr. President, that the large crowds of parking people in front, on or near shopping malls which exist solely for the collection of fees are intended simply for that administrative purpose. It is not a tool employed by this administration, or instituted in this administration. However, Mr. President, in spite of all of that we did not create people to work, now do we intend to do so. We are more responsible than that and, Mr. President, we do not suffer from anything fewer.

Mr. President, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town asked to see the first price in the Financial Secretary's speech that 130 condominiums were registered in 1982 as compared to 70 in 1983, he also said that 1982 was a good year for condominium development. However, Mr. President, the Financial Secretary said 130 condominiums were registered, not built. Those 130 condominiums could have been built at any time and they do not in any way reflect activity in the building trade during 1982. If one refers to the planning permissions one will see the true story where the rates of development do show dramatically.

Further, Mr. President, the 130 condominiums which were registered did not in any way reflect upon what could have been collected from the 4 per cent condominium tax which was enacted in December last year, because that 4 per cent tax was collectable at the time of the approval of the planning permission for the condominium project, and not at the time of the registration of individual units being developed.

Mr. President, it is true that during the campaign people of West Bay were told that many offices would be made to get them a fire station, and that promise will be kept, Mr. President. West Bay will have its fire station. It will also get the Lucaya jetty and hopefully room in the prisons, Mr. President.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town is quoting his comments on the motor consumption registration now being published for the necessity of the public understood the regulations to say that there would be no fees flowing from Members to South Sound and would be the effect that someone who stated to obtain a green from the Commissioner of West Bay would be heavily penalized. Truly, Mr. President, that Member knows better than that. As has been said, those regulations as published were done some time in July. Mr. President, one fact is that this finding of permission from members is a point unascertainable up to the public hearing since the West Bay Road, so the serious risk of investment in West Bay is a blue thinking area. So there is no question of anybody having penalized for buying in order a green or the Shedrow in West Bay.

Moreover, having said that, Mr. President, I would hasten to add that the staff from the Portfolio have been going from district to district explaining comments on the regulations, and it would be my explanation to see what changes made to the regulations as a result of those comments. As I said Mr. President, those charts which are being used, I understand were an enclosure from 1982 and I would be very happy to answer a statement from the First Elected Member for Bodden Town that he thought it was time that we have three months notice in prison. It would serve to me that if we really discovered with them he would have done something to change them within that time. It is my understanding, Mr. President, that nothing was done because the opportunity did not exist to alter to the regulations unfortunately at that time.

HON. EDWARD P. MORRIS (CONTINUED): Mr. President, the Floor Leader for Bodden Town also said that it was his opinion that if the present Executive Council made the regulations under the Marine Conservation Law, the public would likely be prohibited from entering in the area. As far as I am concerned the only time when the rights of the Caymanian people is going to be taken away, Mr. President, was when Government property known as the Mr. Hirst property was sold by the Duty Free Government to build condominiums. It is my understanding that this land was sold to be used by a Member of Government included. It was said, Mr. President, that that land was sold for Caymanians to settle on, but it proved very suitable for condominium development once it had left Government's hands.

Mr. President, the Floor Leader for Bodden Town also said that a new development plan is now due. I wonder why this Member did not give this motion which was put on the 1977 development plan from that was not brought to this House. If he was so concerned about the development plan being revised, Mr. President, why did he not do something about it? The revision was due from 1982. I am suggesting, Mr. President, that he was quite happy to allow the revision of that plan to which would affect wholesale.

MR. SPEAKER: We have reached 6.30 p.m. and unless the Member proposes to finish speaking within the next minute or two, I think we should move the adjournment.

HON. GEORGE A. HAIG: I would be finished in five or ten minutes.

MR. SPEAKER: I do not think Standing Orders would permit me to override quite that much latitude.

I think that we will move the adjournment. If Members will feel that you should be allowed to continue for ten minutes no doubt they will vote against adjourning now.

We will move the adjournment and maybe they will vote against it, in which case you suspend Standing Orders to allow the Member to continue for ten minutes. I do not think I have that much latitude under Standing Orders.

ADJOURNMENT

HON. DENNIS M. FOSTER: Mr. President, I move the adjournment of this House until 10.00 a.m. tomorrow morning.

MR. SPEAKER: Does any Member wish to speak? Question is the same as a Member to suggest that instead of adjourning we continue for ten minutes, if any Member objects to do that.

HON. GEORGE HAIG: Mr. President, the Member has criticized that he would speak about the Marine Laws. We have been on this Bill for a second Reading time and I think if we can get one speech out of the way then afterwards both Members have an idea if we should do so.

HON. DENNIS M. FOSTER: Mr. President, that is so, but we have an Executive Council Meeting to attend after this which might take us a long time.

MR. SPEAKER: That only affects certain Members. Does any other Member wish to comment?

MR. W. MACKAY JONES: I think we had better finish now, Sir. I have a recommendation that I would like to make. Besides that I might like the First Elected Member to be here...

MR. G. GUIDO QUEREZ: On a point of order, Mr. President, this Member must stand up when he is addressing the Chair.

MR. PRESIDENT: He is absolutely no more.

MR. F. HOWARD ROSE: Yes, Sir. I realized that would have got to him, Mr. President. He has been keeping quiet all afternoon making his plans. He has come now to take us!...

MR. PRESIDENT: Order, order.

MR. F. HOWARD ROSE: I am recommending the Honourable First Elected Member of Belize District to carry on tomorrow morning. Thank you, Sir.

MR. SPEAKER: Well, I will put formally the question that this House do now adjourn. It is there is a majority against that I would suppose what a separate question be put that we continue for ten minutes or so.

The question is that this House do now adjourn.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. AT 4.55 P.M. THE HOUSE ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.30 A.M., WEDNESDAY, 26TH MAY, 1971.

WEDNESDAY

30TH MARCH, 1966

10.00 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.

Proceedings are resumed. The First Elected Member of Executive Council.

CONTINUATION OF THE DEBATE ON THE MOTION ENTITLED AND THE BUDGET ADDRESS

HON. HERBERT O. FRANCIS (CONTINUING): Mr. President, the Members from Bonavista Bay, knowing the fact that she by-pass road behind Goddels Cove do not provided for in these Estimates, and accordingly to them, it is a dire necessity.

Mr. President, I am left to wonder if this road was so essential why the Members did not see to it during their term of office.

The matter of the interest to be received on deposits during 1965 has been mentioned and the Second Elected Member for Bonavista Bay sought to use this fact that we have in fact getting a considerable amount of money as interest on deposits, to show or to sustain his argument that meant that a large free balance was left on revenue account.

Mr. President, whether an undertaking has been given not to withdraw the deposits or not, would not stop the interest from accruing on deposits....

MR. O. WADE BOWDEN: I rise on a point of explanation, Mr. President, under Standing Order 34(2).

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member has given way, as you may. I think it is Standing Order 34(1)(b) under which you should rise. Standing Order 34(2) is if the Member speaking declines to give way. The Member has given way. So, under Standing Order 34(1)(b) you are rising to misinform some matter.

MR. O. WADE BOWDEN: Mr. President, the Member is misleading the House. I did not say that the interest showed that there were free balances. I said that the interest of $800,000 showed that we had to have substantial reserves and if we used the current interest rate of 4 per cent we would need to have $20 million in cash to earn $800,000 in interest, and if the interest rate was 10 per cent we would need $8 million. I did not say that it proved that the reserves were unencumbered. I said that it proved that reserves were there, which he is maintaining are not there.

MR. HERBERT O. FRANCIS: Mr. President, if the Member had waited maybe he would have had his question answered.

Mr. President, the point I am making is that interest to be received will not come along from reserves. During the year there will be times when surplus funds will have been collected and when they are not needed they will naturally be put on deposit, so interest will come from that source. It does not necessarily reflect a fixed amount of money throughout the year on deposit. For example, Mr. President, the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council in response to a question during this meeting pointed out that up to the end of February over $10 million had been collected for the year and surely some of this money is on deposit, while it is not needed, gathering interest.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think....

HON.EDWARD O.BRANCH (CONTINUING): Third Official Member, Mr. President. Sorry about that.

Sir, Mr.President, I am sure that that money would not be left as free balances in any bank - it would be placed on interest. So the point I am making is, Mr.President, that there is no almost noticeable balance that amount above for interest to be collected and a fixed routine of payment account during the year.

Mr.President, the Member from Golden Town also said that the future of the country looked black, dark and disheartening. But nothing could be further from the fact, Mr. President. That was the case up until a few months ago, but the future of the country looks good at this moment. Several large building projects are scheduled to start in the next couple of months which will stimulate employment in the construction industry and this will create an upswing in the economy generally and the most encouraging thing about these developments, Mr. President, is that they include, for example, one large hotel which will provide employment for many Bahamians once it is finished and put into operation. The initial most concern all Bahamians at this time, that is, the future employment opportunities for Bahamians and this, to my knowledge, is the first hotel project to come forward in several years and hopefully all will go well and we will find employment for many Bahamians as a result of this undertaking.

Mr.President, as regards the few revenue measures which have been put forward in this budget, I believe them to be necessary and not repressive to the general public, but should this view be wrong, Mr.President, I am man enough to admit my error and I am sure that all Members of Executive Council are large enough or big enough to admit their error, if, by experience we find that any of these measures have, in fact, worked more detrimental effects on the public than we anticipate and we would do whatever is necessary to correct the situation.

But, Mr.President, it does no good to the country to have people going around, stirring up the people unnecessarily. In my District, for example, Mr. President, people are being told that Hotel Corporation is being increased by $50 in this Session and that it will now cost $550 to go to the Capital. Mr.President, these great sums not been touched - there has been no increase nor are any increases contemplated in these areas.

When will these irresponsible people stop trying to stir up the populace unnecessarily, Mr. President?

The Unity Team tried every trick in the book to win the election in November, 1967, Mr. President. They brought in the Colonels; they used an unfortunate patriotism and they opened the Airport Terminal Building prematurely, now they are at it again. However, Mr.President, it is my opinion that all the king's horses and all the king's men will not put Unity together again.

The revenue measures have been dubbed penny-ante measures - if this is so, Mr.President, but in the next breath can these Honourable be so oppressive to the little man?

At the same time, Mr.President, the Unity Team Government, only last year, effected several increases in the necessaries, namely in cents - postages were raised from 3¢ to 5¢ locally, air mail was raised from 20¢

HON. ANTHONY G. ZUCKERMAN(CONTINUED): to 414 and 259 to 354 - so these people are speaking with forked tongues.

During their term, Mr.Speaker, petrol tax was increased from $2 to $10, car licences and drivers' licences were increased - duty on alcohol, wine,beer and cigarettes were increased....

MR.SPEAKER SAYING: Mr.President, again, under Standing Order 24 (5) - our Ministers have mentioned on 253 a score from 1975 which the Member put them up: before he left - we have minor changes that. Why do he misleading the House?

HON.DENNIS O.SMITH: Mr.President, to carry on, duty was also increased by 5¢ a gallon on gasoline; hospital fees were increased; work permit fees were increased and I as Deputy, Mr. President, just right every possible tax and fee was increased at some stage during their administration, so I do not know why it is so much o ask to make a few increases during this budget.

The areas we have sought to raise our revenue from, Mr.President, were thought to be those that would be least burdensome on the average person. We could not return to the days of taxing basic and essential items - the fact on them now to the point where any increase would make their deductions unacceptable and we would have more than we could gain.

The conversation of bounds was mentioned, Mr.President and there was charge of nepotism. Mr.President, I ask only say that in appointing Members to the Board an esteemed ability and if these persons appointed happened to be relations of Members of Government that is purely coincidental, Mr.President. It is impossible to have the whole of the Cayman Islands on the Boards. There are other good people out there who could have done a good job and possibly others have still come on Later Boards, but in appointing the present Boards, Mr. President, we did what we thought to be right. It was not based on political considerations or family ties, as was suggested.

Mr.President, with those remarks, I support the Appropriation Bill, 1986.

MR.SPEAKER: Does any other Member wish to speak? The Hon'ble Official Member.

HON.A.B.FOSTER: Mr.President, I would like to congratulate you on a fantastic and complete Throne Speech which was so ably delivered. I would also like to congratulate the Financial Secretary on his Budget Address.

Mr.President, nobody knows better than I how much hard work some put into this Speech and Address. The Budget, Sir, is a right one and I sincerely hope that when Finance Committee goes into it further it that they will not attempts to do any more cutting or any more additions.

We heard from the Hon'ble Elected Member of Bodden Town how much cutting had been done in the Recurrent Expenditure which was quite true and I sincerely hope that no attempt will be made to cut any more.

Mr.President, as I have said before, a lot of hard work was put in to this Budget Address and in a short time and I would like to congratulate the Financial Secretary and his staff for all the hard work that they have done on this, Sir.

HON'BLE S.SINGH (CONTINUING): Mr.President, I do not intend to get into any political fights but there are a few general matters which I must deal with.

Mr.President, the Cayman Islands have a unique economy - an economy based on tourism and the financial industry. An economy that you would not find in many of the other West Indian Islands. A dependable economy, Mr. President - a steady economy. However, the industry has to pay careful attention to their operations because one problem and the whole industry can be lost - it is disturbing, Mr.President. It is unsafe. The Department of Government is very demanding and they must keep pace with proper staffing and proper organizations, etc.

The financial industry, Mr.President, requires plenty of services from the Government. If we did not have the financial industry our Registry of Companies would not be such a big Department; if we were not in insurance, we would need an Insurance Inspector and staff; if we were not in the banking business we would need a Banking Inspector and staff - these are services which the Government must provide otherwise the economy could collapse.

The industries in the outside are developing and they want things in a hurry, and they want things immediately done. As a result, Mr.President, our Civil Service has to be unique in order to service the industries outside there.

Now, Mr.President, we have heard several comments about the size of the Civil Service and I would like to bring to the attention of Members of this House a few facts that relate to the size of the service.

I think the total posts established is around 1217 of which the Police Department have 287. Now, Mr.President, this number is necessary because when the British Defence Force left the Caribbean, the West Indies, all responsible men were given notice that we had to upgrade our Police Force to handle any internal problems.

Again, in our unique economy, the Police force plays a great part, in commercial crime and other operations.

Education - 275. Education is comparatively young in the Cayman Islands - it has only been in the last 20 years that we have attempted to upgrade our education system to take our men from the axe and put them behind desks. This has not been easy to persuade the seventeen year old boys , to leave the sea or not to go to sea and try to get an education. But, since God the economy of the world took care of that, because tourism and shipping dropped to virtually nothing. So we were able to muster persuasion our youngsters to go to school.

Mr.President, we cannot neglect education here,Sir - this is our lifeline for the future and although the amount seems big we still see the results in years to come. We cannot expect to see results in a year or so, because even they have gone through our system here, if again we can persuade them and if they have the capability, to go on to further education, it is still another five or six years. When they do come back, they need the practical experience, so it is going to be a long while yet before we can see how many of the senior assignments in the top management will Caymanians.

Thirdly, Sir, is our Personal Health Service - 186. Another section which we have tried very hard to improve, with more modern equipment, therapeutic people have to be trained to use them and to improve the service as a whole.

MR. E. FOSTER (CONTINUED): You, Mr. President, these three counts for 622 more than half an hour short half of the total service. You can hardly now cheat the Senate of such is not surprised in any way.

Right on this morning this time they are asking for - Five Minutes to vote for a five minutes on Quorum Call. Whatever we approve these things we must bear in mind that additional staff will be needed.

There are many other Departments that I could consider not represented by any means.

Mr.President, on the 15th of this month we had on payroll 2198 Civil Servants, five hundred and seventy of them Typewriters, 478 secretaries; the 770 Commissions representing 35 per cent. We must be economical or 3 per cent of the authorized amount.

Estimates received in the 1965 budget was 200.85 million but this included a capital element of some million and Statutory obligations, pensions, Police and Canteens pensions,etc. amounting to $21,000 and $16,000 respectively, giving a total of $37 - million. Expected Revenues of about (31.1 million, have previously which amount for about 21.2 million and went be received back from rent about $820,000, totalling $28.5 million, less pensions,etc. at $142,000 and $70,000. Leaving the actual Expected Revenues at around $28.3 million. Thus Mr. President, of the 31.1 million waters accounts, is about 27.7% of the actual revenue and I would be wrong, but I believe sometimes around 1961 or 1962 the former Financial Secretary said that Personal Emoluments was about higher part of the actual revenue. So, Mr.President, it would seem to me that we are already in the right direction to have dropped down a bit.

Mr.President, the Minister from North Side suggested and I and I think, I would not be opposed to that but I would like to hear in reply to him a question to find a decision on the Motion now -

> "Since have been paid for job satisfaction and knowledge and without corruption, how sometimes members of the Government departments into these can feels have shown that the number is just a waste for that job".

Mr President, sir, Mr Speaker. Some one asked you we still have time to remember on 8 and 9 steps. We have enough expenses on the agenda to withdraw those studies or to make the necessary changes rather than to waste money on a report who is going to come here and tell how wrongly that has been.

The hon Member, Mr.President, talked about baby, why children or people and then he went on to talk about a Semi-Circle. In the 1964 Estimates Report, many many allowances were taken away, even our 5% ; myself telephone allowance which I pay until Government get the token back. Now Mr.President, if you take away my home then you will really have the Semi-Circle.

Mr.President, as has happened since the past few years, we have already tried to have our Civil servants, as primary affect to have more pay and we thought should be given [illegible] these problems, even now today, Mr.President was mentioned. I was just when the Civil Servants should accommodate their leave for the old

MR.S.P.FOSTER (CONTINUED): months and I am sure the former Financial Secretary will remember that. Now the maximum leave is 28 days.

Mr. President, it has been a hard, hard job trying to explain people, Supervisors, from the private sector to think in the service and anything that would discourage those that we have got back from staying must not be thought of.

Mr.President, any qualified Supervisor can get a job in the Government provided there is a vacancy. What we have no qualified Supervisor we have no other choice than to take those who are already connected to Government or who are entrepreneurs.

At this stage, I would like to thank the Second Elected Member of Executive Council, whom I did not have the privilege of hearing here on Friday, as I was absent, but I took time off last night to listen to the broadcast. I would like to thank him for his views about the Civil Service. He did not say anything that was untrue.

Mr.President, the radio and media can be the most wonderful help in a country or it can be the most discouraging thing in the country. We, over many years of thought, have Radio Cayman take place and I am not saying from a moment Mr.President that it is perfect, but it compares favourably with the radio in other West Indian territories. I do not think that I could understand or agree with the suggestion from the Elected Member from North Side that it be put out to a statutory Board and be out on its own, managed by a Board and, as he said, "but the politics from be gone".

Mr.President, I do not believe in subsidising anything when it is working good. Radio Cayman has practically been built up to where it is paying its way and putting a little money in the Treasury for the last few years, and Mr.President, I would say it would be very dangerous thing to privatise it. Radio Cayman is owned and operated by the Government, non-political and out of the whole staff, there are only two expatriates - let me have that clear.

Mr.President, on Monday afternoon, the Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council said, and I quote, Mr.President, it will be noted that in the Recurrent Expenditure that not a penny, $200, played any part in this increase. I asked someone if they knew why the increase, that large increase of salary was given to the top echelon of the Civil Service in 1992 and the reply was in nature for parliamentary purposes. I suppose, Mr.President, that in any there is no need for elected members such explanations will become only one side of the coin once again.

Mr.President, I do not know who the someone was that he asked, but I would let him know why the increases in salaries was given, and Mr.President, I quote the first part of the Salaries Review -

> "There are two main categories of Civil Service salaries in Cayman - the common price index, the private sector salary movement".

And, Mr.President, I would like also to quote from this Member's Maiden address of 1988 on the Civil Service,

MR.D.E.CESTAT (GOVERNMENT): Because of the rise in inflation as highlight by the Cost-of-Living index, Civil Servants will be awarded a compensating salary increase in 1989 if the proposal is approved by this Honourable House. A constant review of Civil Service wage structure is necessary in view of the movement in the economy which may well have similar adverse effects as in the period prior to the present moratorium when many Civil Servants switched to the private sector because of better wages. With the present inherent economic position which may very well continue on a rapid growth over the next few years, Government could be faced with the problem again of losing some of its good staff to the private sector. It is therefore in the best interest to ensure that a wide disparity does not develop between the wage structure of Government and that of the private sector'.

Mr.President, that was just what was happening, Sir. If the increase had not been given we might have had no service today.

Regarding the party that Member spoke, indication to me that the three Official Members were bought by the four Elected Members of Executive Council. Mr. President, I have worked with the Member all my life and he should know that I cannot be bought. Let me assure the Member that he has been completely and ridiculously misled. How could he believe such a thing, Mr.President? Furthermore, the motorbike rumour was done and the cannot make long before the Preliminary Recording Bill even came to Executive Council. I hope the Member will not put this type of thought to the Legislature again.

Mr.President, I think at this time I would like to sound a bell of warning. God has blessed this country - so have prosperous for the last 40 years. I have worked with Members for the past 17 years and more directly after I became Chief Secretary, with the Members of the Legislative Assembly and Executive Council, for the past 8 years. All have worked hard - if they did not work so would not be in the position that we are today.

We can be proud of our Islands - we have made strides of progress in the last 30 years. We have good roads, we have good schools and facilities; we have good medical services; we have good shipping facilities for both Islands, we have good airports, airstrips and one good hospital. We hope to get the other one later this year. Good telephone and telex services - all of the infrastructure that a country needs and a good service is here.

The Third District Member in his address said that this should be a year for talking about and I agree with him, Mr.President, and we must take it altogether. This has been a long sitting session, possibly the longest session of this House in history - there have been many embarrassing questions - many embarrassing statements and, Mr.President, I hope that all Members have got the frustration fought out of their system and that from now on every Member of this House will work together for the betterment of the people and the country and with one common goal.

Mr.President, what we have here today did not come by itself, it came through a lot of hard work, and co-operation from the people and all those concerned. In my estimation, Mr.President, we have not scratched the surface yet, but if we continue on the trend and with the attitude that has been displayed during this meeting, we are going to face down-fall. We will go right down, but if we co-operate and work hand in hand with one another I do not know where we will ever stop.

HON. E.R.POSTLETHWAITE: Because the people do just hearing about us - Just Monday we met and the good members that we differ and there is no doubt in my mind that we can get more Members in the coming years

Mr.Speaker, the Opposition people are full of pride and I know that they would like to see this House working in harmony with each other. Now that they are able to have speeches, sometimes, on the radio, I can only say from the feedback that I have got the public is very upset. I ask Members, Mr. Speaker, to please - nowhere let me ask questions that are worthy of a good member - but do make speeches that will encourage our public.

Mr.Speaker, I support the Appropriation Bill, 1995.

MR.SPEAKER: Any other Member wish to speak? Then I will invite the Mover to exercise his right of reply if he wishes.

HON.P.C.SPEIGHT: Yes, Mr.Speaker, thank you very much.

Mr.Speaker, I join other Honourable Members of this House in congratulating you on your Maiden Speech, Sir

I am grateful for the kind words of Honourable Members on the Budget Address. Just lastly on step with the Hon. Official Member I think I, too, would like to clear some concerns off by where he said.

Mr.Speaker, as I listened to the debate on Monday, there was so many shots taken at me for some time I thought I was an Elected Member on the Opposition side, and I thought the Fourth Elected Member of Council had confused me as such.

On Monday, Mr.Speaker, as I listened to the Fourth Elected Member of Council, I was not sure myself whose Budget this was. He said it is not his Budget, and I think he went on to say it was not the Budget of the Elected Members of Government, but Mr.Speaker, the Third, Second and First Elected Members of Council, who, maybe confused, did not give that impression to me at all. I was left with the impression, Mr.Speaker, that the 1995 Budget is without any of it belongs to the Official Members. But, Mr.Speaker, when the matter is pressed to me, I do not mind at any time to say what the position is on my side.

The 1995 Budget does not contain provisions of $1.3 million to cover sums on the Advance Accounts, because, included in this figure is for the $750,000 for Capital Projects which are approved by Finance Committee to be placed on an Advance Account. Therefore, Mr.Speaker, who are to be carried against the 1995 Budget, that is the Advance, is approximately $550,000.

The 1995 Budget does include ongoing projects from 1994 of approximately $3.4 million. Some of the projects is to be funded in this way, Mr.Speaker, are Stanley Civic Centre, the Mare Harbour Airport Terminal Building, Prison Buildings, School Buildings at the Mitre School Complex, Sports Complex, Water and Sewerage and $200,000 for Office Furniture for offices at the House, Income Administration Buildings, and new Terminal Buildings at the Airport.

HON. T.C. ASSEMBLYMAN (CONTINUING): Since on-going projects, Mr. President, are really nothing new. If it was not for the on-going projects, perhaps the staff of Public Works would have to be laid off every four years.

Mr. President, some members talked about the Capital Expenditures being cut in half. Capital Expenditure carried forward on any year is the amount of work that can be financed by revenue, borrowing to some extent, through our general revenues and taxes. In the last years the total budgeted Capital Expenditure, for example, 1982, was $21.2 million. In 1981, when we had so much cash to spend, Mr. President and the Revenue was coming in much beyond the budgeted figures, it was $31.1 million, and during the years of moderate growth 1982 and 1983, because we had accumulated the cash, Mr. President, we were able to do capital works of $18.6 million in 1982 and $19 million in 1983. But included in the $18 million in 1983, Mr. Speaker, is $2.4 million of borrowing.

When the Government has sufficient revenue we can do many projects. However, when the revenue is not available to do $13 million dollars' worth of capital works we can only do what the revenue can afford and, Mr. President, if we depart from this policy we are headed on the road of destruction, in my view.

As the Financial Secretary of this Government, Mr. President, it is my policy now to put forward an unbalanced budget and as long as I stand here, Mr. President, or sit here, I am not going to budge an inch from this position of unbalanced budget.

Mr. President, the many comments on the short-fall during the implementation stage of the budget of $17.7 million is also nothing new. I have been in Finance and Development for 12 years and I remember very clearly when the previous Financial Secretary, as the acting Governor, raised his hands out to balance the budget. We must keep in mind that it is not only the Honourable Members of this House who hear demands from the public; those kinds of Departments who have been talked about, Mr. President, deal with these demands every working day of the year, and their budget proposals seek to deal with these demands. The public, in my view, Mr. President, quite rightly expect to get more and more services without looking into consideration where the revenue is going to come from to finance these additional services that they are requesting.

The Heads of Departments, Mr. President, cannot have been very responsive to my request to trim the budget, during my short term as Financial Secretary and I am very grateful to them for it.

In the final analysis, Mr. President, the increase in the 1985, recurrent expenditure over the 1984, position as set at page 58 indicates that an additional sum of $2.8 million dollars, but $2.7 million dollars of it is Personnel Emoluments costs. Now I have just as we were talking about the approved budget for 1984, compared to what is to be approved here for 1985, and that the revised figures include a part of this $2.7 million, but figures do not lie, Mr. President, if we look at the figure approved for 1984 against what is to be approved in 1985, the Personnel Emoluments section is $2.7 million. The increase is $2.7 million, which means, Mr. President, that the Heads of Departments have managed their other charges into $971,000 below the 1984, figure and I think this course is commendable in my view.

MRS.P.C.GEORGACAS: (CONTINUING): Mr.President, there were also some comments about the Currency Board, amendment of the Currency Fund - there is no answer about (i) section 4 of the Currency Law lays down the statutory conditions and requirements for the Currency Board to follow when dealing with the investments of the Currency Fund, and as explained in the Budget Address, $7.3 million is invested in U.S. Treasury Bonds and as Honourable Members are aware, these bonds are guaranteed by the United States Government. The remaining funds are placed on fixed deposits with local banks in Grand Cayman and in the United Kingdom.

Another item, Mr.President, dealing with the currency and notes, a point was made that I had suggested that it was my intention to recommend the issue of a fifty dollar note by the Currency Board and Government. That is correct, Mr. President, it is my intention. A general guide for changing that notes is what when one has notes around 80 or 75 per cent of the currency notes in circulation a new denomination should be considered and issued.

Mr.President, on Monday as well, the Fourth Elected Member of Council spoke, and he was joined by the First Official Member earlier, and I would not want to be repetitive, I can state it is clear in the minds of the listening public at this time, but I would only resolve my comments by saying that quoting one part of it - "I asked someone if they knew why the increase, that large increase of salary was given to the top echelon of the Civil Service in 1984 and the reply was in return for a parliamentary pension". He went on to say "I suppose,Mr. President, that is why there has been so much heated debate over the Pensions Bill because only one side of the coin was off".

Mr.President, I am also, like the First Official Member, I do not know who that member is, who replied the Fourth Elected Member in such a way, but it is an indication that the Official Members and perhaps other Senior Members, were part of a deal to get their weighted and well-deserved increases.

Mr.President, I have been running my Riding Remarkably for the past 27 years and I can hold my head high and I can go to sleep each night knowing that my conscience is clear - there is not one person in this world who can produce any evidence that will say that Tom Jefferson took one cent - not one, Mr.President.

I worked in the early days of my life on ships, sailing around the world, for three and a half years; I have served two years in the United States Army; I have spent eight years of my life working in the Post Office in the accounting field as a little recruiting clerk, all the way up to Manager of the accounting section. I am not bragging, Mr. President, it is not my policy to brag about what I have done, but I think this is worth mentioning. And taking all these points into consideration and the number of people I have come across in my life and the number of businesses dealings that I have had in the Cayman Islands. There is no one, Mr.President, who can in this world can say 'I bought Tom Jefferson', and I worked with this Member for the last 14 years. He could not buy me and neither can anybody else.

I have served this Government, Mr. President for almost 14 years and I am pleased to have the opportunity of serving my people; I hope the Good Lord blesses my health to perhaps give another fourteen.

I have some declaration to my people, Mr.President, I have some views about where Caymen should go, and I had Christian parents, Mr.President, who taught me principles.

Mr.President: Those principles I have by and remember which are by, but I am sure, Mr.Secretary, that as long as I am sitting in any office, whether it be Government or whether it be private sector, no one during my life-time will be able to orient a finger and augment or with guidance, that I was brought.
I am not for sale, Mr.Secretary, there is no price - there is no price.

Mr.President, Angelo has proof of any wrongdoing by any Cook Islands. I ask him to produce it, and if he does not have any proof, I ask him to be quiet, and not to try to damage the good names of other people.
I like openly welcome to criticise politely reasonably anyone, and more particularly, Cook Islanders because we cannot as Cook
Islanders, all of them, have a big footsteps.

I would like to underscore, Mr.
Secretary, that as long as I am present in this House, I will defend the Cook Islands Party when wrong action, whether by members or otherwise. You know, Mr.Secretary, some people do not know how good they have it. Like some of us escape the Cayman Islands Cook Islands with one dollar in the pocket, and I would suggest that at the end of the session we will go all enlightened and we should all congratulate each other.

Now I know, Mr.President that the Prime Official Member quoted figures from a newspaper article, but I would just like to quote the figures from the 1986 Estimates.
The total number of Cook Islands in employment for 1986 was 1239 and, Mr.Secretary, if we were to deduct the Cook Islands in the Police, Education and Health Departments, that is, in those Departments, the number would be reduced to 849 Cook Islands for the whole of Government.

While we are all saying and just to ensure this Government does not become the enemy of the people, or all the boys at the middle, we must all bear in mind as well that the kind of service as indicated by the Prime Official Member, that we are offering to the international world and to the public of the Cayman Islands, requires a good deal of money. Any why the Registrar of Companies does not suggest to an attempt to register a company within a short period of time, because the international companies like to take the aftermost flight, you hear a lot about it. You hear it until you get tired of hearing it.

Mr.President, the Fourth Elected
Member of Council indicated that we should not incur recklessly our public debt. And no another statement be made we simply are here under-pinned our public debt and this by there I will agree that the penalty of the colonel to the U.S. is $3.00 - Mr.
President, unfortunately, I cannot agree with the Member because the Public Debt is not valued at $3.00 - it is valued at the Cayman Islands to the pound Sterling, and my financial secretary
Mr.President, I am just passing it so it is in the Estimates) does not allow me to say or to agree with the substance of the statements that he made on the Public Debt.

Another statement be made, Mr.
President, and I hope I am not speaking too wrong, that I was not to blame because my Statement Paper had criticised me. Mr.President, my Staff bring matters to my attention for a decision and on other occasions I issue instructions to my staff. My staff sometimes forget to me and I appreciate that lapse. They have, in my view, worked on many occasions, Sir, as they say, the call of duty without any remuneration whatsoever. But, Mr.President, I am [illegible] equally logical to them, was this decision to restore the Public Debt ceiling and I have full responsibility for it, because I believed the circumstances would be quite still there that is the right thing to do.

Mr.President, allow me to make a question - which is the proper responsibility procedure - is it to authorize the amount of the Royal Stocking loan or to decide that it shall expend money, using the term loosely as Sir Donaldson, 1965? Perhaps, Mr.President, by looking at borrowing authority. And can you explain a re-examination account in a more accounting system. The balance sheet might consider that even Privatization. Public Debt is not a quick term but a legal mixed of paper transactions that accurately mirror of money.

Before some misunderstanding arises, Mr.President, under the account or expenditure outside a somewhat like of accounting system, I re-emphasize account would have been met, but in my view, and looking my point of implying under an accounting system you cannot get up a Re-Privatization account. Also be assured, Mr.President, and again I say, in my view, to do else the Index of Public debt is the borrowing entitled in the loan agreement and to other things (some using the term Public Debt) of both parties.

- Then we re-examine what we have done, Mr.President, we find that the difference in the privatization is approximately $1.4 million, and I found my discussion on the Royal Stocking because it is one that is worker to explain. There are other issues in other countries, where that U.S.dollars this is why we assume it's a difference of $1.4 million. In Government accounts for the first time will show the finest public debt in Commonwealth, less expenditure the borrowing between and other figures after work given-and explanations from various bodies who have made the loans. Consultation was discussed with the Auditor General also outside and spoken and but in objection and further reinforced that Public Debt should be shown in borrowed.

Mr.President, it should be finished in a few minutes, there is only one financial security in this Commonwealth I think it is fair that Members should show some support for the poor, even if they do not like the person who is presently holding the post, Mr.President, and as I mentioned earlier, I stand by my principles and my Christian principle taught me and the expertise which I have acquired through the academic process and although the school of hard knocks.

Mr.President, I do not consider making accusation of this kind, but I am only human. If I am criticised you can be certain, Mr.President, I can defend or explain.

Mr.President, on a more general and possible note, these salaries are, in my view, on the generously used, but if we are not careful our politicians, as we have heard during the last 10 or 15 days, and perhaps even further back, will be the only financially and create the instability that we have been speaking about for the last 20 years. And Mr.President, I do not believe there is anyone in this House who is going to disagree with me that if the stability goes so goes everything else.

Mr.President, I begin at the early stage of my speech, by saying that I would take up what the First MOV. U.S. [illegible]: Official Reader said in the speech- that he - I hope that all of us here and outside will get out of our system, shrug off our chest, and Mr. President,, I am prepared to let bygones be bygones, and let us get on with running this country, because if we get involved with politics, we are not going to have any time to run the country.

Mr. President, I would like that you have been patient with me and I thank you very much.

I am reminded by my learned colleague, that I am to propose that this will be read a second time.

QUESTION PUT: Whether Bill be read a second reading.

HON. PRESIDENT: The Motion is that a Bill entitled A Bill for a Law to appropriate certain additional sums for the purpose of the financial year 2015, be read a second time. Will those in favour please say aye, those against no. The Ayes have it.

In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 83, paragraph 3, the Appropriation Bill has already committed to the Finance Committee, and hereby observe that Members I feel that the Finance's normal procedure at this stage has been for the adjournment to be moved by the Minister of Finance for the House to be adjourned to a date and time to be notified by the Clerk. Now to be so, the adjournment has been, until Finance Committee has completed the examination of the estimates and the Appropriation Bill and until the staff of the House have had the opportunity to put together the report of the Finance Committee and the House has resolved to order for the report of the Finance Committee to be taken and for the Finance Bill to be read a third time and then the remaining business has been proceeded with.

So I would caution that the House will right to follow the normal practice and shall revise the Minister Official Member to move the adjournment accordingly now.

ADJOURNMENT

HON. U.D.Pillay: Mr. President, I move the adjournment of this House to a date and time to be advised by the Clerk.

HON. PRESIDENT: The question is that this House be now adjourned to a date and time to be advised by the Clerk. Will those in favour please say aye, those against no, the Ayes have it.

Before we actually close, perhaps it would be convenient if I just checked that it will suit all Members to make sure the customary morning break and for Finance Committee to meet for twenty minutes only? Would that suit Members? I think that will suit Members so that Finance Committee will meet and we can as the morning break in case.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. AT 11.55 A.M. THE HOUSE ADJOURNED TO A DATE AND TIME TO BE ADVISED BY THE CLERK.

THE MARINE CONSERVATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1985

CONTINUATION OF SECOND READING DEBATE

HON. BENSON O. EVANS: Mr. President, yesterday afternoon I was saying that this Bill would enable us to make Regulations which should improve the image of the Cayman Islands in the eyes of others and help us with our quest to get the ban on turned turtle products lifted. This effort has been going on now, Mr. President, for eight or ten years and I think that it is time that we endeavour to endeavour to try to bring it to a satisfactory conclusion. The farm has been operating on limbo for far too long and the potential for development at the farm is too great to ignore it. At the height of its commercial operation it employed well over a hundred Caymanians, and hopefully that figure can soon be seen again. It behoves us to do all we can to get the farm back to full operating capacity as that we can find employment for our people. We cannot have the farm back to full operating capacity if we do not get the ban lifted.

Therefore, Mr. President, we must take into consideration potential there is envisaged to the fine people who might be affected by any Regulations which would be brought in under this Bill.

The question of the increase in fines, Mr. President, was touched about and the fact that the fines have been increased to $5,000 does not mean that every conviction will warrant a fine of $5,000, so the inference to arise from increasing the fees is fine but to be realistically right it does not follow that because the fine is increased that it will be taken. So long as it is within the law, Mr. President, "not exceeding" I am not concerned with the amount. I believe that the judiciary will administer justice with mercy.

The points have been made, Mr. President, and I suppose it is that the nine Caymanians in this country have now shown their concern for the preservation of our marine life as well as anyone else. It appears to me that for too often, Mr. President, a cause is selected and it is used and used and used until it is exhausted and its attraction ruined. I believe that the nine Caymanians should organize some organization and register that they can get their income taxes, and very their areas which they are accountingly. They must also, Mr. President, show concern and consideration to the people of this country who actually depend on fishing as a livelihood and others who are concerned about fishing in the effort to support their income. I have had many complaints where dive operators recklessly and blatantly took a fisherman's fish pots and thereby

SEN. EDWARD G. GURNEY (CONTINUED): Thank Mr. President, this is not building good will for the New Zealand at all. They act as though they own the sea, and I believe as the Second Ranking Member for Mark Ray said, that the time is ripe that for the Regulations some consideration be given to whether or not these regulations do what I feel they do not do as well. I believe that the dive boat operator should have to show the same courtesy and concern for a fishing boat that they would be given as the fishermen or any other boat operator has to what the dive boats when they have commenced their operations. Again, Mr. President, this brings me to another point which I have hoped happened as a working point. That is that the dive operators fly their flags when they do not have divers aboard. It is impossible for a boat operator to hail what they should do. Often these boats are anchored or moored many fathoms to the underlying shore the boats must come through if they are in search the scene. So I believe that we ought to take some action with these dive boat operators as well.

Mr. President, I realize that this will do not prove to be pleasing to all but I think the time has come. Mr. President, when we have to decide whether or not we're going to have conservation policies or whether we are going to play both ways. What is needed in my opinion, Mr. President, is discipline on the part of all of us. After all discipline is the only thing which distinguishes one from an animal. If we are going to weaken our benefits from our marine resources then we are going to have to discipline ourselves and all who attempt to take them. Or we will loose our marine life and environment is destroyed. It is unthinkable that unless conservation methods are adopted we will lose the very thing which we are seeking to cultivate. We cannot take hurried measures, Mr. President. We have to be serious about this and face the challenge, and do what is necessary.

As I said yesterday and I think to hours repeatedly, CITES is concerned about all our efforts at conservation, not just for the ocean turtle. We have drawn attention to our diving attendants and, Mr. President, those who have expressed themselves to diving destinations once the seas are watching to see what efforts we are making to preserve our marine life. I have been told that unless something is done and done very quickly we are likely to receive some very bad publicity so far as our conservation efforts are concerned, and also cause our attraction as a diving destination.

Mr. President, with these remarks I support the Marine Conservation Bill before us.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES E. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, the Bill before this House, a Bill for a law to amend the Marine Conservation Law, 1978, Law 18 of 1979 is a straightforward Bill which seeks to give the Governor additional power to make Regulations which would ensure more protection for marine creatures, control methods of fishing in certain areas, and prevents the taking of young marine creatures indiscriminately. As I have said it is a straightforward Bill and I support it without hesitation.

Mr. President, if we Honourable Elected Members this Honourable House the opportunity would try to complete it. Mr. President, it is about time that the appropriate accept their responsibilities and become constructive operation instead of being destructive as they are today. The trick of the matter is that they

GOVERNOR CARRUTHERS INTERRUPTED (CONTINUING): did not have the chance to get to bring this bill to this House because they refused getting an adverse resolution in November last year. Meanwhile, Mr. President, there has been time that they might just as well have introduced it because holiday is here did not help them.

The need for marine parks in the Cayman Islands was established many years ago and we feel that the time of acting about them has long passed and that positive action must be taken now while we still have something to preserve. Marine parks have been established by many countries all over the world in order to preserve, protect and conserve the underwater environment so that everyone will benefit.

The results show that the Cayman Islands have been for many decades of turtles which inhabited our Islands. We thought we were going to preserving by protecting them but today we all know the result. Turtles are almost extinct in our waters. Lobsters and conch are fast disappearing too, Mr. President, and it is our duty to make every effort to save them from the destructive and indiscriminate fishermen.

In order to achieve our goals it is necessary to establish marine parks, create areas where fishing is prohibited and areas where line fishing is permitted. Replenishment areas will have to be established where, lobsters or conchs may be taken for a period of years. There will also have to be an environmental zone where fishing or interference of marine life is prohibited.

The Bill also aims at increasing the maximum penalties for breaking the law from $500 and/or six months' imprisonment to a fine of $2,000 and/or twelve months' imprisonment. I consider this amount be modest and we still need the cooperation and assistance of our people in order to make our officers a success. Implementation without enforcement is useless and it is to point that our people be enlightened to the fact that all of us will be personally some of the good things to come only for our children and their children.

The opposition is quite aware that action must be taken now. The benefit of the study from Environmental Law that marine parks should be established in Grand Cayman and gave valid reasons why they were necessary. With your permission, Mr. President, I would like to read a message by the Cayman Islands Government Information Services on the 7th June last year, and in connection with environmental works urged by Mr. J.C. Snipes. He said:-

> "Now is the time for a new drive, focused on the designation of territorial underwater parks for the Cayman Islands. There are two reasons why this concept should be given real impetus. In the first place three-fourths of the tourists who come to our Islands had said much to our scenery and fish abundance. They come to enjoy our reefs and our marine life and it is essential that this environment should continue.
> The second reason and the only way in which this environmental attraction can survive and be maintained is that there must be a place where our fish can breed undisturbed. It would be a place where fish would be. Nothing goes in and nothing comes out, meaning that you cannot throw anything into the park and you cannot take anything out.

BOB. CAPT. CHARLES D. ALEXANDER (CONSERVATIVE): Mr. Speaker also pointed out that many Caribbean Islands like Martinique and Guadeloupe, Trinidad and Tobago have developed national endowment parks, and points like Mr. Peterson in the Florida Keys, Block Island off Ct. Coast, and St. Croix, Virgin Bay have become tourist magnet attractions. Mr. Speaker says:-

> "There are people, and it is time we had a similar conservation attempted, especially because of the overcrowded type of vacations who have fallen in love with our Islands."

Mr. President, it is alarming to hear the witnesses which is being expressed in this Chamber today. As I said before the Unity Task Government planned to take action to do just what we are trying to do now. To prove the Unity Team's involvement with marine parks I further beg your permission to read some paragraph from the Cayman Islands Government Information Booklet on who established the zones for Grand Cayman's park system.

> "They have involved over the years from recommendations by many users of the sea and have formalized in their present form by the Marine Park Committee which included:-

Mr. Glenmore Ebanks	charter boat operator
Mr. Carlton Bush	South Sound fisherman
Mrs. Dianne Graham	Eagle End Plantation diver, underwater photographer and concerned citizen
Mr. Gerry Matthew	former operator Cayman Dive Lodge, East End
Mr. Arlen Evans	dive and charter fishing operator
Mr. Tom Pearson	dive operator
Mr. Hans Eldemire	former dive resort operator
Mr. Danny Jackson	former Director of the Port Authority
Mr. Paul Bomba Banger	former Chief Agriculturist, Fauna and Survey Department
Mr. Kearney Cowan	Ministerial Secretary, Lands, Works from Development and National Resources
Mr. Joe Ebanks	Government Fisheries Officer" and last but not least-

Hon. John McLean	Former Executive Council Member for the Portfolio of Agriculture Lands and Natural Resources"

Hon. Mr. Speaker.

It is a disgrace for the opposition to see this issue not to defend and side up the people against the present Government which they wanted to do the same thing but did not have enough backbone to tackle the problem.

MR. CALEB BOGGS (Delaware): Again this is political strategy, Mr. President, but it will get them nowhere. If ever I have seen people dig their political graves with their tongues it is now. It is happening right here in this honorable House.

Mr. President, the Secretary of Defense has said that the small fishermen would be destroyed by this bill. I totally disagree with this misleading statement. ... There are only a handful of fishermen who are operating fish and lobster pots for a living on our islands and they are the people who are destroying the marine life of their islands. They must be stopped. The space gun is the most lethal and destructive weapon, not only to fish but to humans. There have been cases of space gun explosions reported at the Hospitals. If these space guns are not banned completely they will ultimately destroy the marine life of our islands.

Mr. President, I am reminded of a slogan I heard a few years ago. "If you must shoot the deer, shoot pheasants". Mr. President, we must take no halfway measures to stop the destruction of the underseas environments and the marine creatures living there. Let us take whatever action is needed now before it is too late so that we may be sure to save our children and grandchildren will be able to say, "thank God we had wise and courageous statesmen who saved not only our islands from financial disasters, but our marine life from destruction".

Mr. President, I support the Bill wholeheartedly.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for Georgetown South caught my eye.

MR. JOSEPH A. PIGGOTT: Mr. President, this amendment seeks to increase the regulation making power of the Governor enabling the prescription of closed seasons for the taking of marine creatures.

The point I would like to make, Sir, is that this is not a completely new concept. Part IV of the Marine Conservation Law, 1970, Law 19 of 1970, already provides for the restricted marine areas. I think, Mr. President, for the benefit of the public they should know that section 10 of this law states:-

> "The Governor may designate areas of Cayman Waters to be restricted marine areas under the management of the Board for the purpose of marine research and development and such areas shall be clearly demarcated and shall be closed to all members of the public save Wardens of the Board."

It further states, Mr. President in section 11(1):-

> "The Governor may designate certain areas of Cayman Waters to be marine parks".

In view of this, Mr. President, I see very little need for amendment to this Bill as far as the establishment of marine parks is concerned. What I am disturbed with, Mr. President, is the notice of amendment which has never to action by Committee Stage. This amendment, Mr. President, should in my opinion create some amount of hardship. However, I have spoken to the mover of this amendment and he has given his assurance that this will be given another look at.

Mr. Lundgren (continuing): I believe, Mr. President, that if we completely prohibited the use of spear guns we would create some amount of hardship for our people. As the Hawaii Division Leader for Rod Boy said yesterday there are many of our fishermen and charter boat operators who depend on the use of spear guns to make a living. Mr. President, I believe that is why the section 12 of the Marine Conservation Act, 1974 (i) the specific part mentioned should be placed on the use of spear guns. It states in this section, Mr. President, that:-

> "Whoever takes any marine life with the aid of a spear gun in Cayman waters is guilty of an offence upon that the use of a spear gun -
> (a) (i) by any one person in one day for human consumption only six fish or less per day;
> (ii) five lobsters or less per day in accordance with section 8;"

Also, Mr. President, the Regulations under the Marine Conservation Act, 1974, that is the Marine Conservation Regulations, 1978, give authority for the Marine Conservation Board to issue a certificate for any individual who wants wish to use a spear gun to take marine life in the waters of Cayman provided under the section which I have just read. So in so specific have to the Law already, Mr. President, about the sort of control which should be placed on these forms of marine wastes.

The problem I see with this, Mr. President, is not the existence of the proper Regulations, but it is the absence of outlawing the Law and Regulations before us. I believe, Sir, that if more vigilance is placed on the control and policing of this Law and the Regulations under the Law, we would not be talking about the problems which we are experiencing today.

I make no secret, Mr. President, and I make the statement to mention that I am an avowed conservationist. In fact, Sir, that if individuals are allowed to destroy our wild life, be it marine life or other, we will in my mind very soon be where. However, while have not passed the test, Sir, that there are some of our people who depend on catching certain marine life for a living.
